Message

I am glad to note that a publication of a compact souvenir made by the dedicated participants of 113th Senior Staff Course (SSC) held during 14 July to 27 August, 2024 in BPATC has come into being. This little and compact publication is basically a combination of short information directory on the senior level trainee officials and some of their literary artistry. This user-friendly brochure like book-let is ready for the readers to use it as a reference guide besides its use as a network-building base.

The SSC training provided to the Joint Secretary and equivalent level senior officials consisting of contents on public sector governance, development strategies and management, research and policy evaluation and cross-cutting contemporary issues including contents of maintaining physical fitness. The training also provided short field trip to see some public sector projects/organizations how they are operating for achieving results in their specified areas. In the changing scenario of global economy, most modern technology and geo-political conflicting reality Bangladesh has been passing through a difficult time with conceivable footmark in its every socio-economic sectors. However, Bangladesh has several numbers of medium- and long-term strategies in place that accommodated these challenges. We hope the skills and message received by the participating officials will start to pay off in implementing these strategies more efficiently while they resume to work back in the ministries.

Finally, I congratulate all the participating senior level officials of 113th SSC for their hard work, commitment, dedication to successful completion of the training. May all participating officials remain blessed with abundance of joy, prosperity, health and happiness.

With warmest regards

As the president of the souvenir committee, it has been my honor to collaborate with you all in capturing the essence of our shared experiences and learnings in this souvenir. Over the past weeks, we have journeyed together through an intensive program focused on policy research, public administration, and the vital role we play as civil servants in shaping the future of our nation. This course has not only enriched our understanding but also reinforced our commitment to the principles of good governance, transparency, and service to the people. This souvenir stands as a testament to the knowledge we have gained, the friendships we have formed, and the collective growth we have experienced during our time here. It encapsulates the moments of hard work, discussion, and reflection that will continue to inspire us long after we leave BPATC. The background of the entire page is a complex, abstract geometric pattern. It consists of numerous triangles of various sizes, some pointing upwards and some downwards. The triangles are colored in two main shades: a dark olive green and a light cream or off-white. These triangles are arranged in a way that creates a sense of depth and movement, with some appearing to overlap others. The overall effect is a textured, mosaic-like background.

CREATIVE WRITING

Bangladesh in establishing the rights of working people

Mst. Hazera Khatun

Joint Secretary, Ministry of Labor and Employment

At the beginning of the 18th century, English sociologist and social reformer Robert Owen first proposed the theory of eight hours of labor, eight hours of recreation and eight hours of rest. But due to the greed of the owners and the lack of organization of the workers, this demand was not implemented. In view of this, labor rights were established on May 1, 1886, in exchange for fresh blood from the hearts of hardworking and working people. Deep respect to those workers.

Article 14 of the Constitution of Bangladesh declares the liberation of workers. For the sustainable development of a country, world-class industrial establishments and world-class labor force are needed, and the government of Bangladesh is working towards that goal. Bangladesh labor sector has achieved significant success with the efforts of all workers - owners - government. Bangladesh is earning maximum foreign exchange by exporting readymade garments. This Ministry is playing an important role in establishing the rights of the workers on one hand and on the other hand maintaining fair industrial relations and resolving labor dissatisfaction in the transition of the country to a middle income country.

The Ministry of Labor and Employment is working to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) by creating decent working environment and ensuring the rights of workers according to national and international standards. This Ministry is implementing Bangladesh Labor Act- (2006 Amendment 2018), National Child Labor Policy-2010, National Labor Policy-2012, National Occupational Health and Safety-2013, Domestic Workers Protection Policy-2015 and Bangladesh Labor Rules- 2015 (Amendment 2022). According to Bangladesh Labor Law and Labor and Regulations - Working environment, recruitment of workers, wages, working hours, leave, maternal welfare, setting up of children's rooms, equality of wages, determination of minimum wages, elimination of child labour, settlement of labor complaints, filing of cases according to labor laws, factories Registration and approval of layout plan, observance of May Day, national and international days and other activities related to labor are being carried out by the Ministry of Labor and Employment and its subordinate organizations.

The Ministry of Labor and Employment and its subordinate departments/organizations are enhancing the country's image by implementing labor rights as recommended by the International Labor Law and the International Organization of the United Nations (ILO). Bangladesh Sramik Kalyan Foundation Fund is providing financial assistance to workers in all sectors of institutional and non-institutional sectors and providing financial assistance for higher education of meritorious children of workers. Financial assistance is being provided to the workers in the garment sector through the Central Fund. Training is being provided to employers and members of other related organizations to establish the rights of workers through four Industrial Relations

Training Centers and 32 Labor Welfare Centers under the Directorate of Labor. Labor Welfare Centers are providing medical care and recreation to workers suffering from diseases and their families. Two multi-storied hostels have been constructed at Narayanganj and Chittagong Kalurghat for working women. The Department of Inspection of Factories and Institutions is working relentlessly to establish the rights of workers and ensure a decent working environment. There is no alternative to industrial relations in building a developed and prosperous Bangladesh.

We have entered the era of the Fourth Industrial Revolution. The use of information and communication technology, automation, robotics and artificial intelligence in manufacturing systems has increased productivity manifold. As a result, the advancement of technology has freed people from the hardships of physical labor, and has created the idea of job security for workers. However, through the use of technology and innovation, the field of possibilities to create more new industries has opened up. By making use of this new potential and turning our large population into manpower, our hope for new Bangladesh is to establish Bangladesh as a developed country in the world court with the united efforts of the government-workers-owners.

River Research Institute: A Journey towards excellence

S.M. Abu Horayra

Director General, River Research Institute, Faridpur.

River Research Institute (RRI) is a national research organization working as a statutory public authority under the Ministry of Water Resources (MoWR), Government of Bangladesh. It was established in 1948 as the Hydraulic Research Laboratory (HRL). The institute became a statutory entity through the River Research Institute (RRI) project, which was approved by the Executive Committee of the National Economic Council (ECNEC) in July 1975 and was officially enacted by Act No. 53 of 1990 passed by the parliament. RRI is established with a view to devising plans and actions to develop sustainable water resources of Bangladesh through multi-disciplinary and problem oriented research. RRI's primary mandates include conducting fundamental and applied research on river training, riverbank protection, flood control, irrigation and drainage works, river engineering, sediment control, estuary and tidal effects, river flow and regional flow networks, hydrology, surface and groundwater utilization, and environmental issues using physical and numerical modeling, as well as various testing facilities. It is the only institution in the country with physical modeling facilities and extensive expertise. Additionally, RRI is responsible for testing construction materials used for river training, riverbank protection, flood control, and irrigation and drainage structures, as well as inspecting and evaluating the quality of construction works.

Throughout its distinguished history, RRI has consistently provided invaluable technical support in conceptualizing, designing, and implementing various water infrastructure development and related projects. This commitment spans from the historic Karnafuli Hydropower project to the current era of transformative national development.

RRI operates with three wings: Hydraulic Research Directorate (HRD), Geotechnical Research Directorate (GRD), and Administration and Finance Directorate (A&FD). HRD conducts studies and research in areas such as flood control and drainage, bank protection and stabilization, coastal engineering, hydraulic structures, and irrigation through physical and mathematical modeling. GRD focuses on tests and research to determine various physical and chemical parameters of soils, construction materials, sediments, bed materials and water quality. A&FD provides administrative support to the technical directorates, managing overall administration, accounts and audits, publications and library services.

Hydraulic Research Directorate (HRD) comprises three divisions: River and Coastal Hydraulics, Hydraulic Structure and Irrigation, and Mathematical Modeling. Major Physical Modeling carried out by RRI are: Padma Multipurpose Bridge, Bangabandhu Multipurpose Bridge, Bangabandhu Railway Bridge, Payra Bridge, Ganges Barrage Study, Buriganga River Restoration, Teesta Barrage, Rajshahi Town Protection Project, Third Karnaphuli Roadway Bridge, Bhairab Roadway Bridge, Kaptai Hydro-Electric Project, Sirajgonj Twon Protection Project, Chandpur Irrigation Project,

Dharla Roadway Bridge (Kurigram) and many more. RRI has utilized its mathematical modeling capabilities to conduct essential studies, particularly for the development of Haor road and to the realization of multiple bridges across Bangladesh. Major mathematical model study accomplished by RRI are follows: Hydro-morphological study of Nikhli-Karimganj Roadway Bridge, Wazed Miah Bridge (Pirgonj), Kaharul Road Bridge (Dinajpur), Bishkhali Bridge (Borguna), Lakshipasha Bridge (Barishal), Kalni bridge(Habigonj), Banaripara Bridge (Barishal) Atulngar Ghat Bridge (Pirojpur). RRI is well equipped with sophisticated equipment and modern updated software.

Geotechnical Research Directorate comprises three divisions: Soil Mechanics and Groundwater Eastern & Western Zone Division (Soil Mechanics Division), Material Testing & Quality Control Division, and Sediment, Chemical & Water Pollution Division. GRD contributes to national development by providing testing facilities to determine various physical parameters of soils, physical and engineering properties of concrete and construction materials, sediment characteristics, and water quality, essential for planning and designing flood control, irrigation, drainage, water development, and other infrastructure projects.

The Administration and Finance Directorate includes several sections: Establishment, Accounts & Audit, Public Relations & Photography, Library, Estate & Security, and Store. Its activities encompass overall administration, human resources development, financial management, publishing annual reports, technical journal, newsletters, internal security and public relations.

NB: Mr. Moniruzzaman Khan Eusufzai, Principal Scientific Officer of River Research Institute has helped me a lot for this write up.

STONE FOREST

Tanvir Ahmed

Joint Secretary, Ministry of Commerce

The world we live in is a breathtaking tapestry of diverse landscapes, vibrant cultures, and awe-inspiring natural wonders. From the towering peaks of snow-capped mountains to the depths of mysterious oceans teeming with life. Our planet is a treasure trove of beauty that never ceases to amaze and inspire. The beauty of the world mostly lies in its physical splendor who's main cause of its mysterious geological formations. As we journey through this magnificent realm, we are reminded of our place within the grand cosmic dance, and the responsibility we bear to preserve and cherish the beauty that surrounds us. In this coalescence STONE FOREST is one of the most pertinent geological marvels.

Stone Forest is a scenic area located in China at Shilin Yi Autonomous County, Kunming, Yunnan province which is also, a World Natural Heritage Site. Shilin Yi Autonomous County, formerly known as Lunan Yi Autonomous County, is a distant suburban county of Kunming, Yunnan Province, 78 kilometers away from Kunming, Shilin is the hometown of Ashima in China. The Yi culture represented by Ashima is richen connotation and far-reaching. Stone Forest has the world's longest history of Kars landform evolution, the most widely distributed, complete types, unique form of the Paleozoic karst landform communities, known as "the first wonder in the world".

A myth is like that, many years ago this place was the part of an ocean /sea and due to the cause of geological change causing like earth quack etc. the sea transformed in to the plane land and lots of rocky hills appears or visible like as recent forms days those were under water previously.

In addition to its natural beauty and ecological significance, the Stone Forest holds great cultural importance. It is considered a sacred site by the local ethnic minority groups, who have their own myths and legends about the forest's origins. Many of these stories revolve around the heroic deeds of their ancestors, who are believed to have turned into stone pillars to protect their people.

Today, the Stone Forest is a popular tourist destination, attracting millions of visitors each year. The local government has taken steps to preserve the site and its surrounding, if any people get the opportunity, he or she should not lost the opportunity to visit this place.

Role of Early Warning in Cyclone Disaster Management in Bangladesh

S.M. Ajior Rahman

Joint Secretary

Bangladesh is one of the most cyclone-prone countries in the world, with its long coastline along the Bay of Bengal. Cyclones have historically caused widespread devastation, leading to loss of lives, destruction of property, and long-term economic impacts. The importance of an effective early warning system (EWS) in cyclone disaster management cannot be overstated, as it plays a critical role in safeguarding lives and minimizing damage. The Bangladesh Meteorological Department (BMD) is the primary agency responsible for monitoring and forecasting cyclones. Using satellite data, radar systems, and other meteorological tools, the BMD provides early warnings about the formation, trajectory, and potential impact of cyclones. These warnings are issued well in advance, allowing sufficient time for preparedness and response activities. In Bangladesh, the maritime ports utilize a system of 1 to 11 signals to communicate the severity of approaching cyclones and guide necessary actions. Signal 9 necessitates complete evacuation, as the cyclone is dangerously close, and all non-essential activities are halted. Signals 10 and 11 represent the most severe conditions, with the cyclone either imminent or making landfall, requiring maximum precautions, full emergency operations, and the completion of all evacuations.

Dissemination of Cyclone Warnings

The BMD disseminates cyclone warnings through the Department of Disaster Management (DDM), which coordinates with the National Disaster Management Committee (DMC), District DMCs, Upazila DMCs, and Union DMCs to ensure that the information reaches all vulnerable communities. This multi-tiered dissemination process is crucial in ensuring that even the most remote areas are alerted in time to take necessary precautions.

Role of Early Warning in Preparedness

Preparedness is a vital component of cyclone disaster management. Early warnings from the BMD trigger a series of preparedness actions, such as the activation of Cyclone Preparedness Programs (CPP), managed jointly by the Bangladesh Red Crescent Society (BDRCS) and the government. Community volunteers are mobilized to assist in disseminating warnings, conducting evacuations, and preparing cyclone shelters. Public awareness campaigns, drills, and the stockpiling of emergency supplies are also part of the preparedness phase. During a progressing cyclone, evacuation is generally initiated at Signal 7, becomes mandatory by Signal 8, and is fully enforced by Signal 9. Each signal step-up indicates the need for increasingly urgent actions to safeguard lives and property.

Role of Early Warning Response

The response phase is activated as a cyclone approaches. Early warnings enable timely evacuations, which are critical in reducing casualties. The DDM, along with district administration, local government bodies and NGOs like BDRCS, coordinates emergency response activities. This includes operating cyclone shelters, distributing emergency relief supplies, and providing medical assistance. The Armed Forces, Coast Guard, and local volunteers also play crucial roles in search and rescue operations.

Conclusion

In the context of Bangladesh, early warning systems are a critical component of cyclone disaster management. The timely and accurate warnings provided by the BMD, combined with effective dissemination and coordinated efforts across all levels of government and non-governmental organizations, significantly reduce the impact of cyclones. By incorporating early warning into the disaster management cycle—preparedness, response, recovery, and mitigation—Bangladesh can better protect its people and build resilience against future cyclonic events.

Distribution of Relief after Cyclone Amphan

Damage due to Cyclone Amphan

I would like to share a couple of real-life stories that reflect our social degradation.

A H M Anwar Pasha

Joint Chief (Joint Secretary), Programming Division Planning Commission

Some time ago, while living in Mirpur Nam Garden, I witnessed a concerning incident. On a morning walk, I saw many children heading to school with their parents. Suddenly, I noticed a child pick up a 1000-taka note from the footpath. I was curious about what would happen next and was taken aback when the child's mother immediately took the money, placed it in her vanity bag, and handed the child a 50-taka note instead, instructing him to buy ice cream during the break. I was stunned. What lesson was this child learning? What does this say about our future? Where are we heading?

I'd like to share another story. This is from my own childhood. When I was six years old, my mother sent me to buy bread from the shop next door, giving me a 5-taka note. Upon returning, I happily handed her the bread along with the 5-taka note and an additional 3 taka, explaining that the shopkeeper mistakenly thought I had given him a 10-taka note and returned 8 taka. While I was pleased with the extra money, my mother became serious and explained, "The shopkeeper may have made a mistake, but why didn't you correct it?"

In another instance, when I was in sixth grade, I traveled by bus from Farmgate to Mohakhali to attend a science fair. The fare was 50 paisa. After getting off the bus without paying, the bus began to move, and I found myself running after it. The other passengers laughed as I chased the bus. This experience reminded me of the values instilled in me by my mother at a young age.

These stories illustrate that to combat social degeneration, the foundation must be laid within the family. This is the message I want to convey.

Youth Entrepreneurship in Bangladesh

Shamim Ahammed

Director General (Joint Secretary)

Youth entrepreneurship has emerged as a significant force in Bangladesh's economic and social landscape. Around 35% of the country's population are youth. So, the country possesses a vast reservoir of youthful energy and potential. The rise of young entrepreneurs is not only contributing to economic growth but also playing a vital role in addressing unemployment and fostering innovation.

In Bangladesh, youth entrepreneurship is considered crucial for numerous reasons. Few of them are as bellow:

Economic Growth: Young entrepreneurs are driving new businesses, contributing to GDP, and creating jobs. Small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) started by young people are becoming vital to the economy, offering innovative products and services that address local needs.

Unemployment Reduction: Bangladesh faces a significant challenge with youth unemployment. By fostering entrepreneurship, the country can provide alternative pathways for young people to engage in productive activities, reducing the pressure on the formal job market.

Innovation and Creativity: Young entrepreneurs are often at the forefront of innovation. Their fresh perspectives and willingness to take risks lead to the development of new ideas and solutions. This is particularly important in a country like Bangladesh, where traditional industries dominate, and there is a need for diversification.

Social Change: Many young entrepreneurs in Bangladesh are involved in social enterprises, aiming to solve societal problems. These businesses are not only profitable but also contribute to social development by addressing issues like poverty, education, and health.

Despite the potential, young entrepreneurs in Bangladesh face several challenges:

Access to Finance: One of the biggest barriers is the lack of access to finance. Traditional financial institutions are often reluctant to lend to young people due to their lack of collateral and business experience.

Lack of Mentorship and Training: Many young entrepreneurs lack the necessary skills and knowledge to start and run a business. There is a need for more training programs, mentorship, and support networks that can guide them through the challenges of entrepreneurship.

Regulatory Hurdles: The regulatory environment in Bangladesh can be cumbersome, with complex procedures and bureaucratic red tape that deter young entrepreneurs from starting businesses.

Cultural Barriers: In some cases, societal norms and family expectations can discourage young people, especially women, from pursuing entrepreneurship. There is often a preference for stable, traditional careers over the uncertainties of starting a business.

Government and Institutional Support

The government of Bangladesh, Government Financial Institutions along with various nongovernmental organizations (NGOs) and private institutions, has recognized the importance of supporting youth entrepreneurship. Initiatives like the Youth Entrepreneurship Support (YES) Program and various startup incubators are designed to provide young entrepreneurs with access to finance, training, and mentorship.

Microfinance institutions, such as Grameen Bank and BRAC, have also played a pivotal role in providing small loans to young entrepreneurs, especially in rural areas. Additionally, the rise of digital platforms and mobile banking has made it easier for young people to access financial services and market their products.

The Role of Technology

Technology has been a game-changer for youth entrepreneurship in Bangladesh. The proliferation of smartphones and the internet has enabled young entrepreneurs to reach broader markets, access information, and connect with customers and suppliers more efficiently. E-commerce platforms, social media, and digital marketing have opened new avenues for young entrepreneurs to grow their businesses.

Furthermore, the government's push towards a "Digital Bangladesh" has created a conducive environment for tech-based startups. The ICT sector, in particular, has seen a surge in young entrepreneurs developing software, mobile apps, and digital services that cater to both local and global markets.

In conclusion, it could be said that youth entrepreneurship in Bangladesh holds the promise of transforming the country's economic and social fabric. While challenges remain, the combination of youthful energy, innovative thinking, and supportive initiatives is paving the way for a new generation of entrepreneurs. By addressing the existing barriers and fostering a more conducive environment, Bangladesh can unlock the full potential of its young entrepreneurs, driving sustainable development and inclusive growth for the nation.

Social Degradation

AHM Anwar Pasha

Joint Secretary, Programming Division, Planning Commission

I would like to share a couple of real-life stories that reflect our social degradation. Although these stories were shared with my course mates during the extempore speech session, other readers can also realize the essence.

A few years ago, while living in Mirpur Nam Garden, I witnessed an incident when I was on a morning walk. I saw a good number children heading to school with their parents. Suddenly, I noticed a child pick up a 1000-taka note from the footpath. I was curious about what would happen next. Astonishingly I noticed that the note was taken back by the child's mother quickly, placed it in her purse, and gave the child a 50-taka note instead and instructed him to buy an ice cream during the break. I was speechless. What lesson did that child get? What does this explain about our future? Where are we heading to?

I have also another story retelling from my own childhood. When I was six year-old, my mother sent me to buy bread from the shop next door, giving me a 5-taka note. Upon returning, I happily handed her the bread along with the 5-taka note and an additional 3 taka, explaining that the shopkeeper mistakenly thought I had given him a 10-taka note and returned 8 taka. While I was pleased with the extra money, my mother became serious and explained, "The shopkeeper may have made a mistake, but why didn't you correct it?"

After getting off the bus without paying, the bus began to move, and I found myself running after it to pay. The other passengers laughed as I chased the bus. This experience reminded me of the values instilled in me by my mother at my young age.

These stories illustrate that to combat social degradation and uplift social values that the foundation must be laid in family. And children must be taught with the values that tightens social fabrics. This is the message I want to convey.

একগুচ্ছ কবিতা

গোপাল চন্দ্র দাশ

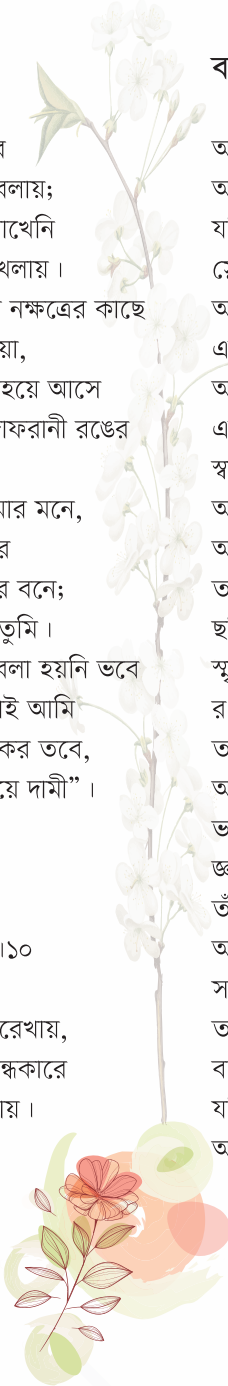

যুগ্মসচিব, সড়ক পরিবহন ও মহাসড়ক বিভাগ

রূপালি বেলার পাণ্ডুলিপি

কুয়াশার ডিঙ্গি ভেসে ভেসে যাব
 তুমি আমি, আমাদের রূপালি বেলায়;
 যে স্বপ্ন কোনদিন মেঘের জল মাথেনি
 শরতের আকাশে, সপ্ত রঙের খেলায়।
 শরতের জলহীন মেঘ উড়ে যায় নক্ষত্রের কাছে
 কাশফুলের গন্তব্যহীন চলে যাওয়া,
 তোমার হরিণ চোখ ক্রমশ লীন হয়ে আসে
 যেন কার্তিকের বেলা শেষের জাফরানী রঙের
 সূর্যের হঠাৎ ডুব দেওয়া।
 যে স্বপ্ন অঙ্কুরোদগম হয়নি তোমার মনে,
 অথচ সেই অমৃত সুধা মনে করে
 নগর বন্দর খুঁজেছি পিয়াল তরুর বনে;
 কাঁচের মতো মরুচিকা, অলীক তুমি।
 বেলা শেষে কোনদিন যে কথা বলা হয়নি ভবে
 তোমার যৌবন বেলায় যেতে চাই আমি
 কহিলা তুমি “মৃত্যুরে আলিঙ্গন কর তবে,
 কি মোহ, সন্ধ্যার আকাশের চেয়ে দামী”।
 মৃত্যুর অন্ধকার জাহাজে আমি
 অথচ জোৎস্না চারিদিক
 রহস্য শুধু জানে অন্তর্যামী,
 জন্ম-জন্মান্তরের গোলক ধাঁধায়। ১০
 ভোরের দেহহীন নরম বাতাসে
 জন্মান্তরবাদের জ্যামিতিক সরলরেখায়,
 জন্ম যদি থাকে নারীর গর্ভের অন্ধকারে
 দেখা হবে তোমার রূপালি বেলায়।

বাবার আদর্শ

আমার হৃদয়ের স্মৃতি গুলো গভীরে বাস করে
 আমার প্রিয় বাবার বিশুদ্ধ ভালোবাসার, যিনি স্বর্গীয়।
 যদিও সে চলে গেছে তার উষ্ণতা এখনও টের পাই
 স্নেহের আপুলের অসীম উচ্চতায় আমার কল্পনা সাজাই।
 আমার মনের বিশাল প্রান্তরে, আমি জ্বরির করি
 একটি জগত; যেখানে আমার বাবার উপস্থিতি সহজাত থাকে।
 আমি তাকে কাছে ধরে রাখি কল্পনার প্রবল শক্তিতে
 একজন পিতার ভালোবাসা চিরন্তন স্বচ্ছ স্ফুটিকে।
 স্বপ্নের রাজ্যে তিনি আমার হাত ধরেন
 আমাকে নিয়ে চলে এক অন্তত দেশের মধ্যে দিয়ে,
 আমরা পাশাপাশি হাটি, আমি হাত ধরে রাখি
 তার ভালোবাসা আলোকময় অটল পথ প্রদর্শন করে।
 ছবির উজ্জ্বল ক্যানভাস আমি আঁকি
 স্মৃতি আমি বন্দী করি শিল্পীর হাত দিয়ে।
 রং এবং আকার যা নাচে এবং বুনে,
 তবুও তার আত্মা উদ্ভাসিত শোকের মালায়।
 আমার বইয়ের পাতায় তার কণ্ঠস্বর শুনি
 ভয় থেকে দূরে যাওয়া জ্ঞান ফিস ফিস করে,
 জ্ঞানের প্রতি তার অনুরাগ, গল্প এবং গল্পের মাধ্যম
 তাঁর স্বাদ আমি চিরকাল স্বপ্নে গ্রহণ করি। ১৪
 আমার কানের প্রতিধ্বনিত সুরে
 সমস্ত ভয় মুছে দিয়ে তার হাসি শুনি।
 তার প্রিয় গানগুলি সিম্ফনির আওয়াজ
 বাস্তব জীবনের ব্যবচ্ছেদ জেনেও করে।
 যদিও তাঁর শারীরিক উপস্থিতি নাও থাকতে পারে
 আমার বাবার ভালোবাসা আজও বেঁচে আছে।

শুধু তোমার কবিতা -ই মধুমাখা তীর হয়ে বুকে বিঁধে
