37. Parties:—Sec. 105 (1) B. T. Act, speaks of an application, and when the application is originally made it is not necessary for the landlord or the tenant in making the application under the section to name any persons. All that is necessary is to indicate the holdings in the record in respect of which the settlement of fair and equitable rent is sought. No doubt in practice when the landlord applies the recorded tenants are made parties and there seems no objection to this practice, but nevertheless the application under sub-section (1) of sec. 105 is merely an application to which no tenants, if the application is by the landlord need be made parties. It is only after the application has been made, which of course must be made within 2 months, that the proceeding becomes a suit or in the nature of a suit and the provisions of Civil Procedure Code apply thereto: Birendra Kisore v. Ambika Charan, 31 C.W.N. 860, s. c. 43 C.L.J. 501. (Greaves, Mukerji and Chakravarti J.J.).

Where an application for enhancement of rent under sec. 105 (1), Bengal Tenancy Act, was made by the landlord within two months from the final publication of the record-of-rights but an application to substitute the heirs of some of the tenants was made after that period, they were dismissed on the ground that the proceedings were a suit from the beginning, ~~and a suit could not be allowed after two months and the first application could not be entertained as some of the joint tenants were not on the record, and that the applications were wrongly dismissed.~~ It is enough if the first application with specifications of the holdings is within two months: Ibid. The case of Birendra Kisore v. Ambika Charan, 31 C.W.N. 860, s. c. 43 C.L.J. 591 was followed in the case of Sibakumari v. Doshi Ghossain, 46 C.L.J. 555 (Rankin C.J. and Mitter J.) where it has been held that it is only necessary to indicate the holdings in the record in respect of which a settlement of fair and equitable rent is sought. An application to bring on the record the heir or transferee of the right of the tenant more than two months from the final publication of the record of rights is not time barred. But if the landlord went on against one only out of several tenants, his advantage such as it is in being able to proceed under sec. 105 of the Parties : B. T. Act comes to an end. Where the original tenant recorded in Substitu- the record of rights was A. One B was brought on the record by a tion. petition filed after two months from the date of the final publication. It turned out that A's interest has been sold at auction. Although B's name had been substituted for A on the application of the plaintiff landlord, B was only one of several persons interested in the tenancy, and the matter was fought out to a finish in his presence and ultimately the application under sec. 105 was dismissed on the ground that such an application must be brought against all the joint tenants, held that in these circumstances it would not be right to send back the case in order that the other joint tenants should be impleaded : Ibid.

Where in a proceeding under s. 105 the tenant preferred an appeal and got the appeal dismissed against one of the heirs of the parties. deceased landlord for non-prosecution, held that the appeal ought to be and was dismissed against the other respondents, in as much as there was defect of parties : Azimuddin v. Tara Sankar, 28 C.L.J. 201 ; the cases of Bejoy Gopal v. Umesh, 6 C.W.N. 196; Tarif Dafadar v. Khotajunissa, 10 C.W.N. 981 and Baser Sheikh v. Fazle Karim, 19 C.W.N. 290 were followed; see also Azimuddin v. Tarasankar, 28 C.L.J. 201, Sriram v. Hriday, 20 C.L.J. 461, Chandarsang v. Khimabai, 22 Bom. 718, Upendranath v. Shamlal, 34 Cal. 1020 and Kali Dayal v. Nagendra Nath, 24 C.W.N. 44. See also Balaram Pal v. Kangsha, 53 I.C. 548 and Indu v. Sheikh Mahammad, 23 C.W.N. 208 (notes).

Where B was recorded as a tenureholder under A and C was recorded as a raiyat under B, held in a proceeding under s. 105 by A against B on the allegation that B was a raiyat and not a tenure holder, that C was not a necessary party : Jogendra Mohan Das v. Janaki Nath Saha, 21 C.W.N. 427.

Where in a proceeding under s. 105 for settlement of rent against the tenants of a holding, one of the tenants had died before the final publication of the record of rights and notwithstanding his heirs were not brought on the record and the other tenants did not bring it to the notice of the court, but contested on other grounds unsuccessfully and the landlord subsequently brought a suit for rent at the enhanced rent and the tenants objected on the ground that the enhancement allowed in the proceeding under s. 105 was void and not binding, and the landlord struck off from the category of defendants the heir of the tenant who had died before the record of rights, the lower Courts gave a money-decree against the other tenants. In the High Court the tenant defendant preferred an appeal and it was contended that the decree under s. 105 was altogether void for the absence of one of the tenants and that a decree at old rate ought to have been given, held that the landlord was entitled to get a decree at the enhanced rent against the tenants who were parties to the proceeding under s. 105 : Kartik Chandra v. Jitendra Nath Roy, 28 C.W.N. 188 (notes).

38. Resjudicata :—See notes under s. 109.

39. Under raiyat: Settlement of fair rent :—In settling fair and equitable rent of an under raiyat in a proceeding under this section, the Revenue Officer, it is submitted, shall have regard to the provisions laid down in s. 48 of the Act. See s. 105 sub-sec. (4). See notes under heading No. 7 of this section.

40. Or 2, r. 2, C. P. C. :—Where a landlord obtained a decree for enhanced rate of rent, arising out of proceeding under C. P.

s. 105 from the year 1322 B. S. and during the pendency of the appeal in the High Court the landlord brought a suit for rent at the old rate for the years 1326 to 1329 B. S. and got a decree. After the decision of the Special Judge allowing the enhancement, on remand of the case by the High Court, the landlord brought a suit for rent representing the difference between the old rate and the enhanced rate for the same period, held that Or. 2, r. 2, C. P. C., was no bar to the maintainability of the suit; it cannot be said that the landlord was "entitled to make" a claim or "intentionally relinquished a portion of his claim": Debnarain v. Jagadish Chandra, 32 C.W.N. 68 (notes), (Cuming and Mukerji J.J.). 40 C.L.J. 538 distinguished.

Decision of questions arising during the course of settlement of rents under this Part.

105A. Where, in any proceedings for the settlement of rents under this Part, any of the following issues arise:—

- (a) whether the land is, or is not, liable to the payment of rent;
- (b) whether the land, although entered in the record-of-rights as being held rent-free, is liable to the payment of rent;
- (c) whether the relation of landlord and tenant exists;
- (d) whether the land has been wrongly recorded as part of a particular estate or tenancy, or wrongly omitted from the lands of an estate or tenancy;
- (e) whether the tenant belongs to a class different from that to which he is shown in the record-of-rights as belonging;
- (f) whether the special conditions and incidents of the tenancy, or any right of way or other easement attaching to the land, have not, or has not, been recorded, or have, or has, been wrongly recorded;

the Revenue-officer shall try and decide such issue and settle the rent under section 105 accordingly:

any issue under this section, which has been, or is already, directly and substantially in issue between the same parties, or between parties under whom they or any of them claim, and has been tried and decided, is already being tried, by a Revenue-officer in a suit instituted before him under section 106.

I. Note :—S. 105A was inserted by s. 26 of Bengal Act I of 1907 and E. B. Act I of 1908.

This section was introduced by s. 26 of Act I, B.C., of 1907. The Select Committee in their report observed as follows :—“In cases where rents are settled under Part II of Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act in Government and temporarily-settled estates, section 104H allows any person aggrieved by an entry of a settled rent to file a suit in the Civil Court, on certain grounds, within six months from the date of the certificate of final publication or from the date of disposal of an appeal under section 104G. There is, however, no corresponding provision in regard to cases in which rents are settled under section 105 in private estates.

Report of Select

The result is that litigation in connection with the settlement of rents under section 105 in private estates is unduly prolonged, especially in cases falling under section 105 (2), where the Revenue-officer settles a rent for holdings for which no rent has hitherto been paid, but which the occupant is not entitled to hold without payment of rent. It frequently happens that long after such a rent has been settled, and where the landlord proceeds to realise it, the tenant files a suit in the Civil Court to have it declared that he is entitled to hold the land rent-free. The dispute is thus re-opened. The High Court have held that the Settlement officer, under s. 105, has only to settle a fair and equitable rent for the holding ; and that if any dispute is raised in proceedings under section 105, as to the liability of the landlords to pay rent, proceedings under section 105 must be stayed, and the parties told to file a suit under section 106. This, however only provides for a small minority of the cases. It usually happens that when the case under section 105 comes up for trial, the time allowed for filing suits under section 106 has expired. Or the tenant may refrain from raising the question in the proceedings under section 105, wait till the landlord attempts to realise the settled rent from him, and then raise the matter in the Civil Court.

We are agreed that it is necessary to take some action which will prevent proceedings from being protracted in this way. It has been suggested that this might be effected by enacting some provision similar to section 104H in Part II of Chapter X of the Act, which allows the entries of rent entered in a Settlement Rent-Roll to be contested in the Civil Courts on certain grounds within six months of the date of certificate of final publication. But the majority of us are of opinion that this would only afford partial remedy, and there is no real analogy between a settlement of rents under Part II and Part III of Chapter X. In settling rents under Part II in connection with settlement of land revenue, the Revenue-officer is subject entirely to the control of the Revenue authorities, and appeals against the rent settled lie exclusively to the Revenue authorities. There is therefore good reason for allowing certain matters to be referred to the civil courts as under section 104H. But in proceedings under Part III of Chapter X for the settlement of rents, in private estates, the Revenue-officer acts judicially. Under section 107, he is required to adopt the procedure for the trial of suits ; and under section 109A the appeal against his decision lies to the Special Judge and the High Court.

The majority of us are, therefore, of opinion that there is no reason why finality should not be given to the decisions of a Revenue-officers under Part III of Chapter X, subject to appeal to the Special Judge and the High Court. It was the expressly declared intention of the framers of the Amendment Act of 1898 that the proceedings of the Revenue officers and the Special Judge should be final. The present clause merely gives effect to that intention. The High Court have held that, under the law as it stands, finality attaches only to the rent settled under section 105, and not to incidental matters raised in the course of these rent settlement proceedings. But in order that a fair rent may be settled, it is essential that such matters should be decided. The Revenue-officer would have the power to decide them finally, subject to appeal to the Special Judge, if they were raised in suits under section 106, and the majority of us can see no valid reason why the same Revenue-officer should not be given power to decide them finally, subject to appeal, if they are raised in proceedings under sec. 105. We consider that any other course would lead to considerable confusion and practical inconvenience, as it would enable the same matters to be raised simultaneously in the subordinate Civil Courts and before the Special Judge and the High Court. For these reasons, the majority of us are in favour of the proposed clause."

Correctness of entries may be impugned by landlords.

2. Landlord may impugn correctness of entries :—The correctness of the record-of-rights can be impugned by the landlord also in an application under s. 105 ; issues mentioned in s. 105A can s. c., 46 I.C. 125 ; the following cases were discussed: Dharani Nath Ghose v. Jamini Mohon Pal, 18 C.W.N. 268.

Res-

3. Scope of s. 105A: Resjudicata and constructive Res-judicata :—A question as to the relationship of landlord and tenant decided in a proceeding under s. 105A operates as resjudicata in a suit for ejectment: Mahendra Narayan v. Girish Chandra, 3 Pat. L.J. 379, s. c., 46 I.C. 125 ; the following cases were discussed: Dharani Kant v. Gober Ali, 30 Cal. 339 ; Gokal Mander v. Padmanand, 29 Cal. 707, Nanda Kumar v. Ram Kumar, 19 C.L.J. 457.

Where in a proceeding under s. 105A it has been found that the relationship of landlord and tenant does not exist between the parties, that decision operates as resjudicata and the defendant is not entitled in a suit for ejectment by the landlord to re-agitate the question: Lalji Singh v. Lakshmi Narayan, 97 I.C. 708, s. c., A.I.R. 1927 Pat. 32 (Jwala Prasad and MacPherson J.J.).

neither raised nor decided.
Constructive
judicata.

"We cannot hold, on the analogy of the doctrine of constructive res-judicata, that the jurisdiction of the Civil Court has been constructively excluded even when a point has been neither raised nor decided under s. 105 read with s. 105A. In this connection, we may observe that ss. 105 and 109 were inserted in the Bengal Tenancy Act by Act III of 1898, B. C. Sec. 105A was subsequently introduced into the Bengal Tenancy Act by sec. 26 of Act I of 1907, B. C. But though the scope of sec. 105 was thus widened and sec. 105A was included in sec. 109, the language of s. 109 was left unaltered:" Nawab Bahadur of Murshidabad v. Ahmad Hossain, 44 Cal. 783, s. c. 21 C.W.N. 1004 at p. 1006, s. c. 25 C.L.J. 556. The cases of Pandab Dowari v. Ananda Kisore, 14 C.W.N. 897, Sashi Bhusan v. Eshabar, 19 C.W.N. 636, and Sasi Bhusan Hazra v. Aswini Kumar Samanta, 19 C.W.N. 637 were decided before the introduction of s. 105A, so s. 109 must be construed on the same lines as before the introduction of s. 105A: Ibid. See notes under s. 109.

A decision in a proceeding under s. 105A that certain persons are ^{Persons}tenure holders, does not bar a suit by those persons against certain ^{who are}other persons who were not parties to the proceeding under s. 105A ^{not}for ejectment of the latter on the ground that they are mere tres- ^{parties.}passers: Ramyad Pande v. Genda Tewari, 56 I.C. 933.

The word "issue" in s. 105A cannot mean merely an issue framed ^{"Issue."}and recorded according to law; the object of s. 105A is to give the defendant in proceedings under s. 105 the right to raise questions which should properly form the subject matter of proceedings under s. 106: Jatindra Narayan v. Malu Haji, 51 I.C. 969; although no formal issue is framed as to the tenant's status, it is obligatory upon the Revenue-officer to decide such an issue as the question is one of the kind described in s. 105A: Ibid.

A Revenue court has by virtue of the provisions of s. 105A, ^{Scope of s. 105A.} clauses (a), (b) and (c), read with section 102, clause (j) of the Act, jurisdiction to go into the question whether the land is not liable to pay rent and whether an occupant of the land stands in the relation of a tenant towards the applicant: Upendra Nath Ghose v. Anath Bandha Chakravarty, 52 I.C. 406, see also Upendra Nath Ghose v. Jamini Mohan Pal, 18 C.W.N. 268.

See notes under s. 105.

4. Court-fees:—When in a proceeding under s. 105 an issue is raised under s. 105A, an advalorem fee subject to a maximum of twenty rupees is to be paid in addition to the ordinary fee under s. 105; See notes under s. 105 heading No. 23.

[Note.—The Court-fee for application under sec. 105A, in BIHAR, is an advalorem fee subject to a maximum of Rs. 15/- in respect of any one tenant. See Appendix XIII at the end of this book.]

106. In proceedings under this Part, a suit may ^{Institution of suit before a Revenue-officer.} be instituted before a Revenue-officer at any time within three months from the date of the certificate of the final publication of the record-of-rights under sub-section (2) of section 103A of this Act, by presenting a plaint on stamped paper, for the decision of any dispute regarding any entry which a Revenue-officer has made in, or any omission which the said officer has made from, the record, whether such dispute be between landlord and tenant, or between landlords of the same or of neighbouring estates, or between tenant and tenant, or as to whether the relationship of landlord and tenant exists, or as to whether land held rent-free is properly so held, or as to any other matter.

and the Revenue-officer shall hear and decide the dispute:

Provided that the Revenue-officer may, subject to such rules as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf, transfer any particular case or class of cases to a competent Civil Court for trial:

Provided also that in any suit under this section

the Revenue-officer shall not try any issue which has been, or is already, directly and substantially in issue between the same parties, or between parties under whom they or any of them claim, in proceedings for the settlement of rents under this Part, where such issue has been tried and decided, or is already being tried, by a Revenue-officer under section 105A.

There is no sub-sec. (2) in Bengal and Bihar.

(2) Where the lands to which the dispute relates are situated in local areas for which separate records are framed, the period of limitation specified in subsection (1) shall begin to run from the date of the certificate of final publication of the last record which contains entries relating to such lands.

1. Amendments :—The Proviso has been added by the two amending Acts of Bengal and East Bengal. Sub-sec. (2) has been added by the E. B. Act.

S. 106 has been re-numbered s. 106 sub-sec. (1) by the East Bengal Amending Act of 1908.

2. Former section :—For s. 106 as it stood originally see Appendix VII. Then by Act III of 1898 it was altered as follows :—

If, in any case under this Part, a dispute arises at any time within two months from the date of the certificate of the final publications of the records-of-rights under section 103A, sub-section (2), regarding any entry which the Revenue-officer has made in, or any omission made from the record, whether such dispute be between landlord and tenant, or between landlords of the same or of neighbouring estates, or between tenant and tenant, or as to whether the relationship of landlord and tenant exists, or as to whether land held rent-free is properly so held, or as to any other matter, a suit may be instituted before the Revenue-officer, by presenting a plaint on stamped paper, for the decision of the dispute, and the Revenue-officer shall then hear and decide the dispute :

And subsequently by Act I, B. C. of 1903, it was altered as follows :—

In proceeding under this Part, a suit may be instituted before a Revenue-officer at any time within three months from the date of the certificate of the final publication of the record-of-rights under sub-sec. (2) of section 103A of this Act, by presenting a plaint on stamped paper for the decision of any dispute regarding any entry which a Revenue-officer has made in, or any omission which the said officer has made from the record, whether such dispute be between landlord and tenant or between landlords of the same or of neighbouring estates, or between tenant and tenant, or as to whether the relationship of landlord and tenant exists, or as to whether land held rent-free is properly so held, or as to any other matter, and the Revenue-officer shall hear and decide the dispute :

Institution of suit before a Revenue-officer.

Provided that the Revenue-officer may, subject to such rules as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf, transfer particular case or class of cases to a competent Civil Court for trial.

Where a Settlement officer decided that the defendant had failed to establish his alleged rent-free title, and on the basis of this decision rent was subsequently settled and the record finally published, held in a subsequent suit by the landlord against the defendant for assessment of rent of the land, that the Settlement officer had no jurisdiction under s. 106 as it stood before the amendment to decide a question of this character and his decision did not preclude the Court from determining the question of lakhiraj title on the merits: Birendra Kishore v. Kalitara, 43 Cal. 547, s. c. 20 C.W.N. 275, the following cases were discussed and referred to: Donay Das v. Keshub Prahti, 8 C.W.N. 741; *Radha Kishore v. The order of a Settlement officer in a survey and record-of-rights under s. 106 as originally passed, is a decree under s. 9 of Act III (B.C.) of 1898, which operated as resjudicata on points raised and decided: Nikunja Behari v. Radha Kesori, 22 C.L.J. 148; where a dispute as to land being rent-free or rent-paying had arisen before final publication and had been decided by the Settlement officer under s. 106 as originally framed, held that section 9 of the Amending Act III of 1898 did not apply to the order of the Settlement officer, and the suit in the Civil Court was maintainable: Ibid; the Settlement officer was not precluded from deciding on a dispute as regards rent-free title, whether rent had been previously paid or not: Ibid.

Effect of settlements or rent and decisions by Revenue-officers made before the commencement of this Act.

3. Act III of 1898, B. C., s. 9 :—(1) Every settlement of rent or decision of a dispute by a Revenue-officer under sec. 106 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885 before the commencement of this Act, in respect of which no appeal has, before the commencement of this Act, been preferred to the Special Judge appointed under section 108 of that Act, shall have the force and effect of a decree of a Civil Court in a suit between the parties, and shall be final:

Provided that an appeal shall lie to the District Judge from any such settlement or decision which was made or given within thirty days before the commencement of this Act, if the appeal be presented within thirty days from the date of such settlement or decision.

(2) The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to appeals shall, as nearly as may be, apply to all such appeals.

Finality, what is Presumptive evidence.

Ss. 102, and 106.

S. 105A.

4. Scope of s. 106 :—This section provides a remedy for the correction of an entry after the final publication of the record of rights. S. 107 provides that a decision in a proceeding under s. 106 "shall have the force and effect of a decree of a Civil Court in a suit between the parties, and, subject to the provision of sections 108 and 109A, shall be final." The effect of an entry after the final publication of the record of rights is that such entry is to be presumed to be correct unless the contrary is shewn (s. 103B). So, where A is recorded as a non-occupancy raiyat under B in the record of rights, the entry is presumptive evidence, in favour of B, and if A brings a suit under s. 106 for correction of the entry that he is an occupancy raiyat and the suit is decreed, the result is that A will no longer be entitled to plead that the original entry that A is a non-occupancy raiyat is correct, in-as-much as the decree is final under s. 107. But the finality is as regards the question whether the original entry is correct or incorrect. The scope of s. 106 is limited only as to whether the entry was correctly made and the effect of the decision in a case under s. 106 is only as to whether a particular entry will in future be considered as presumptive evidence. It is only to avoid an entry being made as presumptive evidence that a suit under s. 106 is necessary to be brought. The scope of s. 102 under which an entry is made is that under that section the existing state of facts is recorded (as is provided for in s. 158); s. 106 provides that a revenue-officer is to see whether such entry is correct; a decision under s. 106 confirms or corrects an entry; and the effect of the decision is that what is decided will have presumptive evidence.

The correctness of entries may be questioned also under s. 105A.

The correctness of the record-of-rights can be impugned by the landlord in an application made under s. 105 : Upendra Nath v. Jamini Landlord Lohan, 18 C.W.N. 268.

Where a settlement of land-revenue is not being or is not about to be made, a dispute as to an entry in the record of rights though arising under Part I of Chapter X is a matter that can be decided under s. 106 : Keshab Panda v. Bhowani Panda, 18 C.L.J. 187. may impugn correctness of entry.
S. 106.

A Revenue-officer in deciding disputes between rival proprietors under s. 106 is confined to the question of possession : Mohunt Padmalav v. Lukmi Rani, 12 C.W.N. 8 (Per Coxe, J., at p. 15) ; a question of title cannot be gone into : Ibid. The reason of the rule is that in proceedings under the Tenancy Act no disputes of title between rival proprietors, considered merely as proprietors can legitimately arise and it is no part of the purposes of the Tenancy Act to regulate disputes between rival proprietors except in so far as such disputes affect their relations with their tenants, and that in framing a record-of-rights under s. 103A the Revenue-officer must record the proprietors according to possession, so an entry made in a record-of-rights according to the rules laid down giving a correct view of the landlords and tenants actually on the land cannot be corrected and altered because it is incorrect for the purpose of ascertaining the legal titles of the proprietors, a purpose which is not one of the purposes of the Tenancy Act or of a settlement under it : (See the observations in the judgment of Coxe, J., at pp. 13, 14, and 15 of 12 C.W.N.). But a different view seems to have been taken in the case Jogendra Nath Roy v. Krishna Promoda Dass, 35 Cal. 1013, s. c. 12 C.W.N. 1032, s. c., 8 C.L.J. 322, where it has been held that the remedy of a proprietor against a rival landlord for correction of an entry lies in a suit under s. 106 and not by a regular suit. Question of possession and not of title can be gone into.
Reason of the rule.

The wording of the section is very comprehensive but it is reasonable to suppose that these words are confined to disputes which may legitimately arise from incorrect entries and therefore a question of title between two rival landlords cannot come under the purview of this section : Mohunt Padmalav v. Lukmi Rani, 12 C.W.N. 8 (at p. 14, col. 1). Following this case it has been held that a Revenue-officer in deciding disputes between rival proprietors under s. 106 is confined to the question of possession alone and is not competent to determine the question of title : Ram Chandra v. Nandananda Bessain, 18 C.W.N. 938 ; s. c., 19 C.L.J. 197 ; the Bengal Tenancy Act deals with the relations of landlords and tenants, and it is no part of its purpose to regulate disputes between rival proprietors except in so far as such disputes affect their relations with their tenants. Contra.

As between landlords of neighbouring estates, the only question that can be raised in a proceeding under s. 106 is as to the possession of neighbouring estates. The date of the final publication : Kali Sundari v. Giriza Sanker, 12 C.W.N. 974. This decision is practically in conflict with the decision in the case of Jogendra Nath v. Krishna Pramada, 35 Cal. 1013, s. c., 12 C.W.N. 1032 ; s. c., 8 C.L.J. 322. Landlords of neighbouring estates.

The case of Jogendra Nath v. Krishna Pramada, 35 Cal. 1013 ; Jogendra Nath v. Harfuddin, J.J., in the case of Gulab Misser v. Kumar Kalanand, 12 C.W.N. 884 ; s. c., 12 C.L.J. 107 their Lordships says as follows : — We are unable to accept the view taken in the case of Jogendra Nath v. Krishna, that the failure of a person to institute a case under s. 106 of the Bengal Tenancy Act for the purpose of correcting an entry in a record of rights debars him from bringing a regular suit in subsequent cases. dissented from in subsequent cases.

to establish his rights. If no case has been brought and decided under that section the entry in the record of rights is at most presumed to be correct but the presumption is rebuttable and the entry does not amount to a final adjudication of the rights of the parties. This indeed is the view taken by this court in the other decisions to which we have referred."

The other decisions referred to where the same view was taken are the cases of Ram Gulam v. Bisun, 11 C.W.N. 48 and Trailokya v. McLeod, 28 Cal. 28.

The case of Jogendra Nath v. Krishna Pramada, 35 Cal. 1013; s. c., 12 C.W.N. 1032 was also dissented from by Mookerjee and Carnduff, J.J., in the case of Pandab Dowari v. Ananda Kisun, 14 C.W.N. 887, s. c., 12 C.L.J. 195 and it was held that s. 106 of the Act clearly indicated that s. 106 did not provide an exclusive remedy against erroneous entries in the record of rights.

Jogendra Nath v. Krishna Pramada distinguished.

All these cases were considered in the case of Mukti Nath v. Rameswar, 15 C.W.N. 57 and it was held that the failure of a person to institute a suit under s. 106 for correctness of an entry in the record of rights is no bar to his instituting a suit in the civil court for the establishment of his title: the case of Jogendra Nath v. Krishna Pramada, 12 C.W.N. 1032, s. c., 8 C.L.J. 322, was not dissented from but distinguished on the ground that the case decided that that was for alteration and correction of certain entries and their Lordships (Woodroffe and Teunon, J.J.), said that it might well be that such a suit would not lie in a Civil Court.

Failure to institute a suit under s. 106 does not bar a suit.

The question as to whether the provisions of s. 106 exclude the jurisdiction of Civil Court came up for decision before Fletcher and Teunon, J.J. in the case of Shashi Bhusan v. Sheikh Eshabar Ali 19 C.W.N., 636 and it was held the fact that a suit is not instituted under s. 106 does not deprive a person from his right to sue in the Civil Court: the case of Sasi Bhusan v. Aswini Kumar, 18 C.W.N. 637, Footnote, and Jogendra v. Krishna Pramada, 35 Cal. 1013, s. c., 12 C.W.N. 1032 were dissented from.

Suit under s. 106 not the only remedy. Civil Suit maintainable. Question of possession merely. Where there are rival proprietors, question of possession is the only question.

S. 106 is not the only remedy for correction of an entry and a civil suit for that purpose is maintainable: Mahomed Ayefuddin v. Pradyumn Kumar, 25 C.W.N. 13, the case of Jogendra Nath v. Krishna Pramada, 35 Cal. 1013 was not followed.

In deciding disputes between rival proprietors under s. 106, Revenue Officer is confined to the question of possession only: Das v. Niroda Bala, 63 I.C. 602.

In a suit under s. 106, Fletcher, J., (Newbould, J., concurring) said as follows:—"I think that the authorities of this court show clearly that where there are rival proprietors this question of possession is the only matter that should be gone into. As regards other parties claiming, the court is not limited to the question of possession, vide, Pran Krishna v. Trailokya Nath, 19 C.W.N. 887, Surendra Krishna v. Peary Mohon, 41 I.C. 698.

The cases of Mohunt Padmalav v. Lukmi Rani, 12 C.W.N. 974, Kali Sankari v. Giriza Sankar, 15 C.W.N. 974, Ramchand Nanda, 19 C.L.J. 197 and Pran Krishna v. Trailokya Nath, 19 C.W.N. 911 were discussed in the case of Maharaj Bal Bhagwan Das, 45 I.C. 781 and it was held by Fletcher and Huda, J.J., that in a suit between two rival proprietors the question "is the question as to which of these two rival p was in possession of the land in question at the date of the final publication of the Record-of-Rights." In the same case it was held that "a dispute between two neighbouring proprietors.....the case comes within the provisions of s. 102 (dd)."

The decisions as to rival landlords do not apply to the case of rival co-sharers in as much as "there is this distinction that in the former case there can be no question of joint possession or possession of the one being the possession of the other." But where A and B were recorded as joint landlords, and A brought a suit under s. 106 and proved a partition previous to the record-of-rights and B could not prove that A was in possession, held that A should be recorded as the sole landlord: Ibid.

Technical Rules and Instructions of the Settlement Department, 1916: Page III, Rule 47:—".....cases involving title between neighbouring landlords should ordinarily be transferred to the Civil Court under the proviso to section 106."

The scheme of ss. 105, 106 etc. of the Bengal Tenancy Act seems to be that matters brought at once or within a strictly limited time before the Revenue-officer are to be dealt with by him while matters not so brought before the Revenue-officer are left to the ordinary law and the civil courts: Berhamdutt v. Ramji Ram, 18 C.W.N. 466. See also Aswini v. Sarada, 24 C.L.J. 79; Pran Krishna v. Trailakkya, 19 C.W.N. 911.

In a suit under s. 106, the plaintiff is not entitled to a declaration that a specific entry in the record-of-rights is not correct as it stands, he must go further and establish in what respect it is incorrect and how it should be amended, if he is unable to do this, his suit must fail: Dwijendra Nath v. Aftabuddi, 21 C.W.N. 492, s.c., 25 C.L.J. 53.

One suit against all the tenants of a village is not maintainable: Dhakeshwar v. Iswardhari, 22 C.L.J. 57; one suit however, might be instituted against such of the tenants as belonged to the same caste or followed the same occupation and a separate suit ought to have been instituted with respect to each class of tenants, and a separate court-fee of Rs. 10 should be paid for each such suit: Ibid.

Where the defendant denies the correctness of the record and the Court has before it the evidence upon which the record was prepared, held that the Court is bound to come to a finding whether that evidence is sufficient to justify the entry: Janki Koer v. Usman Sain, 62 I.C. 417.

A Revenue Officer in deciding disputes between rival proprietors under s. 106 is confined to the question of possession merely: E. A. Moore v. Gulab Chand, 1 Pat. 157, s.c., 73 I.C. 5; but a question as to the relationship of landlord can be decided in case the question does not arise between rival proprietors, Ibid; where a question arises between two rival proprietors a Revenue Officer cannot even refer the suit to the Civil Court, Ibid.

See notes under s. 105.

5. Within three months from the date of the certificate of the final publication: Limitation:—Where there are two consecutively finally published records-of-rights it is competent to a party aggrieved by the second record-of-rights to ask for a declaration in respect of that second record-of-rights without displacing any prejudicial entries in the first record-of-rights: Sheik Latafat v. Kumar Gangnanad, 3 Pat. L.J., 361.

Where lands are situated in two or more local areas.

Where the lands to which the dispute relates are situated in local areas for which separate records are framed, the period of limitation so far as regards East Bengal, shall, according to cl. (2) of this section, begin to run from the date of the certificate of final publication of the last record which contains entries relating to such lands. There is no corresponding clause for West Bengal and Behar, but it is submitted that the same rule as prevails in East Bengal will apply in West Bengal and Behar. For reasons see notes under s. 105,

In calculating the period of limitation in a suit under s. 106 parties are entitled to deduction of holidays: Bisweswar v. Sukraj, 15 C.W.N. 95 (notes).

6. Cl. (2):—See notes under the previous heading.

Suit for possession.

7. Suit for possession:—A suit for recovery of possession cannot be brought under s. 106: Nilmani v. Kedar Nath, 17 C.W.N. 750; a civil court to which a case is transferred under the first proviso to s. 106 has no jurisdiction to pass a decree for possession: Ibid.

The prayer for declaration of title and for recovery of possession are matters “entirely foreign to the jurisdiction of the Revenue officer under section 106, his work being confined to a decision of the point whether the record-of-rights is correct or not”: Aswini Kumar Aich v. Saroda Charan Basu, 24 C.L.J. 79, it is submitted that this decision so far as it decides that a prayer for declaration of title is foreign to the jurisdiction of a Revenue officer under s. 106 does not seem to have taken the correct view of the law, for, a person in respect of whom there is an entry in the record-of-rights that he has no title is competent, having regard to the wording of s. 106, to bring such a suit. A suit for possession no doubt is outside the scope of s. 106; but where both these prayers are made viz., declaration of title and recovery of possession, the Revenue officer should not dismiss the suit but having regard to the principle in the case of Umedulla v. Ramchandra, 14 C.W.N. 812 should grant the relief as to declaration of title, if the plaintiff is competent to get it.

Declaratory suit.

A suit instituted under s. 106 is in the essence a suit for a declaratory decree in which no consequential relief is asked: Salish Chandra v. Gopal Chandra, 15 C.W.N. 110. A suit was brought under s. 106 for ejectment and for other reliefs (which were properly within the scope of s. 106); held that the relief for ejectment could not be granted and the suit could not be dismissed on the ground that ejectment was prayed for, since it was proper to the court to grant the other reliefs: Umedulla v. Ram Chandra, 14 C.W.N. 812.

Ejectment suit.

A suit for recovery of possession is not maintainable under s. 107: Kali Sundari v. Giriza Sanker, 15 C.W.N. 974.

Question as to rent-free title.

A person who is not in possession of land which is claimed at the date of the record of rights cannot have the mere question of his title to hold the land rent-free tried in a suit under s. 106: Prankrishna v. Trailakya Nath, 19 C.W.N., 911. A plaintiff cannot sue for possession under s. 106; nor, if he is out of possession at the date of the suit, can he be given a declaration of his right to possession. get possession ; he can get complete remedy only in a suit in the Civil Court ; Ibid. The words "or to any other matter" in s. 106 must have reference to the matters indicated in s. 102 : Ibid. The words "or to any other matter."

8. Proviso : Transfer of a case to Civil Court :—In the case of Chandi Charan v. Monoranjan, 17 C.L.J. 416, Brett J., (Richardson J., agreeing) made the following remarks :—
Remarks of Brett, J.

"In the cases before us though the complaints were presented before the Revenue officer, that officer proceeding under the proviso to s. 106 of the Bengal Tenancy Act transferred them for trial to the court of the Subordinate Judge. It is manifest that the civil court in trying the suits is not bound to confine itself to the reliefs which in such cases could alone be granted by the Revenue-officer."

A Civil court to which a case is transferred under the first proviso to s. 106 has no jurisdiction to pass a decree for possession : Contra. Nilmani v. Kedar Nath, 17 C.W.N. 750 ; see also Pran Krishna v. Trailakya, 19 C.W.N. 911.

A record-of-rights having been prepared in 1896 the landlord applied in 1897 for the correction of an entry under s. 106 of the Act as it then was ; after the Amending Act (III) of 1898 was passed the case was referred to the Civil Court under the proviso to s. 106 of the Act as amended ; held that the Court has jurisdiction to try, notwithstanding that the proceedings were commenced prior to the passing of the amending Act which first empowered a reference to the Civil Court : Rahimuddin v. Jagut Kisore, 12 C.W.N. 987 ; in matters of procedure an amending Act would affect legal proceedings instituted under the repealed provision : Ibid. Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

Although a suit under s. 106 was withdrawn with liberty to bring a fresh suit, held that the suit was barred by the provisions of s. 109, when instituted a suit in the Civil Court for the identical relief : Dinonath v. Anadi Krishna, 28 C.W.N. 703. Withdrawal of suit under s. 106 effect of.

The statutory provisions of s. 109, B. T. Act must be strictly enforced and should not be whittled down : Ibid.

See notes under s. 109.

A suit instituted under s. 106, although transferred to the ordinary Civil Court, is a suit for a declaratory decree within the meaning of Art. 17, cl. (3) of sch. II of the Court-fees Act and is not chargeable with an ad-valorem fee : Sailaja Nath v. Chandi-charan, 28 C.L.J. 301.

Where a suit instituted under s. 106 is transferred to a Civil Court (Court of Munsiff), the appeal lies to the Sub-judge and not to the Special Judge : Khirod Gobind v. Gour Gopal, 27 C.L.J. 281.

9. Effect of s. 9. of Act III, B. C. of 1898 :—The effect of s. 9 of the Amending Act III of 1898, B. C., is to make final the decision of a Revenue-officer, made under s. 106 before the commencement of the amending Act, only in regard to disputes which could be decided by the Revenue-officer under s. 106 : Donay Dass v. Keshub Pruhti, 8 C.W.N. 741. A question of title between rival purchasers of a tenure could not be dealt with and determined under s. 106 as it stood before its amendment by Act III of 1898 : Ibid ; also see Pandit Sardar v. Meajan Mridha, 21 Cal. 378 and Haromohan v. Prannath, 27 Cal. 364 ; a decision on such a question Dispute.

passed by a Revenue-officer before the commencement of the amending Act, does not prevent the question from being litigated in the Civil Court: Donay Dass v. Keshub Pruhti, 8 C.W.N. 741.

Court fees :
Suit in Civil Court.

10. Court fees :—The Court-fee payable on a plaint in a suit brought in a Civil Court for the amendment of a record-of-rights and for settlement of fair rents must be determined under s. 7 (4) (c) of the Court fees Act, by the amount at which the reliefs sought are valued and not at the sum of ten rupees required for a declaratory decree: Sreenath Chandra v. The Secretary of State for India in Council, 11 C.L.J. 158. But it was decided by Mookerjee and Sharfuddin, J.J., in the case of Satis Chandra v. Gopal Chandra, 15 C.W.N. 110, s.c., 12 C.L.J. 638 that a suit under s. 106 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is a suit for a declaratory decree within the meaning of Art. 17 cl. (3) of sch. II of the Court-fees Act and that the fee payable on the plaint in such a suit is Rs. 10.

S. 106.

The following notification of the Govt. of India was published after the aforesaid decisions were passed:

Government
of India Notification about Court Fees.

Notification No. 1897 F. dated the 24th March, 1911. (India Gazette, dated March 25, 1911, Part I, p. 222):

In exercise of the powers conferred by s. 35 of the Court-fees Act, 1870 (VII of 1870) the Governor-General-in-Council is pleased to reduce the fees chargeable under clause (iii) of Article 17 of schedule II of the said Act on plaints relating to suits instituted in Bengal under s. 106 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885 (VIII of 1885), to the amount of an advalorem fee chargeable under Article I of Schedule I of the Act, in cases where the amount of such fee would be less than ten rupees.

Suit for correction of entry and consequential relief.

S. 7, Court Fees-Act.

Government of India Notification how far binding on
Courts.

Certain suits brought under s. 106 for correction of an entry and other consequential reliefs were transferred to a Civil Court. A question arose as to the amount of Court-fee and Brett J. (Richardson J., concurring) remarked as follows:—In these suits not only was relief claimed by correction of the entries in the record of rights but also such other reliefs as the plaintiffs might be entitled to. It is evident when such suits are tried by a regular Civil Court that Court is bound by the provisions of s. 7 of the Court-fees Act to determine the proper institution fee, and that this must be done with reference entirely to the reliefs claimed: Chandi Charan v. Manoranjon, 17 C.L.J. 416. The Notification of the Government of India published at page 222 Part I of the Gazette of India, 1911 cannot be regarded as an authority binding a Civil Court in the exercise of its powers under s. 7 of the Court Fees Act: Ibid.

Observation
in *Chandi Charan v.
Monoranjan*
contrary to
Kedarnath*,

It is submitted that the decision in the case of Chandi Charan v. Monoranjan, 17 C.L.J. 416 is upon the view that a Civil Court has wider powers when a suit is transferred to it under the proviso to s. 106; this view seems to be an obiter and opposed to the decision in the case of Nilmani v. Kedarnath, 17 C.W.N. 750.

A suit instituted under s. 106, although transferred to the ordinary Civil Court, is a suit for a declaratory decree within the meaning of Art. 17, cl. (3) of sch. II of the Court-fees Act, and is not chargeable with an advalorem fee: Sailaja Nath v. Chandi Charan, 28 C.L.J. 301. The cases of Satis Chandra v. Gopal Chandra, 12 C.L.J. 638 and Chandicharan v. Manoranjan, 17 C.L.J. 416 were discussed.

Applications:—The court-fees chargeable for applications or petitions under s. 106 are annas eight if the value of suit is Rs. 50 or above, and anna one if it is below Rs. 50: See Sch. II, cl. 1 (a) and 1 (b) of the Court Fees Act.

~~Calcutta Gazette: April 5, 1922, Part I p. 689. Notification No. 3789 L.R.—The 3rd April 1922. In exercise of the power conferred by s. 35 of the Court Fees Act, 1870, (VII of 1870) as amended by the Devolution Act, 1920 (XXXVIII of 1920), and in modification of the Government of India's Notification Nos. 1897F dated the 24th March 1911, published at p. 222 Part I of the Gazette of India of the 25th idem and No. 3119F dated the 22 May, 1911 published at p. 366 Part I of the Gazette of India of the 27th idem, the Governor in Council is pleased to reduce the fees chargeable under clause (iii) of Art. 17 of Sch. II of the Court Fees Act, 1870 (VII of 1870), as amended by the Bengal Court Fees Amendment Act, 1922, on plaint relating to suits instituted under s. 106 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885 (VIII of 1885), to the amount of an advalorem fee chargeable under Art. I of Sch. I of the Act in cases where the amount of such fee would be less than twenty rupees.*~~ Court-fees: S. 106: Present Law.

A Revenue-officer is competent to set aside an order passed by him under sec. 106 for non-payment of additional Court-fees found requisite on revision of the said order: Dhakeswar v. Iswardhari, 22 C.L.J. 57.

II. Onus:—In suit to correct an entry in a record of rights under s. 106, the onus of shewing that the lands in suit are mal is not on defendants: Sailaja v. Risheecase, 51 Cal. 135.

12. Dispute as to Standard of measurement:—A dispute as to the length of the standard of measurement to be used in measuring certain lands is not a dispute as to the correctness of an entry in the record-of-rights: Narahari v. Hari Charan, 26 Cal. 556; see also Anund Lal v. Shib Chunder, 22 Cal. 477. An order of a Settlement-officer deciding a dispute on a question of the local standard of measurement is not therefore appealable. Ibid. Length of the standard of measurement.

Under the former chapter it was held that under the terms of s. 108 a second appeal lay from the decision of a Special Judge on questions with regard to the prevailing standard of measurement, area of land in the possession of tenants, and the liability of the tenants to pay rent on account of any excess lands in their possession: Mathura Mohon v. Uma Sundari, 25 Cal. 34. Appeal.

13. Objections and disputes:—"The law as amended distinguishes between 'objections' which, under the present rules of the Government, are disposed of summarily and 'disputes,' which are disposed of formally after the manner of suits;" (Per Stevens, J.) Troylokya v. Macleod, 28 Cal. at p. 34. Objections and disputes.

It was held under the chapter, as it formerly stood, that the words "objection," and "dispute," as used in ss. 105 and 106 were used in the same sense: The Secretary of State v. Kalimuddy, 23 Cal. 257. As used in ss. 105 and 106.

Where the matter in dispute was dealt with under s. 106 of the Jurisdiction

former chapter before its repeal by Act III of 1898, B. C. held that there was nothing under s. 108 which limited the jurisdiction of the Special Judge to deal only with matters of objection taken after publication of the record-of-rights: Durga Churan v. Hari Churan, 21 Cal. 521.

Second appeal.

It was held under the Chapter, as it formerly stood, that a second appeal lay to the High Court under s. 108 (3) against a decision of a Special Judge in a case under s. 106 and where the decision was as to a boundary dispute between neighbouring proprietors of land it was not a decision about the correctness of an entry in the record-of-rights: Irshad Ali v. Kanta Pershad, 21 Cal. 935.

S. 106 requires that there should be a dispute and for this two parties are necessary: Mohunt Padmalav v. Lukmi Rani, 12 C.W.N. 8 at p. 10.

Boundary dispute.

A decision as to a boundary dispute between neighbouring proprietors of land is not a decision about the correctness of an entry in the record-of-rights: Irshad Ali v. Kanta Pershad, 21 Cal. 938.

See notes under s. 109A.

S. 108, sub-sec. 3.

14. Dispute before final publication of record:—The terms of s. 106 of the former chapter were held to be enough to include the case in which a dispute arose, even before the publication of the draft record, as to the correctness of an entry which the Revenue-officer proposed to make in the record that he was preparing and the decision of the Revenue-officer was a decision within the scope of sub-sec. 3 of s. 108 of the former chapter and a second appeal lay to the High Court from such a decision: Dengu Kazi v. Nobin Kisori, 1 C.W.N. 294 (F.B.); the decisions in the case of Gopi Nath v. Adoit Naik, 21 Cal. 776, and Anand Lal v. Shib Chunder, 22 Cal. 477, were overruled by the Full Bench case.

Correction of entry.

15. Cause of action:—In a suit by a rival landlord for correction of an entry on the ground that the estate claimed by the plaintiff erroneously recorded as defendant's, held that the cause of action arose on the date of the final publication of the record-of-rights: Mohunt Padmalav v. Lukmi Rani, 12 C.W.N. 8 (at p. 10).

Res-judicata: Old law.

16. Resjudicata:—The decision of a Revenue-officer under s. 106 of the former chapter was held to operate as res judicata between the parties in a subsequent suit between the same parties regarding lands which formed the subject-matter of the proceedings under s. 106: Joypal v. Mohunt Palukdhari, 2 C.W.N. 491; see also Gokul Shaha v. Jadu Nandun, 17 Cal. 721.

See notes under ss. 109 and 109A.

Relationship of landlord and tenant.

A decision under s. 106 as regards the question of relationship of landlord and tenant operates as res judicata: Jatindra Nath v. Azizarahaman, 71 I.C. 307.

A decision of a Revenue Court in a suit under s. 106 does not operate as res judicata in a subsequent suit by the aggrieved party in the Civil Court notwithstanding the introduction of cl. (dd) in sec. 102, as the Revenue officer has to go primarily upon the question of possession: Asfarannessa v. Heramba, 54 Cal. 114, s. c., 44 C.L.J. 467.

See notes under s. 102, heading no. 2.

17. Plaintiff:—A dispute under this section can only be decided Plaint. by the presentation of a plaint on stamped paper: Shambhu Chandra v. Purna Chandra, 35 Cal. 176; s. c., 12 C.W.N. 122: (at p. 125, col. 2, per Maclean, C. J.): s. c., 7 C.L.J. 103.

18. Execution of decree:—See notes under s. 105: Board's Manual 1909, part, 11, Chap. X, Rules 519 and 520, pages 136, 137.

19. Dismissal for default:—Where a suit under s. 106 is dismissed for default the order of dismissal is not a decision under s. 107, the word "decision" as used in s. 107 implies an adjudication on the merits: Parbati v. Toolshi Kapri, 18 C.W.N. 604.

20. Co-sharer Landlord:—It was decided in the case of Kali-charan v. Debendra Nath, 10 C.L.J. 458 that an application under s. 105 is not maintainable by one of two or more joint landlords; in regard to a suit under s. 106 their Lordships remarked (at p. 461) as follows: "But we are of opinion also that s. 106 itself furnishes ample evidence that it could never have been intended by the Legislature that an objection under that section should be jointly taken by all the landlords." See also Sher Bahadur v. Mackenzie, 7 C.W.N. 400. See notes under s. 105 heading No. 8 and s. 108.

A cosharer landlord cannot apply under s. 105, but may institute a suit under S. 106.

A suit by one of the co-sharers in a jote instituted at a time when Act XIV of 1882 was in force, for a declaration that an entry in the record-of-rights to the effect that the plaintiff and the defendant were joint tenants, was wrong on the ground that the plaintiff alone was the tenant and the defendant was his sub-tenant, is bad for misjoinder of parties: Sheikh Faiza v. Sheikh Joman, 19 C.L.J. 455.

Mis joinder, of parties.

21. Presumption under s. 50:—A tenant in a proceeding under s. 106 is entitled to the presumption under s. 50; Prithi Chand v. Sheikh Basarat Ali, 37 Cal. 30, s. c., 13 C.W.N. 1149, s. c., 10 C.L.J. 343 (F.B.); see also W. M. Grant v. Harsahai, 18 C.L.J. 76; Gobind Lall v. Ramsaram, 68 I.C. 433.

See notes under s. 115.

In a suit under s. 106 there is primarily a presumption in defendant's favour: Hari Kant v. Bibi Nurannessa, 53 I.C. 625.

22. Occupier and occupant:—A trespasser cannot be entered as an occupier or occupant in the record-of-rights at all: Umedulla v. Ramchandra, 14 C.W.N. 812; a purchaser of a non-transferable holding is a trespasser and his name cannot appear in the record-of-rights: Ibid.: if he has been so entered the entry may be corrected by a suit under s. 106: Ibid.

Trespasser not an occupier.

23. Parties:—Where in a proceeding under s. 105 for settlement of a fair rent, the landlord impugned the correctness of an entry in the record-of-rights and contended that the tenant was a raiyat and not a tenure holder, held that the tenant's tenant i.e., the under-tenant was not a necessary party: Jogendra Mohon v. Janakinath, 21 C.W.N. 427; it is submitted that the same rule will apply to a suit under s. 106.

See notes under s. 105.

24. Rent-free title:—In a suit under s. 106 for a declaration that an entry that the land was liable to be assessed to rent was incorrect, held that the proved possession free from payment of rent was sufficient to rebut the presumption that the lands were liable to be assessed to rent: Bipradas Pal v. Manorama Debi, 45 Cal. 574. See notes under s. 105.

25. Appeal:—See notes under s. 109A.

26. Abatement of appeal:—A suit by the tenants under sec. 106 of the B. T. Act for the correction of an entry of rent in the record of rights was dismissed by the A. S. O. but on appeal to the Special Judge it was decreed. During the pendency of an appeal to the High Court by the landlords one of them died and his legal representatives were not brought on the record, held that under Or. 22 r. 3 of the C. P. C., the appeal in respect of the deceased landlord had abated and in view of the nature of the suit he was a necessary party to the appeal, and the appeal had thereupon become incompetent: Naimuddin v. Maniruddin, 32 C.W.N. 299, s.c., 47 C.L.J. 82 (Cuming and Malik, J.J., May 10, 1927). Or. 41 r. 4 C. P. C. had no application to a case like this. Or. 41 r. 4 gives no power to the Court to vary or reverse a decree in favour of a person who is dead, whose legal representatives have not been brought on the record and in respect of whom the appeal has abated: Ibid.

27. Withdrawal of suit:—Where a suit was brought for declaration of title and recovery of possession under s. 106 and it was withdrawn without liberty to bring a fresh suit, held that a suit in the Civil Court for these reliefs was not barred in as much as a suit under s. 106 for these reliefs was entirely foreign to the jurisdiction of the Revenue Court: Aswini Kumar v. Saroda Charan, 24 C. L.J. 79.

28. S. 105A:—In the course of proceeding under s. 105 for settlement of fair and equitable rent, questions which would otherwise be determined at the instance of the aggrieved party in a suit under s. 106 may be investigated: Nawab Bahadur of Murshidabad v. Ahmad Hossein, 25 C.L.J. 556; see also Jatindra Narain v. Malu Haji, 51 I.C. 969.

29. Noting of orders: Correction of fraudulent entries: Civil Court's orders:

Bengal Survey and Settlement Manual, 1917, Part II, Chap. XVII.

Noting of orders on revision or appeal.

430. Notes of all rents settled and all decisions of disputes under sections 105, 105A and 106 or of orders on revision or appeal under sections 108 and 109A and on section 109 c, (2) and (3) must be made in the final record and other public copies by the Settlement officer, or if the Settlement officer has left the district, by the Collector. Corrections under section 108A must be similarly made in the record.

Correction of fraudulent entries.

431. It has been ruled that where it is desired to correct an entry in the finally published records that has been procured by fraud the Settlement officer has an inherent right to order excision of the fraudulent entry, and his act in doing so is a ministerial act, not open to appeal. At the same time the Settlement officer should make the correct entry that it is fraudulent, and either stating his reasons in the record or making in the record a reference to a proceeding in which those reasons have been stated, as may be more convenient.

Civil Court's order.

432 (a) The Act contains no provision enabling the record-of-rights to be corrected in accordance with the orders of a Civil Court. If a Settlement officer or a Collector is made a party to a suit in which a prayer for such correction in the record-of-rights is contained in the plaint, he should, in the course of its hearing, raise objection to that part of the plaint. In his written statement he should urge the want of jurisdiction on the part of the Civil Court to order any such alteration. Any order of a Civil Court purporting to order the correction of the record-of-rights should be brought to the notice of Government in order that the High Court may be moved to revise it under section 115 of the Civil Procedure Code.

(b) On the other hand every Civil Court trying a suit under section 106 or disposing of an appeal under section 109A, will communicate to the Collector of the district, a note of its final decision in the case for incorporation in the final record-of-rights (High Court Rules, Civil, Vol. I, Rule 39A).

30. Decrees.

Technical Rules of the Settlement Department, 1916 Page 112.

Para 50. It is necessary to specify clearly how each person concerned is affected. At the end should be recorded "ordered that, etc." The form of the decree shall be the same as prescribed by the High Court for decrees in original suits [Civil Process No. 20, pp. 270-271, High Court Rules (civil), Vol. II].....The decree must bear the date of the judgment, but it must also bear the date on which it is signed by the case officer.....No decree should be delayed more than a week after judgment.....

A decree is necessary in every case under s. 106 not dismissed for default.

31. Costs in proceedings under s. 106 :—Technical Rules and Instructions of the Settlement Department, 1916 Page 112, Para 52. Award of Costs of suits.
Costs should be allowed with discrimination. When allowed, pleader's fees should be awarded according to the local rules prevailing in Munsiff's Courts.

107. (1) In all proceedings under section 105, section 105A and section 106, the Revenue-officer shall, subject to rules made by the Local Government under this Act, adopt the procedure laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure for the trial of suits; and his decision in every such proceeding shall have the force and effect of a decree of a Civil Court in a suit between the parties, and, subject to the provisions of sections 108 and 109A, shall be final. Procedure to be adopted by Revenue-officer.

(2) A note of all rents settled under section 105, and of all decisions of issues or disputes under section 105A or section 106, and of all rents commuted under section 40 by a Revenue-officer appointed by the designation of Settlement Officer or Assistant Settlement Officer, shall be made in the record-of-rights finally published under sub-section (2) of section 103A; and such note shall be considered as part of the record.

1. Previous history of s. 107—Amendments, additions, and alterations :—S. 107 has undergone several changes ; the section as it stood before the passing of the Bengal Tenancy Amendment Act III B. C. of 1898 was as follows :—

Previous history.

Procedure to be adopted by the Revenue-officer.

107. In all proceedings for the settlement of rents under this chapter, and in all proceedings under the last foregoing section, the Revenue officer shall, subject to rules made by the Local Government under this Act, adopt the procedure laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure for trial of suits, and his decision in every such proceeding shall have the force of a decree.

By Act III B. C. of 1898 the following section was substituted for the section as it originally stood :

107 (1) In all proceedings for the settlement of rents under this Part, and in all proceedings under s. 106, the Revenue-officer shall, subject to rules made by the Local Government under this Act, adopt the procedure laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure for the trial of suits ; and his decision in every such proceeding shall have the force and effect of a decree of a Civil Court in a suit between the parties, and subject to the provisions of sections 108 and 109A, shall be final.

(2) A note of all rents settled and of all decisions of disputes by the Revenue-officer under section 105 or section 106 shall be made by him in the record-of-rights finally published under section 105A, sub-section (2), and such note shall be considered as part of the record.

Amendments.

By the Amending Acts of Bengal and East Bengal, viz., Act I B. C. of 1907 and Act I E. B. A. C. of 1908 the following amendments were made :

For the words and figures. "In all proceedings for the settlements of rents under this Part, and in all proceedings under s. 106" the words, figures and letters. "In all proceedings under section 105, section 105A and section 106" were substituted.

Former sub-section.

The present sub-sec. (2) was substituted by the same Acts, for the former sub-section :

2. Commission:—See Appendix III under heading "s. 189 : Local Enquiry under s. 107 (1).

"Shall be final."

3. Force of a decree of a Civil Court.....and shall be final :—In this section the words "shall be final" as stated before were introduced by Act I B. C. of 1907 and Act I E. B. A. C. of 1908.

Effect of the amendments.
Issue settled once under s. 105A. cannot be re-opened.

The effect of this enactment as amended is to bar for all time the possibility of raising any issue which was once settled in a dispute under s. 105A, and to make it incapable of being re-opened and incapable of being challenged : Mohendra v. Girish Chandra, 3 Pat. L.J. 379 at p. 384. A decision under s. 105A that the relationship of landlord and tenant does not exist between two persons is resjudicata in a subsequent suit : Ibid. The words "shall be final" were imported into the section to give finality to a decision under s. 105A: Effect of Amending Ibid. The amending enactment in the year 1898 supplies what was lacking when the decision of the Full Bench in Dharani Kant Lahiri v. Gaber Ali Khan, 29 Cal. 707 was decided: Ibid. Act of 1898.

Where the land comprised in A's holding was recorded as mal, and his landlord B made an application for settlement of fair rent and A set up lakheraj title but having adduced no evidence to prove his allegation, the Revenue officer assessed the holding to rent, held in a suit by A in the Civil Court for declaration of his nishkar lakheraj, that the Revenue officer had recorded a decision within the meaning of s. 107: Apurba Krishna v. Shyama Charan, 24 C.W.N. 223; where a question has been necessarily decided in effect though not in express terms between parties to a suit, they cannot raise the same question as between themselves in any other suit in any other form: Ibid; see also Gregory v. Molesworth, 3 Atk. 626; Soorjimoney v. Sudda-nand, 20 W.R. 377 and Pahalwan Singh v. Maharaja Muheshwar, 18 W.R. 182. Lakheraj title, decision in a proceeding for settlement of fair rent.

"S. 107 does indeed provide that a decision in a proceeding under s. 106 "shall have the force of a decree, but it does not necessarily follow that it shall in all cases operate as res judicata, for an ordinary decree of a Civil Court has not that effect except on certain conditions, which are set forth in s. 13, C. P. C." (Per Prinsep, Hill and Stevens, J.J.) Dharani Kant v. Gohar Ali, 30 Cal. 339, s. c., 7 C.W.N. 33 at p. 54; (on appeal to the Privy Council: 17 C.W.N. 389). "Force of decree," meaning of.

See notes under s. 103.

"Under s. 107 the decisions of the Settlement officer in all proceedings under the chapter are to have the force of a decree and under s. 108, cl. 2, an appeal lies to the Special Judge from all decisions of the Settlement-officer. But it is only in cases under s. 106 decided by the Special Judge that a second appeal lies to this Court," (High Court) "and such cases can only relate to disputes regarding the correctness of entries other than entries of rent settled:" (Per Trevelyan and Rampini J.J.), Gopinath v. Audoita Naik, 21 Cal. 776 at p. 781. Appeal.

Where an objection to certain entries with regard to enhancement of rent under s. 105 (2) was disallowed, it was held under the old chapter that the proceedings of the Settlement-officer were of an executive, rather than of a judicial character and did not operate either as res judicata or as a final decree under s. 107 estopping the plaintiffs from having the same matters tried by the regular Civil Court: The Secretary of State v. Kajimuddy, 23 Cal. 257. When a number of tenants occupied land under the same landlord and were joined as defendant in the same proceeding for the settlement of rent under s. 104, cl. 2 of the former chapter and an appeal to the Special Judge under s. 108, cl. 2 from the Revenue-officer's decision, held that as many Court-fees of Rs. 10 each as there were tenant defendants were payable: Upadhaya Thakur v. Presidh Singh (F.B.), 23 Cal. 723. The decision in the case of Shewbarat v. Nirpat, 16 Cal. 596, was dissented from and the decision in the case of Petu Gharai v. Ram Khelwan, 18 Cal. 667, was overruled by the Full Bench case of Upadhaya Thakur, 23 Cal. 723. Enhancement of rent.

Court-fee on memo. of appeal.

Where proceedings were taken under the second clause of s. 104 Decisions of the former chapter in consequence of applications made by the landlord for a settlement of the rent, held that the decisions under s. 107.

s. 107 had the effect of decrees and every thing necessary to be decided for the purpose of arriving at the decisions must be held to have been decided in them, that it was necessary to decide what was the fair and equitable rent and that it was res judicata between the parties in a subsequent suit brought by the tenant to have it decided whether the rent was enhancible or not: Durga Churn v. Hatem Mundal, 29 Cal. 252.

"Decision" in this section implies adjudication on merits and does not include order of dismissal for default. Where no appeal is preferred.

The decision of a Settlement-officer to which the force and effect of a decree of a Civil Court is given by s. 107 does not include an order of dismissal of a suit under s. 106 for default, the word decision implying an adjudication on the merits: Parbati v. Toolshi Kapri, 18 C.W.N. 604 s. c., 18 C.L.J. 128. See also Chiodith v. Tulshi, 17 C.W.N. 467.

See notes under s. 105 cl. (6).

Where a Settlement-officer made an assessment of rent under s. 104 which was not appealed against under s. 108, held that the decision of the Settlement officer was, in view of s. 107 read with s. 9 of the Bengal Tenancy Amendment Act, final: Dwaraka Nath v. Dambarahar, 38 Cal. 278.

4. S. 622, C. P. C. Act XIV of 1882 :—(S. 115 OF THE PRESENT CODE) :—It was decided under the former chapter i.e., as the chapter stood formerly, that with regard to an entry made by a Settlement-officer to which s. 106 did not apply, the High Court had jurisdiction to interfere under s. 622, C. P. C. : Shewbarat v. Nirpat, 16 Cal. 596.

As to whether a proceeding under s. 105 is a suit and whether s. 141 of the Civil Procedure Code is applicable: see notes under s. 105. As to the effect of the withdrawal of a suit: see notes under s. 109.

Res-judicata.

5. Res-judicata :—A decision in a proceeding under the second clause of sec. 104 of the former Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act, in consequence of an application made by a landlord for the settlement of rent was held to have the effect of a decree and the matters decided by such a decision could only be re-opened on an appeal to the Special Judge: Durga Charan Law v. Basir Mandal, 6 C.W.N. 238. See notes under s. 109.

Suit for cancellation of certificate.

6. Right of suit for alteration of rent. :—Where in a settlement proceeding the rent of a tenant was settled in the tenant's absence who did not appear, and the landlord whose estate was under the Court of Wards obtained a certificate for the arrears, held that in a suit brought by the tenant for the cancellation of the certificate and determination of the plaintiff's juma the decision of the Settlement-officer although admissible in evidence as to the tenant's rent, did not make the question of rent res judicata: Asutosh v. Abdool, 28 Cal. 676. An order made by a Revenue-officer under s. 107 determining the rent of a tenant cannot be questioned in a Civil Court when not set aside by appeal or otherwise and it has the force of a decree: Ram Autor v. Shonamon, 27 Cal. 167; see also Joypal v. Palukdhari, 2 C.W.N. 491; Gokul v. Jadu Nundun, 17 Cal. 721. See notes under s. 106.

Order under s. 107.

Ss. 106 to 109 do not bar a civil suit.

S. 109 does not apply to the facts of such a case: Ibid. It applies only where the matter in question is or has already been the subject of a suit instituted under s. 106: Ibid. Neither s. 109 nor s. 106 renders the institution of a suit under s. 106 compulsory or prevents the institution of a suit directly in a Civil Court: Ibid.

7. Where contest and where not :—It was decided before Where no the section was amended that in a case where there is no contest contest. whatever before the Settlement-officer the case does not fall under s. 107 : Pudmanand v. Ghanasyam, 32 Cal. 336, s. c., 9 C.W.N. 610 : s. c., 1 C.L.J. 134.

The presumption in favour of its accuracy raised by s. 109 would Presump- be sufficiently rebutted by a decree passed in a contested suit between tion. the parties : Ibid.

Where no objection is preferred under s. 105 and no dispute is Where no raised under s. 106, the decision of a Settlement-officer in proceed- dispute. ings for settlement of rents under s. 104, operates as res judicata as to the amount of rent annually payable under s. 107 : Brohmanunda v. Arjun Raut, 1 C.L.J. 310.

Where a settlement of rent was made under s. 104 (2) of the Settlement Bengal Tenancy Act, before its amendment by the Amending Act of 1898, the decision of the Settlement-officer had the effect of a of rent— decree under s. 107 of the Act (before amendment) and is evidence effect of a decree. in a suit for rent subsequently brought by the landlord even though it may not operate as res judicata : Mohim Chandra v. Kalitara, 11 C.W.N. 1028.

8. Right of suit :—A tenant has no right of suit when rent is settled under s. 104 (2) in a proceeding under s. 103 ; the remedy is by way of an appeal to the Special Judge : Durgacharan v. Hateen, 29 Cal. 252.

9. Withdrawal of application under s. 105 :—See notes under s. 109.

10. Cl. (2) :—Bengal Survey and Settlement Manual, 1917, Chap. XVII, Part II, page 105.

(a) The Act contains no provision enabling the record-of-rights Civil Court's to be corrected in accordance with the orders of a Civil Court. If a Court's orders. Settlement officer or a Collector is made a party to a suit in which a prayer for such correction in the record-of-rights is contained in the plaint, he should, in the course of its hearing, raise objection to that part of the plaint. In his written statement he should urge the want of jurisdiction on the part of the Civil Court to order any such alteration. Any order of a Civil Court purporting to order the correction of the record-of-rights should be brought to the notice of Government, in order that the High Court may be moved to revise it under section 115 of the Civil Procedure Code.

(b) On the other hand every Civil Court trying a suit under section 106, or disposing of an appeal under section 109A, will communicate to the Collector of the district, a note of its final decision in the case for incorporation in the final record-of-rights. (High Court's Rules, Civil, Vol. I, Rule 39A).

There is no provision enabling the Collector to note orders under section 104H in the record, but the Civil Court will notify any orders Orders under section 104H. passed under section 104H to the Collector of the district.

108. Any Revenue-officer especially empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, may, on application or of his own motion, within twelve months Revision by Revenue officer. from the making of any order or decision under section 105, section 105A, section 106 or section 107, revise the same, whether it was made by himself or by any other Revenue-officer, but not so as to affect any order passed or decree made under section 109A :

Provided that no such order or decision shall be so revised if an appeal from it is pending under section 109A or until reasonable notice has been given to the parties concerned to appear and be heard in the matter.

prehensive.

2. Scope of the section and revision of entry :—“It is worthy of note that the terms of this section are very comprehensive and that the Legislature has not prescribed any restriction either as to the class of questions which may be considered by the specially empowered Revenue-officer or as to the mode in which his jurisdiction is to be exercised. A specially empowered Revenue-officer is invested, under s. 108, with what may be described as power to review on the merits his own order or revise the orders made by another officer. If he reconsiders an order made by himself, he obviously exercises a power of review: if, on the other hand he examines the propriety of an order made by another Revenue-officer, he exercises revisional powers:” (Per Mookerjee J., Breachcroft J., agreeing): Parbati v. Tulsi Koeri, 18 C.L.J. 125. Where consent decrees have been made or ex-parte decrees passed, in suits under s. 106, their propriety is liable to be examined by an officer specially empowered in that behalf under s. 108: Ibid.

Consent decrees or ex-parte decrees.

This section does not warrant the Settlement-officer in revising the entries as to mal lands in the record-of-rights: Shambhu Chandra v. Purna Chandra, 35 Cal. 176, s. c., 12 C.W.N. 122: s. c., 7 C.L.J. 103 (at p. 126 col. 1).

Revision.

Under s. 108 a Revenue-officer may on the application of a person affected by an entry in the record-of-rights revise his decision under ss. 106 and 107: Jogendra Nath v. Krishna Pramada, 12 C.W.N. 1032.

The power under s. 108 is not restricted to revision of the decision or order on the merits; and thus a Revenue-officer is competent to set aside an order passed by him, for non-payment of Court-fees found requisite on revision of the said order, and to direct the payment of additional Court-fees within a prescribed time: Dakeshwar v. Iswardhari, 22 C.L.J. 57.

To enable a Settlement officer to revise an order under sec. 108 of the B. T. Act, it is sufficient if the application by the party for revision be made within 12 months of the order sought to be revised, even though the passing of the order revising it takes place more than 12 months after the order revised: Reshee Case v. Kedarnath, 30 C.W.N. 638 (Greaves and Pantton, J.J.).

3. Court-fees :—Appeals presented under s. 104G (1) to a superior Revenue authority and applications for revision presented under s. 108 and 108A will bear a Court-fee of eight annas per tenancy under Sch. II (1) (b) of the Court Fees Act, if the superior Revenue authority is of lower standing than a Commissioner of a Division. If the authority is a Commissioner of a Division or the Director of the Department of Land Records, or if an application for revision is made to the Board under s. 104G (2), the fee will be one rupee per tenancy under Sch. II (1) (c) of the Court Fees Act: Settlement Manual, 1908, Part I, Ch. VII, Rule 175, p. 54.

[Note.—The Court-fee payable in Bihar on application under ss. 108 and 108A is 12 as.—See Appendix XIII at the end of this book.]

4. Correction of errors :—See notes under s. 108A.

5. Effect of bona-fide mistake. :—Where in a proceeding under s. 105 the Court decided that the tenant was settled raiyat but on account of a bonafide mistake the tenant was recorded as a durari mourashi raiyat in the ordering portion of the judgment, that a correction of the mistake could not be made under s. 108 but a notice to the tenant, and the latter is entitled in a regular suit to have a declaration that the order under s. 108 is without jurisdiction; and such a suit is not barred by s. 109: Iswar Chandra Kamiruddin, 28 C.W.N. 4 (notes). See notes under s. 105.

6. Appeal :—An order under s. 108 is liable to be challenged by way of appeal under sub-sec. (2) of s. 109A: Parbati v. Tulsi, 18 C.L.J. 125; Dhakeswar v. Iswardhari, 22 C.L.J. 57.

108A. Any Revenue-officer specially empowered by the Local Government in this behalf may, on application or of his own motion, within twelve months from the date of the certificate of the final publication of the record-of-rights under sub-section (2) of section 108, correct any entry in such record-of-rights which is unsatisfied has been made owing to a bona fide mistake:

Provided that no such correction shall be made if an appeal affecting such entry is pending under section 109A, or until reasonable notice has been given to the parties concerned to appear and be heard in the matter.

Note :—This section was inserted by s. 30 of Ben. Act I of 1908.

Select Committee's Report.

The Select Committee in their report on the Bill of 1906 said : "It has been pointed out to us that, under the law as it stands, the Revenue officer has no power to correct errors in the settlement record after final publication, unless they are made the subject of dispute under sec. 106. In the millions of entries which find place in a settlement record some clerical errors are bound to creep up in and it seems desirable to have a cheap and ready means of correcting them. We propose therefore that any Revenue officer specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government should be able to correct bonafide mistakes, after giving due notice to all the parties concerned."

Mistakes other than obvious errors may also be corrected.

Inherent power of Settlement officer to correct clerical errors.

Mistake as to area.

Accuracy of record.

2. Scope of section :—S. 108A has a much wider scope than the correction of obvious errors or incidental slips in a record of rights ; it entitles the Settlement officer to correct the record where there has been a bonafide mistake ; such mistake need not necessarily be the mistake of the Settlement Officer ; it may very well be a mistake by one of the parties ; this section in substance authorises a Settlement officer to reconsider the matter on the merits : Rajmohon v. Alam Gazi, 17 C.W.N., 625, s.c., 16 C.L.J. 339 ; where a clerical or arithmetical error is to be corrected, the Settlement officer has inherent power to do the needful : Ibid. Where an appeal in proceeding under s. 105 was dismissed by the Special Judge, the question being as to the rate of rent and not to the area, and subsequently the Settlement Officer having discovered a mistake as to the area corrected it, held that the correction was not under s. 108A but under the inherent power of the Settlement Officer : Ibid. Every court has inherent power to take steps for the preservation of the accuracy of its records : Baul Chand v. Sris Chandra, 19 C.L.J. 251.

When the record of rights was accurately drawn but an interpolation and forgery were committed in the records, held that the Settlement Officer has inherent authority to set the record right : Ibid. ; this is not a case of correction of an entry made in the record of rights owing to a bonafide mistake : Ibid.

Second appeal.

3. Appeal :—An appeal against an order of the Settlement Officer purporting to act under s. 108A lies to the Special Judge ; a second appeal to the High Court if the Special Judge purports to act under s. 109A, sub-sec. (2) : Baul Chand v. Sris Chandra, 19 C.L.J. 251. Where a Settlement Officer purporting to act under s. 108A corrected an interpolation which had been made in the record of rights and the Special Judge on appeal set aside the correction, held that a second appeal lay : Ibid.

4. Court-fees :—The Court-fee payable under s. 108A was eight annas previously under rule 66 of the Local Government Rules. It has now been increased to twelve annas : See Government Notification in the Appendix IX. As to Court fees in Bihar see under the previous section heading No. 3.

Bar to jurisdiction of Civil Courts.

109. Subject to the provisions of section 108, a Civil Court shall not entertain any application concerning any matter which is or has already been the subject of an application made, suit instituted or proceedings taken under sections 105 to 108 (inclusive).

Headings of Notes.

1. AMENDMENTS.
2. INTERPRETATION OF THE SECTION IN VIEW OF THE AMENDMENTS.
3. INTERPRETATION OF THE SECTION: MEANING OF THE WORDS "SUBJECT OF AN APPLICATION MADE, SUIT INSTITUTED OR PROCEEDINGS TAKEN UNDER SECTIONS 105 TO 108 (BOTH INCLUSIVE)."
4. RIGHT OF SUIT: RES-JUDICATA.
5. DEFENCE.
6. LIMITATION.

I. Amendments:—S. 109 was introduced by Act III, B. C. of 1898. In this section, for the words and figures "or suit instituted, under section 105, section 106, section 107 or section 108," the words, figures and brackets "suit instituted or proceedings taken.....(both inclusive)" were substituted by Beng. Act I of 1907 and East Beng. I of 1908.

2. Interpretation of the Section in view of the Amendments:—Ss. 105 and 109 were inserted in the Bengal Tenancy Act Act III, B. C. of 1898; sec. 105A was subsequently introduced by s. 26 of Act I, B. C. of 1907 in Bengal and Behar, and by Act I (B. Council) of 1908 in East Bengal. This should be borne in mind in interpreting s. 109 as it at present stands. S. 109 was also amended by the said Acts of 1907 and 1908; and, amongst others, the alterations made are as follows:—
 The words and figures "sections 105, 105A, 106, 107 and figures "section 105, sect. 106, 107, or section 108 (both inclusive)" were substituted for the words "sections 105, 106, 107, or section 108 (both inclusive)".

S. 109 was first introduced by Act III B. C. of 1898.

It thus appears that the words in s. 109 as to bar to jurisdiction of Civil Courts ("a Civil Court shall not entertain any application or proceeding in relation to any matter which is or has already been the subject of an application") should now bear an interpretation different from that which it bore before the introduction of s. 105A and amendment of s. 109 in 1907 and 1908 in Bengal and East Bengal respectively.

Effect of amendment: Interpretation.

Illustrations and Explanations.

A tenant brought a suit in the year 1900 (i.e. after the passing of Act III, B. C. of 1898, but before amendment by the Acts of 1907 and 1908) for settlement of fair and equitable rent under s. 105; the suit was dismissed upon the tenant defendant's holding which had been assessed on the record of rights as liable to assessment of rent. The tenant then brought a suit subsequently in the Civil Court for a declaration that his holding is nishkar or lakheraj (i.e. rent free); s. 109 is not within the jurisdiction of the Civil Court to entertain the suit, the question being that it was not within the scope of s. 105 before 1898. The question of lakheraj and rent was to be assessed on the record of rights in the Record-of-Rights (s. 105A had not then been introduced).

A brought a suit in the year 1910 i.e. after the passing of Act I B. C. of 1907 and Act I. E. B. A. of 1908 for settlement of a fair and equitable rent of a holding which had been recorded as a holding liable to assessment of rent. On account of the introduction of s. 105A, it was within the scope of s. 105 for the Revenue officer to determine the status of the tenant defendant whether he sets it up or not. Rent is assessed and then the tenant brings a suit in the Civil Court for a declaration that he has lakheraj or niskar (rent-free) title ; s. 109 is a bar to such a suit, the reason being that according to s. 109 the matter as to the tenant's status of alleged title had already been the subject of an application under s. 105 in as much as by the introduction of s. 105A, such a question could have been decided under s. 105. It should further be mentioned that s. 109 also underwent an alteration and s. 105A was also included in s. 109. S. 109 as it originally stood contained the figures and words "section 106, section 107 or section 108" but the alterations which were made by Act I, B.C. of 1907 and Act I, E. B. A. C. of 1908 by inserting the figures and words "sections 105 to 108 (both inclusive)".

Interpretion of the words "subject of an application,
etc."

3. Interpretation of the section: meaning of the words "Subject matter of an application made, suit instituted proceedings taken under ss. 105 to 108 (both inclusive)."

There was a conflict of authority as to the meaning of the words. To properly understand the question it is necessary to state when a proceeding is taken under either of the sections 105 to 108 by the party

- (i) may withdraw the application or suit with liberty to bring a fresh one,
- (ii) may withdraw the same without such liberty,
- (iii) may by default get the application or suit dismissed,
- (iv) or the application or suit might be decided by the court.

In the 4th case no difficulty arises ; for a fresh application is apparently barred.

But the difficulty arises in cases (i), (ii) and (iii), i.e. if an application or suit is withdrawn either with liberty or without to bring a fresh one or the case is dismissed for default, can it be said that the civil suit is barred by s. 109, or in other words, that the matter was the subject of application or suit.

Full Bench.

In regard to case No. (i) the following question was referred to a Full Bench :

When an application under s. 105 of the Bengal Tenancy Act for settlement of rent is withdrawn with liberty to bring a fresh suit, whether a suit for enhancement of rent is barred by the provisions of s. 109 of the Bengal Tenancy Act.

It was held by the majority of the Full Bench in the case of Purna v. Narendra, 52 Cal. 894, s.c., 29 C.W.N. 755 ; s.c. 456* that the civil suit was barred—and that it was quite immaterial whether the suit was withdrawn or not.

Suhrawardy J.

Suhrawardy J., who was a member of the Full Bench, dissented from the view taken by the majority, and he held that by of the application with liberty to bring a fresh one it was no longer the subject matter of application under s. 105.

It is submitted with great respect to the majority of the Judges who decided the Full Bench case that the view taken by Suhrawardy J. seems to be the sound one. The subject matter of an application or suit which is not decided by the Court for whatever reason cannot be considered to be the subject of the application or suit. It ceases to be the subject. For example, if a Court deciding a case under s. 105 is invited to decide certain matters, of its own motion, and leaves a question open can it be said that the parties are debarred from raising that question in a subsequent suit; the plain answer should be "no."

The decision of the majority of the Full Bench should how- Present law.
ever be considered to be the present law so far as regards the Calcutta High Court is concerned.

The case of Saroj v. Umed, 25 C.W.N. 1022, s.c., 35 C.L.J. 19 Cases-over-

4. Right of suit: Resjudicata :—In the case of Nawab S. 109 not a Bahadur of Murshidabad v. Ahmad Hossain, 44 Cal. 783, s.c., 21 bar to a suit C.W.N. 1004, s.c., 25 C.L.J. 556, it was held that s. 109 is no bar where the to a suit in a Civil Court for declaration of a tenant's status, which question of was not raised in a proceeding under s. 105 by virtue of which rent status was was settled; it was further held that the introduction of s. 105A not raised in had made no change in the law in this respect as laid down in a proceeding sion in the case cited above (Nawab Bahadur of Murshidabad v. Ahmad Hossain) as explained by their Lordships is that s. 109 requires that the Civil suit should have for its subject a matter which has already formed and not one which might have formed the subject of an application under s. 105.

During the settlement proceedings certain holdings were Assessment recorded in the record-of-rights as rent paying, and liable to assess- in s. 105 ment of rent. Thereafter the landlord applied under s. 105 of the proceeding Bengal Tenancy Act, to have fair and equitable rent settled in as rent-by the landlord, and that the decisions of the Revenue officer were not binding upon them, held that s. 109 of the Bengal Tenancy Act was no bar to the maintainability of the suits: Priyambada Debi v. Priyanath, 30 C.W.N. 826, s.c., 43 C.L.J. 327. (Suhrawardy and Mukerji, JJ.). [Nawab Bahadur of Murshidabad v. Ahmad, 44 Cal. 783, s.c., 21 C.W.N. 1004, s.c., 25 C.L.J. 556 followed. Purna v. Narendra, 52 Cal. 894, s.c., 29 C.W.N. 755, s.c., 41 C.L.J. 456 (F.B.) and Apurba v. Shyama, 24 C.W.N. 223 distinguished.]

The decision of the Full Bench in Purna v. Narendra, 52 Cal.

894 is not intended to give such a wide meaning to the words of s. 109 of this Act, as to lay down that any matter which though not directly the subject matter of an application before the Revenue officer under s. 105 was indirectly or impliedly involved in the determination of that application should be taken as a matter which was the subject of the application made before the Revenue officer : Ibid.

Consolidation of jamas.

The defendant tenant held 13 jamas under the plaintiff. There was settlement and survey under the Bengal Tenancy Act and the record was prepared by the Settlement officer and these 13 jamas were amalgamated and the rent shown to be Rs. 170 odd. After the final publication of the record an application was made by the landlord under sec. 105 of B. T. Act for assessment of fair and equitable rent. The main objection of the tenant defendant in that proceeding being that he did not hold one jama but 13 separate jamas under the landlord and the Settlement officer was wrong in consolidating those jamas without his consent. That proceeding was still pending. In the meantime the landlord instituted a rent suit with reference to one of those holdings. The munsiff dismissed the suit, holding that the suit was not maintainable under sec. 109 B. T. Act, held that the suit for rent was maintainable, sec. 109 of the B. T. Act not being a bar: Sarat Chandra v. Monmohon, 46 C.L.J. 46. (Majumdar, J.). [Nawab Bahadur of Murshidabad v. Ahmad Hossein, 44 Cal. 783, s.c., 21 C.W.N. 1004, s.c., 25 C.L.J. 556, followed: Apurba Krishna Roy v. Shyama Charan, 24 C.W.N. 223, not followed.]

Suit for rent.

Where two suits were instituted claiming rent for two separate holdings and the defence taken was that there was a single holding with a much lower rent as shown in the record-of-rights and that the suits were barred under section 109 being the subject matter of previous proceedings under Ss. 105 and 106 which were dismissed for default: held, that a suit for rent is for relief against an alleged grievance which the plaintiff is entitled to institute under the general law, and it is not concerning any matter which may form the subject of an application or suit under section 105 or 106. That the dismissal for default not being an adjudication on the merits did not amount to a decision so as to operate as res judicata and a bar to the suits. Mahendra Nath v. Prabal Chandra, 53 Cal. 475. (Suhrawardy and Mukerji, JJ.). The cases of Purna Chandra v. Narendra Nath, 52 Cal. 894 (F.B.), s. c., 29 C.W.N. 755; and Parbati v. Tulsi Kapri, 18 C.W.N. 604 referred to.

Lands, if included in one jama or not.

There was a record of rights in which the disputed lands were recorded as forming part of one jama. The landlord then made an application for increase of rent under section 105. There was a decision and the rent was increased. Then a suit was brought for a declaration that the record of rights recording the two lands in two schedules as appertaining to one jama was erroneous, held the question whether the lands given in the two schedules of the plaint were included in one jama or not was not a matter about which the application under s. 105 was made. It may be that the area of the land for which application was made for increase of rent by the landlord was taken into consideration. But the question in dispute in the suit cannot be said to be a matter which was subject of the application under section 105: Basantā Kumari v. Benimadhab, 95 I.C. 788, s. c., A.I.R. (1926) Cal. 1058 (B. B. Ghose and Panton, JJ.).

S. 109 is a bar only in respect of matters which are legally the subject matter of the investigation under Ch. X: Aswini Kumar v. Saroda Charan, 24 C.L.J. 79; suits for declaration of title and for recovery of possession are entirely foreign to the jurisdiction of a Revenue officer under s. 106: Ibid; see notes under s. 106 where this case has been discussed.

A Revenue-officer when hearing an application for settlement of rent, has jurisdiction to enquire as to whether a tenant belongs to the class to which he was shown in the record-of-rights; it is not competent to a Civil Court under s. 109 to enquire into the status of a tenant, which was the subject of enquiry before a Revenue-officer: Bepin Krishna v. Hari Das, 27 C.L.J. 210.

The decision of a Revenue-officer in a proceeding initiated by the landlord under s. 105 (before amendment by Act I B.C., of 1907), as to what is fair and equitable rent is no bar to a suit by the tenants for a declaration that the lands in respect of which the rents have been settled were lakheraj or were held at fixed rents. Sashi Bhusan v. Sheikh Eshabar, 19 C.W.N. 636; s. 109 is no bar as it was not competent to the Revenue officer in a proceeding under s. 105 to go behind the finally published record-of-rights: Ibid. By the introduction of s. 105A it is now competent to a Revenue officer in a proceeding under s. 105 to go into the question of lakheraj or as to the status of tenant; so it is submitted that now s. 109 will be a bar to such a suit.

It has been accordingly held by N. R. Chatterjea and Duval JJ., in the case of Apurba Krishna v. Shyama Charan, 24 C.W.N. 223, that s. 109 is bar to a civil suit by a person for declaration of nishkar—lakheraj title when in a proceeding under s. 105 the same question arose and rent was assessed on account of the failure of the defendant in the proceeding under s. 105 to adduce evidence in support of his allegation of lakheraj title.*

It was held by Mookerjee and Fletcher J.J., in the case of Abeda Khatun v. Majubali Choudhury, 24 C.W.N. 1020, that where an application for enhancement of rent under s. 105 on the ground, inter alia, of increase in area, was dismissed for non-prosecution and a suit for enhancement on the same ground was subsequently brought, the suit was barred by s. 109.

But it has been held in the case of Bibi Salcha v. Antu Ram, 43 I. C. 972 that a proceeding under s. 106 which is dismissed for default does not operate as a bar to a subsequent suit by virtue of the provisions of s. 109; and that s. 109 in order to operate as a bar to a subsequent suit presupposes the existence of a decision by the Settlement officer on the merits of the claim.

In the cases of Cheoditti v. Tulsi Singh, 40 Cal. 428, s.c., 17 C. W.N. 467, and Kamini Sundari v. Abdul Habin, 28 C.L.J. 254 it was held that an application which had been made under s. 105 and subsequently withdrawn without liberty reserved to make fresh application was to be treated as one never made, and consequently a

* It was also held that the Revenue-officer had recorded an issue within the meaning of s. 107.

Civil suit upon the same cause of action was not barred. But these cases were in effect dissented from by Mookerjee C.J. and Fletcher J., in the case of Abeda Khatun v. Majubali Chaudhury, 24 C.W.N. 1020, Mookerjee C.J., after referring to the above two cases says:— "In our opinion these cases are clearly distinguishable, even if we assume that they were correctly decided. An application which has been made, whether it is withdrawn or whether it is dismissed for non-prosecution, is nevertheless an application made within the meaning of the provisions of sec. 109. We are clearly of opinion that the provisions of that section should be strictly enforced and not whittled down, as appears to be the effect of the two decisions mentioned." Where it was decided in a case under s. 105 that there was no relationship of landlord and tenant, that decision operates as resjudicata in a suit for ejectment by the landlord: Mahendra Narayan v. Girish Chandra, 3 Pat.L.J. 379.

Where an application was made for enhancement of rent and withdrawn with liberty to bring a fresh suit, held that a suit in the civil court upon the same cause of action is not maintainable in view of the provisions of s. 109: Sasikanta v. Salim, 50 Cal. 626, s. c., 27 C.W.N. 987 (B. B. Ghose, J., Walmsley J. concurring). There is no provision in the B. T. Act that an application made under s. 105 and subsequently withdrawn has the effect that such application has never been made: Ibid. [The following cases were distinguished: Saroj Kumar v. Umed Ali, 25 C.W.N. 1022, s. c., 35 C. L.J. 19. Abeda Khatun v. Majub Ali, 48 Cal. 157, s. c., 24 C.W.N. 1020, s. c., 33 C.L.J. 304.]

Having regard to the conflict of decisions on the point the question was referred to the Full Bench as to whether a suit in a Civil Court was barred in case an application under s. 105 is withdrawn with liberty to bring a fresh suit and it was held by the majority of the Full Bench that the suit was barred: Becharam v. Purna, 52 Cal. 894, s. c., 29 C.W.N. 755, s. c., 41 C.L.J. 456 (F.B.) and the majority of the Full Bench approved of the case of Abeda Khatun v. Majubali, 48 Cal. 157; and Sasi v. Salim, 50 Cal. 626. See notes under this section under the previous heading.

"In our opinion it is obviously clear what was the meaning and intention of the Legislature in enacting s. 109. It was to avoid conflicts arising between the Revenue courts on the one side and the Civil Courts on the other; and when an issue is decided by a Revenue Court having jurisdiction, as in this case, under s. 105, the decree having the force and effect of a decree of a Civil Court, an action was capable of being entertained by a Civil Court in connection with any matter decided in the proceeding under s. 105." Ramdayal v. Genda Tewari, 1 Pat.L.J., 479 at p. 481; where the status of the plaintiff was decided in a proceeding under s. 105, the same question cannot be re-opened in a regular suit: Ibid.

Meaning and intention of the Legislature in enacting
s. 109.

S. 105.

A suit brought to impugn that which was the subject matter and the result of the proceedings taken under s. 105 is not maintainable in view of s. 109: Sheodhani v. Beni Pershad, 16 C.L.J. 67.

The effect of s. 109 which lays down a rule of evidence is not to over-ride the rules of res judicata which are of general application Pudmanunda v. Ghanashyam, 32 Cal. 336, s. c., 1 C.L.J. 134; the presumption under s. 109 in favour of the accuracy of an undisputed entry as to the rate of rent is sufficiently rebutted by the decree in a contested suit in the parties shewing a different rate: Ibid.

Where a tenant in his appeal before the Special Judge against an order for the settlement of rent purporting to have been made under s. 102 of the Bengal Tenancy Act did not take the objection that the settlement of rent was made contrary to the provisions of that section and without jurisdiction—and the decision of the Settlement-officer was affirmed by the Special Judge, held that the matter was res-judicata and would not be re-opened in the Civil Court owing to the operation of ss. 107, 109 and 109A of the Act: Mohim Chandra v. Kalitara, 11 C.W.N. 939.

See notes under s. 107.

S. 109 clearly indicates that s. 109 did not provide an exclusive remedy against erroneous entries in the record of rights: Pandab Dowari v. Ananda Kisan, 14 C.W.N. 897, s.c., 12 C.L.J. 195; see also Mukii Nath v. Rameswar, 15 C.W.N. 57.

No civil suit lies at the instance of the tenant in regard to a rate of rent settled under s. 104 (2) in a proceeding under s. 103; the remedy is by way of an appeal to Special Judge: Durga Charan v. Hateen, 29 Cal. 252.

A suit for assessment of rent is maintainable in a civil court: s. 109 is no bar to such a suit: Berhumdut v. Ramji Ram, 18 C.W.N. 466.

S. 109 is no bar to a suit for a declaration that proceedings under Chap. X of the Act were vitiated by fraud: Nawab Bahadur of Murshidabad v. Ahmad Hossain, 44 Cal. 783, s.c., 21 C.W.N. 1004, s.c., 25 C.L.J. 556.

A civil suit lies to correct an entry in the record-of-rights prepared under the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act. The fact that a proceeding under s. 106 of the Act for rectification of the entry was commenced and withdrawn without leave to institute fresh proceedings, does not make the suit incompetent: Mahommed Ayejuddin Mia v. Prodyot Kumar Tagore, 48 Cal. 359, s.c., 25 C.W.N. 13, s.c., 61 I.C. 503.

Where it was impossible for the Settlement Officer to assess a fair rent under s. 105 without ascertaining the area, held that s. 109 was a bar to a subsequent suit for abatement under s. 52 in as much as the question of area was one of the matters which was the subject of the proceeding under s. 105: Kesho Prasad v. Bhagwat, [1924 Pat.] p. 18.

In an application by the landlord under s. 105 of the Bengal Tenancy Act for enhancement of rent on the ground of rise of prices of staple food crops [s. 30 cl. (b)], the rent was settled; subsequently the tenant brought a suit for abatement of rent under s. 52; held that s. 109 was no bar to the maintainability of the suit: Kesho Prasad v. Bhagwat, 67 I.C. 710, (Das J.); the case of Nawab Bahadur of Murshidabad v. Ahmad Hussain, 44 Cal. 736, s.c., 21 C.W.N. 1004, s.c., 25 C.L.J. 556.

A previous dismissal of an application by the tenant for an abatement of rent on the ground that there had been a decrease in area does not debar him in a subsequent rent suit from contending that there had been a decrease in area and hence he was entitled to an abatement of rent: Benga v. Bejoy, 91 I.C. 738, s.c., A.I.R. (1926) Cal. 513.

Ejection
of a transferee.

Where a non-transferable holding had been purchased by a person and he was entered in the record-of-rights as a tenant, and subsequently the landlord brought a suit under s. 106 for correction of the entry and the suit was dismissed, held in a subsequent suit by the landlord to eject the purchaser, that the decision under s. 106 was res judicata and final: Jatindra Nath Chowdhury v. Azizur Rahaman Shaha, 50 Cal. 79.

Declaration of rent-free
title.

S. 109 is a bar to a suit for declaration of plaintiff's rent-free title when a suit under s. 106 for correction of the entry after establishment of his rent-free title was dismissed for default: Apurba Krishna v. Atarmani, 64 I.C. 889.

Compromise—Res-
judicata.

Where a decree for rent is passed at a rate lesser than the rate settled by a compromise under s. 105, held that the decision in the Civil suit does not operate as res judicata in view of s. 109: Ravaneswar v. Younus Momin, 6 Pat.L.J. 588, s.c., [1922 Pat.] p. 68, s.c., 65 I.C. 474. See notes under s. 105.

Defence to
not a bar.

5. Defence :—S. 109 is a bar to the entertainment of an application or suit and not the entertainment of a defence to an action: Rajendra Narain v. Kalim, 49 Cal. 857. The case of Apurba Krishna v. Shyama Charan, 24 C.W.N. 223 was distinguished, in which case it was decided that a suit by a person for a declaration of lakhiraj title was not entertainable in view of a decision under s. 105 where his rent was settled on the application of the landlord and where the plea of lakheraj had been taken though not decided in express terms.

6. Limitation :—See notes under s. 103B, heading no. 9 and s. IIIA.

Appeals from decisions of
officers.

109A. (1) The Local Government shall appoint one or more persons to be a Special Judge or Special Judges for the purpose of hearing appeals from the decisions of Revenue-officers under section 105 to 108 (both inclusive).

XIV of 1882.

(2) An appeal shall lie to the Special Judge from the decisions of a Revenue-officer under sections 105 to 108A (both inclusive), and the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to appeals shall, as nearly as may be, apply to all such appeals.

XIV of 1882.

(3) Subject to the provisions of Chapter XLII of the Code of Civil Procedure, an appeal shall lie to the High Court from the decision of a Special Judge in any case under this section (not being a decision settling a rent) as if he were a Court subordinate to the High Court within the meaning of the first section of the Chapter:

Provided that, if in a second appeal the High Court alters the decision of the Special Judge in respect of any of the particulars with reference to which rent of any tenure or holding has been settled, the Court may settle a new rent for the tenure or holding, but in so doing shall be guided by the rents of the other tenures or holdings of the same class comprised in the same record as ascertained under section 102 or settled under section 105 or section 108.

Headings of Notes.

1. AMENDMENTS.
2. POWER OF JUDGE TO REVIEW HIS JUDGMENT.
3. APPEAL : SECOND APPEAL : WHERE APPEAL LIES AND WHERE NOT.
4. LIMITATION : FILING OF APPEAL.
5. APPEAL IN CASES WHEN A CASE UNDER S. 106 IS TRANSFERRED TO CIVIL COURT.
6. REVISION BY HIGH COURT.

1. Amendments :—In sub-sec. (2) after the figures "108", the letter "A" was inserted by Bengal Act I of 1907 and E. B. Act I of 1908.

2. Power of Judge to review his judgment :—See notes under s. 108.

3. Appeal : Second Appeal : Where appeal lies and where not :—An appeal does not lie from an order of remand passed by a Special Judge under the Bengal Tenancy Act : Mathur v. Chandra Tara Sanker, 7 C.W.N. 440 ; Mathura v. Basanta, 16 Cal. 510 ; Debi Prasad v. Official Trustee, 37 C.L.J. 314.

The words 'a decision settling a rent' do not in our opinion mean and include any decision upon the question what is or what ought to be the rent. They mean only a decision settling a rent in the sense of fair and equitable rent in place of the existing rent, and the words do not include a decision determining what the existing rent is. This is clear in our opinion from sections. 104 to 109A, if read together. The words settling a rent, are in our opinion, used in a technical sense and not in what might be their ordinary signification : Per Banerjee and Harington, J.J., Ramani Pershad v. Mahanth Adaitya Gossain, 31 Cal. 380 ; the principle in the case of Mathura Mohon v. Uma Sundari, 25 Cal. 34, was followed.

The words "not being a decision settling a rent" in s. 109 (3) refer not only to a decision by which existing rents are varied but also to a decision by which existing rents are maintained as fair and equitable ; the words "settle a fair and equitable rent" in s. 105 (1) do not exclude a case in which the existing rent is not varied : Pameswar v. Bhoobaneswar, 4 C.L.J. 138 ; where in a proceeding under s. 105 the rent was not enhanced but the existing rent was maintained, held that no second appeal lay : Ibid. But where the decision of the Judge does not settle a fair and equitable rent but merely proceeds on the ground that there was no excess land and therefore no rent to be settled an appeal lies : Raj Kumar v. Ram 5 C.L.J., 538. (See also W. M. Grant v. Ram Rekha, 14 C.L.J. 110.

Where on a consideration of the application for settlement of fair and equalable rent as a whole, the court is not satisfied that the only matter dealt with by that application is settlement of rent within the meaning of those words in s. 109A of the B. T. Act, there is a right of second appeal: Sibakumari v. Doshi Ghosain, 46 C.L.J. 555.

Area.

An appeal lies to the High Court from a decision of the Special Judge fixing the area for which the tenant must pay rent in as much as it is not a "decision settling a rent" from which an appeal is barred by s. 109A; but no appeal lies from that part of the decision which relates to the rent that ought to be assessed upon the land held by the tenant: Akbar Ali v. Hira Bibi, 16 C.L.J. 182; the cases of Mathura Mohon v. Uma Sundari, 25 Cal. 34 and Raj Kumar v. Ram Lal, 5 C.L.J., 538 were followed; the case of Rameswar v. Bhoobaneswar, 4 C.L.J. 130 was not followed.

An appeal lies where the questions are as to the extent of the area and enhancement: Midnapur Zemindary Co. v. Sridhar, 49 Cal. 866, s.c., 36 C.L.J. 96.

Where rent is not settled for want of excess land.

Where in a proceeding under s. 105 the District Judge on appeal did not settle a fair and equitable rent on the ground that there were no excess lands and accordingly there were no lands in respect of which he might be called upon to settle a fair and equitable rent, held that a second appeal lay as a decision of this description was not a decision settling a rent: Raj Kumar v. Ram Lal, 5 C.L.J. 538.

Amount of enhancement.

"It appears to me that part of the Special Judge's decision which determines the amount of enhancement is "a decision settling a rent" within the meaning of sec. 109A of the Bengal Tenancy Act and therefore no appeal lies against it": Sajiwan Mahto v. Gulab Chand, 1 Pat.L.J. 409. The expression "settling a rent" includes enhancement and therefore s. 109A bars a second appeal when rent is enhanced: Rampat Mahto v. Ram Gulam, 20 C.W.N. 48 (notes).

Enhancement.

Where in a proceeding under s. 105 a question arose as to whether the rent was liable to enhancement, a second appeal lies under s. 109A: Govinda v. Manmatha, 62 I.C. 677.

Illegally settling a rent.

Where a Special Judge acted illegally in settling the rent, held that his decision is not open to second appeal: Mahabir v. Shat Malikuddin, 38 I.C. 32.

S. 584 of Act XIV of 1882.

Clause (3) of s. 109A makes applicable to an appeal to the High Court from the decision of a Special Judge the provisions of Chapter XLII of the Code of Civil Procedure 1882, and the right of appeal is therefore limited by the provisions regulating the right of appeal to the High Court from a subordinate court contained in s. 584 of the Code, the power as to the regulation of rents being dependent and consequent upon alteration of the judgment on specified grounds, and only such grounds are permissible: Nafar Chandra Pal Chowdhury v. Shukur Sheik, 46 Cal. 189 (P.C.), s.c., 23 C.W.N. 345.

Question as to whether S. 188 applies.

A second appeal lies against a decision in a proceeding under s. 105, when the decision is regarding the maintainability of the suit: Mahadheva v. Awadh, 65 I.C. 349; in this case the lower appellate Court decided the question as to whether s. 188 was a bar to institution of the proceeding.

In a proceeding under s. 105 a decision upon the question status is liable to be challenged by way of second appeal: Sarat Chandra v. Taraprasanna, 36 C.L.J. 333, s.c., 70 I.C. 437. Question of status.

Where a question as to whether a tenant is a fixed raiyat cannot be urged in second appeal to the High Court when there was no appeal to the Special Judge upon that question: Raja Singh v. Kishun Behari, 41 I.C. 499.

An appeal lies against an original order of a Special Judge refusing to set aside an abatement of appeal, and s. 109A is no bar: Krishna Das v. Samsan, 37 C.L.J. 139. The case of Monmatha v. Gadadhar, 45 Cal. 638 was followed. Original order of Special Judge.

An appeal against an order of the Settlement officer purporting to act under s. 108A lies to the Special Judge and a second appeal to the High Court if the Special Judge purports to Act under s. 109A, sub-sec. (2): Baul Chand v. Siris Chandra, 19 C.L.J. 251. S. 108A.

No second appeal lies from the decision of the Settlement-officer settling rent: Shambhu Chandra v. Purna Chandra, 35 Cal. 176: Ram Bishen v. Rajab Ram, 33 Cal. 837. The words "not being a decision settling a rent" in sub-sec. (3) include cases where existing rents are sought for, amongst other grounds for increase of area, in such a case no second appeal lies: Raneswar v. Bhoobaneswar, 4 C.L.J. 138. See also Shewbarat v. Nirpat, 16 Cal. 596; Lala Kirat Narayan v. Palukdhari, 17 Cal. 326. No second appeal from an order settling a rent.

In a proceeding under s. 105 for settlement of rent where upon the application of the tenant the Settlement-officer altered the entry in the record-of-rights recording as lakheraj lands which had been put down as mal, a second appeal was entertained at the instance of the appellant: Shambhu Chandra v. Purna Chandra, 35 Cal. 176: s.c., 12 C.W.N. 128; s.c., 7 C.L.J. 103. Lakheraj or mal.

S. 109A is no bar to an appeal in a case of a settlement of rent in which a question of jurisdiction is definitely raised, (the question of jurisdiction in this case was that the Settlement Officer had no jurisdiction) as the holding was a homestead one and as such the B. T. Act did not apply: Ramdas v. Biprodas, 19 C.W.N. 35. Question of jurisdiction.

A Special Judge on appeal against a decision under s. 105 dismissed the application on the ground that it had not been shewn that the plaintiff's claim to assess the land to rent had been made within the period permitted by the general law of limitation, held that as the decision was not a decision settling a rent a second appeal lay: Preobast Narain v. Mural Bei, 13 C.W.N. 204 (notes). Question of limitation.

There is no right of second appeal in proceeding for settlement of rent under s. 105: where the Settlement officer as well as the Special Judge tried matters coming under ss. 105 and 106 without discriminating them in their judgments, a second appeal lies: Kali Kishore v. Gopi Mohun, 9 C.L.J. 574. A Special Judge has jurisdiction to hear appeals from the decision of a Settlement officer in his district regarding dispute and settlement of rent relating to land out-side the district but included in an estate recorded in the Collectorate register of the district: Ibid. Ss. 105, and 106. Jurisdiction.

No appeal lies to the High Court from the decision of a Special Judge under s. 109A sub-sec. (3) from the finding that the present rent must be maintained in as much as the plaintiff failed to prove Where present rent is maintained.

any excess, as it was a decision settling a rent: W. M. Grant v. Ram Rekha, 14 C.L.J. 110.

Where Special Judge confirms first court's decision as to status of tenant.

Where defendants were recorded as occupancy raiyats, and the landlord having made an application under s. 105 for settlement of rent the tenants set up that they were raiyats at fixed rates, the Settlement Officer did not give effect to their contention, and the order being appealed against the Special Judge upheld the decision of the first court, held on second appeal that no appeal lay: Naimuddin v. Ram Rangini Dasi, 13 C.W.N. 220.

S. 50.

Where in a proceeding under s. 105 the Settlement Officer held that the rent was not enhancible by virtue of s. 50 and on appeal the Settlement officer held that the rent was enhancible, held that a second appeal lay: Bishesur v. Rajendra Kumar, 18 C.W.N. 949.

Liability to pay rent.

It was held by Chapman J., in the case of Pramatha v. Kaligunga, 19 C.W.N. 45 (notes) that the question whether the land was liable to payment of rent or not, was a question which required to be and ought to have been determined in the proceedings under s. 105.

Measurement.

Power of Appellate Court:—A special Judge in an appeal arising not of a proceeding under s. 105 is entitled to allow a deduction on the measurement on the ground that the measurement was not a scientific one: The Midnapur Zemindary Company Limited v. Kristo Prosad, 46 I.C. 544.

As to validity of 10 p.c. deduction from area ascertained by measurement:—see notes under s. 52 heading No. 28 p. 343.

Appeal from order.

S. 588 C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882) does not apply to orders under s. 106 of the Bengal Tenancy Act; s. 109A of the Bengal Tenancy Act limits the power of the High Court to the hearing of second appeals and not appeals from orders either under s. 558 or s. 560 C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882): Mathuranath v. Basunta Kumar, 36 Cal. 510.

Appeal dismissed for default.

An appeal lies from an order refusing to rehear an appeal dismissed for default, even though such appeal has been preferred under s. 109A, sub-sec. (2) in a suit under s. 106: Manmatha Nath v. Gadadhar, 45 Cal. 638, s. c., 28 C.L.J., 155, the case of Mothur Chandra v. Tara Sankar, 7 C.W.N. 440 was distinguished.

S. 52.

When in a proceeding under s. 105 a claim for additional rent under s. 52 is refused by the Special Judge on the ground that the excess area alleged is not proved, a second appeal is not barred by s. 109A: Jnanada Sundari Chowhurani v. Amudi Sarkar, 43 Cal. 603 (F.B.), s. c., 20 C.W.N. 428, s. c., 23 C.L.J. 281; if in any proceeding under s. 105 questions under s. 105A have been investigated and determined, the order of the Revenue-officer, though in form an order which settles a fair and equitable rent, does in substance embody a decision of questions within the scope of s. 105A, and consequently of s. 106; such a question is liable to be challenged by way of second appeal to the High Court and s. 109A is no bar (Pér Mookerjee J.): Ibid.

Questions under s. 105A.

The decision of the lower appellate Court fixing the rent payable by the tenant is not appealable. But an appeal lies where the question raised relates to the competency of the Court to settle rent: Ra Sundar v. Satindra, 85 I.C. 190, s. c., A.I.R. (1926) Cal. 85 (Suhrawardy and Cuming J.J.).

Plaintiff commenced ~~proceedings~~ under sec. 105 for settlement of fair and equitable rent in respect of certain lands. The defendants contested the case on the ground that they held the lands in dispute on a fixed rental as a permanent, heritable, transferable and mokurari tenure. The Settlement officer held that the defendants were entitled to the presumption under sec. 50. Against this decision an appeal was preferred to the Special Judge who held that the holding in suit was a non-mokurari tenure and liable to enhancement of rent and he remanded the case to the lower Court for assessment of fair and equitable rent, held that the issue whether the defendants were non-mokurari tenure-holders or they were permanent tenure holders paying rent which is fixed in perpetuity, being the cardinal issue in the proceeding, the order of the Special Judge was a decision under sec. 109A and, therefore, second appeal was competent : New Beerbhoom Coal Co. v. Jyoti Prosad, 31 C.W.N. 936 (Panton and Mitter J.J.). It was held further, that with regard to the question whether the tenure was liable to enhancement or not, the decision of the Special Judge was a final decision and the order was final and not interlocutory and, therefore, right of appeal from this order would not cease with disposal of suit : Ibid.

tion under
s. 50.

4. Limitation : Filing of appeal :—The schedule prepared in a proceeding under s. 105 under Rule 63 sub-rule (g) of the Statutory Rules framed by the Bengal Government is a decree and in calculating the period of limitation for preferring an appeal time should be taken as running from the date of the schedule : Dharani Kanta Lahiri v. Amir Sheik, 22 C.W.N. 20 (notes portion) ; this case has been fully reported in 44 I.C. 152.

a decree.

The period of limitation for preferring a second appeal against the decision of a Special Judge is ninety days from the date of the decision in a case under s. 105 and 105A and not from the date on which a memorandum is added to the decision stating the amount of costs incurred in the case : Sheikh Golab v. Janki Koer, 5 Pat. L.J. 472.*

5. Appeal in cases where a case is transferred to Civil Court :—Where a suit under s. 106 is transferred to a Civil Court and decided by a Munsiff, the appeal does not lie to the Special Judge, and the competency of the Civil Court is to be ascertained under the Civil Procedure Code, and the attributes of the competency of the Civil Court would follow from the transfer, and as such the Subordinate Judge is competent to hear the appeal : Kshirod Govinda v. Gour Gopal, 27 C.L.J. 281.

transfer of case to Civil Court.

6. Revision by High Court :—The Court of Special Judge is a Court subordinate to the High Court and the High Court has power to interfere under s. 15 of the Charter in cases where no second appeal lies : Upadhaya Thakur v. Persidh Singh, 23 Cal. 723.

* In an appeal to the Special Judge in a proceeding under s. 105 and s. 105A after the decision was passed on the 4th February, 1919, the Special Judge passed an order on the 4th May 1919 as follows : "Respondent to pay Rs. 13-8-0 as costs of this appeal to appellant."

Part IV.—Supplemental Provisions.Bengal and Bihar.East Bengal.

Power of Revenue officer to give effect to agreement
mise.

109B. (1) In framing a record-of-rights, and in deciding disputes, under this Chapter, the Revenue-officer shall give effect to any lawful agreement or compromise made or entered into by any landlord and his tenant; but he shall not give effect to any agreement or compromise the terms of which, if they were embodied in a contract, could not be enforced under this Act.

(2) Where any agreement or compromise has been made for the purpose of settling a dispute as to the rent payable, the Revenue-officer shall, in order to ascertain whether the effect of such agreement or compromise would be to enhance the rent in a manner, or to an extent, not allowed by section 29 in the case of a contract, record evidence as to the rent which was legally payable immediately before the period in respect of which the dispute arose.

(3) Where the terms of any agreement or compromise are such as might unfairly or inequitably affect the rights of third parties, the Revenue-officer shall not give effect to such agreement or compromise unless and until 109B. In all proceedings under this Chapter, the Revenue-officer may presume that an agreement or compromise made or entered into by any landlord and his tenant is lawful; but, when the terms of the agreement or compromise are such as might unfairly or inequitably affect the rights of third parties, he shall not give effect to such agreement or compromise until he has given reasonable notice to such third parties to appear and be heard in the matter and unless and until he is satisfied that the statements made by the parties to the agreement or compromise are correct.

There are no sub-secs. (2) and (3) in East Bengal.

he is satisfied by evidence that the statements made by the parties thereto are correct.

Illustration.—A, a proprietor, agrees that B, his tenant, shall be recorded as an occupancy-raiyat: this affects the rights of the tenants of B. The Revenue-officer must, under sub-section (3), inquire whether B is a tenure-holder or a raiyat, as defined in section 5. If he finds on the evidence that B is a raiyat, he may give effect to the agreement, but shall not do so if he finds that B is a tenure-holder.

Notes :—The enquiry under sub-sec (1) of s. 109B is obviously contemplated in a case where the agreement or compromise has been made for the purpose of settling a dispute, namely, a dispute which the Revenue-officer would be called upon to decide on the merits but for the agreement or compromise; Bata Mandal v. Manindra Chandra, 19 C.W.N. 321; s. 109B clearly does not apply to a case, where the contract between the parties was made several years before the Settlement proceedings: Ibid.

Bengal and Bihar.

109C. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 109B, if, in any case while the record is being prepared, the landlord and tenant agree as to the rent which shall be recorded as payable for the tenure or holding, a Revenue-officer specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government may, if he is satisfied that the rent agreed upon is fair and equitable, but not otherwise, settle such rent as a fair and equitable rent, although the terms of the agreement are such that, if they were embodied in a contract, they could not be enforced under this Act; and the East Bengal.

109C. A note of all rents settled, and of all decisions of disputes, on revision or appeal, under section 108 and section 109A, shall be made in the record-of-rights finally published under sub-section (2) of section 103A; and such note shall be considered as part of the record.

Power of Revenue-officer to settle rents on agreement.

There are no sub-sections (2) and (3) in East Bengal.

provisions of section 113 shall apply to a rent so settled.

(2) A landlord or tenant may appeal to the Special Judge appointed under section 109A, on the ground that the rent settled by the Revenue-officer, under sub-section (1), as a fair and equitable rent, was not agreed to by such landlord or tenant, and on no other ground.

(3) The Board of Revenue may, on application made, or of its own motion in proceedings undertaken, within one year from the date of the order, under sub-section (1), settling a rent as a fair and equitable rent, direct the revision of the rent so settled :

Provided that no such direction shall be made until reasonable notice has been given to the parties concerned to appear and be heard in the matter.

Inserted by Beng. Act I of 1907 and E. B. A. Act I of 1908.

I. Strict compliance :—In every case where the provisions of this section are invoked there should be a strict compliance with its requirements. Where the rent agreed upon was in contravention of s. 29 and the Revenue Officer passed the following order under s. 109 C. : “The defendant agrees. Though the increase is rather large the attested compromised rent may be settled as fair and equitable” : “It was held that s. 109 C. does not contemplate settlement of fair and equitable rent on the basis of such an ambiguous order : Maydhan-nessa Bibi v. Satis, 37 C.L.J. 118.

See notes under s. 147A.

2. Agreement not binding on mortgagee :—Where on a compromise in a proceeding under s. 109 C. the tenant agreed to pay nagdi rent in lieu of produce rent, and the rent settled was much low in consideration of heavy nazarana paid to the landlord, held that the mortgagee of the landlord who subsequently purchased the landlord's interest was not bound by the rent settled : Mathura Rai v. Babu Mandil, [1921 Pat.] p. 165.

Mortgagee not bound. by compromise made with mortgagor landlord.

Bengal and Bihar.East Bengal.

109D. A note of all rents settled, and of all decisions of disputes, on ~~revision or appeal, under~~ section 108, section 109A, or sub-section (2) or sub-section (3) of section 109C, shall be made in the record-of-rights finally published under sub-section (2) of section 103A; and such note shall be considered as part of the record.

Note of decisions on record.

There is no Section 109D in East Bengal; but s. 109C of East Bengal is almost to the same effect as s. 109D in Bengal and Bihar.

1. 109D was inserted in Bengal by Act I, B.C., of 1907.

110. When a rent is settled by a Revenue-officer under this Chapter, it shall take effect from the beginning of the agricultural year next after the date of the decision fixing the rent or (if a settlement of land-revenue is being or is about to be made) the date of final publication of the Settlement Rent-roll:

- (a) if the land is comprised in an area, estate or tenure in respect of which a settlement of land-revenue is being or is about to be made, the rent settled shall, subject to the provisions of sections 191 and 192, take effect from the expiration of the period of the current settlement, or from such other date after the expiration of that period as may be fixed by the Revenue-officer;
- (b) if the land is not comprised in an area, estate or tenure as aforesaid, and if the existing rent has been fixed by a contract binding between the parties for an unexpired term of years, the rent settled shall take effect from the expiration of that term, or from such other date after the expiration of that term as may be fixed by the Revenue-officer.

Notes :—When the landlord applies under sec. 105 of the B. T. Act for settlement of fair and equitable rent and has obtained an enhanced rent fixed by the Settlement Officer, he is bound by the terms of sec. 110 of that Act which provides that such settlement of rent shall take effect from the beginning of the agricultural year next after the date of the decision fixing the rent and it is not open to him to sue on the contract for back rents of the additional area found by the Settlement Officer: Chandi Charan v. Meher Banu, 52 Cal. 910 (Cumming and Chakravarti J.J.).

Stay of proceedings in Civil Court during preparation of record-of-rights.

111. When an order has been made under section 101, directing the preparation of a record-of-rights, then, subject to the provisions of section 104H, a Civil Court shall not,—

(a) where a settlement of land-revenue is being or is about to be made—until after the final publication of the record-of-rights, and

(b) where a settlement of land-revenue is not being made or is not about to be made—until three months after the final publication of the record-of-rights, entertain* any application made under section 158, or any suit or application for the alteration of the rent or the determination of the status of any tenant, in the area to which the record-of-rights applies.

Suit for possession and mesne profits.

2. Right of of suit in Civil Court:—Where a suit was brought by the landlord for possession and mesne profits by ejectment of the defendants from certain lands in respect of which a survey and preparation of record-of-rights had been ordered under Chapter X as amended by Act III, B.C., of 1898, and in which record the defendants had already been recorded as tenants and plaintiff's objections to such records were existing at the date of the suit, held that there was no legal bar to the maintenance of the suit in the Civil Court: Troilokya v. M. N. Macleod, 28 Cal. 28.

* MEANING OF “ENTERTAIN”: S. 91 of the Chota Nagpur Tenancy Act is somewhat analogous to this section. It has been held that s. 91 of that Act merely provides that the Civil Court shall not entertain a suit of a particular description; that does not mean that the suit, if instituted, shall be dismissed; and that the proper course is to adjourn the trial of the suit until the final publication of the record of rights: Ramnarain v. Lachmi Narain, 17 C.L.J. 239.

S. III does not apply to such a suit because it is not a suit for S. III. the determination of the status of a tenant: Ibid.

Where in a suit for ejectment against an alleged under-raiyat, the defendant claimed that he was an occupancy raiyat and contended that the suit should be stayed until three months after the final publication of the record of rights by reason of sec. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act, held that sec. III did not apply: Kshemananda v. Rashamaya, 32 C.W.N. 132 (Rankin, C. J. and Costello J.). Sec. III of the B. T. Act does not mean that in any case where the tenant chooses to raise a question as to status, the landlord is prevented from taking action in the Civil Court under the ordinary law: Ibid.

Although a suit lies for the alteration of rent, such a suit after the lapse of time, cannot be maintained in the guise of a suit for the amendment of a certificate obtained for the altered rent by the landlord under the Public Demands Recovery Act: Asutosh v. Abdool, 28 Cal., 676. Suit for cancellation of certificate.

By operation of s. 9 of Act III, B.C., of 1898, the Civil Court is precluded from adjudicating the question as to the assessment of rents of certain lands where the same question was decided by the settlement authorities: Nabin Chandra v. Radhakishore, 11 C.W.N., 859. Assessment of rent.

An order of the Special Judge affirming the fair rent fixed by the Settlement-officer has under s. 107 the force of a decree and cannot be opened under ss. 109 and 109A: Mohim Chandra v. Kalitara, 11 C.W.N. 930. Order of Special Judge affirming fair rent.

The first part of the section prohibits suits which seek to take undue advantage of more technical defects in the procedure leading up-to, or involved in the settlement proceedings: Nasirulla v. Amiruddi, 3 C.L.J. 133; the proviso, in virtue of which suits of a declaratory nature may be brought, cannot be read as prohibiting suits for the recovery of arrears of rent alleged to be due from tenants: Ibid. Suit for rent.

3. Limitation :—It is doubtful whether Art. 14 or Art., 122 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act applies to a suit, for the alteration of rent: See Asutosh v. Abdool, 28 Cal. 678. Suit for alteration of rent.

Art. 14 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act has no application to such a suit: Ramgulum v. Bishun Pargash, 11 C.W.N. 48.

4. Suit prematurely filed :—A suit for alteration of rent instituted within three months of the final publication of the Record-of-rights should not be dismissed altogether but should be stayed until the expiry of this period: Hira Koer v. Lachman Gope, 19 C.W.N. 1141; on appeal from a decision of the lower appellate court dismissing such a suit, the three months having expired long ago, the High Court directed a trial of the suit on the merits do novo, the appellant being directed to pay the costs of the lower appellate Court and of the High Court: Ibid; see also Ramnarain v. Lachmi Narayan, 17 C.W.N. 408, s. c., 17 C.L.J. 239. Suit prematurely filed cannot be dismissed.

5. Shall not entertain :—Following the cases of Hira Koer v. Lachman Gope, 19 C.W.N. 1141 and Ram Narain v. Lachmi Narayan, 17 C.W.N. 408, s. c., 17 C.L.J. 239, it was held in the case of Promode Nath v. Basiruddin, 51 Cal. 250, s. c., 28 C.W.N. 631, s. c., 40 C.L.J. 177; that the expression "shall not entertain etc." includes cases not only not already instituted but cases where suits Stay of suits instituted previous to order for have already been instituted but not tried, and such suits should also be stayed.

Order under
s. 104.

6. Alteration of rent :—The alteration referred to in this section is an alteration of the rent as it is at the time when the order under s. 104 is made. A suit for excess rent upon a contract for the years which preceded the year in which an order under Ch. X is made is not a suit for alteration of rent within the meaning of this section: Ramjan v. Amjad, 20 Cal. 903. The object of this section is that two proceedings shall not go on simultaneously for the determination of the same matter: Ibid.

alteration
of rent.

The expression 'suit for alteration of rent' in this section includes not merely a suit of the nature described in s. 52, but also a suit for enhancement of rent under s. 30: Brojendra Kisore v. Khalil Nagarchi, 21 C.L.J. 489.

What suit

7. Old law :—In October 1890 the Government made an order under the former Chapter X for a record-of-rights and settlements of rent in the part of the country in which the land in suit lay; a suit was brought in April 1891 to recover rent due for the magi years 1249, 1250 and 1251, corresponding to 1887-1889, A.D.: the plaintiff claimed under the terms of a kabuliyat which provided that if it was found that the defendant held land in excess of the area specified in the kabuliyat, he should pay excess rent at a stipulated rate; it was urged in the suit that a measurement had been made previous to the time for which rent had been claimed, that excess land had been found, and that the defendant was liable to pay the additional rent claimed; held that the suit must be regarded as one for arrears of rent and not a suit for alteration of the rent within the meaning of clause (a), s. 111 of the Tenancy Act: Ramjan Ali v. Amjad Ali, 20 Cal. 903. Their Lordships (Macpherson and Banerjee, JJ.) in delivering judgment said as follows:—

rent.

The alteration there referred to is an alteration of the rent as it is at the time when the order under sec. 104 was made; an alteration which would have a prospective and not a retrospective effect, and the suit for the alteration of rent which is prohibited by that section points, in our opinion, to a suit in which the alteration would be of the same description as that which the Revenue-officer is empowered to make under Chapter X. What has to be determined in this suit is not the rent which the defendant would be liable to pay for future years. The question here is, what is the amount of rent now due under the terms of his contract for the years which preceded the year in which the order under Chapter X was made, and it seems to us to make no difference that the decision of that question might involve as regards those years some alteration of the rent which had been previously paid. The object of s. 111 clearly is that two proceedings shall not go on simultaneously for the determination of the same matter, such as a suit for the alteration of the rent, putting upon these words the meaning which we have done. If that meaning which we have done is the right one, it is clear that this suit would not clash with any proceeding held by the Settlement-officer for the determination of the rent which the defendant henceforward would have to pay.

s. 111.

8. Recognition of intermediate tenure holders :—A settlement-holder is bound to recognise intermediate tenure-holders mentioned in the settlement papers and no suit lies for a declaration negating the existence of such intermediate tenures: Chandra Mohon v. Manmath Nath, 11 C.L.J. 68, referred to and followed in Tapanidhi v. Pitamber, 5 C.L.J. 67.

9. Suit for possession :—Where in a suit for possession on the allegation that the defendant was a trespasser, the defendant set up a tenancy and pleaded that the suit was not maintainable as settlement proceedings were in progress in respect of the village in which the land was situated, held that the suit was not one for the alteration of the rent or the determination of the status of any tenant within the meaning of s. III and was consequently not barred: Rajaram v. SheoPersad, 3 C.L.J. 63n. Suit for possession.

10. S. II5 :—As to the meaning of the word “recorded” in s. II5 S. II5. there is the following observation in the judgment of the Full Bench in the case of Pirithi Chand v. Sheikh Basarat, 37 Cal. 30, s. c., 13 C.W.N. 1149, s. c., 10 C.L.J. 341. “It is not necessary to consider in this case whether ‘recorded’ means recorded after all chances of an amendment of the record under any other provision of the chapter are over, including a suit as contemplated by s. III.”

111A. No suit shall be brought in any Civil Court in respect of any order directing the preparation of a record-of-rights under this Chapter or in respect of the framing, publication, signing or attestation of such a record or of any part of it, or, save as provided in section 104H, for the alteration of any entry in such a record of a rent settled under sections 104A to 104F : Limitation of jurisdiction of Civil Courts in matters, other than rent, relating to record-of-rights.

Provided that any person who is dissatisfied with any entry in, or omission from, a record-of-rights framed in pursuance of an order made under section 101, subsection (2), clause (d), which concerns a right of which he is in possession, may institute a suit for declaration of his right under Chapter VI of the Specific Relief Act, 1877.

Headings of Notes.

1. RIGHT OF SUIT AND LIMITATION.
2. ALTERATION OF RENT.
3. PROVISO.
4. COURT FEES.

I. Right of suit and Limitation :—S. IIIA provides that no suit shall be brought in any civil court in respect of any order directing the preparation of a record of rights, etc., but where the order itself is not attacked but the condition under which it was issued in as much as they did not fulfil the requirements of s. 101 (2) (a), the case is not covered by the section: The Secretary of State v. Purnendu, 40 Cal. 123, s. c., 17 C.W.N. 1151. When a regular suit may be brought.

Where no question as to entry of rent settled or an omission to settle rent is concerned, a suit by a tenant for a declaration that an entry in the record of rights describing him as a tenure-holder is erroneous and for a declaration that he is an occupancy raiyat is not a suit under s. 104H but falls within the category of suits referred to Limitation.

in the proviso to s. 111A and may be brought within 6 years: Promoda Nath v. Asiruddin, 15 C.W.N., 896.

A suit for a declaration that an entry contains a new statement may be instituted within 6 years of the date when the cause of action arises: Ramgulum v. Bishnu Pargash, 11 C.W.N. 48; Art. 14 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act has no application: Ibid.

Effect of entry.

An entry in a Record-of-Rights neither creates or extinguishes rights and therefore it is not necessary to sue for a declaration that an entry in a Record-of-Rights is wrong before bringing a suit for enhancement of rent: Brij Behari v. Sheo Sankar, 2 Pat. L.J. 124.

Declaratory suit.

Where in a Record of rights A was entered as a tenant under B and liable to pay rent at a certain rate, and B subsequently obtained decrees for rent, held that a suit by A for a declaration that A was a Lakheraj raiyat on the land, held that such a suit was one under s. 111A although no reference was made in the plaint to the Record of Rights: Sheikh Amiruddin v. Sheikh Sadar Rahaman, 1 Pat. L.J. 73 at p. 76. "Although no reference is made to the Record-of-Rights, the effect of the declaration which the plaintiff seeks will be to correct the Record-of-Rights, and that being so it makes no difference whether the plaintiff does in so many words attack the Record-of-rights or not" (Per Mullick, J.): Ibid.

Limitation.

The period of limitation for bringing such a suit is six years from the date of the publication of the Record: Sheikh Amiruddin v. Sheikh Saidar Rahaman, 1 Pat. L.J. 73 (Per Mullick, J.), followed in Brij Behari v. Sheo Sankar, 2 Pat. L.J. 124. If the suit is merely for a declaration it is one under s. 111A, and the plaintiff cannot by adding a prayer escape the six years rule of limitation: Ibid.

Challenge to plaintiff's right.

"It is clear that where there is a definite challenge to the Plaintiff's rights by an entry made in the Record-of-Rights and where the fact is patent that the plaintiff must have been aware of that challenge to his rights the suit if brought upon that challenge must be brought in accordance with the six years rule of limitation. If inspite of the challenge the plaintiff retains possession of the property he is not required to institute any suit upon that challenge but may institute a suit at any time within six years of any new challenge which has the effect of prejudicing his rights." Ramji Ram v. Lala Sadhu, 2 Pat. L.J. 493. See also Saroj Kumar v. Umedali, 25 C.W.N. 1022.

Consecutive Record-of-Rights.

When there are two consecutive Records-of-Rights, the party aggrieved by the successive entries may bring a suit for declaration that the entry in the second is wrong without challenging the entry of the first record: such a suit although brought six years after the first record is not barred by limitation: Sheik Latafat v. Kumar Ganganand, 3 Pat. L.J. 361.

Suit for declaration of rent-free title.

A suit for a declaration that the plaintiff had a rent-free title is substantially one under s. 111A because the declaration would have the effect of correcting the Record-of-Rights: Sheikh Amiruddin v. Sheikh Saidar Rahaman, 1 Pat. L.J. 73.

S. 101.

S. 111A applies only to a case where the Record-of-Rights was framed in pursuance of an order under s. 101 sub-sec. (2), cl. (d), but not to a case where the Record-of-Rights was prepared at the instance of the landlord under s. 101, sub-sec (2) cl. (4): Nawab Bahadur of Murshidabad v. Ahmad Hussain, 35 I.C. 695.

S. 104H.

Where in a suit the following reliefs were asked, (1) that the plaintiff's who were recorded as tenure holders be declared as occupancy raiyats, (2) that certain lands might be declared as included in the right which the plaintiffs may be held to have, (3) that proper rents may be fixed of the lands in the possession of the plaintiffs and time for payment of the said rent may be fixed, (4) that the tenants under the plaintiffs may be held to have no rights, as settled raiyats or occupancy raiyats, (5) that the tenants under the plaintiffs may be declared Korfa tenants (under-raiyats), held that so far as relief (3) was concerned, the suit was one under s. 104H and was governed by the special law of limitation, but that the claim for other reliefs was outside the scope of that section, and within the scope of s. 42 of the Specific Relief Act and Art. 120 of Sch. I of the Limitation Act: Rajani Kant v. Secretary of State, 47 I.C. 820.

A suit for a declaration that the plaintiff was an occupancy raiyat is within the proviso to s. 111A and not under s. 104H: Kumeda Prosanna v. The Secretary of State, 19 C.W.N. 1017.

The period of limitation for a declaration that the tenant had a status different from what was recorded does not run from the date of the decision of the dispute and the suit was held to be within time, the same having been brought within 6 years from the date of the final publication: Badaruddin v. Sarafaddin, 68 I.C. 489. Suit not barred—six years from date of final publication.

A suit for enhancement brought more than 6 years after the date of final publication of the record-of-rights in which the tenant was recorded as a fixed raiyat is not barred by limitation: Sheo Pratap v. Sheo Gulam, 72 I.C. 781. It is not necessary to sue for a declaration that an entry in the record-of-rights that a raiyat entered as a fixed raiyat is wrong, before instituting a suit for enhancement: Ibid. Enhancement suit.

Although a previous claim may be barred by limitation under s. 104H, he may yet maintain a suit coming under s. 111A: Palan Meah v. The Secretary of State, 65 I.C. 669. Limitation.

In a suit under s. 42 of the Specific Relief Act by plaintiff for a declaration that the status of the defendant in respect of a certain tenure is not that of a permanent tenure-holder as recorded in the record-of-rights, the period of 6 years limitation under Art. 120 Sch. I of the Limitation Act is to be computed from the date of the final publication of the record-of-rights and not from the date when the certificate was signed: Prodyat Kumar v. Bal Gobinda, 41 C.L.J. 31. Limitation in a suit for declaration that entry is wrong—time to be computed from the publication date of the record-of-rights, and not from the date when the certificate was signed.

In this case it was not disputed in arguments as it appears from the judgment that Art. 120 of the Limitation Act applies to such a case; it is submitted that this view of the law is open to doubt. In order to come to a correct conclusion on this point it is necessary to examine the provisions of s. 103B. That section only provides that the entry shall be presumed to be correct unless the contrary is shown; the utmost that can be said is that it is only a rule of evidence and the presumption may be rebutted at any time when such a question arises and therefore if a regular suit is brought for the purpose to get rid of the presumption the cause of action for such a suit is a recurring one and the suit may be brought at any time even after 6 years after the date of publication of the record of rights or after the date of the signing of the certificate. In deciding the question which arose in the case it was assumed that the cause of action arose from the date when the cloud cast upon the plaintiff's title by virtue of the entry in the record-of-rights and not from the subsequent signing of the certificate of the record-of-rights. But mere entry and final publication of that entry does not throw any real cloud but it only gives the person in whose favour the entry is made to throw the onus of proving the contrary upon the other side ; thereby the real enjoyment of the property is not affected and the question as to the correction of the entry arises only when a suit is brought and the presumption is claimed therein by a party. If it is necessary to have any regular suit brought simply for the purpose of getting rid of it by a suit, the necessary consequence will be that in all cases where presumptions arise by virtue of statutes, viz., The Indian Evidence Act etc., it will be necessary to bring suits for getting rid of such presumptions.

Entries in a record of rights adversely to a plaintiff do not affect his possession though they may be used in evidence against him in a suit for declaration of title. Time does not begin to run against him till an actual claim is made on the strength of the entry in the record-of-rights: Dinanath v. Ramanath, 23 C.L.J. 561. See Ramji v. Lala Sadhu, 2 P.L.J. 403, Saroj Kumar v. Umedali, 25 C.W.N. 1022. See notes under s. 103B, heading no. 9.

Where a suit was brought by certain raiyats for correcting an entry as to their status in the record-of-rights, without any proceeding being taken before the Revenue Court of the Special Judge or under Chap. X of the B. T. Act, and the lower Appellate Court held that the suit was one under sec. 111A, B. T. Act and sec. 115 was no bar in as much as the record-of-rights could not be said to be finally settled before the suit had been determined, held, that in view of the provisions of sec. 111A, B. T. Act, which permit suits for correction of entries in record of rights only where there has been a settlement of land revenue and forbids such suits under the Act in all other cases, the suit in question could only be treated as an ordinary civil suit. No presumption under sec. 50 could therefore arise: Satiprasad v. Brojogopal, 31 C.W.N. 499 (Duval and Mallik, J.J.) ; When no proceedings are taken to get entries in a record-of-rights altered either before the Revenue Court or the Special Judge or under Chap X, Bengal Tenancy Act, the record of rights must be taken to be finally settled, and sec. 115, B. T. Act, will apply and there can be no presumption under sec. 50: Ibid.

S. 50.

Decree in civil suit for correction of record of rights.

A decree in a civil suit for correction of a record-of-rights will be a mere declaratory one and will not force the Revenue authorities to alter the entry made by them. Ibid. Pirithi Chand v. Basarat Ali, 37 Cal. 30, s. c., 13 C.W.N. 1149 referred to and Secretary of State v. Kazimuddi, 26 Cal. 617 distinguished.

Technical defects.

2. Alteration of rent:—"The first part of the section evidently, prohibits suits which seeks to take undue advantage of mere technical defects in the procedure leading up to, or involved in the settlement proceedings." (Per Mitra J., Caspersz J., concurring): Nasarulla v. Amiruddi, 3 C.L.J. 133 at p. 135: S. III prohibits the alteration of rent once settled except to the extent allowed by s. 104H: Ibid.

Rent-suit.

3. Proviso:—"The proviso, in virtue of which suits of a declaratory character may be brought, cannot be read as prohibiting suits for the recovery of arrears of rent alleged to be due from tenants." (Per Mitra J., Caspersz J., concurring): Nasarulla v. Amiruddi, 3 C.L.J. 133 at p. 135.

Court-fees.

4. Court fees:—In a suit by a person who was entered as a tenure-holder in the Record-of-Rights (1) for declaration that he was in possession as an occupancy raiyat and (2) that his status recorded as a tenure-holder was a nullity, held that the first prayer came within the description of relief contemplated by s. III A but the second prayer was for consequential relief, and as such the plaint which was on a ten rupees court fee was insufficiently stamped, and the plaint was therefore rejected: Midnapur Zemindary Co. v. The Secretary of State, 44 Cal. 352, s. c., 21 C.W.N. 834.

It is submitted with great respect that the correctness of this decision is open to doubt, in as much as the prayer for declaration that the plaintiff is an occupancy raiyat involves the other matter, that is, the entry that he is a tenure-holder is a nullity. One follows from the other, and consequently such a suit is purely a declaratory suit without any consequential relief.

It was held in the case of Serajul Huq v. Secretary of State, (unreported S. A. No. 818 of 1919, N. R. Chatterjea & Panton J.J.) that the amount of Court fee payable on a memorandum of appeal arising out of a suit under S. III A, falls under Art. 17, cl. (iii), Sch. II of the Court Fees Act.

A suit for amendment of record of rights and assessment of rent comes under s. 7, para IV (c) of the Court Fees Act, and as such ad valorem Court fee is payable: Srinath v. Secretary of State, 11 C.L.J. 158.

111B. (1) Where a record-of-rights has been prepared and finally published in respect of the land in an area in which a settlement of land-revenue is not being made, or is not about to be made, no application or suit affecting such land or any tenant thereof shall, within three months from the date of the certificate of final publication of such record-of-rights, be made or instituted in any Civil Court for the decision of any of the following issues, namely:—

Stay of suits in which certain issues arise.

- (a) whether the land is or is not liable to the payment of rent ;
- (b) whether the relation of landlord and tenant exists ;
- (c) whether the land is part of a particular estate or tenancy ; or
- (d) whether there is any special condition or incident of the tenancy, or whether any right of way or other easement attaches to the land.

mentioned in sub-section (1) has been instituted in a Civil Court, the Revenue-officer shall not, in a suit under section 106 or in proceedings under section 105A, try such issue unless in such civil suit such issue is not in fact tried or decided.

(3) Where, in the course of settling fair rents under section 105, the Revenue-officer finds that, by reason of a suit involving the decision of any of the issues mentioned in sub-section (1) having been instituted in a Civil Court before the final publication of the record-of-rights, or before a Revenue-officer under section 106, is unable to settle a fair rent until such issue is decided, the Revenue-officer shall stay the proceedings, for the settlement of a fair rent, pending a final decision on the issue ; and, after the issue has been finally decided, he shall settle a fair rent, as if the record-of-rights had been framed in accordance with such decision.

(4) Where the making of an application or institution of a suit has been delayed owing to the operation of sub-section (1), the period of three months therein mentioned shall be excluded in computing the period of limitation prescribed for such suit or application.

Suit prematurely filed.

Notes :—Although a suit cannot be instituted within the period of three months under s. 111B, the jurisdiction of the Civil Court is not wholly taken away when no suit has been instituted in respect of the same matter in the Revenue court ; in such a case, the suit may be instituted in the Civil Court on the expiry of that period and there is no provision in the Act for the dismissal of a suit within the said period : Prankrishna v. Kripanath, 21 C.W.N. 209, s. c., 29 C.L.J. 17 ; if a suit appears from the statement of the plaint to be barred by any law, the proper course is to reject the plaint under order 7 r 11 cl. (d) C. P. C. and not to dismiss the suit entirely : Ibid.

A suit involving issues mentioned in clauses (b) and (c) within the period of three months from the date of the certificate of final publication of a Record-of-rights ought not to be dismissed but may be treated, subject always to any question arising under s. 109, as though the plaint had been received and the suit instituted on the day following the expiration of such period : Prankrishna v. Ofal Pramanick, 35 I.C. 76 ; the plaint may however be at once returned or rejected under O. 7 rr. 10 and 11 C. P. C. Ibid ; the suit cannot be dismissed : Ibid.

(a) power to settle all rents ;

(b) power, when settling rents, to reduce rents if, in the opinion of the officer, the maintenance of existing rents would on any ground, whether specified in this Act or not, be unfair or inequitable.

(2) The powers given under this section may be made exerciseable within a specified area either generally or with reference to specified cases or classes of cases.

(2a) A settlement of rents under this section shall be made in the manner provided by sections 104 to 104J (both inclusive).

Sub-section (3) was omitted by the Devolution Act (XXXVIII of 1920).

Alterations :—In sub-sec. (1) for the words “invest a Revenue-officer acting under this Chapter” the following was substituted in Bengal :—

“or that any landlord.....Revenue-officer.”

For the same words the following was added in East Bengal :—

“or that any landlord is demanding or exacting.....
.....Revenue officer.” Sub-sec. 2 (a) was inserted by both the above Acts. To sub-sec. (3) the following was added by both the Acts:—"and the revision.....Council."

S. 112 was amended by the Devolution Act* (XXXVIII of 1920) thus: In sub-sec. (1) the words "with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council" and the whole of sub-sec. (3) were omitted.

Sub-sec. (3) was as follows:—

(3) When the Local Government takes any action under this section, the settlement-record prepared by the Revenue-officer shall not take effect until it has been finally confirmed by the Governor General in Council; [and the revision, by direction of the Board of Revenue under sub-section (2) of section 104G, of a record-of-rights, or any portion of a record-of-rights, prepared under this section, shall be subject to a like confirmation by the Governor General in Council.]

Period for which rents as settled are to remain unaltered.

113. (1) When the rent of a tenure or holding is settled under this Chapter, it shall not, except on the ground of a landlord's improvement or of a subsequent alteration in the area of the tenure or holding, be enhanced, in the case of a tenure or an occupancy-holding or the holding of an under-raiyat having occupancy rights, for fifteen years, and, in the case of a non-occupancy holding or the holding of an under-raiyat not having occupancy rights, for five years; and no such rent shall be reduced within the periods afore-said save on the ground of alteration in the area of the holding or on the ground specified in section 38, clause (a).

(2) The said periods of fifteen years and five years shall be counted from the date on which the rent settled takes effect under this Chapter.

rental would accrue automatically on any portion of the waste land becoming culturable, and neither s. 113 nor any other section could operate as a legal bar to the assessment of an additional rent on the portion of the waste land actually cultivated: Makbal Ali v. Jogesh Chandra, 21 C.W.N. 534, s.c., 25 C.L.J. 128.

3. Enhancement—Prevailing rate:—Even on the ground of prevailing rate, there cannot be any enhancement of rent for 15 years, under s. 113 where rent has been settled under Chap. X: Harihar v. Ajub Mesir, 45 Cal. 930.

Where a fair and equitable rent has been settled under s. 105, it is bar to any subsequent proceeding for the enhancement of rent before the expiry of the period mentioned in s. 113 except on the ground mentioned therein: Sheo Pratap v. Sheogulam, 72 I.C. 78. Enhancement suit subsequent to proceeding under s. 105.

4. Under-raiyat: Occupancy right:—An under-raiyat may by usage or custom acquire a right of occupancy: Gopal Mandal v. Tapai Sankhari, 46 Cal. 43, s.c., 22 C.W.N. 618; see also Akhil Chandra v. Hasan Ali, 19 C.W.N. 246. See notes under s. 4 at p. 72, and notes under ss. 48 and 183.

5. Existing rent:—This section is not applicable to a mere entry of an existing rent in the Record of Rights: Meyajan Buian v. Joymala, 21 C.W.N. 546, s.c., 34 I.C. 32 at p. 33 column 2; s. 113 applies in those cases where the rent of a tenure or holding has been actually settled under this chapter: Ibid: “a consideration of Chap. X as a whole shews that the effect of the plain language of s. 113 is not in any way controlled or cut down by s. 103B”: Ibid.

6. Reduction of Rent:—Rent of a tenure settled under Chap. X is not liable under section 113 to be reduced on account of reduction in the area: Nares v. Hujjatali, 97 I.C. 470 s.c., A.I.R. (1926) Cal. 1240. (Cuming and Page, JJ.). Reduction of area.

114. (1) When the preparation of a record-of-rights has been directed or undertaken under this Chapter, in any case except where a settlement of land-revenue is being or is about to be made, the expenses incurred * * in carrying out the provisions of this Chapter in any local area, estate, tenure or part thereof (including expenses that may be incurred at any time, whether before or after the preparation of the record-of-rights, in the maintenance, repair or restoration of boundary marks and other survey marks erected for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this Chapter), or such part of those expenses as the Local Government may direct, shall be defrayed by the landlords, tenants and occupants of land in that local area, estate, tenure or part in such proportions and in such instalments (if any) as the Local Government, having regard to all the circumstances, may determine. Expenses of proceedings under Chapter.

(2) The estimated amount of the expenses likely to be incurred for the maintenance, repair or restoration of boundary marks for a period not exceeding fifteen years, or such part of such amount as the Local Government may direct, may be recovered in advance in the same manner as if such expenses had been already incurred.

(3) The portion of the aforesaid expenses which any person is liable to pay shall be recoverable by the Government as if it were an arrear of land-revenue due in respect of the said local area, estate, tenure or part.

(4) The cost of preparing copies of survey maps and records-of-rights under this Chapter for distribution to landlords and tenants shall be deemed to be part of the expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of this Chapter.

Explanation.—The word “tenure” in this section includes all revenue-free and rent-free tenures and holdings within a local area, estate or tenure.

1. AMENDMENTS.
2. APPORTIONMENT OF COSTS.
3. ASSESSMENT NOT UPON LAND BUT UPON LANDLORD.

I. Amendments :—The following amendments were made by Act I B. C. of 1907 and Act I E. B. C. of 1908 :—

In sub-sec. (1) the words “by the Government” were repealed ; for the word “from time to time in the maintenance,” the following was substituted :—

“at any time.....restoration;” after the word “proportions,” the words and brackets “and in such..... (if any)” were inserted.

Sub-section (2) was inserted ; the former sub-section (2) was re-numbered sub-section (3) and after sub-section (3) so re-numbered and before the Explanation, sub-sec. (4) was inserted.

2. Apportionment of costs :—Where the order of the Local Government under s. 101 (2) (a) is legal and binding on the parties the order for apportionment of costs under s. 114 is also legal and binding : The Secretary of State v. Purnendu, 40 Cal. 123, s. c., 17 C.W.N. 115.

As to distribution of printed maps and of copies of the final record : see Appendix I.

For the Rules for apportionment and recovery of costs, see Bengal Survey Settlement Manual, 1917. See also Land Records Maintenance Act (III, [B.C.] of 1895) to be found in Appendix IV of this book.

As to Rules of apportionment of costs of Settlement operations and computation, recovery, and distribution of copies, see Bengal Survey and Settlement Manual, 1917, Chap. XV, Rules 389-420, pp. 97 to 102.

A few extracts from these Rules are quoted below:—

Apportionment and Computation :

391. In cases in which funds are advanced by Government an order for apportionment under s. 114 of the Tenancy Act must be passed. In other cases an apportionment order may be passed. In operations under sec. 101 (2) (d), no apportionment order can be passed.

392. In the case of District Settlements and of operations undertaken under s. 101 (2) (b), the cost of which has been advanced by Government, the first thing to determine in apportioning the amount to be recovered from private parties is the share to be paid by the landlords or tenants, e.g., one half or one third. This apportionment must depend on the circumstances of each case, and it is not possible to frame any general rules on the subject.

399. The following principles should ordinarily be followed in apportioning costs between proprietors, tenure-holders, raiyats, and under-raiyats when an area basis is adopted throughout.

Permanent tenure-holders should pay three-fourths and their landlord one-fourth of the landlord's share.

401. Rent-free holders should pay the whole of the landlord's share, and also the raiyat's share for lands in their own occupation.

402. When there are several grades of landlords the calculation should be made from the lowest grade upwards.

403. Under-raiyats having occupancy rights may be ordered to pay half the raiyat's share. All other under-raiyats and those holding under them may be exempted from payment. It may be convenient sometimes to make a fixed charge for under-raiyats.

404. When it has been decided how the apportionment order should be framed, it will be submitted to Government through the Director of Land Records. The apportionment order passed by Government under s. 114 of the B. T. Act will be conclusive as to how the apportionment should be made.

Recovery :

407. The recovery of costs is to be made one month after the commencement of final publication or as soon after as possible. Recovery will ordinarily proceed throughout the year.

Distribution :

417. Certified copies of the record will in all cases, whether in Government or temporarily-settled estates, or in settlements on the application of landlords, or other operations, be distributed to the landlords and tenants of charge. Copies of the map, except where with the sanction of the Director of Land Records such maps have not been reproduced, will be distributed. When there is any recovery of costs, the distribution made at the time of recovery of costs : where there is no recovery, time of final publication.

418. In accordance with Government orders each landlord or group of landlords with a separate collection is entitled to receive a copy of his own khatian and of the khatians of the tenancies immediately subordinate to him or them. The landlord in the group with the largest share should receive the copies, unless he does not pay the costs punctually on the day fixed, when the Recovery Officer may, at his discretion, give them to the next largest sharer who is ready to pay.

419. When an owner has several interests he should receive only one copy of the map.

420. When the record is printed, sales of spare copies of the khatians may be made in recovery camps or at the headquarters at such rates as may be determined by the Director of Land Records. Sales of Vandyked maps may be similarly effected. No copies of the record or the maps should, however, be sold to persons who have not paid the demands due by them.

3. Assessment not upon land but upon landlord :—Assessment of costs is not upon land but personally upon the landlord of the tenant ; so where in a lease the tenant agreed to pay tax, toll, rent or whatever sum under whatever denomination be assessed in future, held that the landlord was not entitled to demand of the tenant for cadastral survey costs : Bejoy Singh v. Hem Chandra, 33 C.L.J. 349.

Headings of Notes.

1. INTERPRETATION OF THE SECTION.
2. PRESUMPTION UNDER S. 50 WHEN APPLIES: MEANING OF "THEREAFTER".

Meaning of "have been recorded under this Chapter."

1. Interpretation of the section :—The meaning of the words "when the particulars mentioned in s. 102, Cl. (b), have been recorded under this chapter....." is that "when the particulars have been recorded after all corrections (if any) made in proceedings under ss. 105 and 105A, as well as under s. 106, and possibly under s. 108 and 108A." After the particulars under cl. (b) of s. 102 are entered in the Record-of-rights and finally published under s. 103, the said entries are liable to corrections in proceedings under ss. 105, 105A, 106, 108 and 108A. So the words "have been recorded" mean "have been finally recorded after all corrections (if any) under the aforesaid sections of this Chapter."

So, in proceedings under ss. 105, 105A, 106, 108 and 108A, the tenant is entitled to the presumption under s. 50, in as much as the Record cannot be said to have been finally prepared till then, and the particulars under s. 102 cl. (b) could still be corrected.

But when after the proceedings under ss. 105, 105A, 106, 108, 108A are taken and the corrections (if any) are entered in the Record, or when no proceedings are taken under these sections and the periods of limitation for taking these proceedings expire, and any regular suit is brought in the Civil Court by the landlord, the tenant cannot avail of the presumption under s. 50, in as much as it can be then said that the particulars under s. 102 (b) have been finally prepared under Chapter X.

Illustrations.

(1) A is recorded as an occupancy raiyat under s. 102 (b) ; the landlord makes an application under s. 105 for settlement of rent. A is entitled to the presumption under s. 50, in as much as the Record cannot be said to have been finally prepared, for the tenant may still raise the question of his status and if he is successful, the entry will be corrected.

(2) A is recorded as an occupancy raiyat. As a result of proceedings under ss. 105, 105A, 106, 108 or 108A, the entry is not corrected, as the tenant is found in these proceedings to be an occupancy raiyat or suppose that the periods for taking proceedings under these sections expire ; So it may be considered that the Record has been finally prepared. Suppose, the landlord now brings a suit in the Civil Court for enhancement or A brings a suit in the Civil Court for a declaration that he is a raiyat at fixed rate and not an occupancy raiyat. A is not entitled to the presumption under s. 50 in as much as the Record has been finally prepared under Chap. X. It is true that the tenant may otherwise prove that he is a raiyat at fixed rate and not an occupancy raiyat, and the Civil Court may declare that the entry in the Record-of-Rights is incorrect, and even the Record of Rights is corrected by virtue of such a decree, but there will be no correction under Chapter X ; the Record, so far as regards that Chapter was finally prepared.

Meaning of the word "thereafter" in the clause "the presumption under s. 50 shall not thereafter apply to that tenancy": This means that once the particulars under s. 102 (b) have been finally corded as explained above, s. 50 will cease to apply. "Thereafter" does not mean that a tenant will be entitled to avail of the presumption by shewing uniformity of rent for 20 years prior to the preparation of the Record-of-Rights. Meaning of "thereafter."

Illustration.

A Record of Rights was finally prepared after all chances of correction under Chapter X in the year 1900 ; the tenant shews uniform payment of rent for 20 years prior to 1900 ; the tenant is not entitled to the presumption under s. 50. He cannot say that the bar as to his entitling to avail of the presumption is restricted to the period after the Record-of-Rights. The restriction is in regard to the periods both prior and subsequent to the Record-of-Rights.

2. Presumption under s. 50 when applies: Meaning of "thereafter" :—Having regard to the word "thereafter" used in this section it was decided by Doss, J. : in the case of Radha Kisore Umed Ali, 12 C.W.N. 904, that in a suit for enhancement of rent, a tenant is entitled to the presumption under s. 50 (2), if he shew that rent was not changed for a period of years anterior to the publication of the Record-of-Rights. This decision was approved of and followed in a Patna case, Pirithi Chand v. Sheikh Mohamad, 1 Pat.L.J. 67. But the contrary was held by Brett J., in the case of Ram Sewak v. Mahont Bansi, 13 C.W.N. 1151 footnote. It is decided in the case of the Secretary of State v. Kajimuddi, 26 Cal. 17 that when a suit is brought by a tenant for the purpose of proving the correctness of the decision of a Revenue officer in regard to the entry as to the status of a raiyat in a record-of-rights, the provisions of s. 115 against the presumption as to a fixed rent do not apply on application and the tenant is entitled to the benefit of such presumption. In view of the conflict of case law, the question was referred to a Full Bench, in which the case of Radhakisore v. Umed Ali, 12 C.W.N. 904 was not approved: see Pirithi Chand v. Sheikh Mohamad, 37 Cal. 30, s.c., 13 C.W.N. 1149 (F.B.), s.c., 10 C.L.J. 343. This Full Bench it was laid down that s. 115 is no bar to a tenant claiming the presumption under s. 50 (2) in proceedings under ss. 105 and 106. Conflicting decisions.

In a suit for enhancement of rent, where the tenant proved uniform payment of rent for a period of 35 years out of which 18 years anterior to the Record-of-Rights, it was held that the presumption under s. 50 (2) did not apply: Gurucharan v. Sarab Ali, 23 Cal. 1041, s.c., 30 C.L.J. 9. Full Bench.

Following the principle of the Full Bench case of Pirithi Chand v. Umed Ali, 37 Cal. 30, it was held in the case of Harihar v. Ajab Ali, 37 Cal. 930 that in a suit for enhancement of rent, in view of the presumption under s. 50 (2) does not arise when a Record of Rights has been finally published. Full Bench decision settles the point.

After the final publication of a Record-of-Rights under Chapter X the tenants are debarred by the provisions of s. 115 from claiming the presumption under s. 50: Muralidhar Aditya v. Radhamohan Hazra, 51 I.C. 552. (Pirithi Chand v. Basarat Ali, 37 Cal. 30 (F.B.) and Harihar v. Ajab Misir, 45 Cal. 930 were followed); see also Jagdeo Narain v. Bhagwan Mahto, 54 I.C. 672.

S. 106.

In a suit under s. 106 of the Act, a question arose as to whether the tenant defendant was entitled to get the presumption under s. 50, it was held, that s. 115 clearly barred such a presumption, although the tenant was entitled to shew by any other means that he was holding from the time of the Permanent Settlement: Janki Kuer v. Hiranand Pande, 58 I.C. 25. This decision lays down a rule contrary to the decision of the Calcutta Full Bench case of Pirithi Chand v. Sheikh Basarat, 37 Cal. 30.

Where no entry whether tenure liable to enhancement or not.

Where a record-of-rights has been prepared and a tenant was recorded as a tenure-holder without specifying whether the tenure was permanent or not or whether the rent of the tenure was liable to enhancement or not, the particulars under s. 102 were not recorded and therefore s. 115 was not a bar in the application of s. 50: Kamaluddin Ahmed v. Kumar Rammand Singh, [1924 Pat.] p. 1.

Meaning of "thereafter." Presumption under s. 50 does not arise after preparation of record.

The expression "thereafter" in s. 115, signifies "after the particulars have been finally recorded after recourse to all the provisions contained in Chapter X for the attainment of finality in this respect. When once the record of rights is finally prepared, the presumption of s. 50 does not apply in view of s. 115; Prasanna Kumar v. Durga Charan, 49 Cal. 919, s.c., 26 C.W.N. 947, s.c., 36 C.L.J. 291 (Mookerjee and Cuming, J.J., affirming on Letters Patent Appeal the judgment of Teunon J.). See also Bamandas Vidyasagar v. Sadh Majhi, 26 C.W.N. 945 (N. R. Chatterjee and Panton, J.J.). The case of Pirithi Chand v. Basarat Ali, 37 Cal. 30 (F.B.) was referred to. The cases of Harihar v. Ajib Misser, 45 Cal. 930 and Murali Radha Mohan, 51 I.C. 552 were approved, and the cases of Secretariat of State v. Kajimuddi, 26 Cal. 617 and Kishor Manikya v. Basarat Ali, 12 C.W.N. 904 were dissented from. See also Kesho Prasad Ramdas Pandey, 2 Pat. 92; Ramsaran v. Muhammad, 80 I.C. 753; Ramsaran Chandra v. Mahommad Akbar, 86 I.C. 753; Ramsaran Muhammad Aradut, 80 I.C. 926; Kesho Prasad v. Issur Dutta, 15 I.C. 15.

Where record is in favour of a party—fixed rent.

In a case where a tenant was entered in the Record of Rights holding at a fixed rent, held that in a suit to eject the tenant, he may rely on s. 50 and can claim presumption under that section notwithstanding the provisions of s. 115: Rash Behari v. Dwarkanath, 26 C.W.N. 936.

This case is entirely different from the cases in which it has been held that where a tenant's rent is entered in the record-of-rights as variable he is in a civil suit debarred from claiming a presumption under s. 50 if the entry has not been corrected in proceedings under Chap. X.

In a proceeding under s. 105 the tenant may invoke the presumption under s. 50, and s. 115 does not debar the tenant from the benefit of s. 50 as s. 115 applies only when all possible proceedings under Chap. X have been exhausted: Narendra Lal v. Rash Behari, 27 C.W.N. 740.

The presumption under s. 50 does not apply when once of-rights has been prepared: Kamiluddin v. Kumar Ramanand, ^{Where particulars are not recorded.} [1924 Pat.] p. 1. But where a tenant was recorded merely as a tenure-holder without specifying as to whether he was a permanent tenure-holder or not or whether his rent was liable to enhancement or not, held that s. 115 was no bar to prove fixity of rent by recourse to s. 50; Ibid. From a mere entry in the record-of-rights that the tenant is a tenure-holder it cannot be inferred that he is not either a permanent tenure-holder or a tenure-holder at fixed rates: Ibid.

Where a tenure-holder was recorded as to have kaimi interest ^{Kaimi.} and not mokrari, held following the cases of Pirithi Chand v. Basarat Ali, 37 Cal. 30 (F.B.) and Harihar Pershad v. Ajub Misser, 45 Cal. 930, that section 50 does not apply, no suit having been brought and the entry not having been corrected in a suit under s. 106: Brajadas v. Bankim Chandra, 51 Cal. 454.

Upon a review of the decisions, the present law may be stated as follows: The presumption under s. 50 can be claimed in proceedings under Ss. 105, 106, and before all chances of correction under Chapter X are over. But once the record-of-rights is finally prepared after all chances of correction under Chap. X are over, the presumption under s. 50 does not apply in view of sec. 115. See notes under heading No. I of this section. ^{Summary of case law.}

Assessment of lands claimed as rent-free :—In a proceeding under Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act before the passing of Act III B. CHAPTER XI.

NON-ACCRAU OF OCCUPANCY AND NON-OCCUPANCY RIGHTS, AND RECORD OF PROPRIETOR'S PRIVATE LANDS.

Amendments :—In the heading of this chapter the words “Non-accrual of Occupancy and Non-occupancy rights and” were inserted by the Amending Acts of 1907 and of 1908 of Bengal and East Bengal respectively.

Construction of the heading :—The court can look to the heading for the purpose of construing the section: Dwarka Nath v. Tafazar Rahman, 44 Cal. 267, s.c., 20 C.W.N. 1097.

116. Nothing in Chapter V shall confer a right of occupancy in, and nothing in Chapter VI shall apply to, lands acquired under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, for the Government or for any Local Authority or for a Railway Company, or lands belonging to the Government within a Cantonment, while such lands remained the property of the Government, or of any Local Authority or Railway Company, or to a proprietor's private lands known in Bengal as khāmar, nij, or nijjot, and in Bihar as ziraat, nij, sir or khamat, where any such land is held under a lease for a term of years or under a lease from year to year.*†

NOTE.—The law officers have advised that there is nothing in the law which prevents occupancy right being acquired in admittedly zirat or sir land, or which provides that, if such occupancy rights are acquired and lost or abandoned, the land should in consequence of the acquisition of the occupancy right lose for ever its character of zirat or sir land.

† Orissa ; This section was extended to the districts of Cuttack, Puri and Balasore. (Notification, dated 21st Aug., 1906). Before its extension when ss. 20 and 21 had been extended to Orissa it was observed in a case :—This section has not been extended to Orissa. Section 20 and 21 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, however, have been extended to Orissa; and that being so, under the provisions of sub-sec. 2 of s. 2 when any part of this Act is extended to Orissa, so much of the enactments as are in force in Orissa, which are inconsistent with that portion are repealed. Now as ss. 20 and 21 have been extended to Orissa section 6 and the proviso to that section of Act X of 1859 must stand repealed, because they are inconsistent with ss. 20, 21. Therefore the proviso to s. 6 of Act X of 1859 with corresponds with s. 116 of the present Act, must be held to be no longer in force in Orissa : Brahmananda v. Arjun, 1 C.L.J. 310; under Act VIII of 1869 (B.C.) it was held that a right of occupancy could not be acquired in the niz-jote lands of a Sarbarkar in Orissa : Obhoy Churan v. Kanae Rawat, 1 C.L.R. 394. Ss. 20 and 21. Act VIII B.C. of 1869.

A tenant of niz-jote land, was in occupation continuously for more than 12 years after the introduction of ss. 20 and 21 of the Bengal Tenancy Act to Orissa, held that he acquired the status of a settled raiyat : Rafiuddin v. Iswar, 17 C.L.J. 585.

17. KHUDKAST, MEANING OF.
18. HOLDING OVER.
19. MESNE PROFITS.
20. CHOWKIDARI CHAKRAN LANDS.

1. Alteration :—After the words “shall apply to” the following words were inserted by the Amending Acts of 1907 and 1908 of Bengal and East Bengal respectively :—“lands acquired under.....or to”

2. Occupancy and Non-occupancy Right :—A tenant of khamar land is not a non-occupancy raiyat and so cl. (1) (a) of Sch. III is not applicable to the ejectment of a raiyat of khamar land: Dwarka Nath v. Tafazar Rahaman, 44 Cal. 267, s. c., 20 C.W.N. 1097.

Right of occupancy
in Zerai
land.

Where a lessee of zerait land settles the land with a raiyat, he acquires a right of occupancy if he fulfils the conditions under ss. 20 and 21, if the former was not restricted in any way by the lease: Sheogobind v. Mahipat, 2 Pat. 913, (Mullick and Bucknill J.J.).

A description of land as zerait does not necessarily shew that it is zerait land; the elements necessary under s. 120 must be proved: Beni v. Trailakya, A.I.R. 1922 Pat. 425 (Jwala Prasad and Bucknill J.J.).

A lessee of zerait land cannot create a tenancy in excess of the term of his lease: Jogendra v. Kesho Prasad, 1 Pat. 764, s.c., [1923 Pat.] p. 113; (Jwala Prasad and Bucknill J.J.).

3. Proprietor's Private lands* :—Broadly speaking, the grant of the lease, made applicable, he acquires the status of a non-occupancy raiyat; the status cannot be retrospectively affected by the subsequent extension of s. 116: Sita Nath v. Haranarain, 21 C.L.J. 644; the cases of Brahmananda v. Arjun, 1 C.L.J. 310 and Rafuiddin v. Iswar, 17 C.L.J. followed.

* Meaning of the words Khamar, Nij, Nijjote and Sir as given in Wilson's Glossary of Judicial and Revenue terms:

Khamar.

Khamar: a threshing floor, the general threshing ground of a village to which all the crops are brought to be cleaned, and from which they cannot be removed till the landlord's claim is settled. Land of which the revenue was paid in kind or of which the produce was divided in determinate shares between the cultivator and the revenue payer or zeminder, applied also to lands originally waste, but which having been brought into cultivation, were retained ~~Bengal Tenancy Act~~ classifies agricultural lands under two heads: (1) raiyyati lands, in respect of which a raiyat acquires a right of occupancy which is explained in Chapter V; and (2) lands which are held by the malik or owner, in his own direct cultivation, and are called in the Act "the private lands" of the Zamindar. In these lands the raiyat cannot acquire a right of occupancy. The Zamindar's "private lands" are dealt with under this Chap: Dhakeshwar v. Gulab Koer, 53 I.A. 176, s. c., 31 C.W.N. 341 (P.C.).

Tenure holder's private land.

This chapter does not apply to a tenure-holders's private lands but it applies only to a proprietor's private lands. But where the rights of the parties were governed by Act VIII B. C. of 1869, lands which were kamat land did not cease to be so by virtue of a mokurari settlement of the same. Syed Khalilur Rahaman v. Rupan Mahton, 13 C.W.N. 436.

Where the lands were not found to be the proprietor's private lands, it was held by the Privy Council affirming the judgment of the High Court that there was nothing to prevent the tenants acquiring occupancy right therein: Damodar Narayan v. Dalglish, 38 Cal. 432: 15 C.W.N. 345 (P.C.).

There mere fact that in the lease the land is described as khud kasht land, would not be sufficient in itself to prevent the tenants from acquiring occupancy rights, regard being had to the provisions of s. 178 of the Bengal Tenancy Act and would not shift the onus on the tenant: Ajodhya Prosad v. Ram Golam, 13 C.W.N. 661.

Khudkasht does not necessarily mean zerait or private lands of the proprietor: Deonath v. Amarsingh, 45 I.C. 418.

4. Admission:—An admission in kabuliyat is certainly evidence as to the character of the land: the probative value of such evidence is a question of fact: Bhagtu Singh v. Raghunath Sahai, 9 C.L.J. 15; see also Masudan v. Goodar, 1 C.L.J. 456; see notes under s. 120.

5. Where any such land is held under a lease, &c.:—The Bengal Tenancy Act does not contemplate a raiyat who does not come under the classes enumerated in s. 4: Udai Chand v. Jang Bahadur, 2 Pat. L.W. 118, s. c., 40 I.C. 500 at p. 503 (Mullick and Jwala Prasad J.J.); an occupancy right cannot be acquired in zerait land: Ibid. The provisions of Ch. V and Ch. VI are not inapplicable to all tenancies in proprietor's private lands; they do not apply by the zemindars in their own hands, or were let out at a grain rent: at the Decennial Settlement these lands, previously unassessed, were declared subject to assessment.

NIJ—H (স. নিজ) own, peculiar, used sometimes in the sense of Nij-jot.

Nijjot.

NIJJOT—corruptly Nijote, Neej-Joot, H. &c. (s. from nij and jot cultivation). Lands cultivated by the proprietors or revenue payers by themselves and for their own benefit; also land allowed to be set apart for the private maintenance of a zemindar, on which before the Decennial Settlement in Bengal, no revenue was assessed.

SIR, ~~SERR~~,—name applied to the lands in a village which are cultivated by the hereditary proprietors or village zemindars themselves as their own special share, either by their own labourers and at their own cost, or by tenants-at will, not being let in lease or farm: these lands were sometimes allowed to be held at a favourable assessment, or were unassessed so as to provide Nankar, or subsistence for the proprietor: the term is also some times applied to lands cultivated on account of the State, or to those in which the revenue is paid by the cultivators without any intermediate agents.

Sir.

only when it is proved that the land is held under a lease for a term of years, or under a lease from year to year: Deo Nandan v. Meghu Mahton, 11 C.W.N. 225, s. c., 5 C.L.J. 181. Where zerail lands of a proprietor were sublet to a tenure-holder for a term of years and a raiyat held under the latter and not directly under the proprietor, held that the lands were excluded from the operation of Chapter V so far as it conferred a right of occupancy, and also from the operation of Chapter VI: Sheo Nandan v. Ajodh Ray, 26 Cal. 546, s. c., 3 C.W.N. 336. The object of s. 116 is to exclude the proprietor's private lands from the operation of Chapters V and VI, of the Act, provided that the proprietor has taken the precaution which is indicated by the concluding words of the section—"where any land is held under a lease for a term of years or under a lease from year to year." Ibid. Chapters V and VI do not apply only when it is proved that the land is held under a lease for a term of years or under a lease from year to year: Deo Nandan v. Meghu Mahton, 11 C.W.N. 228: (approving the case of Sheo Nundan v. Ajodh Ray, 26 Cal. 546, s. c., 3 C.W.N. 336: and Masudan v. Goodar Singh, 1 C.L.J. 456. In such cases it is immaterial whether the lands are held by a ticcadar to whom the proprietor has let it out or by a raiyat under the ticcadar; a person who is brought on the land by a lessee for a term under the proprietor, ceases to have any right in the land on the expiry of the term: Sheo Nandan v. Ajodh Ray, 26 Cal. 546. The case of Binod Lal v. Kalu Pramanick, 20 Cal. 708, was thus distinguished by their Lordships, Banerjee and Rampini, J.J. :—

Binod Lal v. Kalu Pramanick, distinguished.

"It was argued upon the authority of Binod Lal Pakrashi v. Kalu Pramanick, 20 Cal. 708, that the mere fact of the title of the person who inducts a raiyat upon any land ceasing, or being non-existent, would not be sufficient to show that the raiyat's title ceased or did not exist. We are of opinion that that case can have no application to a case like the present. The ground for the decision in that case was, as stated in the judgment of the learned Chief Justice, that the only right of the person who has obtained possession of the zemindari is to the rent payable for the land and not to obtain khas possession of the land itself unless he can do so under the provisions for the Bengal Tenancy Act; and that ground is not applicable to zirat lands protected by section 116, the primary character of such lands being that the proprietor is entitled to be in khas possession of them, and no raiyat can acquire any occupancy or non-occupancy right in them."

The principle in the case of Binod Lal Pakrashi cannot be extended to the case of a tenant who, taking a settlement bona fide from trespasser or resumed chowkidari chakran lands does not become an occupancy or a non-occupancy raiyat: Jonab Ali v. Rakubuddu, 1 C.L.J. 303.

See notes under s. 5.

Act X of 1859 and Act VIII of 1869 (B. C.).

"I think it is a reasonable construction to put upon s. 6 of Act X of 1859 and Act VIII of 1869, B. C., as also upon s. 116 of Act of 1885, to hold that these sections contemplate the beginning of the tenancy and not merely the execution of a lease during its continuance"—Per Mookerjee J.: Masudan v. Goodar Nath, 1 C.L.J. 456: s. c., 9 C.W.N. 107 (notes) Acquisition of occupancy or non-occupancy rights by a tenant in a zerail land cannot be prevented unless the landlord proves that when the holding was first created it was held under a lease for a term or from year to year: Ibid. If the land is not so initially let out, the execution of a kabuliyat for a term by the tenant during the continuance of the tenancy does not affect his status or bar the application of the provisions of Chaps. V and VI of this Act; Ibid.

6. Khamar land :—In deciding a case under the old law Khamar, Glover, J., in delivering judgment in the case of Hurish Chander v. Gungadhur, 25 W.R. 181, said as follows:—It is contended that the word “khamar” in s. 6 of the Rent-law refers to land in the actual possession of the zemindar, and not to every piece of jungle or waste land included in his zemindari. But it seems to me that the words Khamar refers to any parcel of land, whether cultivated or uncultivated, belonging to the zemindar, and which the zemindar chooses to keep in his own possession. Every piece of land which the zemindar keeps under his own special control, would be khamar land within the meaning of the section.

7. Tenure-holder's private lands :—This section has no application to a tenure-holder's private lands. But the old law (Act VIII of 1869, B. C., s. 6) excepted from the acquisition of occupancy rights kamat lands belonging to the proprietors of the estate or tenure and let by him on a lease for a term or year by year; and therefore where the rights of parties were governed by Act VIII, B. C., of 1869, lands which were kamat did not cease to be so virtue of a mokurari settlement of the same: Syed Khalilur Rahman v. Rupan Mohton, 12 C.W.N. 436.

This section has no application to tenure holder's private lands.

8. Presumption :—Long possession in respect of khamar lands does not give a right of occupancy; there is no presumption therefore in favour of the raiyat from the fact of his having been more than 12 years in possession of the land, on the contrary the presumption would be that he was in possession for a term or year by year as a tenant. If he wishes to get rid of the limitation, it will be for him to shew that he had made some arrangements with the zemindar, which brought him a right of occupancy: Harish Chunder v. Gungadhur, 25 W.R. 181.

Long possession.

A proprietor may hold other lands besides zerait lands in khas possession and because he recovers possession of lands on the basis of the presumption arising from his proprietorship, it does not follow that the land is zerait, nor does the fact that he fails to prove the land to be zerait prevent him from claiming the land, if the defendant fails to establish a subordinate interest in it: H. Manners v. Harihar, 19 C.W.N. 149.

9. Onus :—Where a zemindar sued to recover possession on the allegation that the lands were his zerait but failed to prove his zerait, and the defendants having failed to have acquired rights of occupancy and failed to prove that they had acquired such rights or that they were tenants of the plaintiff, held that the plaintiff being admittedly the zemindar was entitled to a decree, the defendants having failed to establish their defence: Batai Ahir v. Bhuggobutty, 11 C.L.R. 476; see also Rajah Sahib Perhlad v. Doorga Pershad, 12 M.I.A. 286; Ram Mon v. Ahmuddhen, 20 W.R. 374; Raj Krisen v. Peare Mohun, 20 W.R. 421; Huree Mohun v. Goreebulla, 22 W.R. 417; Nobo Coomar v. Oozer, 23 W.R. 238; Behary v. Prayag, 22 W.R. 291.

Suit for recovery of possession of zerait land.

Onus.

Where the owner of land seeks to recover possession on the allegation that the party in possession had no right to continue in it his title to possession is proved or admitted, he can claim a decree unless the defendant proves the existence of a tenancy which entitles him to retain possession: Norsingh Narain v. Dharam Thakur, 9 C.W.N. 144, so where a zemindar claims a plot of land as his zerait and the defendant admitted his right as zemindar claimed to hold as raiyat, held that the landlord was entitled to a decree unless the defendant's tenancy was proved: *Ibid.

In a suit by landlord to eject a tenant on the ground of the land being the former's zerait land, the onus is on the landlord to prove that the land was zerait so as to bring it within the provisions of s. 116; Ajadhya Prasad v. Ram Golam, 13 C.W.N. 661.

In a suit for ejectment brought against a tenant by a landlord the onus is in the first place on the landlord to prove either that the land is zerait, or any other title on which he claims to be entitled to eject the tenant; if such a title is made out, it will then be for the tenant to prove his title in order to save himself from ejectment: Herbert Manners v. Chatter Mahto, 13 C.W.N. 664.

In a suit by a proprietor for recovery of possession of land which he claimed to be zerait, held that the Settlement Officer having rejected the plaintiff's objection the settlement records afforded prima facie evidence in support of the defence: Azmut v. Bishun Prakash, 29 C.L.J. 607.

10. Ejectment suit by a lessee:—When the plaintiff, a lessee, sought to eject the defendant, not on the ground that he was entitled to keep possession of zerait lands against the wishes of the proprietor but on the ground that the defendant was a trespasser as he was not entitled to continue in occupation of those lands after the termination of his ijara lease, held that the true character of the lands would only be material if the defendant proved some kind of agricultural tenancy right thereon, so as to make the provisions of s. 116 of the Bengal Tenancy Act applicable: Raghubar Mahto v. Manners, 13 C.L.J. 568.

II. Ejectment suit: Limitation:—A suit to eject a raiyat of zerait land brought more than six months after the expiry of the term of his lease is barred by Art. (1) (a) of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act, s. 45 of the Act which was not applicable to zerait lands under s. 116 having been replaced by the said Article which is applicable: Ganpat v. Rishal Singh, 20 C.W.N. 14. But the contrary view seems to have been taken in the case of Dwarakanath v. Tafazar Rahman, 44 Cal. 267, s. c., 20 C.W.N. 1097 where it has been held that a raiyat of zerait land was not a non-occupancy raiyat and therefore Art. (1) (a) of Sch. III does not apply.

The Patna High Court dissented from the view taken in the case of Dwarakanath v. Tafazar Rahman, 44 Cal. 267, s. c., 20 C.W.N. 1097 and approved of the view taken in the case of Ganpat v. Rishal Singh, 20 C.W.N. 14 and it was held by the majority of the Full Bench (Chamier, C. J., Mullick and Roe J.J.) ; Chapman and Jwala Prasad, J.J., dissenting) that a suit by a landlord to eject a tenant of zirat lands on the ground of the expiration of the term of his lease is governed by Art. 1 (a) of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act, and the operation of Art. (1) (a) is not excluded in such a case by s. 116: Janki Singh v. Mahant Jagannath, 3 Pat. L.J. 1 (F.B.). This decision has been reversed on P.C. appeal: Jagannath v. Janki Singh, 49 I.A. 81, s.c., 26 C.W.N. 833, s.c., 35 C.L.J. 506.

* The following cases were considered in this case:—Raj Kissen v. Pyari Mohun, 20 W.R. 421; Huree Mohan v. Gureebulla, 22 W.R. 417; Behari v. Paryag, 23 W.R. 291; Batai Ahir v. Bhugwatee Koer, 11 C.L.R. 476; Lulla Joynath v. Lutchun Christian, 16 W.R. 158. Rajah Sahib Perhlah Sein v. Doorga Pershad, 12 M.I.A. 286. Kripamoyee v. Durga Gobind, 15 Cal. 89.

12. Sale of estate: Right to Nij-jote lands:—Where a zemindari is sold the right to hold nij-jote lands passes with the sale to the auction purchaser: Joy Dutt v. Baijeeram, 7 W.R. 40.

13. Lease for a term of years or year to year:—There is ing per se in the fact of the land being nij-jote which prevents a proprietor from acquiring rights of occupancy in it; it is so only in such lands have been let by the zemindar on a lease for a term of years, or year by year: Gour v. Beharee, 12 W.R. 277; Shaikh Jafar v. Ram Kishore, 23 W.R. 288; Hurish Chunder v. Gungadhar, 25 W.R. 181. Right of occupancy.

Letting land for a term, or from year by year, for a considerable period, does not of itself alter the character of the land: Bhugwan v. Jug Mohan, 20 W.R. 308.

14. Effect of partition of an estate:—A part proprietor of an estate, in virtue of the share which he held in the estate before a partition of the estate occupied certain lands as zirat or nij-jote lands; the estate being partitioned, the lands fell in the share of another co-sharer who sued to recover possession of the same; the defendant having failed to prove that he held as a raiyat, held that the plaintiff was entitled to claim the said lands; A Reed v. Sree Kishen, 15 W.R. 430. Part proprietor.

15. Enhancement:—It was held under the old law that the right of the landlord to enhance the rent on account of nijjote lands was to make his own terms with the tenant or to turn him out of occupation of the lands: Ionoo v. Brijia, 22 W.R. 548. Where a reasonable notice was given to the tenant to quit unless he agreed to pay the rent required, and the tenant continued to hold over in view of the terms proposed to him by the notice when he had the reasonable opportunity of quitting his tenancy if he did not like those terms, held that he impliedly intimated his acceptance of them: Ibid. Old law.
Notice to quit.

16. Settled raiyat:—It seems that a tenant may acquire the status of a settled raiyat in a proprietor's private lands although he cannot acquire a right of occupancy; for this section only says that nothing in Chapter V shall confer a right of occupancy in a proprietor's private lands; by occupation of land in the manner provided by s. 20 a raiyat becomes a settled raiyat of the village and as such acquires a right of occupancy in all land for the time being held by him as a raiyat in that village. By sec. 116 he is no doubt debarred from acquiring a right of occupancy in a proprietor's private land but that does not prevent him from acquiring the status of a settled raiyat and thus acquiring a right of occupancy in the other lands (if any) held by him in the village as a raiyat. A tenant may acquire the status of settled raiyat in proprietor's private lands.

17. Khud-kast, meaning of:—The word "Khudkast" does not conclusively connote proprietor's private land: Sukam Sao v. Karu Mahata, [1920 Pat.] p. 131, s. c., 5 Pat. L.J. 87; Deonath v. Khud-kast.

Bakasht.

Amarsingh, 45 I.C. 418. The word khudksht is in common use in Bihar as a synonym of Sir. It literally means "one's own cultivation." Bakasht is a new name coined by the Revenue officers to designate lands found in the possession of landlords and under their cultivation, in regard to which, however, it is difficult to ascertain whether they are Sir or whether they are raiyati lands temporarily in the possession of the zemindar. It conveys to all intents and purposes, the same meaning as khudkasht, but might imply raiyati lands that had temporarily come into the possession and under the cultivation of the landlord: Dhakeshwar v. Gulab Koer, 53 I.A. 176, s. c., 31 C.W.N. 341 (P.C.).

Holding over of Zerai lands.

18. Holding over :—A tenant of kamat land does acquire a right of occupancy by holding it over after the expiry of the lease: Syed Khalilur Rahman v. Rupān Mahton, 12 C.W.N. 436.

A lessee of zerait land is tenant only during the period of the lease,—where he holds over Art. 1 (a) of Sch. III does not apply: Jagarnath v. Janki Singh, 49 I.A. 81, s. c., 1 Pat. 340, s. c., 2 C.W.N. 833, s. c., 35 C.L.J. 506 (P.C.).

Where tenants have been inducted on the zerait lands of the proprietor by means of a registered lease for a term of years, they do not acquire any raiyat's interest in the lands, occupancy or non-occupancy, and are liable to be ejected in a suit brought within 12 years of the expiry of the lease: Ramjiram v. Banshi Raut, 4 Pat. 49, s. c., 84 I.C. 305 (Jwala Prasad Actg. C. J. and Kulwant Sahay, J.).

Mesne profits.

19. Mesne profits :—Mesne profits should be assessed on the basis of produce and not rent when a proprietor is dispossessed of his zirat lands: Pundit Luchmi Narayan v. Sheikh Mazhor Hossain, 12 C.W.N. 650.

In estimating the amount of mesne-profits against a trespasser occupying a proprietor's private land the actual value of the produce should be taken: Damodar v. Miller, 6 Pat. L.J. 166, s. c., [1919 Pat.] p. 294.

20. Choukidari Chakran Lands :—On resumption by Government and settlement with the Zemindar, Chowkidari Chakran lands are at the disposal of the Zemindar and he can deal with them either as mal or as zirat: Jonab Ali v. Rakibuddin, 9 C.W.N. 571, s. c., 1 C.L.J. 303. See notes under s. 181.

Power for Government to order survey and record of proprietor's private lands.

117. The Local Government may, from time to time, make an order directing a Revenue-officer to make a survey and record of all the lands in a specified local area which are a proprietor's private lands within the meaning of the last foregoing section.

Report of Select Committee.

The Select Committee in their report on the Bengal Tenancy Act Bill stated as follows: "In dealing with the difficult question of khamar or zirat land, we have provided two alternative methods of procedure:—(a) that of survey and registration of such land by a Revenue officer, by order of the Local Government: (b) that of enquiry on the application of the individual landlord or tenant concerned. The former procedure would apply to large areas where the question is important, the latter to disputes about particular plots of land."

This section refers to the former procedure, and s. 118 to the latter procedure.

118. In the case of any land alleged to be a proprietor's private land, on the application of the proprietor or of any tenant of the land, and on his depositing the required amount for expenses, a Revenue-officer may, subject to, and in accordance with, rules made in this behalf by the Local Government, ascertain and record whether the land is or is not a proprietor's private land.

Power for Revenue-officer to record private land on application of proprietor or tenant.

:—See Appendix I, Chap. IV.

When a Revenue-officer proceeds under either of the two last foregoing sections, the provisions of sections 103A, 103B, 106, 107, 108, 109 and 109A shall apply.

Procedure for recording private land.

Alterations :—The words and figures "sections 103A, 103B, 106, 107, 108, 109, and 109A" were substituted for the words and figures "sections 105 to 109 both inclusive" by Act III, B.C. of 1898.

Appeal :—The orders of Revenue-officer are appealable as provided for in s. 109A.

Procedure :—"Section 119 renders it clear that the same procedure is to be adopted, whether action be taken under s. 117 or s. 118": Dharani Kant v. Gober Ali, 30 Cal. 239.

120. (1) The Revenue-officer shall record as a proprietor's private land—

Rules for determination of proprietor's private land.

(a) land which is proved to have been cultivated as khamar, zirat, sir, nij, nijjot or kamat by the proprietor himself with his own stock or by his own servants or by hired labour for twelve continuous years immediately before the passing of this Act, and

(b) cultivated land which is recognized by village usage as proprietor's khamar, zirat, sir, nij, nijjot or kamat.

(2) In determining whether any other land ought to be recorded as a proprietor's private land, the officer shall have regard to local custom, and to the question whether the land was, before the second day of March, 1883, specifically let as proprietor's private land, and to any other evidence that may be produced; but shall presume that land is not a proprietor's private land until the contrary is shown.

(2a) Notwithstanding anything contained in any agreement or compromise, or in any decree which proved to his satisfaction to have been obtained by collusion or fraud, a Revenue-officer shall not record any land as a proprietor's private land, unless it proved to be such by satisfactory evidence of the nature described in sub-section (1) or sub-section (2).

(3) If any question arises in a Civil Court as to whether land is or is not a proprietor's private land, the Court shall have regard to the rules laid down in this section for the guidance of Revenue-officers.

Report of Select Committee.

I. Alterations :—Sub-sec. (2a) was inserted, by the Amending Acts of 1907 and of 1908 of Bengal and East Bengal respectively.

The object of this sub-section as explained in the Report of the Select Committee is as follows :—“This clause in the main reasserts the principle already accepted in clause 24 that agreements or compromises made before a Revenue officer should not be held to affect the rights of third parties. But in regard to the record of a proprietor's private land, the majority of us consider it necessary to go further and to provide that the Revenue officer shall not be bound to record land as proprietor's private land, because it has been declared to be so in a decree which has been obtained ex parte or by collusion or fraud. The question whether land is proprietor's private land affects not merely the parties to a particular suit, viz., the landlord and the tenant for the time being, but also all future occupants of the land, and it is necessary to safe-guard their interests as far as possible. It would be easy for a landlord to obtain an ex parte collusive decree, declaring certain land to be proprietor's private land, by suing a non-existent or fictitious defendant who had no concern with the land. We consider, therefore, that in framing the record-of-rights regarding such land, the Revenue officer should not be bound by decrees of the nature referred to, but should be required to satisfy himself by independent evidence as to the real nature of the land.”

2. Admission of tenant as to character of land made after 2nd March 1883, if evidence : Sub secs. (2) and (2) (a) :—It was held in the case of Nilmoni v. Bykant, 17 Cal. 466 that “any other evidence” in sub-sec. (2) of sec. 120 to show an assertion of a title on the part of the proprietor as to land as his private land may be an assertion communicated to the tenant before the 2nd March, 1883. It was held in the case of Sher Bahadur Sahu Mackenzie, 7 C.W.N. 400 that the mere fact, that the land having been taken in lease on the 23rd August 1888 as zerait would not give to that fact any probative value, as the lease was not before the 2nd March 1883. In the case of Masudan v. Goodar Nath, 1 C.L.J. 456, s. c., 9 C.W.N. 107 (notes), it was observed that the question was not free from doubt. It was held, however, in the case of Bhagtu v. Raghunath, 13 C.W.N. 135, s. c., 1 C.L.J. 15 that an admission in a Kabuliyat of a date subsequent to the 2nd March 1883 as to the character of the land was relevant evidence and admissible in evidence. But in the case of Ganapat v. Rishal Singh, 20 C.W.N. 14 it was held that the admission in a kabuliyat of a date subsequent to the 2nd March 1883 was not admissible in evidence. The question came up for decision in the case of Kesho Prasad v. Parameswari, 2 Pat. 414 where it was held that the admission made in a kabuliyat subsequent to 2nd March 1883, that the land is private land of the landlord is admissible in evidence; on appeal to the Privy Council this judgment was affirmed and their Lordships of the Judicial Committee upon a review of the case-law cited above held, that sub-sec. (2) of sec. 120 of this Act does not exclude as inadmissible in evidence that subsequent to the 2nd March 1883, the tenant admitted that the lands let to him were zerait lands of the landlord; such an admission is relevant and admissible in evidence but it is probative evidence only, which like any other relevant fact, has to be considered and such weight given to it as under the circumstances of the case, it is entitled to have: Bindeswari Prasad v. Kesho Prasad, 53 I.A. 164, s. c., 31 C.W.N. 74, s. c., 44 C.L.J. 86, s. c., 5 Pat. 634 (P.C.). Their Lordships of the Judicial Committee agreed with the view taken by Mitter and Bell J.J. in Bhagtu v. Raghunath, 13 C.W.N. 135. The other decisions cited above and the case of Sukan Sao v. Karumahata, 5 P.L.J. 87, s. c., [1920 Pat.] p. 131 taking a contrary view are, therefore, no longer good law having regard to this Privy Council decision. Their Lordships of the Judicial Committee further held that the addition of sub-sec. (2) (a) of this section did not displace the view taken in the case of Bhagtu v. Raghunath, 13 C.W.N. 135 which their Lordships approved. The law therefore as it now stands having regard to the Privy Council decision is that an admission in a kabuliyat subsequent to the 2nd March 1883 as to the character of the land is relevant and admissible in evidence.

Admission made after 2nd March 1883.

Privy Council case of Bindeswari Prasad v. Kesho Prasad.

Present law.

3. Sub-sec. (2) (a): Any agreement or compromise:—The words “any agreement or compromise” in sub-sec. (2) (a) refer only to an agreement or compromise of a question in discussion as to the character of the land at the time when the agreement or compromise was made: Bindeswari Prasad v. Kesho Prasad, 53 I.A. 164, s. c., 31 C.W.N. 74 (P.C.).

“Any agreement or compromise, meaning of.”

4. Indigo Zerait lands:—Indigo zerait lands, in the absence of evidence to show that the lands were ever in the khas possession of the landlord, or their ancestors, do not come within the definition of proprietor's private lands contained in sec. 120 of the Bengal Tenancy Act: H. B. Dalglish v. Damodar, 8 C.L.J. 533.

5. Sub Sec. (3):—Rules 41 to 48 relating to Revenue officers acting under Chapter X of this Act shall apply mutatis mutandis in the case of Revenue officers acting under this Chapter. See Appendix I.

CHAPTER XII.

DISTRAINT.

Notes :—The operation of this Chapter was postponed till the 1st of February, 1886, by Act XX of 1885.

The word "rent" in this Chapter includes also money recoverable under any enactment for the time being in force as if it was rent—see s. 3 (5).

Cases in which an application for distraint may be made.

121. Where an arrear of rent is due to the landlord of a raiyat or under-raiyat, and has not been due for more than a year, and no security has been accepted therefor by the landlord, the landlord may, in addition to any other remedy to which he is entitled by law, present an application to the Civil Court requesting the Court to recover the arrear by distraining, while in the possession of the cultivator,—

- (a) any crops or other products of the earth standing or ungathered on the holding ;
- (b) any crops or other products of the earth which have been grown on the holding and have been reaped or gathered and are deposited on the holding or on a threshing-floor or place for treading out grain, or the like, whether in the fields or within a homestead :

Provided that an application shall not be made under this section—

VII of 1876.

- (1) by a proprietor or manager as defined under the Land Registration Act, 1876, or a mortgagee of such a proprietor or manager, unless his name and the extent of his interest in the land in respect of which the area is due have been registered under the provisions of that Act; or
- (2) for the recovery of any sum in excess of the rent payable for the holding in the preceding agricultural year, unless that sum is payable under a written contract or in consequence of a proceeding under this Act or an enactment hereby repealed; or
- (3) in respect of the produce of any part of the holding which the tenant has sub-let with the written consent of the landlord.

Headings of Notes.

1. DISTRRAINT BY A PROPRIETOR WHOSE NAME IS REGISTERED UNDER THE LAND REGISTRATION ACT.
2. LANDLORD NOT ENTITLED TO DISTRRAIN FOR DAMAGES.
3. RENT WHICH HAS NOT BEEN DUE FOR MORE THAN A YEAR.—
4. ONE APPLICATION FOR TWO OR MORE HOLDINGS NOT MAINTAINABLE.
5. DISTRRAINT FROM A PERSON NOT IN POSSESSION.
6. LIMITATION FOR A SUIT FOR WRONGFUL DISTRRAINT.
7. SUIT FOR ILLEGAL DISTRRAINT BY ONE OF SEVERAL CO-SHARERS.

1. Distraint by a proprietor whose name is registered under the Land Registration Act :—A tenant cannot deny the right of a registered proprietor to distrain and plead payment of rent to a third person whose name is not registered: Hanuman v. Musst. Gobind Koer, 1 C.W.N. 318. See notes under s. 90 and s. 140. Right of registered proprietor to distrain.

2. Landlord not entitled to distraint for damages :—A landlord is not entitled on his application under this section to distrain for damages: Sheobarat v. Naurangdeo, 28 Cal. 364. Distraint for damages not allowed.

3. Rent which has not been due for more than a year :—A landlord is entitled to distrain for the rent of the holding in the preceding agricultural year, i.e., for the rent of the holding for the year preceding the current year and not for the rent of the current year, and under cl. (d) to s. 122, he is also entitled to distrain for the interest due upon that amount, if he chooses to claim any: Sheobarat v. Naurangdeo, 28 Cal. 364 at p. 367. It is submitted that the landlord is entitled to make an application for distraint for the rent of the current year too in as much as the section speaks of rent which "has not been due for more than a year," and therefore the current rent which has been due according to the instalments of the current year, is rent which has not been due for more than a year. See Government of Bengal v. Kojal Haoladar, 25 C.W.N. 209 at p. 211. Distraint for rent for the year preceding the current year not allowed.

4. One application for two or more holdings not maintainable :—Under ss. 121 and 122 the landlord cannot by one application for distraint distrain for the rent of more than one holding: Sheobarat v. Naurangdeo, 28 Cal. 364 at p. 367.

5. Distraint from a person not in possession :—A landlord has no right to distrain for an arrear alleged to be due from a person who is not in possession and who did not raise the crops: Mohinee Dass v. Ram Coomar, W.R. 1864, Act X, 76.

6. Limitation for a suit for wrongful distraint :—See notes under s. 140.

7. Suit for illegal distraint by one of several co-sharers :—See notes under s. 140.

An order for distraint made on the 2nd December for rent payable on the 1st December is not an illegal order: Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal affairs v. Kajal Howladar, 33 C.L.J. 24, s. c., 62 I.C. 187. If the tenant notwithstanding attachment of crops under such order and protest cuts the crops he is liable to prosecution under ss. 143 and 424 I. P. C.: Ibid.

application.

122. (1) Every application under the last foregoing section shall specify—

- (c) the period in respect of which the arrear is claimed, the the boundaries thereof, or such other particulars as may suffice for its identification;
- (b) the name of the tenant;
- (c) The period in respect of which the arrear is claimed;
- (d) the amount of the arrear, with the interest, if any, claimed thereon and, when an amount in excess of the rent payable by the tenant in the last preceding agricultural year is claimed, the contract or proceeding, as the case may be, under which that amount is payable;
- (e) the nature and approximate value of the produce to be distrained;
- (f) the place where it is to be found, or such other particulars as may suffice for its identification; and
- (g) if it is standing or ungathered, the time at which it is likely to be cut or gathered.

(2) The application shall be signed and verified in the manner prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure for the signing and verification of plaints.

Landlord
not entitled to damages.

Interest :—Under s. 67 the interest due on arrears of rent is only 12 per cent. and can only run “from the expiration of that quarter of the agricultural year, in which the instalment falls due ;” Sheobarat v. Naurangdeo, 28 Cal. 364 at p. 367. But the landlord is not entitled to damages: Ibid.

Procedure
on receipt of application.

123. (1) The applicant shall, at the time of filing an application under the foregoing sections, file in Court such documentary evidence (if any) as he may consider necessary for the purposes of the application.

(2) The Court may, if it thinks fit, examine the applicant, and shall, with as little delay as possible, admit the application or reject it, or permit the applicant to furnish additional evidence in support of it.

(3) Where a Court cannot forthwith admit or reject an application under sub-section (2), it may, if it thinks fit, make an order prohibiting the removal of the produce specified in the application pending the execution of an order for distraining the same or the rejection of the application.

(4) When an order for distraining any produce is made under this section at a considerable time before the produce is likely to be cut or gathered, the Court may suspend the execution of the order for such time as it thinks fit, and may, if it thinks fit, make a further order prohibiting the removal of the produce pending the execution of the order for distraint.

Rules of the High Court under s. 142 :—See Appendix VI.

Execution of order for distraint.

124. If an application is admitted under the last foregoing section the Court shall depute an officer to distrain the produce specified therein, or such portion of that produce as it thinks fit; and the officer shall proceed to the place where the produce is, and distrain the produce by taking charge of it himself or placing some other person in charge of it in his behalf, and publishing a notification of the distraint in accordance with rules to that effect to be made by the High Court :

Provided that produce which from its nature does not admit of being stored shall not be distrained under this section at any time less than twenty days before the time when it would be fit for reaping or gathering.

125. (1) The distraining officer shall, at the time of making the distraint, serve on the defaulter a written demand for the arrear due, and the costs incurred in making the distraint, with an account exhibiting the grounds on which the distraint is made.

Service of demand and account.

(2) Where the distraining officer has reason to believe that a person other than the defaulter is the owner of the property distrained, he shall serve copies of the demand and account on that person likewise.

(3) The demand and account shall, if practicable, be served personally ; but, if a person on whom they are to be served absconds or conceals himself or cannot otherwise be found, the officer shall affix copies of the demand and account on a conspicuous part of the outside of the house in which he usually resides.

126. (1) A distraint under this Chapter shall not prevent any person from reaping, gathering or storing any produce, or doing any other act necessary for its due preservation.

Right to
produce.

(2) If the person entitled to do so fails to do so at the proper time, the distraining officer shall cause any standing crops or ungathered products distrained to be reaped or gathered when ripe, and stored in such granaries or other places as are commonly used for the purpose, or in some other convenient place in the neighbourhood, or shall do whatever else may be necessary for the due preservation of the same.

(3) In either case the distrained property shall remain in the charge of the distraining officer, or of some other person appointed by him in this behalf.

Sale-proclamation to be issued unless demand is satisfied.

127. (1) Unless the demand, with all costs of the distraint, be immediately satisfied, the distraining officer shall issue a proclamation specifying the particulars of the property distrained, and the demand for which it is distrained, and notifying that he will, at a place and on a day specified, not being less than three or more than seven days after the time of making the distraint, sell the distrained property by public auction :

Provided that when the crops or products distrained from their nature admit of being stored, but have not yet been stored, the day of the sale shall be so fixed as to admit of their being made ready for storing before its arrival.

(2) The proclamation shall be stuck up on a conspicuous place in the village in which the land is situate for which the arrears of rent are claimed.

Place of sale.

128. The sale shall be held at the place where the distrained property is, or at the nearest place of public resort if the distraining officer is of opinion that it is likely to sell there to better advantage.

When produce may be sold standing.

129. (1) Crops or products which from their nature admit of being stored shall not be sold before they are reaped or gathered and are ready for storing.

(2) Crops or products which from their nature do not admit of being stored may be sold before they are reaped or gathered, and the purchaser shall be entitled to enter on the land by himself, or by any person appointed by him in this behalf, and do all that is necessary for the purpose of tending and reaping or gathering them.

Manner of sale.

130. The property shall be sold by public auction, in one or more lots as the officer holding the sale may think advisable; and if the demand, with the costs of distraint and sale, is satisfied by the sale of a portion of the property the distraint shall be immediately withdrawn with respect to the remainder.

Postponement of sale.

131. If, on the property being put up for sale, a fair price (in the estimation of the officer holding the sale) is not offered for it, and if the owner of the property, or a person authorized to act in his behalf, applies to have the sale postponed till the next day, or (if a market is held at the place of sale) the next market day, the sale shall be postponed until that day, and shall be then completed, whatever price may be offered for the property.

132. The price of every lot shall be paid at the time of sale, or as soon thereafter as the officer holding the sale directs, and in default of such payment the property shall be put up again and sold. Payment of purchase-money.

133. When the purchase-money has been paid in full, the officer holding the sale shall give the purchaser a certificate describing the property purchased by him and the price paid. Certificate to be given to purchaser.

134. (1) From the proceeds of every sale of distrained property under this Chapter, the officer holding the sale shall pay the costs of the distrainment and sale, calculated on a scale of charges prescribed by rules* to be made, from time to time, by the Local Government in this behalf. Proceeds of sale how to be applied.

(2) The remainder shall be applied to the discharge of the arrear for which the distress was made, with interest thereon up to the day of sale; and the surplus (if any) shall be paid to the person whose property has been sold.

135. Officers holding sales of property under this Act, and all persons employed by, or subordinate to, such officers, are prohibited from purchasing, either directly or indirectly, any property sold by such officers. Certain persons may not purchase.

136. (1) If at any time after a distrainment has been made under this Chapter, and before the sale of the distrained property, the defaulter, or the owner of the distrained property, where he is not the defaulter, deposits in the Court issuing the order of distrainment, or in the hands of the distraining officer, the amount specified in the demand served under section 125, with all costs which may have been incurred after the service of the demand, the Court or officer, as the case may be, shall grant a receipt for the same, and the distrainment shall forthwith be withdrawn. Procedure where demand is paid before the sale.

(2) When the distraining officer receives the deposit, he shall forthwith pay it into the Court.

* See Bengal Local Statutory Rules and Orders, 1912, Vol. I, Pt. IV.

(3) A receipt granted under this section to an owner of distrained property not being the defaulter, shall afford a full protection to him against any subsequent claim for the arrears of rent on account of which the distraint was made. .

(4) After the expiration of one month from the date of a deposit being made under this section, the Court shall pay therefrom to the applicant for distraint the amount due to him, unless in the meanwhile the owner of the property distrained has instituted a suit against the applicant contesting the legality of the distraint and claiming compensation in respect of the same.

(5) A landlord shall not be deemed to have consented to his tenant's sub-letting the holding or any part thereof merely by reason of his having received an amount deposited under this section by an inferior tenant.

Amount paid by under-tenant for his lessor may
from rent.

137. (1) When an inferior tenant, on his property being lawfully distrained under this Chapter for the default of a superior tenant, makes any payment under the last foregoing section, he shall be entitled to deduct the amount of that payment from any rent payable by him to his immediate landlord, and that landlord, if he is not the defaulter, shall in like manner be entitled to deduct the amount so deducted from any rent payable by him to his immediate landlord, and so on until the defaulter is reached.

(2) Nothing in this section shall affect the right of an inferior tenant making a payment under the last foregoing section to institute a suit for the recovery from the defaulter of any portion of the amount paid which he has not deducted under this section.

Conflict between rights of superior and inferior landlords.

138. When land is sub-let, and any conflict arises under this Chapter between the rights of a superior and of an inferior landlord who distrain the same property, the right of the superior landlord shall prevail.

Distrain of property which is
attachment.

139. When any conflict arises between an order for distraint issued under this Chapter and an order issued by a Civil Court for the attachment or sale of the property, which is the subject of the distraint, the order for distraint shall prevail; but if the property is sold under that order, the surplus proceeds of the sale shall not be paid under section 134 to the owner of the property without the sanction of the Court by which the order of attachment or sale was issued.

140. No appeal shall lie from any order passed by a Civil Court under this Chapter; but any person whose property is distrained on an application made under section 121, in any case in which such an application is not permitted by that section, may institute a suit against the applicant for the recovery of compensation. Suit for compensation for wrongful distrainment.

Headings of Notes.

1. MAINTAINABILITY OF SUITS.
2. COMPENSATION.
3. IN ANY CASE IN WHICH SUCH AN APPLICATION IS NOT PERMITTED.
4. TORTIOUS ACTS OF SERVANT.
5. PROOF.
6. SUIT FOR DECLARATION OF TITLE TO STANDING CROP.
7. SUIT FOR COMPENSATION FOR WRONGFUL DISTRRAINT.
8. LIMITATION.

1. Maintainability of suits :—A suit for compensation for illegal distrainment is maintainable only on the ground that the distrainment was made in violation of the provisions of s. 121 of the Act: Hanuman v. Gobind Koer, 1 C.W.N. 318. See notes under ss. 121 and 122. Distrainment in violation of s. 121.

2. Compensation :—S. 140 of the B. T. Act does not afford the only remedy against a distrainment made erroneously or on insufficient grounds: Madhavananda v. Madhu Mahto, 27 I.C. 812. Before a tenant can obtain any decree for damages on the ground of illegal distrainment he must prove what loss he has actually sustained: Oojan v. Pran Nath, 8 W.R. 220. "What they (the plaintiffs) are entitled to under s. 140 is compensation for damage done to them, and in such a suit as this, they must shew how they have been damaged. Now the amount, which they may be entitled to as damages would seem to consist of two sums: (i) any excess amount realised from them; (ii) and amount to which they might be entitled owing to the way in which their crops have been sold off." Per Rampini and Gupta, J.J.,: Sheobarat v. Nawarangdeo, 28 Cal. 364 at p. 369. Proof of loss to be proved before a decree may be had for compensation.

3. In any case in which such an application is not permitted :—See notes under ss. 121 and 122.

4. Tortious act of servant :—A landlord is not liable for compensation when his agent, who is not authorised in that behalf, makes an illegal distrainment: Ramjoy v. Kali Mohan, Marsh, 282. Landlord's knowledge and concurrence.

In a suit by a tenant to recover the value of crops alleged to have been carried off by the orders of the landlord, it was found that there had been long continued litigation between the parties, that the landlord was determined in getting khas possession of the land, and had refused to recognise the tenant, that the actual perpetrators of the trespass were her confidential servants specially employed in matters concerning her landed property, and that the act done was in furtherance of her known wishes and for her benefit, held that the landlord's knowledge and concurrence could be presumed from these facts: Shyama Soonduree v. Mallyut Mundal, 11 W.R. 101. Unless it is shown that a servant of the landlord acted under the landlord's authority, the latter cannot be made answerable for the servant's tortious acts, though for his benefit: Ibid. But a master or principal is liable for any wrong done by his servant or agent, provided the act is done on his behalf and with the intention of serving his purposes: Iswar Chunder v. Satis Chandra, 7 C.W.N. 126.

Servant's act under landlord's authority.

Act done by servant on behalf of landlord and with the intention of serving his purposes.

5. Proof:—To obtain a decree for damages on the ground of illegal distraint one must prove what loss he has actually sustained: Oojan v. Pran Nath, 8 W.R. 220.

Burden of proof.

In a suit for recovery of compensation the onus lies upon the plaintiff to prove the annual rent payable by him: Chunder Kant v. Ram Lal, 1 C.W.N. 72 (notes): s. c., 1 C.W.N. 463. In a suit by a tenant for damages for wrongful distraint the landlord is required to prove the fact of tenancy and the amount of jama; and if the tenant pleads payment, the onus is on the tenant to prove his allegation: Oojan Dewan v. Pran Nath, 8 W.R. 220.

Title : standing crops.

6. Suit for declaration of title to standing crop:—A suit for declaration of title to a standing paddy crop which was attached in execution of a decree and unsuccessfully claimed by the plaintiff-appellant who was still in possession of the crop is an ordinary civil suit, and such a suit was held not maintainable in a Small Cause Court under s. 6, Act XI of 1865, the former Small Cause Courts Act., Dakhyani v. Dole Gobind, 21 Cal. 432.

Act IX 1887 Sch. II, Art. 35 (j),

7. Suit for compensation for wrongful distraint:—Plaintiff sued to recover Rs. 304-12-9 which he had to pay into Court, in order to obtain the release of his crops from attachment together with Rs. 7-0-9 dams, the costs alleged to have been incurred in making the attachment, the plaintiff's case was that the principal defendant had wrongfully caused his crops to be distrained under colour of s. 120, held that the claim being not only for the recovery of the sum paid but also for damages, namely, the cost alleged to have been incurred in paying it, it was a suit for compensation for illegal distress such as was contemplated by Art. 35 (j) of the Second Schedule of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act: Jugdeo Sing v. Padarath Ahir, 25 Cal. 285. See also Hyder Ali v. Jafas Ali, 1 Cal. 183.

Article 35 (j) of the Second Schedule of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act applies only to suits for damages for illegal, improper, or excessive distress, and does not apply to suit so far as they seek to recover back the money paid: Dewan Roy v. Sundar, 24 Cal. 160 at p. 165. Where the plaintiffs claimed to recover money paid by them to get back their crops which had been distrained by the defendants for rents alleged to be due by persons other than the plaintiffs, and they also claimed damages on account of the distraint, held that the suit as constituted was not entirely of the nature of a Small Cause Court suit: Ibid; s. 586, C. P. C., does not bar a second appeal in such a suit: Ibid. Plaintiff alleged that defendant had taken unlawful possession of two heaps of paddy under the pretext that he had distrained them; the prayer was for an order directing to deliver to plaintiff Rs. 250 being the price of the paddy, held that the suit was in substance one for compensation for illegal distress or attachment and therefore not a suit of the nature cognizable by a Court of Small Causes and a second appeal lay: Pama Sanyasi v. Zemindar of Jayapur, 25 Mad. 540. Compensation for illegal distress.

A suit under this section lies against a landlord who abuses his power of distraining the crops which belong to the tenant on the pretence that they belong to another person: Jugdeo v. Padanath, 35 Cal. 285. "There has been an invasion of the rights of the tenant for which he is entitled to a remedy, and if the case is not one of the kind contemplated by s. 130 he is not so far as we can see, deprived by the provisions of that section of ordinary right of action which any person who suffers from a tortious act has against the tortfeasor. (Per Trevelyan and Stevens, J.J.): Ibid at p. 288. Suit against a landlord who abuses his power.

The rule of law that persons having the same cause of action must sue jointly does not apply to actions on tort in every case in which several persons have been damnified by the same tortious act: Jugdeo v. Padanath, 25 Cal. 285. A suit for compensation for illegal distraint under s. 121 is therefore maintainable although brought at the instance of one of two persons jointly entitled to the crops distrained: Ibid. Joinder of parties—tortious acts.

See notes under s. 121.

8. Limitation:—The limitation applicable to a suit for illegal distraint of crops by the landlord is one year from the date of the wrongful seizure. Art. 28 or 29 and not Art. 2 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act (Act XV of 1877) applies to such suits: Jagat Jiban v. Sarat Chandra, 7 C.W.N. 728. The last act of taking or detention must be regarded as the date of the action; Tarinee Charan v. Shambhoo Nath, 3 W.R. Act X, 139. The cause of action arises when the unlawful distress is made: Pama Sanyasi v. Zamindar of Jayapur, 25 Mad. 540. Where the distraint was made on 25th January, 1898, and the suit was instituted on the 26th of the same year, held that the suit was time-barred: Ibid. A suit for wrongful distraint seems to be governed by Art. 2 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act and should be brought within 90 days of the cause of action. Act XV of 1877, Sch. II, Art. 28 or 29.
Last act of taking or detention.
Date of unlawful distraint.
Sch. II, Art. 2 of the Limitation Act.

Where the defendants by setting up a fictitious landlord and a fictitious tenant with regard to the Plaintiff's holding and thus obtaining a process for distraint from the Court, entered upon the land of the plaintiff and cut and removed the standing crops on it: held; (Per Rampini C. J.) that a suit for damages in respect of the above acts of the Defendants was governed by Art. 36 of Sch. II to the Limitation Act; (Per Doss J.) that the suit fell partly under Art. 39 and partly under Art. 49 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act: Sripati Sarkar v. Hari Kar, 9 C.L.J. 109; see the cases of Mahesh Chandra v. Ari Kar, 9 C.W.N. 376; Mangun Jha v. Dulhin Golab Koer, 23 Cal. 692. Limitation Act Sch. II Art. 36.

141. (1) When the Local Government is of opinion that in any local area or in any class of cases it would, by reason of the character of the cultivation or the habits of the cultivators, be impracticable for a landlord to realize his rent by an application under this Chapter to the Civil Court, it may, from time to time, by order, authorize the landlord to distrain, by Power for Local Government to authorize distraint in certain cases.

himself or his agent, any produce for the distraint of which he would be entitled to apply under this Chapter to the Civil Court :

Provided that every person distraining any produce under such authorization shall proceed in the manner prescribed by section 124, and shall forthwith give notice, in such form as the High Court may, by rule, prescribe, to the Civil Court having jurisdiction to entertain an application for distraining the produce, and that Court shall, with no avoidable delay, depute an officer to take charge of the produce distrained.

(2) When an officer of the Court has taken charge of any distrained produce under this section, the proceedings shall thereafter be conducted in all respects as if he had distrained it under section 124.

(3) The Local Government may at any time rescind any order made by it under this section.

High Court

142. The High Court may, from time to time, make rules, consistent with this Act, for regulating the procedure in all cases under this Chapter.

S. 84.

1. What are not suits :—An order under s. 84 passed by a Civil Court is not a decree and as such is not appealable: Gaghan v. Rameswar, 18 Cal., 271; Peary Mohun v. Barada Charan, 19 Cal. 485. A proceeding under s. 90 is not a decree: Dayagazi v. Ram Lall, 2 C.W.N., 351; such an order is not appealable; Ibid. See also Ashutosh v. Basanta Kumari, 19 C.W.N. 160 (notes). As to whether orders passed under ss. 173 and 174 are decrees and as to whether they are appealable, see notes under those sections. Applications under ss. 61 and 171 are not suits.

Ss. 61, 171.

An application under s. 93 is not a suit: Rango Roy v. Frederick Holloway, 4 C.W.N. 95; s. c., 26 Cal. 842. (Hossein v. Mutookdharee) but a proceeding under s. 103 is a suit: Acha Mian v. Durga Charan, 25 Cal. 146, s.c., 2 C.W.N. 137; see notes under s. 103.

S. 103.

Suit includes appellate stage.

C. P. C. O. 43 r. 1 (t).

The term "suit" includes the appellate stage; it even includes the execution proceedings based on the final decree made in the suit: Samed Sheikh (Chamed Shekh) v. Naba Nepal Ghose, 19 C.W.N. 359, s.c., 19 C.L.J., 310; sub-sec. (2) of s. 143 of the Bengal Tenancy Act makes O. 43 r. 1 cl. (t) of the Code of Civil Procedure applicable subject to the operation of the restrictive provision of s. 153 of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Ibid.

Or. 21 r. 58

A tenant who was not made a party in a suit for rent against his co-tenant, in absence of any evidence as to his relinquishment of his rights, can file a claim under or 21 r. 58 of the C. P. Code, to attachment of his homestead land by the decree-holder and is not precluded by section 143 read with sec. 170 of the B. T. Act from doing so: Bibhuti Bhusan v. Chinibas, 45 C.L.J. 229 (Mitter J.).

2. Procedure applicable to proceedings which are not suits :—No rules have as yet been framed under this section. But s. 148 provides that sections 121 to 127 (both inclusive), 129, 305, and 320 to 326 (both inclusive), of the Code of Civil Procedure (Act XIV of 1882) shall not apply to "rent-suits"; that section also provides certain other rules as to the procedure in rent-suits. In a suit for ejectment under the Bengal Tenancy Act it was held that the recording of evidence in English instead of in the language of the Court is merely an irregularity which may be cured under s. 578 of C. P. C. (Act XIV 1882); Ratan Lal v. Farashi, 34 Cal. 396. S. 147A of the Bengal Tenancy Act also modifies s. 375, C. P. C., (Act XIV of 1882) to a certain extent; s. 170 of the Bengal Tenancy Act lays down that ss. 278 to 283, C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882) shall not apply to a tenure or holding attached in execution of a decree for arrears due thereon. S. 210, C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882) applies to a suit for money and not to a rent-suit and therefore a decree for rent cannot be made payable by instalments: Shib Narain v. Baikuntha Nath, 11 C.W.N. 857.

No rules have yet been made under this section.

v. Kaleechurn, Marshall 215, Dhunbat v. Russomoyee, 14 W.R. 108, Radha Gobind v. Prokash, 10 W.R. 461.

A suit for assessment of rent does not lie unless framed under s. 52, for land encroached upon by a tenant and which has been treated as a part of the holding: Harachandra v. Radhakishore, 20 C.L.J. 296. See notes under ss. 52 and 158.

(ei) Where in a suit by a landlord for damages for use and occupation of land, defendant claimed to be a tenant and plaintiff admitted that defendant was an occupant by possession, held that the suit was one for rent and was not cognisable by a Small Cause Court: Mahadeb v. Kesho Pershad, 2 Pat. L.J. 97.

(f) Suit for consolidated rent of agricultural holding and fishery: Where a raiyat of an agricultural holding agreed to pay in addition to his rent a certain sum at the rate of one anna per rupee (of the rent of the agricultural holding) for a fishery, held that one suit for rent of the holding and the fishery lies and the suit lies in a Civil Court: Shib Prosad v. Vakati Pali, 33 Cal. 601. Consolidated rent of agricultural holding and fishery.

(g) Suit for rent of a fishery:—A suit for the rent of a fishery is maintainable in ordinary Civil Courts which have jurisdiction in rent suits: Shib Prosad v. Vakati Pali, 33 Cal. 601. A suit for rent of a fishery lies in a Court where a suit for possession of a fishery would lie: Shibu Halder v. Gopi Sundar, 1 C.W.N. 187 (notes). A julkar is immoveable property within the meaning of s. 2, cl. 5 of the General Clauses Act, ss. 16A and 19 (Act XIV of 1882) C.P.C. apply to the case of a julkar and a suit for rent may be brought in either of two Courts if there is reasonable doubt as to its situation. Ibid. See notes under s. 193.

(h) Forest rights: A suit for recovery of arrears of rent for Forest forest rights is a suit under this Act: Abdullah v. Asraf, 7 C.L.J. 152. rights.

A grant to cut and remove during a specified period trees which might during that period attain a prescribed size is a grant of forest rights within the meaning of s. 193, although it creates an interest in land or not: the consideration payable is rent, and a suit for such rent is not maintainable in a Small Cause Court, but should be instituted under s. 144 of the B. T. Act in the Court which would have jurisdiction to entertain a suit for the possession of the trees: Bande Ali v. Amud Sarkar, 19 C.W.N. 415. Grant to cut and remove trees.

(i) Suit for rent of homestead or bastoo land: A suit for the rent of homestead or bastoo land is not cognisable by a Court of Small Causes under the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act IX of 1887: Uma Charan v. Bijari Bewah, 15 Cal. 177 (F.B.). Homestead.

(j) A tenant is not liable for rent for the time during which he was out of possession at the instance of a person who was set up by the landlord although he has got a decree for mesne profits against him: Ramchandra v. Dwarkanath, 1918 Pat. 26. See also Chandra Kant v. Ramanath, 11 C.L.J. 591.

(k) Hajabad: Where in a suit for rent, the tenants claimed remission of rent payable on account of what are called hajabad land under an alleged custom under which in years of inundation, no portion of such rent, irrespective of the extent of the land inundated or of the crops destroyed was recoverable from them, held that the custom was both unreasonable and uncertain and was in consequence Hajabad.

invalid in law: Srinarain v. Bhutnath, 22 C.W.N. 422. See notes under ss. 50 and 103B.

dues.

(l) Katihari dues. A suit to recover Katihari dues (being a profession tax for carrying on the trade of a weaver) is not to be confounded with a suit for agricultural rent: Rameshwar v. Bikan Mamin, 36 I.C. 600.

Fraudulent, decree,
onus.

(m) Fraudulent decree: In a suit for declaration that a decree in a certain rent suit is fraudulent, the plaintiff is to prove the affirmative of the proposition. Amjad Ali v. Ismail, 27 C.L.J. 137.

rent
decree.

(n) Ex-parte decree for rent: An ex-parte decree for rent is conclusive as to the relationship of landlord and tenant: Hiranmay v. Ramjan Ali, 20 C.W.N. 48.

An ex-parte decree for arrears of rent which has been duly executed is some evidence as to the rate of rent: Madhu v. Jhumar, 1 C.W.N. 120; Matilal v. Nripendra, 2 C.W.N. 172. But an ex-parte decree which has never been executed is no evidence as to the rate of rent: Ram Chandra v. Harogobinda, 1 C.W.N. 128 (notes). Where a suit was decided in the presence of the defendant's pleader, held that the decree could not be called an ex-parte one, merely because the defendant did not adduce any evidence or submit any argument at the trial and it was further held that the ex-parte decree did not lose its conclusive character because it was not executed: Rajkumar v. Alimuddi, 17 C.W.N. 627.

Where an ex-parte decree was obtained for a suit for ejectment and thereupon the said decree was regular suit brought by the defendant on the ground that the original suit was revived by the setting aside of the ex-parte decree: Nistarini v. Mohendra, 28 C.L.J. 158.

Death of co-appellant.
Abatement
of appeal.

(o) Effect of abatement of appeal on the death of one of co-appellants: Where one of the tenant appellants died after having preferred an appeal arising out of a suit in which the tenants claimed abatement of rent, held that one of the tenants appellants having died and his heirs not having been substituted, the whole appeal ought to fail by reason of the abatement of the appeal with respect to one of the appellants: Narendra v. Satyadhan, 30 C.L.J. 203; see also Bhoopendra v. Romon, 27 Cal. 417.

Suit for produce of land jointly held by plaintiff and defendant cognizable by Small Cause
Court.

(p) Produce of land jointly held by plaintiff and defendant:—A suit for recovery of share of profits and produce of land jointly owned by Plaintiff and Defendant is cognizable by a Small Cause Court: Rajiva Narayan v. Kiral Narayan, 1918 Pat. 55.

Rate of rent
decided in earlier suit.
Review.

(q) Rate of rent. See notes in Appendix XI and under s. 65, heading no. 32.

Where in an earlier instituted suit the High Court decided as to the question of rate of rent in favour of the plaintiff landlord and the same question was decided against the plaintiff in a subsequently instituted suit by the lower appellate court without knowledge of the judgment of the High Court, held that the remedy of the plaintiff was to apply for review: Jadav Chandra v. Manik Sarkar, 29 C.L.J. 313.

"Saran-jami,"
meaning of.

(r) Saranjami: The word "Saranjami" ordinarily signifies collection charges and does not include Government revenue: Bhabani Nath v. Purna Chandra, 25 C.W.N. 308.

5. Unregistered lease: Rate of rent:—Oral evidence is admissible to prove the rent agreed to be paid by an unregistered kabuliyat which is inadmissible in evidence: Amir Ali v. Aqkup Ali, 19 C.L.J. 428; see also Banku Behary v. Raj Chandra, 14 C.W.N. 141. Rate of rent.

6. Issue in a rent suit:—The primary issue in a rent suit is whether the rent claimed for the particular period is due; where a rent-suit was dismissed on the ground that no amount was due by the defendant, a further declaration by the Court that the land was held subject to payment of rent was only incidental and could not operate as resjudicata in a subsequent suit for assessment of rent: Harihar Pande v. Chowdhury Karamut, 9 C.L.J. 493; see also Thakur Magunde v. Thakur Mahadeo, 18 Cal. 647; Run Bahadur v. Lucho Koer, 11 Cal. 301 (P.C.). Primary issue in a rent suit.

In a suit for rent no issues need be framed but where issues are framed, the non-existence of a direct issue has to be seriously taken into consideration in determining whether the question of right or liability for all times was really directly and substantially in issue: Gnanada v. Nalinibala, 43 C.L.J. 146.

7. Suits between landlord and tenant: Jurisdiction:—Because a suit is one between a landlord and a tenant it does not follow that it is therefore cognizable by ordinary Civil Courts as distinguished from Courts of Small Causes: Rango Ray v. Frederick Holloway, 26 Cal. 842, s. c., 4 C.W.N. 95. This section has no bearing upon the question of the nature of the suit; it determines the jurisdiction within which suits are to be instituted: Ibid. A suit under s. 75 for the recovery of a sum which the plaintiff, the tenant of the defendant, claims in respect of excess payments made by him in respect of the rent of his holding, is cognizable by the Small Cause Court, although it is a suit between landlord and tenant: Ibid. See notes under the Preamble. This section determines the jurisdiction within which suit is to be instituted.

S. 144 empowers a landlord to institute a suit for rent in the Court in whose jurisdiction the tenure or holding is situate partly or wholly. But having regard to clauses (a) and (b) of s. 20 C.P.C. a suit for rent may also be brought where the tenant resides: Kunja Mohan v. Manindra Chandra, 27 C.W.N. 42. But the sale must be held where the tenure or holding is situate: Ibid. Rent-suit may be brought where tenure or holding is situated or where Defendant resides.

8. Addition of parties in a rent-suit:—Parties should not be added in a suit for rent so as to transform it into a complex title suit, though questions of title may be incidentally investigated in a suit for arrears of rent, e.g., where the tenant defendant disputes the extent of the title of the plaintiff to the arrears demanded: Abdul Gafur v. Ali Miah, 28 C.W.N. 805; see also Indra Narain v. Sarbaseva, 41 C.L.J. 341. See notes under s. 65, heading no. 23. Addition of parties in a rent-suit, where may not be made.

9. Rent suit for accreted lands:—It is difficult to affirm a general proposition that in no case can a separate suit for rent be maintained for accreted lands: where the accreted lands were formed subsequent to the creation of the parent (howla) tenure and were not only constituted a separate estate between the Government and the proprietor, but the deara lands were separated and formed into new tenancies recorded in the settlement khewats, and the plaintiff had previously sued for and obtained a decree for rent in respect of the parent howla tenure separately, and the parties had treated the accreted lands as separate tenures; held that a separate suit for rent Rent suit for accreted land: separate suit, if maintainable.

for the accreted lands was maintainable: Kali Ranjan v. Rajeswar, 51 Cal. 396.

Suit against beneficial owner or farazidar.

10. Miscellaneous cases:—A landlord is entitled to sue either the beneficial owner or his farazidar for rent: Taharat Karim v. Bal Kuar, 64 I.C. 515.

Suit against usufructu-ary mortgagee.

Where the usufructuary mortgagee is in possession, the landlord may sue him for rent: Nityananda v. Harimohan, 64 I.C. 750.

Where no defect of parties—Parties to a kabuliyat.

A suit for rent is not bad for defect of parties if all the parties to the kabuliyat are made defendants and it is not necessary to determine whether there are other co-sharers: Hosen Jan v. Mirza Mehafedzuddin, 62 I.C. 619.

Where all heirs are not parties.

Where in a suit for joint possession one of the plaintiffs respondents died and his heirs were substituted the appeal should be dismissed, and the fact that the shares of the plaintiffs were separately stated in the plaint would make no difference: Arjan Mirdha v. Kalikumar, 68 I.C. 194.

See notes under s. 65.

Conversation about compromise, if admissible in evidence :
Admission.

II. Evidence:—The mere fact of a conversation taking place about the compromise of a rent suit about to be instituted is not in itself sufficient to prevent the conversation from being put in evidence: Meajan v. Alimaddi, 44 Cal. 130 ; where several persons are jointly interested in the subject matter of a suit an admission by one of them is receivable as evidence against all if the admission is made by the declarant in his character of a person jointly interested with the party against whom the evidence is tendered: Ibid.

Set off.

12. Set off:—In a rent-suit a set off cannot be allowed as to payments made in regard to properties not the subject matter of the suit, but a set off may be allowed in respect to payments made on the plaintiff's behalf qua the property which the defendant holds under the plaintiff: Dittor Koer v. Harkhoo Singh, 37 I.C. 367.

See notes under ss. 38 and 52.

Succession
Certificate
Act.

13. Succession Certificate Act:—Arrears of rent due to the estate of a deceased person can be recovered without the production of a certificate under the Succession Certificate Act, (VII of 1889). The word "debt" in sub-sec. (2) of sec. 4 of that Act includes any debt except rent, revenue, or profits payable in respect of land used for agricultural purposes.

Instalment
Decree.

14. Instalment decree:—A decree for rent under this Act cannot be made payable by instalments, s. 210 C. P. C. (or XX, r II) not applying to such a decree: Sibnarain v. Baikuntha, 11 C.W.N. 857. It seems, however, that instalment decree by consent may be passed.

Inter-
suit.

15. Interpleader Suit:—A tenant cannot bring an interpleader suit to have it determined which of two defendants both of whom claimed rent from him is his landlord: Koylash v. Goluck, 2 C.W.N. 61. See notes at pp. 44 and 369.

Admission
by co-tenant.

16. Admission by co-tenant:—The admission by a co-sharer tenant as to a particular person being the landlord of a holding is no evidence against the other co-tenants: Kalikishore v. Gopimohon, 1 C.W.N. 154 (notes). An admission by one of the tenants as to the rate at which he holds is not evidence to prove the rate at which the other co-tenants hold: Narahari v. Narayani, W.F., Sp., (F.B.) 23. See also Kasikinkar v. Satyendra, 15 C.W.N. 191, s. c. 12 C.L.J. 642; Jogneswar v. Kesha Prasad, 1 P.L.J. 190. Where two persons were sued as joint tenants, held that a separate decree for half the amount admitted by one of them could not be made against him who have made the admission: Chandreswar v. Chuni Ahir, 9 C.L.R. 359.

17. Execution of decree :—The Court in passing a decree in a suit for rent cannot limit it by saying that the defaulting tenure or holding should be first sold: Jatindra v. Muzaffar Ali, 16 C.W.N. 31 (notes). See also Kesho Prasad v. Lalji Roy, 1 P.L.J. 138. A landlord obtaining a decree for rent is free to proceed against any property of the judgment debtor; he is under no obligation to proceed in the first instance against the defaulting tenure: Sailaja v. Gayani Das, 18 C.L.J. 29. Where a suit is rightly framed as a suit for rent a decree passed therein would be capable for execution as a decree though the Court passed a money decree: Pramada v. Sara Khatun, 16 C.W.N. 31 (notes).

18. Collection papers : Jamabandis ; Jamawasil bakis ; Jai-Baki : Isamnavisi : Quinquennial Registers : Chittas : Butwara Papers : Haqiqat Papers : Road cess Return : Thak and Survey Maps : As to admissibility of these papers in evidence :—Collection papers. See Appendix XI (Miscellaneous matters). As to collection papers, see also notes under s. 50 at pp. 311 to 313. As to Road Cess Return, see notes under s. 65, heading no. 34.

19. Resjudicata :—As to cases on the question of resjudicata in rent suit, see Appendix XI (Miscellaneous matters). See also notes under s. 65, heading no. 33.

20. Registered Tenant :—A decree against the recorded tenant is binding on the unregistered transferee: Gopinath v. Sajanikant, 10 C.W.N. 240, Sashi Bhusan v. Gogon Chandra, 22 Cal. 364. See notes under s. 65, heading no. 9.

21. Adverse Possession :—The possession of a tenant is not adverse to his landlord: Srishtidhar v. Kalikant, 1 W.R. 171, Watson v. Sarat Sundari, 7 W.R. 395. Rajkisore v. Girijakant, 25 W.R. 66. Ram Chandra v. Madho Kumari, 12 Cal. 484. So long as the relation of landlord and tenant exists the mere non-payment of rent does not constitute adverse possession: Trailokya Tarini v. Mohima Chandra, 7 W.R. 400; Rangulal v. Abdül Gofur, 4 Cal. 314; Prasanna Kumar v. Srikant, 17 C.W.N. 137; Jagdeo v. Baldeo, 27 C.W.N. 925. See notes at pp. 39, 40, 43 and notes under s. 161. The possession of a trespasser during the continuance of a lease does not become adverse as against the lessor: Hajra Sardar v. Kunja Behari, 19 C.W.N. 18, s. c., 25 C.L.J. 635. See notes in App. XI (Miscellaneous matter) and under s. 161.

22. Proof of tenancy right :—Tenancy in this country is created not only by contract but also by occupation of land, so far as agricultural lands are concerned: Ajim Sardar v. Ramlal, 25 Cal. 324, Kali Prasanna v. Bhagaban, 17 C.L.J. 431. A tenant can prove his tenancy rights without proving his lease if he has one which is inadmissible for want of registration: Fazel Sheikh v. Keramaddi, 6 C.W.N. 916; Amir Ali v. Yakub, 41 Cal. 357, Banka Behari v. Raj Chandra, 41 Cal. 347; Rajkumari v. Shyama Bibi, 25 C.W.N. 163 (notes). Proof of tenancy right.

23. Estoppel :—As to cases on estoppel between landlord and tenant, see notes at pp. 41 to 42 and also under s. 85 and in Appendix XI.

Jurisdiction
in proceedings under
of 1882.

144. (1) The cause of action in all suits between landlord and tenant as such shall, for the purposes of the Code of Civil Procedure, be deemed to have arisen within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Civil Court which would have jurisdiction to entertain a suit for the possession of the tenure or holding in connection with which the suit is brought.

(2) When under this Act a Civil Court is authorized to make an order on the application of a landlord or a tenant, the application shall be made to the Court which would have jurisdiction to entertain a suit for the possession of the tenure or holding in connection with which the application is brought.

1. Jurisdiction to entertain a suit for the possession of the tenure :—A suit for recovery of rents due on a tenure for a sum not exceeding Rs. 1,000 is cognizable in a Munsiff's Court, although a suit for recovery of possession of the tenure lies in a sub-Judge's Court, the capital value of the tenure being Rs. 4,500: Chowdhury Fazlur Rahim v. Dwarka Nath, 30 Cal. 453, s. c. 7 C.W.N. 402. S. 144 lays down where the cause of action in suits between landlord and tenant shall be deemed to have arisen: it does not say in which Court the suit is to be instituted; for that purpose that section is to be read with ss. 15 and 17 of the Civil Procedure Code: Ibid.

Where there is a reasonable ground of uncertainty as to jurisdiction a suit for possession may be brought in either of the Courts where the property is supposed to be situate under ss. 16A and 19 of the Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882) and consequently a suit for rent of such a property may be brought in either of the Courts: Shibu Haldar v. Gopi Sundari, 1 C.W.N. 87 (notes).

Julkar is immoveable property within the meaning of s. 2, cl. (5) of the General Clauses Act and where there is reasonable doubt as to the situation of a julkar in the jurisdiction of one or two Courts, a suit for rent may be brought in either of the courts: Ibid.

2. Rent suit erroneously registered in Small Cause Court :—Where a rent suit was erroneously registered in a Small Cause Court and the Munsiff at the time of trial who was vested with the powers of the Small Cause Court transferred it to his file as a Munsiff, held that the order was lawful: Joggeshwari v. Chandi Charan, 22 C.W.N. 47 (notes).

3. Court Fees :—S. 7, cl. (v) of the Court Fees Act does not apply to a suit for recovery of possession of land of which the plaintiffs claim to be tenants, brought against the admitted landlords and persons who also claim to be tenants of the same ; and the value of the relief sought, as stated in the plaint determines the jurisdiction of the Court to try the suit : Ram Ekbal v. Baldeo Singh, 19 C.L.J. 418 ; Furzand Ali v. Mohanth Lal Puri, 32 Cal. 268 ; Ram Raj Tewari v. Grinandan Bhagat, 15 All. 63.

145. Every naib or gumashta of a landlord empowered in this behalf by a written authority under the hand of the landlord, shall, for the purposes of every such suit or application, be deemed to be the recognized agent of the landlord within the meaning of the Code of Civil Procedure, notwithstanding that the landlord may reside within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court in which the suit is to be instituted or is pending, or in which the application is made.

4. Stamp in a deed for appointment of an agent :—See Indian Stamp Act (II of 1899), Sch. II Art. 48.

5. Bribe paid to landlord's agent :—Where in the course of negotiations resulting in a lease, the tenant entered into an arrangement with the landlord's agent under which the agent expected to be paid an amount by way of bribe or secret commission and the amount was paid after the lease was given, held in a suit by the landlord to avoid the lease that the contract so induced by fraud was only voidable and the remedy by rescission was open only so long as the parties could be restored to the relative positions which they originally occupied: Indranath Banerjee v. E. G. Rooke, 37 Cal. 81. s. c. 14 C.W.N. 101.

Gumastha cannot consent to transfer of holding.

6. A Gumustha cannot consent to transfer of a holding :—The purchaser of a raiyati holding is bound to communicate with the Zemindar and obtain his consent to the transfer; without this being done a gumashta's receipt of rent is not binding on the Zemindar: Bhajohari Banik v. Aka Ghulam Ali, 16 W.R. 97. See in this connection notes under s. 73.

7. Naib or Gumustha cannot grant leases :—It is not within the ordinary scope of the duties of a naib or gumustha to grant leases. Express authority must be proved to make the grants valid: Golak v. Asimuddin, 1 W.R. 56; Annada v. Chandra Sekhar, 7 W.R. 394; Abilak v. Dalial, 3 Cal. 557.

8. Illegal cesses collected by landlord's agent :—A suit by a landlord against his agent for recovery of kharcha or illegal cesses collected by him from the tenants: Nagendrabala v. Gurudayal, 7 C.W.N. 535.

9. Limitation :—As to period of limitation for a suit for account by landlord against his agent. See notes, 89 and 116.

The particulars referred to in section 58 of the Code of Civil Procedure shall, in the case of such suits, instead of being entered in the register of civil suits prescribed by that section, be entered in a special register to be kept by each Civil Court, in such form as the Local Government may, from time to time, prescribe in this behalf.

I. Civil Procedure Code :—For s. 58 of Act XIV of 1882, see O. 7, r. 9 and O. 4 r. 2 of the present Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908).

Suits should be entered in a separate Register.

2. Separate Register :—"The Bengal Legislature, when it passed Act VIII of 1869, restoring to the Civil Courts the jurisdiction of which they had been for a time deprived, and empowering them to try suits for rent and others of a kindred nature, thought fit to direct that the suits instituted under the provisions of the Act should be entered in a separate Register. This provision, however, was introduced obviously for statistical purposes and not for the purposes of separating into parts the jurisdiction exercised by one Court." Per Jackson J., in Jallaloodeen v. Major James Burne, 18 W.R. 99.

There should be no question in the mind of a Court as to which side of the Court is to entertain the suit, or under what act it is to be tried, Puriag v. Feku, 19 W.R. 160.

147. Subject to the provisions of section 373 of the Code of Civil Procedure, where a landlord has instituted a suit against a raiyat for the recovery of any rent of his holding, the landlord shall not institute another suit against him for the recovery of any rent of that holding until after three months from the date of the institution of the previous suit.*

* S. 44A of the Chota Nagpur Landlord and Tenant Procedure Act (I.B.C. of 1879 as amended by Act V, B.C. of 1905) is analogous to s. 147 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. In a case from Chota Nagpur it was held by Coxe J., (Caspersz J., holding contra) that s. 44A of the Chota Nagpur Landlord and Tenant Procedure Act is a bar to the maintainability of suit for rent brought within six months of the striking off of a previous rent-suit: Karma Uraon v. Baraik Debi, 36 Cal. 115; s.c. 13 C.W.N., 287; the effect of striking off a suit is not to restore the parties to their original positions as if such a suit had not been brought; Ibid (36 Cal. at p. 120).

respect to the whole or any part of the matter of the suit, the Court shall pass a decree in accordance with such agreement, compromise or satisfaction, so far as it relates to the suit :

Provided that no decree shall be passed in accordance with any agreement or compromise the terms of which, if they were embodied in a contract, could not be enforced under this Act.

(3) Where any agreement or compromise has been made for the purpose of settling a dispute as to the rent payable, the Court shall, in order to ascertain whether the effect of such agreement or compromise would be to enhance the rent in a manner, or to an extent, not allowed by section 29 in the case of a contract, record evidence as to the rent which was legally payable immediately before the period in respect of which the dispute arose.

(4) Where the terms of any agreement or compromise are such as might unfairly or inequitably affect the rights of third parties, the Court shall not pass a decree in accordance with such agreement or compromise, unless and until it is satisfied by evidence that the statecorded in writing, that the terms of such agreement or compromise are such that, if embodied in a contract, they could be enforced under this Act :

Provided that, in the case of a suit instituted by the landlord to enhance the rent, the enhancement, if any, agreed upon may be decreed if the Court be satisfied, for reasons to be recorded in writing, that such enhancement is fair and equitable and in accordance with the rules laid down in this Act for the guidance of Courts in increasing rents.

Illustration.—A, a proprietor, agrees that B, his tenant, shall be recorded as an occupancy raiyat : this affects the rights of the tenants of B. The Court must, under sub-section (4), inquire whether B is a tenure-holder or a raiyat as defined in section 5. If the Court finds on the evidence that B is a raiyat, it may pass a decree in accordance with the agreement, but shall not do so if it finds that B is a tenure-holder.

(5) A decree passed in accordance with any lawful agreement, compromise or satisfaction shall be final so far as it relates to so much of the subject-matter of the suit as is dealt with by such agreement, compromise or satisfaction.

5. COMPROMISE SUBSEQUENTLY RETRACTED.

I, Notes :—These sections were inserted by Act I of 1907 (B. C.) and Act I of 1908 (E. B. A.) in Bengal and East Bengal respectively.

The object of the section as explained in the Notes on Clauses of the Bill was as follows :—“The proposed section 147A is intended to give to Civil Courts the same power to disregard illegal and inequitable compromises regarding rent and other matters in suits between landlord and tenant as such, as it is proposed to confer upon Revenue officers engaged in the preparation of the record of rights. Section 375 of the Code of Civil Procedure governs compromises filed in suits under the present law, and there is reason to believe that decrees have been passed giving effect to compromises containing illegal and inequitable provisions, and in particular that the provisions of sec. 29 regarding the limits of enhancement of rent by contract between landlord and tenant have frequently been nullified in this way.”

2. Civil Procedure Code :—S. 375 of Act XIV of 1882 corresponds to O. 23, r. 3 of Act V of 1908.

Decree in contravention of this section if nullity.

3. Compromise decree in contravention of this section. if nullity :—Sub-sec. (3)—A decree for rent passed in accordance with a compromise, in contravention of the provisions of this section, i.e., without recording evidence to show what the amount of rent was before the dispute arose, is made without jurisdiction and the tenant is not bound to have it set aside: Sarjugsharan v. Dukshit Mahato, 17 C.W.N. 496 (Coxe and N. Chatterjea J.J.); as the tenant cannot waive the irregularity, it amounts, according to the test laid down in Holmes v. Russel, 9 Dowl 487, to a nullity: Ibid. See also Kunja Behari v. Charan Singh, 72 I.C. 40, s. c., A.J.R. 1924 Pat. 204 (Ross, J.) where the case of Sarjugsharan v. Dukhit Mahato, 17 C.W.N. 496 was followed.

It was held in the case of Deolagan v. Gulabansi, 69 I.C. 616 (Das and Adami, J.J.) that a compromise decree passed by a Court when it is not in conformity with this section is not a nullity and cannot be ignored by the Court.

It is the duty of the Court to determine whether the compromise if embodied in a contract can be enforced under the provisions of the statute: Fuze v. Suker, 19 C.L.J. 333.

The case of Sarjugsharan v. Dukhit Mahto, 17 C.W.N. 496 was dissented from in the case of Ishan Chandra v. Moomraj Khan*, 30 C.W.N. 941, s. c., 45 C.L.J. 24 (B. B. Ghose & Graham, J.J.) where their Lordships held that a decree for enhanced rent made on compromise between the parties under the provisions of sec. 147A, B. T. Act, cannot in a subsequent suit for rent between the parties be treated as without jurisdiction and a nullity on the ground that the procedure laid down in that section as to the recording of reasons by the Court for being satisfied that the terms of the compromise were such that if embodied in a contract they could be enforced under the Act and that the enhancement was fair and equitable and in accordance with the rules laid down in the Act for the guidance of Courts in increasing rents was not complied with. Such a decree may be assailed in proper proceedings as erroneous but cannot be said to have been passed without jurisdiction and is valid and binding and the landlords are entitled to a decree for rent at the rate settled by the former decree.

[The cases of Hridoy Nath v. Ram Chandra, 48 Cal. 138, s. c. 24 C.W.N. 723, s. c. 31 C.L.J. 482 (F.B.); Ashutosh v. Bihari, 35 Cal. 61; Gora Chand v. Prafulla, 53 Cal. 166, s. c., 42 C.L.J. 1 (F.B.) referred to].

A previous decree can be treated as a nullity only where a decree was made by a Court which apparently had no jurisdiction whether pecuniary or territorial or in respect of the judgment debtor's person to make the decree: Ibid. The case of Ishan Chandra v. Moomraj Khan, 30 C.W.N. 941, s. c., 45 C.L.J. 24, has been followed by Mitter, J. in the case of Syed Mohamud v. Khana Kazi, 32 C.W.N. 84 (notes) where it has been held that the compromise decree passed in contravention of the provisions of this section cannot be treated as a nullity and without jurisdiction. In deciding this case, Mitter, J. observed "it seems to me extremely doubtful whether the view taken in the case in 17 C.W.N. 496 can be regarded as sound having regard to the two Full Bench cases (48 Cal. 138, and 53 Cal. 166). In view of these decisions and to the observations of the Judicial Committee in Malkarjun's case (27 I.A. 216) it cannot be said that the compromise decree in this case was passed without jurisdiction.

4. Notes :—A decree recording an agreement as one of the terms of the compromise though not relating to the suit, is a legal record of the agreement between the parties and as such available to the party as evidence: Mahabir v. Nanda Kissore, 27 C.L.J. 83. A compromise does not require registration even where it effects an alteration in a registered document: Charu Chandra v. Sambhunnath, 3 Pat. L. J. 255, (F.B.). A compromise under s. 147A of the Bengal Tenancy Act is valid even if it contains extraneous matters to the suit and is not registered: Rampadrath v. Sohrai Koeri, 4 Pat. L.J. 667; s. c., 1920 Pat. 114.

Compromise beyond suit.

Registration.

S. 147A has no application to a compromise effected in a suit for recovery of possession against a person who was alleged to be a trespasser, the compromise recognising the defendant as a tenant and a certain rent was agreed to: S. 29 has no application to the case: Sheo Govind v. Mahabir [1922 Pat.] p. 319; s.c., 71 I.C. 143.

Compromise recognising a trespasser as a tenant.

In the record of rights the rent which was payable in kind was stated to be one half the produce; in a suit subsequently brought, the landlord claimed more than a half share of the produce, the tenant did not resist the claim; in fact, the common case of both the parties was that for a long series of years, the tenant paid rent to the landlord at the rate alleged and they jointly prayed that a decree might be drawn up in the terms of the petition of compromise filed by them, held that a decree could be drawn up in accordance with the terms of the compromise, as neither s. 29 nor s. 74 governed the matter: Fazl Imam v. Sukor Mohton, 19 C.L.J. 333; s. 29 deals with case of enhancement of money rent and not rent in kind: Ibid; s. 147B did not apply as the presumption of accuracy which attaches to an entry in the record of rights was rebutted in the case: Ibid.

Claim for produce rent in excess of the rent stated in the record of rights.

According to the East Bengal section a tenant cannot raise an objection in execution proceedings that in decreeing the suit on compromise (which had been effected under s. 147A by enhancing the rent for the addition of new lands) the Court did not grant a certificate: Hemchandra v. Chandra Mohan, 24 C.W.N. 136 (notes portion).

Objection in execution proceedings —East Bengal.

See notes under s. 3 cl. (18), s. 29 and s. 178.

5. Compromise subsequently retracted :—Cl. (2) of this section empowers a Court to give effect to a compromise and to pass a decree, even if the parties subsequently retract from it: Uttim Sahu v. Abzani, 26 I.C. 229.

147B. In all areas for which a record-of-rights has been prepared and finally published under subsection (2) of section 103A, a Civil Court shall, in all suits between landlord and tenant as such, have regard to the entries in such record-of-rights relating to the subject-matter in dispute which may be produced before it, unless such entries have been proved by evidence to be incorrect; and, when a Civil Court passes a decree at variance with such entries, it shall record its reasons for so doing.

Regard to be had by Civil Courts to entries in record-of-rights.

Notes :—This section was inserted by the Amending Acts of Bengal and East Bengal ; I of 1907 and I of 1908, respectively.

In the Notes on the Clauses of the Bill it was stated as follows :—
 “The proposed sec. 147B is intended to define more clearly the force to be attached to entries in the record of rights in proceedings and suits between landlord and tenant as such. Under the present Act, such entries are presumed to be correct until the contrary is proved. But cases have occurred which indicate that it is doubtful whether the Courts pay sufficient attention to this presumption. It is proposed, therefore, to provide that the Courts shall have regard to the entries in the record of rights unless such entries have been proved by evidence to be incorrect, and that when a Court passes a decree at variance with such entries, it shall record its reasons for so doing.”

s. 103B.

Scope of the section :—This section does not in any way limit the operation of sec. 103B of this Act under which the presumption of correctness of an entry in a finally published record of rights arises generally and not merely in suits between landlords and tenants. The expression “shall have regard” in this section ordinarily means shall consider as of value or of importance, but certainly the provision of this section does not mean that the Court will not presume the entries to be correct until the contrary is shewn. This section has been inserted as a matter of abundant caution directing the attention of the Court to the fact that, in all suits between landlord and tenant, the entries in the record of rights should be taken into consideration. What the legal effect of such entries is is provided under s. 103B of this Act, under which an entry in the record of rights operates in the same way between landlord or tenant as between the lands of the same or neighbouring estates and between tenant and tenant : Fazlar Rahaman v. Golam Kader, 30 C.W.N. 689 (B. B. Ghose and Graham, J.J.) ; see notes under s. 103B, heading No. 6, at p. 560.

has been finally published, the plaintiff shall contain a statement of the serial number or numbers borne by the tenancy in the record-of-rights, and of the area and rental of the tenancy according to such record, unless the Court is satisfied, for reasons to be recorded in writing, that the plaintiff was prevented by any sufficient cause from furnishing such statement:

Provided that, in all cases in which the Court admits a plaintiff which does not contain such statement, the Court shall, and in any other case in which it sees fit the Court may, require the Collector to supply, without payment of fee, a verified or certified copy of, or extract from, the record-of-rights relating to the tenancy:

East Bengal.

(ff) when any account books, rent-rolls, collection-papers, measurement-papers, maps or extracts from records-of-rights have been produced by the landlord before any Court, and have been admitted in evidence in a suit pending therein, copies of, or extracts from, such documents, certified by a duly authorized officer of such Court to be true copies or extracts, may, with the permission of the Court, be substituted on the record for the originals, which may then be returned to the landlord ;

And thereafter copies and extracts, so certified, may be admitted in evidence in any other suit instituted in the same or any other Court, unless the

- (g) the Court may, when passing the decree, order on the oral application of the decree-holder the execution thereof, unless it is a decree for ejectment for arrears :
- (h) notwithstanding anything contained in section 232 of the Code of Civil Procedure, an application for the execution of a decree for arrears obtained by a landlord shall not be made by an assignee of the decree unless the landlord's interest in the land has become and is vested in him.

I. Amendments :—Cls. (b1), (b2), (ff) were inserted by Bengal Act I and East Bengal Act I of 1907 and 1908 respectively.

Clause (b 1) & b (2) :—The Select Committee in their report on the Bill said with reference to these clauses :—

“We are of opinion that it is necessary to require the Court to record reasons when it dispenses with a statement in the plaint. Unless this is done, some landlords will file plaints not containing the required particulars, and to save themselves trouble, Munsiffs will continue to decree according to the claims without reference to the record-of-rights. If the Munsiff is required to record his reasons for dispensing with the statement of the rental according to the record, he will insist on such particulars being furnished wherever possible.

We consider that in addition to a statement of the rental of a tenancy, the plaint should show the survey plot numbers comprised in the holding. The Court should not be allowed to have any excuse for not referring to the entries in the record-of-rights. Where a plaintiff, for a good and sufficient reason, fails to produce a statement of the rental or a list of survey-plot numbers, the Court should be obliged a call for a copy of the record from the Collector. We think that delay will be prevented and corruption of the amla checked if in all cases the record of rights is supplied by the Collector direct to the Court. No fees should be charged in any case for the copies.

We have thought it necessary to make it clear that a statement of rental and of survey plots in the plaint will be necessary, in cases where, since the record was finally published, a holding has been divided during partition proceedings, or amalgamated with another holding, or in other ways treated so as to obscure its identity."

S. 210, C. P. C. (O. 20, r. 11 of the new Code).

3. Portions of the Civil Procedure applicable and not applicable :—Besides the sections of the Civil Procedure Code mentioned in this section, s. 210, C. P. C. (See O. 20 r. 11 of the New Code) does not apply to a rent-suit as it has reference to a money decree and therefore in a rent-suit a decree for rent cannot be made payable in instalments under s. 210, C. P. C., Shibnarain v. Baikuntha Nath, 11 C.W.N. 857, but s. 546, C.P.C. (See O. 41, r. 6 of the New Code) although it speaks of a "decree for money" has been held to apply to a decree for rent: Banku Behary v. Syama Charan, 25 Cal. 322. The Appellate Court has power to stay sale under s. 546, C. P. C.: Tribeni v. Bhagwat, 34 Cal. 1037; s. 147A modifies s. 375, C. P. C. (O. 23 r. 3 of the New Code) to a certain extent. S. 170 lays down that ss. 278 to 283, (O. 21, rr. 30 to 39) C. P. C., shall not apply to a tenure or holding attached in execution of a decree for recording of evidence in English instead of in the language of the Court is merely an irregularity which may be cured under s. 578 C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882): Ratan Lal v. Farshi, 34 Cal. 396.

Ss. 278 to 283 C. P. C. (O. 21, rr. 59 to 63).

4. S. 10 C. P. C. :—S. 10 of the Civil Procedure Code does not bar the trial of a suit for rent for a period subsequent to that included in the previously instituted suit for rent; the expression "matter in issue" in s. 10 C. P. C. refers to the entire subject in controversy between the parties: Bepin Behari v. Jogendrachandra, 27 C.L.J. 541.

When it is necessary to determine question as to whether defendant holds land set forth in the plaint.

5. Cl. (b) :—In a suit for rent, where the plaintiff claims a certain rent as payable in respect of certain lands mentioned in the plaint and the defendant denies the occupation of these lands at the rents alleged by the plaintiff but admits that he holds other lands at different rents, the proper issue to be tried is whether the defendant holds lands set forth in the plaint at the rent specified having regard to the provisions of s. 148, cl. (b) of the Act, as a simple issue as to whether, the defendant holds the jumas set forth in the plaint under the plaintiff is not sufficient: Bhaichal v. Shaikh Shamnuyasi, 1 C.W.N. 152.

The case of Bhaichal v. Shaikh Shamnuasi, 1 C.W.N. 152 was considered by Mookerjee and Carnduff, J.J., in the case of Ramdev v. Newaj Prosad, 10 C.L.J., 196 and their Lordships said as follows: "It is not possible to lay down any inflexible rule of universal application, upon the question whether the precise area of the tenancy could or should not be determined in a suit for rent. The only general principle which can be formulated is that where there is a substantial dispute as to the identity of the tenancy set-up by the parties to the suit, the question in controversy must be decided."

No inflexible rule of universal application.

Where the plaintiff alleged that the original tenancy which had been created in the year, 1887 ceased to exist, that upon the expiry of the term a new tenancy was created in respect of a portion of the land, and the defendant alleged that the old tenancy was continuing, held that the question in controversy could not be left open but must be decided: Ibid.

Controversy as to whether old tenancy is continuing.

In a suit for recovery of rent where the allegation was that the defendant held a tenure consisting of 61 odd bighas of land within certain boundaries as specified in the plaint and the defence was that the area was only 36 bighas within certain boundaries as mentioned in the written statement at a certain rate of rent per bigha, and the lower Appellate Court decreed the suit without deciding the question as to the area of the lands and keeping the question open; held, that the decision of the Subordinate Judge was correct and did not contravene the provisions of sec. 148, cl. (b) of the Tenancy Act. Per Banerjee, J.—That in a rent-suit it is not absolutely necessary for the plaintiff to give the extent and boundaries of the lands in respect of which rent is claimed where there is any difficulty in giving those particulars and that in such cases it is enough if a description sufficient for identification is given; that the Court is not bound in every suit for arrears of rent to determine the extent and boundaries of the defendant's holding or tenure: Pifurndi Naskar v. Ambikacharan, 5 C.W. N. 121, Banerjee J., in delivering judgment in this case observed as follows:—

Question as to area.

No doubt it is true that cl. (b) of sec. 148 of the Bengal Tenancy Act requires that the plaintiff should ordinarily give a statement of the extent and boundaries of the land held by the defendant, but cl. (b) further provides "or when the plaintiff is unable to give the extent or boundaries, in lieu thereof a description sufficient for identification." That indicates that it is not absolutely necessary for the plaintiff to give the extent or boundaries of the land in respect of which rent is claimed where there is any difficulty in giving those particulars; and that in such cases, it would be enough if in lieu of giving the extent or boundaries of the land a description sufficient for identification is given. It cannot, therefore, be said that the Court is bound, in every suit for arrears of rent, to determine the extent or boundaries of the defendant's holding or tenure: Ibid.

Observations of Banerjee J.

In a suit for arrears of rent the plaintiff claimed a certain rent in respect of certain survey plots mentioned in the plaint and the defendant denied the relationship of landlord and tenant in respect of those plots but admitted a tenancy under the plaintiff at the rent claimed in respect of different lands, held that it is necessary to determine the question as to what lands were comprised in the tenancy in suit, and that the plaintiff was not entitled to a decree unless it was proved that the lands mentioned in the plaint formed the tenancy in suit: Indu Bhusan v. Jatindranath, 32 C.W.N. 244 (Rankin, C.J. and Mitter, J.J.).

What lands are comprised in the tenancy, when to be determined.

A mere incidental dispute about boundary has got nothing to do with a rent suit. But unless every rent decree be definitely given in respect of a certain ascertained land the state of the country would get even more confused in the matter of agricultural right than it is at present: Ibid.

What is a sufficient description for identification.

In a suit for rent the plaintiff after stating his title to a certain zemindari described defendants' tenure in the following words:— "In the said zemindari there is a juma standing in the name of Kala Chand Biswas bearing a variable yearly rent of Rs. 170-9-3 pies, situate in bil Eran Mohis Charali, within the jurisdiction of station Kotowali, which was owned and held by the defendants to the extent of 16 annas share. The annual rent of Rs. 56-2-9 pies is due to the plaintiffs, in respect of 5 ans. 4 pies share thereof." The first Court held that the plaint did not satisfy the requirements of cl. (b) and as such could not be registered; the plaint not being amended was rejected. The lower Appellate Court also held the same; in second appeal it was held the lower Courts were wrong and the plaint ought to have been registered: Durga Charan Laha v. Kala Chand Biswas, 7 C.W.N. 615.

Suit dismissed on default of tenant to furnish summons containing boundaries.

In a suit for rent where the copies of the summons did not contain a correct description of the boundaries, and the Court ordered them to be filed within a certain date and on default the suit was dismissed long before the date fixed for hearing, held that the order of dismissal was bad: Rajendra v. Hirralal, 13 C.W.N. 19 (notes).

6. Cl. (b) :—Where in a suit for rent the plaintiff did not include two of the plots entered in the Record-of-rights, and subsequently amended the plaint by inclusion of the said two plots under protest and obtained a rent decree, held in a suit for recovery of possession of the said two plots against the tenant, that the plaintiff was not estopped from claiming the same: Bansraj Lal v. Motilal, 1918 Pat. 21.

Cl. (h) should be strictly interpreted.

7. Cl. (h) :—(a) Interpretation: This clause imposes a limitation upon the execution of a decree for rent and therefore it should be interpreted strictly and should not be extended to any person who does not come properly within its provisions: Nagendra v. Bhuban Mohan, 6 C.W.N. 91.

"There can be no doubt that if we look to the language of this clause and place a strict construction upon it, it cannot be taken to mean that an assignee of a decree for arrears cannot at all make an application for execution thereof, except in the special case in which he has also obtained an assignment of the landlord's interest in the land": Per Mookerjee, J., in Manurattan v. Hari Nath, 1 C.L.J. 500 at p. 505.

Not applicable to a decree obtained by a co-sharer.

(b) Co-sharer: It seems that this clause i.e. cl. (h) is not applicable to a decree obtained by a co-sharer landlord, for the simple reason that such a decree is a money decree, and the assignee of such a decree without the assignment of the land will have no conflict with the co-sharer who obtains a decree subsequently for his share of the rent as both are money decrees: whereas the assignee of a decree of rent obtained by a 16 annas landlord or an entire body of landlords to whom the land has not been assigned will have conflict with the landlords when they obtain a decree for subsequent rent, for, the question then might arise (but for the present clause) as to which of the decrees should be a charge on the tenure. The question has been discussed in Manurattan v. Hari Nath, 1 C.L.J. 500, where however the contrary view has been taken.

(c) Erroneous application of cl. (h): Where upon the objections of the judgment-debtor the Court erroneously decides that this clause is no bar to the execution proceedings the decision may bind him but not an unrecorded tenant: Manurattan v. Hari Nath, 1 C.L.J. 500. Unrecorded tenant.

(d) Assignment—Payment to assignee: If a payment made to an assignee of a rent-decree is accepted by him, the decree is satisfied and there is nothing in s. 148 (h) to prevent it: Rajanikant v. Ramanath, 19 C.W.N. 458; where in execution of a decree for rent by an assignee a co-tenant was compelled to pay off the debt he is entitled to sue for contribution against the other co-tenants: Ibid. Assignment.

Assignment of decree: By the expression “landlord’s interest” in s. 148, cl. (h), is meant the interest of the person entitled to receive the rent from the tenant at the date of the application for the execution of the decree; where, therefore, a decree for rent obtained by a ticcadar during the pendency of the ticca was transferred to the landlord before the termination of the ticca, but, after the termination of the ticca the landlord applied for execution of the decree: held that the execution should proceed: Shambhu Nath Sing v. Sheo Proshad Singh, 40 Cal. 462, s.c., 17 C.W.N. 276, s.c., 17 C.L.J. 227 (F.B.); the case of Dwarka Nath Sen v. Peari Mohon Sen, 1 C.W.N. 694 was over-ruled and the case of Monmotha v. Rakhal Chandra, 10 C.L.J. 346 was approved by the Full Bench.

Assignee, application for execution by: There is no provision in the Code of Civil Procedure which renders necessary the actual substitution of the name of an assignee or legal representatives for the validity of the proceedings in execution: all that s. 232 C.P.C. (Act XIV of 1882) provides is that the assignee should apply for execution of the decree and that his name should be brought on the record: Monmotha Nath v. Rakhal Chandra, 10 C.L.J. 396. Actual substitution of assignee’s name not necessary but assignee may apply in his own name.

A decree for arrears of rent obtained by the landlord against the defaulting tenant, as having accrued due between the date of the sale of the tenure in execution of a previous decree for arrears of rent and the date of confirmation of such sale, is a decree for rent and application for execution by the assignee of such a decree is barred by this clause: Karuna Moyee v. Surendra Nath Mukherjee, 26 Cal. 176. Decree for period after sale.

A sale held in execution of a decree for arrears of rent on an application by the assignee of the decree, when the landlord’s interest in the property itself was not transferred to the assignee, passed no title to the auction-purchaser under cl. (h) of s. 148: Guru Charan v. Kartik Nath, 10 C.W.N. 44; a purchaser of the same property at a sale held in execution of a mortgage decree obtained under the first sale acquired good title as against the first purchaser: Ibid. Where landlord’s interest is not transferred to assignee.

Assignment of decree obtained under the former Act: Where a decree had been passed under the former Rent Law, and the assignment of the decree and the application for execution by the assignee were made after the Bengal Tenancy Act came into operation, held that cl. (h) applied to the execution proceedings: Soshi Bhusan v. Gagan Chander, 22 Cal. 364. Cl. (h) of s. 148 does not prohibit the decree-holder to assign his decree nor does it prohibit any one from accepting an assignment of the decree, so long as Decree under the old Act.
Cl. (h) does not prohibit assignment but prohibits the

satisfaction can be obtained out of Court. All that it prohibits is an application for enforcement of the decree by an assignee: Ibid.

Application for execution by assignee of a tenure with arrears where decree obtained by vendor after date of assignment not maintainable.

Application for execution by an assignee for arrear.—Where subsequent to the assignment of a property with all balances and sums of money due and owing by the tenants, the assignor obtained a decree for arrears accruing on the date of assignment, against a tenant, held that the assignee has no locus standi to apply for execution of the decree in as much as he was not an assignee within the meaning of O. 21, r. 16, C. P. C. either by assignment in writing or by assignment by operation of law: Mathurapur Zemindary Co. v. Bhasaram Mandal, 28 C.W.N. 26, s. c., 39 C.L.J. 373; the case of Ananda Mohan Roy v. Pramatha Nath Ganguly, 25 C.W.N. 863 was distinguished which was a case in which a mortgagee auction purchaser claimed to execute a decree obtained previous to his purchase of the mortgage by virtue of the mortgage deed by which rents etc. had also been mortgaged.

It is submitted with great respect that the aforesaid decision cannot properly be distinguished, and it seems the decision in the case of Mathurapur Zemindary Co. v. Bhasaram Mandal, is against the principle laid down in the case of Ananda Mohan v. Pramatha Nath.

Ch. (h) does not apply to a decree for rent by outgoing landlord or assignee.

Decree for rent by outgoing landlord or assignee: A decree obtained in a suit for rent brought by a landlord who ceases to have interest in the land during the pendency of the suit, is not a decree for rent and the provisions of cl. (h) of this section do not apply to such a decree: Nagendra v. Bhuvan Mohan, 6 C.W.N. 91. When therefore such a decree is assigned by the decree-holder and is afterwards re-assigned to him this clause is no bar to the execution of the decree.

Where plaintiff landlord at date of suit and decree.

When the plaintiff in a suit for rent is shewn to have been the landlord at the date of the suit and also at the date of the decree, both suit and decree would clearly be a suit and a decree under the Bengal Tenancy Act: Khetra Pal v. Kritariha Moyi, 10 C.W.N. 547 (F.B.); s. c., 3 C.L.J. 470. [This Full Bench case overrules the case of Hemchunder v. Monmohini, 2 C.W.N. 604].

Assignee having landlord's interest. Assignment during pendency of suit—ordinary civil demand.

The provisions of this Act do not apply to a decree for rent obtained by an assignee of the arrears: Mahendra v. Kailas Chandra, 4 C.W.N. 605; unless the assignee of a rent-decree has the landlord's interest in the land he cannot execute it: Dina Nath v. Golak Mohini, 1 C.W.N. 183; where during the pendency of a suit for rent plaintiff sold his interest in the mehal to certain person and subsequently sold to him the decree for rent, held that the rent-decree if assigned under s. 232, ceased to be rent-decree and became only an ordinary civil demand: Ibid.

The decision of the High Court in the case of Maharaj Bahadur v. Forbes, 35 Cal. 737 has been reversed by the Privy Council (Forbes v. Maharaj Bahadur, 41 Cal. 926, s. c., 18 C.W.N. 747, s. c., 25 C.L.J. 434), and it has been held that where a landlord after parting with the interest of his estate brings a suit for rent i.e., where on the date of the institution of the suit he is no longer the landlord, the decree which he obtains cannot be executed as a rent decree. In regard to s. 148 cl. (h) their Lordships of the Privy Council said as follows: "The prohibition contained in this section refers to decrees obtained by the landlord under s. 65. To acquire the right which the section gives, not only the person obtaining the decree must be the landlord at the time, but the person seeking to execute it by sale of the tenure must have the landlord's interest "vested" in him. In order words the right to bring the tenure or holding, as the case may be, to sale exists so long as the relationship of landlord and tenant exists.

The case of Khetra Pal Singh v. Kritartha Mayee, 33 Cal. 566 (F.B.), s. c., 10 C.W.N. 547 was distinguished on the ground that in that case the landlord did not part with the property and did not thus put an end to the relationship of landlord and tenant until the decree in his suit for rent, whereas in the Privy Council case the landlord transferred his interest before the institution of the suit.

Application for execution of decree by a trustee: D, who was the owner of certain putni mehals, sold the same to one B on the 27th June 1893; on the 10th of July he obtained a decree for arrears of rent due from the judgment-debtors, for a period prior to the sale, and on the 19th of July he executed a trust-deed in favour of one G and others by which he conveyed to them various properties including the decree. D died in September 1896, and on the 3rd December following the trustees applied for execution. D's son M. subsequently joined in the application; held, that ~~sec~~ 148, cl. (h) of the Bengal Tenancy Act does not prevent the trustees from executing the decree, in as much as the word "assignee" as used in that section does not include persons in the position of the applicants who were executing the decrees under an assignment which is not for their benefit but for the benefit of the heir of the assignee: Chatraput Singh v. Gopi Chand Bothra, 26 Cal. 750, s. c., 4 C.W.N. 446.

Application maintainable by trustee.

Assignee

Assignment of a rent-decree, effect of s. 232, C. P. C. "In the present Act the law is, as it was before it, that the landlord had a first charge for his rent, and a rent-decree, if assigned under s. 232, ceased to be a rent-decree, and became only an ordinary civil demand recoverable under the Civil Procedure Code." Per O'KINEALY and HILL, J.J.: Dinonath v. Golap Mohini, 1 C.W.N. 113.

Rent-decree if assigned, becomes an ordinary civil demand.

S. 148 (h) does not speak of the assignor's interest but of the landlord's interest: Monmotho Nath v. Rakhal Chandra, 10 C.L.J. 396; s. c., 14 C.W.N. 752.

Transfer by operation of law: Where after an executor to the estate of a deceased person obtained a decree for rent, the probate was revoked at the instance of the son of the deceased, and the latter applied to execute the decree, held, that he was in a position to execute the decree, his succession to the estate of his father being a succession or transfer by operation of law: Uma Soondury v. Brojo Nath, 16 Cal. 347.

Application by transferee by operation of law maintainable.

Where a landlord obtains a decree for rent and applies for execution of that decree and during the pendency of the execution proceedings the interest of the landlord, by operation of law, vests in the superior landlord who thereby becomes the direct landlord of the tenants, and the interest of the landlord in the decree for rent is transferred to the superior landlord who is authorised to carry on the execution already initiated, in the name of either the assignor or the assignee, s. 148 (h) does not debar the superior landlord from executing the decree for rent in the same manner as the landlord decree-holder might have done: Monmotho Nath v. Rakhal Chandra, 14 C.W.N. 752, s. c., 10 C.L.J. 396.

Transfer by operation of law during the pendency of execution proceedings.

Cl. (h) not retrospective.

Assignment before the Act.

Operation of cl. (h) whether retrospective: The application of s. 148 (h) is not retrospective: Koylosh Chunder v. Jadu Nath, 14 Cal. 380 at p. 381. So where before the passing of the Act a person was substituted by an order under s. 232, it was held that the application of s. 148 (h) was not to affect that order: Ibid. But the mere fact that an assignment was made before the passing of the Bengal Tenancy Act would not entitle the assignee to be protected from the provisions of s. 148, cl. (h): Ibid.

This clause (i.e., cl. h) applies to an application made after the passing of the Bengal Tenancy Act in respect to a decree passed before the passing of the Act: Manurattan v. Harinath, 1 C.L.J. 500. [See also Kailas v. Jadu Nath, 14 Cal. 380; Deb Narayan v. Narendra, 16 Cal. 267; Shosi Bhusan v. Gagan, 22 Cal. 364].

8. Rent-suit by a managing member of a Mitakshara family. :—A rent-suit by a manager of a Mitakshara family will not necessarily fail, merely because the infant coparceners have not been made joint plaintiffs: Kalipada v. Sati Prasad, 27 C.W.N. 372, s. c., 36 C.L.J. 234.

9. Rent-suit—area—decision binding upon auction purchaser :—Where in a rent-suit a question as to the area of a tenure was decided, held that an auction purchaser was bound by the said decision: Kalidayal v. Umesh Prasad, 1 Pat. 174.

10. S. 99 of the Civil Procedure Code :—S. 99 C. P. C. covers the case where a suit for rent is brought against a tenant with an alternative claim for recovery of money against a co-sharer landlord and the suit is tried summarily and without the settlement of issues; Krishna Kumari Basu v. Nagendra Prasad Basu*, 50 Cal. 807, s. c., 27 C.W.N. 716.

II. What is a decree for rent and what is not :—See notes under ss. 65 and 159.

12. Suit for rent by a landlord who has sold his interest in land :—Where a landlord plaintiff sells his interest in the land and transfers to the purchaser all claims for rent in arrears in the suit then pending and the deed authorised the purchaser as the irrevocable attorney of the vendor i.e. the plaintiff, to continue and prosecute in the name of the plaintiff the suit then in existence or any future suit with reference to the monies and claims transferred by that document, held that a suit for rent by the plaintiff is maintainable: Mohendra Nath v. Paresch Chandra, 40 I.C. 506. See notes under s. 65.

7. Execution :—Death of Judgment debtor: Where an application for execution of a rent-decree was made within time, but on notice under s. 248 C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882) it was found that the judgment-debtor was dead, held that the court had power to allow the substitution and that execution was not barred although the substitution was made more than three years after the date of the decree, the decree being for a sum far below Rs. 500: Kumar Kalanand v. Chandra Kishore, 12 C.L.J. 192.

* In 27 C.W.N. 716 the case is named as Tinkari Basu v. Nagendra Prasad Basu.

Death of judgment creditor or debtor: On the death of an execution creditor or of a judgment debtor the proceedings do not lapse and the provisions relating to substitution upon the death etc. of parties do not apply to proceedings in execution between the decree holder and the judgment debtor: Monmotha Nath v. Rakhal Chandra, 14 C.W.N. 752, s. c., 10 C.L.J. 396.

I. Notes :—This Section was inserted by the amending Acts of Bengal and East Bengal—Acts I of 1907 and I of 1908 in Bengal and East Bengal respectively.

The Bengal Section (148A) was inserted by s. 44 Act I B.C. of 1907. The object of this section as explained in the Notes on the Clauses of the Bill is stated as follows :—

the section.

“Under the present law, considerable difficulty in realising rents is often experienced by co-sharer landlords, who make rent collections jointly. A decree for arrears of rent, obtained by a co-sharer for the amount due to him alone, is a mere money decree (Jogendra v. Paban, 8 C.W.N. 472) and the tenure or holding, in respect of which the arrears are due, does not pass to the purchaser in a sale for the execution of such a decree (Narainuddin v. Srimanta, 29 Cal. 219), unless he can get himself recognised by the other co-sharers. Decrees for arrears of rent obtained by single co-sharer, are therefore often of little value, and the system is further objectionable, in that it exposes the tenant to the trouble of several successive suits brought by different co-sharer landlords. Considering that the majority of estates in the Province are held by co-sharer landlords, it seems necessary to provide a remedy for the present state of things. As it is often impossible to get all the landlords to join in a suit for arrears of rent, a single co-sharer should be empowered to sue for the rent due to all the co-sharers, and that the tenure or holding should pass in execution of a decree obtained in such a suit, provided that the other co-sharers have been made parties.”

The East Bengal Sec. (148A) was inserted by s. 44 of Act I E. B. A. C. of 1908. The object of the section as stated in the Report of the Select Committee is as follows :—

“The intention of the framers of the Bill was to limit the application of this clause to such co-sharers as collect their shares of the rent separately. We have inserted words to make their intention clear.”

2. Difference between the Bengal section & East Bengal section :—The wording of the Bengal section is different from that of the East Bengal section. According to the section prevailing in Bengal it appears that a co-sharer landlord, whether he has a right to sue separately for his share of the rent or not, may bring a suit for rent under this section, whereas according to the section prevailing in East Bengal the application of this section is limited to only such co-sharer landlords who have the right to sue separately for their shares of the rent.

In East Bengal a co-sharer landlord not entitled to sue separately cannot act under this section.

Although the East Bengal section applies only to such co-sharer landlords who are entitled to sue for their shares of the rent separately, yet it does not interfere with the right of a co-sharer landlord (not entitled to sue separately) to sue under the general law for the whole rent by making his co-sharers defendants who refuse to join as plaintiffs. As to the right of a co-sharer landlord to sue for the entire rent, see notes in the heading No. 4 below and also under s. 188. But he can sue under the general law for the whole rent by making his co-sharers party defendants.

3. Suit for rent after reclamation of land:—Where in a kabuliyat the area was stated by guess and that the tenant would pay at a certain rate mentioned in the kabuliyats for all lands when the same would be reclaimed, held that after the reclamation a suit for rent by a co-sharer landlord in which the other co-sharer landlords are made defendants is maintainable and s. 188 is no bar to such a suit as it is not a suit for additional rent for additional area: Bhosal v. Aminuddin, 21 C.W.N. 371; see Shital Chandra v. Manik Chandra, 13 C.W.N. 60, s.c., 9 C.L.J. 331. See notes under s. 52. Suit for rent after reclamation of land: s. 188.

4. Right of one co-sharer to sue for whole rent even when there was separate collection:—“.....it is a general rule not derived from the Bengal Tenancy Act, but from quite another branch of law, namely the general principles of legal procedure—that a sharer, whose co-sharers refuse to join him as plaintiffs, can bring them into the suit as defendants, and sue for the whole rent of the tenure”; Pramada Nath v. Ramanikant, 35 Cal. 331: s.c., 12 C.W.N. 249: s.c., 7 C.L.J. 139 (P.C.). Right of co-sharer to sue for whole rent.

Following the case of Pramada Nath v. Ramanikant, 35 Cal. 351, Rule laid the following rule was laid down in the case of Bholanath v. R. Belchambers, 14 C.L.J. 373:—Co-sharer landlords who by arrangement with the tenants used to collect their shares separately and had in previous years brought separate suits, are competent to sue jointly for the total amount of demands due to them relating to different periods under the terms of the original lease, which can be enforced by all the co-sharers together without the consent of the tenants.

Such a suit will be treated as one by the entire body of the landlords and the decree made in the suit will carry with it all the incidents attaching to such a suit.

A co-sharer landlord can maintain a suit for his share of the rent separately if there is arrangement for separate collection without a division of the lands amongst the co-sharers: Shyama Churn v. Joges Chandra, 10 C.W.N. 774; Mohendra v. Paresch, 40 I.C. 506; the case of Rajnarain v. Ekadasi, 27 Cal. 479 does not lay down that there must be division of the lands before a co-sharer can maintain a separate suit for his share of the rent: Ibid. Where no division of land.

Where rent had been separately recovered by co-sharers, held that an agreement expressly proved or implied by the conduct of parties, may establish the right to sue separately for the shares of rent receivable by the separate shareholders but such an arrangement, expressly or impliedly, merely affects the right to sue separately for rent but the right to bring the tenure to sale for arrears of rent remains intact and also the right of one sharer to sue, making his co-sharers defendants when they will not join as plaintiffs: Ibid. Following this decision it has been held that a suit for rent by the transferee of the whole interest of one of the co-sharers, making the Right to sue separately.

other co-sharers parties is maintainable if the tenant is jointly and severally liable for rent to the several co-sharer landlords; Sashee Kumar v. Seetanath, 35 Cal. 744.

A co-sharer landlord is entitled to maintain a suit for the entire rent, if his co-sharers on their refusal to join as plaintiffs are made defendants: Sashi Kumar v. Sitanath, 7 C.L.J., 425.

One of several joint landlords may bring a suit for recovery of balance of rent due, and, in the alternative, for recovery of sums which may have been collected by his co-sharers in excess of their legitimate share: Sham Singh v. Kishan Sahai, 6 C.L.J., 190.

Decree obtained by a co-sharer.

A decree obtained by a co-sharer landlord for his share of the rent in a suit not brought under s. 148A or s. 158B is a simple money decree: K. B. Dutt v. Gostha Behari, 16 C.W.N. 1005, s. c., 16 C.L.J. 379.

Usu-fructuary
mortgagee.

A usufructuary mortgagee from one of the co-sharer landlords is in the position of a co-sharer and is entitled to bring a suit for rent framing it as one under s. 148A: Brohmananda v. Hemchandra, 18 C.W.N., 1016.

Court fee.

5. Court fee and claim of the suit :—Where a plaintiff states in his plaint that he is aware of what is due to himself and he is not able to obtain precise information as to what might be due to his co-sharer but that he has reason to believe that there is nothing due to his co-sharer who is made a party defendant and the plaintiff offers to increase the valuation of the suit, if it should turn out in the end that rent was still due to his co-sharer, it was held that such a suit was one for the whole amount due as contemplated in the section and the decree would be a rent-decree: Nandalal v. Kalachand, 15 C.W.N. 820. It therefore seems that a co-sharer landlord may bring a suit under this section valuing his claim for his share only and paying court-fee for that amount if he is not aware of the amount of arrear in the share of his co-sharer.

Alternative claim.

6. Suit by one of joint landlords for rent with alternative claim against co-sharer landlord :—A suit is maintainable by one of several joint landlords for recovery of balance rent due from a tenant, and in the alternative, for recovery of sums which may have been collected by his co-sharers in excess of their legitimate share: Sheikh Uzir v. Hari Charan, 37 I.C. 671; see also Ahamudin v. Girish Chander, 4 Cal. 350, Sham Singh v. Kishna Sahai, 6 C.L.J., 190, Srinivasa v. Pichakaran, 29 Mad. 184, Yerokola v. Mudiya Kamadu, 4 I.C., 34. But, if relief is sought in the alternative in this manner, foundation for the claim must be held in the allegations; a general prayer may well cover any other relief arising out of the same cause of action; but it does not cover a relief arising from a different cause of action: Sheikh Uzir v. Hari Charan, 37 I.C. 671; see also Mohammad Zahoor v. Thakorane, 9 W.R. (P.C.) 9; Sital Das v. Pertab Chunder, 11 C.L.J., 2, Basowan Kurmi v. Nokchedi, 27 All. 174; Gopinairain v. Bansidhar, 32 I.A. 123, s.c., 9 C.W.N. 557 and Devi Doyal v. Bhan Pertap, 21 Bom. 248.

A co-sharer landlord who brings a suit for rent is competent to make the other co-sharer a party defendant and claim an alternative relief for a decree against the latter, if it is found that the latter realised the share of rent due to the plaintiff: Iswar Dalin v. Girindra Kumar, 48 I.C. 726.

A co-sharer landlord is not entitled to sue for his own share of the rent without making the other co-sharers parties or without proving separate collection or praying for apportionment of rent, and a simple suit for rent cannot be converted into a suit for apportionment of rent: Kamalesh v. Dwarikanath, 28 C.W.N. 967.

A suit for apportionment of rent should be properly framed so as to implead all the co-sharers and the tenants who are necessary parties: Ibid.

A co-sharer landlord can, in the presence of other co-sharers who are incompetent to realise their rent on account of the provisions of sections 15 and 16 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, sue for his share of rent and recover it although there had been no separate collection before: Nibaran v. Nabin Chandra, 40 C.L.J., 504.

7. Joint Sebaitis:—Joint Sebaitis are not co-sharers but co-worshippers and any family arrangement at which they may have arrived amongst themselves cannot entitle them to treat the debuttur property as personal property and to sue personally for their share of the rent payable to the deity; their interest and authority being equal and undivided they cannot act separately but all must join: when the co-sebaitis who are made proforma defendants decline to join as plaintiffs, the proper course for the plaintiff co-sebait is to sue for the entire rent: Norendra Nath v. Atul Chandra, 27 C.L.J., 305; this principle in no way contravenes the decision of the Judicial Committee in Jogadindra v. Hemanta Kumari, 31 I.A. 203, s.c., 32, Cal. 129, s.c., 8 C.W.N. 809: Ibid. See also Abdul Gafur v. Uma Kant, 19 C.W.N. 260; Kumban v. Moorhi, 7 I.C. 422; Peary Mohan v. Kedar Nath, 26 Cal. 409, s.c., 3 C.W.N. 271.

8. Suit for rent, maintainable at the instance of a Manager of a Mitakshara family:—It is submitted that in a suit for rent all the members of a Hindu Mitakshara family must join as plaintiffs and a suit is not maintainable at the instance of the Manager (karta) alone.

Ordinarily, a co-sharer may bring a suit for rent and frame the suit under s. 148A by making the other co-sharers party defendants, but in a Mitakshara family, one member has no right to maintain a suit for rent for the entire rent even by making the other members as party defendants. S. 148A contemplates cases where one of two or more joint landlords has a definite share in the property; for, it is stated in the section "such co-sharer landlord shall be entitled to proceed with the suit for his share of the rent only....." A member of a Mitakshara family has no defined share and therefore the words of the section "for his share of the rent only" can have no meaning to a member of a Mitakshara family.

It has been decided in the case of Mir Taperah v. Gopal Narayan, 7 C.L.J., 251 that when rent is due to the members of a joint Hindu family, it is not open to the karta alone to maintain a rent-suit without joining the other members either as plaintiffs, or as defendants, except when the tenant has dealt with such karta as sole landlord.

In a case under s. 105 of the Bengal Tenancy Act for settlement of fair rent, it has been decided that all the members of a Mitakshara family must join as plaintiffs (applicants) and that a managing member alone has no such right, see the case of Sati Prasad v. Sonatan Jhara, 25 C.W.N. 38.

S. 188 of the B. T. Act applies to proceedings under s. 105 and it was accordingly held that all the members must join as plaintiffs. Although s. 188 of the Bengal Tenancy Act has no application to a rent suit, yet the principle underlying the decision in the aforesaid case applies to a rent suit by a member of a Mitakshara family, for, one out of two or more members has no defined share and as such cannot bring a rent suit. See in this connection Sati Prasad v. Radha Nath, 16 C.L.J. 427.

Suit under s. 85 of the Transfer of Property Act—all the members of a Mitakshara family necessary parties.

In a joint Mitakshara family consisting of a father and a minor son, the father as karta of the family by a mortgage bond hypothecated the joint property, held that in a view of s. 85 of the Transfer of Property Act both the father and the son are necessary parties in a suit upon the mortgage, and for the purpose of the suit the father does not represent the son: Lala Surja Prasad v. Golab Chand, 28 Cal. 517; the judgment of Ghose J., was reversed and that of Harington J., was affirmed. This decision was followed in the case Debi Prasad Sahi v. Dharamjit Narayan, 41 Cal. 727; the addition of a party after the period of limitation cannot be made: Ibid. member of joint Mitakshara family has no right to sue in his individual capacity to recover a debt due to the family: Shivijira alias Shivraj v. Vishnu Vaman, 2 Bom. L.R., 121.

One co-owner cannot be invested by others to sue for ejectment.

"Co-owners may agree that their property shall be managed and legal proceedings conducted by some or one of their member, but they cannot invest each person or persons with a competency to sue in his name or their behalf, or, if sued to represent them. It may, indeed, happen that a suit by one of several co-owners can be successfully maintained against a tenant. This is the case when the tenant has dealt with such co-owner as sole landlord and, by so dealing is estopped from denying the title of the person who has let him into possession: Kathusheri v. Vallotil, 3 Mad. 234. A suit for assessment of rent for excess land instituted by some of the members of a joint Mitakshara family, cannot be considered as instituted by them as agents for other members, authorised to act on behalf of all the landlords within the meaning of s. 188 B. T. Act: Sati Prasad v. Radhanath, 16 C.L.J. 427; in this case their lordships considered it "doubtful whether a member of a joint Mitakshara family, even if he happens to be the head of the family, can be said to be an agent, authorised on behalf of other members of the family". In the case of Bhola Roy v. Jang Bahadur, 19 C.L.J., 5, the original plaintiff who was the head of a Mitakshara family and who had always collected rent as such head brought a suit for rent and the defendant objected saying that the plaintiff had an infant nephew, and on such objection plaintiff added his minor nephew as co-plaintiff after the period of limitation and had himself appointed as guardian of the added minor plaintiff, held that the suit was not barred. Their Lordships further remarked that the original plaintiff was competent to maintain the suit, as he alone had always collected the rent as the head of the joint Mitakshara family:

Rent-suit by a co-owner who has always collected rent.

It is respectfully submitted that the above remarks of their Lordships (in italics) are obiter dicta, and are open to doubt in as much as the payment of rent to one of several joint landlord who accepts it on behalf of others does not constitute a separate agreement entitling the person who receives rent to sue for rent.

A member of a joint family has no right in law to sue alone for the recovery of property belonging to other members as well as himself; "neither the defendant nor any one else was injured" is no ground: Gokool Pershad v. Etwaree Mahto, 20 W.R. 138.

The principle in this case, should apply to a rent-suit; for, a rent-decree is not a decree for money merely; rent is a first charge on the tenure and the tenure is liable to be sold free from all encumbrances in execution of a decree for rent; against a non-occupancy raiyat or a non-permanent tenure-holder the decree for arrears of rent is a decree for ejectment. So, in principle, there is practically no distinction between a decree for recovery of immovable property and a decree for rent, for the latter decree carries with it certain rights against the tenure, and certain liabilities are attached to it as soon as a decree for rent is obtained.

In a suit by one of two co-uralans of a Malabar devasour to recover land, the property of the devasur, the uralan being joined as defendant, there was no evidence that the latter had repudiated the right of the plaintiff to sue in conjunction with himself and it appeared that he had not been consulted as to the institution of the suit, held that the suit was bad for non-joinder of the co-uralan as plaintiff: 14 Mad. 489.

9. Right to re-cover rent by suit: Remedy of a co-sharer landlord :

1. A co-sharer land-lord who is entitled to sue for his share of the rent separately may follow one of the following courses for recovery of rent:

Remedy of a co-sharer landlord to recover
rent.

(1) He may bring a suit for his share of the rent separately on the basis of his right to sue separately on account of an arrangement or agreement, express or implied, or

(2) he may join with his other co-sharers in bringing one suit for the entire demand, or

(3) he alone may bring a suit for rent by framing the suit as one under Section 148A of the Bengal Tenancy Act.

2. In the case under paragraph 1 sub-para (1) the decree will be a money-decree. In the two other cases, i.e. under para 1 sub-paras (2) and (3) the decree will be a rent-decree.

Money-decree or rent-decree.

3. Now, the question is as to what is the effect of addition of the other co-owners as defendants in a suit framed as stated in sub-para (1) of para 1, i.e., if a co-owner brings a suit for his share of the rent on the basis that he is entitled to recover his share of the rent separately on account of an agreement or arrangement express or implied, and he makes the other co-owners as defendants, can it be said that the decree passed in such a suit is a rent-decree or is it a money-decree? The simple fact of joining the other co-owners as defendants will not make the decree a rent-decree. For, the real distinction is this:—was the suit based upon the right of the plaintiff to sue separately by reason of agreement or arrangement of separate collection? If it is so, the decree will be a money-decree notwithstanding that the other co-owners are brought in as party defendants. On the other hand, if the other co-owners are made party defendants and the suit is framed as one under Section 148A of the Bengal Tenancy Act, the decree will be a rent-decree.

4. The propositions of law may, therefore, be enunciated as follows:—

(1) When a co-sharer landlord brings a suit for rent for his share of rent, on the basis that he has the right of separate collection, the decree will be a money-decree, whether the other co-sharers are made party defendants or not.

(2) On the other hand, if a co-sharer brings a suit for rent by making the other co-owners as party defendants, and frames his suit as one under Section 148A of the Bengal Tenancy Act, the decree will be a rent-decree. [As to how a suit is to be framed under s. 148A, see below para (8), sub-para (2)].

5. In the case of Nanda Lal v. Kalachand, 15 C.W.N. 820, the plaintiffs alleged in the plaint that the annual rent was Rs. 14 a year, that it was jointly payable to themselves and the proforma defendant, that the rent due for their share was in arrears, that they had not been able to ascertain whether the rent due for the share of the proforma defendant had been paid, but that they had reason to believe that it had been paid: they consequently brought the suit for recovery of what they believed to be the total amount of rent due: but they stated that if it transpired that any portion of the rent due to the proforma defendant was still unpaid, they would increase the value of the suit and pay additional Court fees. The Court fee was paid for the amount claimed by the plaintiff. It was held by Mookerjee and Newbould J.J., that the plaint was one under section 148A of the Bengal Tenancy Act.

6. The aforesaid case was followed in the case of Brahmanand v. Hemchandra, 18 C.W.N. 1016 where it was held by Mookerjee and Beachcroft J.J., that in a plaint under section 148A of the Bengal Tenancy Act if a plaintiff sues for recovery of what to his information was the whole arrear due, it is in essence a suit for rent due to all the co-sharers within the meaning of Section 148A and it was further held that in order to entitle a person to claim the benefit of section 148A it is not necessary to include in the suit a claim, not for the rent actually in arrears, but the rent payable under the contract without the deluction of any amount that might have been actually paid to the land-lord.

7. The Rules laid down in the two aforesaid cases have not been over-ruled or modified by the decision in the case of Baikuntha v. Ramapati, 27 C.L.J., 101. In this case Mookerjee and Walmsley J., were of opinion that if in substance a suit is brought for the share of the rent due to the plaintiff separately by reason of the fact that that he has on previous occasions collected that share of the rent separately from his co-sharers, the suit cannot be regarded as one under Sections 148A although there is a prayer to the effect that if it be found that there was arrear due to the other co-sharer a decree might be given for the entire rent ; the nature of the decree to be made in the suit depends upon its true character.

Remedy of a co-sharer landlord to recover rent.

Rules laid down in the two aforesaid cases have not been over ruled by Baikuntha v. Ramapati.

8. From the aforesaid rulings the following Conclusions. conclusions may be drawn :

- (1) The case of Baikuntha v. Ramapati, 27 C.L.J. 101 has not in any way affected the earlier rulings in as much as in the case in 27 C.L.J. it was decided that the suit there was based on the basis of separate collection and therefore, it was dismissed as separate collection had not been proved. (The same view has been taken in Ramdhyan v. Pardip Singh, 4 Pat.L.J. 500).

Manuk J. (Atkinson J., concurring) made the following observations in the case of Ram Dhyay v. Pardip, 4 Pat.L.J. 500 at 504 "I am of opinion that the essential principles underlying that section are (1) that the suit should, in form, be for the whole rent and in substance for the separate share of rent in arrears ; (2) that the whole body of landlords are impleaded, with the allegation that the plaintiff has not been able to ascertain, what, if any, rents are due to the former. In such cases the whole rent due must, in the nature of things, be always a matter of speculation for the plaintiff and he is entitled to assert that he believes that his share of the rent due to the entire rent due and ask the Court to decide on the accuracy of that belief, and if when the impleaded co-sharers appear and claim any arrears as due to themselves. If his belief is accurate the Court will give him a decree for his share of the rent only as being the entire rent due ; if inaccurate, the Court will investigate and decree the arrears due to the impleaded co-sharers as well : Ram Dhyay v. Pardip, Pat.L.J. 500 at p. 504. The following cases were considered : Nandalal v. Kalachand, 15 C.W.N. 10, Brohmanand v. Hemchandra, 18 C.W.N. 1016, Baikuntha Nath v. Ramapati, 27 C.L.J. 101.

Essential principles underlying s. 148A.

The case in 27 C.L.J. 101 in no way touches the principles on which the earlier cases in Calcutta were decided: Ram Dhyani v. Pardip Singh, 4 Pat. L.J. 500 at p. 505.

(2) When the co-owner brings a suit under section 148A of the Bengal Tenancy Act:

(a) he should make the other co-sharers party-defendants.

(b) the suit should be in substance a suit for recovery of the rent of the entire tenure or holding.

(c) but the co-sharer plaintiff shall be entitled to proceed with the suit for his share if he is unable to ascertain what rent is due for the whole on account of the refusal and neglect of the tenant or of the co-sharer-landlord-defendants to furnish the correct information.

(d) If a suit is really framed as a suit under section 148A of the Bengal Tenancy Act, the mere mention in the plaint that the plaintiff collected his rent separately will not take it out of the provisions of Section 148A of the Bengal Tenancy Act.

(e) the real test is as to whether the suit is or is not really based on the plaintiff's right to sue separately.

9. If a suit is properly framed as one under Section 148A of the Bengal Tenancy Act the Court fee is to be paid upon the amount claimed. The last portion of section 148A clearly states: "such plaintiff co-sharer landlord shall be entitled to proceed with the suit for his share only of the rent."

Court-fee.

It is absurd to suppose that a party is to pay court-fee upon an amount not claimed, or upon an amount not known to the plaintiff and not claimed.

In the case of Nandalal v. Kalachand, 15 C.W.N. 820, court-fee was paid upon the plaintiff's share of rent.

The following cases may be referred to on the subject:—Pramada v. Ramani Kant, 35 Cal. 331, s.c., 12 C.W.N. 249, s.c., 7 C.L.J. 139 (P.C.). Bholanath v. Belchambers, 14 C.L.J. 373. Shyama Churn v. Joges Chandra, 16 C.W.N. 774. Sashi Kumar v. Seetanath, 35 Cal. 744, s.c., 7 C.L.J. 425. Sham Singh v. Kishun Sahai, 6 C.L.J. 190. *K. B. Dutt v. 10. Decree in a suit framed under s. 148A binds a purchaser of a portion of the holding :—A decree passed in a suit framed under s. 148A and the sale in execution of such decree binds the purchaser from the tenant of a portion of a holding, although the purchase had taken place before the institution of the suit: Bhaikhia v. Birj Bihari, 2 Pat.L.J. 478.

II. Reasons for enactment of s. 148A—Essentials of a plaint under this section :—S. 148A was enacted in order to further facilitate the recovery of the arrears of rent due to a co-sharer who is in dispute with his tenants or his fellow landlords: Rajgiri Singh v. Jadunath Ray, [1922 Pat.] p. 355 (Dawson Miller, C.J. and Mullick, J.).

Reason for enactment of the section.

The essentials of a suit under this section are:—

- (1) that the suit should in form be for the whole rent.
- (2) and in substance be for the separate share of rent in arrears.
- (3) that the whole body of landlords should be impleaded with the allegation that the plaintiff has not been able to ascertain what, if any, rents are due to the former: Masud Ahmed v. Jagan Singh, 68 I.C. 625.

Essentials of a plaint in a suit under s. 148A.

Where the plaintiff claimed his share of rent and in the alternative the whole rent for the years in suit on his own behalf and of his co-sharers, the plaint was held to conform with s. 148A, and the High Court directed the amendment of the prayer column on payment of deficit Court-fee: Rajgiri Singh v. Jadunath Ray, [1922 Pat.] p. 355.

Where a co-sharer landlord who was not in separate collection rent stated that he had enquired of his other co-sharers whether they had realised any rent and the latter did not give him any information, and made his co-sharers parties in the rent suit, and stated that if his co-sharers' share of the rent had remained unpaid he was willing to pay additional Court-fee, held that the suit was substantially one framed under s. 148A: Profulla v. Baburam 34 C.L.J. 462; the case of Brahmanand v. Hem, 18 C.W.N. 1016 was followed and that of Baikanta v. Ramapati, 27 C.L.J. 101 was distinguished.

Contents of plaint when sufficient.

Baikantha v. Ramapati, 27 C.L.J. 101, distinguished.

The case of Baikantha v. Ramapati, 27 C.L.J. 101 was distinguished in the case of Jagabandhu v. Abdul Hamid, 28 C.W.N. 757 (Walmsley and Suhrawardy, JJ.), and it was held that the elements of s. 148A were sufficiently complied with where a co-sharer landlord's plaint in a suit for rent mentioned what was the rent payable in the 16 ans. share, what was payable in the different shares, what was believed to be due altogether for the period in suit with damages in 16 ans. and what was due to the plaintiffs on their shares and what was payable to the other landlords in their shares, and then went on to allege that the other landlords having refused to let the plaintiffs know what was due to them, the plaintiffs had been unable to ascertain that and on that account they asked for a decree for the amount due to themselves alone and in the alternative prayed that if the other landlords wished to be added as plaintiffs on disclosing what was due to them then they might be transferred from the category of the defendants to that of plaintiffs: The decree in the suit was a rent decree: Ibid.

Elements of a plaint under s. 148A—Baikantha v. Ramapati, distinguished.

For a plaint to be in accordance with the provisions laid down in s. 148A of the Bengal Tenancy Act (applying to East Bengal) the first requisite is that the co-sharer landlord should sue for recovery of the rent due to all the landlords, and secondly, if he is unable to find out the dues of the co-sharers, he would be entitled to proceed with the suit for his share only.

Elements necessary for a plaint under this section.

Where the plaintiffs sued for their share of the rent alone, stating that a certain amount might be due to the co-sharer landlords and prayed that under certain conditions stated in the plaint a decree for the total amount due might be passed, held, that the plaint was not in accordance with s. 148A of the Bengal Tenancy Act, the terms whereof should be strictly complied with, a substantial compliance with the requirements of the section would not be enough to give the auction purchaser a title to annul incumbrances: Gangamani v. Rajabali, 51 Cal. 935, s.c., 40 C.L.J. 512 (Newbould and B. B. Ghose, JJ.); the effect of the decision of the learned Judges in this case is that the co-sharer landlords should include in his plaint the 16 ans. rent which is payable for the jama even if he does not know the portion of rent due to the other co-sharer landlords defendants. The expression "has instituted a suit due to all the co-sharer landlords," it is submitted means what the plaintiff knows to be due. If the plaintiff does not know really what is due it is not possible for him to bring the suit for such amount and there cannot be any verification of the plaint of a fact which the plaintiff does not know. Non-inclusion of the 16 ans. rent does not prevent the plaintiff to ask for a relief that a decree may be given for the shares of the co-sharer defendants from praying the amount due to the co-sharers may also be decreed on payment of a proper Court-fee in case the other co-sharer landlords disclose the amount due to them. A suit brought in this way may be considered to be a suit for recovery of arrears due to all the co-sharers. It is therefore submitted with great respect to the correctness of this decision (Gangamani v. Rajabali, 51 Cal. 935) is open to doubt, and this decision seems to be contrary to the principles laid down in the case of Jagabandhu v. Abdul Hamid, 28 C.W.N. 757. It may be pointed out here that the words "has instituted a suit to recover the rent due to all the co-sharer landlords" occur in both Bengal and East Bengal sections.

"Has instituted a suit due to all the co-sharer landlords"; meaning of.

Where the prayer in the suit for rent by the co-sharer was that the other co-sharers might be added in decision in the plaintiff if the defendant objected to payr 37 Cal. 552, that the suit was not under s. 148A of the R. Maintainable: Nanji Koer v. Batul, 15 C.L.J. 653; the suit was not maintainable under s. 42 of the Specific Relief Act: Ibid; the suit was also barred by res judicata: Ibid.

Where A executed two kabuliyats, one in favour of B and another in favour of C of different amounts of rent, held that A is not a mere stakeholder within the meaning of s. 471 C. P. C. (Act XIV 1882) in so far as he may seek to establish a title to hold the land as the tenant of one or the other: Shelly Bonnerjee v. Rajchunder, 37 Cal. 552.

Where upon a registered kabuliyat A brought a suit for rent against B, and the defence was that B held directly under A's landlord C, and the defence being over-ruled a decree was passed in A's favour, and subsequently B brought a suit against both A and C for a declaration that he was C's tenant and also for refund of the money realised by A, held that the suit was barred by res judicata: Sreenath v. Kaser Sheikh, 18 C.W.N. 116.

Where A brings a suit for rent against B making C as a party defendant, and C admits that A is entitled to get a decree for rent against B, held that is not open to B to invite the Court to determine whether A or C is the landlord: Sreemati Sukumari Gupta v. Bharat Mandal, 20 C.L.J. 148; in such a case A is entitled to get a decree: Ibid.

recover the rent reserved in the lease without reference to the other co-proprietor whose name had been previously registered under the Land Registration Act: Prabodh Chandra v. Harish Chandra, 48 Cal. 1078, s.c., 27 C.W.N. 888.

One co-sharer cannot bring a suit for the entire rent when the contract made by the tenant was with several persons: Rajgiri Singh v. Jadunath Ray, [1922 Pat.] p. 355. But where the tenant is liable by express or implied contract to pay rent separately to a person, he can bring a suit for his share of the rent: Ibid. Claim for entire rent.

Mere omission to state specifically in the plaint that the plaintiff is entitled to sue for his share of the rent will not take the suit out of the purview of s. 148A if as a matter of fact, the contrary has not been proved in the case: Sasi Bhusan v. Khiroda Sundari, 95 I.C. 42. (Mukerji, J.).

Where an occupancy raiyat sold a part of his holding, and the transfer was recognised by one of several joint-landlords a decree for rent obtained in a suit by one of the co-sharer landlords who did not recognise the transfer cannot be considered to be a rent-decree although the suit was framed under s. 148A by making the remaining co-sharer landlords party-defendants: Sasi Bhusan Roy Choudhury v. Kali Prasanna Ray Choudhury, (unreported Civil Revision No. 84 of 1923 decided by Mukerji J., on 11th March, 1924). See also Abibullah v. Sheikh Baser, 24 C.W.N. 150 (notes). These cases were considered and distinguished in the case of Bamapada v. Sakuntala, 30 C.W.N. 494 (Greaves and Panton, J.J.).

Where subsequently to the recognition by the 14 ans. co-sharer landlords of a purchase of a moiety of a non-transferable occupancy holding, the remaining 2 ans. landlords instituted a suit for rent under sec. 148A of the B. T. Act making parties defendants to the suit the original raiyats of the holding and the 14 ans. co-sharers folloguished.

The case of Bamapada v. Sakuntala, and the entire holding passed to the purchaser, and the decree and execution of the decree and not merely the right, (Walmsley and Suhrawardy, JJ.), and it was held that the provisions of s. 148A were sufficiently complied with where a co-sharer landlord's plaint in a suit for rent mentioned what was the rent payable in the 16 ans. share, what was payable in the different shares, what was believed to be due altogether for the period in suit with damages in 16 ans. and what was due to the plaintiffs on their shares and what was payable to the other landlords in their shares, and then went on to allege that the other landlords having refused to let the plaintiffs know what was due to them, the plaintiffs had been unable to ascertain that and on that account they asked for a decree for the amount due to themselves alone and in the alternative prayed that if the other landlords wished to be added as plaintiffs on disclosing what was due to them then they might be transferred from the category of the defendants to that of plaintiffs: The decree in the suit was a rent decree: Ibid.

For a plaint to be in accordance with the provisions laid down in s. 148A of the Bengal Tenancy Act (applying to East Bengal) the first requisite is that the co-sharer landlord should sue for recovery of the rent due to all the landlords, and secondly, if he is unable to find out the dues of the co-sharers, he would be entitled to proceed with the suit for his share only. Elements necessary for a plaint under this section.

Where the plaintiffs sued for their share of the rent alone, stating that a certain amount might be due to the co-sharer landlords and prayed that under certain conditions stated in the plaint a decree for any person to recover from the plaintiff money paid to him under sub-section (3).

1. Amendments :—The words “except for spécial reasons to be recorded in writing” after the word “shall” and before the word “refuse” in the clause (1) of the section were repealed by the Amending Acts I of 1907 in Bengal and I of 1908 of East Bengal, respectively.

Inter-
suit.

2. Interpleader suit :—Where A executed a kabuliyat in favour of B and another in favour of C and then brought a suit against both B and C for declaration as to whose tenant he is, held that such a suit is not maintainable: Shelly Bonnerjee v. Raj Chandra Datta, 37 Cal. 552, s.c., 14 C.W.N. 784, s.c., 11 C.L.J. 57. Jenkins C.J., in delivering the judgment of the Court said follows:—“If the plaintiff finds himself harassed in the way he describes, it may be that he can take advantage of the protective procedure prescribed by s. 149 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, though as to this I can express no definite opinion on the present materials”: Ibid at p. 558. A tenant has no right to bring a suit to have it determined which of two defendants, both of whom claimed rent from him, is his landlord: Kylash Chandra v. Goluk Chandra, 2 C.W.N. 61. Where A brought a suit for rent against B who said he was C's tenant; A obtained a decree; B brought a suit to have it declared that C and not A was his landlord, held following the category of the case of Shelly Bonnerjee v. Raj Chandra Datta that such a suit being an interpleader suit was not maintainable. Act, which contemplates a suit for the entire rent: Ramanath v. Hurish Chandra, 32 C.W.N. 50 (notes). (Cuming and Mukerji, JJ.). It was held in the case of Harimohon v. Purnendra, 90 I.C. 955 by Greaves and Mukerjee, JJ., that for a suit to fall under s. 148A must be a suit to recover the whole of the rent due. The essence of a suit under s. 148A is that either the whole rent is due or else the plaintiffs are unable to ascertain whether or not the whole of the rent is due. [The case of Jagabandhu v. Abdul Hamid, 28 C.W.N. 757 was considered.]

In the case of Dhirendranath Roy v. Rajendranath, 103 I.C. 827 (Mukerji and Graham, J.J.), the case of Gangamoni Biswas v. Rabjaali Chaukidar, 51 Cal. 935, s.c., 40 C.L.J. 512 was followed, and the case of Jagabandhu v. Abdul Hamid, 28 C.W.N. 757 was distinguished on the ground that in that case the amount due to the co-sharers was apparently known or ascertainable but in the present case (103 I.C. 827) the precise sum due to other co-sharers was specified and there was nothing to prevent them from suing for the entire amount.

The mere fact that something was claimed which was not due would not make the decree any the less a rent decree: Sasticharan v. Akubjan Bibi, 26 C.W.N. 639.

3. Title suit :—The object of this section was to prevent tenants from being harassed where disputes arise between rival claimants to the land in respect of which the rent is due, and consequently whether the dispute between such third parties is a dispute as to title, or a dispute as to possession only, they are at liberty to have that tried, and in the suit in which that is being tried to obtain the injunction which is mentioned in sub-sec. 3 of s. 149 of the Act: Rubiunnessa v. Gooljan Bibee, 17 Cal. 829. The case of Jagadamba v. Protap, 14 Cal. 537, was thus distinguished in the judgment of Petheram, C. J., while deciding Rubiunnessa's case :—

In that case the Judges held, for the purposes of stamp duty, that that was not a title suit, and that was all they held. That, no doubt, was a suit which was brought to determine which of two parties were entitled to the money paid into Court under that section, but we do not know what the form of that suit was, or in fact anything more than the Judges considered that the suit was not a title suit. That does not determine that no suit which is brought under circumstances such as these can be a title suit, or that the plaintiffs in a suit to establish their right where the matter has come into dispute by reason of another rent suit, and of the money having been paid into Court may not go into their title.

4. Sub-sec. (3) :—Sub-sec. (3) contemplates a suit which culminates not in a decree, but in an order of a limited kind, an order restraining payment out of the money; it is therefore, an order not finally decisive of the substantial rights of the parties, but providing a machinery for the purpose of carrying out the scheme whereby it is sought to relieve a tenant from harassment: Tirthabasi v. Purna Chandra, 16 C.W.N. 558, s.c., 15 C.L.J. 501. If a third person desires to retain the benefits of this section, he must keep his claim within the terms of the section: Ibid.

See also Kshettramohan v. Akhilchandra, 100 I.C. 427, s.c., A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 431 (Mukerji and Graham, JJ.). If in a suit of this sort the Court incidentally goes into the question of title in order to determine a question but the decision does not operate as res judicata in a subsequent suit on the question of title: Ibid.

The money mentioned in sub-sec. (3) is the entire sum deposited under sub-sec. (1) and no question of apportionment is intended to be raised or decided in a suit instituted under the section: Ambika v. Aswini Kumar, 21 C.L.J. 485.

In a suit for rent by one R against one P and B, the defendants alleged that the rent claimed was due to one I and paid into Court under the 1st clause of s. 149 the amount of the rent due; notice under the second clause of that section having been served on I, she filed a suit within three months against all the parties to the rent-suit, in which she claimed the amount deposited and a further amount of 8 ans. which she alleged to have fallen due subsequent to the period covered by the rent-suit: held by Tottenham and Norris, J.J., that the suit was not a title suit and was not required to be stamped as such: Jagadamba v. Protap, 14 Cal. 537. "It is in the nature of a suit for an injunction under the Specific Relief Act, or else of a declaratory suit." (Per Tottenham, J.): Ibid.

A suit contemplated by this section is a suit with reference to the money deposited in Court and for an injunction restraining the paying out of the money. The section does not contemplate for the establishment of the relation of landlord and tenant between the parties: Harendra v. Ananta, 9 C.W.N. 492. A suit under cl. (3) in which the plaintiff claims the right to receive rent by reason of his being in possession of the land (as shown by the receipt of rent for a reasonably sufficient period) is maintainable, though the decision of the suit may or may not ultimately rest on the question of possession merely without reference to the question of title: Jadub Lal v. Khemankari, 8 C.W.N. 248; the question of possession should be tried first and the suit dismissed if that question be decided against the plaintiff as he does not rely on his title; but if decided in the plaintiff's favour, the defendant would be put to the proof of his title and the question of title would have to be tried: Ibid.

Question of possession.

Nature of an inter-pleader suit.

A suit under sub-section (3) is in the nature of an inter-pleader suit and the property in dispute is the money deposited in Court, for determining who must get the money, the question of possession as well as the question of title must be incidentally gone into: Guru Das v. Kumud Bandhu, 7 C.L.J. 40n.

Appeal.

5. Appeal:—In regard to a suit under sub-sec. (3) of s. 149 Jenkins C.J., observed as follows:—"It is not for us now to say whether an appeal would lie from such an order, but I feel constrained to say that the language of s. 153 does not sustain the argument that an appeal would lie under that section." Tirthabasi Purna Chandra, 16 C.W.N. 558, s.c., 15 C.L.J. 501.

Onus.

6. Onus:—Where a suit was brought under the provisions of cl. (3) and the plaintiff made out a very strong case in support of his title to the rents in deposit, held, that the onus was then shifted on the defendant and that plaintiff was entitled to succeed although he was not in a position to prove realisation of rents from the tenant, the plaintiff's case being that the defendant had been preventing her from realising them: Trailakya Mohini v. Kali Prasanna, 11 C.W.N. 380.

Payment into Court of money admitted to be due to landlord.

2. Admits that money is due:—For the purpose of ascertaining whether anything is admitted to be due and payable by the written statement, the whole of it must be taken into consideration and, further, must be assumed to be true: Ali Ahammad v. Bepin Behari, 20 Cal. 595 at p. 598. Where the claim was for a sum of Rs. 402 made up of four yearly balances, particulars of which were given in the schedule to the plaint, the defendant in the written statement said that the whole of the rents for the first three years and a portion of the fourth had been paid, that the account was not correct as the claim of the fourth year was not due when the suit had been brought, held, that this could not be said to be an admission that anything was payable at the time the action was brought: Ibid. The admission intended by the section must be an admission in the action: Ibid.

In a suit for rent where the defendant admits that money is due from him to the plaintiff on account of rent, sec. 150 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is a bar to the Court taking cognizance of a plea that the amount claimed is in excess of the amount due unless the defendant pays into Court the amount so admitted to be due; and this is so irrespective of the question whether the burden of proof lies on the plaintiff or not: Maharaja Bahadur Kesho Prasad Singh v. Triloke Nath Tewari, 4 Pat. 304. The case of Banrasi Prasad v. Makhan Rai, 30 Cal. 947 was dissented from.

S. 150 does not apply when the rate of rent is in issue: Rate of Dharendra v. Charu Sashi, 90 I.C. 431, s.c., A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 191 rent. (Greaves and Cuming, J.J.). The case in 30 Cal. 947 followed.

3. Interpretation :—This section is highly penal in its character and cannot be put in force against a defendant unless he has intentionally admitted money to be due and has not paid it: Section highly penal. Ali Ahammad v. Bepin Behari, 20 Cal. 595 at p. 599.

S. 150 of the B. T. Act is not designed to relieve the landlord of the burden which lies upon him of proving his claim but to give both parties a chance of avoiding further litigation. In many cases a landlord will give up a substantial part of his claim if the tenant makes a fair offer accompanied with costs. The section is not really penal, for the dishonest tenant may always evade it by pleading an absolutely low amount; it is intended to benefit the honest tenant and the honest landlord: Kesho Prasad v. Troilokenath, 82 I.C. 841. Scope of S. 150.

4. This section applies where the plea is of confession and avoidance :—“In my opinion, s. 150 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is limited in its operation to those cases where the plea of the tenant is of a nature such that the burden of proving it rests upon the tenant, and in the absence of evidence on his side, the plaintiff would be entitled to a decree for the full amount; as for instance where the plea is in the nature of a plea of payment or a plea of exemption from liability to pay rent by reason of diluvion or by reason of partial eviction or for any other similar reason”: (Per Merjea J.) Banarasi v. Makhan Ray, 30 Cal. 947. But this section has no application where the rate of rent is in question: Ibid. Where this section applies and where not.

151. When a defendant is liable to pay money to Court under either of the two last foregoing sections, if the Court thinks that there are sufficient reasons for so ordering, it may take cognizance of the Provisions as to payment of portion of money.

defendant's plea on his paying into Court such reasonable portion of the money as the Court directs.

Court to
receipt.

152. When a defendant pays money into Court under either of the said sections, the Court shall give the defendant a receipt, and the receipt so given shall operate as an acquittance in the same manner and to the same extent as if it had been given by the plaintiff or the third person, as the case may be.

Appeals in rent suits.

153. An appeal shall not lie from any decree or order passed, whether in the first instance or on appeal, in any suit instituted by a landlord for the recovery of rent where—

- (a) the decree or order is passed by a District Judge, Additional Judge or Subordinate Judge, and the amount claimed in the suit does not exceed one hundred rupees, or
- (b) the decree or order is passed by any other judicial officer specially empowered by the Local Government to exercise final jurisdiction under this section, and the amount claimed in the suit does not exceed fifty rupees ;

unless in either case the decree or order has decided a question relating to title to land or to some interest in land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto, or a question of a right to enhance or vary the rent of a tenant, or a question of the amount of rent annually payable by a tenant :

Provided that the District Judge may call for the record of any case in which a judicial officer as aforesaid has passed a decree or order to which this section applies, if it appears that the judicial officer has exercised a jurisdiction not vested in him by law, or has failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested or has acted in the exercise of his jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity, and may pass such order as the District Judge thinks fit.

Explanation.—A question as to the regularity of the proceedings in publishing or conducting a sale or execution of a decree for arrears of rent is not a question relating to title to land or to some interest in land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto.

5. Suit for assessment of rent :—A suit for assessment of fair rent on the basis of a butwara or partition between co-sharers and also for arrears of rent on that footing is a suit for assessment of rent independently of the prayer for recovery of rent from the tenant and is not a suit instituted for recovery of rent under s. 153 and that section has no application to such a case: Dhanukdhari v. Baburam, 10 C.L.J. 629.

This case was distinguished in the case of Benimadhab v. Bejoychand, 44 C.L.J. 296 (Cuming and B. B. Ghose, JJ., reversing the decision of Chakravarti, J. in Bejoychand v. Benimadhab, 52 Cal. 689, on Letters Patent Appeal) and it was held that where it was stated in the plaint that the rent payable was thirteen annas for the lands in suit and a declaration was asked for that the existing rent was thirteen annas and there was no prayer for assessment of rent on the allegation that the rent payable by the tenant was not ascertained, the suit was not for assessment of rent and hence s. 153 applied to this case.

It cannot be said that because there is a prayer for enhancement of rent the suit is to be considered as one for assessment of rent. Ibid. The case of Dhanukdhari v. Baburam, 10 C.L.J. 629 was distinguished on the ground that in that case the suit was also for assessment of rent and so s. 153 had no application.

Where a suit was brought by the Plaintiff alone impleading certain persons as proforma defendants who were said to be the heirs of one who was the only other person interested in the 4 as. claimed by him, and those proforma defendants applied to be made Plaintiffs but their application was rejected. The suit was dismissed and the Plaintiff alone appealed and the suit was decreed in the lower Appellate Court. The principal defendants preferred second appeal. Plaintiff respondent took preliminary objection to the maintainability of the appeal on the ground that the proforma defendants were not made parties to the appeal, held that in the circumstances of the case the objection was overruled: Wajuddi Pramanik v. Balaki Moral, 30 C.W.N. 63 (Suhrawardy and Chotzner, JJ.).

Amount

the suit includes interest, &c.

7. Amount claimed in the suit: Appeal :—The term "amount" does not mean merely the amount of rent claimed, but the whole amount claimed in the suit, including rent, interest, &c.: Behary Churn v. Bhut Nath, 3 C.W.N. 214. Maclean, C.J., in delivering judgment in this case said as follows:—S. 153 of the Bengal Tenancy Act does not speak of the amount of rent claimed but of the amount claimed being under Rs. 100, though the amount claimed for rent alone is under that amount. The preliminary objection must be over-ruled.

* As to where an appeal should be dismissed for defect of parties: see the cases of Dharasigitt v. Chandreswar, 11 C.W.N. 504; Basir v. Fazil, 19 C.W.N. 290; Ajimmuddin v. Tarasanker, 28 C.L.J. 201; Sriram v. Hriday, 29 C.L.J. 461; Chander Sing v. Khimabal, 22 Bom. 718; Upendra v. Shamlal, 34 Cal. 1020; Kali Dayal v. Nagendra, 24 C.W.N. 44, s. c., 30 C.L.J. 217; Narendra v. Satyadhan, 30 C.L.J. 203; Bhoopendra v. Roman, 27 Cal. 417; Bharso v. Aminuddi, 25 C.L.J. 469; Balaram v. Kangsha, 53 I.C. 548; Indu v. Sheikh Mahammad, 23 C.W.N. 208 (notes portion). Manindra Chandra v. Bhagabati Devi, 30 C.W.N. 45.

The case in 3 C.W.N. 214 was considered by Woodroffe and Carnduff J.J., in the case of Sibu Sant v. Nitai Charan, 15 C.L.J. 114; in that case the plaintiff asked to recover Rs. 99 and the court Interest. fee was paid on that sum, but the plaintiff asked for further and other relief and for costs; the plaintiff on proof of his case was entitled to get interest, and the question was whether the interest was to be added to the amount claimed; Woodroffe J., in delivering judgment said that on the whole it appeared to his Lordship to be doubtful whether a second appeal lay: (15 C.L.J. at pp. 116 and 117).

A suit was brought for recovery of Rs. 82-8 as arrears of rent Claim for money and damages and of Rs. 50 as damages for breach of contract, i.e., with claim for rent. for a total sum of Rs. 132-8, held that a second appeal was barred under s. 153: Jamadar Sirighr v. Jagot Kisore, 23 C.L.J. 557; this case was distinguished in the case of Jonardi v. Anadinath, 39 C.L.J. 334 (Mookerjee and Rankin J.J.); the bar provided in s. 153 cannot be evaded by the joinder of a claim for money with a claim for rent: the expression "the amount claimed in the suit" in cl. (a) has reference to the rent for the recovery whereof the suit has been instituted; the term rent may possibly include whatever is recoverable as rent under the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act as also sums ancillary to rent such as interest on arrears of rent, or statutory damages: Ibid. A suit was framed in the alternative, for recovery of rent or of damages for use and occupation; the sum claimed was less than Rs. 100; held that no second appeal lay: Mohim Chander v. Mirza Ahmad, 22 C.L.J. 564. Damages for occupation.

By withdrawal of a certain portion of a claim in a rent-suit reducing it to a sum below Rs. 50, where it was originally above that sum, the amount of claim for the purpose of this suit should be considered below Rs. 50: Shilabati v. Roderigues, 35 Cal. 547, s. c. 12 C.W.N. 448. Effect of withdrawal of a certain portion of the claim.

In a suit for arrears of chowkidari tax payable by a putnidar under the putni settlement, it was held that it came within the definition of rent in as much as the consideration for the payment of the chowkidari tax was the holding of the putni and the amount agreed to be paid was lawfully payable: Assamulla v. Tirthabashi, 22 Cal. 680.* Chowkidari tax.

Where Dak cess† is claimed under a contract by which rent is payable it must be regarded as rent: Watson v. Sreekristo, 21 Cal. 132. Dak-cess.

"No doubt the Act declares in ss. 53 to 68, both inclusive, and ss. 72 to 75 both inclusive, "rent" includes cesses but we think that these are enabling provisions passed to extend the meaning of "rent" and it in no way interferes with the law refusing a right of appeal in suits below one hundred rupees in value, which law is made applicable to suits for cesses by s. 47 of Bengal Act IX of 1880 (B. C.)," Per O' Kinealy and Banerjee, J.J. : Rajani Kant v. Jageshwar, 20 Cal.

* S. 586 C.P.C., will not bar a second appeal in such a suit although the value may be less than Rs. 500.

† Dak charges:—Where a Zemindar sued a putnidar for dak expenses according to his putni juma, held that the suit was of a nature cognizable by a Court of Small Causes and therefore under s. 27, Act XXII of 1861 no second appeal would lie: Matab Ehan v. Radha Benode, 8 W.R. 517.

254. A suit to recover cesses falls under s. 153 with respect to appeals: Mohesh v. Umataara, 16 Cal. 638.

Jeth raiyati mafi.—
Appeal lies.

Where a jeth raiyati mafi is claimed as an incident of the holding and not as a personal right, held that it was a question as to the amount of rent annually payable: Jagdish v. Rameswar, [1920 Pat.] p. 241.

Amount of interest—no appeal.

A question as to the amount of interest annually payable is not a question as to the amount of rent annually payable within the meaning of s. 153: Hafizulla v. Latefernessa, 63 I.C. 529.

Liability to pay cess—no appeal.

In a suit for recovery of cess merely for rent-free lands were the question is as to whether the defendant is liable to pay cess, no second appeal lies in as much as there is no question as to the amount of cess annually payable: Birendra Kishore v. Trailokhya, 37 C.L.J. 521: The cases in which both rents and cesses are claimed and the only question is as to liability of cesses stand on a different footing in as much as the question as to the liability of cesses would affect the question as to the amount of rent annually payable: see Debendra Prosad v. Paresh Nath, 21 Cal. 132 and Watson v. Sree Krishna, 4 C.L.J. 119.

8. Amount of rent annually payable:—In a suit for rent for less than Rs. 100, the defendant pleaded that he was the tenant, not of the plaintiffs but of some other persons at a rate lower than that claimed in the suit, no issue was raised as the rate of rent and the lower Court merely decided that the defendant was plaintiff's tenant and decreed the suit, held, that the question of the rate of rent not having been raised and decided no second appeal lay: Baidya Nath v. Dhon Krishna, 5 C.W.N. 516. But in a suit for rent for a juma consisting of a few cottas the rent claimed was Rs. 1-12 and the defendant, said that there was no juma of Rs. 1-12 as alleged but that the lands appertained to a bigger jama of Rs. 13-0-0 under the plaintiff, and the lower Appellate Court found defendant's story untrue, held that a second appeal lay inasmuch as the question as to the amount of rent annually payable was in question, see (unreported) second appeal No. 815 of 1901, Nabu Sheikh, v. Jogendra Nath Bhadra, decided by Mitra J.

No appeal where defendant claims to hold at a lower rate under a third person and it is decided that defendant holds under plaintiff.

Question as to interest.

Where there was no decision as to the amount of rent annually payable but only as to whether the landlord was entitled to interest, held that no second appeal lay: Kripasindhu v. Jogendra, 5 C.L.J. 78n.

Where plaintiff alleged that there was a jama of Rs. 5-0 annually for the land and a separate jama of Rs. 2 for the trees standing on the land and the defendant alleged that the jama of Rs. 5-0 included both the land and the trees, held that it was a question as to the amount of rent annually payable and a second appeal lay: Jonardi v. Anadi Nath, 39 C.L.J. 334, (Mookerjee and Rankin, J.J.), reversing on Letters Patent Appeal the decision of Cuming J. The case of Jamadar Singh v. Raja Jagat Kisore, 23 C.L.J. 557 was distinguished.

Suit for rent by an outgoing landlord s. 153 does not apply. Dak-cess.

S. 153 of the Bengal Tenancy Act has no application to a suit by an outgoing landlord: Mrittunjoy v. Shyma Charan, 28 C.W.N. 106 (notes).

Where a tenant denied his liability to pay the Dak cess under an agreement, held, that it was a question as to the amount of rent annually payable and a second appeal would lie: Watson v. Sree- kristo, 21 Cal. 132. The question whether certain cesses are payable or not is a question as to the amount of rent and a second appeal lies where such a question is decided: Debendra v. Paresh, 4 C.L.J. 119; see also Rajanikant v. Jogeshwar, 20 Cal. 254. Cesses.

Rent does not necessarily include interest: Bhagabati v. Basanta, 11 C.W.N. 110; this case had reference to the question as to whether the landlord had the right to apply to interest any money paid as rent. Interest.

The question as to whether a jeth raiyat is entitled to deduction on account of mafi is not one as to the amount of rent annually payable in as much as mafi is not rent: Sheikh Safait v. Sheikh Waizuddin, 1 Pat. L.J. 504.* Mafi.

In order that there should be a second appeal it is only necessary that the court should have decided the annual rate of rent whether directly or incidentally: Noorijan v. Bimalasundari, 18 C.W.N. 552. Rate of rent.

Where a question whether certain cesses claimed in a rent-suit are payable or not was decided, held that a second appeal lay. Debendra v. Pareshnath, 4 C.L.J. 119. Cess.

A question in a rent-suit whether rent is payable in money or kind is a question as to the amount of rent annually payable within the meaning of s. 153: Apurba v. Ashutosh, 9 C.W.N. 122. See also Kali Krishna v. Ram Chandra, 19 C.W.N. 823, s. c., 21 C.L.J. 487; see also Wazir Ali v. Mahimunnisa, 43 I.C. 777, s. c., 4 Pat. L.W. 72, but see Mathura Singh v. Ratan Barhi, 54 I.C. 662. Rent in money or kind.

A question as to the instalments in which rent is payable, though it affects the amount of interest payable on the rent is not a question "of the amount of rent annually payable," within the meaning of this section: Rai Churn v. Kumud Mohon, 25 Cal. 571, s. c., 2 C.W.N. 297; which followed the case of Kailas Chunder v. Taraknath, 25 Cal. 571, note, s. c., 1 C.W.N. 63 (notes): A question as to whether the rent is to be paid in instalments or in a lump sum is not a question of right to enhance or vary the rent: Piary Mohon v. Madhub Chunder, 23 W.R. 385. The term "rent" does not include interest payable upon an over-due instalment: Ibid. Question as to the instalments in which rent is payable. Rent does not include interest on over due instalment.

Where the lower Appellate Court, in deciding the question as to the amount of rent annually payable, found that the plaintiff had failed to prove the rate of rent claimed by him, and therefore gave him a decree at the rate admitted by the defendant, held that this was not a determination of the amount of rent annually payable and therefore no second appeal lay: Neekajaie v. Nandalal, 1 C.W.N. 711; see also Binode Bihari v. Maizuddin, 49 I.C. 258. The case of Neekajaie v. Nanda, 1 C.W.N. 711 was distinguished in the case of Shibnath v. Annada, 11 C.L.J. 382 and it was held that a second appeal lay where the amount of rent decreed by the lower appellate court is not that admitted by the tenant but some other amount. Decree at the admitted rate.

The case of Neekajaie v. Nandalal, 1 C.W.N. 711 was also distinguished in the case of Kanta Mohon Mullick v. Jadab Chandra Khara (unreported S.A. No. 38 of 1926, decided by Mitter, J. on the

* "Jeth raiyats have to perform certain duties under the landlord, as for example, calling tenants for the collection of rent and such similar duties, and for that they are allowed by the landlord, by way of wages and instead of payment in cash, a Mafi from the total rent. This Mafi is not rent because it is a sum of money payable by the landlord to the tenant." Per Sharfuddin and Roe J.J.), Sheikh Safiat v. Sheikh Waizuddin, 1 Pat. L.J. 504.

14th February 1928) and it was held that a second appeal lay where the Court considered the evidence and came to a decision on the amount of rent which however corresponded to the figure admitted by the defendant. Mitter J., in distinguishing the case of Neekajale v. Nandalal, 1 C.W.N. 711 observed: "In the case in 1 C.W.N. 711 the Court held that the Plaintiff's evidence was not reliable and that the defendant should consequently get a decree at the admitted rate. There was no decision on the evidence as to what the rate was, and the case proceeded on the defendant's admission."

Under this section a second appeal lies in a rent-suit whenever the decree of Appellate Court has decided a question of the amount of rent annually payable by a tenant; it is not necessary that the amount of rent payable by the tenant should be a matter in issue in the second appeal: Rai Churn v. Kumud Mohon, 1 C.W.N. 687.

of rent.

Suit for rent: defence that plaintiff's right to some of the plots had been sold in auction and as such plaintiff is not entitled to recover rent of the entire holding: held that the question was as to the amount of rent annually payable and an appeal lay: Sashi Bhushan v. Benimadhab, 8 C.L.J. 519; see also Nabin Chand v. Bansenath, 21 Cal. 722.

Mafi is sum payable by a landlord to tenant; so where in a suit for rent the defendant claimed a deduction on the ground of Mafi, held that it was not a question of rent annually payable and therefore no second appeal lay: Safait Hossain v. Waizuddin, 20 C.W.N. 1207; s. c., 1 Pat. L.J. 504.

Amount
of rent annually
payable.

Where without deciding as to the amount of rent annually payable, the Court gave a decree for a lump sum, held that the court did not decide a question as to the amount of rent annually payable: Rajgiri Singh v. Jadunath Ray, [1922 Pat.] p. 355.

Decision as
amount of
rent.

Where the question as to the amount of rent annually payable was decided in the lower Court on behalf of the plaintiff, held s. 153 did not debar the plaintiff from preferring an appeal: Sripali v. Kala Chand, 1 C.W.N. 187 (notes).

Decision that jama set up formed part of bigger jama, not a decision as to amount of rent
payable.

Where in a suit for rent, the Court held that the jama set up had no separate existence, but formed part of a bigger jama and it was contended that the decision amounted to a decision on the amount of rent annually payable and therefore an appeal lay under sec. 153, B. T. Act, held, that the decision did not come within the exception provided by sec. 153, Bengal Tenancy Act and no appeal lay: Kumarish v. Ramtaran, 31 C.W.N. 436 (Mukerji and Graham, J.J.).

Decision allowing suspension of rent, not a question of the amount of rent
payable.

Where in a suit for rent valued below Rs. 100 the defendant pleaded suspension of rent on the ground of dispossession by the landlord, and the Court held that there should be suspension of rent and dismissed the suit, held that the decision was not of a question of the amount of rent annually payable by a tenant and hence a second appeal was barred by sec. 153 of the B. T. Act: Goyratulla Sirdar v. Tarini Charan Sirdar (unreported S. A. No. 1520 of 1924, decided by Cuming and Mallik, J.J., on the 3rd May 1927).

to whether plaintiff

Plaintiff sued for recovery of rent alleging that he had an eight anna share; the defendant contended that the plaintiff had only an eight-pie share of the landlord's interest in the land. The amount claimed in the suit being less than Rs. 100, it was contended that no second appeal lay. In view of conflicting decisions of Prasanna Kumar v. Srinath, 15 Cal. 231, and Aubhoy v. Shoshi, 16 Cal. 155, the following question was referred to a Full Bench: Do the words "amount of rent annually payable by a tenant," in s. 153 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, mean "the total amount of rent annually payable by a tenant to the whole body of his landlords where there are more than one," or do they mean "the amount of rent payable by a tenant to one of his co-sharer landlords, who collects his share of the rent separately"? The Full Bench decided that the words "amount of rent annually payable by tenant" in cl. (a) include the case of rent payable by a tenant to one of the co-sharer landlords, who collects his rent, separately: Narain v. Manofi, 17 Cal. 489 (F.B.).

entitled to rent, or he has co-sharers :
Appeal.

A question as to whether the plaintiff is entitled to the whole rent claimed or only a two fifths share as asserted by the defendant is a question as to the amount of rent annually payable: Sudhanya v. Basanta Kumar, 49 Cal. 538, s. c., 34 C.L.J. 579, s. c., 26 C.W.N. 96, s. c., 64 I.C. 733, (Mookerjee and Panton, J.J.), (On Letters Patent appeal from the judgment of Newbould J.).

Where in a suit for rent by A, the defence, inter alia was that A alone was not the landlord but that A's brothers were co-owners with A, (and the brothers were not parties to the suit), and the suit valued at less than Rs. 50 was decided by a Munsiff specially empowered under s. 153, who dismissed the suit holding that A's brothers were co-owners with A and they had not joined in the suit, held that there was no question as to the amount of rent annually payable and as such no appeal lay: Wajuddi v. Balaki Moral, 30 C.W.N. 63, (Suhrawardy and Chotzner, J.J.); the Full Bench case of Narain v. Manafi, 17 Cal. 489 and the case of Sudhanya v. Basanta, 49 Cal. 538 were distinguished. It was further held by the High Court that a second appeal lay to the High Court: Ibid.

It is now settled that if the Court of Appeal below entertains an appeal which it has no jurisdiction to do, an appeal will lie from the decree of that Court: Ibid. [The cases of Kalipada v. Sekharbasini, 24 C.L.J. 235, s. c., 20 C.W.N. 967, and Bandiram v. Purna, 27 C.L.J. 115 followed.]

Where the Plaintiff brought a suit for rent amounting to Rs. 7-11-9 pies against the tenant defendant on the allegation that he purchased the interest of one B from his sole widow J and the defence principally was that the Plaintiff purchased the said interest from one of two widows of B and so entitled to a half share of the rent, and the Munsiff who was especially empowered under s. 153 (b) to try cases of rent of less than Rs. 50 in value, tried the case and found that B had only one widow and that the Plaintiff had no co-sharer, and decreed the entire rent, held, that this was not a decision of the question as to the amount of rent annually payable by the tenant defendant within the meaning of s. 153, B. T. Act, and as such no appeal lay from the Munsiff's decision: Munshi Salimuddin v. Rahim Shaikh, 30 C.W.N. 850, s. c., 44 C.L.J. 414 (Cuming and Mukerji J.J.), on Letters Patent Appeal reversing the decision of Chakravarti J.). Their lordships upon a review of the case law held: "In a suit for rent the tenant may dispute the amount of the rent of the tenure or holding or the landlord's title to the entire rent or to the share of the rent which he claims and may allege that the amount of the rent or the share is less. In such cases, if the defence is pressed, the landlord is called upon to prove the amount of rent or is put to the proof of his title to the share or to the amount which he claims, as there is a real controversy between the parties on these points and the Court has necessarily to decide a question of the amount of rent or the rent payable to the landlord, whichever way the decision may go. There may be cases however where the afore-said defences of the tenant are dependent entirely on his averment that there is a co-sharer or there are co-sharers. In those cases it becomes necessary to go into these defences only in the event of the Court finding that there is a co-sharer, or that there are co-sharers. If the finding be that there is no co-sharer of the Plaintiff the other questions do not arise and there is no occasion or necessity for the Court to decide the question of the amount of rent. The decision of the Court in such cases, whether dismissing the suit on the ground of non-joinder of Plaintiffs or decreeing the suit in Plaintiff's favour, does not expressly decide and cannot by implication be held to have decided the question." Ibid.

9. Right to enhance or vary the rent :—Where the plaintiff sued the defendant on the basis of a shironamah claiming a certain amount as rent upon a contract made between the parties, and the tenant defendant denied the shironamah, or that the rate mentioned therein was a proper rate of rent, and he produced certain evidence to shew that the rates mentioned in the shironamah were not correct, held, that there was, no doubt, a dispute between the parties as to what was the rate of rent paid previously but it was not a question of right to enhance or vary the rent of a tenant : Nritressur v. Jhotee, 23 W.R. 443.

Rent if payable in instalments or lump sum.

A question as to whether the rent is to be paid in instalments or in a lump sum is not a question of right to enhance or vary the rent : Peary Mohun v. Madhub Chander, 23 W.R. 385 ; see also Rai Charan v. Kumud Mohon, 25 Cal. 571, s. c., 2 C.W.N. 297, Kailas v. Tarak Nath, 25 Cal. 571 (note) s. c., 1 C.W.N. 63 (notes).

Rate varied by decision of Court.

It was held under s. 102 of Act VIII, B.C. 1869, that by the fact of the rate of rent having been varied by the decision of the Court the suit could not be taken out of that section as the Judge did not decide "the right to vary the rent" : R. Watson & Co. v. Mohendra Nath, 23 W.R. 436, s. 102 of Act VIII of 1869 was held not to apply where the point decided was simply whether the rent fixed by a previous decision had been subsequently altered and a new arrangement come to : Nurubdessur v. Shaikh Jungole, 24 W.R. 49.

Title to land between landlord and tenant.

10. Title to land or some interest in land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto :—The following illustrations will explain the meaning of the words as between parties having conflicting claims thereto :

Illustration I.

A brings a suit for rent against B who pleads that he is not the tenant of A but of C who is not a party to the suit. There is no question of title as between parties having conflicting claims thereto.

Illustrations.

Illustration II.

A brings a suit for rent against B who pleads a title in himself ; i.e. A claims to be the proprietor of an estate and alleges that B is his tenant ; B denies the relationship of landlord and tenant and alleges that the lands belong to him as proprietor of another estate. In this case there is question of title as between parties having conflicting claims thereto.

Where a question of title as between parties having conflicting claims thereto is raised but not decided no second appeal lies ; Jillor Rahaman v. Ebrahim, 44 I.C. 558.

Relation of landlord and tenant.

Where the only question decided was as to whether the relationship of landlord and tenant existed no appeal lies if the value is below the limit provided for in this section : Shelabati v. Roderiques, 35 Cal. 547, s.c., 12 C.W.N. 448. Where a question relating to title to land was raised and decided as between the landlord and the tenant, held that such a question was not decided as between any parties having conflicting claims thereto : Eshan Chander v. Burnomayee, 16 W.R. 233 (at p. 234). Where a Judge decided a case solely on the want of proof of relationship of landlord and tenant between the parties, held that this was no determination as to right and title to the land or as to any interest in land : Hurry Mohan v. Dwarka Nath, 18 W.R. 42 (at p. 43). In a suit for rent in which the tenant sets up the title of a third party who is not a party in the suit, the decision as to the question of title in such a suit is not a question as to title to land or some interest in land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto : Sheikh Dilbur v. Issur Chander, 21 W.R. 36 ; Kashee Ram v. Moharane Sham Mohinee, 23 W.R. 227 ; Kripa Moyee v. Dropudee, 24 W.R. 203 ; Rama Pershad v. Shorup, 8 Cal. 712. See also Ganga Singh v. Raghunandan, 39 I.C. 748, s. c., 1 Pat. L.W. 548. A suit was brought by a 4-anna co-sharer against a tenant for her separate portion of rent and made her co-sharer parties to the suit as defendants who resisted her right to have any share of the rent at all : the first Court gave a decree, but the lower Appellate Court dismissed the suit as not maintainable without expressing any opinion as to the rights of the parties ; held, that although there was no expression of opinion on the part of the Judge as to the rights of the parties, yet the decree was one which determined questions between parties having conflicting claims to an interest in land : Mokhoda Sundaree v. Kureem Saikh, 23 W.R. 11. But the judgment in this case was set aside on Letters Patent appeal, see 23 W.R. 268. Where in a suit by a co-sharer landlord for rent the other co-sharer was made a defendant who set up an ijara (lease from the plaintiff) and claimed rent from the tenant, held that the decision on it his question is a question of title as between parties having conflicting claims thereto and a second appeal lay : Kaniz Fatma v. Sarbon Lal, 42 I.C. 415, (Patna Case). Where in a suit for rent the defendant claimed the right to pay the amount of rent to himself on account of interest due to him as mortgagee, held that this was not a conflicting claim to land: Raj Kissen v. Pearee Mohun, 24 W.R. 114. "It has been decided in the cases of Shaikh Dilbar v. Issur Chander Ray, 21 W.R., 36; Donzali v. Token Nadaf, 23 W.R. 277, and Kashee Ram Dass v. Moharanee Sham Mohinee, 2 C.L.R. 588, that where A sues B for rent of land, B pleads that the rent of the land is payable to C and not to A, and where C is not made a party to the suit in which a decree is passed against B no question relating to title to land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto is determined by the judgment in such suit. Per Pontifex, J., in Doorga Narain v. Ram Lall, 7 Cal. 330. See also Bhutnath v. Bqm Kesh, 24 C.W.N. 64 (notes portion).

Where defendant claims payment of rent to himself on account of interest due on a mortgage.

Where the third party whose title is set up by defendant is not a party.

Where both plaintiff and defendant claim under the same landlord.

Where in a suit for rent both plaintiff and defendant claimed to hold under the same landlord, and the plaintiff was found to have no title, held that a second appeal should lie: Sita Nath v. Kartick, 8 C.W.N. 434. This case was referred to and followed by Mitra, J., in the case of Ram Kanai v. Fakir Chand, 8 C.W.N. 438. See also unreported second appeal No. 320 of 1900 decided by Brett and Mitra, J.J. But where the question was between a raiyat and tenure-holder and the raiyat who was the defendant set up the title of the superior tenure-holder, who was not a party; held, that no second appeal lay as the decree appealed against did not decide any question relating to title to land or to any interest in land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto: Ram Mohan v. Badan Barai, 8 C.W.N. 436. Where the plaintiff and the principal defendants both claimed under the same maliks who were party-defendants, held that there was a question as to title between parties having conflicting claim: Manimohan v. Auoraddi, 24 C.W.N. 52 (notes portion). Where the defendant set up the title of the superior landlord, held that an appeal lay from the decision of the Munsiff in a suit not exceeding Rs. 50: Ainulla v. Rahinulla, 39 I.C. 721. Where in a suit for rent the defendant claimed to hold under the plaintiff and his mother, under a right different from what was set up by the plaintiff, held that it was not a question as between parties having conflicting claims thereto and an appeal was barred by s. 153: Dina Bandhu v. Nobin Chandra, 8 C.W.N. 437.

Claim of a co-sharer to a particular share.

Where in a suit by co-sharer landlord the amount claimed did not exceed a hundred rupees but the question raised and determined was not merely the amount of rent payable to the co-sharer but whether he had a title to recover a particular share of the rents of a particular moujah, held that the suit came under the exception mentioned in s. 153; Poresb Moni v. Nobokishore, 30 Cal. 773, s.c., 8 C.W.N. 193; in this case it does not seem that the other co-sharer landlords were parties; followed in Bashiram v. Srinath, 23 C.W.N. 76 (notes portion).

Where the defendant alleged that the defendant was the tenant of the plaintiff's co-sharer who was a party defendant and who it was alleged held an ijara under the plaintiff, held that a second appeal lay: Bibi Kaniz v. Sarban Lal, 42 I.C. 474. (Patna case).

Question as to title.

A brought a suit for recovery of rent claiming title under a lease from B who was made a party; the tenants contested the claim saying that the lease given by B to A was invalid; B did not contest the suit; the appellate court sustained the tenant's plea and dismissed A's suit: held that a second appeal lay in as much as the decree decided a question relating to title to land or to some interest in land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto: Gauhar Ali v. Samiruddin Sheikh, 18 C.W.N. 33.

In a suit for rent the defendant pleaded a proprietary title and set up that the land was his, held that it was a question as between parties having conflicting claims thereto and that a second appeal lay: Jatra Mohon v. Pilambar, 19 C.L.J. 385. There was an appeal under the Letters Patent against the judgment of Richardson, J., but not upon this point (19 C.L.J., 385).

Where defendant set up a proprietary title.

Where in a rent suit the defendant claimed title in himself, held that a decision on the question was one relating to title to land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto and a second appeal lay: Babua v. Sarli, 20 C.W.N. 1352 (Patna High Court).

Where a tenant defendant claims to pay rent not to the plaintiff but to his lessor there is a question of title between parties having conflicting claims thereto: Mohamed Hosain v. Hiramoun Rout, 24 I.C. 118; but it is not so if plaintiff is a mere mortgagee: Ibid.

The lower appellate court cannot be said to have decided a question as to title as between parties having conflicting claims thereto, if the rent-suit is dismissed upon the ground of the result of a title suit: Jogesh v. Nibaran, 50 I.C. 276.

Where A brought a suit against B who was a tenant on the land, and C who was also made a defendant was alleged to hold an intermediate tenure which had been cancelled, held that a second appeal lay: Krishna Pramada v. Sheikh Parasulla, 15 C.W.N. 216 (notes).

Setting up of an intermediate tenure.

Where the defendant alleged that the defendant had paid rent to an intermediate tenure holder who was not a party, held that no second appeal lay; Ganga Singh v. Raghunandan, 39 I.C. 743, s. c., 1 Pat. 548.

Intermediate tenure-holder, payment of rent to.

Where the question in the decree appealed against decided as to whether the holding was gujasta or not, held that s. 102 of Act VIII of 1869 (B.C.) did not apply: Byji Nath v. Ramdour, 7 C.L.R. 369.

Act VIII (B. C.) of 1869, s. 102.

Under s. 153 an order passed in execution of a decree, whether the decree is appealable or not must be an order itself deciding a question in respect of title to or some interest in land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto. The expression "had decided a question relating to title" etc. in s. 153 of the B. T. Act, qualifies both decree and order: Joymangal v. Sarafat Ali, A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 299. A question as to area does not raise any question of title between the parties: Haro Pershad v. Sreedam, 20 W.R. 15.

Execution case.

Question as to area.

Decision of conflicting title between defendants tenants interse as to who is the real tenant.

Where a Munsiff decided a question of conflicting title as between the defendants tenants interse as to who is the real tenant, held that the decision was of a question relating to title to land or to some interest in land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto within the meaning of sec. 153 of the B. T. Act and hence an appeal lay to the Subordinate Judge: Lakshi Narayan v. Jharu Mohan, 31 C.W.N. 140 (notes), Per Mitter J.

"Acted illegally," meaning of.

II. Acted illegally:—The expression "acted illegally" in the analogous section 115 of the Civil Procedure Code, was held not merely to imply the committing of an error of procedure such as "acted with material irregularity" does. This part of the clause was advisedly left in indefinite language in order to empower the High Courts to interfere and correct gross and palpable errors of subordinate courts, the justification for the interference being determined upon the gravity of the injustice resulting from it: Jogunnessa v. Satis Chandra, 51 Cal. 690.

Final jurisdiction of Munsiff.

12. Munsiff specially empowered with final jurisdiction :—Where a Munsiff was specially empowered to finally decide rate of rent exceeding Rs. 50, and a Subordinate Judge notwithstanding entertains an appeal erroneously, held that no second appeal lies against the decision of the Subordinate Judge: Bhagabati v. Nanda Kumar, 12 C.W.N. 835, but where a District Judge entertained an appeal against the decree of a Munsiff which did not decide any question as to the amount of rent annually payable or any question as to title to land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto, and the District Judge decided a question as to title to land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto, held that a second appeal lay: Gangadhar v. Sekharbasini, 20 C.W.N. 967, s. c., 24 C.L.J. 235* (reversing on review the decision of Holmwood and Mullick J.J. in Kalipada v. Sekhar Basini, 23 C.L.J. 235). Sanderson C.J. and Mookerjee J. distinguished the case of Bhagbati v. Nandakumar, 12 C.W.N. 835 on the ground that in that case the Sub-Judge had not decided any question as to the amount of rent annually payable or any question as to title to land having conflicting claims thereto.

Second Appeal
when first appeal was wrongly entertained.

If the Court of appeal below entertains an appeal which it has no jurisdiction to do, an appeal will lie from the decree of that court: Wakuddi Pramanik v. Mohammed Bolani Morul, 30 C.W.N. 63 (Suhrawardy and Chotzner J.J.). If a Court assumes jurisdiction over a matter over which it has no jurisdiction and passes a decree either in the suit or in the appeal, and that decree is open to appeal under the ordinary law no objection can be taken to an appeal from that decree on the ground that the Court below had no jurisdiction to try the matter; because an appeal may lie to a higher Court on the sole question of jurisdiction: Ibid.

(The cases of Kalipada v. Sekharbashini, 20 C.W.N. 967, s. c., 24 C.L.J. 235 and Bandiram v. Purna, 27 C.L.J. 115 (followed). A decree in a rent suit passed by a Munsiff not especially empowered is appealable to Subordinate Judge whose order in appeal is not appealable to the High Court unless a question of title or some interest in land is involved: Baidik Lachmi Narain v. Najahat, A.I.R. (1927) Pat. 300 (Dawson-Miller, C.J., and Kulwant Sahay, J.).

by assignee.

13. Suit by an assignee for back rent :—A suit for back rent by an assignee from the previous landlord is not a suit by a landlord against a tenant and therefore s. 153 does not apply: Kali Nath v. Kefatulla, 1 C.W.N. 119 (notes); s. 586 C. P. C. is not also a bar to a second appeal when the value is less than Rs. 100 inasmuch as the sum sued for by the assignee is rent within the meaning of s. 3, cl. 5; a second appeal therefore lies in such a suit: Ibid. A suit by an assignee of arrears of rent is not a suit of a nature cognizable by a Small Cause Court and therefore an appeal and a second appeal lie: Mohendra v. Kailas, 4 C.W.N. 605.

Benami.

Where A brought a suit against B alleging that he had purchased the superior interest of B, and in this suit B's plea was that the purchase was really the purchase by B in the benami of A, and the ~~court without deciding the question of title~~ dismissed the suit on the ground that there was no realisation of rent by A from B, held that it was no decision of the question of title, but where in such a case the court decides the question of title, it is a decision deciding a question of title as between parties having conflicting claims thereto: Gangadhar v. Sekhar Basini, 20 C.W.N. 967; Kalipada v. Sekhar Basini, 23 C.L.J. 235. It is not sufficient merely that there should be a controversy on the question of title as between parties having conflicting claims to land but the section requires that some question of title should be decided; if there is such a question raised but not decided no second appeal lies: Jillor Rahman v. Ebrahim Khan, 44 I.C. 558.

Question of title must be decided.

It was held by a Full Bench that a suit brought by an assignee for recovery of arrears of rent assigned after they fell due is a suit for recovery of rent, and is therefore excepted from the cognizance of the Court of Small Causes: Sris Chandra v. Nasim Quazi, 27 Cal. 827, s.c., 4 C.W.N. 357*; Banerjee, J., who was a member of the Full Bench and who dissented from the opinion of the majority observed as follows:—".....if a suit by an assignee of arrears of rent for the amount due be held to be excepted from the cognizance of a Small Cause Court an appeal and also a second appeal will always lie in such a suit, whereas if the suit had been brought by the landlord, an appeal would lie in such a suit only to the extent allowed by s. 153 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. Thus in a suit for any amount, however small, brought by an assignee of rent, an appeal and a second appeal will always lie even where the suit involves no question of rate of rent or title to land, though if the landlord had brought the suit, not one appeal would lie."

14. Suit by a co-sharer landlord :—Where a tenant has contracted to pay rent to one of several persons interested in a zemindari, in respect of his share separately from that of his co-sharers, and such rent has been assessed without any reference to the rent payable to the other sharers and has been separately collected, the landlord is separate landlord and s. 153 applies to a suit for rent by such co-sharer. Dhubatarini v. Ekabbar, 5 C.L.J. 253 (F.B.). A decree obtained by a co-sharer landlord for his share of the rent is not a decree for rent under the Bengal Tenancy Act and it has been held that s. 170 of the Act, therefore does not apply: Beni Madhub v. Joad Ali, 17 Cal. 390, see also Parameswar v. Kali Mohon, 28 Cal. 127, s.c., 4 C.W.N. 801. But it has been held, notwithstanding that s. 153 of the Act applies to a decree obtained by a co-sharer landlord: Kedar Nath v. Ardha Chandra, 5 C.W.N. 763 at p. 766, see also appeal from Appellate Order No. 225 of 1902, Jogendra Nath Roy v. Uma Charan Roy (unreported); the words "amount of rent annually payable" include the case of rent payable by a tenant to one of the co-sharer landlords who collects his rent separately: Narain v. Manafi, 5 C.W.N. 766. See also the case of Jogendra Nath Ghose v. Paban Chandra Ghose, 8 C.W.N. 472. But in a case where a co-sharer landlord sued for the recovery of the rent and the amount claimed did not exceed a hundred rupees, but the question raised and determined was not merely the amount of rent payable to the co-sharer but whether he had a title to recover a particular share of the rents of a particular moujah, held that the suit came under the exception mentioned in s. 153; Poresh Moni v. Nobokishore, 8 C.W.N. 193. The case of Beni Madhab v. Joad Ali, 17 Cal. 390; and Kedar Nath v. Ardha Chandra, 5 C.W.N. 763 were considered practically dissented from and it was held that s. 153 does not apply to the case of a suit for rent by a co-sharer landlord: Jogendra Nath v. Paban Chandra, 8 C.W.N. 472. The case of Poreshmoni v. Nobokishore, 8 C.W.N. 193 was followed in Bashiram v. Srinath, 23 C.W.N. 76 (notes portion).

Contra.

A suit by a co-sharer landlord for his share of the rent falls within the purview of s. 153; Sital Chandra v. Sheikh Afiuddin, 13 C.W.N. 793.

Where the plaintiff, a co-sharer landlord, brought a suit for his share of rent amounting to less than Rs. 50, and he made his co-sharers pro forma defendants to the suit, held that an appeal to the High Court from the decision of the lower Appellate Court is barred under s. 153: Ibid. The case of Jogendra v. Paban, 8 C.W.N. 472 was not followed.

S. 153 applies to suit for rent by a co-sharer landlord.

S. 153 applies to a suit for rent by a co-sharer landlord: Bhagabati v. Nand Kumar, 12 C.W.N. 835; where a suit for rent brought by a co-sharer landlord was decided by a Munsiff specially empowered under s. 153, held, that s. 153 applied to the case and no appeal lay to the Subordinate Judge and consequently no second appeal also lay; but the judgment of the Subordinate Judge was set aside by the High Court as being without jurisdiction.

Pramad-nath v. Ramani Kant followed.

Their Lordships in deciding this case observed that it was governed in principle by the case of Pramada Nath v. Ramani Kant, 35 Cal. 331, s.c., 12 C.W.N. 249, s.c., 7 C.L.J. 139 (P.C.).

Pramadnath v. Ramani Kant does not seem to be an authority for holding that s. 153 applies to such a case.

It is submitted with great respect to the learned Judges who decided the case of Bhagabati v. Nand Kumar, 12 C.W.N. 835, that there is no such principle to be found in the Privy Council case; in that case the question was different and there was no question of appeal under s. 153. In that case a co-sharer landlord brought a suit for rent; "the suit was framed as one under the Bengal Tenancy Act to recover the whole rent of the tenure, and for the purpose to bring to sale the tenure itself"; the co-sharer landlords had been realising their shares of the rent separately. So the question was entirely different, and it is submitted that no proposition was laid down by their Lordships of the Judicial Committee from which it may be inferred that there was a principle which should govern the present question as to an appeal in a case brought by a co-sharer landlord, specially when the co-sharer landlords are not all parties.

Bhagabati v. Nanda Kumar followed.

However, it has been subsequently held following the case in 12 C.W.N. 835, that the suit of a co-sharer landlord for his share of the rent falls within the purview of s. 153: See Sital Chandra v. Sheikh Afiuddin, 13 C.W.N. 793; in this case plaintiff made his co-sharer landlords proforma defendants.

High Court interfered in revision by converting second appeal into revision.

15. Revision:—In a suit for rent in which a second appeal was barred by s. 153, the High Court under s. 115 C. P. C. exercised its power of revision and interfered by reversing the decree of the District Judge and gave a decree at the admitted rate: Efran Daraga v. Delaladdi Molla, 24 C.W.N. 176 (notes portion). [Although the case is reported in the notes portion, the entire judgment of the High Court has been printed.]

In a case where no second appeal lay in a rent-suit the High Court interfered in revision treating the memo of appeal as an application under s. 115 C. P. C.: Dina Bandhu v. Jagabandhu, 25 C.W.N. 55 (notes portion), s. c., 63 I.C. 520.

An error of law cannot be corrected by a District Judge in revision; the powers of revision under s. 153 are similar to those as contained in s. 115 C. P. C.: Durgati v. Bijoy Chand, 26 C.W.N. 12 (notes). Error of law.

Where a second appeal was dismissed on the ground that no appeal lay to that Court from the decree of the lower appellate Court in as much as no appeal lay to that Court from the decree of the first Court under sec. 153 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, the High Court interfered in revision under sec. 115 of the C. P. C.: Surendra Krishna Chowdhury v. Abbas Ali, 85 I.C. 760. Interference in revision.

A District Judge may transfer an application for revision under s. 153 to an Additional Judge: Lal Behari v. Akhil Chandra, 27 C.W.N. 315. Revision application transferred by District Judge to Adl Judge.

16. Res-judicata:—In a suit for rent the decision that there is no relationship of landlord and tenant does not operate as res judicata: Syamal v. Brindaban, 72 I.C. 655. In this connection see Mrigendra v. Krishna, 33 C.L.J. 334.

17. In cases where the value does not appear from the proceedings:—Under the old law (s. 102 of Act VIII of 1869) no second appeal lay in a rent suit, if the amount sued for, or the value of the property did not exceed one hundred rupees. In a case where there was nothing to shew that the value of the property claimed did not exceed Rs. 100, it was held that if the fact did not appear either from the finding of the lower Court or elsewhere upon the proceedings, no inference could be drawn to that effect: Tulsi Panday v. Bucha Lall, 9 Cal. 596 (F.B.): s. c., 12 C.L.R. 223. Where the value does not appear from the proceedings.

18. The District Judge may call for the record:—An Additional District Judge has no jurisdiction to exercise the powers of revision as the law laid down in this section makes a distinction between a District Judge and an Additional District Judge: Gaunda Bibi v. Jabonulla, 5 C.W.N. 48 (notes). Additional District Judge has no powers of revision.

"The Judicial Officer as aforesaid" mentioned in the proviso has reference to the "Judicial Officer" spoken of in cl. (b) of the section and to such an officer only; the District Judge possesses no revisional jurisdiction by virtue of the proviso in respect of decrees and orders of a District Judge, Additional Judge or Subordinate Judge referred to in cl. (a) of the section: Sankarmani v. Mathura Dhupini, 15 Cal. 327. Judicial officer, meaning of.

19. Order:—The term "order" in this section does not mean merely a final order but includes an interlocutory order such as an order of remand: Gagan Chand v. A Caspersz, 4 C.W.N. 44. S. 152 precludes an appeal from an order of remand made in an action for rent for less than Rs. 100, unless order has determined any of the questions specified in s. 153: Ibid. See also Batasu Sarkar v. Jaity, 3 C.W.N. 62 (notes): Sashi Bhusan v. Deno Moyee, 34 I.C. 301. Order of remand.

No appeal lies to the High Court under s. 153 from an order refusing to hear an application under O. 41, r. 21 C. P. C. to have an appeal from a decree in a rent suit valued less than Rs. 100 O. 41, r. 21, C. P. C.

reheard in the presence of the respondent ; an application to rehear the appeal is an application in the suit : Samed Shaikh v. Naba Nepal Ghose, 19 C.L.J. 310. The term 'suit' includes the appellate stage ; it even includes the execution proceedings based on the final decree made in the suit : Ibid—sub-sec. (2) of s. 143 makes Order 43 r. 1 cl. (t) C. P. C. applicable subject to the operation of the restrictive provision of s. 150 B. T. Act : Ibid.

'Suit' includes execution proceedings.

The term "suit" in this section includes proceedings in execution of the decree made in the suit ; no second appeal therefore lies against an order made in the course of proceedings in execution of a decree passed in a suit for rent in which the amount claimed does not exceed Rs. 100, unless the order appealed against decides any of the special question mentioned in s. 153 : Shyama Churn v. Debendra Nath, 27 Cal. 484, s. c., 4 C.W.N. 269 : * approved of in Kumar Praphulla Krishna Deb v. Nasibannessa Bibi, 24 C.L.J. 331 (Special Bench of seven Judges). Following the case of Shyama Charan v. Debendra Nath, it was held in Monmohini v. Lakhinarin, 28 Cal. 116, that no appeal lies from an order passed by a District Judge setting aside a sale in execution of ex-parte decree for rent valued at less than one hundred rupees.

Order setting aside a sale in execution of an ex-parte decree.

Order setting aside a sale.

An order setting aside a sale is as much an order relating to the execution of a decree as an order confirming a sale : Ibid. An order setting aside a sale seems also to be governed by this section : see Deb Coomari v. Gungadhar, 17 W.R. 199.

Proceedings in execution.

Proceedings in execution should be treated as a part of the suit and are subject to the same rule as regards jurisdiction throughout the various stages as the suit itself and therefore an appeal does not lie from an order in execution when no appeal is allowed against the decree in the suit : Parutty v. Shaikh Mandari, 5 Cal. 594. The word 'suit' is intended to cover all proceedings prior to decree and subsequent ones in execution : Krishto Coomar v. Anund Coomar, 19 W.R. 307 : Kedar Nath v. Huro Proshad, 23 W.R. 227.

Suit, meaning of.

Order of remand.

An order of remand is an order within the meaning of s. 153 : Batasu v. Jaitly, 3 C.W.N. 62 (notes).

A second appeal lies against an order refusing to set aside a sale in execution of a decree obtained in a suit for rent for less than Rs. 100 : Arjun Das v. Gunendra Nath, 27 I.C. 294.

O. 41, r. 21, C. P. C.

Sec. 153 is a bar to an appeal against an order passed by the lower appellate court upon an application made under Order 41 rule 21 C. P. C., in a suit for rent for less than Rs. 100 in value : Ahmed Shikh v. Naba Gopal, 19 C.W.N. 359 ; s. c., 19 C.L.J. 310 ; the term "suit" includes the appellate stage and an application to rehear the appeal is clearly an application in the suit ; Ibid. Sub-sec. (2) of sec. 143 of the B. T. Act, which makes order 43 rule 1, cl. (t) C. P. C., applicable to suits between landlord and tenant, makes it applicable subject to the operation or the restrictive provision of Sec. 153 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, and the absence of

* Orders made in execution of decrees passed in suits of the nature cognizable by Courts of Small Causes the value of which does not exceed Rs. 500 have been held to be non-appealable by virtue of the provisions of s. 586, C. Patra Khan*, 18 All. 481 ; also see appeal from order No. 223 of 1900 (unreported) decided by BANERJEE and GEIDT, J.J.

the restrictive words "in a case open to appeal," from cl. (t) does give the right of appeal: Ibid.

A decree for rent was passed by an officer empowered to exercise final jurisdiction in the matter under s. 153, held that this section is no bar to an appeal from an order passed in execution of the decree by an officer not so empowered: Sheo Persad v. Bishen Pargosh, Execution of decree. 15 C.W.N. 760.

An order under s. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is appealable if the question is between the parties to the suit or their representatives and the question raised is a question relating to execution, discharge or satisfaction of the decree: Sital Rai v. Nanda Lal, 13 C.W.N. 591; s. c., 11 CL.J. 202. It cannot be affirmed as a general proposition of law either that an order under s. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act or under s. 310A C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882) is or is not appealable: Ibid; the test is whether the question raised in the proceedings is one relating to execution, discharge or satisfaction of the decree, or if the question, whether it arises between the parties to the suit or their representatives; if it is so, the order is appealable: Ibid. S. 174.

An order under s. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is an order under s. 47 C. P. C. and an appeal and a second appeal lie: Raghubar Dagol v. Jadunandan, 16 C.W.N. 736, s. c., 15 C.L.J. 89, when the judgment-debtors appealed against an order in execution treating it as one under s. 174 B. T. Act read with s. 46 C. P. C., it was not open to them on second appeal by the decree holder to urge that such appeal did not lie: Ibid.

20. Appeal: Effect of passing of new Act :—A suit for rent was brought before the Bengal Tenancy Act was passed; after the suit was commenced and before the decree the Bengal Tenancy Act was passed; under the old law no appeal lay in such a suit having regard to the nature of the question which was tried: although if the case were governed by the Bengal Tenancy Act a second appeal lay; held that no second appeal lay: Satghuri v. Majidun, 15 Cal. 107; see also Hurro Sundari v. Bhofohari, 13 Cal. 86. Decree in a suit before the passing of the Act.

21. Proviso :—The powers of revision in the proviso are practically the same as those contained in s. 622, C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882) which is as follows:—The High Court may call for the record of any case in which no appeal lies to the High Court, if the Court by which the case was decided appears to have exercised a jurisdiction not vested in by law, or to have failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested, or to have acted in the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity; and may pass such order in the case as High Court thinks fit. S. 622 Power to call for the record of cases not appealable to High Court.

S. 115 of the new Civil Procedure Code corresponds to s. 622 of the old Code.

It has been decided by their Lordships of the Judicial Committee that when a Court has jurisdiction to decide a case and decides it rightly or wrongly, it does not exercise its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity within the meaning of s. 622, C. P. C.: Amir Hassain v. Sheo Baksh Singh, 11 Cal. 6 (P.C.). In Amir Hassain's case it was decided that even if a Court having jurisdiction to decide a case, wrongly decided a question of resjudicata, it does not exercise its jurisdiction illegally or with material illegality within the meaning of s. 622, C. P. C. Exercise of jurisdiction illegally or, with material irregularity. Amir Hassain's case.

Mistake
in law.

A mere mistake in law by a lower Court does not bring a case under s. 622, C. P. C. (Per Maclean, C. J.): Raghunath v. Rai Chatraput, 1 C.W.N. 633. See Mohunt Bhagwan v. Khetter Moni, 1 C.W.N. 717; Brij Mohun v. Rai Umanath, 20 Cal. 8; Jagadanand v. Amrita Lal, 22 Cal. 767; Magniram v. Jiwa Lal, 7 All. 336, Badami Kuar v. Dinu Rai, 8 All. III; Sheo Bux v. Shib Chunder, 13 Cal. 225, Jagabandhu v. Jadu Nath, 15 Cal. 47; Kristamma v. Chapa Nandu, 17 Mad. 410; Mahomed Yusuf v. Abdul Rahman, 16 Cal. 749; Mathuranath v. Umes Chunder, 1 C.W.N. 726; Raghunath v. Rai Chatraput, 1 C.W.N. 633; Raium Bux v. Nanda Lal, 14 Cal. 321; Debo Das v. Mohunt Ram Churn, 2 C.W.N. 474.

Refusal to exercise
jurisdiction.

If a District Judge erroneously refuses to exercise a jurisdiction under s. 153 the remedy lies in an application to the High Court under s. 622 C. P. C.: Sarat Chandra v. Ram Nidhi, 2 C.L.J. 69 notes.

Erroneous exercise of jurisdiction
by District Judge.

Where a District Judge acted in contravention of the powers vested in him by the proviso to s. 153 by interfering with the judgment of the Munsiff on a question of law the District Judge acted without jurisdiction and the High Court can revise the order: Horananda v. Ananta Dasi, 9 C.W.N. 492.

Third clause of
s. 622,
C. P. C.

In Mohunt Bhagwan v. Khetter Moni, 1 C.W.N. 617, Banerjee and Gordon, J.J., held that the third clause of s. 622, C. P. C. is intended to authorise the High Court to interfere and correct gross and palpable errors of subordinate Courts, so as to prevent grave injustice in non-appealable cases, and the question whether any case comes under the clause has to be determined with reference to the grossness and palpableness of the error complained of, and to the gravity of the injustice resulting from it.

error.

*Mohunt Bhagwan v.
Khetter
discussed.

The case in 1 C.W.N. 617 was considered by Maclean, C.J., in the case of Enal Mandal v. Boloram Dey, 3 C.W.N. 581, His Lordship observed as follows:—The learned Judges in the latter case, (Mohunt Bhagwan v. Khetter Moni, 1 C.W.N. 617), however, apparently engrafted upon the Privy Council decision (Amir Hassan v. Sheo Bux, 11 Cal. 6) a limitation, to the effect that the Court can interfere under s. 622 if the error of law be “gross and palpable.” This, to my way of thinking and with all respect, is frittering away the decision of the Privy Council and is likely to lead to confusion. In every case we should have to enquire whether error of law “is gross and palpable” and this opens out a rather startling vista of contentious matter. To our mind the error of law may appear “gross and palpable”; to another mind it may present itself as question of real difficulty. When the Privy Council have decided a point of law in clear and precise terms, I prefer, as have frequently said, to follow it, and not attempt to whittle down its effect.

When the Lower Court dismissed the plaintiff's suit for rent in its entirety on the ground that his co-sharer not having complied with the requirements of s. 15 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, the whole suit must fail, held that the High Court can interfere in such a case under s. 115 C.P.C. or s. 15 of the Charter Act: Tarini Charan v. Chandra Kumar, 14 C.W.N. 788.

Where the Munsif declined to exercise jurisdiction wrongly on the ground that s. 109 of the B. T. Act barred the suit, held that the District had jurisdiction to interfere under revisional power under s. 153 of that Act: Sarat Chandra v. Monmohan, 46 C.L.J. 46 (Majumdar, J.).

22. Sec. 153—Explanation :—An order setting aside or refusing to set aside a sale in execution of a decree for rent wherein the decree-holder was the purchaser decides a question relating to title to the land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto ; an appeal therefore lies from such an order even when there could be no appeal from the decree in the suit on account of the prohibition contained in s. 153 of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Kali Mondal v. Ram Sarbeswar, 32 Cal. 957, s.c., 9 C.W.N. 721, s.c., 1 C.L.J. 476 (over-ruling Mon Mohini v. Lakhi Narain, 28 Cal. 116) ; see also Ganga Charan v. Shashi Bhusan, 32 Cal. 572, s.c., 1 C.L.J. 255 : Safarali v. Raj Mohan, 1 C.L.J. 454.

Order setting aside or refusing to set aside sale.

Where a sale is set aside on both the grounds of fraud and irregularity an appeal lies, but no appeal lies where the sale is set aside on the ground of irregularity alone untainted by fraud: Jatiram v. Dinanath, A.I.R. 1922 Cal. 163 ; the cases of Kali Mandal v. Ram Sarbeswar, 32 Cal. 957 (F.B.) and Nobin v. Beni, 19 C.W.N. 953 were referred to and discussed.

Following the case of Kali Mondal v. Ram Sarbeswar, 32 Cal. 957, s.c., 9 C.W.N. 721 (F.B.), it has been held that a second appeal lies against an order refusing to set aside a sale in execution of a decree for rent obtained in a suit valued at less than Rs. 100, the decree-holder being the purchaser: Arjun Das v. Gunendra Nath, 18 C.W.N. 1266, s.c., 20 C.L.J. 441. The Full Bench case in 32 Cal. 957 was followed in the case of Nobin Chandra v. Bipin Chandra, 19 C.W.N. 953 ; s.c., 22 C.L.J. 244. A question as to fraud in publishing or conducting a sale is not covered by the explanation: Ibid : (Per N. Chatterjee, J.). "The effect of the Full Bench decision (Kali Mondal v. Ram Sarbaswar, 32 Cal. 957), has been much impaired by the Amending Acts of 1907 and 1908": Nawab Bahadur of Murshidabad v. Khondkar Mahamad, 49 I.C. 465.

The explanation added to this section by the Amending Acts of Bengal and East Bengal practically overrules the Full Bench decision so far as regards its applicability to cases where the sale is sought to be set aside on the ground of irregularity in publishing or conducting the sale, but the explanation does not seem to affect cases where sales are sought to be set aside on the ground of fraud or other grounds. But it has been held in the case of Arjun Das v. Gunendra, 18 C.W.N. 1266 that the explanation added to s. 153 has not completely nullified the Full Bench decision in Kali Mondal v. Ram Sarbeswar, 32 Cal. 957, s.c., 9 C.W.N. 721, s.c., 1 C.L.J. 476. It was also held in the case of Arjun Das v. Gunendra, 18 C.W.N. 1266 that a second appeal lay where an application for setting aside a sale was made by a purchaser from the tenant although the claim in the suit for rent was under Rs. 100.

Effect of the explanation section.

The question whether the judgment debtor has complied with the S. 174. requirements of s. 174 for reversal of the sale is one which decides a question relating to title to land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto ; although therefore the order was passed originally by a munsiff having final jurisdiction under s. 153, the order is appealable: Beni Madhub v. Bissesar, 17 C.W.N. 84, s.c., 16 C.L.J. 542 ; Mookerjee J., in delivering judgment of the Court observed as follows at p. 545 (16 C.L.J.) :—

"No doubt as pointed in the case of Sheo Parsad v. Bishên Pargush, 15 C.W.N. 760 the effect of the explanation is to restrict considerably the effect of the decision of the Full Bench ; Kali Mondal v. Ram Sarbeswar, 32 Cal. 957. But we are unable to uphold the contention that the decision of the Full Bench, has been practically superseded by the explanation. The explanation provides that a question as to the regularity of the proceedings in publishing or conducting a sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent is not a question relating to title to land or to some interest in land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto. In the case before us no question arises as to the regularity of the proceedings in publishing or conducting the sale. The question raised is whether the judgment debtor has complied with the requirements of s. 174 for reversal of the sale. We are therefore of opinion that this is not covered by the explanation and that the rule laid down in Kali Mondal v. Ram Sarbeswar, 32 Cal. 957 governs the matter.”*

Sec. 153
Or. 21 r. 90.

A suit for rent valued at less than Rs. 50 was brought before the Munsiff who had final jurisdiction to try such a suit. The suit ultimately resulted in a decree which led to the sale. A transferee from the judgment-debtor thereafter applied under Or. 21 r. 90 C. P. C. for the setting aside of the sale on the ground of fraudulent suppression of the sale proclamation and the writ of attachment. The Munsiff dismissed the application. On appeal, the District Judge held that there had been suppression of processes and as a result thereof the price fetched at the sale was wholly inadequate and accordingly he set aside the sale. The petitioner moved the High Court on the ground that no appeal lay to the District Judge under s. 153 B. T. Act, held that an appeal lay to the District Judge : Prosad Kumar v. Surendra Nath, 31 C.W.N. 107 (notes) (Mitter J.). The explanation to s. 153 does not purport to affect cases of fraud in publishing or conducting the sale in execution of the decree for arrears of rent : Ibid. [Kali Mondul v. Ram Sarbeswar, 32 Cal. 957 (F.B.) explained ; Nabin Chandra v. Bepin, 19 C.W.N. 953, s.c., 22 C.L.J. 244 followed ; unreported Civil Rule No. 613 of 1921 Jotiram Gyan Das v. Dinanath Samanta, (Greaves, J.) where it was held that if both fraud and irregularity be established, the fact they are coupled together does not exclude an appeal ; unless there is irregularity alone—an irregularity untainted by fraud—an appeal lies]. The mere fact that a transferee from the judgment debtor made the application under Or. 21 r. 90 C. P. C. does not make any difference in principle : Ibid ; Gour Routh v. Digambar, 30 C.W.N. 586 referred to.

Contra.

It has however been held in the case of Maharaj Bahadur Singh v. Kurani Mai, 32 C.W.N. 57, s.c., 45 C.L.J. 566 (Mukerji and Roy, J.J.) that fraud in publishing or conducting a sale is not meant to be kept separate from irregularities in the publication or conduct thereof for the purpose of Explanation to s. 153 of the B. T. Act.

An application for setting aside a rent sale was dismissed by the Munsiff and an appeal was preferred to the District Judge who set aside the sale. A second appeal was preferred to the High Court. The Appellant's contention was that by reason of the Explanation to s. 153, B. T. Act, a question as to the regularity of the proceedings in publishing or conducting a sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent is not a question relating to title to land or to some interest in land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto, held Sec. 153. that no appeal lay from the decision of the Munsiff: Ibid. [The case of Nobin v. Bepin, 22 C.L.J. 244, s.c., 19 C.W.N. 953 dissented from; The cases of Beni v. Bireswar, 17 C.W.N. 84 and Arjun v. Gunendra, 18 C.W.N. 1266 and Kali v. Ram Sarbeswar, 32 Cal. 957 (F.B.) discussed and commented on]. Explanation.

In cases in which an appeal will lie only if fraud is established, it is not open to a litigant to avail himself of the right of appeal, simply because in the original application in respect of which the appeal arises, an allegation of fraud has been made. In such cases an appeal will lie only if the allegation of fraud is established: Aswini Kumar v. Raj Kumar, 103 I.C. 705, s.c., A.I.R. (1927) Cal. 845. (Page and Graham, JJ.).

153A. Every application for an order under section 108 of the Code of Civil Procedure to set aside a decree passed ex-parte, or for a review of judgment, under section 623 of the said Code, in a suit between a landlord and tenant as such, shall contain a statement of the injury sustained by the applicant by reason of the decree or judgment; and no such application shall be admitted—

- (a) unless the applicant has, at or before the time when the application is admitted, deposited in the Court to which the application is presented the amount, if any, which he admits to be due from him to the decree-holder, or such amount as the Court may, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, direct; or
- (b) unless the Court, after considering the statement of injury, is satisfied, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, that no such deposit is necessary

I. Notes :—This section was inserted by the Amending Acts of Bengal and East Bengal, I of 1907 and I of 1908.

2. Ss. 108 & 623 C.P.C. :—S. 108 of the old Civil Procedure Code corresponds to O. 9, r. 13 of the new Code and s. 623 of the old Code corresponds to s. 114 and O. 47, r. 1 of the new Code.

3. Application to set aside a decree or for review :—It seems that this section will apply when an application is made for a review of judgment passed by the original Court as well as the appellate Court and that it applies in all suits between landlords and tenants and not merely to suits for rent, although from clause (a) as well as the Select Committee's report in the footnote below* it would seem that the intention of the legislature was to limit its application to a suit for rent alone.

4. Julkur rent :—The provisions of this section are applicable to suits for recovery of rents of julkur or fishery: Annada v. Nagendra, 15 C.L.J. 52.

5. Mode of application of the money deposited :—The landlord in whose favour the decree is ultimately made on the re-trial is entitled to and should apply the sum deposited by the judgment debtor to his credit towards satisfaction of the decree and execute the decree for the balance left, if any: Sheo Parsad v. Bishen Pargash, 15 C.W.N. 760.

6. Deposit* :—It is said that a practice prevails in the mufasil by virtue of which applicants for setting aside decrees under this section are allowed to give security instead of being required to make a deposit of the amount as required under this section. It seems that such practice is not according to law. The section speaks of "deposit of amount" and this expression clearly indicates that money is to be deposited. So where a deposit is to be made the deposit must be a money deposit.

7. Court can order deposit whether there is admission or not :—Sec. 153A of the B. T. Act contemplates a deposit to be made in all normal cases, where a decree has been passed for any amount in a suit between the landlord and tenant as such. Unless the Court grants an exemption under cl. (b) of that section the deposit must be made. If there is an admitted amount the deposit may be made of the admitted amount but in all cases the Court has power to make an order for the deposit of any amount whether there has been an admission or not. The obvious intention of the Legislature is that the Court should regulate the amount of the deposit, and in all cases it should record its reasons for the order it passes, whether it requires or excuses a deposit: Tamijannessa Khatun v. Purna

* The conditions which apply under sections 149 and 150 to a plea by a tenant to the effect that the rent claimed is due to a third person or is in excess of the amount really due, should also attach to an application for the setting aside of an ex-parte decree under section 108 of the Code of Civil Procedure, for such applications are very often made with the sole object of delaying and obstructing the recovery of rent. A deposit of the decretal amount is required in the case of such an application under section 17 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887. We have inserted the new section 153A with the object of preventing vexatious applications for the purpose of delay, not only under section 108 of the Code of Civil Procedure, but also under section 623 of the same Code. We think that the tenant should be bound to deposit either the amount, if any, which he admits to be due, or such amount as the Court directs. The Court should be empowered to regulate the amount of the deposit after consideration of the statement of injury filed with the application. In all cases the court should record its reasons for the order it passes, whether it requires or excuses a deposit; Select Committee's report.

Money deposited should be applied to the satisfaction of the decree.

Security cannot be allowed.

Scope of s. 153A : Court can order deposit even when the tenant does not admit any amount due.

the Court, pays the compensation mentioned in the decree, and, where the misuse or breach is declared by the Court to be capable of remedy, remedies the misuse or breach to the satisfaction of the Court, the decree shall not be executed.

1. Any case :—The expression “In any case, to pay reasonable compensation” means every case : Pershad Singh v. Ram Pertab, 22 Cal. 77 : “The question really turns upon the meaning of the words, ‘and in any case,’ if that means in any case whatever, it follows that there being statutory prohibition unless the notice exactly complies with the statute the Judge would be right. The argument of learned counsel comes to this that, if it was a case where no compensation could possibly be ascertained, it would be unreasonable to expect the landlord to give notice with regard to it. He says that in this particular case with regard to what was alleged to have been done, it was impossible to ascertain the damages. Of course that argument would be very difficult to accept, if the Legislature meant every case, because we are bound to follow the Act.” Per Trevelyan, J. : Ibid. {“Any case” means every case.

2. Suit must include all the lands in the tenancy :—A suit for ejectment of a certain portion of an occupancy holding on the ground that it has been rendered unfit for the purpose of the tenancy under s. 25 is bad, as it does not include all the lands comprised in the tenancy : Kamaleswari v. Harbullubh, 2 C.L.J. 369.

3. Injunction :—Where a suit for ejectment failed, the ancillary prayer for injunction was refused : Pershad Singh v. Ram Pertab, 22 Cal. 77. Ancillary prayer for injunction.

4. Notice :—A suit for ejectment for misuse of the land is not bad merely because the compensation was demanded in the alternative : Boidyanath v. Ghisu Mandal, 30 Cal. 1063.* A notice to Claim of compensation in the alternative.

* In the notice the defendant was called upon to pay compensation if he did not choose to remedy his misuse of the land.

Denial of landlord's
title.
Service
tenure.

Suit which directs the tenant to vacate a certain quantity of land under his landlord is not bad in law, merely because it includes some land which the tenant is found not to hold under the landlord: Shama Charan v. Uma Charan, 2 C.W.N. 106. Where a notice to quit stated the area of the defendant's holding to be 1 bigha and 5 chittaks, but the true area was $1\frac{3}{4}$ cottas less and no boundaries were given; held, that it was not a defect which would make the notice bad in law, specially when the defendant was not misled by reason of this: Ibid. Notice to quit is not necessary in a suit for ejectment on the ground of denial of landlord's title: Anandmoyee v. Lakhi Chandra, 33 Cal. 339: s. c., 3 C.L.J. 274. Nor is a notice necessary to eject a holder of service tenure who refuses to perform his services: Ansar Ali v. C. E. Grey, 2 C.L.J. 403. Where a notice proceeded on the view that the notice was not capable of remedy, the notice is sufficient although it does not require the tenant to remedy the misuse: Bejin Behari v. Shib Charan, 43 I.C. 801.

Where
notice held to be bad.

Where in a notice there is no claim for compensation, either in addition or as an alternative to a demand on the tenant to remedy the misuse or breach, held that the notice did not fulfil the requirements of s. 155 (1): Maharaj Bahadur v. Makhan Chandra, 29 C.L.J. 436.

Object of notice.

"The object of a notice to quit given under s. 155 is to give the tenant an opportunity of remedying the breach (if it is capable of being remedied); so that on remedying the breach and on payment of a reasonable compensation he may avoid ejectment. Under the notice given in the present case, the tenant was required to quit the land even if he remedied the breach. Under the circumstances we are of opinion that the Courts below are right in holding that it was not a proper notice under s. 155 of the Bengal Tenancy Act": Kali Chandra v. Kali Kumar, 34 I.C. 537. (Chatterjee and Richardson J.J.).

breach capable remedied

Whether the breach complained of is capable of remedy or not, a sum is to be specified by the Court which will be reasonable compensation for the breach, and it is only if the tenant fails to deposit that sum within the time given, that the landlord can have his decree for ejectment: Afiladdi v. Satish Chandra, 34 I.C. 497. (Beachcroft and Newbould, J.J.).

Suit for injunction and compensation.

5. Limitation :—Where a person having a right to use the property demised to him for one purpose, viz., for agricultural purposes perverts to another purpose, viz., that of a tank, and a suit is brought seeking as primary relief a mandatory injunction, directing the defendant to fill up the tank, and to pay the plaintiff compensation and a secondary relief for ejectment which could not follow save upon failure of the defendant to comply with that order, the case comes within the provisions of Art. 32 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act: Saroop Das v. Jageswar, 26 Cal. 564, s. c., 3 C.W.N. 464 (F.B.).

Ejectment
suit.

Art. 32 and not Art. 143 of Sch. I of the Limitation Act governs a suit by a landlord brought under s. 155 of the B. T. Act to eject a tenant who has allowed a portion of his holding to be encroached upon by a stranger and had exchanged another plot of land of the tenancy with the stranger in contravention of the terms of his kabuliati: Taher Mondal v. Tarafdi Gharami, 20 C.W.N. 661.

See notes under secs. 10, 25 and 89.

6. Service of notice*:—See Appendix I: Bengal Government Rules. (Rule No. 38).

7. Compensation:—The compensation to be given, according to the terms of s. 155 is for the breach; to determine compensation the position of the landlord immediately before the breach is to be compared with his position after the breach, and the measure of compensation will be the extent to which he has been prejudicially affected by the breach and not the loss of privilege brought into existence by the breach; if he has not been prejudicially affected, reasonable compensation cannot be more than a nominal sum: Keshablal v. Jnanendranath, 20 C.L.J. 332; see notes under heading No. 4.

Compensation, how to be determined.

Where a suit for ejectment is held to be barred by limitation the claim for compensation is maintainable if the suit is within the period of limitation: Krishna Das v. Mahendra Chandra Sil, 62 I.C. 779. If a tenant in contravention of an agreement excavates a tank the damages which should be awarded to the landlord should be merely nominal in case the tank is an improvement and is beneficial. [The amount of damages was fixed for Rs. 5/- five plus the amount of nazar which the tenant should have to pay to the landlord for such permission): Ibid.

Compensation, claim for,—where ejectment suit fails.

A decree under s. 155 cannot direct payment of compensation in addition to ejectment: Karim v. Aswini, 25 C.W.N. 658.

Compensation in addition to ejectment cannot be decreed.

8. Capable of remedy:—The phrase “capable of remedy” means physically possible to remedy and does not mean possible remedy by compensation: Harak Singh v. Kirat Narayan, 10 C.L.J. 595; where a tenant misused an agricultural holding by growing thereupon a mango orchard, the landlord is entitled to a decree directing the defendant to remove the trees within a specified time, and eject him if he fails to do so; he is entitled to a decree for compensation: Ibid; see notes under heading No. 4.

Physical possibility to remedy.

Where a misuse was found to be capable of remedy and the notice only claimed compensation and did not require the tenant to remedy the breach, held that the suit for ejectment should fail and the landlord was not also entitled to any compensation: Shib Charan v. Bepin Behary, 27 C.W.N. 144.

Notice defective if it omits to remedy breach which is capable of remedy.

9. Omission of appellate court to fix a date for ejectment:—It is no doubt better to fix a date for ejectment in the judgment of the appellate Court, but if the original decree fixed a date, the appellate decree might be presumed to incorporate the terms of the original decree and as such is not liable to be set aside for omission: Karim v. Sswini, 25 C.W.N. 658.

Appellate Court presumed to incorporate terms of the original decree.

10. Cases where s. 155 applies and where not:—Where a lease provided that the lessee would not be entitled to alienate the property nor to place the land in possession of another, and if the lessee acted in contravention of the said conditions he would be entitled to take possession without recourse to the court and that the

* In a suit for ejectment under the Transfer of Property Act a notice to quit which was addressed to all the joint tenants who lived in commensality, was handed over to one of them and he signed an acknowledgment for it, held that the service was a good service: Rajani v. Hafisonnisa, 4 C.W.N. 573. Service of notice by a registered letter through the Post Office is not necessarily a non-compliance with the provisions of the second clause of s. 106 of the Transfer of Property Act, if there is evidence that the post peon tendered or delivered the notice either personally to the party or to one of his family or servant: Subadini v. Durgacharan, 4 C.W.N. 790.

tenant would not be entitled to plead that he had acquired a right of occupancy under s. 6 of Act X of 1859 ; in a suit for ejectment by the landlord against the tenant and his transferee, held that in spite of the condition in the lease, the landlord was bound by the provisions of s. 89 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, but when the tenant lessee had submitted to a decree for ejectment the transferee could not avail himself of the provisions of ss. 89 and 155 as he was under the terms of the lease a trespasser : Budhimonta v. Sarat Chandra, 13 C.L.J. 672 ; this case was followed in the case of Dwarka v. Mathura, 21 C.W.N. 117, s. c., 24 C.L.J. 40, where it was held that s. 155 is not applicable to a suit for the ejectment of a tenant who has forfeited his tenancy by breach of a covenant, and s. 155 cannot be invoked by a purchaser of a permanent tenure in execution sale, which was forfeited by a condition of the lease. This case was distinguished in the case of Ataharuddin v. Murarimohan, 47 C.L.J. 21 (Suhrawardy and Cammiade, J.J.) where it has been held that section 155 of this Act applies to every case where the landlord sues the tenant for ejectment even though on the allegation that he has forfeited his tenancy on account of the breach of a covenant in the lease. Because a tenant commits an act in breach of the terms of the tenancy, he does not cease to be a tenant within the meaning of sec. 155 of the B. T. Act. He continues to be a tenant until he is declared by a Court of justice that he has forfeited his tenancy and is liable to be ejected : [The case of Afiladdi v. Satis Chandra, 29 C.L.J. 40 was followed, and the case of Dwarka v. Mathura, 21 C.W.N. 117, s. c., 24 C.L.J. 40 was distinguished.] In a lease creating a miras karsha there was a covenant that if the tenant transferred the holding without the landlord's consent the landlord would have the right of re-entry. The tenant transferred the holding to another person and continued to remain in possession as a sub-lessee under him. The landlord sued the tenant without serving notice upon him under sec. 155 of the B. T. Act, it was held that the suit was not maintainable for want of notice under the said section : Ibid.

Where a tenant, holding land under a kabuliyat which precludes him from transferring it in any way, either by sale or gift or any other manner and gives the landlord a right of re-entry if such transfer is effected, transfers the land and holds a portion of it under a sub-lease from the transferee, both the purchaser from the tenant and the tenant holding land under the sub-lease from the transferee are liable for ejectment by the landlord or a person claiming under him, even without a notice under s. 155 (b) of the Act, Gohur Sheikh v. Shaikh Ahmedali, 105 I.C. 786, s. c., 1928 A.I.R. Cal. 113 (B. B. Ghose and Roy, J.J.). [Romesh Chandra v. Daiba Charan, 28 C.W.N. 602, s. c., 39 C.L.J. 356, s. c., A.I.R. 1924 Cal. 900 ; Dwarika Nath v. Mathuranath, 21 C.W.N. 117, s. c., 24 C.L.J. 40 referred to.]

decree dismissed for default.

II, Decree appealed against dismissed for default :—

Where an appeal against a decree for ejectment was dismissed for default, held that the order of dismissal is not a decree, and it is the decree of the primary court which is to be executed : Syam Mandal v. Satinath, 44 Cal. 354, s. c., 21 C.W.N. 776, s. c., 24 C.L.J. 523, but where the decree of the primary court is confirmed, amended or reversed it is the appellate decree which is to be executed : Ibid.

Form of
decree.

12. Form of decree :—Where the land of a tenancy has been misused, the landlord is entitled under s. 155 sub-sec. 2 to have a decree compelling the defendant to remedy the misuse where it is capable of remedy : a decree which merely directs the payment of compensation is not a proper decree : Harak Singh v. Kirat Narayan, 10 C.L.J. 595.

13. Waiver :—An objection that forfeiture has been waived may be properly taken in proceedings in execution of the decree for ejectment : Syam Mandal v. Satinath, 44 Cal. 954, s. c., 21 C.W.N. 776, 24 C.L.J. 523 ; a tenant continues to be the tenant up till the date fixed in the decree for the performance of the obligation, so the institution of a suit for rent for arrears up till that date does not make a decree for ejectment previously obtained incapable for execution : Ibid.

Waiver.

Acceptance of rent, waiver.

Acceptance by the landlord of rent due after forfeiture from lessee operates as a waiver of the notice of forfeiture, notwithstanding notice of the landlord that such acceptance is without prejudice to his right to insist upon the forfeiture : Bengal Nagpur Railway v. Bal-mukunda, 80 I.C. 200. (Mookerjee and Rankin, J.J.). [The following cases were discussed : Croft v. Lumby, 6 H. L. Cas. 672 ; s. c., 27 L.J.Q.B. 321 ; 4 Govt. (N.S.) 903 : s. c., 6 W.R. 523 : s. c., 10 E. R. 1459 : s. c., 108 R. R. 252 : Devenport v. Queen, 3 A.C. 115 ; s. c., 47 L.J.P.C. 8, s. c., 37 L.J. 727 : Rex v. Pantson, I.A.C. 271, s. c., 90 L.J.P.C. 1, s. c., 124 L.J. 449. Strong v. Stringer, 42 L.T. 359 ; s. c., 44 J.P. 457. Hartel v. Blackler, 61 L.T. 470 ; Davies v. Bristoe, 3 K.B. 161 ; 89 L.J.K.B. 838 ; Strater v. Hersh, 1 K.B. 438 ; 91 L.J.K.B. 263 ; 126 L.T. 346. Evans v. Enver, 2 K.B. 315 ; 80 L.J.K.B. 845. Teleman v. Portfury, 7 Q.B. 344 ; s. c., 41 L.J.Q.B. 98. Penton v. Barnett, 1 Q.B. 276, s. c., 67 L.J.Q.B. 11 ; s. c., 77 L.T. 645 ; s. c., 46 W.R. 33 : Sahwali v. Hussaini Begam, 2 P.L.J. 598, s. c., 2 P.L.W. 52, s. c., 42 I.C. 655 ; Munsur Ali v. Abdul Karim, 10 C.L.J. 187, Padmanakhya v. Range, 34 M. 161, s. c., 20 M.L.J. 930].

Where rent is accepted after the notice to quit whether before or after a suit for ejectment has been filed the landlord thereby shows an intention to treat the lease as subsisting, Manicklal v. Kadambini, 43 C.L.J. 272 (Buckland J.).

14. Waste land :—S. 178 does not operate to make s. 155 in-applicable to the case of a tenant of waste lands, who cannot there-fore be ejected without a notice under s. 155 being served on him ; Champakalatika v. Nafar Chandra, 13 C.W.N. 536, s. c., 13 C.L.J. 300.

Ss. 178 and 155.

Possession in respect of waste land is presumed to follow title and in the absence of any entry by some other person on the lands beyond 12 years of suit, no question of limitation arises. There is no dispossession or discontinuance of possession, unless one person's possession terminates and is followed up by some body else's possession : Mohesh Chandra v. Hemendra, 46 C.L.J. 575 (Rankin, C. J., and Mitter J.).

15. Tenancy and Limitation :—In a suit for possession of land, brought against an alleged tenant who is really a trespasser, the defendant may set up a case of tenancy and also raise the issue of limitation : Matilal v. Lalu Mondol, 19 C.L.J. 321 (See also Haji Khan v. Baldeo, 24 All. 90, Dinmoni v. Doorga Pershad, 21 W.R. 70, s. c., 12 B.L.R. 274).

Tenancy and limitation.

16. English Law as to Fixtures :—The English law relating to fixtures was not applicable to India before the Transfer of Property Act came into operation and it should not be applied to tenancy created before the Act on the ground of its being based on justice, equity and good conscience: Mofiz Sheikh v. Rasik Lal, 14 C.W.N. 952.

Law as to fixtures.

Extension of time.

17. Extension of time in execution of decree:—It is competent to the court to entertain an application for enlargement of time after expiry of the period prescribed in the decree and even after the decree-holder has applied for execution; whether extension of time should be allowed or not depends on the circumstances of the litigation i.e., upon the circumstances disclosed at the original trial and the events subsequent: Syam Mondal v. Satindra, 44 Cal. 954, s.c., 21 C.W.N. 776, s.c., 24 C.L.J. 523; see also Mohabir v. Dioki, 52 I.C. 137.

Improvement.

18. Improvement:—A tenant is entitled to effect on his holding any improvement which would add to the value of the holding: Mahadeo v. Sheogulam, 2 Pat. L.J. 634. As to what constitutes improvements the provisions of s. 76 are not exhaustive; Ibid.

Rights of ejected raiyyats in respect of crops and land prepared for sowing.

156. The following rules shall apply in the case of every raiyyat ejected from a holding:—

- (a) when the raiyyat has, before the date of his ejectment, sown or planted crops in any land comprised in the holding, he shall be entitled, at the option of the landlord, either to retain possession of that land and to use it for the purpose of tending and gathering in the crops, or to receive from the landlord the value of the crops as estimated by the Court executing the decree for ejectment;
- (b) when the raiyyat has, before the date of his ejectment, prepared for sowing any land comprised in his holding, but has not sown or planted crops in that land, he shall be entitled to receive from the landlord the value of the labour and capital expended by him in so preparing the land, as estimated by the Court executing the decree for ejectment, together with reasonable interest on that value;
- (c) but a raiyyat shall not be entitled to retain possession of any land or receive any sum in respect thereof under this section where, after the commencement of proceedings by the landlord for his ejectment, he has cultivated or prepared the land contrary to local usage; and
- (d) if the landlord elects under this section to allow a raiyyat to retain possession of the land, the raiyat shall pay to the landlord, for the use and occupation of the land during the period for which he is allowed to retain possession of the same, such rent as the Court executing the decree for ejectment may deem reasonable.

157. When a plaintiff institutes a suit for the ejectment of a trespasser he may, if he thinks fit, claim as alternative relief that the defendant be declared liable to pay for the land in his possession a fair and equitable rent to be determined by the Court, and the Court may grant such relief accordingly.

Power for Court to fix fair rent as alternative to ejectment.

Headings of Notes.

1. DISMISSAL OF RENT SUIT : SUBSEQUENT SUIT FOR EJECTMENT.
2. TENANCY BY OCCUPATION OF LAND.
3. SUIT AGAINST A TRASPASSER WITH ALTERNATIVE CLAIM FOR RENT.
4. SUIT FOR COMPENSATION ; NO WAIVER TO EJECT.

1. Dismissal of rent-suit : subsequent suit for ejectment :

—Plaintiff brought a suit to obtain a declaration that he had a right to the land in suit, and that the defendant No. 1 was a karsa raiyat under him, and to recover khas possession upon ejectment of the defendant No. 1 ; plaintiff had previously brought a suit for rent against the defendant No. 1 who in that suit denied the existence of the relationship of landlord and tenant between him and the plaintiff, and alleged that a third party who was made a defendant now was his real landlord ; the rent-suit having been dismissed, plaintiff brought the present suit and in the course of the suit plaintiff withdrew the claim for ejectment and sought for a declaration of his title to the land and for recovery of rent from defendant No. 1, held that s. 157 of the Bengal Tenancy Act was applicable, and that a right to claim rent may arise under that section upon the establishment of the plaintiff's right to the land in dispute notwithstanding that his previous suit for rent was dismissed : Dwarka Nath v. Ram Chand, 26 Cal. 428, s. c., 3 C.W.N. 266 (F.B.).

2. Tenancy by occupation of land :—The following observations were made by Banerjee J., in the judgment in the case of Azim Sirdar v. Ram Lall, 25 Cal. 324 (at pp. 327, 328) :—

Observations of Banerjee J.

“Tenancy in this country is created not only by contract, but also by occupation of land, so far as agricultural lands are concerned. As was observed by this Court in the case of Nityananda Ghose v. Kissen Kishore, 1864 W.R. Act X Ruling 82 :—‘Here it is a very usual thing for a man to squat on a piece of land or to take into cultivation an unoccupied or waste piece of land. Tenant in a great many Districts in Bengal commences in this way, and where it so commences it is presumed that the cultivator cultivates by the permission of the landlord, and is under obligation to his landlord to pay him a fair rent, when the latter may choose to demand it. Thus the established usage of the country regards these parties as land-

lord and tenant unless the landlord chooses thus to treat him, the cultivator is not regarded, as he would be by the law as administered in England, as a trespasser, but as a tenant, and he would be so although he may never have expressly acknowledged the landlord's rights or entered into express contract with him for the payment of rent. If he chooses to cultivate the zemindar's lands and the zemindar lets him, there is an implied contract between them creating a relationship of landlord and tenant. So in the case of Lalan Monee v. Sonamonee Dabee, (1874) 22 W.R. 334, Mr. Justice Jackson observed 'If these parties are in possession they make themselves tenants by use and occupation of land.' In the Full Bench case of Lukhee Kanto Das Chowdhury v. Summeeruddi Lusker, (1874) 13 B.L.R. 243 ; 21 W.R. 208, where the landlord sued a raiyat for rent alleged to be due under a kabuliyat, the question arose whether, as the defendant had occupied the land under the zemindar, the latter was entitled to recover some rent or compensation for the use of the land and the learned Judges held that he was so entitled. And following the two last mentioned cases Garth, C. J., in the case of Surnomoyee v. Dina Nath Gir, (1883), 9 Cal. 908, observed : 'As the plaintiff is willing in this case to waive the dispossession and to consider the defendant as her tenant, we think that upon the authority of those cases we may give the plaintiff a decree for use and occupation. The principle of law enunciated in those decisions has now been combined in section 157 of the Bengal Tenancy Act.....'

Relationship of
and tenant.

The rule that in order that the relationship of landlord and tenant may be established between parties, the consent of both sides is essential may be the law in England, but it is not the law in this country : Kali Prasanna v. Bhagaban, 17 C.W.N. 348, s.c., 17 C.L.J. 431 (Per Holmwood J., Chapman J., concurring). Tenancy in this country is created not only by contract but also by occupation in the case of agricultural lands ; the embodiment of this principle of law in s. 157 of the Bengal Tenancy Act does not, however, mean that every case where tenancy is created by mere occupation must come under that section and that all other legal remedies are shut off from the landlord : Ibid—(The case of Azim Sirdar v. Ram Lal, 25 Cal. 324 was explained in this case).

"...the relationship of landlord and tenant under the Bengal Tenancy Act is or may be governed not only by contract but by status. In essence the difference may be merely the difference between a contract made by the parties for themselves and a contract made by the law for them"—Per Richardson and Newbould (J.J.) : Berham Dut v. Ramji Ram, 18 C.W.N. 466 at p. 469.

Rent free
land—
accretion.

A rent-free tenure-holder is liable to pay rent in respect of accreted land : Rajendra v. Nanda Lal, 19 C.L.J. 595. The principle that a tenant who enters upon a land and holds a de-facto proprietor bona-fide, is entitled to be treated as a raiyat, although the de-facto proprietor subsequently turns out to be not the real owner, is applicable quite as much as to form land as to alluvial accretions : Ibid.

Pleas of tenancy and limitation.

In a suit for possession of land brought against an alleged tenant, who is really a trespasser, the defendant may set up a case of tenancy and also raise the issue of limitation : Moti Lal v. Kalu Monder, 19 C.L.J. 321.

contract

Where there is no proof of any contract between the parties, the presumption of law that the possession of one is held under an agreement of tenancy from the other, is not applicable: Moti Lal v. Darjeeling Municipality, 17 C.L.J. 167. between landlord and tenant.

Where in a suit for rent the defendant denied the landlord's title and the plaintiff failed to prove an alleged settlement with him and no alternative claim was made in the plaint for compensation for use and occupation, held that the landlord was not entitled to compensation for use and occupation: Bhukhi Koer v. Ram Khelwan, 17 C.W.N. 311. (Per Jenkins C. J. and N. Chatterjea J.). See in this connection the cases of Lukhee Kant v. Sumeeruddi, 13 B.L.R. 243; Surendra Narain v. Bhai Lal, 22 Cal. 752, Rachhea Singh v. Upendra Chandra, 27 Cal. 239, Gobinda Sundar v. Srikrishna, 10 C.L.J. 533, Surnamoyee v. Dinanath, 9 Cal. 908, Azim Sardar v. Ram Lal, 25 Cal. 234 and Eshan Chandra v. Shama Charan, 11 M.I. 7 (20).

If a person who has been dispossessed from an immoveable property, brings a suit for recovery of mesne profits the suit is not maintainable; the proper remedy is to institute a suit for declaration of title, and recovery of possession with mesne profits: Girinarain v. Madhu Sudan, 17 C.W.N. 324; where the title of the plaintiff is denied by the defendant the plaintiff ought not to obtain a decree for mesne profits till his title has been established in a Court of competent jurisdiction: Ibid. Suit for mesne profits.

In an action for mesne profits against co-trespassers while it is open to the plaintiff to proceed against one or some or all of several co-trespassers at his own choice, once a decree has been obtained, it is the decree in its entirety that may be challenged on appeal, and so long as the decree against one remains a final and operative decree and not subject to an appeal, even though it is not satisfied but is capable of execution, the plaintiff cannot proceed with the suit further and take an appeal against the others. Kama Prosad v. Chandra Nath, 106 I.C. 300, (M. Verji and Mallik J.J.). Though as a general rule the liability for a joint wrong does in tort is joint and several, this is not an inflexible rule which needs no relaxation according to the law that is taken of the jointness of the act on facts which constitute the wrong. Ibid. Joint trespassers.

3. Suit against a trespasser with alternative claim for rent:

—Where the suit is based on trespass only, the mere fact of an alternative claim for rent does not make it the less a suit on trespass as that claim is based on s. 157: Birendra Kisore v. Giris Chandra, 22 C.L.J. 154.

4. Suit for compensation: no waiver to eject:—It is open to an owner of land first to sue a trespasser for compensation and then to bring a suit for ejectment to assert his right to the land: Rajkrishna v. Phakir, 19 C.W.N. 478.

158. (1) Subject to the provisions of section 111, the Court having jurisdiction to determine a suit for the possession of land may, on the application of either the landlord or the tenant of the land, determine all or any of the following matters, namely:— Application to determine incidents of tenancy.

(a) the situation, quantity and boundaries of the land;

(b) the name and description of the tenant thereof (if any);

- (c) the class to which he belongs, that is to say, whether he is a tenure-holder, raiyat, holding at fixed rates, occupancy raiyat, non-occupancy-raiyat, or under-raiyat, and, if he is a tenure-holder, whether he is a permanent tenure-holder or not, and whether his rent is liable to enhancement during the continuance of his tenure; and
- (d) the rent payable by him at the time of the application.

(2) If, in the opinion of the Court, any of these matters cannot be satisfactorily determined without a local inquiry, the Court may direct that a local inquiry be held, under Chapter XXV of the Code of Civil Procedure, by such Revenue-officer as the Local Government may authorize in that behalf by rule made under section 392 of the said Code.

1882.

(3) The order on any application under this section shall have the effect of, and be subject to the like appeal as, a decree.

the section.

2. Object of the section:—In a proceeding under s. 158 it is open to a petitioner to dispute the validity of the patta set up by the tenant; in determining the question as to the nature of the tenancy the Court must look into the title which the tenant set up and pronounce upon its validity: Bhupendra Narayan v. Nemye Chand, 15 Cal. 627.

Incidents

existing

The object of this section is to enable the Court to ascertain what are the incidents of the existing arrangements between a landlord and his tenant, and not to enable the Court to make a new contract.

Dispute as to relation of landlord
and tenant.

3. Dispute as to relation of landlord and tenant:—A Court has jurisdiction under s. 158 only when a tenancy is admitted, and that it should not under that section proceed to decide a dispute as to the existence of the relation of landlord and tenant between the parties to the application: Peary Mohun v. Ali Sheikh, 20 Cal. 249 (at p. 252).

"In our opinion the object of s. 158 is merely to provide a summary procedure for settling disputes between landlord and tenant in regard to the particulars referred to in clauses (a) (c) (d) of the section. Though clause (b) does authorise the Court to determine the name and description of the tenant this, we think, was not intended to and does not authorise the Court to decide conclusively disputes as to who is the tenant or as to who is entitled to the occupation of the land. The section, in other words, does not empower the Court to decide disputes as to the right to possession of the land. It could not in a proceeding under s. 158 of the Act pass a decree for possession, so that if it were to decide such questions it might declare one person entitled to possession, while another might ostensibly hold, and might continue to hold, actual and direct possession of the land. Further, the section does not empower the Court to bring all persons claiming to have rights on the land before it." Per Pigot and Rampini J.J.: Peary Mohun v. Ali Sheikh, 20 Cal. 249 at p. 253.

In an application under section 158, it is open to the court to determine whether the relationship of landlord and tenant does exist between the parties: Kailas Chandra v. Meheruddin, 97 I.C. 604 s.c., A.I.R. (1927) Cal. 51 (Cuming and B. B. Ghose J.J.).

4. Clause (d): "Rent payable":—Under clause (d) a Court has to determine what the existing rent is and it has no jurisdiction to determine what the rent should be, and consequently additional rent for additional area cannot be assessed in such a proceeding: Srinarain v. Luchmeshwar, 6 C.W.N. 562. additional area.

Where, in a proceeding under s. 158, the Court sent the case to the Collector for the purpose of local enquiry with a view to determine the matters referred to in that section, and it was directed, among other matters, that the Revenue-officer should find out what may be the rent payable by raiyats holding lands in the vicinity of a similar description; held, that the Revenue-officer ought not to have directed his inquiry to the question mentioned above, but the inquiry should have been directed to find out what was the rent that was being paid by the particular defendant or had been previously paid by them: Purna Rai v. Bungshidhur, 3 C.W.N. 15.

Enquiry should be directed to find out the
rent.

"Rent payable" in cl. (d) of Section 158 does not mean existing rent only but means also the fair and equitable rent. Priyanath v. Official Trustee, 105 I.C. 133 s.c. 1928 A.I.R. Cal. 43 (Mukerjee and Graham J.J.). [The cases of Purna v. Bunshidhar, 3 C.W.N. 15,

"Rent payable" means also fair and

rent.

Sree Narain v. Luckmeswar, 6 C.W.N. 592, and Debendra v. Bhupendra, 19 Cal. 182, were explained]. .

The determination of the rent payable under cl. (d) of sec. 158 when it is the fair and equitable rent for the holding must be such as is payable at the time of the application and on its basis only rent for future years may be realised and not for the years in arrears in the suit, while there is nothing to prevent the landlord from asking for a decree for the back rent at such rate as the court may find to be fair and equitable for the years in suit. If the Revenue officer is able to determine the contract rents the plaintiff will undoubtedly be entitled to decrees on the footing thereof. If he finds only fair and equitable rents those can only be such rents as are payable at the time of the application. Ibid.

One application with respect to two or more tenancies held by the same tenant main-tainable.

5. One application with respect to more than one tenancy maintainable :—Under this section a landlord may include in one application two or more tenancies held by the same tenant and is not bound to make a separate application in respect of each separate tenancy: Dijendra Nath v. Sailendra Nath, 24 Cal. 197 s.c. 1 C.W.N. 236. By virtue of s. 647, C. P. C., the provisions thereof may be applied to all proceedings under the Bengal Tenancy Act so far as they can be made applicable; and therefore the inconvenience resulting from the proceedings becoming complicated by the inclusion of more tenancies than one in an application under s. 158 may be obviated by following the course prescribed by s. 45 C. P. C. (Per Banerjee J.): Ibid.

But not so against a number of tenants.

But this section does not authorise one application being made against a number of tenure-holders having separate and distinct tenures: the proper procedure is by separate application against each: Golap Chand v. Ashutosh, 11 Cal. 602.

Revenue-officer under
s. 103.

6. S. 102 and S. 158 :—It has been decided in the case of Dharani Kant v. Gaber Ali, 30 Cal. 339 s.c. 7 C.W.N. 53 that where there is a total denial of relation of landlord and tenant by one of the parties, a Revenue-officer has jurisdiction in a proceeding under s. 103 of the Bengal Tenancy Act to decide that question. But his decision, although it may have the force of a decree, it does not operate as res judicata in a subsequent suit by the landlord for ejectment; Stevens J., in delivering judgment in this case made the following reference to s. 158.

Observa-
Stevens, J.

"It seems to us difficult to say that the first two of these reasons are not as applicable to a record under section 102 as to proceedings under section 158. With regard to the particulars which may be determined by a Court under sec. 158 on the application of either the landlord or the tenant, clause (a) of the section answers to clause (c) of sec. 102, clause (b) to clause (a), clause (c) to clause (b), and clause (b) to clause (e). Moreover, sub-sec. 3 of s. 158 provides that an order made on an application under the section shall have the effect of, and be subject to the like appeal as, a decree. There is, therefore, we think, sufficient analogy between a proceeding under sec. 158 and a proceeding under section 103 to make the case of Peary Mohun Mookerjee v. Ali Sheikh, 20 Cal. 249, applicable to the case before us, which appears to be distinguishable from the cases cited for the respondents on the ground suggested by the learned Vakil for the appellants. In this view we do not feel pressed by the authority of those cases to hold that the rule of res judicata applies in the present case."

7. S. 188 :—As so whether s. 188 is a bar to an application by a co-sharer landlord under s. 158, see notes under s. 188.

S. 188 applies to an application under s. 158: Mahiballi v. Amir Rai, 17 Cal. 538; Dhananjoy v. Upendra Nath, 46 I.C. 428.

An application under s. 158 to determine the incidents of a tenancy cannot be made against persons who have only a portion of the proprietary interest in the land of the tenancy even when the applicant appears to have taken separate leases from different landlords of their respective undivided interests; Hari Mohan v. Sasi Mohan, 18 C.W.N. 168 (Per Coxe and Ray J.J.). The words "the landlord or the tenant of the land" occurring in this section clearly mean the landlord or the tenant of the whole land and not of a share of it: Ibid (Per Ray J.).

The above decision may be illustrated as follows :—

A, B, C and D are joint proprietors of a plot of land. E takes separate leases from A, B, C and D in respect to their undivided shares of the land. E cannot make an application under s. 158 against A. It was not decided whether one application against all is maintainable. Illustration.

Sec. 158 requires that the application must be made by the whole body of landlords, and therefore if the suit is not maintainable under the general or any other law but is one sanctioned exclusively by the Tenancy Act then the suit must fail. But sec. 158 is not restrictive and the right to claim a fair and equitable rent is an obligation arising out of the contract between the parties and is enforceable in the ordinary Civil Courts under the provisions of sec. 9 of the C. P. C. Both jurisdiction are available and as sec. 158 does not expressly bar the operation of the general law, sec. 9 of the C. P. C. operates. When the Bengal Tenancy Act does not exclude the operation of sec. 9, C. P. C., sec. 188 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is no bar and the co-sharer landlords are entitled to maintain the suit for assessment of fair and equitable rent: Ram Gobind v. Shashi Sekhar, [1925 Pat.] 153.

8. Assessment of rent :—In a proceeding under s. 106 a tenant was held liable to pay a fair rent; thereupon the landlord brought a suit for assessment of rent, held that the suit was maintainable, if not under the general law, as suit in the nature of a declaratory suit, then as an application under s. 158: Berham Dut v. Ramji Ram, 18 C.W.N. 465.* Their Lordships say as follows:—"It was said that cl. (b) of the section admits only of the determination of the rent payable by the tenant at the time the application under the section is made, and that when these suits were instituted no rent was payable. The answer to that argument is that the rent payable when these suits were brought was a fair and equitable rent, that is, a rent capable of being ascertained by evidence: (18 C.W.N. at p. 469). Assessment of rent.

A suit by a co-sharer landlord for assessment of the rent of the tenant's holding is not maintainable where the other co-sharers have not been made parties. It is not necessary to join the other co-sharers as plaintiffs as sec. 188 does not apply but they should be made parties defendants, so that the assessment when made may bind all equally. No really effective decree can be passed in the absence of the interested co-sharers and there can be no finality as to what is really the fair and equitable rent. As in a partition suit so in a suit for assessment all the interested persons should be made parties: Partap Mahton v. Mussr. Wazirunnissa, 4 Pat. 604, s.c. [1925 Pat.] 125.

* The case of Devendra v. Bhupendra, 19 Cal. 182 was distinguished.

Decision of a Revenue
Court.

9. Decision of Revenue Court not binding on parties:—

Where a revenue court in a proceeding for commutation of rent held that the tenant was an occupancy raiyat although the landlord contended that the tenant was an under raiyat, held that the landlord had the right to apply under s. 158 for determination of the status of the tenant: Amarnath v. Aghorendra, 15 C.W.N. 216 (notes). A dispute as to the status of a tenant cannot be finally decided by a Revenue Court in a proceeding for commutation of rent under s. 40: Kali Krishna v. Ram Chandra, 19 C.W.N. 823; Durgamohon v. Sukumar, 19 C.W.N. 825.

O. 9. r. 9,
C. P. C.

10. Effect of dismissal for default:—An application under s. 158 Bengal Tenancy Act is not a suit within the meaning of O. 9 r. 9, C. P. C., so where an application under s. 158 is dismissed for default under O. 9 r. 8, C. P. C., a fresh suit for the determination of the annual rent was not barred: Janki Ray v. Kalanand, 2 Pat. 192. (Dawson Miller C. J. and Mullick J.).

Standard of measurement, relevant.

11. Standard measurement:—Under a proceeding under s. 158 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, in which an enquiry was directed, amongst other things, as to the boundaries of certain plots held by certain raiyats, the Ameen took evidence as to the standard measure of the district, and the Court decided the case on their evidence, held that in determining the boundaries the question as to what was the standard measure of the district arose, and that the evidence was rightly received and acted upon: Deoki Singh v. Sheogobind, 17 Cal. 277.

Art. 4.

12. Cl. (3): Decree:—An order on an application made under sec. 158 cl. (3) of the Bengal Tenancy Act is to be regarded as a decree under Schedule III, Art. 4 and time runs from the date of the order. If a formal decree is drawn up, it need not be filed with the memorandum of appeal and the time for presentation of appeal is to be calculated from the date of the order and not from the date of the decree: Debendra Nath v. Nagendra Nath, 43 C.L.J. 106 (Suhrawardy and Mukerji J.J.). Kamala v. Tarapada, 15 C.L.J. 498 referred to.

Where a person against whom a decree purporting to be a rent decree is passed has not taken exception to the execution proceedings under Chap. XIV, B. T. Act, on the ground that the decree is not a rent decree, he is precluded from doing so at a subsequent stage: Ambika v. Harkishore, 103 I.C. 707, s.c. 1927 A.I.R. (Cal.) 825.

CHAPTER XIII.

SUMMARY PROCEDURE FOR THE RECOVERY OF RENTS UNDER THE BENGAL PUBLIC DEMANDS RECOVERY ACT, 1913.

158A. (1) Any landlord (other than the Government) whose land is situate in an area for which a record-of-rights has been prepared and finally published, and in which such record is maintained, may apply to the Local Government, through the Collector of the district in which his land is situate, for the application of the procedure prescribed by the Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act, 1913,* to the recovery of the arrears of rent which he alleges are, or may accrue, due to him for lands in such area.

Recovery
of arrears

certificate procedure in certain areas.

(2) The Local Government may reject any such application, or may allow it subject to such terms and conditions as it may see fit to impose, and may at any time add to or vary any terms or conditions so imposed, or withdraw its allowance of the application, without, in any of these cases, assigning any reason for its action.

(3) When any such application has been allowed, the landlord may make a requisition in writing, in the form prescribed, to such Revenue-officer as the Local Government may, appoint, for the purpose of this section, to perform the functions of a Certificate-officer under the Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act, 1913,† for the recovery of any arrears of rent which he alleges are due to him from any tenant.

(4) Every such requisition shall be signed and verified by the landlord making it, in the manner prescribed by rule I in Schedule II of the said Act, as amended for the time being by rules made under section 39 thereof, and shall be chargeable with a fee of the amount which would be payable under the Court-fees Act, 1870, in respect of a plaint for the recovery of a sum of money equal to that stated in the requisition as being due.

(5) On receipt of such requisition, the said Revenue-officer may, in accordance with such rules as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf, and if he is satisfied that the arrear is due, sign a certificate, in the prescribed form, stating that the arrear is due; and shall include in the certificate the fee paid under sub-section (4), and shall cause the certificate to be filed in his office :

Provided that—

(a) no certificate shall be signed for the recovery of arrears of rent of a tenancy regarding which a suit has been instituted in a Civil Court for the alteration of the rent payable by the tenant or the determination of his status as a tenant, in respect of the period during which it is alleged in the requisition made under sub-section (3) that the arrears of rent sought to be recovered have accrued; and

(b) if, after the signing of a certificate, it is found that such a suit was instituted in a Civil Court before the certificate was signed, such certificate shall be cancelled.

(6) The person in whose favour any certificate is signed under sub-section (5) shall be deemed to be the certificate-holder for the amount mentioned in the certificate, and the person against whom the certificate is signed shall be deemed to be the certificate-debtor for the said amount; and all proceedings taken by the Certificate-officer for the recovery of such amount shall be taken at the instance of the first-mentioned person, and at his cost and responsibility, and not otherwise.

(7) The Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act, 1913,* with such restrictions and modifications (if any) as may be prescribed, shall apply to the execution, and to all proceedings arising out of the execution, of certificates filed under sub-section (5).

(8) No landlord shall, during the pendency of any proceedings under this section, institute a suit in a Civil Court for the recovery of any arrears of rent in respect of which he has made a requisition under sub-section (3) ;

and, subject to the provisions of section 34 of the Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act, 1913,† no tenant shall, after the signing of any certificate against him under sub-section (5) of this section, institute a suit in, or apply to, a Civil Court for the alteration of the rent payable by him, or the determination of his status as a tenant, in respect of the period during which the arrears of rent for which such certificate was signed have accrued.

(9) The word 'landlord' in this section includes an entire body of landlords, and also one or more co-sharer landlords who collects or collect his or their share or shares of the rent separately ; and, where a Revenue-officer signs a certificate on the requisition of one or more such co-sharer landlords, he shall at the same time issue to each of the remaining co-sharer landlords a copy of such certificate.

Amendment :—The original Chap XIII A was inserted by the Amending Acts of Bengal and East Bengal, Act I of 1907 and Act I of 1908 respectively. The present Chapter XIII A has been substituted by the Public Demands Recovery Act (III of 1913, B. C.) and the Behar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act IV of 1914, therefore the original Chap. XIII A, now repealed in Bengal will be found in Appendix VII.

[The Object of s. 158A which was originally inserted by Act X B. C. of 1907 and Act I E. B. C. of 1908, as explained in the Notes on the Clauses of the Bill of 1906 (B. C.) was as follows : “* * * * It is therefore proposed that in areas in which record-of-rights has been prepared and published and is periodically revised, the Local Government should take power to allow the recovery of the arrears of rent by the application of the procedure prescribed by the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1895, in the case of those landlords to whom, in the opinion of the Government, this privilege may safely be conceded. It is further proposed that the issue of certificates should be entrusted to a Revenue officer, who shall have powers to inspect the landlord's rent-rolls, accounts and collection papers, and to compare the receipts given to the raiyats with the counterparts kept by the zemindar, and to test their agreement with entries in the account. The conditions under which the summary procedure may be applied will thus resemble those under which it is extended to Government estates and estates under the Court of Wards, for the demand of each individual raiyat will be accurately known and the landlord's accounts and collection papers will be subject to inspection by a Government officer. If it is possible, with safety, to reduce the expense of rent suits, the results will be beneficial to landlords and tenants alike, and it is expedient, therefore, that a trial should be given to the scheme provided for in the clause, subject to the safeguards therein laid down.”] certificate.

- (a) a decree for arrears of rent due in respect thereof, or
- (b) a decree for damages under section 186A, or
- (c) a certificate for arrears of rent signed under the Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act, 1913,* the tenure or holding shall, subject to the provisions of section 22, pass to the purchaser, if such decree was obtained by—

- (i) a sole landlord, or
- (ii) the entire body of landlords, or
- (iii) one or more co-sharer landlords who has, or have, sued for the rent due to all the co-sharers in respect of the entire tenure or holding and made all the remaining co-sharers parties defendant to the suit, or

7. NOTES.

* For the italicised words and figures read as follows for Bihar : Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act, 1914.

1. Amendments :—This section was inserted by the Amending Acts of Bengal and East Bengal, I of 1907 and I of 1908, respectively. The object was to counteract the effect of the previous rulings (See Jogendra v. Paban, 8 C.W.N. 472) and to provide that in execution of a decree obtained by a co-sharer landlord in a suit for rent passed under sec. 148A of the Act, the tenure or holding shall pass.

The present sub-sec. (1) was substituted by s. 61 of the Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act III B.C. of 1913.* The former sub-sec. (1) printed in the foot note is still applicable in Bihar.

2. Co-sharer landlord :—A decree for rent obtained by a co-sharer landlord in a suit not brought under s. 148A or s. 158B is a money decree: K. B. Dutt v. Gostha Behary, 16 C.W.N. 1006; s.c., 16 C.L.J. 379.

A usufructuary mortgagee from one of several co-sharer landlords is in the position of a co-sharer landlord within the meaning of s. 158B, sub-sec. (1) cl. (3): Brohmanand v. Hem Chandra, 18 C.W.N. 1016.

Parties.

Sec. 158B of the Bengal Tenancy Act requires that in order to enable one or more co-sharer landlords to sell a tenure all the remaining co-sharer landlords should be made parties to the suit and also that when one or more co-sharer landlords having obtained a decree in such a suit applies for such execution of a decree by sale of the tenure, notices of the application for execution should be given to all the co-sharers. The provisions of this section must be strictly followed in order to give complete title to the auction purchaser in such a sale. Where all the co-sharer landlords are not made parties to the suit an auction purchaser in execution of a decree obtained in the suit does not purchase the holding free from all incumbrances. Surendranath v. Javed Ali, 25 I.C. 747.

Right to annul incumbrances.

3. Annulment of incumbrances :—If the decree satisfies the requirements of s. 158B the purchaser will have the right to annul incumbrances; the right to annul incumbrances depends not on the statement in the sale proclamation that the purchaser will have that right, but upon the nature of the decree and of the property put up for sale: Mahabir v. Baiju Lal, 2 Pat. L.J. 176, s.c., 1 Pat. L.W. 351. It is sufficient for the purpose of s. 158B that the decree holder was the sole landlord at the time of obtaining the decree: Sarup v. Jagarnath, 2 Pat. L.J. 194; see also Ram Krishun v. Mahabir, 39 I.C. 219, s.c., 1 Pat. L.W. 342. As to the effect of cessation of landlord's interest, see notes under s. 65.

4. Produce rent :—A holding which is held on produce rent and partly on money-rent is liable to be sold in execution of a rent decree: Monmohon v. Nowbat, 5 Pat. L.J. 641.

* The original sub-sec. (1) was as follows :—

(1) Where a tenure or holding is sold in execution of a decree for arrears of rent due in respect thereof, or of a decree for damages under section 186A, the tenure or holding shall, subject to the provisions of section 22, pass to the purchaser, provided that the decree in execution of which has been sold has been obtained by—

(a) a sole landlord; or

(b) the entire body of landlords; or

(c) one or more co-sharer landlords, who has, or have, sued for the rent due to all the co-sharers in respect of the entire or holding and made all the remaining co-sharers parties defendant to the suit.

5. Effect of sale without notice under sub-sec. (2):—

The provision of s. 158B (2) as to the giving of notice to the co-sharer landlords before the sale of a holding in execution of a rent-decree obtained by one co-sharer is mandatory and not merely directory and the failure of the court to sever such notice render the sale invalid: Sarip Hechan v. Tilattama, 43 I.C. 3; (Fletcher and Newbould J.J.); this case was followed in the case of Ahamad Biswas v. Benoy Bhusan, 23 C.W.N. 931, the purchaser at such a sale is in the position of an ordinary purchaser under a money decree: Ibid. In a case where no notice was served under s. 248 C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882) which corresponds to O. 21 r. 22 of the new Code it was held by the Privy Council that notice under s. 248 C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882) was necessary in order that the court should obtain jurisdiction to sell the property by way of execution as against the legal representatives of the deceased judgment debtor: Raghunath v. Sundar Dass, 42 Cal. 72, s.c., 18 C.W.N. 1058, (P.C.).

Sale without notice under sub-sec. (2), if nullity.

The cases of Sarip Hechan v. Tilottama, 43 I.C. 3 and Ahamad Biswas v. Benoy Bhusan, 23 C.W.N. 931 were distinguished by Mookerjee and Chotzner J.J. in the case of Rajani Kanta v. Rahaman Gazi, 27 C.W.N. 765 s.c. 37 C.L.J. 447 where it has been held that the provision of sub-sec. (2) of this section is for the benefit of the co-sharer landlord and it is open to him to waive the benefit of that section. The omission to serve upon the co-sharer landlord the notice under sub-section (2) does not nullify the sale or alter its character to that of a sale held in execution of a money decree, if he has knowledge of the sale and acquiesces therein.

It cannot be maintained on principle that because a sale has been held in contravention of a statutory provision, it must, irrespective of the nature and purpose of the provisions, be deemed to be null and void. If a question arises as to how the proceedings are affected by such contravention, the matter must be determined with regard to the nature, scope and object of the particular provision which has been violated. No hard and fast line can be drawn between a nullity and an irregularity. The safest rule to determine what is an irregularity and what is a nullity is to see whether the party can waive the objection; if he can waive it, it amounts to an irregularity; if he cannot, it is a nullity: Ibid. The case of Holmes v. Russel, 9 Dowe 28 referred to.

A sale without a notice under sub-sec. (2) of this section is not a nullity but has the effect of a sale under a decree for money: Duga v. Ram Dasi, 6 Pat. 80, s.c. 7 P.L.T. 871, s.c. 96 I.C. 569 (Ross and Kulwant Sahay, J.J.). The notice is not essential to the validity of the sale and omission to serve the notice is a mere irregularity. Ibid. [The case of Rajani Kanta v. Rahaman Gazi, 27 C.W.N. 756 followed. The cases of Sarip Hechan v. Tilottama, 43 I.C. 3 and Ghanashyam v. Basudev, 60 I.C. 529 not followed. The cases of Ahamad Biswas v. Benoy Bhusan, 23 C.W.N. 931 and Norendra v. Jatindra, 55 I.C. 402 referred to]. See also Nakul v. Rajendra, 104 I.C. 196 (Graham J.) where it has been held that the non service of notice upon the co-sharers in accordance with the provisions of s. 158B (2) does not invalidate the rent sale but totally alters it to a sale in execution of a money decree.

The case of Rajani Kanta v. Rahaman Gazi, 27 C.W.N. 765 was followed in the case of Badlu Pathak v. Sibram Singh, 107 I.C. 310 (Dawson Miller, C.J. and Adami, J.).

Effect of purchase of
a holding.

6. Purchase of a portion of a holding :—There is nothing in s. 158B which would give the purchaser the right to acquire the rights therein mentioned except by a purchase of the whole holding. So that if he purchases a portion only of the holding he does not acquire the rights therein mentioned but merely the right, title and interest of the judgment debtor: Dipa Mahton v. Sheonandan Prasad, A.I.R. 1924 Pat. 342. (Dawson Miller C. J. and Mullick J.).

7. Notes :—The obligation of serving notice on co-sharers under s. 158B sub-sec. (2) is not sufficiently carried out by serving notices on some of them: Jabed Ali v. Surendranath, 42 C.L.J. 477 s.c. A.I.R. 1926 (Cal.) 351. (Greaves and Cuming J.J.). On Letters Patent Appeal from the decision of B. B. Ghose J.). Where a co-sharer landlord, who is a party to a rent decree obtained by another co-sharer, knows the facts and yet stands by and allows the impression that the decree is encumbrances, he is estopped from subsequently challenging the character of the decree and asserting that the sale was not free from encumbrances: Ibid.

The special provision of the B. T. Act which allows one or more co-sharer landlord to sell a tenure or holding in execution of their decree must be strictly followed in order to give complete title to the auction-purchaser and it will not be sufficient to say that the ijaradar under a particular co-sharer was a party in other capacity being himself a co-sharer in the Zemindari and therefore the absent co-sharer was sufficiently represented in order to bring into operation the special provisions laid down in s. 158B of the B. T. Act: Ibid.

Under s. 158B the tenure passes to the purchaser when it is sold in execution of rent-decree. Until the sale takes place the tenant recorded in the landlord's serestha must be deemed to have been the person in whom the tenure was vested: Rameswar v. Puran Chandra, 95 I.C. 303, s.c., 7 P.L.T. 717, s.c., A.I.R. 1926 (Patna) 213 (Sen J.).

ance of incumbrances.

159. Where a tenure or holding is sold in execution of a decree for arrears due in respect thereof, the purchaser shall take subject to the interests defined in this Chapter as "protected interests," but with power to annul the interests defined in this Chapter as "incumbrances":

Provided as follows :—

- (a) a registered and notified incumbrance within the meaning of this Chapter shall not be so annulled except in the case herein-after mentioned in that behalf ;
- (b) the power to annul shall be exerciseable only in manner by this Chapter directed.*

* Putni Sale Law :—The position of a purchaser at a sale under Reg. viii of 1819 may not be precisely that of a purchaser at a sale for arrears of revenue, yet he is privy in estate to the defaulting proprietor and he does not derive his title from him; a claim for rent by such a purchaser is not barred by res-judicata by reason of the failure of a suit for rent by the previous putnidar, on the ground that the relationship of landlord and tenant between the then plaintiff and the defendant was not established: Satish Chandra v. Munjeemati, 18 C.W.N. 340.

I. Miscellaneous notes :—So far as s. 65 is concerned there is no distinction between a holding which is held on money rent and a holding which is held on produce rent : Manbharan v. Babu Nowhat, 1920 Pat. 257. Where a Putnidar purchased a revenue-paying estate at a sale under Act XI of 1859, held that he was not entitled to annul the subordinate tenures under the putni : Patcowri v. Priyanath, 18 C.W.N. 672.

In order to determine whether an execution purchaser has acquired rights under s. 159 the test to be applied is two-fold : namely, first, whether a tenure has been sold, and secondly, whether the decree in execution where of the sale has taken place is a decree for arrears due in respect of that tenure : Chandra Mohini v. Kenaram, 19 C.L.J. 324.

The consequence of a sale under the Bengal Tenancy Act does not depend upon the amount of the bid offered by the successful purchaser ; it is independent of the value of the bid ; s. 165 was enacted solely for the benefit of the decree-holder ; if the bid is not sufficient to satisfy his decree and costs, it entitles him to have the property sold with power to annul all incumbrances ; but it is not obligatory upon him to adopt this extreme measure, and he is not in peril if he decides not to pursue this special remedy : Salimullah v. Rahenuddi, 43 Cal. 263 ; the case of Banbihari v. Khetra Pal, 38 Cal. 923 was not followed.

Where a durputnidar was allowed to have full rights to grant the leases or create incumbrances subject only to the restriction that if the durputni was sold for arrears of rent, the subordinate titles created by the durputnidar should at the same time come to an end, held that this agreement did not contravene the provisions of s. 159 of the Bengal Tenancy Act or s. 10 of the Transfer of Property Act : Madhusudan v. Midnapur Zemindary Co., 45 Cal. 940.

Suit for previously accrued arrears
sale.

Where after his putni taluk had been sold under Reg. VIII of 1819, the putnidar sued a tenant for previously accrued arrears of rent and recovered a decree and subsequently the putni sale was set aside and the putnidar there-after applied for execution of the decree by sale of the holding under the Bengal Tenancy Act, but before the sale the putni was again sold under Reg. VIII of 1819, held, that the decree could be executed as a rent-decree : Manindra v. Asutosh, 20 C.W.N. 1132.

Sale in collusion with purchaser.

Where a tenure-holder had deliberately defaulted to pay the superior landlord his just dues, with the intention that a decree might be obtained against him and his tenure, sold so that the under-tenure might be extinguished ; the plan succeeded : the decree was made and was executed ; the purchaser was settled from before the sale and the price also was fixed beforehand. Under the circumstances, the Court held that although the sale was held under the provisions of the Rent-Law, it had no higher effect than a private alienation, because it was in essence a transfer under pre-arranged conditions to a purchase who was a party to the arrangement : Uma Charan v. Midnapur Zemindary Company, 19 C.W.N. 270, s. c., 20 C.L.J. 11. This case went up to the Privy Council and although upon facts the judgment of the High Court was set aside, the Privy Council expressed its opinion in the same way as the High Court, viz., "If the sale had been the result of a corrupt agreement between the under tenure-holder and the purchaser at the sale, the purchaser might no doubt lose the benefit of s. 16 of the Bengal Act (VIII of 1865), and especially if the default in payment of rent had been deliberately incurred in furtherance of such an agreement" : Midnapur Zemindary Co. v. Umacharan Mondal, 24 C.W.N. 201 at p. 205. But where before the sale of a holding in execution of a rent decree, judgment-debtor, being anxious to procure good prices for the holding at the sale, approached the decree-holder and the latter expressed his intention to bid up to a certain amount, and at the sale the property was knocked down to the decree-holder for that amount, held that, in the absence of fraud, this circumstance would not deprive the purchaser of the benefit attaching to a sale under the Bengal Tenancy Act or render it a private sale : Monmotha Nath Mitter v. Anath Bandhu Pal, 23 C.W.N. 201 ; their Lordships distinguished the case of Umacharan Mandal v. Midnapur Zemindary Co., 19 C.W.N. 270. See in this connection also Sreenath v. Huranath, 18 W.R. 240.

Raiyat

The word "raiya" is sometimes used to denote a tenant : Rahamat Khan v. Sheikh Budhu, 24 C.W.N. 28 (notes portion).

of rent.

A purchaser of a perpetual tenancy sold for arrears of rent under s. 159 of the B. T. Act is not entitled to an abatement of rent in respect of part of the land which at the date of the purchase was in possession of a trespasser who afterwards was allowed to remain in possession and thus acquired an absolute title against the purchaser. It is the duty of a tenant under a perpetual tenancy to protect himself against illegal encroachments : Katyayani Debi v. Udoy Kumar, 52 I.A. 160, s. c., 52 Cal. 417 (P.C.), s. c., 30 C.W.N. 1. The cases in 10 W.R. 15 and 49 Cal. 948 were affirmed.

"Tenure"

2. Tenure or holding :—"Tenure" is defined in s. 3 cl. (7) and "holding" is defined in s. 3 cl. (9). An undivided share in the lands comprised in a holding is not a holding : for, "holding" means and "hold-parcel or parcels of land held by a raiyat forming the subject of a ing." separate tenancy, and the words parcel or parcels of lands have been interpreted to mean entire parcel or entire parcels of land ; see notes under s. 3 cl. (9) at p. 61. The definition of tenure does not exclude the idea that an undivided portion of land cannot be a distinct tenure.

See notes under this section under heading What constitutes a separate tenancy.

The description of a property as a "jote" does not necessarily Jote.
shew that it is not a tenure and that it is simply an ordinary cultivating "jote" or holding ; if the area of a jote exceeds one hundred bighas the presumption under s. 5 should be applied : Syed Nawab Ali v. Hemanta Kumari, 8 C.W.N. 117.

In the case of Ram Lal v. Bhelu Gazi, 37 Cal. 709, s.c., 14 C. Non-occu-W.N. 814 it has been held that Chapter XIV applies to the sale of pancy non-occupancy holdings also. holding.

It is submitted with great respect that the soundness of this decision is open to doubt, for Chapter XIV should be read along with ss. 65 and 66. It is submitted that Ch. XIV applies to such tenures and holdings as are referred to in s. 65 only.

3. Under-raiyati tenancy :—Ch. XIV does not apply to the Under-sale of an under-raiyat's interest : Munsar Ali v. Arsadulla, 16 C.W. raiyati N. 831, s.c., 16 C.L.J. 549. interest.

4. Sale of tenure after the passing of the Bengal Tenancy Act viii Act in execution of a decree for rent obtained under the old Act : (B. C.)
—Where a decree was obtained under Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869 and of 1869.
the tenure was sold after the Bengal Tenancy Act came into operation, held that the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act would govern the annulment of under-tenures : Birendra Kishore v. Ahammad Ali, 17 C.W.N. 612.

zance of the Courts of Small Causes : Sris Chandra v. Nasim Quazi, 27 Cal. 827, s.c. (F.B.), 4 C.W.N. 357 ; see also Shaikh Munsar v.
Loke Nath, 4 C.W.N. 10, which was approved of and followed by the Full Bench case of Sris Chandra v. Nasim Quazi, which practically overruled the case of Lalla Bhugwan Sahoy v. Sungesur Chowdry, 19 W.R. 431.

But it has been held that the provisions relating to limitation in Limitation the schedule of the Bengal Tenancy Act do not apply to a suit in a suit for brought by an assignee of the arrear of rent, on the ground that the rent by assignee is not the landlord of the defendant : Mohendra v. Kailas, 4 C.W.N. 605. assignee.

It is submitted that this case is in conflict with the Full Bench Mahendra case of Nasim Quazi, 27 Cal. 827, s.c., 4 C.W.N. 357 (F.B.). v. Kailas, if Although the question before the Full Bench was as to whether the a correct suit the principle involved in both the cases is the same, and when it was decided by the Full Bench that rent when assigned still retains its character as rent, the decision in Mohendra v. Kailas seems not to be in accordance with the Full Bench decision.

sum which the latter had agreed to pay to third persons on behalf of the former but which he had not paid and was not required to pay, held that the suit must be regarded as one for rent: Basanta Kumari v. Asutosh, 27 Cal. 67, s.c., 4 C.W.N. 3 (F.B.). The case of Mohebut Ali v. Mahomed Faizulla, 2 C.W.N. 455, was approved of by the Full Bench. The case of Rutneswar v. Harish Chunder, 11 Cal. 221, was practically overruled, but it has been held in the case of Hemendra Nath v. Kumar Nath, 6 C.W.N. 96, that the case of Rutneswar was not overruled by the Full Bench case of Basanta Kumari; it was also held distinguishing the latter case that a suit for rent assigned to be paid to the superior landlord is a suit for damages. It seems that the case of Basanta Kumari is in conflict with the case of Hemendra Nath v. Kumar Nath.

Rutneswar v. Harish if overruled. Proportionate revenue payable by grantee of a khorphosh rent-free tenure. Decree by all the landlords. Sale purporting to be at the instance of a sole landlord but subsequently transpiring that there is a co-sharer landlord. Decree by a co-sharer

A grant by a proprietor of baradaran jagir khorphosah nishkar etc. for the support of the grantee was not transferable and was subject to resumption on failure of direct heirs; the grantee was liable to pay a proportionate share of the Government revenue to the grantor; held that the amount payable by the grantee was rent within the definition of s. 3 cl. (5) and the grantee was a tenant: Dwarka Nath v. Dambarudhar, 38 Cal. 278.

The decree referred to in s. 65 is a decree obtained by all the landlords or at all events a decree by some of the landlords for the entire rent in the presence of all: Sheikh Jarip v. Ram Kumar, 3 C. W.N. 747.

A sale in execution of a decree for the whole rent obtained by a landlord who at the time of the suit is the sole registered proprietor and who has been placed and maintained in possession by a competent court, operates as a sale under chapter XIV of the Bengal Tenancy Act, even if it transpires ultimately as the result of litigation in a title suit that he is not the sole landlord and has co-sharers in the property: Mafizuddin v. Ashutosh, 14 C.W.N. 352, s.c., 11 C.L.J. 140.

Where a decree for the entire rent of a tenure is obtained by one of several co-sharers by making the others party defendants, the decree has the same effect as if the decree has been obtained by all the co-sharers: Chandra Sekhar v. Ranee Manjher, 3 C.W.N. 386.

S. 17 (3) of Regulation VIII of 1819.

There is no conflict between s. 65 of the Bengal Tenancy Act and s. 17 (3) of the Putni Regulation: antecedent balances may be mere personal debts, which cannot be summarily recovered under the procedure prescribed by the Putni Regulation but they may be also a charge on the taluk: Pearee Mohun v. Sree Ram, 6 C.W.N. 794.

Decree for rent and other demands.

Where a decree made in a suit for rent was in the main one for rent, although it included other sums, e.g., Government revenue and other demands which the landlord was himself liable to pay, the sale may take place under this chapter: Jnanada Sundari v. Atul Chandra, 32 Cal. 972.

Landlord losing his interest in the land decreed.

If at a time when a suit for arrears of rent is instituted and a decree made the plaintiff is still the landlord, the fact that he has subsequently sold his interest in the property does not prevent him from obtaining the benefit of s. 65 and executing the decree against it: Khetra Pal v. Kritarthamoyee, 33 Cal. 566: (F.B.); this Full Bench case overrules the case of Hem Chandra v. Monmohini, 3 C. W.N. 604.

A suit by a ticcadar after the expiration of his lease against a tenant for the recovery of arrears of rent which had fallen due during the pendency of his lease can be brought under the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act; Srimanta v. Mahadeo, 8 C.W.N. 531. Outgoing landlord.

S. 159 applies to the case of the sale of a non-occupancy holding in execution of a decree for arrears of rent: Ram Lal v. Bhela Gazi, 37 Cal. 709. It is submitted with great respect that this decision is contrary to the provisions of s. 65. Non-occupancy holding.

A suit against a tenant claiming damages for wilfully omitting to raise crops whereby the plaintiff was deprived of his share thereof is one for rent: Lalji Panday v. Barhamdeo, 16 C.W.N. 89. See notes under s. 188. Damages for rent raising crops.

As to decree against one of several tenants: See notes under s. 65, p. 396.

See notes under Ss. 3 cl. (5) 65.

6. What is not a decree for rent:—A decree obtained by some of the landlords in a suit for their share of the rent brought not as co-sharer landlord under s. 148A or s. 158B is a simple money-decree; K. B. Dutt v. Goshta Behari, 16 C.W.N. 1006, s. c., 16 C.L.J. 379. Ss. 148A, 158B.

A sum of money agreed to be paid by a putnidar to the collectorate as revenue payable by the proprietor was held not to be rent: Jotindra Mohun v. Jarao Kumari, 10 C.W.N. 201 (P.C.), see also Hemendra v. Kumar Nath, 9 C.W.N. 96; see notes under heading WHAT IS A DECREE FOR RENT. In a suit to recover rent for four years the plaintiffs constituted the entire body of landlords as regards the claim for the first two years, but only factional co-sharers as regards the claim for the last two years; held, that the decree passed was not a rent-decree under the Bengal Tenancy Act, but only a money-decree under the ordinary law: Shaikh Naimuddin v. Srimanta Ghose, 6 C.W.N. 124. Sum of money agreed to be paid to a third person.
Fractional landlord for a portion of claim.

A suit instituted on an instalment bond, part of the consideration for which was arrears of rent, was held to be a suit for money and not a suit for rent: Royjaddi v. Kritartha Nath, 4 C.L.J. 219. It seems that a suit on an instalment bond the consideration for which is entirely arrears of rent also is not a suit for rent but for money. Instalment bond for rent

The word saranjami ordinarily signifies collection charges and not government-revenue: Bhabani Nath v. Purna Chandra, 25 C.W.N. 308.

Where a landlord, after obtaining a decree for arrears of rent, loses his interest in the estate, he cannot bring the defaulting tenure itself to sale in execution of his decree: Hem Chandra v. Monmohini, 3 C.W.N. 604. When a ticcadar after the expiry of his lease brought to sale (when he was not in possession) and in the meantime the landlord who had entered into possession obtained a decree for rent, held that there could not be two first charges and the landlord was entitled to the first charge: Srimanta v. Mahadeo, 31 Cal. 550, s. c., 3 C.W.N. 531. But these two cases were not followed in the case of Maharaj Bahadur v. Forbes, 35 Cal. 737, where it was held that where a zemindar previous to his suit for arrears of rent against the putnidar had sold his zemindari, the decree was a decree for rent. But the decision of the High Court in the case in 35 Cal. 737 was set aside by the Privy Council (18 C.W.N. 747) and it was held that the right to bring a tenure or holding to sale under s. 65 being Outgoing landlord.

exclusively in the landlord, a person to whom certain rents are due and who obtains a decree therefor after he has parted with the property in which the tenancy is situate has not such right. The case of Hem Chandra v. Monmohini, 3 C.W.N. 604, has not been overruled by the Full Bench case of Khetra Pal v. Kritariha Moyee, 33 Cal. 566.

See notes under s. 65.

Non-transferable occupancy holding.

A non-transferable occupancy holding cannot be sold in execution of a decree obtained by one of several joint landlords against the tenant for the share of the rent separately payable to him in respect of the holding: Sadagar v. Krishna Chandra, 26 Cal. 937, s. c., 3 C.W.N. 742.

Lease of an undivided share of holding.

A lease of an undivided share in several parcels of land does not create a holding within the meaning of the Bengal Tenancy Act: accordingly when the interest of such a lessee is sold in execution of a decree for arrears of rent obtained by the landlord, the purchaser is not the purchaser of a holding within the meaning of s. 159: Asadulla v. Gagan Molla, 6 C.W.N. 84 (notes). The term "parcels" in s. 3, cl. 9 of the Act means "entire parcel" and is not intended to include an undivided fractional share in a "parcel" or 'parcels' of land; undivided shares in parcels of land cannot therefore constitute distinct "holding": Hurry Churn v. Rajah Ranjit, 1 C.W.N. 521; Parbati v. Mathura, 40 Cal. 29. See notes under s. 3, cl. (9).

Suit by a co-sharer landlord.

A fractional co-sharer selling a non-transferable occupancy holding in execution of a decree which he obtained for his share of the rent is in no better position than an outsider selling his holding in the execution of a money-decree: Sheikh Jarip v. Ram Kumar, 3 C.W.N. 747. See notes under s. 23.

A decree obtained by some of several co-sharers for rent cannot be regarded as a decree under the Bengal Tenancy Act, and the proceeding in execution thereof can only be in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure: Durga Churn v. Kali Prosunno, 26 Cal. 927, s. c., 3 C.W.N. 585; see also Prem Chand v. Mokshada, 14 Cal. 201; Jagabandhu v. Jadu, 15 Cal. 47; Beni Madhub v. Joad Ali, 17 Cal. 390 (F.B.); Sita Nath v. Atmaram, 4 C.W.N. 571; Kedar Nath v. Ardha Chandra, 5 C.W.N. 763 (at p. 766). See the observation of Mookerjee, J., in the case of Afraz v. Kulsumennisa, 10 C.W.N. 176 at p. 180 (4 C.L.J. 48) and also notes under this section under heading WHAT CONSTITUTES A SEPARATE TENANCY and also notes under s. 188. In execution of such a decree, i.e., a decree obtained by a co-sharer landlord an occupancy holding not transferable by custom or local usage cannot be sold: Durga Churn v. Kali Prosunno, 26 Cal. 927, s. c., 3 C.W.N. 585. See notes under s. 23.

Separated share recognised by both landlord and tenant.

A separated share in a tenure which was duly and effectively recognized by both landlords and tenants was sold in execution of a decree for rent: held, that the effect of the sale was that of an entire tenure: Gopi Nath v. Radha Shyam, 4 C.W.N. 80 (notes). See notes under s. 23.

Suit against some of Where, upon the death of the last recorded tenant, none of his heirs had his name recorded in the landlord's office but they held the land and went on paying the rent and obtained separate rent receipt for some years, until recently, when a rent suit was brought against two of them only and the Juma was sold in execution of the decree: held, that after having accepted rent from all the heirs the landlord had no right to ignore some of them: that the sale did not pass the entire juma but only the right, title and interest of the judgment-debtors: Annada Kumar v. Hari Das, 27 Cal. 545, s.c., 4 C.W.N. 608. The heirs of the lost recorded tenant with respect to an occupancy holding are entitled to claim recognition from the landlord, and if the latter, ignoring them, bring a suit for arrears of rent and in execution thereof sell the holding, the right of the former is not affected: Ibid.

A decree obtained against some only of the registered tenants cannot be executed as a decree for rent: Chandra Nath v. Protap Udai, 18 C.W.N. 170 (Mookerjee and Beachcroft, J.J.; 26 March, 1913). All the tenants of a holding must ordinarily be joined as parties in a rent suit in order that the decree may be a rent-decree and the sale in execution may pass the entire holding and not merely the right title and interest of the judgment-debtor; but where one of several co-tenants is put forward by the rest as their representative he can be regarded as the sole tenant for the purposes of a suit for arrears of rent under Ch. XIV: Chamatkari v. Triguna Nath, 17 C.W.N. 833. When the recorded tenant represents a holding on behalf of all his co-sharers, such holding passes by a sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent obtained by the landlord against such tenant: Jagattara v. Daulati Bewa, 37 Cal. 75; s.c., 13 C.W.N. 1110. It was held in the case of Ashok Bhuyan v. Karim Bepari, 9 C.W.N. 843 that there being no law obligatory on the tenants who are not tenure holders to get their names recorded in the landlord's sherestha for the purpose of perfecting their title, the sale of a holding in execution of a decree for rent obtained against the recorded tenants does not pass the interest of the tenants whose names are not registered in the landlord's sherestha:—The case of Natayi Bihari v. Harigovinda, 26 Cal. 677 was distinguished on the ground that in that case there was a tenure and the tenants were bound to register their names in the landlord's sherestha; one person can under certain circumstances, represent a tenancy in the landlord's sherestha on behalf of himself and his co-tenants: Gagan Shekh v. Abejan Khatun, 14 C.L.J. 180; see also Rupram v. Iswar, 6 C.W.N. 302 and Afrai v. Kulsumennesa, 10 C.W.N. 176.

A sale in execution of decree for his share of the rent obtained by a co-sharer landlord against the registered tenants passes only the right, title and interest of such registered tenants and not the interest of their unregistered co-sharers as well: Bejoy Sankar v. Rajendra, 13 C.W.N. 746.

A landlord obtaining a decree for the whole rent due in respect of a tenure brought against all the tenants is entitled under s. 65 to sell the tenure in execution of the decree although he recognised the fact that the tenants had sub-divided the tenure and chose to accept a decree making each of them separately liable for his own share of the rent: Surbo Lal v. Wilson, 32 Cal. 680; the case of Tarini Prasad v. Narayan Kumari, 17 Cal. 301, was dissented from; the observation made in this case was considered to be obiter.

Where a portion of a tenure is sold in execution of a decree for arrears of rent the auction-purchaser cannot proceed to annul encumbrances: Ramkissore v. Akhil Chandra, 11 C.W.N. 350.

Malikana is not rent: Syed Sha v. S. Zahid, 8 C.L.J. 300.

One suit for two or more holdings.

A landlord is entitled to bring one suit for the total rents for three separate holdings but the decree cannot be executed as a rent decree: Nanda Lal v. Sadhucharan, 7 C.L.J. 96; see also Hridoy Nath v. Krishna Prasad, 34 Cal. 298: s.c., 11 C.W.N. 497; s.c., 6 C.L.J. 153: Baikuntha v. Thakur Debendra, 11 C.W.N. 676; also Bipra Das v. Rajaram, 13 C.W.N. 650; s.c., 36 Cal. 765; see also Mulluk Chand v. Satish Chandra, 14 C.W.N. 335; Rashmohini v. Debendra, 16 C.W.N. 395.

Suit
one of several
tenants.

It is competent to a plaintiff landlord to maintain his suit for rent against any number of several joint tenants; Rameswar v. Jaideb, 12 C.L.J. 591; Jogendra v. Nagendra, 11 C.W.N. 1026. According to the decision in the case of Kasikinkar v. Satyendra, 12 C.L.J. 642 the above rule was stated in too comprehensive terms. When a landlord A creates a tenancy in favour of B and C jointly, whether each is liable for the entire rent must depend upon the intention of the parties: Ibid; the question whether a contract was joint or several, or joint and several, is a question of construction dependent upon the intention of the parties to the contract: Ibid.

See notes under s. 65, p. 396.

Landlord's purchase in execution of money
decree.

A landlord who purchases the defaulting tenure in execution of his money decree subject to rent charge, cannot execute his decree for rent as the judgment-debt in his favour for rent is extinguished: Sailaja Prosad v. Gyani Das, 18 C.L.J. 29.

Decree for rent against several tenures.

Where a tenure was split up into separate taluks, held that one decree for rent obtained for all the taluks, cannot be executed as a rent decree: Profulla Nath v. Shital Khan, 22 C.W.N. 788.

7. Purchaser:—Purchaser includes transferee. See notes under s. 167.

8. Power to annul:—See notes under s. 167.

Kabuliyat
by one of several joint tenants does not bind the other tenants.

9. Kabuliyat by one of several joint tenants for entire rent:—Where one of several joint tenants executed a kabuliyat in favour of the landlord for the entire tenure and it was proved that the other tenants did not acquiesce in this, and where in a separate suit by the other tenants it was found that they were not bound by the kabuliyat: held, that the tenant executing the kabuliyat for the entire tenure was not bound in excess of his share and was not liable for the whole rent: Ram Taran v. Asmatulla, 6 C.W.N. 111. Where a co-tenant executes a separate kabuliyat for his share in the tenancy, the landlord cannot sue the other tenants on the basis of the new arrangement without proving that they agreed to the division of the tenancy; Second Appeal No. 1116 of 1900: Souravi Namasudrani v. Nabadip Chunder, decided on the 17th February, 1903.

chaser liable for rent for a period anterior to
of sale.

10. Liability of purchaser for rent for a period anterior to the date of sale:—Where a tenure or holding was sold in execution of a decree for rent with a notice that it was saddled with liability for arrears of rent for a period anterior to the date of sale: held, that the purchaser was liable for the rent of such period: Haradhan v. Kartick Chunder, 6 C.W.N. 877. The landlord in possession is entitled to the first charge and at the time of the sale at the instance of the outgoing landlord the tenure is subject to the first charge: Srimanta v. Mahadeo, 31 Cal. 550, s.c., 8 C.W.N. 531.

Where the purchaser of a non-transferable occupancy holding was recognised by the landlord and subsequently the latter in execution of a rent-decree obtained previous to the recognition of the purchaser against the former tenant put to sale the holding, held that the sale could not be regarded as a rent-sale, and the title of the purchaser who had been recognised by the landlord is not affected; Girish Chandra v. Narendra Nath, 23 C.W.N. 654.

11. Default to pay rent due to superior landlord :—In default of payment of rent by a lessee to the landlord of the lessor as agreed to by the lessee the lessor's property was sold by the superior landlord in execution of a decree for arrears of rent, held that the lessor in a suit for damages is not entitled to get from his lessee the value of the property but only the amount which his lessee defaulted to pay: Girish Chandra v. Kunjo Behari, 12 C.W.N. 628.

12. Sale of "tenure or holding" or merely "right, title and interest" :—Where in execution of a decree for rent for Rs. 29, the sale was held on the first day fixed for sale without the fresh proclamation as provided by s. 165 sub-sec. (1) and the tenure was purchased for a sum of Rs. 26 and the District Judge held that plaintiff acquired only the right, title and interest of the purchaser, held that the District Judge had overlooked the provisions of ss. 159, 161 and 164, sub-sec. (2) under which the purchaser is authorised to annul any incumbrance other than a registered and notified incumbrance: Mahendra Narain Basu v. Lalit Kumar Mukerjee, 18 C.W.N. 64 (notes portion). Where the proceedings were taken under the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act, and application made for the simultaneous issue of the order of attachment and proclamation as provided in s. 163, but the property was wrongly described as the right, title and interest of the debtor in the tenure, although in the schedule attached to each it was specified as "the lot," or property itself "in arrears," held that the tenure passed by the sale and not merely the right, title and interest of the debtor: Akhoy Kuman v. Bejoy Chand, 29 Cal. 813. The terms "right, title and interest of the debtors" as used in a sale certificate and an order confirming the sale must be construed with reference to the circumstances under which the suit was brought and the true meaning to the decree under which the sale took place as well as the proceedings leading up to the sale: Ibid. See also Jotindra Mohun v. Jugul Kishore, 7 Cal. 357.

Where it is clear from the proceedings that what is sold, and intended to be sold, is the interest of the judgment-debtor only, the sale must be confined to that interest, although the decree-holder might have sold the whole tenure if he had taken proper steps to do so, or although the purchasers may have obtained possession of the whole tenure under the sale. But if, on the other hand, it appears that the judgment-debtor has been sued as representing the ownership of the whole tenure, and that the sale, though purporting to be of the right, title and interest of the judgment-debtor only, was intended to be, and in justice and equity to operate, as a sale of the tenure, the whole tenure then must be considered as having passed by the sale; and if the question is a doubtful one on the face of the proceedings or one part of those proceedings may appear inconsistent with another, the Court must look to the substance of the matter, and not to the form or language of the proceedings: Jeolal v. Gunga

Proceedings under the Bengal Tenancy Act but the property is wrongly described as the right, title and interest of the debtor.

Where the proceedings shew that the interest of the judgment debtor alone is sold.

Pershad, 10 Cal. 996,* see also Netaye Behari v. Hari Govinda, 26 Cal. 677; Hari Vithal v. Jairam Vithal, 14 Bom. 557. The judgment in the case of Jeolal v. Gunga Pershad, 10 Cal. 996, proceeded, as explained in Rupram v. Iswar Namasudra, 6 C.W.N. 302, upon two grounds, first, that in bringing the suit the Zemindar brought it against the recorded tenant in his representative capacity, and secondly, that the recorded tenant represented the ownership of the whole tenure.

What passes at an execution sale.

To determine what passed to the purchaser at an execution sale, one must look to the sale certificate as a whole and examine, if necessary, the nature and scope of the execution proceedings; where one part of the sale certificate described the interest transferred as the right, title and interest of the judgment-debtor in the property mentioned in the schedule, but in another part it was explicitly stated that the property transferred was one of which the rent was in arrear: held that what was intended to be sold and actually sold was the defaulting tenure described as the property of the judgment debtor: Gocool v. Debendra, 14 C.L.J. 136; see also Akhoy v. Bijoy, 29 Cal. 813 and Nazir Mohamed v. Girish Chunder, 2 C.W.N. 251; the case of Dewarka Nath v. Aloke Chunder, 6 Cal. 641, according to their Lordships who decided the case in 14 C.L.J. 136 does not lay down any inflexible rule of law but must be taken to have been decided on its special facts.

In execution of a money-decree against the father alone (in a Mitakshara family) for a personal debt, the whole family property may be sold, if the debt was not contracted for immoral purpose and it is not absolutely necessary that the son should be a party either to the suit or to the execution proceedings: Hitendra Singh v. Rameshar Singh, 18 C.W.N. 42: the execution proceedings and the description of the property should be looked at as to what was the intention: Ibid.

Decree
against one of several joint tenants.

Where one of several joint tenants executed a kabuliyat in favour of the landlord and the other tenants acquiesced in the representation of the holding by the tenant who executed the kabuliyat, and the landlord sued him only for the rent and in execution of that rent decree attached the entire holding, and the other tenants made no attempt to get them recognised or to pay the arrears: held, that the attachment covered the entire holding unless there was fraud or collusion on the part of the landlord: Rajani Kant v. Uzir Bibi, 7 C.W.N. 170.

Decree
against the
tenant.

Where a landlord had been in the habit of realising the rent due from the holding in the occupation of the recorded tenant and other persons jointly interested with him, in previous years, from the recorded tenant, and a suit was brought against him only for the rent of a subsequent year, and a decree for rent being obtained, the holding was sold as the right, title and interest of the recorded tenant, held that the entire holding should be taken to have passed: Netai Behari v. Hargobind, 26 Cal. 677,† but where in execution of a certificate obtained under the Public Demands Recovery Act taken against the recorded tenant, the landlord put the holding to sale ; held that the right, title and interest of the recorded tenant alone and not the entire holding passed by the sale and that the interest of the other joint tenants was not affected by the sale : Rupram v. Iswar Namsudra, 6 C.W.N. 302.

A landlord is bound to recognise a transfer of a portion of a permanent holding, though he is not bound to recognise a division ; consequently a decree against the transferee does not bind the transferee : Baistab v. Akhil, 11 C.W.N. 217 : See notes under ss. 12, 13, 17.

Landlord bound to recognise transfer of portion of tenure.

A sale held at the instance of an assignee of a rent decree who is not the assignee of the land does not affect the interest of unrecorded tenants who are not parties : Manu Rattan v. Hari Nath, 1 C.L.J. 500 ; the case of Netai Behari v. Hargobind, 26 Cal. 677, was distinguished.

Sale held at the instance of an assignee.

Where a suit was brought for the recovery of arrears of rent due in respect of a jagir tenure, the joint property of four brothers, arrears having accrued during the life-time of their father and a decree was obtained against the eldest brother, who was the sole registered ilakadar or person held responsible in the zemindar's book, it was held that the decree related to the arrears due in respect of the whole tenure and that a sale of his right, title and interest under s. 124, Act I of 1879 (B.C.) would, under the circumstances of the case and by the incidents attaching to such tenure in Choto Nagpur, include the right, title and interest of any person claiming such jointly with him and inseparably united with his own : Madhusudan v. Piroo Ram, 2 C.W.N. 94.

Rent of a jagir tenure against the eldest son of the last recorded tenant.

Where a tenure was sought to be sold in execution of a decree for rent obtained against one of the tenants after the shares of the other tenants had passed by auction sale to a stranger on the allegation that the tenant against whom it had been obtained was the sole recorded tenant, held that whether this was so or not was a matter specially within the knowledge of the landlord and the onus was on him to prove it : Baikuntha v. Thakur Devendra, 11 C.W.N. 676.

Onus.

When the landlord of an occupancy holding obtains a decree for rent against his tenant, an unregistered transferee of the tenants into whose hands a portion of the holding has previously passed is bound by the decree : Azgar Ali v. Asaboddin, 9 C.W.N. 134, followed in Gopinath v. Sajani Kant, 11 C.W.N. 240 ; the principle of the case of Ishan Chandra v. Benimadhab, 24 Cal. 62 (F.B.), was applied in this case. There is no law rendering it obligatory on tenants who are not tenure-holders to get their names recorded in the landlords sherista for the purpose of perfecting their title ; therefore the sale of a jote in execution of a decree for rent obtained against the recorded tenants does not pass the interest of the tenants whose names are not registered in the landlord's sherista : Ashok v. Karim, 9 C.W.N. 843 ; the case of Netai Behari, 26 Cal. 677, was distinguished : see also Afray v. Kulsumannessa, 10 C.W.N. 176 ; a person who is not a party to a suit cannot be affected in person or property by any thing that is done in the suit : Ibid.

Transferee when bound by decree against his vendor, and when not.

It is now firmly settled by the cases of Durga Charan v. Kali Prasanna, 26 Cal. 727, s.c., 3 C.W.N. 585 : Sadagar v. Krishna Chandra, 26 Cal. 937, s.c., 3 C.W.N. 743 : Sheikh Jarip v. Ram

XIV of the Bengal Tenancy Act." Per Mookerjee J., in Afraz v. Kulsumannessa, 10 C.W.N. 176 at p. 180, col. 2 : s.c., 4 C.L.J. 68 ; see also *Doolar Chand v. Registered tenant.

A sale in execution of a money decree obtained against the registered tenant passes only his right, title and interest in the tenure, and not those of his unregistered co-sharers : Doorga Dhur v. Huro Mohinee, 13 C.W.N. 270.

Sale for arrears

to previous sale.

Where it did not appear that a tenure was sold at the first sale subject to a charge for previously accrued arrears of rent, held that a subsequent sale in execution of a decree for such rents passed no title, and the sale was liable to be set aside on the ground that the judgment debtor had no saleable interest : Gopal Saran v. Sheikh Md. Ahsan, 14 C.W.N. 1096.

Agreement to pay rent separately does not give rise to a separate tenancy.

13. What constitutes a separate tenancy:—A separate kabuliyat creates a separate tenancy ; Safuruddi v. Fazlal Huq, 21 C.L.J. 592. An arrangement by virtue of which a tenant agrees to pay his share of the rent separately to a co-sharer landlord does not give rise to a separate tenancy ; Gopal Chander v. Umesh Narain, 17 Cal. 695.* In this case (Gopal v. Umes) the tenant was a raiyat and the holding formed part of an entire estate and by an arrangement the co-sharer landlords collected their shares of the rent separately ; it was a suit to enhance the rent of a raiyat and to obtain additional rent for excess land ; their Lordships Norris and Macpherson, J.J., in delivering judgment, observed as follows:—The land, which is said to be in excess of the area for which rent has been previously paid, has been held rightly or wrongly, as part of the original holding. There is here no allegation that it has been taken by trespass. If a decree is obtained the excess land will be annexed to the land of the original holding, and the additional rent will be added to the original rent. There will be no new holding created. If, therefore, some of several joint landlords cannot enhance the rent of the original holding, they cannot, it seems to us, any the more add to that rent in any other way and they cannot increase the area of the holding

* See Guni Mohamed v. Moran, 4 Cal. 96.

"This case (Guni Mohamed v. Moran) decides that when a tenant has agreed to pay a co-sharer landlord his share of the rent separately, he can be sued for a kabuliyat, for "the grant and acceptance of a binding lease of the separate share," it is said "cannot exist contemporaneously with the original lease of the entire jote." I do not, however, understand this decision as laying down a general rule to the effect that the granting of a kabuliyat of any kind necessarily operates as the creation of a new and separate tenancy. If it does, it is obiter dictum, but no such rule would seem to be laid down in this case. Per Rampini, J., in Hurry Churan v. Rajah Ranjit, 25 Cal. 917, s. c., 1 C.W.N. 521.

any more than they can reduce it. The right of some of several co-sharers to collect separately their share of the entire rent of an undivided holding is quite distinct. It rests on an arrangement between the co-sharers and the tenants as to the mode in which the entire rent shall be collected, but which preserves in tact the original tenancy both as regards the area of the holding and the rent paid.

An arrangement, under which fractional shares of the rent are paid separately to the different co-sharers, does not give rise to a separate tenancy and is perfectly consistent with the continuance of the original lease of the entire tenure: Shyama Sharan v. Akhoy Kumar, 3 C.L.J. 627. If one set of landlords obtains separate kabuliyats entering into separate contracts for rent with the tenants such landlords cease to be joint landlords with the other co-proprietors; Jogesh v. Maniruddi, 35 Cal. 417. Payment of rent separately.

But where the tenant executed in favour of a co-sharer landlord a kabuliyat, and the kabuliyat set out the total area of the land and area which proportionately would belong to the plaintiff and the tenant stipulated to pay the plaintiff rent for that area, and the kabuliyat also gave the landlord a right to measure the land, and the tenant undertook to pay increased rent that might be found over the area for which rent was payable: held that the effect was to create a separate tenancy under such fractional co-sharer: Panchanan v. Raj Kumar, 19 Cal. 610. In this case it was clear the tenant was an Osut talukdar tenure-holder. The case of Gopal Chandra v. Umes Narayan, 17 Cal. 695, was held to be not applicable for the following reasons as given by their Lordships Macpherson and Banerjee, J.J., in their Lordships' judgment:—In that case there was a mere undertaking by the tenant to pay to each of the landlords their proportionate share of the rent, and it was held that the effect of that arrangement was not to split up the tenancy or create a separate tenancy under each of the landlords. Here the tenant, by his own act, has given the plaintiff power to deal with him as if he was his tenant alone, without any regard to the interest of the co-sharers, and should the defendant be subjected to separate suits, at the instance of the co-sharers, either with reference to enhanced rent or measurement he has no reason to complain. But when a tenant agrees to allow one of several co-sharer landlords to deal with him as if he were his own tenant, the effect is to create a separate tenancy. Gopal v. Umes, distinguished.

When a share in a tenure has been duly and effectually recognised by both landlords and tenants as a separated share and as constituting a distinct tenure, the purchaser of such a share at a sale for its arrears acquires the rights of a purchaser of an entire tenancy within the meaning of s. 156: Somir Jama v. Mahabharat, 16 C.W.N. 777. Effect of recognition of share.

Following the case of Panchanan v. Raj Kumar, 19 Cal. 610, it has been held that where a tenant under the whole body of landlords agreed to pay rent at a specified rate to a co-sharer landlord for his share of the lands and further to pay additional rent at a fixed rate for additional area found on measurement to be held by him under such co-sharer, the lease creates a separate tenancy and is not merely an agreement to pay the share of rent separately: Sailendra v. Karali, 2 C.L.J. 534. Agreement to pay rent and additional rent separately.

The institution of one suit for rent of two tenures cannot have the effect of consolidating the two tenures into one: Rashmohini v. Debendra, 16 C.W.N. 395.

Where the principal defendant was the tenant of two joint land- Partition lords and there being a partition between them each of the joint landlords brought a separate suit for his share of the rent against the principal defendant by making the co-sharer landlord a party, held that the suit was maintainable. Rampini and Wilkins J.J., observed as follows in delivering judgment:—When a defendant is subject to a joint liability, it would without doubt be unjust to allow him to be sued by one of his joint creditors, who could not release him from his liability to his other creditors. But there would seem to us to be no reason why the creditors should not be allowed to sever their mutual relations and sue their debtor separately for their share of the debt, provided this be done in such a manner as to relieve the debtor from all further liability to any of them: Raj Narain v. Ekadasi, 7 Cal. 479, s.c., 4 C.W.N. 494.

Undivided shares in parcels of land cannot constitute distinct holdings.

Undivided shares in parcels of land cannot constitute distinct holdings within the meaning of the Bengal Tenancy Act, inasmuch as the term "parcels" in s. 3 cl. 9 means entire parcel or entire parcels and is not intended to include an undivided fractional share in a parcel or parcels of land: Hari Charan v. Ranajit, 25 Cal. 917,* although there were separate leases executed by the raiyat with respect to the holding. The case of Panchanan Banerjee v. Raj Kumar Guha, 19 Cal. 610, was held not to be applicable but it was held to be quite distinguishable from the present as that was a case in which the leases related not to a raiyati holding but to an osut taluk or tenure.

When an undivided share in lands is leased to a raiyat, such share does not constitute a holding within the meaning of the Bengal Tenancy Act; a purchaser of such share of lands, even in execution of a decree for rent does not consequently acquire any right to annul incumbrances: Ahadulla v. Gagan Molla, 6 C.W.N. 84 (notes), s.c., 2 C.L.J. 10.

Agreement to pay rent separately.

Following this case (Hari Charan v. Raja Ranajit) it was held in Baidyanath v. Sheikh Jhin, 25 Cal. 917, s.c., 2 C.W.N. 44: that an agreement by a raiyat with one of several joint landlords to pay his share of the rents separately, does not constitute a separate tenancy under him; so where a co-sharer landlord sued for enhancement of rent on the basis of such an agreement, held that such a suit was not maintainable even when it contained a stipulation for such enhancement.

Suit for additional rent for excess area.

The cases of Baidyanath v. Sheikh Jhin, 25 Cal. 917 s.c., 2 C.W.N. 44; Panchanan v. Raj Kumar, 19 Cal. 610, and Hari Charan v. Ranajit, 25 Cal. 917 s.c., 1 C.W.N. 521, have been considered in the case of Govinda Chandra v. Hamidulla, 7 C.W.N. 670; in this case the plaintiff sued for additional rent for land in excess of the area for which rent had been previously paid by the tenant defendant who was an occupancy raiyat; the plaintiff was the landlord of an undivided five annas share of the land comprised in the defendant's holding, and the defendant executed a kabuliyat in the plaintiff's favour in respect of a quantity of land, that quantity not being a specified defined area, but merely a quantity ascertained by the calculation as proportionate to the plaintiff's share in the entire holding ; Geidt J., held that the kabuliyat executed by the defendant in favour of the plaintiff could not create a separate tenancy under the plaintiff, and therefore the suit was not maintainable without the addition of the plaintiff's co-sharer as a party ; but Ghose J., held that the question whether the execution of a separate kabuliyat had the effect of creating a separate holding was not necessary to be considered in the case and that the only question was whether plaintiff's suit was maintainable without making his co-sharer a party and his Lordship answered the question in the affirmative : owing to this difference of opinion the case was referred to Prinsep J., who held that such a suit was maintainable although plaintiff's co-sharer was not made a party.

* The cases of Jardine, Skinner & Co. v. Rani Sundari, 3 C.L.R. 140 and Gorbur v. Jeolal Roy, 16 Cal. 181, in which it was decided that a right of occupancy could be acquired in an undivided share of land were decided under the Old Act and were therefore not held to be applicable.

Where a tenure is held under a zemindari which originally formed one entire estate and the estate was subsequently partitioned, and the rent of the tenure was thereupon allotted proportionately to each of the four estates formed by partition although the land forming the tenure remained undivided ; held, that the effect of the partition of the parent estate was to create separate and distinct tenancies under the proprietors of each of the estates ; Hem Chandra v. Kali Prasanna, 26 Cal. 832 ; see also Sarat Sundari v. Anund Mohan, 5 Cal. 223, and Sarat Sundari v. Sumeruddin, 22 W.R. 530. Partition of estate.

Where the defendants held a holding under the plaintiffs and their co-sharers, and subsequent to the creation of the original holding defendants took possession of certain lands by gradual encroachment, and plaintiffs brought a suit for recovery of their share of the encroached lands or for assessment of rent ; held, that it was altogether a new holding and the rent that would be assessed upon that would be a new rent in respect of the new holding : Khondkar Abdul Hamid v. Mohini Kant, 4 C.W.N. 508. Encroachment by tenant.

A suit by a co-sharer landlord, entitled to collect his share of the rent separately, for additional rent for land brought under cultivation, payable in terms of a lease, is maintainable : Ram Chunder v. Giridhur, 19 Cal. 755 ; see also Tejendra Narain v. Bakai Singh, 22 Cal. 659. Suit upon contract.

14. Babuana grant :—In respect of a Babuana grant of certain mehals in the Durbhanga Raj it was held that the grantor and grantee are neither co-proprietors nor are the latter tenure-holders under the former : Laliteshwar v. Rameshwar, 13 C.W.N. 118. As to Babuana grant by the Darbhunga Raj, see Rameshwar Singh v. Janeshwari, 18 C.W.N. 129, Ekradeswar v. Janeshwari, 18 C.W.N. 1249 (P.C.), and Hitendra v. Rameswar, 18 C.W.N. 42. Babuana grant.

15. Purchaser :—An unregistered tenant who purchased the entire tenure in execution of a decree for arrears of rent was held under Act VII B.C. 1869 not entitled to the benefit of avoiding encumbrances : Fakir Chunder v. Ram Kumar, 8 C.W.N. 721 (P.C.) Following the case of Kailas Chandra v. Jabbar Ali, 22 W.R. 29, it has been held that an assignee of an auction-purchaser of an entire estate sold for arrears of revenue can exercise the privileges given to an auction-purchaser under the provisions of s. 37 of the Revenue Sale Law (Act XI of 1859) to avoid incumbrances : Shosi Bhusan v. Kramtulla, 10 C.W.N. 148 ; see also Sooharam v. Doorgacharan, 5 C.L.J. 264 ; Wahin Ali v. Rahat Ali, 12 C.W.N. 1029 ; *Shosi Bhusan v. The sale of a holding in execution of a decree for rent obtained by a landlord, who also holds a mortgage of the holding, is void and the purchaser at the sale acquires no title against another mortgagee of the holding, who has purchased it under a decree on his mortgage. *Basiraddi v. 17. Charge on sale-proceeds :—When mortgaged property is sold under a decree in a rent suit, the mortgagee would have, under the provisions of s. 73 of the Transfer of Property Act, a charge on the surplus sale proceeds whether under the decree in the rent suit the property was put up for sale with power to the purchaser to avoid encumbrances ; ss. 159 and 161 to 167 of the Bengal Tenancy Act cannot prejudice the right of a mortgagee in that respect : Gobind v. Sibdut, 33 Cal. 878.

Certificate.

18. Sale Certificate :—The paramount description in the sale certificate is ordinarily the general description of the holding sold ; the plot numbers are the subordinate description ; where there is a mistake in the plot numbers the error will not prejudice the auction-purchaser : Rajendra v. Gangan, 2 Pat. L.J. 623 ; see also in this connection Karuppa Goundan v. Pariatambi Goundan, 30 Mad. 397 ; Barhamdeo v. Ram Narain, 19 C.L.J. 182, Thakur Baronha v. Jeeban Ram, 42 Cal. 590.

- (f) any right conferred on an occupancy raiyat to hold at a rent which was a fair and reasonable rent at the time the right was conferred ; and

- (g) any right or interest which the landlord at whose instance the tenure or holding is sold, or his predecessor in title, has expressly and in writing given the tenant for the time being permission to create.

8. MISCELLANEOUS CASES.

1. Onus :—Where the plaintiff sets up a protected interest, the onus is upon him to prove the same : Jogesh Chandra v. Rohini Kumar, 21 C.L.J. 65. See also Somir v. Mahabharat, 16 C.W.N. 777 ; Harimoni v. Moti, 16 C.W.N. 779.

2. Cl. (a) : Existing from the time of the Permanent Settlement :—In a suit for ejectment under s. 37 of Act XI of 1859 ^{Burden of proof.} by a purchaser at a revenue sale, the defence was that the defendants held the land as a subordinate taluk, which had been in existence and in their possession and that of their predecessors since the time of the Permanent Settlement ; it was found as a fact that the tenure was in existence in the year 1798-99 ; the plaintiff's suit being dismissed, it was contended in second appeal that the facts found could not protect the tenure in the absence of proof that the tenure was in existence at the date of the Permanent Settlement ; held, that although in the first instance the burden of proof is upon the defendants, the fact that defendants were in possession for such a length of time, was sufficient to discharge the onus and establish that the tenure was protected ; that in a case like this no hard-and-fast rule can be laid down as to when the burden of proof shifts from one side to the other and that such case must be governed by its merits ; Nityanand v. Banshi Chunder, 3 C.W.N. 341.

The expressions "permanently settled" and "Permanent Settlement" in s. 37 of the Revenue Sale Law contemplate the Permanent Settlement of 1793 : Nagendra Lal v. Nazir Ali, 10 C.W.N. 503 ; see also Koowar Singh v. Gour Sundar, 24 Cal. 887, and Raj Chunder v. Sheikh Basir, 24 W.R. 476. It is not necessary that direct evidence should be given to prove the existence of a tenure from before the Permanent Settlement in order that it might be protected from avoidance on account of sale for arrears of Government revenue. A presumption in favour of its existence arises from the proof of the existence of a tenure for a very long time, say from 1824 : Ananda v. Kunjo Behari, 8 C.L.J. 177.

Inference.

If certain lands are included in an estate at the time of the Thak Survey in 1859, it is open to the court to draw an inference that the lands were included within the estate at the time of the Permanent Settlement from all the surrounding circumstances: Shyama Charan v. Mokhuda, 15 C.W.N. 706, s.c., 13 C.L.J. 293.

Portion of taluk held under a name different from original taluk.

When a portion of a taluk, existing from before the Permanent Settlement is transferred and that portion is subsequently held in proportionate jumma under a name different from the original taluk, but the subsequent transfer and descent thereof can be traced from the original taluk, the portion so transferred is also protected under s. 37 Act XI of 1859; Doyamoyee v. Narendra, 19 C.W.N. 79.

3. Cl. (b): Recognised by settlement proceedings:—Settlement operations are initiated under the following laws:—

- (a) Chap. X* of the Bengal Tenancy Act :
- (b) Reg. VII of 1822 :
- (c) Act VIII (B.C.) of 1879.
- (d) Act I (B.C.) of 1887.
- (e) Act III (B.C.) of 1884.

See notes under Chap. X.

Tenure not set aside by Revenue authorities.

Where certain howalas and neem-howala tenures were never set aside by the Revenue settlement or Revenue Commissioner's orders, from the time they were recorded as existing rightful hereditary tenures of those classes at the first settlement, held that a purchaser at a sale of entire estate for arrears of revenue is not entitled to eject as long as the tenure-holders pay their jama according to the settlement jummabundi: Buroda Kanth v. Govind Chunder, 7 W.R. 50.

Records of Rights—
tion.

The record of rights prepared under sub-sec. (2) of s. 101 contained an entry in respect of certain under-tenures ; the existing rent was mentioned and the new rent settled was also stated ; but in the remark column a note was made by the Settlement officer as follows : "This etnam is not binding upon the Government" ; held that there was no recognition of the under-tenure in law or in fact and the under-tenure holders were not protected under the third clause of s. 12 of Act vii (B.C.) of 1868: Lakshidhar v. Sarada Charan, 20 C.L.J. 40.

A tenure-holder cannot seek protection under clause (b) of s. 160 when the auction purchaser purchased before the settlement proceedings and the notice under s. 167 given and suit brought before the preparation of the Record of Rights: Johara Binoo v. Ganga Chandra, A.I.R. 1922 Cal. 222.

This clause refers to a temporary revenue settlement: Deblal Jha v. Kuman Das, [1925 Pat.] 236 (Adami and Sen, J.J.).

Garden.

4. Cl. (c): Leases of land whereon dwelling-houses, &c. :—Lands on which gardens have been made are protected by Act XI of 1859, s. 37, from the effect of a sale for arrears of revenue, although they may not have been expressly leased for that purpose: Gobind Chandra v. Joy Chunder, 12 Cal. 327 ; see also Bhago Bibee v. Ram Kant, 3 Cal. 293.

* The Settlement proceedings under Chap. X refer to proceedings to Part II of Chap. X.

The mere fact that a garden was made on a piece of land many years before the revenue-sale would not make it protected from being annulled under the Revenue Sale Law: Sahodra Mudiali v. Nabin Chand, 42 Cal. 638 s. c., 19 C.W.N. 1030.

The sale of a portion of a non-transferable holding is not an encumbrance: Bijoy Krishna v. Surendra Nath, 46 Cal. 891, s. c., 30 C.L.J. 4; Abdul Rahman v. Ahmadar Rahman, 43 Cal. 558, s. c., 19 C.W.N. 1217, s. c., 22 C.L.J. 356. A landlord purchaser at a sale in execution of his rent decree is not required to annul the interest of purchaser of a portion of a non-transferable occupancy holding: Fazarali v. Poroo Mian, 28 C.L.J. 266; the case of Tomizuddin v. Khoda Nawaz, 11 C.L.J. 16 was followed).

Sale of a portion of non-transferable occupancy holding is not incumbrance.

The word "lease" in sub-sec. 4 of s. 37 of the Revenue Sale Law does not mean a lease from the zemindar only: Kiran Chandra Ray v. Naimuddi, 30 Cal. 498.

Lease.

In a case under s. 37 of Act XI of 1859 their Lordships Tottenham and Maclean, J.J., observed as follows:—".....the benefit of the fourth exception must be limited to improvements effected bona fide, and to permanent buildings erected, before the revenue sale and should not be conceded to anything subsequently constructed merely for the purpose of defeating the rights of an auction-purchaser. Subject to this reservation, we think that it does not matter whether the improvements have been effected by the present holder or by some previous occupier: and therefore the Subordinate Judge's observation that "there is no evidence that the defendants have sunk ponds and planted a garden" seems to us irrelevant": Ajgur Ali v. Asmut Ali, 8 Cal. 110 (p. 112): s. c., 10 C.L.R. 87. There is nothing in the words of the exception referred to confining the benefit of it to tenure-holders and excluding the raiyat from it: Ibid.

Improvements effected bona fide.

Garden.

Tenure-holder—raiyat.

A lease of tank without any portion of the surrounding land is not protected under cl. 4, sec. 37 of Act XI of 1859, as it is not within the meaning of that clause a lease of land whereon a tank has been excavated: Asmat Ali v. Husmat Khan, 2 C.W.N. 412.

Tank. Surrounding land.

The gardens within the meaning of the fourth exception mean permanent gardens; wells which are very shallow and small also do not come within the meaning of that exception: Mahomed Soleiman v. Birendra, 50 Cal. 243, s. c., 27 C.W.N. 749, (P.C.).

Permanent gardens.

Notwithstanding a party may fail to shew that his tenure comes within any of the first three exceptions of s. 37 of the Revenue Sale Law, yet he is entitled to the benefit of the 4th exception in respect of any dwelling-houses or other permanent structures that may be upon his holding: Bhago Bibee v. Ram Kant, 3 Cal. 293; where an under-tenure is not proved to have existed from the time of the Permanent Settlement but it is found that in a portion of a tenure structures have been erected or improvements made of the character mentioned in the 4th exception of s. 37 of Act XI of 1859, held that the Court will declare the defendant entitled to retain the land on which any structures are erected or improvements made of the character mentioned in the 4th exception, and the plaintiff will be entitled to retain the remaining land: Ibid. This case was followed in the case of Nazeemuddin v. Syed Hossein, 9 C.W.N. 852; see also Gobind Chandra v. Joy Chandra, 12 Cal. 327. Though a person may fail to prove a defence under exception (3) of s. 37 of the Revenue Sale Law it is still open to him to plead that he is protected Dwelling house.

Portion of a tenure where structures have been erected.

Land on which structures are erected.

under the 4th exception: Nazeemuddin v. Syed Hossein, 9 C.W.N. 852.

The 4th exception to s. 37 of the Revenue Sale Law must be limited only to such portions of land as are covered by buildings, tanks, &c., and cannot be extended to cover those lands included in the lease on which buildings and tanks, &c. have not been constructed: Wahid Ali v. Rahat Ali, 12 C.W.N. 1029. See also Jogendra Narain v. Kiran Chandra, 46 Cal. 730; see also Bisweshwar v. Fatteh Hussain, 10 C.W.N. 24 (notes) and Mathuranath v. Ratneswar, 23 I.C. 917.

Where one lease covered two plots of land and there were tanks and garden on one of the plots only, held that the whole of the lands comprised in the lease were protected: Kiran Chandra Roy v. Naimuddi, 30 Cal. 498. This case was not followed in Jogendra Narain v. Kiran Chandra, 46 Cal. 730. The interest in a portion of the land comprised by one patta cannot be annulled: Sooharam v. Doorga Charan, 5 C.L.J. 264.

tion to s.
37 of the Revenue
Sale Law.

Where a howla lease under which the defendant held the land provided for the digging of tanks and making homesteads and gardens and it was found that the defendant had occupied the land for about 40 years, and had incurred expense in excavating tanks and making gardens, and erecting homesteads, held that he was protected under the 4th exception to s. 37, Act XI of 1859: Girish Chander v. Ganga Doorga, 25 W.R. 60.

Zemindar
does not become his own raiyat.

If a zemindar chooses to plant gardens of mango and other trees upon any portion of his estate, he does not thereby become, quoad those plantations, his own raiyat so as to get it protected from sale: Boolchand v. Lutho Moodee, 23 W.R. 387.

Lease for cultivation of paddy and clearing away jungle.

Where land was obtained for the cultivation of paddy after clearing away the jungle, held that such cultivation could not be regarded as making a plantation: Bholanath v. Uma Churn, 14 Cal. 440 at p. 444.

Dwelling-house consisting of huts not protected.

A dwelling-house to be exempted under s. 37 of Act XI of 1859 must be a dwelling-house of a permanent character and mere huts would not come under that description: Makar Ali v. Shyama Charan, 3 C.W.N. 212. A tin-shed is not a permanent building within the meaning of s. 37 of the Revenue Sale Law. Kiran Chandra v. Naimuddin, 30 Cal. 498. The plaintiffs, purchasers at a revenue sale, sought to eject the defendant from a piece of land measuring a little over one bigha: the defendant pleaded that he had his dwelling-house, tank and trees on the holding; it was found that the dwelling-houses consisted of certain huts and that the so-called tank was some two or three cubits in extent; as to the trees there was no finding that there was anything in the shape of a plantation or garden, held that upon the findings no case had been made out for exemption of any portion of the land: Mahar Ali v. Syama Charan, 3 C.W.N. 212.

ment.

S. 37 cl. (4) of Act XI of 1859 contemplates improvements or works of a permanent character, and they are protected irrespective of whether the lease was or was not given for the purpose of the work in question, but the work must still be in existence: Shohodora v. Sarbosobha, 20 C.L.J. 494; the fact there was once a garden would not protect the land: Ibid.

Garden.

A resident and hereditary cultivator although he holds under a miras patta cannot be ejected by a purchaser of a Putni tenure sold in execution of a Putni Sale under Reg. viii of 1819: Sarbananda v. Rana Gazi, 18 C.L.J. 334. Reg. VIII 1819—Resident and hereditary cultivator.

Plantation
—Betel—leaf, Baroj.
Assemblage of plants.

A betel leaf Baroj may be a plantation within the meaning of s. 160: Banko Behari v. Krishna Chandra, 18 C.W.N. 349, s. c., 18 C.L.J. 170. (Jenkins C.J. and Mookerjee J. confirming the judgment of N. Chatterjee on Letters Patent appeal). Whether or not a particular assemblage of plants comes within s. 160 (c) is largely, if not conclusively, a question of fact: Ibid.

The interest of a tenant in land on which a boroj or betel cultivation has been made is a protected interest within the meaning of s. 160, although the tenant does not hold the land under a permanent lease: Abhoya Charan v. Kamini Probha, 53 I.C. 188; the case of Banko Behari v. Krishna Chandra, 18 C.W.N. 349, s. c., 18 C.L.J. 170 relied on; Jogendra Narain v. Kiran Chandra, 46 Cal. 730, s. c., 23 C.W.N. 315, distinguished.

5. Cl. (d): Right of Occupancy:—The expression “right of occupancy” in s. 37 of Revenue Sale Law is not limited to the right that could be acquired under the rules laid down in Act X of 1859 but also covers right of occupancy that might be acquired under laws promulgated since 1859: Sarat Chandra v. Asiman Bibi, 31 Cal. 725, s. c., 8 C.W.N. 601. In a suit for khas possession by an auction-purchaser at a sale for arrears of revenue against an occupancy raiyat, for lands lying within the ambit of the estate, held that the onus was prima facie on the defendant to shew that at the date of the plaintiff’s auction purchase the defendant held the land as a raiyat within the meaning of s. 37 of the Revenue Sale Law or s. 21 of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Ambika v. Dya Gazi, 10 C.W.N. 497. Act XI of

The status of a fixed raiyat can be combined with that of an occupancy raiyat. A fixed raiyat may acquire a right of occupancy under ss. 20 and 21 and his interest is a protected interest within the meaning of s. 160: Sarbeshwar v. Bejoy Chand, 49 Cal. 280, s. c., 26 C.W.N. 15, s. c., 34 C.L.J. 233. (Sanderson C.J. and Richardson J.). [Contrary view taken by Mookerjee J. (Jenkins C.J. not expressing any opinion) in Bhutnath v. Surendranath, 13 C.W.N. 1025, s. c., 11 C.L.J. 298, was considered to be obiter.] The case of Sarbeswar v. Bejoy Chand, 49 Cal. 280, was followed in the case of Midnapur Zemindari Co. v. Sadhumoni, 54 Cal. 681 (Duval and Mitter J.J.), where the dictum of Mookerjee J. in Bhutnath v. Surendranath, 13 C.W.N. 1025, was not followed. See also Rajmohini v. Nagendra, 94 I.C. 310 (Surhawardy and Mukerjee J.J.). A raiyat at fixed rate may have a right of occupancy.

See notes under s. 4, heading No. 6, pp. 73, 74.

The expression “right of occupancy” in s. 37 of Act XI of 1859 (Revenue Sale Law) covers “right of occupancy” that might be acquired under laws promulgated since 1859: Sarat Chandra v. Asman Bibi, 35 C.L.J. 212. Act XI of 1859—
Right of
occupancy.

Where an occupancy raiyat subsequently acquired a mokurari right, held that even if the mokurari right be extinguished under s. 16, Act VIII of 1865 (B.C.), he was not liable to ejectment as he had occupancy right still: Bama Charan v. Ram Kanai, 19 C.W.N. 858.

It has been held by Doss J. that an occupancy raiyat may have a permanent right in his holding: Sheik Latifar v. A. H. Forbes, 14

C.W.N. 372. The words "permanent right" have been used in the sense that the landlord is not entitled to eject the tenant and not, in the sense that the rent is fixed.

Interest of under-raiyat with a right of occupancy by custom

There is no case-law as to whether the interest of an under raiyat with a right of occupancy by custom comes within the meaning of "any right of occupancy" in cl. (d) of s. 160 of this Act and as such is a protected interest under that section. The words "any right of occupancy" by themselves seem to be comprehensive enough to include the right of occupancy acquired by custom by an under-raiyat.

6. Clauses (d) and (f):—These two clauses, if read together, would show that the right of occupancy is protected merely, but the amount of rent is not protected if originally unfair; so if the rent of an occupancy raiyat which was fixed was unfair or unreasonable at the date of the fixing of the rent, the rent is liable to be revised and a suit may be brought for assessment of fair rent. According to the provisions of s. 27 the burden of proof is upon the landlord to prove that the rent is unfair.

Meaning of "Permission to create."

7. Cl. (g)—Permission to create: Ss. 3 and 4 of Regulation VIII of 1819 cannot be so read as to hold that, by them, the landlord expressly gives the durputnidar permission to create a mortgage within the provisions of s. 160 (g) of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Akshoy Kumar v. Maharajah Bejoy Chand, 29 Cal. 813: s. c., 6 C.W.N. 249 (notes): a mortgage created by a durputnidar of his interest in the taluk does not therefore amount to a protected interest within the meaning of s. 160 (g) of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Ibid. A putni-kabuliyat contained the following clause:—"If I (putnidar) should let out this mehal in durputni to any person, such durputnidar shall act according to the terms of my kabuliyat," held, that it did not contain even the implication of a permission to create a lease, assuming that the putni patta contained a counterpart of the clause: Muhammad Kazem v. Naffar Chandra, 32 Cal. 911, s. c., 9 C.W.N. 803; where there was some evidence to shew that the proprietor knew of the creation by the putnidar of a sub-tenure and accepted the rent of the putni taluk through the sub-tenure holder, held that this was not sufficient to constitute the sub-tenure a protected interest within the meaning of this Act: Ibid. See notes under s. 162.

Rights to make gift mortgage etc., in a Putni kabuliyat not an express authority in writing.

Where a putni kabuliyat provided as follows:—"I in succession to my sons, grandsons, etc., heirs and representatives, shall with felicity, held and enjoy the aforesaid share, with right to make gift, sale, mortgage, etc. and durputni, mourasi mukurari, gantidari, etc., settlements at a proper jama and to every way make alienations and create encumbrances"; and the putnidar created a mortgage, held that the recitals in the kabuliyat merely set out the ordinary incidents of a putni grant as laid down in s. 3 of the Putni Regulation and did not give the putnidar an express authority in writing by the landlords to create a mortgage and the mortgage created by the putnidar was not a "protected interest" within the meaning of s. 160 cl. (g): Kristadas v. Jitendra Nath, 16 C.W.N. 561: the effect of s. 160 cl. (g) is subject to the saving provisions of cl. (e) of s. 195: Ibid.

Right granted to enjoy by making Prajabili.

A granted to B a lease to enjoy the property by making prajabili etc. (i.e. by subletting tenants and otherwise); B settled C upon the land, and D held the land under C; B's tenure was sold for arrears of rent; the purchaser served notices of annulment upon C. and D., held by D. Chatterjee J., that the interest of C and consequently of D was protected interest: Afazuddi v. Prasanna Gain, 39 Cal. 138; Jenkins C.J., accepting the interpretation put upon by D. Chatterjee J. upon the Bengalee words agreed with his conclusion.

Where a Durputni patta contained the following words: "I give you a right to alienate the land at pleasure by gift and sale and to grant sepulni by settlements of your own interest"; it was held that the words were sufficient to authorise the creation of a subtenancy within the meaning of Cl. (g) of s. 160. Bidhumukhi v. Asmatulla, 21 C.W.N. 829, s. c., 24 C.L.J. 180; the cases of Krista Das v. Jitendra Nath, 16 C.W.N. 561 and Afazuddi v. Prosanna, 39 Cal. 138 were distinguished, but it is submitted with great respect that the case of Krista Das v. Jitendra Nath, 16 C.W.N. 561 can hardly be distinguished.

Where a durpatnidar was allowed to have full rights to grant leases or create incumbrances subject only to the restrictions that if the durputni was sold for arrears of rent, the subordinate titles created by the durputnidar should at the same time come to an end, held that this agreement did not contravene the provisions of sec. 159 of the Bengal Tenancy Act or s. 10 of the Transfer of Property Act: Madhusudan v. Midnapur Zemindary Co., 45 Cal. 940. Durputni. Restrictions.

A general authority contained in a darpatni patta expressly stating that the darpatnidar may grant sepadni settlements is sufficient to protect from annulment a sepadni created by the darpatnidar as a protected interest within the meaning of s. 160 (g) of the B. T. Act, and a special permission in each case is not required: Bidhumukhi Chaudhurani v. Asmatulla, 23 I.C. 899.

A held under a sublease granted by B who held under a permanent lease granted by C. C. again holding under a permanent lease by D; the lease given by D to C authorised C to grant sub-leases, held that the right and interest of B and therefore of A are "protected interest" and are not such as can be interfered with by a purchaser under the Bengal Tenancy Act: Afazuddi v. Prasanna, 39 Cal. 138. Non-occupancy raiyat.

A non-occupancy raiyat is not prohibited from subletting and may create a protected interest under cl. (g), if his landlord allows him to do so: Ram Lal v. Bhela Gazi, 37 Cal. 709. Authority to grant sub-lease.

A mortgage of a patni created with consent and for benefit of the zemindar is protected interest within s. 160 (g): Harimohon v. Purendranath, 90 I.C. 955. As to decree on a mortgage of non-transferable occupancy holding: Badlu v. Sibram, 7 Pat. 155.

8. Miscellaneous Cases:—An agreement by a former owner making over a portion of the former proprietor's estate to another party is not binding upon the auction-purchaser of the estate at a sale for arrears of revenue: Bykant Nath v. Ameerunnissa, 2 W.R. 191 (at p. 193). Agreement with former owner.

A suit does not lie against a present proprietor (auction-purchaser) for damages for injury done to the land during the time of the former proprietor: The Collector of 24-Parganas v. Joynarain, W.R. Spl. No., p. 17. Injury by private proprietor.

Where a purchaser of a putni tenure at a sale for arrears of rent brought a suit against a person for recovery of possession and declaration of title within 12 years from the date of sale and the defendant proved that his adverse possession commenced before the creation of Adverse possession the putni tenure, held that the suit was barred by limitation and Art 121 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act (XV of 1877) applied: Kalika-nanda v. Biprodas, 19 C.W.N. 18, s. c., 21 C.L.J. 265.

Customary
cut trees.

A customary right to cut and appropriate trees is an incumbrance within the meaning of s. 11 of Regulation VIII of 1819: Prodyat Kumar v. Gopi Krishna, 37 Cal. 322, s. c., 14 C.W.N. 487: * s. c., 11 C.L.J. 209. A purchaser of a putni taluk at a sale held under Regulation VIII of 1819 is not entitled to hold the property free from a customary right or a right recognised by usage which has grown during the subsistence of the putni; and which occupancy raiyats entitled to appropriate and convert to their own use such trees as they have the right to cut down in as much as he is not entitled to convert a bonafide engagement made by the defaulting proprietor with the resident and hereditary cultivators. Ibid.

Putni Regulation
s. 11.

The proviso in the third clause of sec. 11 of the Putni Regulation does not mean that persons in occupation not coming within the definition of khudkhast raiyats are liable to be ejected even if they have acquired occupancy rights under the Bengal Tenancy Act: Rash Behari v. Hemanta Kumar, 54 Cal. 788.

Reclamation lease.

Where land was let out to a tenant for purposes of reclamation at a progressive rate of rent, which, when minimum, was fixed in perpetuity and it was further provided that the land was to be held by tenant from generation to generation who might transfer the same and construct houses etc., held that the tenancy was in the nature of a tenure and therefore not a protected interest under s. 160: Akhil Chandra v. Surendra Nath, 11 C.L.J. 87. The case was followed and referred to in the judgment of Mookerjee J., in the case of Bhutnath v. Manmatha Nath, 13 C.W.N. 1025, s. c., 11 C.L.J. 98.

Annulment
of higher interest necessarily annuls subordinate
interest.

Where a putni is sold, the annulment of the durputni necessarily carries with it the extinction of the seputki which is not a protected interest: Makhan Das v. Ramchandra, 17 C.W.N. 1064.

Purchase of an estate by Putnidar.

Where an entire estate was sold for arrears of revenue under Act XI of 1859 free from encumbrances and purchased by the putnidar of the estate (the putni being protected as being specially registered under that Act), held that the purchaser (who was the putnidar) was not entitled to annul the subordinate interest under the putni, even if it might be held that the putni was merged in the higher interest: Satcowri v. Priyanath, 18 C.W.N. 672.

As to whether a notice is necessary to annul an under-raiyati lease created in contravention of s. 85, see notes under s. 167.

Meaning of
"incumbrance" and "registered and notified incum-
brance."

161. For the purposes of this Chapter—

(a) the term "incumbrance," used with reference to a tenancy, means any lien, sub-tenancy, easement of other right or interest created by the tenant on his tenure or holding or in limitation of his own interest therein, and not being a protected interest as defined in the last foregoing section;

(b) the term "registered and notified incumbrance," used with reference to a tenure or holding sold or liable to sale in execution of a decree for an arrear of rent due in respect thereof, means an incumbrance created by a registered instrument, of which a copy has, not less than three months before the accrual of the arrear, been served on the landlord in manner hereinafter provided ;

- (c) the terms "arrears" and "arrear of rent" shall be deemed to include interest decreed under section 67 or damages awarded in lieu of interest under subsection (1) of section 68.

1. Amendment :—Cl. (c) was added by the Amending Acts of Bengal and East Bengal, Act I B. C. of 1907 and Act I. E. B. A. of 1908.

2. Created by the tenant :—The words "any other right or interest created by the tenant on his holding or in limitation of his own interest therein" in s. 161 (1) refer to some right which is ejusdem generis with the words "lien, subtenancy, easement" in the same subsection: Mahadeo Lal v. Langat Singh, 2 Pat. L.J. 457. Whatever may be the nature of the particular incumbrance, it must be the creation of the tenant ; so a mortgage created by the operation of s. 171 of the Act is not an incumbrance and as such not liable to be avoided by the purchaser of a tenure at a sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent: Pasupati v. Narayan, 24 Cal. 537, s. c., 1 C.W.N. 519.

An incumbrance must imply a limitation of the rights of the tenant and not a total extinction of them ; a sale of a portion of a non-transferable occupancy holding is not an encumbrance within the meaning of s. 86 sub-secs. (6) and (7): Tamizuddin v. Khoda Newaz, 14 C.W.N. 229, s. c., 11 C.L.J., 16. It was however observed in Jogeshwar v. Ahed Mohomed, 3 C.W.N. 13 that "a lease just as a sale, gift or mortgage, must come, within the meaning of the word incumbrance":

Attachment.

Where during proceedings in execution of a money decree a revenue-paying estate was sold for arrears of revenue, held that the attachment did not create any incumbrance within the meaning of s. 54 of the Revenue Sale Law (Ac^t XI of 1859): Mahadeo v. Thakur Prasad, 14 C.W.N. 677, s. c., 11 C.L.J. 528.

Sublease by a non-occupancy raiyat.

An incumbrance may be created by a non-occupancy raiyat on his holding in limitation of his own interest, however limited, by way of sub-lease: Ram Lal v. Bhela Gazi, 37 Cal., 709.

Mortgage, is an incumbrance.

A mortgage is an incumbrance within the meaning of s. 161, and a mortgage security is not extinguished till the sale has taken place in execution of the mortgage decree and the proceeds have been distributed in satisfaction of the sum due to the mortgagee: Joynarain v. Badri Das, 16 C.L.J. 156. The incumbrance of a mortgagee decree-holder is liable to be annulled by the purchaser at a sale for arrears of rent: Ibid. But see Badlu v. Sibram, 7 Pat. 155.

Interest of usufructuary mortgagee, if incumbrance.

The interest of an usufructuary mortgagee or mortgagee by way of conditional sale in a portion of a non-transferable holding is not an incumbrance within the meaning of s. 161: Abdul Gaffur v. Golam Rahaman, 39 I.C. 460; it need not be annulled by a notice under s. 167: Ibid.

Interest of a mortgagee of a part of holding purchasing the holding in execution of his mortgage decree, is an incumbrance.

The interest of a mortgagee of a part of a holding who has purchased the holding in execution of his mortgage decree is an incumbrance within the meaning of s. 161: Indra Narain v. Nabin Chandra, 47 I.C. 847; the case of Banbihari v. Kheltra Pal, 38 Cal. 923, s. c., 16 C.W.N. 259 was followed.

A mortgage of a portion of a non-transferable occupancy holding is an incumbrance and is necessary to have it annulled under s. 167: Prankrishna v. Atulkrishna, 22 C.W.N. 662.

An usufructuary mortgage of a non-transferable occupancy holding is an incumbrance within the meaning of section 161 (a), Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885. A purchaser of the holding at a rent sale must annul such incumbrance within one year, as required by section 167 of the Act, or he loses all right to annul it: Har Gobind v. Ram Chandra, 6 Pat. 235 (Adami and Macpherson, J.J.).

The case of Mahadeo Prasad v. Sheik Azmat, 1 Pat. L.J. 108, followed.

The cases of Lala Muralidhur v. Surat Lal, 3 Pat. L.J. 362, Jogarnain v. Badri Das, 16 C.L.J. 156, Sital Chandra v. Parbati Charan, 35 Cal. L.J. 1, and Bidhumukhi v. Bhabasundari, 24 C.W.N. 961, referred to.

The position of a landlord purchasing a holding at a rent sale is different from that of an ordinary purchaser, who in fact steps into the shoes of the original tenant and becomes a tenant of the landlord. A tenant-purchaser of a non-transferable occupancy holding cannot, on the ground of non-transferability, eject a mortgagee whose incumbrance has not been annulled under section 167.

A purchaser at a rent sale who has not, under section 167, annulled a mortgage of the holding is, however, entitled to redeem the mortgage; but the mortgagee cannot redeem or otherwise exercise his right of redemption as against the auction-purchaser. The cases of Bidhumukhi v. Bhabasundari, 24 C.W.N. 961 and Sital Chandra v. Parbati Charan, 35 C.L.J. 1, followed.

The case of Meherunnessa v. Shyam Sunder, 6 C.W.N. 834, not followed.

The case of Chiodetti v. Quadress, 1 P.L.J. 161 and Surat Lal v. Muralidhar, 4 P.L.J. 362, distinguished.

A customary right to cut and appropriate trees is an incumbrance within the meaning of s. 11 of Reg. VIII of 1819: Prodyote Kumar v. Gopi Krishna, 37 Cal. 322, s. c., 14 C.W.N. 487, s. c., 11 C.L.J. 209. Customary right to cut trees.

It was held in a case under Reg. VIII of 1819 that a purchaser of a putni under that Regulation free from incumbrances is not bound by a decree by virtue of which a suit for rent by the sold out proprietor was dismissed against a tenant on the ground that there was no relationship of landlord and tenant: Satish Chandra v. Munjamati, 17 C.W.N. 340. Decree against a former tenant.

An under-raiyati tenancy created in contravention of s. 85 is not required to be annulled by a landlord who purchased the raiyati right at a sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent; the landlord can take khas possession of the same without being required to annul it by a notice; the under-raiyati interest in such a case is not an incumbrance: Fakir Chandra v. Banamali, 18 C.L.J. 252; *see also Peary Mohun v. Badal Chandra, 28 Cal. 205; see also Gangadhar v. Rajendra Nath, 17 C.W.N. 860; see also Asutosh v. Banamali, 19 C.W.N. 412.† See also Joynal v. Kazem, 22 C.W.N. 68 (notes); the under-raiyat holding under an under-raiyat who held under an invalid lease is not protected: Ibid. Under-raiyati tenancy.

The interest of the under-raiyat is an "incumbrance" within the meaning of sec. 167 of the Bengal Tenancy Act which a stranger purchasing at a sale for arrears of rent is bound to annul according to the procedure laid down in sec. 167 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, and where this procedure has not been followed the purchaser is not entitled to eject the under-raiyat. Janaki Nath Hore v. Pravasini Dasi, 43 Cal. 178, s. c., 19 C.W.N. 1077.

An under-raiyati interest is an "incumbrance," but to be so it must be such an under-raiyati interest as the law recognises as valid: Jnanendra v. Royman Sheikh, 31 C.W.N. 580 (Mukerji and Graham, J.J.). The word "sub-tenancy" in s. 161 cl. (a) which may be treated as an "incumbrance" as against the superior landlord must be one which is valid against him. Under-raiyati interest exceeding 9 years, if incumbrance.

A purchaser of an entire estate sold for arrears of revenue suing to recover land claimed by the defendant as lakheraj must prove a prima facie case that his mal land has since 1790 been converted into lakheraj; the fact that the lands are within the ambit of the estate is not sufficient to meet this burden: Krishna Kalyani v. Braunfield, 20 C.W.N. 1028. Lakheraj.

Interest voidable on the sale of an occupancy holding referred to in s. 170 are those interests which are incumbrances under s. 161; Rameshwar Singh v. Raghunandan, 1 P.L.J. 403, s. c., 38 I.C. 337. S. 170.

* Mookerjee J., in delivering the judgment did not pronounce any opinion upon the question as to the precise position of a stranger who purchases at a sale held in execution of a decree for arrears of rent.

† An under-raiyati lease registered in contravention of s. 85 sub-sec. (2), is not operative against the superior landlord of the occupancy raiyat: Ashutosh v. Banamali, 19 C.W.N. 412, also see Jarip Khan v. Dorja Beza, 17 C.W.N. 59 and Manik Boral v. Bani Charan, 13 C.L.J. 619, also see notes under s. 85.

Charge of a landlord in respect of his rent, not an incumbrance.

The charge which the landlord has in respect of his rent is not one created by law under s. 100 of the T. P. Act ; such charge is not an incumbrance within the meaning of s. 161 of the B. T. Act : Satyasankar v. Monomohan Guha, 22 C.W.N. 131.

Where the holder of a tenure granted an under tenure at a rent of Rs. 45 and then sold by a conveyance to the under tenure-holder his right to receive rent to the extent of Rs. 33 out of the said sum of Rs. 45, held that what was assigned to the under-tenure-holder was an incumbrance within the meaning of s. 161 : Birendra Kishore v. Ahamud Ali, 41 I.C. 687.

Adverse possession, an incumbrance under the Revenue Sale Law ;

also under the Putni Law ;

also under the Assam Land and Revenue Regulation ; also under the Bengal Tenancy Act.

Adverse possession.

Statutory title acquired by adverse possession.

3. Adverse Possession :—It has been held that a right created in a person by adverse possession against the sold-out proprietor is an incumbrance which is a purchaser at a revenue sale, acquiring rights under s. 37 of Act XI of 1859 (or under the old Sale-law repealed by that Act) is entitled to set aside : Karmi Khan v. Brojo Nath, 22 Cal. 244 (at p. 251) : see also Thakoor Dass v. Nabeen, 15 W.R. 552 ; Goluck Monee v. Huro Chunder, 8 W.R. 62 ; Narain Chunder v. Taylor, 4 Cal. 103. Such a right has also been held to be an incumbrance within the meaning of the Putni Regulation (VIII of 1819) : Khantomoni v. Bijoy Chand, 19 Cal. 787 ; Lukhmeer v. Collector of Rajshaye, S. D. A. 1851, p. 116 ; Ram Sunker v. Bijoy Govind, S. D. A. 1852, p. 824.

An adverse possession has also been held as an incumbrance within the meaning of s. 70 of the Assam Land and Revenue Regulation : Musuzah v. Brojendra, 20 C.L.J. 210. The period of limitation for adverse possession against the purchaser at a sale for arrears of revenue under Act XI of 1859 only commences to run from the date of the sale : Surja Kant v. Sarat Chandra, 20 C.L.J. 563.

Where a purchaser of a tenure at a sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent brought a suit for possession against a trespasser within 12 years of the date of his purchase and it was found that the defendant had acquired a title by adverse possession and the possession commenced from before the creation of the tenure, held that the suit was barred by Art. 121 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act : Kalikanund v. Biprodas, 19 C.W.N. 18, s. c., 21 C.L.J. 265. The adverse possession contemplated in the decisions of Naffer Chandra v. Rajendra Lal, 25 Cal. 167, Woomesh Chandra v. Rajnarain, 10 W.R. 15, Khantamani v. Bijoy Chandra, 19 Cal. 187 and Karim Khan v. Broja Nath, 22 Cal. 244 is possession which commences after the creation of the tenure : Ibid.

Title acquired by adverse possession for the statutory period is an incumbrance within the meaning of s. 161 : Munsabali v. Arsad-ulla, 16 C.W.N. 831, s. c., 16 C.L.J. 539, following Gocool v. Debendra, 14 C.L.J. 136 ; see also Maizuddi v. Ishan Chandra, 15 C.W.N. 706, s. c., 13 C.L.J. 293. The interest of an adverse possessor is an incumbrance only when the adverse possession has continued for the statutory period : Satish Chandra v. Munjamati, 17 C.W.N. 340.* A title acquired by adverse possession of a portion

* It is submitted with great respect that a statutory title acquired by adverse possession is not an incumbrance either under the Revenue Sale Law (Act XI of 1859) or under the Bengal Tenancy Act ; a purchaser of an entire estate sold for arrears of revenue as well as a purchaser of a tenure or holding sold for arrears of a rent is however entitled to get khas possession by ejecting the person who had acquired a title by adverse possession against the sold-out owner of the estate, tenure or holding ; and as the statutory title acquired by adverse of the lands comprised in a tenancy is an incumbrance: Bhusan Chandra v. Srikantha, 45 Cal. 756, s. c., 23 C.L.J. 485. A title claimed by adverse possession must be proved to have been created before the sale of the tenure: Monmothanath v. Anath Bandhu, 25 C.W.N. 106.

The term incumbrance in clause (g) of s. 161 includes a statutory title acquired by a trespasser by adverse possession provided such act of possession commenced after the tenure had been created. Such incumbrance can not be annulled in any manner other than that provided in s. 167: Kalikanand v. Bipradas, 21 C.L.J., 265; see also Bhusan Chandra v. Srikantha, 21 C.W.N. 155, s. c., 23 C.L.J. 485.

Possession of a trespasser during the continuance of a lease does not become adverse as against the lessor.

The possession of a trespasser during the continuance of a lease does not become adverse as against the lessor: Hazra Sardar v. Kunja Behari, 19 C.W.N. 18, s. c., 25 C.L.J. 635. The cases of Davis v. Kaze Abdul, 8 W.R. 55, and Kisewar Nath v. Kalisankar, 10 C.W.N. 343 were followed and the cases of Prosunnamoyi v. Kalidas, possession is not an incumbrance within the meaning of the Bengal Tenancy Act, it is not necessary for a purchaser of a tenure or holding to annul the title acquired by adverse possession by any notice under s. 167 of the Act. The reasons why a statutory title acquired by adverse possession is not an incumbrance are stated as follows:—The case of a revenue paying estate may be taken first; suppose A is the owner of a revenue paying estate; B dispossessed A from a plot of land comprised in the estate and acquired a title adversely to A by 12 year's adverse possession. B then becomes a co-owner with A in the estate; and therefore when the estate is sold for arrears of revenue, the interest of A and B, i.e., of all the co-owners pass by the sale. See Mohini Chandra v. Pyari Lal, 25 C.L.J. 99; see also Baikuntha nath v. Basanta Kumari, 23 C.L.J. 151; see also After Ali v. Brojendra, 24 C.L.J. 60.

Mookerjee J., has held in the case of Bhawani v. Mathura, 7 C.L.J. at pp. 20, 21 that where the interest of the owner of an estate is acquired by another by purchase, his interest is not an encumbrance and that such interest passes by the sale of the estate under Act XI of 1859.

It is submitted that a statutory title acquired by adverse possession stands on the same footing as a title by purchase.

In the case of a tenure under the Bengal Tenancy Act the following illustration may be given:

A is a permanent tenure holder; B acquires a statutory title by adverse possession against A in respect to a portion of the lands comprised in the tenure; B then becomes a co-sharer of A in the tenure: B does not get his name registered in the landlord's office; the landlord brings a suit for rent against A the recorded tenant; by the sale of the tenure the interest of B, the unregistered tenant, also passes. The purchaser therefore acquires a title against both A and B in the tenure by virtue of his purchase.

It has been held by N. Chatterjea J., (Jenkins C. J., affirming on appeal under the Letters Patent), that a sale is not an encumbrance; Abdul v. Ahmadar, 19 C.W.N. 1217, s.c., 22 C.L.J. 356; it is submitted that a person acquiring a title by adverse possession stands on the same footing as a purchaser.

The question as to whether a person who acquires a title by adverse possession to certain lands against a putnidar becomes a co-sharer with the putnidar and as an unrecorded co-sharer his interest ceases at the sale of a putni for arrears of rent arose in the case of Manmatha v. Anath Bandhu, 23 C.W.N. 201 at p. 222 but their Lordships (N. Chatterjea and Greaves J.J.), did not express any opinion:

It has been held that when a share of an estate is sold for arrears of revenue the purchaser gets not the right of the defaulter but the share sold, even if a person acquired by adverse title a right to the share against the ex-proprietors. Rahmuddi v. Nalini, 10 C.W.N. 407; followed in 43 Cal. 46, see also Bhawani v. Mathura, 7 C.L.J. 20. Where a trespasser did not acquire a title by adverse possession at the date of the sale of the estate for arrears of revenue under the Assam Land and Revenue Regulation, held that he was not a defaulting proprietor, and the delivery of symbolical possession could not avail against him: Jitendra Kumar v. Mahendra Chandra, 24 C.L.J. 61.

9 C.L.R. 347 and Brindaban v. Bhoopal Chunder, 17 W.R. 377 were dissented from. See also Udai Kumar v. Katyani, 35 C.L.J. 292.

Where no adverse possession.

A trespasser who has not acquired a title by adverse possession is not a defaulting proprietor and is bound to surrender possession when an estate is sold for arrears of revenue: Jabāda Khatun v. Tulsi Charon, 36 C.L.J. 472.

Adverse possession against proprietor of revenue-paying estate.

It is submitted that a person who has acquired a title by adverse possession against the sold out proprietor of an estate becomes in law a proprietor, and when the revenue was defaulted in the payment of rent he was a defaulting proprietor, and therefore the purchaser at a sale for arrears of revenue is entitled to oust him not as an encumbrance holder but as a defaulting proprietor, his interest having passed by the sale. (See in this connection Baikuntha v. Basanta, 23 C.L.J. 151).

A title acquired by adverse possession is an incumbrance, and therefore a purchaser in a rent-sale cannot recover possession without annulling the incumbrance under s. 167: Jnanendra v. Umesh, 26 C.W.N. 985. [There was a difference of opinion between Walmsley J. and Suhrawardy J.; the former holding that Art. 137 of the Limitation Act applied while the latter held that Art. 140 or Art. 144 applied; owing to this difference the question was referred to Woodroffe J.; who having held that the Articles in the Limitation Act did not apply but the suit was barred in as much as the incumbrance had not been annulled under s. 167 B. T. Act and thus having differed from both the judges the reference was out of order.]

Adverse possession—s. 167.

An interest created by adverse possession is an encumbrance and must be annulled by a notice under s. 167: Ishan Chandra v. Safatulla, 26 C.W.N. 703, s. c., 35 C.L.J. 36.

Adverse possession—Privy Council decision.

The Privy Council in the case of Bipradas v. Kamini Kumar, 48 I.A. 499, s. c., 49 Cal. 27, s. c., 26 C.W.N. 465 (P.C.), did not decide the question as to whether an interest not directly created by the tenant but allowed to grow up by his sufferance and negligence is an incumbrance. Their Lordships remarked that there is apparently a current of decisions to the effect that such an interest is an incumbrance, and their Lordships did not express a final opinion.

Sale of non-transferable occupancy holding, if incumbrance.

4. Sale :—The interest of an unregistered purchaser of a portion of a putni tenure is not an “incumbrance” within the meaning of s. 161 of the Bengal Tenancy Act and need not be annulled under s. 167 by the purchaser of the tenure at a sale in execution of a rent-decree obtained against the registered tenant: Abdul Rahaman v. Ahmadar Rahaman, 43 Cal. 558, s. c., 19 C.W.N. 1217, s. c., 22 C.L.J. 356. The sale of a portion of a non-transferable occupancy holding is not an incumbrance within the meaning of sub-secs. (6) and (7) of s. 86: Tamijuddi v. Khoda Newaj, 14 C.W.N. 229, s. c., 11 C.L.J. 16; see also Mahadeo Lal v. Langat Singh, 2 Pat. L.J. 457 and Mahanli Lal v. Harkissen, 19 C.W.N. 176 (notes portion); Bijoy Krishna v. Surendranath, 46 Cal. 891, s. c., 30 C.L.J. 4. See also Jharu Mandal v. Kshettra Mohan, 54 Cal. 15, s. c., 30 C.W.N. 729, s. c., 43 C.L.J. 554 (F.B.), and Barada Prasad v. Foizuddi, 28 C.W.N. 845, where it has been held that the transfer of the whole or portion of a non-transferable occupancy holding is not an incumbrance.

A landlord purchaser at a sale in execution of his rent decree is not required to annul the interest of a non-transferable occupancy holding : Fazarali v. Pooroo Mian, 28 C.L.J. 266; the case of Tamijuddin v. Khoda Newaz, 11 C.L.J. 16 was followed.

5. Exchange of land :—Exchange of land is an incumbrance within the meaning of s. 161 : Chandra Shai v. Kali Prosanna, 23 Cal. 254. But it has been held that a sale is not an incumbrance : Abdul Rahaman v. Ahmadar Rahman, 43 Cal. 558, s. c., 19 C.W.N. 1217. The case of Chundra Shai v. Kali Prosanna, 23 Cal. 254 has practically been dissented from by N. R. Chatterjea J., in the case of Abdul Rahaman v. Ahmadar Rahman ; his Lordship observed as follows at p. 1220 of 19 C.W.N., s. c., 22 C.L.J. 356 :—“But if there is no distinction between an ‘exchange’ and a sale’ * * * the view that an ‘exchange’ is in ‘limitation’ of the tenant’s interest is opposed to that taken in Tamijuddin v. Khoda Newaz, 14 C.W.N. 229, s. c., 11 C.L.J. 16, and if an exchange is in ‘destruction’ of the tenant’s right, it cannot be an ‘encumbrance’ within the meaning of s. 161 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. I have doubts about the correctness of the decision in the case of Chundra Shai, 23 Cal. 254 referred to above and in any case I think, it ought not to be extended further.”

Exchange, if incum-
brance.

6. Sale-proclamation :—The absence of a specification in the sale-proclamation of the encumbrance to which a property advertised for sale is subject, and which are required by cl. (c) of s. 287 of the Civil Procedure Code to be specified, coupled with the fact that the value of the property as stated in the sale-proclamation was much below the proper price, amounts to a natural misrepresentation which must be treated as a material irregularity in publishing the sale within the meaning of s. 311, C. P. C. (Act XIV 1882) : Moti v. Bhawani Kumari, 6 C.W.N. 836.

Sale proclamation.

7. Sale does not ipso facto cancel incumbrance :—A sale purporting to be under this chapter does not, ipso facto, cancel incumbrance. Notice must be given under s. 167 : Beni Prosad v. Rewat Lall, 24 Cal. 746 ; also Kalicanund v. Bipradas, 21 C.L.J. 265, s. c., 19 C.W.N. 18.

Sale does not ipso facto cancel incum-
brance.

See notes under ss. 159 and 160.

8. What amounts to encumbrance :—Grant of lands rent-free or the grant of landlord’s zerait land to a tenant for the purposes of cultivation does amount to an encumbrance. Apart from mere dealings such as mortgages which create a charge upon the land, there are other dealings which amount to an encumbrance. Anything which interferes with the unrestricted rights of the proprietors as they then existed would be an encumbrance upon the land, even the granting of a lease of zerait lands, that is to say the lands which the landlord is entitled to hold in direct possession and to cultivate for his own purposes. A lease of such lands granted to an occupier in circumstances which would give him a right of occupancy over the land would amount to an encumbrance : Mahadeo Prasad v. Gajadhar, A.I.R. 1924, Pat. 362.

Gift, mortgage, grant of Zerait
etc.

An intermediate interest created between a proprietary right and a mokurari is an incumbrance within the meaning of the Revenue Sale Law : Shazada Begum v. Kokila, 1 Pat. 38 :

Incum-
brance.

9. Annulment of under tenure :—Where the lands held by the under-tenants include lands not claimed by the purchaser, and they hold the entire lands under one patta, their entire holding forms an indivisible tenure which cannot be annulled in respect of a portion only of the lands comprised in the patta: Soocharam v. Doorga Charan, 5 C.L.J. 264.

Annulment
of higher interest cancels subordinate
interest.

10. Annulment of higher interest necessarily annuls subordinate interest :

A purchases a putni tenure at a sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent free from all encumbrances ; A annuls a durputni tenure by a notice under s. 167 ; the seputni tenure is necessarily annulled and no separate notice is necessary.

Usu-
mortgage from under-tenant, not an incumbrance.

A usufructuary mortgage not from the defaulting tenant but from his under-tenant is not an incumbrance: Debi Raut v. Ashutosh Bhattacharya, 21 I.C. 55 ; as long as the interest of the under-tenant, under whom the mortgagee holds, intervenes, the purchaser cannot touch the mortgagee. Ibid.

II. Burden of Proof :—In regard to the question of onus the following rule was laid down in the case of Somir Jama v. Mohabharat Raktu, 16 C.W.N. 777 by Mookerjee and Teunon J.J. :—“The true rule plainly is that the burden is upon the purchaser to prove that the interest sought to be annulled is an ‘incumbrance’ within the meaning of cl. (a) of s. 161, and if he proves this, he starts his case sufficiently ; the burden then shifts upon the defendant to prove that he has a ‘protected interest’ within the meaning of s. 160.”

upon
purchaser.

The case of Somir Jama v. Mohabharat Raktu, 16 C.W.N. 777 was approved in the case of Hari Moni v. Moti Sheikh,* 16 C.W.N. 779. The existence of such a “protected interest” as a right of occupancy is a matter specially within the knowledge of the person claiming it and the onus under s. 106 of the Evidence Act is on him: Ibid. See also Jogesh v. Rohini, 21 C.L.J. 65.

Rent-free
land.

Where a tenure-holder makes a rent-free grant, it is an encumbrance created by him, and a purchaser of the tenure at a sale for arrears of rent is therefore entitled to annul the same by a notice under s. 167.

Rent-free
grant.

In a suit by a purchaser of a putni tenure (at a sale for arrears of rent) to recover possession of an alleged rent-free grant upon a notice under s. 167, it was held that the defendant's interest could not be deemed to be an encumbrance unless it was shewn by the purchaser that the Zemindar was in possession of those lands at the time when the putni was granted: Kedarñath v. Bipradas, 23 C.W.N. 182 ; s. c., 47 I.C. 765.

* See also the case of Narmada Sundari v. Tarip Molla, 9 C.L.J. 490, s.c., 13 C.W.N. 720 which was distinguished.

A purchaser at a revenue sale cannot annul a lakheraj tenure existing from before the Permanent Settlement as it is not an incumbrance: Tarakishore v. Nabin Chandra, 21 C.L.J. 637. Merely because the lands are situated within the geographical limits of the estate purchased under the Revenue Sale Law (Act XI of 1859) it cannot be said that they were mal lands and formed part of the Zemindari at the time of the Permanent Settlement; the auction purchaser must prove that the revenue was assessed on the basis of the assets of those lands: Abdul Rahaman v. Baikunthanath, 27 C.L.J. 133.

In a suit for khas possession free of incumbrance of lands on the ground that they were included within a taluk purchased by the plaintiff at a revenue sale it was found that the defendants held certain rent-free tenures within the estate and that these tenures existed from before the Permanent Settlement, held that the onus was on the plaintiff to prove that the lands in suit were included within the mal lands of the estate: Halodhur v. Ramendra, 16 C.W.N. 980.

A person seeking to annul tenancy as an incumbrance shall make out a case that the tenancy is, in fact, an incumbrance within the meaning of s. 161: it is not for the defendant to prove that his tenancy existed before the creation of the tenure purchased by the plaintiff: Narmada Sundari v. Tarif Mollah, 13 C.W.N. 720, s. c., 9 C.L.J. 490.

When a portion of a taluk existing from before the Permanent Settlement is transferred and that portion is subsequently held in proportionate jama under a name different from the original taluk, but the subsequent transfer and descent thereof can be traced from the original taluk, the portion so transferred is also protected under sec. 37, Act XI of 1859: Doyamayee v. Narendra Kishore, 19 C.W.N. 79, following the case of Mahendra Kishore v. Durga Charan, 15 C.W.N. 515.

Where a plaintiff set up an osut-taluk as a protected interest within the meaning of s. 160 and the defendant set up that it was an incumbrance which he was entitled to avoid, held that the onus was upon the plaintiff to make out his case: Jogesh Chunder v. Rohini Kumar, 21 C.L.J. 65.

12. Miscellaneous cases:—Where certain lands were included within a mehal in the course of a thak survey determined by the survey authorities in a proceeding acquiesced in by all the parties, held that the same should not be disturbed unless upon the clearest proof that the same was erroneous: Surja Kant v. Sarat Chandra, 18 C.W.N. 1281 (P.C.).

A purchaser in execution of a rent-decree has the power to annul a mortgage incumbrance which has been transformed into a mortgage debt: Basanta Kumar v. Khulna Loan Company, 20 C.L.J. 1. See also Jognarain v. Badri Das, 16 C.L.J. 156.

Where a purchaser of a tenure at a sale held under the provisions of Act VIII of 1865 (B.C.) sued the person in possession for rent, and obtained an ex-parte decree, and then brought a suit for enhancement of rent to which the defendant pleaded that he was entitled to hold the land under a mokurari patta upon which the plaintiff withdrew his suit and brought a suit for ejectment, held that the plaintiff was not estopped from bringing the suit by reason of his having brought a rent suit against the defendant: under s. 167 of the Act, he is allowed to avoid encumbrances and if the defendant would not accept the position of tenant offered him and pay a reasonable rent, the plaintiff is entitled to eject him: Arsali v. Ram Satya, 7 C.L.J. 191.

162. When a decree has been passed for an arrear of rent due for a tenure or holding, and the decree-holder applies under section 235 of the Code of Civil Procedure for the attachment and sale of the tenure or holding in execution of the decree, he shall produce a statement showing the pargana, estate and village in which the land comprised in the tenure or holding is situate, the yearly rent payable for the same and the total amount recoverable under the decree.

s. 174.

1. Decree :—The word “decree” in s. 174 no doubt primarily refers to the decree as mentioned in s. 162, namely, the decree of which execution is sought for, but if in the meantime, that is to say, before the sale is actually held, the decree of the first Court is modified in appeal in favour of the judgment-debtor then necessarily “the decree” must be the decree of the Appellate Court: Bhikhi Singh v. Bhanu Mahton, 3 C.W.N. 231.

Zuripeshgi
claim.

A advanced some money to B upon a zuripeshgi lease of certain property and sub-let the same property to B; in execution of a decree for rent A sold not only the thica right held by B but also the zuripeshgi claim which B had against him, held having regard to the provisions of ss. 162 and 163 that nothing but the tenure in default could have been sold, and that therefore the sale of the claim which the defendant had against the plaintiff was altogether void: Luchmiput v. Mandil Koer, 3 C.W.N. 333.

High Court Rules.

2. High Court Rules: General Rules and Circular Orders of the High Court (1891) P. 31, Chap. I, Rule 26 (c) :—Every person applying under sec. 162 of the Bengal Tenancy Act (VIII of 1885) for simultaneous attachment and sale of a tenure or a holding of a raiyat's holding at fixed rates, or applying only for the sale of such tenure or holding already under attachment, shall, in such application, specify the registered and notified incumbrances subject to which the tenure or holding is to be sold. Such specification shall be verified, in the manner prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure, for plaints by the holder of the decree in execution of which the tenure or holding is to be sold, or by some other persons (approved of by the Court) if the Court be satisfied that he is acquainted with the facts mentioned in it. See Appendix—High Court Rules.

Occupancy
holding.

3. Occupancy holding :—When a landlord decree-holder takes proceedings under ss. 162 and 163 there is an assertion by him that the property about to be sold at his instance is at least an occupancy holding: it is not open to the landlord to say to the purchaser that what was sold was not an occupancy holding: Abdul v. Nekbar, 17 C.L.J. 652.

163. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Civil Procedure, when the decree-holder makes the application mentioned in the last foregoing section, the Court shall, if under section 245 of the said Code it admits the application and orders execution of the decree as applied for, issue simultaneously the order of attachment and the proclamation required by section 287 of the said Code.

Order of attachment and proclamation of sale to be issued simultaneously. XIV of 1882.

(2) The proclamation shall, in addition to stating and specifying the particulars mentioned in section 287 of the said Code announce—

(a) in the case of a tenure or a holding of a raiyat holding at fixed rates, that the tenure or holding will first be put up to auction subject to the registered and notified incumbrances, and will be sold subject to those incumbrances if the sum bid is sufficient to liquidate the amount of the decree and costs, and that otherwise it will, if the decree-holder so desires, be sold on a subsequent day, of which due notice will be given with power to annul all incumbrances; and

(b) in the case of an occupancy-holding, that the holding will be sold with power to annul all incumbrances.

(3) The proclamation shall, besides being made in the manner prescribed by section 289 of the said Code, be published by fixing up a copy thereof in a conspicuous place on the land comprised in the tenure or holding ordered to be sold, and shall also be published in such manner as the Local Government may, from time to time, direct in this behalf.

(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 290 of the said Code, the sale shall not, without the consent in writing of the judgment-debtor, take place until after the expiration of at least thirty days, calculated from the date on which the copy of the proclamation has been fixed up on the land comprised in the tenure or holding ordered to be sold.

Local Government
Rules.

1. Rules :—The Local Government has framed the following rule :—

“The 20th February, 1886—Under s. 163 (3), Bengal Tenancy Act, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to direct that the proclamation referred to in that section as required by s. 287 of the Civil Procedure Code, Act XIV of 1882, shall, in addition to the plans prescribed in s. 163 (3) of the Bengal Tenancy Act, and in section 289 of the Code of Civil Procedure, be also published in the Malkachari or rent office of the estate, and at the local Thanna.”
Calcutta Gazette March 3, 1886, Part I, p. 142.

2. Sub-section (3) : shall also be published in such manner etc. :—According to a notification of the Local Government the proclamation is also to be published in the Malkachari or rent office of the estate and at the local thanna. See Appendix.

3. Sale of entire tenure :—Where proceedings are taken under this section the entire tenure and not merely the right, title and interest is sold : Akhoy Kumar v. Bejoy Chand, 29 Cal. 813.

4. Occupancy holding :—Where a portion of a non-transferable holding is mortgaged, the purchaser of the holding in execution of a decree at a sale for arrears of rent takes the property subject to the mortgage, and it may be annulled by a notice under s. 167 : Pran Krishna v. Atul Krishna, 22 C.W.N. 662. See also Mohadeo v. Langat, 2 Pat. L.J. 457.

Even if the heading of the proclamation of sale issued under s. 163 referred to s. 287 of the C. P. C. of 1882 (O. 21 rr. 66 and 70 of the Code of 1908) and not to s. 163 of the Bengal Tenancy Act and even if the proclamation did not state that the holding would be sold with power to annul all encumbrances, yet the purchaser has power to annul encumbrances : Mahabir Prasad v. Beijulal, 2 Pat. L.J. 176, s. c., 39 I.C. 230.

164. () When a tenure or holding at fixed rates has been advertised for sale under the last foregoing section, it shall be put up to auction subject to registered and notified incumbrances; and, if the bidding reaches a sum sufficient to liquidate the amount of the decree and costs, including the costs of sale, the tenure or holding shall be sold subject to such incumbrances.

(2) The purchaser at a sale under this section may, in manner provided by section 167, and not otherwise, annul any incumbrance upon the tenure or holding not being a registered and notified incumbrance.

1. REGISTERED AND NOTIFIED INCUMBRANCES.
2. SALE OF A TENURE AT A PRICE BELOW THE DECRETAL AMOUNT.
See notes under s. 167.

I. Registered and notified incumbrances :—It seems that where part of the arrear for which a tenure or holding is sold accrued due more than three months before the service on the landlord of a copy of the registered instrument creating the incumbrance, such incumbrance will not be protected.

2. Sale of a tenure at a price below the decretal amount : Effect of sale at a price below the decretal amount.
—Where a tenure was sold in execution of a decree for rent which was for Rs. 291 and the tenure was purchased for Rs. 24, and the District Judge held that the purchaser acquired only the rights of a purchaser under the Civil Procedure Code, it was held in second appeal that the District Judge had overlooked the provisions of secs. 159 and 161 and sec. 164 sub-sec. (2) under which the purchaser was authorised to annul an incumbrance other than a registered and notified incumbrance: Mohendra Narain v. Lalit Kumar, 18 C.W.N. 64 (notes portion).

Where the bidding for a tenure put up to auction under s. 164 did not reach the decretal amount, and a sale of the tenure subsequently followed, but without a second proclamation as contemplated by s. 165, the sale must be held to have been an ordinary court sale and the purchaser to have acquired only the right, title and interest of the judgment-debtor: Banbehari v. Khetra Pal, 38 Cal. 923, s. c., 16 C.W.N. 259. This case was dissented from in the case of Salimulla v. Rehenuddi, 43 Cal. 263, s. c., 20 C.W.N. 156, s. c., 21 C.L.J. 659, and it was held that under s. 164, sub-sec. (1) if the bid does not reach a sum sufficient to liquidate the amount of the decree and costs, and the sale is concluded, the purchaser becomes entitled to annul all encumbrances, provided he follows the procedure laid down in s. 167; the decree-holder is not in peril if he decides not to pursue the remedy given to him by s. 165; the procedure in s. 165 is permissive merely.

165. (1) If the bidding for a tenure or a holding at fixed rates put up to auction under the last foregoing section does not reach a sum sufficient to liquidate the amount of the decree and costs as aforesaid, and if the decree-holder thereupon desires that the tenure or holding be sold with power to avoid all incumbrances, the officer holding the sale shall adjourn the sale and make a fresh proclamation under section 289 of the Code of Civil Procedure, announcing that the tenure or holding will be put up to auction and sold with power to avoid all incumbrances upon a future day specified therein, not less than fifteen or more than thirty days from the date of the postponement; and upon that day the tenure or holding shall be put up to auction and sold with power to avoid all incumbrances. Sale of tenure or holding with power to avoid all incumbrances, and effect thereof.

(2) The purchaser at a sale under this section may, in manner provided by section 167, and not otherwise, annul any incumbrance on the tenure or holding.

Sale of a
below decretal
amount.

Notes :—Where a tenure was sold in execution of a decree for rent, but on the first day the bidding did not come up to the decretal amount, and the property was sold notwithstanding, without any fresh proclamation and sale under sec. 165, held, that as the sale could not in the circumstances be under sec. 164, it was not a sale under the Bengal Tenancy Act and did not operate to transfer more than the right, title and interest of the judgment-debtor ; Banbihari v. Khetter Pal, 38 Cal. 923, s. c., 16 C.W.N. 259. The special and stringent provision of the Bengal Tenancy Act relating to sales is part of a public policy intended for the benefit of all parties concerned. If the landlord wants special results to follow from it under the Act, he must proceed strictly in accordance with its provisions.—Ibid.

Where a tenure is notified for sale subject to registered and notified incumbrances, the sale which takes place operates as one under s. 164, sub-sec. (1), even though the amount for which it is sold does not reach a sum sufficient to liquidate the amount of the decree and costs : Salimulla v. Rahenuddi, 43 Cal. 263, s.c., 20 C.W.N. 156, s.c., 21 C.L.J. 659 ; the procedure prescribed in s. 165 is permissive and enacted solely for the benefit of the decree-holder : Ibid.

A sale was held on the first day fixed without the fresh proclamation provided for by the second part of sub-sec. (1) to s. 165, and the tenure was purchased for Rs. 26 only whereas the amount of the decree was Rs. 291 ; the lower appellate court held that the purchaser acquired only the rights of a purchaser under the Civil Procedure Code, held that the lower appellate court had overlooked the provisions of ss. 159, 161 and 164 (2) under which the purchaser was authorised to annul any incumbrance other than a registered or notified incumbrance : Mohendra v. Lalit, 18 C.W.N. 64 (notes portion).

166. (1) When an occupancy-holding has been advertised for sale under section 163, it shall be put up to auction and sold with power to avoid all incumbrances.

(2) The purchaser at a sale under this section may in manner provided by the next following section, and not otherwise, annul any incumbrance on the holding.

under the foregoing sections.

167. (1) A purchaser having power to annul an incumbrance under any of the foregoing sections *or under the Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act, 1913, and desiring to annul the same, may, within one year from the date of the sale or the date on which he first has notice of the incumbrance, whichever is later, present to the Collector an application in writing, requesting him to serve on the incumbrancer a notice declaring that the incumbrance is annulled.

(2) Every such application must be accompanied by such fee for the service of the notice as the Board of Revenue may fix in this behalf.

(3) When an application for service of a notice is made to the Collector in manner prescribed by this section, he shall cause the notice to be served in compliance therewith, and the incumbrance shall be deemed to be annulled from the date on which it is so served.

(4) When a tenure or holding is sold in execution of a decree *or a certificate signed under the Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act, 1913, for arrears due in respect thereof, and there is on the tenure or holding a protected interest of the kind specified in section 160, clause (c), the purchaser may, if he has power under this Chapter or that Act† to avoid all incumbrances, sue to enhance the rent of the land which is the subject of the protected interest. On proof that the land is held at a rent which was not at the time the lease was granted a fair rent, the Court may enhance the rent to such amount as appears to be fair and equitable.

This sub-section shall not apply to land which has been held for a term exceeding twelve years at a fixed rent equal to the rent of good arable land.

Resolution 4212.

The facts relevant to the case are as follows: Mohendra Nath Bhatta-chargee and others purchased a darpatni tenure at a sale in execution of a decree for rent free from all encumbrances in June 1915. In May 1916 they, the patnidars and auction purchaser gave a darpatni lease to the petitioners before the Board in which it was specially provided that the darpatnidars should have the right of avoiding encumbrances. The petitioners applied to the Sub-divisional Officer Howrah for the issue of a notice under section 167 Bengal Tenancy Act and alleged that they made this application within one year from the date on which they had notice of the encumbrance. The Sub-Divisional Officer declined to issue the notice on the ground that section 167 B. T. Act provided for such an application to be by the purchaser and such application could not be made by his transferee. On appeal the Commissioner of the Burdwan Division upheld this view remarking that the terms of section 167 B. T. Act must be interpreted strictly. "Purchaser" includes assignees including lessees.

The learned pleader for the petitioner before the Board contends that on the analogy of High Court rulings relating to the interpretation of the word 'purchaser' in section 37 Act XI of 1859 the word 'purchaser' in section 167 B. T. Act should be held to include the purchaser's heirs and assignees. There appears to be nothing in either Act which would justify the application of a more liberal interpretation to the word 'purchaser' as used in section 37 of the Sale Law than to that word as used in section 167 of the B. T. Act and there is a long series of rulings by the High Court from 1874 onwards by which it has been finally settled that the word 'purchaser' in section 37 is not used in a personal sense but must be held to include heirs and assignees including lessees. The rulings which have been brought to the Board's notice are printed in the following Volumes:—

It seems to the Board impossible to disregard this weight of authority in determining the interpretation to be applied to section 167 B. T. Act where the conditions are very analogous. Moreover the more liberal interpretation seems to the Board to be just and reasonable. If, for example, a purchaser were to die suddenly, it would not be right that his heirs should lose the power of avoiding encumbrances. If the term 'purchaser' is interpreted as applying to his heirs, then it must be interpreted as applying to his assignees; nor is there danger of abuse since the application under section 167 B. T. Act must be made one year of the sale or of the encumbrance coming to his notice.

In these circumstances the Board disagreeing with the learned Commissioner allows the petition and directs that the notice under section 167 B. T. Act be issued.

C. J. Stevenson Moore, Member, Board of Revenue, 19-11-18.

Member in Charge—Ordered that a copy of the above Resolution be forwarded to the Commissioner of the Burdwan Division for information and guidance as also for communication to the petitioners.

2. The records of the case are herewith returned. An acknowledgment of their receipt is requested.

"By order of the Board of Revenue, Bengal."

v. Krishna Prasad, 34 Cal. 298, s. c., 11 C.W.N. 497: s. c., 6 C.L.J. 153. S. 167 does not apply to a sale in execution of a rent-decree of a portion only of a tenure or holding and the auction purchaser cannot proceed to annul incumbrances; Ram Kinkar v. Akhil Chandra, 11 C.W.N. 350.

Purchaser with knowledge of incumbrance may annul it.

(c) Purchaser with the knowledge of an encumbrance: The purchaser of an occupancy holding in execution of a money-decree and with the knowledge that the holding was subject to mortgage re-purchased it in execution of a decree for rent and then wanted to cancel the mortgage, held that he was entitled to annul the mortgage and that he did not commit any fraud in re-purchasing it: Surendra Mohon v. Bansidhar, 12 C.W.N. 114.

S. 37 of Act XI of 1859.

(d) Whether the right is exerciseable by one of several joint purchasers: The right given to auction-purchaser of an entire estate in the permanently-settled districts of Bengal, Behar and Orissa, sold for arrears of revenue under s. 37 of Act XI of 1859 to avoid and annul an under-tenure, is a right that must be exercised by all the purchasers jointly where there are more purchasers than one: Jatra Mohun v. Aukhil Chandra, 24 Cal. 334.

Defaulter purchaser.

(e) Defaulter purchaser not entitled to annul encumbrance: It was held under Act VII B. C. of 1869 that one of several tenure-holders for whose default in the payment of rent the tenure was sold cannot by purchase of the tenure at a sale for arrears of rent avoid an encumbrance: Syed Nawab Ali v. Hemanta Kumari, 8 C.W.N. 117. The purchaser who is found to be the benamidar of the judgment debtors cannot annul an encumbrance under s. 167: Sheikh Mahamed v. Durga Prasad, 24 C.W.N. 342; where the Collector refused to issue notice (on the application of such a purchaser) to annul an encumbrance, and the purchaser brought a suit to have it declared that he had the right to annul an encumbrance and that the Collector was bound to cause notice to be served, the suit was dismissed: Ibid.

Benamidar.

(f) A benamidar, in whose name a sale certificate was made out, is the proper person to give a notice under s. 167: Jogesh Chunder v. Rohini Kumar, 21 C.L.J. 65.

When property not in possession of purchaser.

(g) When property is not in possession of purchaser at the time of service: There is no reason why an incumbrance should not be annulled simply because the property at the time of the service under section 167, was in the possession, not of the purchaser, but of some body else. Peari Lal v. Maheswari, 25 Cal. 551.

5. Having power to annul an incumbrance:—See notes under ss. 159, 160 and 161.

Encumbrance must be the creation of the tenant.

Encumbrance not created by the tenant:—A mortgage created by the operation of s. 171 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is not an encumbrance within the meaning of this Chapter (XIV) and as such not liable to be avoided by the purchaser of a tenure at a sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent: 1 C.W.N. 519. See notes under ss. 161 and 171.

Rent-free grant.

A rent-free grant cannot be considered to be an encumbrance unless the outgoing tenant was in possession of the land at the time when his tenancy was granted: Biprodas v. Kedar Nath, 47 I.C. 765.

After a mortgagee has enforced his lien and obtained his decree, it cannot be held that the decree would remain as an encumbrance on Mortgage the tenure which can be avoided under s. 167; Akshoy Kumar v. decree. Maharajah Bejoy Chand, 29 Cal. 813; s. c. 6 C.W.N. 249 (notes).

But it was held in the case of Banbihari v. Khetra Pal, 38 Cal. Mortgagee 923, s. c., 16 C.W.N. 259 that a mortgagee who purchased a tenure purchaser. in execution of his money decree cannot be ousted by an auction purchaser of the tenure at a sale for arrears of rent without annulling the mortgage. Holmwood and D. Chatterjee J.J., in deciding this case discussed the case reported in 29 Cal. 813.

In the case of a rent sale with express power to the purchaser Mortgagee to avoid all encumbrances, so long as such power remains in the may ask purchaser, the lien of a mortgagee is in jeopardy: in such a case his lien to be transferred to the mortgagee may abandon his lien and ask to have it transferred to be transferred to the surplus sale proceeds: Nimchand v. Asutosh, 9 C.W.N. 117. Where a tenure or holding subject to a mortgage is sold in execution proceeds. of a rent decree ss. 159 and 161 to 167 do not bar a mortgagee to have a charge on the surplus sale proceeds whether the tenure or holding is sold free of encumbrances or not: Gobind v. Sebdut, 33 Cal. 878. The effect of s. 73 of the Transfer of Property Act is that the mortgagee has no charge upon the property sold for rent, such charge being taken to be extinguished and transferred to the surplus sale proceeds: Hem Chandra v. Tafazzal, 8 C.W.N. 832. See notes under ss. 160 and 161.

6. Mortgage :—After the mortgagee had obtained a decree for Mortgage sale on his mortgage, the landlord of the jote which was the subject decree. of the mortgage brought a suit for rent and sold the jote in execution; later on it was sold in execution of the mortgage decree, held that the purchaser at the execution sale was entitled to annul the interest of the purchaser at the mortgage sale: Gopinath Mohapatra v. Kashinath, 13 C.W.N. 412, s. c., 9 C.L.J. 234. Followed in Bibi Taibate-numssa v. Pravabati, 10 C.L.J. 640.

A mortgage of a part of a non-transferable occupancy holding Mortgage is an incumbrance within the meaning of s. 161; Pram Kishna v. of a part. Atul Krishna, 22 C.W.N. 662.

The interest of an usufructuary mortgagee or a mortgagee by Interest way of conditional sale of a non-transferable occupancy holding is of usu- binding on the tenant and not upon the landlord or the purchaser of fructuary mortgagee or mort- the holding and as such it is not an encumbrance and no notice is gagee by necessary under s. 167 to annul it: Abdul Gafur v. Golam Rahaman, 39 I.C. 460. sale.

A subsequent purchaser under a mortgage decree cannot oust a prior purchaser under a rent-decree even when there has been no notice under s. 167; the former is merely in the position of a second Subsequent purchaser under a mortgage mortgagee who has a right to redeem: Surat Lal v. Murlidhar, 46 mortgagee I.C. 921 (Patna case). decree.

The interest of a mortgagee of a part of a holding who has purchased the holding in execution of his mortgage decree is an incumbrance and such a mortgagee purchaser cannot be ejected by the purchaser of the holding in execution of a rent-decree until the encumbrance is annulled under s. 167: Indra Narayan v. Nabin Chandra, 47 I.C. 847.

A purchaser under a rent decree is not liable to be ousted by a Mortgage. person who purchases the same property in execution of a mortgage decree even though the mortgage has not been annulled under s. 167: Surat Lal v. Lala Muralidhar, 4 Pat. L.J. 362, see in this connection the following cases: Banbehari v. Khetra Pal, 38 Cal. 923, Sallimulla v. Rahanuddi, 21 C.L.J. 659, Kapil Rai v. Sheobadan, 21 I.C. 120, Gopinath v. Kasinath, 13 C.W.N. 112, Cheoditti v. Quaddress, 1 Pat. L.J. 161, and Maherunnissa v. Sham Sunder, 6 C.W.N. 834.

A purchaser at a sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent is not bound to give a notice under s. 167 to annul the interest of a previous purchaser of the interest of one of the tenants in execution of a mortgage decree: The mortgagee purchaser cannot maintain that his mortgage still remained an encumbrance: Sabjan Mandal v. Haripada Saha, 25 C.W.N. 424; the case of Bhawani Koer v. Mathura Prosad, 40 Cal. 89, was followed. See also Badlu v. Sibram, 7 Pat. 155.

Where between the date of a decree obtained by a mortgagee of an occupancy holding and purchase in execution thereof by the mortgagee, the holding was sold in execution of the landlord's decree for rent, held that the mortgage subsisted at the date of the rent-sale, and not having been annulled under s. 167 within the time allowed by law, the purchaser could not avoid it but was entitled to redeem the mortgagee purchaser; Bidhumukhi Dasi v. Bhaba Sundari Dasi, 24 C.W.N. 961; the purchaser at a rent sale who does not annul a subsisting mortgage does not acquire priority over the purchaser at a subsequent sale in execution of the decree obtained on the mortgage by reason of the rent being a first charge upon the holding under s. 65 of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Ibid; the case of Gopinath v. Kashinath, 13 C.W.N. 412 was not followed.

Mortgage
by an occupancy
riyat.

Where an occupancy holding was sold at a sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent and the landlord was the purchaser, held that a mortgage of the holding by the tenant must be annulled by a notice under s. 167, otherwise it is binding on the landlord: Sital Chandra v. Parbati Charan, 35 C.L.J. 1.

It is submitted that an occupancy holding being non-transferable a landlord is not bound to recognise the transfer and he is not bound by it according to the general law of the country, and therefore it is not necessary for the landlord to annul it, and no notice under s. 167 is necessary.

Sale in execution of mortgage
decree.

An interest by virtue of a purchase at a sale in execution of a mortgage decree held prior to the purchase of the landlord at a sale in execution of a rent-decree need not be annulled in as much as rent was a first charge and the purchase by the mortgagee was subject to the charge: Sabjan Mondal v. Haripada, 66 I.C. 103. (N. R. Chatterjea and Newbould J.J.).

Suit upon mortgage against the tenant impleading the landlord.

The mortgagee of an occupancy holding in a suit on his mortgage impleaded the landlord of the holding who had purchased the same in execution of a rent decree. The landlord alleged that the incumbrance has been annulled owing to a notice under s. 167, held that a mortgage suit or any other suit by the encumbrancer cannot deprive the auction purchaser of his right to encumbrance provided his application is within time; held further that once the Collector had issued the notice, the incumbrance must have been deemed to have been annulled. It does not mean that the validity of the notice and the consequent annulment of the encumbrance cannot afterwards be called in question. The effect of the section is only to lay the burden of proof upon the person questioning the validity of the notice. Therefore, the mortgagee must prove that landlord had notice of the encumbrance than 12 months prior to the landlord's application: Nandkisore v. Rameshwar Singh, A.L.R. 1924 Cal. 515. (Dawson Miller C. J. and Mullick J.).

7. Within one year from the date of sale &c. :—(a) Limitation: Where a wrong name was mentioned as the encumbrancer in an application to annul the encumbrance, which was made within one year from the date of sale, and subsequently after the period of limitation the applicant was allowed to make the amendment, held that the Collector who was merely a ministerial officer in the matter had no power to do so, and that the application to serve a notice on the real encumbrancer was barred by limitation, as it was not made within one year from the date of sale: Nritya Gopal v. Golam Rasool, 28 Cal. 180. Application for amendment of application.

The limitation is not to be calculated up to the date of the actual service of notice but up to the date when the application for the issue of notices was made to the Collectorate: Delaney v. Khalil, 9 C.W.N. 123 (notes). Limitation how calculated.

All that the section requires is that the application is to be made within "one year from the date of the sale or the date on which he first has notice of the encumbrance, whichever is later." So where an application is made within time but the service is not properly made, it seems that the applicant may even after the period of one year as prescribed above may put in process-fees for fresh service. Where service is not made.

Ss. 184 and 185 of the Bengal Tenancy Act have not the effect of extending the provisions of s. 7 of the Limitation Act to an application under s. 167: Akshoy Kumar v. Maharaja Bejoy Chand, 29 Cal. 813, s.c., 6 C.W.N. 149 (notes). S. 7 of the Limitation Act.

In a suit for possession after annulment of an under-tenure under s. 167 absence of due service of notice on a person who in the suit disclaimed all interest therein cannot prejudice the plaintiff; but if the application for issue of the notice against some of the persons jointly interested in the encumbrance was not made within time, the whole suit must fail: Delaney v. Rohomot Ali, 32 Cal. 710. Where service is not properly made.

8. Date of Sale :—The words "date of sale" in s. 167 mean the date on which the sale is confirmed: Banko Behary v. Krishna Chandra, 18 C.W.N. 349, s. c. 18 C.L.J. 170. But it has been held by Brett and Sharfuddin J.J., that the words "date of sale" mean the date on which the sale actually takes place and not the date of the confirmation of sale: Yusuf Gazi v. Asmat Molla, 17 C.W.N. 440, s. c., 16 C.L.J. 131 (Yusuf Gazi v. Payarannassa Bewa). This case was not followed in the case of Nandalal v. Umes Chandra, 45 Cal. 151, s. c., 22 C.W.N. 86, s. c., 26 C.L.J. 328 and it was held by their Lordships Fletcher and Newbould J.J. that the words "date of sale" in s. 167, specially where the sale took place under the Civil Procedure Code of 1882 and where the purchaser could acquire no interest until the sale-certificate was issued means the date of the confirmation of sale and not the date on which the sale actually took place; the case of Matangini v. Sreenath, 7 C.W.N. 552 was followed and the case of Banko Behari v. Krishna Chandra, 18 C.L.J. 173 was referred to. See notes under s. 169. Conflicting rulings.

9. Notice :—Notice of incumbrance: Where the purchaser of an occupancy holding at a rent sale had intimation that persons other Knowledge or intima-

incum-
brance.

than the judgment debtor were cultivating the land, held that he had "notice of the incumbrances that these persons had on the land": Yusuf Gazi v. Asmat Mollah, 17 C.W.N. 440, s. c., 16 C.L.J. 113. If the purchaser has had knowledge or intimation of an incumbrance, that would be sufficient notice of it within the meaning of s. 167: Ibid.

"First has notice."

First has notice: Suit to recover possession:—Where in a suit for possession by a purchaser at a sale for arrears of rent, defendant said that he was the holder of an incumbrance which had not been annulled and plaintiff became aware of the encumbrance for the first time by the statement made in the written statement, held that the plaintiff not being aware of the encumbrance until it was pleaded in the written statement, had a good cause of action and was entitled to recover the property from the defendant subject to the condition that the encumbrance would stand good if not annulled: Gopi Nath v. Radhe Shyam, 5 C.W.N. 80 (notes); the plaintiff's right of action having been good and valid when the suit was brought it could not be taken away by what was brought to his notice for the first time in the written statement: Ibid.

The purchaser who seeks extension of one year's time for presenting the application to the Collector is to show that the date when he had first notice of the incumbrance was later than the date of the sale: Makhanlal v. Bejoygopal, 32 C.W.N. 92 (notes), (B. B. Ghose and Cammiade, J.J., 15th February, 1928). The case of Nandakisore v. Rameswar Singh, 78 I.C. 476 referred to.

Effect of service.

Effect of service of notice:—The service of a notice under s. 167 has the effect of annulling an incumbrance without it being necessary for the purchaser to bring a declaratory suit to have it declared that the incumbrance is annulled: Peari Lal v. Moheswari, 25 Cal. 551, s. c., 2 C.W.N. 138 (notes). This is quite clear from the second clause of s. 164 read with s. 167: Ibid. But the service of notice under s. 167 annulling a mortgage is no bar to the mortgagee making an application to set aside a sale of the tenure: Brij Kumar v. Dhanuk Dhari, 10 C.W.N. 976.

of notice.

Contents of notice:—A notice to annul an incumbrance is not bad though it does not specify the particulars of the land held by the tenant or the rent payable by him: Jagabandhu v. Rasho Monjan, 5 C.W.N. 272. It is not necessary to specify the area of the land in the notice: Ibid.

Joint notice.

Joint notice:—A joint notice to several tenants is not bad if it is served in accordance with the prescribed rules: Ibid.

Mode of service.

Mode of service of notice:—Where a notice of annulment was served in the way as provided for the service of summons in the Civil Procedure Code, held that the service was in accordance with the Government Rules: Annada v. Nafar Chandra, 18 C.W.N. 259 (P. C.).

It is obligatory on the purchaser to show that the notice under s. 167 has been served in the manner prescribed: the entries in the order sheet are not prima facie evidence against the incumbrancer that the notice was served: Radhay Koer v. Ajodiya Das, 7 C.L.J. 262; this case was followed in Chatterdhari v. Berenchee, 15 C.W.N. 88 (notes).

It is necessary that the service of notice should be in accordance with the statutory procedure laid down in the section : Badaruddin v. Herajiulla, 54 I.C. 797. There must be strict compliance with the procedure for service of notice ; the entry in an order sheet is not sufficient : Profulla Nath v. Shital Khan, 22 C.W.N. 788, s. c., 47 I.C. 97 ; see in this connection the case of Radhay Koer v. Ajodhya, 7 C.L.J. 262.

A notice annulling an incumbrance under s. 167 must, whenever practicable, be served personally ; other methods of service can only be adopted where personal service cannot reasonably be effected : Ramgobinda v. Rajani Kant, 53 I.C. 570. A finding of the lower appellate Court that a notice under s. 167 was properly served is not a finding of fact and can be questioned in second appeal : Ibid.

The mere production of the ordersheet of the Collector is not sufficient to prove due service of notice : Krishna Kamini Dassi v. Pratapendra Chandra, 85 I.C. 790.

Suit for ejectment without giving notice :—Where the purchaser at a rent-sale suing in ejectment, became aware of the existence of an encumbrance in favour of the defendant only when the latter set it up in his written statement, the Court passed a decree for possession in plaintiff's favour subject to the reservation that the incumbrance would stand good if not annulled within one year of the plaintiff's knowledge thereof : Gopinath v. Radhashyam, 24 C.W.N. 657. This case was followed in the case of Easin v. Intijennessa, 24 C.W.N. 659, and it was held that a suit ought not to fail when the plaintiff purchaser became aware of the encumbrance after the defendant put in the written statement and then gave a notice under s. 167.

S. 85 of the Bengal Tenancy Act does not prevent a raiyat at fixed rate to grant a permanent sub-lease ; therefore a landlord who purchased a fixed raiyati holding is required to annul an under-raiyati lease created by a raiyat at fixed rent : Prasanna Dasya v. Amar Chand, 57 I.C. 580 ; this judgment was affirmed in Letters Patent Appeal, in 25 C.W.N. 9 ; see also Parushulla v. Sital Chandra, 19 C.W.N. 1110 ; there are contrary observations in Hari Mohon v. Atul, 19 C.W.N. 1127.

Where notice is necessary and where not :—An under-raiyati lease if created by an instrument which is not registered is invalid under s. 85, and a landlord purchasing the holding of the raiyat in execution of a decree for arrears of rent is entitled to take khas possession by ejecting such under-raiyat without annulling the same by a notice under s. 161 : Peary Mohun v. Badal Chander, 28 Cal. 205, s. c., 5 C.W.N. 310. But if a third party purchases the right of occupancy at a sale for arrears of rent, it is necessary for him to follow the procedure prescribed by s. 167 : Ibid.

Where a permanent lease was given to an under-raiyat by a registered instrument and the landlord purchased the holding of the raiyat in execution of a decree for arrears of rent and sued to eject the under raiyat, held that the under raiyati lease was invalid under the provisions of sub-sec. 2 of sec. 85 of the Bengal Tenancy Act and that the landlord was entitled to take khas possession by ejecting such under raiyat without annulling the same under sec. 167 and without giving a notice in the terms of sec. 49 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. Gangadhar Mondal v. Rajendra Nath Ghose, 17 C.W.N. page 860. This case was followed in the case of Joyal v. Kazem, 22 C.W.N. 68 (notes).

A person purchasing an occupancy holding at a sale held in execution of a decree for arrears of rent can eject without annulling the incumbrance under s. 167, and without serving a notice to quit under s. 49, if the under-raiyati interest was created without a registered lease and without the consent of the landlord: Bhuban Mohan v. Sheikh Badan, 46 Cal. 766, s. c., 30 C.L.J. 210; the cases of Peary Mohan v. Badal, 28 Cal. 205 and Gangadhar v. Rajendra, 17 C.W.N. 860 were followed and the case of Amurullah v. Nazir, 31 Cal. 932, and Lal Mohamed v. Jagir, 13 C.W.N. 913 were distinguished. See notes under s. 85.

Where purchaser and encumbrancer is one and the same person.

The purchaser contemplated by s. 167 is a purchaser independently of the encumbrancer, and where the encumbrancer himself purchases the property encumbered to him, in execution of a decree for arrears of rent, it is not necessary for him, to give notice of annulment of his encumbrance under s. 167: Mastulla Mondal v. Gyan Mahmud, 28 Cal. 12, s. c., 4 C.W.N. 736; this decision was followed in the case of Hem Chandra v. Tofazzal, 8 C.W.N. 332. But it was held in Goluk Chandra v. Ram Sunker, 4 C.W.N. 264, that in such a case, i.e., where the purchaser and encumbrancer is one and the same person the encumbrance must be annulled in the way as required by s. 167. The observation made in this case was considered to be an obiter by the learned Judges who decided the case of Hem Chandra v. Tofazzal, 8 C.W.N. 332. Under s. 101 of the Transfer of Property Act, which is of general application, his encumbrance is extinguished unless he evinces an intention to keep it alive: Mastulla Mandal v. Gyan Muhmud, 28 Cal. 12.

But their Lordships Ameer Ali and Brett, J.J., who decided the case of Mastulla v. Gyan Mohmud, 4 C.W.N. 736 dissented from the decision in the case of Goluk Chunder v. Ram Sanker, 4 C.W.N. 268, and observed as follows:—"The learned pleader for the appellant in support of the construction of s. 167 contended for by him relied upon the case of Goluk Chunder v. Ram Sunker, 4 C.W.N. 268. In that case no one appeared in this Court for the respondent, and the question which has been raised here under s. 101 of the Transfer of Property Act, and the other matters to which we have referred in some detail, were not in issue; and we do not think that we are bound by it."

Mortgage.

After a mortgage decree was passed the mortgaged property was sold in execution of a decree for rent and was purchased by the mortgagee decree-holder. The mortgage decree provided that the mortgaged property should be sold in the first instance, and if that should prove insufficient other properties would be sold; the mortgagee, however, applied to sell the other properties without proceeding against the mortgaged property which he had purchased. The lower appellate Court held that there was not sufficient evidence to shew that the mortgaged property which had been sold in execution of the decree for rent had been sold with power to avoid all encumbrances, and even if the sale was so held the encumbrance had not been cancelled by the necessary notices under sec. 167 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, in spite of the fact that the encumbrancer and the purchaser were one and the same person, held, that even if the sale was under sec. 165 of the Bengal Tenancy Act the encumbrance had not been annulled by proceedings under sec. 167 and the appeal ought to be dismissed: Goluk Chandra v. Ram

Contra.

Sunker, 4 C.W.N. 264. But this case was dissented from in the case of Mostulla v. Gyan Mahmud, 4 C.W.N. 735, where it was held that the purchaser contemplated by sec. 167 is a purchaser independently of the encumbrancer, and where the encumbrancer himself purchases the property encumbered to him in execution of a decree for arrears of rent, it is not necessary for him to give notice for annulment of his encumbrance under s. 167 of the Bengal Tenancy Act.

See notes under this section under heading No. 6, "Mortgage."

It was further held in the case that under sec. 101 of the Transfer of Property Act which is of general application, his encumbrance is extinguished unless he evinces an intention to keep it alive. S. 101 of the Transfer of Property Act.

A title acquired by adverse possession has been held in a long series of cases to be an incumbrance; see notes under s. 161; and it has been held that such an incumbrance cannot be annulled except by a notice under s. 167: Kalikanund v. Bipradas, 17 C.W.N. 340; Bhusan Chandra v. Srikantha, 23 C.L.J. 485. All the cases on the point will be found in the notes under s. 161, heading No. 3, "Adverse possession." Adverse possession.

Where an adverse possession commenced before the creation of a tenure, held in a suit by a purchaser at a sale of the tenure in execution of a decree for arrears of rent that Art. 121 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act (XV of 1877) applied: Bipradas v. Kamini Kumar, 49 Cal. 27, s. c., 26 C.W.N. 463, (P. C.).

See notes under s. 161.

An under-raiyat's interest cannot be sold for arrears under Chap. XIV; a purchaser of an under-raiyat's interest has therefore no right to annul an encumbrance: Munsab Ali v. Arsadulla, 16 C.W.N. 831. Sale of under-raiyati interest.

If the notice is not served on the whole body of encumbrancers it is bad: Khyanta Kali v. Kedar Nath, 14 C.W.N. 38 (notes), see also Dellaney v. Rahumat Ali, 32 Cal. 710. Notice upon all the incumbrancers.

Until the notice has been properly served under s. 167 upon the incumbrancer, the incumbrance subsists; it is obligatory on the purchaser to show that the notice has been served in the manner prescribed; the entries in the order sheet are not prima facie evidence against the incumbrancer that the notice was served: Radhay Koen v. Ajodhya Das, 7 C.L.J. 262. The purchaser who relies upon the service of notice must prove it either by the production of the person who served the notice or by any other means recognised by law; and if a question arises as to the validity of the notice, it must be shown that it was a valid notice and was signed by a competent officer as required by cl. (1) of s. 167: Ibid. See also Akhoy Kumar v. Bejoy Chand Mahatab, 29 Cal. 813. Proper service of notice.

Where an entire estate was sold for arrears of revenue and the auction purchaser served a notice of annulment on a tenure-holder but the putnidar's interest was not annulled by the auction purchaser, held that the putnidar's interest not having been annulled he was entitled to recover rent from the tenure-holder under him: Mohim Chandra Saha v. Surja Kumar Lahiri, unreported second appeal No. 1190 of 1911* (Sharfuddin J.) 28th July, 1913 (confirmed on Notice of annulment upon subordinate interest without annulling higher interest.

* The case of Mofizuddin v. Ashutosh, 14 C.W.N. 352 followed.

Letters Patent appeal No. 102 of 1913, Jenkins C.J., and N. Chatterjea J.; 24th March, 1914.

S. 159.

Where a durputnidar was allowed to have full rights to grant leases or create incumbrances subject only to the restriction that if the durputni was sold for arrears of rent, the subordinate titles created by the durputnidar should at the same time come to an end, held that this agreement did not contravene the provisions of s. 159 of the Bengal Tenancy Act or sec. 10 of the Transfer of Property Act: Madhusudan v. Midnapur Zemindary Co., 45 Cal. 940.

Order of remand by High Court P. C. appeal.

An order of the High Court holding that the notice had been properly served and remanding the case to be tried out on the other issues, is a final decree and an appeal from the decree to the Privy Council would lie: Ananda Gopal v. Nafar Chandra, 35 Cal. 918.

Annulment of higher interest necessarily annuls subordinate interest.

When a durputni interest is annulled a seputni interest necessarily ceases to exist: Makham Das v. Ram Chandra, 17 C.W.N. 1064. The purchaser of a tenure at a rent sale cannot annul a subordinate interest leaving untouched a superior interest immediately subordinate to the interest purchased by him: Mofizuddin v. Ashutosh, 14 C.W.N. 352.

When the purchaser of a putni tenure at a sale for arrears of rent annulled a durputni tenure, held that the right acquired by a third person against the durputnidar by adverse possession necessarily falls through and no separate notice is required to annul the same: Monmotha v. Anath Bandhu, 25 C.W.N. 106.

Conditional decree subject to giving of notice for annulment.

Where after the institution by an auction purchaser at a sale for arrears of rent, the plaintiff became aware that the defendant had an incumbrance which had not been annulled, the Court passed a decree for possession subject to the reservation that the incumbrance would stand good if not annulled within one year from the date of plaintiff's knowledge: Gopinath v. Radhashyam, 24 C.W.N. 657. This case was followed by Beachcroft J., in the case of Easin v. Iutijennessa, 24 C.W.N. 659, and it was held that a suit should not fail where the plaintiff auction purchaser became aware of the incumbrance when the defendant put in his written statement.

Plaintiff's amin's knowledge, if amounts to plaintiff's knowledge.

Where a notice of annulment was served more than a year after the date of sale but within one year from the date of knowledge of the plaintiffs amin, held that this was not sufficient to show that it was one year within the plaintiff's knowledge and consequently the notice was bad: Jotindra Mohun v. Bijoy Chand, A.I.R. 1924, Cal. 396.

Collector.

10. Collector:—"Collector" is defined by cl. (16) of s. 3 of the Act as "the Collector of a district or any other officer appointed by the Local Government to discharge any of the functions of a Collector under this Act." The practice of the Local Government is to appoint officers to perform the functions of a Collector under certain specified sections of the Bengal Tenancy Act. It being the practice of the Local Government to appoint officers to discharge duties under particular sections he is not thereby empowered to discharge duties under any other sections of the Act. The very fact that an officer is only appointed to perform particular duties under particular sections, by implication involves the position that he is not empowered to perform other duties than those under which he is appointed to perform duties. A Sub-divisional Officer who is invested with the powers of a Collector for the purpose of discharging the functions referred to in ss. 12, 13, 15 and 69 to 71 but not specially appointed by the Local Government to discharge the functions of Collector under s. 167 of the Act has no power to receive an application, nor has he jurisdiction to issue notice annulling an incumbrance, under that section: Mohabat Singh v. Umahl Fatima, 28 Cal. 66. An application made to a Deputy Collector in charge for annulment of an incumbrance and issued by the Deputy Collector is bad and an incumbrance cannot be annulled by such a notice: Ramdhan v. Surjya Narayan, 9 C.W.N. 67 (notes).*

Where an application to annul an encumbrance mentioned the name of a wrong person as encumbrancer, and the Collector allowed the application to be amended, held that the Collector was merely a ministerial officer and had no jurisdiction to allow any such amendment to be made: Nritya Gopal v. Golam Rasool, 28 Cal. 180.

Where an application for service of a notice under this section was made to the Collector and the application and notice were sealed with the Collector's seal and though it was received by a Deputy Collector "for the Collector" and was received by the Deputy Collector in charge, and the notice was thereafter issued from the Collector, held that there was no irregularity, in the service of the notice: Mahomed Kaem v. Noffar Chandra, 31 Cal. 911, s. c., 9 C.W.N. 803.

But where the application for the issue of notice was not made to the Collector and the notice was served by the order of the Deputy Collector, held that the notice was legally insufficient not only because it was issued by the Deputy Collector but also because the application for the issue of the notice was made to the Collector: Ramdhan v. Surjya Narayan, 9 C.W.N. 67 (notes); s. c., 2 C.L.J. 99. See in this connection Gadadhar v. Basunta Kumar, 8 C.W.N. 669; Akhoy Kumar v. Bejoy Chand, 29 Cal. 813 at p. 820.

There mere circumstance that a notice under s. 167 is signed by a Deputy Collector does not invalidate such notice, if he acted on behalf of the Collector: Girish Chandra v. Khagendra Nath, 16 C. W.N. 64, s. c., 13 C.L.J. 613.

If the application for annulling an incumbrance is made before the Collector, the fact that the petition so presented is made over to a Deputy Collector who issues the necessary notice, does not invalidate the proceedings provided the latter officer acts on behalf of the Collector: Ram Protap v. Jhoomak Jha, 1 Pat. L. W. 440, s. c., 39 I.C. 943.

It is a question of some importance as to whether the application for annulment of the incumbrance is to be presented before.

- (a) The Collector of the District in whose General Register the estate is included, or
- (b) the Collector of the District in which the rent-suit was brought, or
- (c) the Collector of any District, or
- (d) the Collector of any District in which the land is situate, or
- (e) the Collector of the District where the person or persons upon whom the notice is to be served resides or reside.

Application for annulment of incumbrance. where to be presented.

* A Deputy Collector was not considered to be competent to exercise the functions of the Collector, although the former was put in charge of the Drainage office on a proposal by the Collector and assented to by the Commissioner: Gadadhar v. Basanta, 8 C.W.N. 669.

Mesne
profits.

II. Miscellaneous cases :—Mesne profit where possession is withheld: Where a landlord purchased his tenant's right and the defendant who was a sub-tenant and whose sub-tenancy was annulled notwithstanding which he remained on the land, held in a suit for khas possession that mesne profits should be assessed upon the value of crops: Gopal Chandra v. Bhooban Mohan, 30 Cal. 536.

Where there were several tenure-holders of different grades, each retaining share of the rent paid by the tenant, and a purchaser at a revenue sale exercised his election to avoid the tenures by commencing a suit to eject them and they in good faith set up but failed to establish a tenure created before Permanent Settlement, and it did not appear that they combined or conspired to keep the plaintiff out of possession: held—that the mesne profits should be apportioned amongst the tenure-holders of the different grades so that each tenure-holder would be made liable only for the portion of the rent paid by raiyat which has been retained by him, less the costs of collection or other similar charges: Ram Ratan v. Aswini Kumar, 37 Cal. 559, s.c., 14 C.W.N. 849, s.c., 11 C.L.J. 503.

feasor.

The release of the plaintiff of one of the joint tortfeasors is strong evidence that he has been satisfied for the wrong and this is the foundation of the rule that the absolute release of one joint tortfeasor operates as a release of all: Ibid.

remand.

Order of remand: An order of remand by the High Court by virtue of which it was decided that the service of notice under s. 167 was proved and the finding of the lower Court on this point was reversed and the lower Court was directed to decide the other question, held that the order although in the form of an order of remand was a final decree within the meaning of s. 595, C.P.C.: Ananda v. Naffar, 35 Cal. 618, s.c., 12 C.W.N. 545.

Mortgage.

Right of mortgagee to apply for setting aside sale:—The service of notice under s. 167 annulling a mortgage is no bar to a mortgagee making an application to set aside a sale of the tenure: Brij Kumar v. Dhanukdhari, 10 C.W.N. 976.

12. Onus:—See notes under s. 161 under heading "Burden of proof." ments.

13. Standing crops on ejectment:—There is no law of emblements in this country; on the termination of a tenancy, the right of the landlord to re-enter accruing, he is entitled not only to take possession of the land but also of the standing crops: Akhil Chandra v. Surendra Nath, 11 C.L.J. 87.

Limitation Act, Art
121.

Where an auction purchaser of a putni tenure at a sale for arrears of rent brought a suit for recovery of possession and declaration of title to certain lands comprised in the putni tenure within 12 years of his auction purchase, and it was found that the adverse possession of the defendant commenced before the creation of the putni, held that the suit was barred and that Art. 121 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act (XV of 1877) did not apply: Kalikanund v. Bipradas, 14 C.W.N. 18.

Party.

Where in a suit for possession by an auction purchaser at a sale for arrears of rent one of the incumbrancers who was not originally made a party was so made subsequently, held that it did not prejudice the other incumbrancers and the suit was not bad for non-joinder against them: Annada v. Nafar, 18 C.W.N. 259 (P.C.).

Where a purchaser of a tenure at a sale held under Act viii of 1865 sued the person in possession for rent and obtained an ex-parte decree, and on his bringing a suit for enhancement, the tenant pleaded a permanent right, and the purchaser withdrew the suit and brought a suit for ejectment, held that he was not estopped from bringing the suit by reason of his having brought a rent-suit: under s. 167 of the Act, he is allowed to avoid encumbrances and if the defendant would not accept the position of tenant offered him and pay a reasonable rent, the plaintiff is entitled to eject him: Arsali v. Ram Satya, 7 C.L.J. 191.

Purchaser at a sale under Act VIII (B.C.) of 1865.

If a landlord elects to treat a person as a tenant the mere fact of his having served a notice on him under s. 167 does not bar a suit for rent: Rajkumar v. Alimuddi, 17 C.W.N. 627.

Election, treating a person as a tenant.

168. (1) The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, direct that occupancy-holdings or any specified class of occupancy-holdings in any local area put up for sale in execution of a decree for an arrear of rent due on them shall, before being put up with power to avoid all incumbrances, be put up subject to registered and notified incumbrances, and may by like notification rescind any such direction.

Power to direct that occupancy-holdings, be dealt with under foregoing sections as tenures.

(2) While any such direction remains in force in respect of any local area, all occupancy-holdings, or, as the case may be, occupancy-holdings of the specified class in that local area, shall, for the purposes of sale under the foregoing sections of this Chapter, be treated in all respects as if they were tenures.

Amendments :—In sub-sec. (1) for the words “decrees for rent” the words, “decree for an arrear of rent” were substituted by Act I (B. C.) of 1907 and Act I, E. B. A. of 1908.

Note.—No notification has yet been published by the Local Government.

169. (1) In disposing of the proceeds of a sale under this Chapter, the following rules, instead of those prescribed by section 295 of the Code of Civil Procedure, shall be observed, that is to say—

Rules for disposal of the sale-proceeds.

- (a) there shall first be paid to the decree-holder the costs incurred by him in bringing the tenure or holding to sale;
- (b) there shall, in the next place, be paid to the decree-holder the amount due to him under the decree in execution of which the sale was made;
- (c) if there remains a balance after these sums have been paid, there shall be paid to the decree-holder therefrom any rent which may have fallen due to him in respect of the tenure or holding between the institution of the suit and the date of the confirmation of the sale;

XIV of 1882.

- (d) the balance (if any) remaining after the payment of the rent mentioned in clause (c) shall, upon the expiration of two months from the confirmation of the sale, be paid to the judgment-debtor upon his application :

Provided that, where a tenure or holding has been sold in execution of a decree obtained by one or more co-sharer landlords in a suit framed under section 148A or sub-section (1) of section 158B.

- (i) payment of the amount due under such decree shall, notwithstanding anything contained in clause (b), be made to the decree-holder and to the other co-sharer landlords in proportion to the amount found to be due to each, and,

- (ii) if there remains a balance, payment of any rent which may have fallen due in respect of the tenure or holding between the institution of the suit and the date of the confirmation of the sale shall, notwithstanding anything contained in clause (c), but subject to the determination, in the manner and with the effect mentioned in sub-section (2), of any dispute as to their respective rights to receive such rent, be made to the said decree-holder and the other co-sharer landlords in proportion to their respective shares in the tenure or holding.

(2) If the judgment-debtor disputes the decree-holder's right to receive any sum on account of rent under clause (c), the Court shall determine the dispute, and the determination shall have the force of a decree.

2. RIGHT OF SUIT BY AN UNRECORDED TENANT FOR RECOVERY OF SALE PROCEEDS.
3. SUB-SEC. (1), CL. (C) : DATE OF SALE.
4. INTEREST AND COSTS.
5. CL. (c).

6. TIME WITHIN WHICH APPLICATION IS TO BE MADE UNDER CL. (C).
7. SUB-SEC. (2).
8. PROVISIO.

1. Amendments :—In clause (c) of sub-sec. (1), after the words “the date of” the words “the confirmation of” were inserted by Act I (B.C.) of 1907 and Act I, E.B.A. of 1908.

By the same Act the proviso was added.

Suit by unrecorded tenant for recovery of sale-proceeds maintain-able.

2. Right of suit by an unrecorded tenant for recovery of sale-proceeds :—Where in execution of a decree for rent obtained against a recorded tenant a tenure was sold, and an unregistered tenant (a purchaser of a share of the tenure after the date of the decree) brought a suit for recovery of the surplus sale-proceeds, held that such a suit was maintainable: Matangini Chowdhurani v. Sree Nath Das, 7 C.W.N. 552.

3. Sub-sec. (1), Cl. (C): Date of Sale :—The date of sale means the date of confirmation of sale: Matangini Chowdhurani v. Sree Nath Das, 7 C.W.N. 552. The landlord is therefore entitled to deduct from the sale-proceeds the rent for the period up to the confirmation of sale. Maclean, C.J., in delivering judgment said as follows:—Looking to the section it would, I think, be a narrow construction to say that the date of sale means the actual date of sale, as opposed to the date when it becomes absolute. Having regard to ss. 314 and 316 of the Code of Civil Procedure I think it means the date when the sale becomes absolute; and that the construction may fairly be based upon it without straining the language of the section: otherwise the landlord might be driven to bring a separate suit for the rent of the intermediate period. The case of Matangini v. Sreenath, 7 C.W.N. 552 was followed in the case of Nandalal v. Umes Chandra, 45 Cal. 151, s.c., 26 C.L.J. 328, which was a case in which the question was as to the meaning of the words “date of sale” in s. 167.

Following the case of Bejoy Chand v. Sashi Bhusan, 18 C.W.N. 136 it was held that under s. 169 the landlord is entitled to recover rent up to the date of sale merely and not up to confirmation of sale: Ram Lal v. Bandiram, 26 C.W.N. 511; ‘rent’ in cl. (c) includes interest: Ibid.

4. Interest and costs :—Where a landlord applied under s. 169, cl. (c) for getting the rent and interest due to him between the date of the institution of the suit and the date of the sale from the surplus sale-proceeds and the judgment-debtor raised no objection to it but admitted the justice of the decree-holder’s demand, held that the decree-holder was entitled to get interest on rent; Bejoy Chand v. S. C. Mookerjee, 11 C.W.N. 1106: s.c., 5 C.L.J. 27n. Rent as used in cl. (a) does not exclude interest (Per Ghose, J.); Ibid. There is no provision in the law which enables a Court acting under s. 169 to allow interest; the term rent in this section does not include interest: Monindra v. Asar Mahmud, 12 C.W.N. cxliv. The dictum in Bejoy Chand v. S. C. Mukerjee, in 11 C.W.N. 1106 has been dissented from in this case. The case of Bejoy Chand v. S. C. Mookerjee, 11 C.W.N. 1106 was followed and the case of Monindra v. Asar Mahmud, 12 C.W.N. cxliv was dissented from in the case of Profullanath v. Matabuddin, 26 C.L.J. 322, s.c., 22 C.W.N. 323 where Fletcher and Smither J.J., held that the landlord is entitled to get from the sale-proceeds not only the arrears of rent but also interest. See also Rameshwar Singh v. Sheikh Mohommad, 2 Pat. L.J. 722 ; the costs of an application under s. 169 (c) are not recoverable out of the surplus sale-proceeds : Ibid.

Purchaser not liable for rent accruing before date of sale.

5. Cl. (c).—“This provision of the law evidently shews that the Legislature intended that the charge in respect of any rent falling due between the date of suit and the date of sale in satisfaction of the decree passed therein, shall be transferred from the tenure to its sale-proceeds, and that the tenure shall pass to the purchaser at a sale for arrears of rent-free of all liability created upon it by the default of the previous holder.” (per Macpherson and Banerjee, JJ.); Faez Rahman v. Ramsukh Bajpai, 21 Cal. 169 (at p. 171). A purchaser at a sale for arrears of rent accruing due before the date of his purchase : Ibid. But a tenant is liable to pay rent accruing due after the date of purchase but before the confirmation of sale : Satyendra v. Nailkantha, 21 Cal. 383. A landlord decree-holder is entitled in preference to a mortgagee of the tenure to be paid out of the sale-proceeds the amount of rent due in respect of the tenure between the institution of the suit and the date of the sale : Prabhat Chandra v. Jadupati, 34 Cal. 724, s.c., 6 C.L.J. 26.

S. 65 of Civil Procedure Code of 1908.

In view of the alteration in the law made by s. 65 of the Civil Procedure Code of 1908, the liability of the surplus sale-proceeds under s. 169 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is limited to arrears accrued due up to the date of the sale and cannot be extended to arrears due up to the date of confirmation therefor : Bejoy Chand v. Sasi Bhusan, 18 C.W.N. 136 ; arrears accrued due between these dates cannot be recovered from the judgment-debtor : Ibid.

Decrees for earlier periods.

Decrees for rents for earlier periods can be enforced against the surplus sale-proceeds of a putni tenure when sold in execution of a decree for rent : Satya Sanker v. Monmohon, 22 C.W.N. 131.

Landlord entitled to get from the surplus sale proceeds, even the rent which is barred.

Under cl. (c) to sub-sec. (1) of sec. 169 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, the decree-holder landlord is entitled to have the surplus sale-proceeds paid to him in discharge of arrears of rent due from the date of the institution of the suit to the confirmation of the sale, even though on the date of his application for such payment, a suit to recover those arrears would be time barred : Narendra Lal v. Sarat Chandra, 16 C.W.N. 582, s.c., 21 C.L.J. 535. Art. 2 of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act provides for suits and not for application of this kind : Ibid.

6. Time within which application is to be made :—An application under cl. (c) may be made even after the expiry of two months from the date when the sale is confirmed : Rameswar v. Shaikh Mohomad, 2 Pat.L.J. 722.

7. Subsec. (2).—Under sub-sec. (2) a tenant can dispute the decree-holder's right to receive any sum on account of rent under sub-sec. (1), cl. (c) on the ground of payment or satisfaction in any other way : Narendra Lal v. Sarat Chandra, 19 C.W.N. 582, s.c., 21 C.L.J. 535.

Proviso.

8. Proviso :—Where a sale at the instance of a co-sharer landlord in execution of a rent-decree framed under s. 148A was sought to be set aside by another co-sharer landlord who had obtained a decree for rent although his decree was barred, held that the applicant was interested and was competent to apply for setting aside the sale in view of s. 169, proviso, (B. T. Act) : 23 C.W.N. 619.

Bengal and Bihar.

170. (1) Sections 278 to 283 (both inclusive) and 310A of the Code of Civil Procedure shall not apply to a tenure or holding attached in execution of a decree for arrears due thereon.

(2) When an order for the sale of a tenure or holding in execution of such a decree has been made, the tenure or holding shall not be released from attachment unless, before it is knocked down to the auction-purchaser, the amount of the decree, including the costs decreed, together with the costs incurred in order to the sale, is paid into Court, or the decree-holder makes an application for the release of the tenure or holding on the ground that the decree has been satisfied out of Court.

(3) The judgment-debtor, or any person having in the tenure or holding any interest voidable on the sale, may pay money into Court under this section.

Bengal and Bihar.

There is no sub-section (4) in Bengal and Bihar.

East Bengal.

170. (1) Sections 278 to 283 (both inclusive) of the Code of Civil Procedure shall not apply to a tenure or holding attached in execution of a decree for arrears due thereon.

Tenure or holding to be released from attachment only on payment into Court of amount of decree with costs, or on confession of satisfaction by decree-holder.
XIV of 1882.

East Bengal.

(4) The withdrawal of the amount deposited under section 310A of the Code of Civil Procedure by the decree-holder landlord shall not operate as an admission of the transferability of the tenure or holding sold in execution of the decree.

(2) East Bengal: Sub-section (4) was added in East Bengal by Act I, E. B. A. of 1908.

2. What is a rent decree :—See notes under s. 65, heading no. 6, pp. 379-382; and under s. 143.

It was observed by Mullick J. in the case of Raziuddin v. Bendishri, 36 I.C. 769, that a decree not obtained in respect of the entire arrears of a holding is not a decree for rent within the meaning of s. 170 (3); in this case the decree was obtained for the rent of a portion of a tenancy when there was no splitting up.

3. Civil Procedure Code :—Ss. 278 to 283 of the C. P. C. of 1882, correspond to o. 21, r. 63 of the new Code; s. 310A, C. P. C. of 1882, correspond to o. 21, r. 89 of the new Code.

4. S. 310A. (Act XIV of 1882) : (O. 21 r. 89 of the present Code :—In the Bengal section it will be found that s. 310A C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882) does not apply to Bengal; in the East Bengal section there is no mention of s. 310A C. P. C. S. 310A of Act XIV of 1882 corresponds to o. 21, r. 89 of the new Code and still applies to the districts which were constituted the province of East Bengal.

But to the applicability of s. 310A C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882) (corresponding to o. 21, r. 89) to East Bengal there is a conflict of rulings. But the sounder view seems to be that s. 310A C. P. C. (o. 21, r. 89 of the present Code) still applies to East Bengal.

It was held in a case that even before the passing of the Bengal Tenancy Amendment Act of 1907, s. 310A of the Civil Procedure Code of 1882 did not apply to a tenure or holding attached in execution of a decree for arrears due thereon: Asiruddi v. Mokhada, 35 Cal. 543; Maclean C.J., in delivering the judgment of the court (Maclean C.J. and Coxe J.), observed as follows:—"No doubt, this court has held, although there is some difference of opinion upon the point, that applications under s. 310A may properly be made, where a tenure or holding has been attached in execution of decree for arrears due thereon under the Bengal Tenancy Act. But for the reasons I have pointed out, there was no enactment to that effect under the Bengal Tenancy Act of 1885; nor could there have been any such, because, as I have said, the section was not then in existence."

This case (Asiraddi v. Makhada, 35 Cal. 543) was subsequently considered in the case of Ali Miah v. Ramjan Khan, 13 C.W.N. 224 and dissented from.

Sharfuddin and Coxe J.J. observed as follows in the case of Ali Miah v. Ramjan Khan, 13 C.W.N. 224: "The first question that arises for decision is whether sec. 310A applies to sales of holdings under the Tenancy Act at all. It was held in Janardhan v. Kali

Applicability of s. 310A C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882) corresponding to O. 21 r. 89 of the present Code to East Bengal.
Conflicting rulings.

Asiruddi v. Mokhada, deciding that s. 310A C. P. C. was not applicable to a tenure attached in execution of a decree for rent, dissented from in Ali Miah v. Ramjan Khan;

Observations of

Kristo, 23 Cal. 393 that the section does not apply. Reference may also be made to Benodini v. Peary Mohon, 8 C.W.N. 55, Kunjabehari v. Sambhu Chandra, 8 C.W.N. 232 and Omarali v. Basiruddi, 12 C.W.N. 1xiv. We find also that the Legislative Council of Eastern Bengal and Assam have not thought fit to follow the example of the Bengal Legislature in amending sec. 170, so as specifically to exclude sec. 301A from applying to holdings attached in execution of decrees for rent: and it is clear that the Legislature advisedly intended that sec. 310A should apply to sales under the Act. On the other hand, in Asiruddi v. Mokhodamoyee, 35 Cal. 543, s.c., 12 C.W.N. 434, it was held that the section could not apply, because it was not a part of the Civil Procedure Code when the Tenancy Act was passed in 1885, and could not therefore have been made applicable by the second clause of sec. 143. The argument seems to us incontrovertible. If a section of the Civil Procedure Code had been repealed, subsequent to its application to proceedings under the Tenancy Act, the section would certainly have continued to operate in such proceedings. We may refer to Maxwell's Interpretation of Statutes, page 514 (2nd edition) and the cases there cited. It seems to follow that if a new section is added to the Code after its application to proceedings under the Tenancy Act, that section will not have any application to such proceedings.

In this conflict of authority we should have thought ourselves bound to refer the question to a Full Bench, were it not that the point appears to us to be concluded by the Full Bench decision in Poresh Nath v. Naba Gopal, 29 Cal. 1, s. c., 5 C.W.N. 321. We are bound by that decision and must in accordance with it hold that persons are entitled to apply under sec. 310A of the Civil Procedure Code to set aside sales under the Tenancy Act."

Where the provisions of Act I of 1908 (E. B. A. C.) i.e., the Amending Act of East Bengal applies a permanent under-tenure holder has locus standi to apply under o. 21, r. 89 C. P. C. for getting the sale set aside: Sarat Chandra v. Mati Lal, 23 C.W.N. 597.

See notes under s. 174.

5. Claim:—S. 170 of the Bengal Tenancy Act bars a claim under s. 278, C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882) to a tenure or holding attached in execution of a decree for arrears due thereon in all cases and the operation is not confined merely to claims to the tenure or holding but extends to claims based on the ground that the property claimed does not form part of the tenure or holding attached: Amrita Lal v. Nemai Chand, 28 Cal. 382, s.c., 5 C.W.N. 474 (F.B.).

Upon this question there was a conflict between the decision in the cases of Jagabandhu Chattopadhyaya v. Deenu Pal, 4 C.W.N. 732, and Makbul Ahmed v. Rakhal Das, 4 C.W.N. 734; the first of these two cases was overruled and the latter approved of by the Full Bench decision of Amrita Lal v. Nemai Chand, 28 Cal. 382, s.c., 5 C.W.N. 474 (F.B.).

No claim can be preferred to a tenure attached in execution of a decree for arrears of rent when the plaintiff was the landlord at the date of the suit and also at the date of the decree as such a decree may be executed as a decree for rent: Khetra Pal v. Kritarithamoyee, 33 Cal. 566, s.c., 10 C.W.N. 547 (F.B.), s.c., 3 C.L.J. 470.

A sale in execution of a decree obtained by a co-sharer landlord cution of a decree obtained by a co-sharer landlord.

for his share of the rent does not carry with it the special incidents attaching to a sale under the Bengal Tenancy Act: Sadagar v. Krishna Chandra, 26 Cal. 937; see notes under ss. 65 and 159. It therefore seems that a claim may be preferred to a tenure attached in execution of a decree for arrears of rent obtained by a co-sharer landlord.

Where the other co-sharers are made party—defendants.

But where a decree for the entire rent of a tenure is obtained by one of several co-sharers by making the other party defendants and is executed by him alone and the defaulting tenure is attached, no claim by a third person under sec. 279, C. P. C., to the attached property is maintainable by virtue of sec. 170 of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Chandra Shekhar v. Ranee Manjhee, 3 C.W.N. 386; the decree has in this case the same effect as if the decree has been obtained by all the co-sharers and sec. 188 has no application to a case like the present: Ibid.

S. 170 has no application where only a portion of a tenure is attached in execution of a decree for arrears of the whole tenure: Krishna Chandra v. Dinanath, 54 Cal. 1064 (Panton & Mitter, JJ.). The case of Chandra Sekhar v. Rani Manjhee, 3 C.W.N. 386 referred to.

Decree by a co-sharer landlord.

S. 170 does not apply to a decree obtained by a co-sharer landlord for his share of rent in respect to holdings: Bipra Das v. Rajaram, 36 Cal. 765; see also Hriday Nath v. Krishna Prasad, 34 Cal. 298, s.c., 11 C.W.N. 497; Baikanta v. Thakur Debendra, 11 C.W.N. 676.

Decree for rent of two or more holdings.

S. 170 is no bar to a person preferring a claim under s. 278 C.P. C. (Act XIV of 1882) when in execution of a decree obtained for rent due in respect of two holdings, the holdings are attached, in as much as such a decree is not a decree for rent; Bipradas v. Rajaram, 13 C.W.N. 650; see also Khetranath v. Mahomed Uzir, 13 C.L.J. 525.

Recital in decree not as rent-decree conclusive.

A claimant under o. 21, r. 60 C.P.C. is in no way bound by the recital in the decree under execution; so where a claim is preferred to a property attached in execution of a decree which purported to be a decree for rent, held that the court should investigate as to whether the decree is a decree for rent under the Bengal Tenancy Act: Sarbasundari v. Harendra Lal, 12 C.L.J. 549.

Sub-sec. (1)

Sub-sec. (1) does not debar a landlord from challenging the right of a purchaser who has not been recognised by him to make a deposit under o. 21, r. 89 C. P. C. on the ground that the purchaser acquired no title against him (the landlord); Abdur Rahman v. Promode Behari, 22 C.L.J. 108.

Where a tenure is attached in execution of a decree which is purported to be a rent-decree, and a claim under o. 21, r. 58 C. P. C. is preferred the Court can go into the question as to whether it is a rent-decree and may entertain the claim if it is not so: Jotindra Mohan v. Abalanath, 27 C.W.N. 817.

6. Cl. (2) :—S. 170 (2) is a bar to an application by a decree-holder to set aside a sale on the ground that the decree has been satisfied out of Court, if the application has been made after the tenure has been knocked down to the auction-purchaser: Jogdhari v. Langot Gope, 75 I.C. 676; an order refusing to set aside a sale is not open to second appeal: Ibid.

7. Clause (3).—

(1) "Interest voidable on the sale":—The words "interest voidable on the sale" refer to interests coming within the description of "incumbrances" which, unless steps are taken to avoid them, subsists after the interest of a transferee of the holding from the transferor. Jharu Mondal v. Kshettra Mohan Bera (2 P.L.J. 457). See also Mahadeo Lal v. Langat Singh, 2 P.L.J. 457 (Special Bench).

To determine as to the right of a person who is not a judgment-debtor to make a deposit under s. 170, it is submitted, is this: if such a person has an interest voidable on the sale, he is entitled to make a deposit. According to s. 159 a purchaser takes the tenure or holding free from incumbrances. An incumbrance is defined in s. 161; an incumbrance is to be avoided or annulled under s. 167. Therefore if only the incumbrance-holders whose interests are voidable on the sale who are entitled to make a deposit. So, in determining the right of a person entitled to make a deposit, it is to be seen whether he has any incumbrance within the meaning of s. 161.

(2) Transferee of non-transferable occupancy holding:—A transferee of an occupancy holding either of a part or the whole ceases to have any interest on the sale, and as such it cannot be said that he has an interest voidable on the sale, and therefore he has no right to make a deposit. The transferee of the whole or a part is bound by the decree and the sale.

It is only an incumbrance-holder whose interest may be said to be voidable on the sale, and such encumbrance may be avoided upon a notice under s. 167. It is only such an encumbrance as is defined in s. 161 and which the auction purchaser is required to annul under s. 167, that may be said to be an interest voidable on the sale within the meaning of s. 170 cl. (3).

Moreover, a landlord is not bound to recognise the transfer of a non-transferable holding, and he is therefore entitled to ignore the interest which the transferee might claim against his vendor; and such a transferee is in the position of a stranger to the landlord; and it cannot be said that he has an interest voidable on the sale.

In regard to the question as to whether the transferee of a non-transferable holding can make a deposit under s. 170 (3), there was a conflict of case law both in the Calcutta High Court and the Patna High Court.

The question has now been set at rest by a Special Bench of the Patna High Court and a Full Bench of the Calcutta High Court.

—The Patna High Court in the Special Bench case of Mahadeo Lal v. Langat Singh (2 P.L.J. 457) discussed all the cases and has held that the transferee of a part of a non-transferable holding cannot make a deposit. In this respect a part transferee and the transferee of the entire holding stand upon the same footing; it is now settled law that the transferee of a part or whole is not an incumbrance under s. 161.

The Calcutta High Court in the Full Bench case of Jharu Mandal v. Kshettra Mohan Bera, 54 Cal. 15, s. c., 30 C.W.N. 729, s. c., 43 C.L.J. 554 (N. R. Chatterjea, Cuming, B. B. Ghose, Panton and Page, J.J.), has held that the purchaser of the whole or portion of a non-transferable occupancy holding, who has not been recognised by the landlord, has not an interest in the holding which is voidable on the sale, and is not entitled to make a deposit under sec. 170 (3) of the Bengal Tenancy Act :

Per N. R. Chatterjea J. : The expression "voidable on the sale" refer to interests coming within the scope of "incumbrance," which, unless steps are taken to remove them, subsist after the sale, and the interest of a transferee of the holding itself from the tenant is not such an interest : Ibid.

Per Page, J. :—The expression "voidable on the sale" indicates the subsistence of some interest which may be avoided after the sale. But where an interest is extinguished on a sale nothing remains afterwards which can be avoided ; the purchaser can neither make the holding transferable by affirmance, nor avoid the transfer by disclaimer : Ibid.

The cases of Tarak Das v. Harish Chandra, 163 C.W.N. (Mukerjee and Beachcroft J.J.) and of Ahamadulla v. Prayag Sahu, 20 C.W.N. 39 (D. Chatterjea and Walmsley J.J.) were overruled : Ibid.

The following are some of the principal cases on the point, which were decided before the Full Bench case :

[Cases where it was held that a transferee of a non-transferable occupancy holding cannot make a deposit.]

Jolindra Mohan Tagore v. Durga Dabe, 10 C.W.N. 438, (Henderson and Caspersz J.J.) ; Nalini Behary v. Fulmani Dasi, 16 C.W.N. 421, s.c., 15 C.L.J. 388, Stephen and Cox, J.J.) ; Mahammad Ismail v. Satyesh Chandra Sarkar, 26 C.W.N. 170 (notes) (Woodroffe and Suhrawardy J.J.) ; Radha Benode Mandal v. Nilai Chand Santh, 38 C.L.J. 147, (Panton J.) ; (In this case the transferee was a mortgagee) ; Narendra Nath v. Abdul Molla, 27 C.W.N. 175 (notes), Barada Prasad Roy Chowdhury v. Foijuddi Haldar, 28 C.W.N. 845 (Newbould & B. B. Ghose J.J.) where the cases of Tarak Das v. Haris Chandra, 17 C.W.N. 163 and Ahamadulla v. Prayag Sahu, 20 C.W.N. 39 were not followed. Rameswar v. Raghunandan, 1 P.L.J. 403, s.c., 38 I.C. 337 ; (Chamier C. J. and Sharfuddin J.) ; Bishnudoyal v. Jagadis Narain, 80 I.C. 823 ; Jogendra Nath v. Shib Narain, 48 I.C. 965.

[Cases where it was held that a transferee of a non-transferable occupancy holding can make a deposit.]

Tarak Das v. Chowdhury v. Harish Chandra Banerjee, 17 C.W.N. 163, (Mookjee and Beachcroft J.J.) ; Saleo Singh v. Kuldeep Singh, 8 C.W.N. 219 (notes) fully reported in 27 I.C. 424, (case of partial transfer) ; (D. Chatterjee and Walmsley J.J.) ; Ahamadulla Chowdhury v. Prayag Sahu, 20 C.W.N. 39, s.c., 18 C.W.N. 331 (notes) ; Bhagraj v. Malhu Singh, 27 I.C. 424 ;

(3) Mortgagee:—An alleged mortgagee of a tenancy made a deposit under s. 170 cl. (3); the tenant judgment-debtor objected saying that the mortgage was not genuine; the court allowed the deposit to be made without deciding the question as to the genuineness of the mortgage, in a suit by the mortgagee for recovery of the deposited money, it was found that the mortgage was not genuine, held that he had no right to make the deposit and had no right to recover the money although the tenant had been benefited; Panchkoree v. Haridas, 21 C.W.N. 394, s. c., 25 C.L.J. 325: (Sanderson C.J. and Mookerjee J.). A mortgagee who is allowed to make a deposit is entitled to maintain a suit for declaration that a collusive decree by the landlord against the tenant for enhancement of rent is not binding on him: Carhma Deo v. Sheo Prasad, 2 Pat. L.J. 663, s. c., 41 I.C. 237. An usufructuary mortgagee has the right to make a deposit: Sheikh Azmal v. Bibi Tamzan, 5 Pat. L.J. 83.

Where an usufructuary mortgagee of a non-transferable occupancy holding who was also a part purchaser of that holding, applied to make a deposit, held that he was entitled to make the deposit under s. 170 cl. (3) of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Brojendra Kumar v. Lal Mia, 31 C.W.N. 80 (notes), Mitter, J. [The cases of Prankrishna v. Atul Krishna, 22 C.W.N. 662; Panchkoree v. Haridas, 21 C.W.N. 394, s. c., 35 C.L.J. 1; Sheikh Azmat v. Bibi Tamzan, 5 P.L.J. 83 and 39 I.C. 460 referred to. The case of 38 C.L.J. 147 (Panton, J.) not followed. Mitter, J. observed as follows: The decisions on which Panton, J. (sitting singly) has relied on in 38 C.L.J. 147 for the purpose of taking a contrary view are all cases where the transfer was not by way of mortgage but was by way of sale.

(4) Donee:—The interest of a donee of a holding at fixed rates is not an interest voidable on the sale and the donee has no locus standi to make a deposit under sec. 170 cl. (3): Gopal Lal v. Hit Narain, 3 P.L.J. 145.

(5) Hindu Reversioner:—A Hindu reversioner has no right to make a deposit under s. 170 cl. (3) when a widow's tenure or holding is advertised for sale: Mohendra Nath v. Baidyanath, 26 C.W.N. 167.

(6) Under tenant:—A mukarrari lease-holder under a fixed raiyat may deposit under cl. (3): Harimohon v. Atul Krishna, 19 C.W.N. 1127. The word 'transfer' in s. 18 includes a lease and therefore a fixed raiyat may grant a permanent lease, and the provisions of s. 85 are subject to s. 18; consequently a mokarari lease by a fixed raiyat is a valid interest but voidable on the sale of the raiyati holding and as such a mokarari lease-holder is entitled to make a deposit: Ibid.

A lessee of a raiyat at fixed rate may apply under s. 170 (3): Ibid.

A deposit by a durputnidar to save a putni from being sold in execution of a decree for arrears of rent comes within ss. 69 and 70 of the Contract Act; Rajani Kant v. Haji Lal, 21 C.W.N. 628.

See notes under s. 171.

(7) Under-raiyat:—Where an under-raiyat holding under a lease registered in contravention of s. 85 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, which holding a lease for 9 years can deposit but when holding a lease for a term exceeding 9 years i.e. in contravention of s. 85 is not entitled to deposit as such an interest is not an incumbrance.

purported to be a perpetual lease, (the words being putra poutrade krame, i.e., from generation to generation) applied to deposit the decretal amount under s. 170 cl. (3) of that Act and the Court below allowed the deposit, held that the interest of such an under-raiyat was not one which was "voidable on the sale" and as such he was not entitled to make the deposit: Jnanendra Chandra Ghosh v. Royman Sheikh, 31 C.W.N. 580 (Mukerji & Graham J.J.). An under-raiyati interest is an "incumbrance," but to be so it must be such an under-raiyati interest as the law recognises as valid: Ibid.

The word "sub-tenancy" in s. 161 of the Bengal Tenancy Act means only sub-tenancy which is valid under the law.

(8) Judgment-debtor:—The Full Bench case in Dayamayi v. Ananda, 42 Cal. 172, s. c., 18 C.W.N. 971, s. c., 19 C.L.J. 52 lays down the rule that a purchaser of a non-transferable holding is a representative of the raiyat (judgment-debtor) under s. 244 of Act XIV of 1882 (s. 47 of Act V of 1908) and is competent to have a sale of the holding in execution of decree for arrears of rent set aside on the ground of fraud.

The question which arises under cl. (3) of s. 170 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is as to whether the expression "judgment-debtor" in cl. (3) includes a purchaser from the judgment-debtor and as such he is entitled to make a deposit. This question was not decided by the Full Bench. The expression "judgment-debtor," does not include such a purchaser, for it has been decided in the case of Tarakdas v. Haris Chandra, 17 C.W.N. 163, s. c., 16 C.L.J. 548, that the judgment-debtor mentioned in cl. (3) is a person against whom the decree under execution has been obtained. The same meaning has been attributed to the expression "judgment-debtor" under s. 174; see notes under that section.

It is submitted that a previous purchaser claiming to be a tenant to the knowledge of the landlord for 12 years, or a co-sharer of a judgment-debtor whose name has not been registered is not entitled to make a deposit under sec. 170, cl. (3) as the interest of none of these persons is an incumbrance within the meaning of sec. 161 and as such not voidable on the sale.

8. Ss. 170 and 171 apply to execution proceedings and not to suits:—Sections 170 and 171 of the B. T. Act apply to execution proceedings and not to suits: Sarojendu v. Sannyasi Charan, 12 C.L.J. 551, s.c., 14 C.W.N. 183.

Effect of withdrawal of deposit: Recognition.

9. Effect of withdrawal of deposit:—Where after the landlord obtained a rent-decree against an occupancy raiyat, a person who had not acquired the tenancy at that time, deposited the decretal amount and the landlord's objection to the right of the said person to deposit under s. 170 B. T. Act was disallowed and the landlord then withdrew the amount so deposited, held that the withdrawal of the amount by the landlord deposited by the said person did not confer any right on him in respect of the holding nor did it establish the relationship of landlord and tenant between them: Sukchand Das v. Giridhari Das, 44 C.L.J. 127. Mere acceptance of rent by a landlord by withdrawal of rent deposited by a person who has not been recognised by the landlord as a tenant does not create the relationship of landlord and tenant: Ibid. [The cases of Jugal-mohini v. Srinath Chatterjee, 12 C.L.J. 609, Thomas Barclay v. Syed Hossein, 6 C.L.J. 601; Gadadhar v. Midnapore Zemindari Co., 27 C.L.J. 385 were doubted. Surhawardy J. observed "the ground on which the principle of estoppel was applied in these cases is open to question but as they are not applicable in the present case, we need say no further."] withdrawal of deposit :

Recognition.

Where an application was made by the purchaser of a share of a tenure to deposit the judgment debt under sec. 170 cl. (3), and it was opposed by the decree-holder, and it was decided by the Court that the property in question was a transferable tenure and the applicant was interested in the tenure, and the judgment debt was deposited, which was withdrawn by the decree-holder, held that the effect of the decision was, that between the landlord and the transferee of portion of the tenure, the transferee acquired an interest in the tenure by purchase ; that as the landlord withdrew the sum deposited it was no longer open to him to dispute the title of the depositor to deposit the decretal amount in a subsequent application : Jugal Mohini Dasi v. Srinath Chatterjee, 12 C.L.J. 609 (Mookerjee and Carnduff, J.J.).

Mere acceptance or withdrawal of a deposit cannot operate to oblige the landlord to recognise the depositor as a tenant : Fazoo Mia v. Sultan Ahamad Chaudhury, 55 Cal. 108 (Rankin and Costello, J.J.).

Where a decree-holder disputed the right of the transferee of a portion of a tenure to make a deposit under s. 170 cl. (3) and the court decided against the decree-holder who subsequently withdrew the deposit, held that the effect of the withdrawal of the money by the decree-holder was to recognise the transferee as a tenant : Jugal Mohini v. Srinath, 12 C.L.J. 609.

Where the money deposited by the transferee of an occupancy holding has been withdrawn by the landlord, the transferee is entitled to maintain a suit to challenge a decree by the landlord collusively against the recorded tenant enhancing the rent : Lala Barhamdeo v. Sheo Prasad, 2 Pat. L.J. 561.

Where in execution of a decree for rent by a co-sharer landlord a non-transferable occupancy holding was attached and execution was taken under the Civil Procedure Code (and not under the Bengal Tenancy Act) and a previous purchaser of the holding deposited the decretal amount stating in his application that he is a previous purchaser, held that upon such deposit the landlord could not, as in a case under the Bengal Tenancy Act, contest the right of the purchaser to make the deposit and the withdrawal of the deposit did not amount to a recognition of the purchase by the purchaser : Surendra Narain v. Jugal Kishore, 20 C.W.N. 849.

Where the transferee of a portion of a non-transferable holding made a deposit under s. 170 (3), held that a suit by him for setting aside the decree on the ground of its being a collusive one and for recovery of the money deposited and withdrawn by the landlord is maintainable : Asarfi v. Ram Khelawan, 4 Pat. L.J. 115 ; (F.B.).

Where a landlord decree-holder withdraws under protest money deposited under s. 170 (3) and by a transferee of a non-transferable occupancy holding, he thereby does not recognise the transferee as a tenant : Sheo Prasad v. Barhamdeo, 38 I.C. 366. The case of Matookdhari v. Narain, 19 C.W.N. 1319, s. c., 21 C.L.J. 261 was distinguished ; in this case it was held that acceptance of rent under protest would operate in favour of the payer as a waiver of any forfeiture incurred ; the cases of George Henry Davenport v. Her Majesty the Queen, L.R. 3 App. 115 and Kalikrishna v. Fuzle Ali, 9 Cal. 843 were followed.

Where the purchaser of a portion of a holding deposits the amount due under a rent-decree and the landlord withdraws that amount, it is no longer open to the landlord to say that he did not recognise the purchaser as a co-tenant of the holding: Rajendra Narain v. Mahes Chandra, 83 I.C. 203.

10. Appeal : Revision :—No appeal lies from an order under cl. (3). But to allow a transferee of a non-transferable occupancy holding to make the deposit and thus prevent execution is an irregular exercise of jurisdiction open to revision by the High Court: See Nalin Behari v. Fulmoni, 16 C.W.N. 421, s.c., 15 C.L.J. 388. See also Nissa Bibi v. Radhakisore, 11 C.W.N. 312 ; Prasanna Kumar v. Bamacharan, 13 C.W.N. 652. holding.

171. (1) When any person having, in a tenure or holding advertised for sale under this Chapter, *or in execution of a certificate for arrears of rent due in respect thereof, signed under the Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act, 1913, an interest which would be voidable upon the sale, pays into Court the amount requisite to prevent the sale,—

- (a) the amount so paid by him shall be deemed to be a debt bearing interest at twelve per centum per annum and secured by a mortgage of the tenure or holding to him ;
- (b) his mortgage shall take priority of every other charge on the tenure or holding other than a charge for arrear of rent ; and

2. Mortgage :—A mortgage created by the operation of s. 171, Mortgage is not an incumbrance within the meaning of this Chapter (Chapter created by XIV), and as such, not liable to be avoided by the purchaser of a operation of tenure at a sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent : Pasupati of law is not an encumbrance. Mahapatra v. Narayan Dasi, 24 Cal. 537, s.c. 1 C.W.N. 519.

A mortgagee making payments to save the mortgaged property Payment by from being sold in execution of the rent decree has an additional mortgagee lien on the property for the sums so paid by him : Rakhori v. Bipradas, 31 Cal. 975 ; see also Upendra Nath v. Tara Prasanna, 30 Cal. 794.

In a suit by the first mortgagee of a property against a subsequent S. 69 of mortgagee of the same, held that in taking accounts defendant was Contract Act—Pay- not entitled to get credit of the money paid by him under s. 171 of ment by the Bengal Tenancy Act to save the property, inasmuch as under s. mortgagee. 69 of the Contract Act the first mortgagee was not bound to pay the money : Gangadas v. Jagendranath, 11 C.W.N. 403 ; where a plain- tiff in execution of a mortgage decree purchased the tenure mortgaged, and then paid the money due under a decree obtained by the landlord against the tenure-holder for arrears of rent for the period anterior to the confirmation of the sale, held that the plaintiff was not entitled to recover the money paid by him for satisfying the rent decree : Maharani Dasya v. Harendralal, 1 C.W.N. 458.

Where a mortgagee deposited money and the question as to the genuineness of the mortgage was not gone into, and the mortgagee Deposit by brought a suit for recovery of the money deposited by him, and it mortgagee. was found that the mortgage was not genuine, held that ss. 69 and 70 of the Contract Act did not apply and he was not entitled to recover the money deposited by him although the tenant was benefited : *Panchkori v. under s. 171 does not become a part of the mortgage money so as to entitle the mortgagee to treat it as included in the amount remaining due on his mortgage under s. 83 of the Transfer of Property Act: Manmatha Nath v. Sarat Chandra, 21 C.L.J. 429, the statutory mortgagee under s. 171 is entitled to priority over the charge which he himself holds: Ibid.

3. Decree for rent and other sums:—S. 171 applies to a sale in execution of a decree which is mainly for rent although it includes other sums not strictly rent: Jnanada Sundari v. Atul Chandra, 32 Cal. 972. Where a decree was obtained for rent reserved in a lease and of "various sums, so much for the malikana payable direct to the landlord and so much for Government revenue and other demands which the landlord was himself liable to pay," held that ss. 170 and 171 were applicable to the execution of such a decree: Jnanada v. Atul Chandra, 32 Cal. 972; as to what is a rent decree and what not: see notes under ss. 65, 148A and 159.

Possession.

4. Right of depositor:—Possession may be obtained by application to the executing court and a regular suit is not necessary: Umatul v. Nemai, 6 C.L.J. 592. This case was followed and applied in the case of Radhika Nath v. Rakhalraj, 18 C.W.N. 1175, s.c. 10 C.L.J. 473. When a deposit is made under s. 171 the depositor can, as against the judgment-debtor, obtain delivery of possession of the holding advertised for sale, by application to the execution Court but by such application the depositor is not entitled to invite the executing Court to oust a stranger to the proceeding; if he is met by a stranger, his remedy is by a regular suit for recovery of possession: Ram Varain v. Lal Das, 12 C.W.N. 55: s.c., 6 C.L.J. 595.

Recognition.

Suit for recovery of sum deposited.

An under tenure-holder who has secured a superior tenure from sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent by a deposit under sec. 171 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is competent to maintain an action for the recovery of the sum deposited by enforcing the charge created in his favour by that section, even when the impending sale was likely to be brought about, partially, at any rate, by reason of his own default: Hemanta Kumar v. Rajendrabala, 13 C.L.J. 454. To such a claim for money, the defendant is entitled to interpose an equitable defence, Ibid. If part of the sum deposited by the plaintiff to avert the sale was payable by him to the superior landlord he is not entitled to recover that sum from the defendant. Ibid.

Deduction of amount deposited.

A durputnidar saved a putni tenure from sale by making a deposit alleging deliberately that no rent was due by him, he obtained possession of the putni, held in a suit for rent by the putnidar that the durputnidar could not deduct the amount deposited from the claim of the rent under cl. (3) of s. 13 of the Putni Regulation, as his case fell under cl. (4) of the section: Kamalanand v. Jarao Kumār, 17 C.L.J. 96; it was not open to him to resile from the position he deliberately took up at the time he made the deposit: Ibid.

Contribution.

Where a se-putnidar after paying money to satisfy a rent decree obtained by a putnidar against a durputnidar brought a suit for contribution praying for a personal decree and also for a declaration that the durputni tenure was liable to be sold for the money paid by him; held, that the money paid was to be charged on the whole tenure and that the charge could not be split up. Benimadhab v. Purna Chandra, 14 C.L.J. 134.

Where in execution of a decree for arrears of rent the putnidar attached and advertised for sale the durputni tenure, and the seputnidar made a deposit under s. 171 and obtained an order for possession under sub-sec. (1) cl. (c), but in the meantime before such order the durputni had been sold and purchased by A, held in a suit for rent by A against the seputnidar, the latter was entitled to set off the amount of deposit made by him with interest at the rate of 12 per cent: Jnanendra Nath v. Bhubaneswari, 33 C.L.J. 494; the case of Ram Narain v. Lal Das, 6 C.L.J. 595 was distinguished.

In an application under s. 171 where the applicant paid money direct to the decree-holder by direction of the Court, it is tantamount to a payment in Court: Mosafirlal v. Ganes Jha, [1922 Pat.] p. 347, s.c., 71 I.C. 473. Payment to decree-holder, effect of.

An unrecorded purchaser of a share of darpatni tenure may, where the tenure is advertised for sale in execution of a decree for rent by the patnidar, apply under s. 171: Radhika Nath v. Rakhal Raj, 13 C.W.N. 1175; s.c. 10 C.L.J. 473.

A darpatnidar is not entitled to make a deposit under s. 171 to prevent a sale in execution of a decree obtained by the Zemindar against some of the patnidars: Khetra Nath v. Mohamed Uzir, 19 C.L.J. 525.

The interest of a co-tenant is void and not voidable on sale, and a co-tenant on deposit of the decretal amount and on the setting of the sale has no lien on the property under s. 171: Ashutosh v. Abinash, 15 Cal. 782. It was held in the case of Behari Lal v. Fakir Chandra, 12 C.W.N. 231 (notes) that a co-sharer of a judgment debtor though his name has not been registered may make a deposit. Co-tenant.

5. Lease or other incumbrance:—If a tenant not authorised to create a lease or a mortgage does so, and the lessee or mortgagee makes an application under s. 171 to deposit the amount, the landlord decree-holder may oppose the application saying that he is not bound to recognise such incumbrance and is not therefore bound to avoid it, and such incumbrance so far as he is concerned is void.

6. Appeal:—An order passed upon an application of a person who is not a party to the suit is not appealable: Gobindasundar v. Chand Meah, 17 C.W.N. 602; see notes under s. 170.

Where the court decides a controversy between a usufructuary mortgagee and a simple mortgagee as to their respective rights to make the deposit under s. 171, the order is not appealable: Dwarkanath v. Kangali, 52 I.C. 980, s.c., 29 C.L.J. 416.

7. Right of suit by a tenant against whom the decree for rent was not obtained:—Where a putni was sold in execution of a decree for arrears of rent in a suit, and the durputnidar of a share of the putni deposited money to save the putni from being sold, and an order having been passed under s. 171, one of the putnidars who was no party to the decree brought a suit for an injunction that his right was not affected, and a decree was made conditionally upon the plaintiff paying the proportionate share of his debt: held that the decree was a good decree: Rajani Kant v. Hazilal, 21 C.W.N. 628. Right of suit by tenant against whom decree for rent not obtained.

8. Suit for recovery of money deposited: in what court suit lies:—Where the payment is voluntary the suit lies in the Small Cause Court: Ramnarin v. Satis Chandra, 22 C.W.N. 72 (notes portion). Voluntary payment.

- (b) in execution of a certificate, signed under the Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act, 1913, for arrears of rent due in respect of the tenure or holding from a superior tenant defaulting, *and an inferior tenant, whose interest would be voidable upon the sale, pays money into Court in order to prevent the sale, he may, in addition to any other remedy provided for him by law, deduct the whole or any portion of the amount so paid from any rent payable by him to his immediate landlord ; and that landlord, if he is not the defaulter, may, in like manner deduct the amount so deducted from any rent payable by him to his immediate landlord, and so on until the defaulter is reached.

2. Procedure :—The landlord is a necessary party to a proceeding arising out of an application to make a deposit ; Thomas Barclay v. Syed Hossein, 6 C.L.J. 601.

3. Surrender :—Where a raiyat surrendered his holding at a time when the holding was in possession of the under-lessee of the raiyat under sec. 171 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, held that the superior landlord's claim to khas possession by virtue of the surrender should be postponed till the amount due to the under-lessee by virtue of the mortgage under the operation of the law under sec. 171 is satisfied : Nabadih v. Bhairab, 13 C.W.N. 97.

power remains in the purchaser, the lien of a mortgagee is in jeopardy ; in such a case the mortgagee may abandon his lien and ask to have it transferred to the surplus sale-proceeds ; Nim Chand v. Ashutosh, 9 C.W.N. 117.

Decree-holder may bid at sale ; judgment-debtor may not. XIV of 1882.

(2) The judgment-debtor shall not bid for or purchase a tenure or holding so sold.

(3) When a judgment-debtor purchases by himself or through another person a tenure or holding so sold, the Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the decree-holder or any other person interested in the sale, by order set aside the sale and the costs of the application and order, and any deficiency of price which may happen on the re-sale, and all expenses attending it shall be paid by the judgment-debtor.

5. PURCHASE BY A JUDGMENT-DEBTOR OR AN UNREGISTERED TENANT.
6. RIGHT OF UNREGISTERED TRANSFEREE OF TENANT TO APPLY.
7. PURCHASE BY A CO-SHARER OF A REVENUE PAYING ESTATE ; RIGHT OF SUIT BY OTHER CO-SHARERS FOR RECONVEYANCE.

I. Appeal :—No appeal lies from an order setting aside a sale under this section where the question is not between the parties to the suit : Raghu Singh v. Misri Singh, 21 Cal. 825. The reason given by their Lordships (Ghose and Gordon, J.J.) is as follows—“The order in question could not be regarded as a “decree” as defined by the Code of Civil Procedure, nor could it fall within s. 244 of that Code, because the appellant was an outsider, and not a party to the suit in which the decree was made. The Bengal Tenancy Act itself does not provide for an appeal like this, and we are not aware of any provision in the Civil Procedure Code allowing an appeal against such an order.”

No appeal when question arises between persons not parties to the suit.

In a suit for possession by a first mortgagee who was the purchaser of the mortgaged property in execution of the mortgage decree, held that the defendants (some of whom were second mortgagees and some purchasers) in redeeming the property were not entitled to for payments alleged to have been made under s. 171 as they were not bound to pay the money under s. 69 of the Contract Act : Gangadas v. Jogendra, 11 C.W.N. 403.

Suit for possession.

But where judgment-debtor is appellant, an appeal lies.

But it was held in Sriram v. Guru Das, 3 C.W.N. 104 (notes), that an appeal lay where the judgment-debtor was the appellant. In this case it was also held that in as much as the appellant's case was that the purchase was not made by a third party, but by some of the judgment-debtors in benami in the name of the auction-purchaser, and if that case is proved the case would come under s. 244 and an appeal would therefore lie: Ibid.

Appeal and second appeal when the question is between parties to the suit.

Where the question is between the parties to the suit, an appeal and a second appeal would lie as it is cognizable under s. 244 C.P.C.: Chand Moni v. Santo Moni, 24 Cal. 707, s.c., 1 C.W.N. 534.

An order setting aside a sale under s. 173 is not appealable: Dhramoyi v. Anantaram, 46 I.C. 748. (Fletcher and Newbould, J.J.). See also Surendra v. Lakshan, 87 I.C. 744.

No appeal at the instance of auction-purchaser or a third party.

No appeal lies at the instance of an auction-purchaser against an order setting aside a sale under s. 173 of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Harabundhu v. Harish Chandra, 3 C.W.N. 184.

No appeal lies at the instance of the auction-purchaser against an order setting aside a sale under s. 173 of the B. T. Act: Surendra v. Lakshan, 87 I.C. 744.

When the Court refused to set aside a sale in an application under s. 173, held that an appeal lay at the instance of the judgment-debtor but no appeal lay at the instance of a third party: Sriram v. Guru Das, 3 C.W.N. 104 (notes); where the purchase was made by a judgment-debtor benami in the name of the auction-purchaser, held that the case would come under s. 244 C.P.C.

Appeal by auction purchaser.

Where an auction purchaser preferred an appeal against an order under s. 173, held that no appeal lay: Durlav Pradhaina v. Mahomed Mainuddi, 13 C.W.N. 100 (notes).

No appeal lies by an auction-purchaser against an order setting aside a sale under s. 173 although there was an allegation of fraud which was found against the petitioner judgment-debtor: Jadab Chandra v. Joygopal, 19 C.L.J. 81. (The cases on the point were reviewed).

Appeal by unrecorded tenant does not lie.

Where A, B, C and D were the tenants, and A alone was the recorded tenant, and the landlord in execution of a decree for arrears of rent against the recorded tenant A put the holding to sale, and B made an application to have the sale set aside on the ground that A had purchased the holding in the name of another person, held that B was not a representative of A and the order passed in such a proceeding was not appealable: Joytara v. Prankrishna, 15 C.W.N. 512, s.c. 13 C.L.J. 257, Mookerjee J., in delivering judgment said as follows:—".....an inflexible rule cannot be formulated that an order under s. 173 is or is not appealable as a decree. The test to be applied in the circumstances of each case is, what is the true nature of the question raised, and who are the parties between whom it arises. The answer must depend largely upon the position of the applicant and the title he claims. We may observe, however, that there are expressions used in some of the cases in the books which may be open to criticism." (13 C.L.J. at p. 260).

Where appeal lies.

Whether an appeal lies or not depends upon whether the question relates to the execution of the decree and whether it is between the parties to the original suit or their representatives so as to bring the order under s. 47 C. P. C.

Where a question decided under sec. 173 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is one which is covered by s. 47 of the C. P. C. an appeal lies against the order made by the Court though no provision for such an appeal is made in the Bengal Tenancy Act itself. The right to appeal, therefore, from an order passed under sec. 173 depends upon the questions raised and the party appealing.

It has been held in the case of Ananta Charan v. Nirmal, 6 Pat. 266 (Kulwant Sahay and Macpherson J.J.) that an application under sec. 173 cannot be considered to be an application under s. 47 of the C. P. C. See notes under s. 174.

No appeal lies at the instance of the auction purchaser against an order passed under sec. 173, the reason being that he is not one of the parties to the suit within the meaning of sec. 47 C. P. C.: Azam Khan v. Umedali Moral, 85 I.C. 750 (Suhrawardy and Duval J.J.).

Where an application for setting aside a rent sale under Or. 21 r 90, C. P. C. and sec. 173 cl. (3), B. T. Act on the ground as to the former that the sale processes were not duly served and there was material irregularity and gross inadequacy of price and as to the latter that one of the judgment-debtors in collusion with the decree-holders managed to purchase the property in the benami of his daughters, was refused by the Subordinate Judge and allowed in appeal by the District Judge, the auction purchasers preferred a second appeal; it was held that the second appeal was incompetent: Tamiranesa v. Kachhiman Bibi, 32 C.W.N. 98. (Mukerji and Roy J.J.).

Where an application for setting aside an execution sale was made on two grounds, first, on the ground under provisions of sec. 173, B. T. Act and secondly, under O. 21 R. 90 of the Code of Civil Procedure and the sale was set aside under the provisions of both, an appeal against the order so far as it purports to be under O. 21 R. 90 of the Code of Civil Procedure, is not entertainable, as the appellate Court cannot give any relief to the appellant, although the order under O. 21, R. 90 might be erroneous: Durgacharan v. Bishnupada, 46 C.L.J. 172 (Chakravarti, J.).

2. Setting aside of sale :—The Court holding the sale is the proper Court to determine whether the sale should stand or not: Gopal Chunder v. Ram Lall, 21 Cal. 554. If it determines the questions in the negative, it has to put up the property again to sale; a Court, other than the executing Court, is not in a position to do so: Ibid.

Where in execution of a decree for arrears of rent against the recorded tenant (who had no existing interest in the tenure and whose interest had been sold previously in execution of a money-decree) the tenure was sold and purchased by the recorded tenant in the benami of another person, held that the sale ought not to be set aside on the ground of the purchase being made by the judgment-debtor: Gopal Chunder v. Ram Lall, 21 Cal. 554.

The sale is only voidable and not void: Ibid. If the question is between the parties to the suit in which the decree is made a separate suit does not lie to have the sale set aside: Ibid.

But a person not a party to the suit may bring a separate suit to have the sale set aside: Ibid.

A sale to the judgment-debtor is not void but voidable: Syed Muhammad Amirul v. Syed Muhammad Jewad, 74 I.C. 769.

Where a sale was set aside under O. 21, r. 90 C. P. C. s. 173 Bengal Tenancy Act, held that the fact that an appeal lay against the order passed under O. 21, r. 90 C. P. C. would not give the aggrieved party a right of appeal against the order setting aside the sale under s. 173 Bengal Tenancy Act: Amar Prasad v. Gagan Chandra, A.I.R. 1922 Cal. 180.

Where a purchase is made by a judgment-debtor in the benami of another person the sale is only voidable and it is in the discretion of the Court to set it aside or not: where a judgment-debtor purchased in the name of his son and the under-tenant made an application to have the sale set aside on the ground that his interest will be affected by the sale, the High Court held that he was not seriously prejudiced in as much as in the event of the tenure or holding being put up to sale again another person might purchase who would be in a position to annul the encumbrance and the High Court therefore refused to set aside the sale: Brojendra v. Jadunath, A.I.R. 1925, Cal. 293, s. c., 80 I.C. 708.

It is submitted that the High Court's refusal to set aside the sale ought to have been not in the ground given by it but on the ground as contended by the other party that the applicant was not affected for, if the purchaser was a benamidar of the judgment-debtor he could not be entitled to cancel the under-tenant's interest.

It is submitted that the reason given by the High Court is not sound in as much as if the present sale is set aside on the ground of benami and the holding is put up for sale again, the under-tenant whose interest is voidable at the sale would have the right to prevent the sale taking place at all by an application under s. 173 cl. (3).

A sale in execution of a decree to the judgment-debtor himself is voidable under sub-clause (2) of s. 173 and remains valid until duly set aside: Amirul Hassan v. Jewad Hussain, A.I.R. 1924, Pat. 318.

3. Limitation :—An application under this section is governed by Art. 178 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act (XV of 1877): (Art. 178 of Sch. II of Act XV of 1877 is Art. 181 of Sch. I of the present Limitation Act). Chand Moni v. Santo Moni, 24 Cal. 707, s.c., 1 C.W.N. 534. See also Chandrama v. Maharaja of Dumraon, 38 I.C. 209.

Limitation for setting aside.
sale.

An application to have a sale set aside under this section is governed by Art. 166 of the Limitation Act and is consequently barred if made after 30 days: Haripada v. Baradaprasad, 51 Cal. 1014, s.c., 28 C.W.N. 154 (notes portion).

4. Suit to recover deficiency of price:—A suit to recover the deficiency for which the defaulting purchaser is made answerable under s. 9 of Reg. VIII of 1819 is maintainable in a Civil Court: Raghu Ram v. Mohesh Chunder, 7 C.W.N. 111.

5. Purchase by a judgment-debtor or an unregistered tenant :—If a judgment-debtor or a person who is a tenant whose name is not registered in the landlord's sherista purchases a tenure or holding by himself or through another person he does not acquire the tenure or holding free from encumbrances.

A previous holder of the tenure through whose default the holding or tenure was sold was held under Act VIII B. C. of 1869 not entitled to annul an encumbrance although he purchased at the auction sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent: Fakir Chandra v. Ram Kumar, 31 Cal. 901, s.c., 8 C.W.N. 721; see also Syed Nawabali v. Hemanta Kumari, 8 C.W.N. 177.

The law as laid down in s. 173 does not distinguish between one judgment-debtor and another: Sheikh Mahomed v. Durga Prasad, 21 C.W.N. 342 at p. 344 column 1: Where a benamidar for one of the judgment-debtors purchased a tenure and the Collector refused to issue any notice under s. 167 on the application of the benamidar, and the benamidar brought a suit for a declaration that he had right to annul the incumbrance or that the Collector was bound by the notice, held that the suit was rightly dismissed: Ibid.

6. Right of unregistered transferee of tenant to apply:—An unregistered transferee of an occupancy holding against whom no decree was obtained can apply for setting aside a sale under this section: Azgar Ali v. Asaboddin, 9 C.W.N. 134.

7. Purchase by a co-sharer of a revenue paying estate: Right of suit by other co-sharers for re-conveyance:—Where a revenue-paying estate was purchased one of the co-sharers at a sale for arrears of revenue, and the other co-sharers brought a suit against the purchaser for a re-conveyance of the property, held that the mere fact that the purchaser of estate is one of the co-sharers is not in itself to give the other co-sharers an equity to obtain the reconveyance of their shares: Khurshed v. Dinanath, 29 C.L.J. 492; see also the case of Deonandan v. Janki Singh, 44 Cal. 573, s.c., 25 C.L.J. 259.

174. (1) Where a tenure or holding is sold for an arrear of rent due thereon, then, at any time within thirty days from the date of sale, the judgment-debtor may apply to have the sale set aside, on his depositing in Court, for payment to the decree-holder, the amount recoverable under the decree with costs, and, for payment to the purchaser, a sum equal to five per centum of the purchase-money.

Application by judgment-debtor to set aside sale.

XIV of 1882.

(2) If such deposit is made within the thirty days, the Court shall pass an order setting aside the sale, and the provisions of section 315 of the Code of Civil Procedure shall apply in the case of a sale so set aside:

XIV of 1882.

Provided that, if a judgment-debtor applies under section 311 of the Code of Civil Procedure to set aside the sale of his tenure or holding, he shall not be entitled to make an application under this section; and, if he applies under this section, he shall not be entitled to make an application under section 311 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

I. Amendment:—To the proviso to sub-sec. (2) the following was added by Act I, B. C. of 1907 and Act I, E. B. A. of 1908:—
 “And if he applies.....Civil Procedure.”

2. S. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act and s. 310A of the Civil Procedure Code of 1882:—(O. 21, r. 89 of the new Code): S. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is analogous to s. 310A* (O. 21,

S. 310A of Act XIV of 1882.

* 310A. Any person whose immoveable property has been sold under this chapter may at any time within 30 days from the date of sale apply to have the sale set aside on his depositing in Court—

(a) for payment to the purchaser, a sum equal to five per centum of the purchase money, and,

(b) for payment to the decree-holder, an amount specified in the proclamation of sale as that for the recovery of which the sale was ordered, less any amount which may since the date of such proclamation of sale, have been received by the decree-holder.

If such deposit is made within the thirty days the Court shall pass an order setting aside the sale:

R. 89 of O. 21 of the Code of 1908 which corresponds to s. 310A of old Code is as follows:—

(1) Where immoveable property has been sold in execution of a decree, any person, either owning such property or holding an interest therein by virtue

O. 21 r. 89 of Act V of 1908.

r. 89 of the new Code) of the Civil Procedure Code, but provisions of the latter are more wide.

Under s. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act it is the judgment-debtor alone who can apply to have the sale set aside. But under s. 310A, C. P. C., any one whose immoveable property is sold may apply to have the sale set aside. S. 310A, C. P. C. is not now applicable to Bengal but it is applicable in East Bengal since the passing of Act I (B.C.) of 1907; see notes under s. 170.

Judgment-debtor alone can deposit under s. 174.

It has been held that s. 310A of the Civil Procedure Code (which corresponds to r. 89 of o. 21 of the new Code) applies to a sale of a tenure or holding in execution of a decree for its own arrears: Bangsheedhur v. Kedar Nath, 1 C.W.N. 114; Janardan v. Kali Kristo, 23 Cal. 393. Since the passing of the Bengal Act I of 1907, s. 310A C. P. C. (of 1882) (O. 21, r. 89 of the new code) does not apply to Bengal but still applies to the districts which were constituted the Province of East Bengal.

S. 310A C. P. C. applies to sales in execution of rent decrees.

S. 54 of Act I, B. C. of 1907 by enacting that s. 310A, C. P. C., shall not apply to a tenure or holding attached in execution of a decree for arrears due thereon, does not repeal any portion of the Bengal Tenancy Act within the meaning of sub-sec. (c) of s. 8 of the Bengal General Clauses Act: * Asiruddy v. Mukhodamoyee, 12 C.W.N. 434.

Amendment in Bengal.

S. 310A, C. P. C. (of 1882) (O. 21, r. 89 of the new code) still applies to the districts which were constituted the Province of East Bengal.

But it is was decided in a case that even before the passing of the Bengal Tenancy Amendment Act of 1907, s. 310A C. P. C. (Act xiv of 1882) did not apply to a tenure or holding attached in execution of a decree for arrears of rent: Asiruddi v. Mokhada, 35 Cal. 543.

Conflicting rulings.

The question was subsequently considered and dissented from in the case of Ali Miah v. Ramjan Khan, 13 C.W.N. 224, where Sharfuddin and Coxe J.J. observed as follows:—

of a title acquired before such sale, may apply to have the sale set aside on his depositing in Court—

- (a) for payment to the purchaser, a sum equal to five per cent, of the purchase money, and
- (b) for payment to the decree-holder the amount specified in the proclamation of sale as that for the recovery of which the sale was ordered, less any amount which may, since the date of such proclamation of sale, have been received by the decree-holder.
- (2) Where a person applies under rule 90 to set aside the sale of his immoveable property, he shall not, unless he withdraws his application, be entitled to make or prosecute an application under this rule.
- (3) Nothing in this rule shall relieve the judgment-debtor from any liability he may be under in respect of costs and interest not covered by the proclamation of sale.

Provided that if a person applies, under the next following section, to set aside the sale of his immoveable property, he shall not be entitled to make an application under this section.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to relieve the judgment debtor from any liability he may be under in respect of costs and interest not covered by the proclamation of sale.

* S. 8 of the Bengal General Clauses Act: Where this Act or any Bengal Act made after the commencement of this Act repeals by enactment hitherto made or hereafter to be made, then unless a different intention appears, the repeal shall not affect any right, privileges, obligation or liability accrued or incurred under any enactment so repealed.

S. 310A
applies to East Bengal.

"The first question that arises for decision is whether Sec. 310 A applies to sale of holdings under the Tenancy Act at all. It was held in Janardhan Ganguli v. Kali Kristo Thakur, 23 Cal. 393, that the section does apply. Reference may also be made to Benodini Dasi v. Peary Mohan Halder, 8 C.W.N. 55, Kunja Behari Mondal v. Sambhu Chandra Ray, 8 C.W.N. 232 and Omarali Majhi v. Basiruddi Ahmed, 12 C.W.N. 64 (notes). We find also that the Legislative Council of Eastern Bengal and Assam have not thought fit to follow the example of the Bengal Legislature amending sec. 170, so as specifically to exclude sec. 310A from applying to holdings attached in execution of decrees for rent ; and it is clear that the Legislature advisedly intended that sec. 310A should apply to sale under the Act. On the other hand, in Asiruddi Mondal v. Mukhodamoyee Dassi, 35 Cal. 543, s.c., 12 C.W.N. 434, it was held that the section could not apply, because it was not a part of the Civil Procedure Code when the Tenancy Act was passed in 1885, and could not therefore have been made applicable by the second clause of sec. 143. The argument seems to us incontrovertible. If a section of the Civil Procedure Code had been repealed, subsequent to its application to proceedings under the Tenancy Act, the section would certainly have continued to operate in such proceedings. We may refer to Maxwell's Interpretation of Statutes, page 514 (2nd edition) and the cases there cited. It seems to follow that if a new section is added to the Code after its application to proceedings under the Tenancy Act, that section will not have any application to such proceedings.

"In this conflict of authority we should have thought ourselves bound to refer the question to a Full Bench, were it not that the point appears to us to be concluded by the Full Bench decision in Pares Nath Singha v. Nabagopal Chattopadhyaya, 29 Cal. 1, s.c., 5 C.W.N. 821. We are bound by that decision and must in accordance with it hold that persons are entitled to apply under sec. 310A of the Civil Procedure Code to set aside sales under the Tenancy Act."

Judgment
debtor, meaning
of.

The expression 'judgment-debtor' in sub-section (1) of section 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act means the person against whom a decree has been made, in execution whereof the sale sought to be set aside has taken place : Abdul Sabhan v. Monabali, 15 C.L.J. 170.

Application may be by judgment debtor
alone.

An application under s. 174 can be made by a judgment-debtor alone and by no other person : Ranajit v. Jogendra Nath, 16 C.L.J. 546.* If a person professes to act on behalf of a party under s. 174, his authority to do so, if challenged, must be duly established : Ibid.

An application under s. 174 can be made by a judgment-debtor alone and by no other person : Surendra Narayan v. Lachmi Koer, 43 Cal. 100.

Sale to be set aside.

Where some of the judgment-debtors deposited the money and prayed to have the sale set aside stating in their application that the tenants had all sold the defaulting tenure and the money deposited had been furnished by the purchaser, and subsequently the money deposited was withdrawn and the sale was not set aside ; held, on an application by the purchaser to have the sale set aside that the sale ought to have been set aside as the required amount had been deposited, and the sale was set aside, the judgment-debtors who had made the deposit were required to bring back the money, in default the same was to be realised from them in execution: Nitya Nand v. Udai Narain, 18 C.W.N. 175.

It was decided in the case of Rajendra v. Phady Mondul, 15 Cal. 482, that the word "judgment-debtor" as used in s. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act does not include a transferee or assignee from a judgment-debtor, but must be construed strictly as referring to a judgment-debtor alone. S. 310A, C. P. C., is more wide in its application.

3. Decree for cess :—S. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is applicable to the case of a tenure or holding sold by the landlord in execution of a decree for arrears of cesses due thereon, although s. 174 is not specifically mentioned in s. 3, cl. 5, as one of the sections to which the extended definition of rent is applicable: Kishori v. Saroda Mani, 1 C.W.N. 30. Decree for cess is decree for rent.

4. Where decree was passed before the date of the passing of the Act :—The Full Bench decision in the case of Jogodanund v. Amrita Lal, 22 Cal. 762, decided that the decision in Lal Mohan v. Jogendra Chunder, 14 Cal. 636, so far as it held that s. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act created a new right in a judgment-debtor and was therefore inapplicable to a case in which the decree had been passed before that Act became law, was wrong.

The case of Uzir Ali v. Ram Komal, 15 Cal. 383, and Girish Chunder v. Apurba Krishna, 21 Cal. 940, which were based upon the same principle were also held to have been wrongly decided.

S. 310A is applicable to a case where a sale is held after the passing of Act V. of 1894, although the decree is of prior date: Jogodanund v. Amrita Lal, 22 Cal. 762 (F.B.).

5. Where proceedings in execution commenced before passing of the Act :—Where proceedings in execution were taken before the passing of Act V of 1894 but the attached property was sold subsequently, held that s. 310A applied: Rangasami v. Girasami, 18 Mad. 477.

S. 54 of Act I (B.C.) of 1907 which enacts that s. 310A, C. P. C., shall not apply to a tenure or holding attached in execution of a decree for arrears due thereon, does not repeal any portion of the Bengal Tenancy Act within the meaning of sub-sec. (c) of s. 8 of the Bengal General Clauses Act: Asiraddi v. Mukhadamayai, 12 C.W.N. 434. A raiyati holding having been sold on the 7th May, 1907 in execution of a rent-decree, an under-raiyat applied to have the sale set aside under s. 310A, C. P. C. on the 23rd May following, held that the application could not be entertained, the Bengal Tenancy Amendment Act I (B.C.) of 1907 having come into operation on the 22nd May, 1907: Ibid. S. 310A, C. P. C. applicable although decree is of date prior to the passing of the Act, also applicable where execution commenced before passing of Act.

An application made after the passing of Act I, B.C. of 1907 to set-aside a sale under s. 310A (in Bengal) was not entertained when the execution proceedings were commenced and sale held before the passing of Act I, B.C. of 1907: Asiruddy v. Mukhodamoyee, 12 C.W.N. 434. Effect of passing Act I, B. C. of 1907.

6. Who may apply under s. 310A. C. P. C. :—(O. 21, r. 89, C. P. C.). Where in a case governed by Act I, of 1907 E. B. and A. C. the landlord himself purchased a non-transferable occupancy holding at a sale in execution of a decree for rent obtained against the registered tenant of the holding, a person who had within 12 years Mortgagee may apply if sale is free from mortgage.

purchased the whole holding at a sale in execution of a mortgage decree is not entitled to set aside the sale by making a deposit under o. 21, r. 89 C. P. C. : Abdur Rahaman v. Promode Behari, 20 C.W.N. 40.

A mortgagee whether by a simple mortgage or a mortgage by conditional sale, of a tenure or holding sold in execution of a decree for rent due in respect of it, is a "person whose immoveable property has been sold" within the meaning of s. 310A, C. P. C., and is entitled to make an application under that section : Paresh Nath v. Nobogopal, 29 Cal. 1, s.c., 5 C.W.N. 821 (F.B.) : The case of Nitya Nanda v. Hira Lal, 5 C.W.N. 63, was overruled by this Full Bench case, and the case of Hamidul v. Matangini, 2 C.W.N. 258 (notes) was approved of.

A mortgagee may apply under s. 310A, C. P. C. ; Srinivasa v. Ayyathorai, 21 Mad. 416 ; Rakhal Chunder v. Dwarka Nath, 13 Cal. 346 ; Asmatunnissa v. Ashruff Ali, 15 Cal. 488 (491, 492).

Whether a mortgagee can apply under s. 310A, C. P. C., depends upon the nature, not of the mortgage but of the execution sale ; the mortgagee is entitled to apply if the sale is free from the mortgage, but not if it is subject to the mortgage : Per BANNERJEE, J., in Paresh Nath v. Nobogopal, 29 Cal. 1, s.c., 5 C.W.N. 821 (F.B.).

A person having an interest.

The words "any person whose immoveable property is sold" in s. 310A, C. P. C., include every person who has an interest in the property in question, whether qualified, partial or absolute : Per Ameer Ali, J., in Paresh Nath v. Nobogopal, 29 Cal. 1, s.c., 5 C.W.N. 821 (F.B.).

Purchaser
before suit.

Where an application to have a sale set aside under s. 310A, C. P. C. is made by a person who had acquired an interest in the property sold, before the judgment-debtor became liable under the decree, held that the applicant was a person whose immoveable property had been sold within the meaning of s. 310A, C. P. C., that he was co-sharer and his interest was not an encumbrance or a protected interest which would be affected by the sale : Bangsheedhur v. Kedar Nath, 1 C.W.N. 114.

Benamidar.

A benamidar of a person whose immoveable property is sold has a right to apply to have the sale set aside under s. 310A, C. P. C. ; Basi Paddar v. Ram Krishna, 1 C.W.N. 135.

Beneficial
owner.

A person claiming to be the beneficial owner of property which has been sold as the property of the ostensible owner can apply to have the sale set aside under s. 311, C. P. C. : Abdul Guni v. Dunne, 20 Cal. 488 ; see also Asmatunnissa v. Ashruff, 15 Cal. 488. The same rule will apply to application under s. 310A, C. P. C.

Purchaser
of a share.

The purchaser for a share of an occupancy-holding transferable by custom can apply under s. 310, C. P. C. as being a person whose immoveable property has been sold : Benodini v. Peary Mohon, 8 C.W.N. 55 ; it cannot be said that he had no interest simply because s. 88 makes sub-division of a holding not binding on the landlord unless it is made with his consent in writing : Ibid.

Purchaser of a portion of a non-transferable holding

The purchaser of a portion of an occupancy holding, whether it is transferable by custom or not, is entitled to make a deposit under s. 310A, C. P. C., to set aside a sale : Omar Ali v. Moonshi Basiruddeen, 7 C.L.J. 282.

It is submitted with great respect to the learned Judge who decided this case that the proposition of law laid down in this case is open to doubt, for the transferee of a non-transferable holding has no right as against the landlord and as such so far as against the landlord the transferee cannot say that it is his immoveable property which has been sold ; the landlord is a necessary party to a proceeding and the question of the transferee's title must be gone into in his presence ; the reason that the transferee has a valid title as against his transferor is of no avail against the landlord ; the case of Benodini v. Peary Mohun, 8 C.W.N. 55, was relied on by the learned Judges deciding the case of Omar Ali, 7 C.L.J. 282, but the former case, i.e., the case of Benodini, does not apply as in that case it was assumed or found that the holding was transferable. (See 8 C.W.N. at p. 56, col. 2, lines 13 and 14).

The purchaser of a portion of a non-transferable occupancy holding is entitled to make a deposit under r. 89 of Or. 21 of the C. P. C. to set aside an auction sale: Fazoo Mia v. Sultan Ahmad Chaudhury, 55 Cal. 108 (Rankin C.J. and Costello J.). The case of Omar Ali v. Munshi Basiruddin, 7 C.L.J. 282 followed : Purchaser of a portion of non-transferable holding : Or. 21, r. 89.

Rankin C.J., observed as follows at p. 111 of 55 Cal. 108: "It does not seem to me to matter, for purposes of rule 89 whether the purchaser is a purchaser of a part or of the whole of a non-transferable occupancy holding. It seems to me unreasonable that any difference should be operated by the fact that the landlord happens to be the auction purchaser himself.

I doubt extremely whether it is true that a mere acceptance or withdrawal of a deposit would operate to oblige the landlord to recognise the tenant.

On the whole I think this (7 C.L.J. 282) is a case where we ought to obey the principle of stare decisis. I am far from saying that the question is an easy one. There are serious difficulties in the question before us and when I find that as far back as 1902 this question was decided by a Division Bench (7 C.L.J. 282) in favour of a purchaser of a portion of a non-transferable occupancy holding I am obliged to follow that ruling unless I can be persuaded that it is a ruling from which the Court ought to differ. In that case it could be our duty to refer the matter and a very important matter—to a Full Bench for decision. On the whole I am not prepared to say that I differ from the ruling laid down in the case of Omar Ali v. Munshi Basiruddin, 7 C.L.J. 282."

An unregistered transferee of an occupancy-holding has been held to be entitled to apply under s. 311, C. P. C., as a person whose immoveable property has been sold: Azgar Ali v. Asabooddin, 9 C.W.N. 134 ; the principle in the Full Bench case of Ishan Chandra v. Beni Madhab, 24 Cal. 62, was applied to this case. See also the principle in the case of Gopinath v. Sajani Kant, 10 C.W.N. 240. Unregistered transferee.

Where property is sold in execution of a decree a person acquiring an interest in such property from the judgment-debtor within a month after such sale is entitled to make an application under s. 310A, C. P. C.: Appaya v. Kunhali, 30 Mad. 214 ; see also Nanickka v. Rajagopala, 30 Mad. 507, but see Hazari Ram v. Badai, 1 C.W.N. 279, where a contrary rule has been laid down. Purchaser from judgment-debtor after sale.

S. 310A, C. P. C., is applicable to a purchaser subsequent to attachment and prior to sale under the attachment: Mulchand v. Gobinda, 30 Bom. 575. Purchaser subsequent to attachment.

A transferee from the judgment-debtor after attachment is competent to make an application under O. 21, r. 89, C. P. C., Gosto Behari v. Sanker Nath, 26 C.L.J. 127.

A mortgagee who had previously purchased a holding in execution of his mortgage-decree is a person within the meaning of the words "whose interests are affected by the sale" under O. 21, r. 90 C. P. C., and he may apply under that section to set aside a rent-sale. Sailabala v. Nritya Gopal, 22 C.W.N. 143.

Following the principle in the case of Narain v. Sourindra, 32 Cal. 107; Pareesh v. Nabagopal, 29 Cal. 1 (F.B.); Benodini v. Peary Mohan, 8 C.W.N. 55; Kunjo Behari v. Sambhu Chandra, 8 C.W.N. 232, it has been held that an under-raiyat can apply under s. 310A, C. P. C. as being a person whose immoveable property has been sold in execution of a decree for arrears of rent due in respect of the superior holding: Chandra Kumar v. Kamini Kumar, 11 C.W.N. 742. (The case of Abed Molla v. Diljan Molla, 29 Cal. 459, was dissented from).

Attaching creditor.

7. Who cannot apply under s. 310A, C. P. C. :—An attaching creditor is not "a person whose immoveable property is sold" within the meaning of s. 310A, C. P. C. and he is not entitled to make an application to set aside the sale under that section: Kedar Nath v. Umacharan, 6 C.W.N. 57. The words "person whose immoveable property has been sold" are identical in sections 310A and 311, C. P. C.; so the decision in the case of Matungini v. Monmotha, 4 C.W.N. 542, to the effect that an attaching creditor is not a person whose immoveable property was sold under s. 311 was held to be an authority in support of the decision in the case of Kedar Nath v. Umacharan, 6 C.W.N. 57.

Under
tenant.

Where a tenure is sold free from all encumbrances a person holding a howla under the tenure which howla was an encumbrance and could be annulled by the auction-purchaser, was held not to be entitled to apply under s. 310A, C. P. C.: Administrator-General of Bengal v. Mahomed Khalil, 5 C.W.N. 132 (notes).

Purchaser
of a portion.

The purchaser of a portion of an occupancy holding, whether it was transferable by custom or not was entitled to make a deposit under-section 310A, C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882): Omar Ali v. Basiruddi, 12 C.W.N. 64 (notes); see also Binodini v. Peary Mohon, 8 C.W.N. 55 and Kunja Behari v. Sambhu Chunder, 8 C.W.N. 232.

Under-
raiyat.

An under-raiyat cannot apply to set aside the sale of a raiyat's holding sold in execution of a decree for arrears: Abed v. Diljun, 29 Cal. 459. But this case was dissented from in Chandra Kumar v. Kamini Kumar, 11 C.W.N. 742, and in Narain v. Sourindra, 32 Cal. 107, as contrary in principle to the Full Bench case: Pareesh Nath v. Nabogopal, 29 Cal. 1.

Purchaser
at a private sale after sale in execution.

A purchaser at a private sale from the judgment-debtor after sale in execution has no locus standi to make an application under s. 310A, C. P. C.: Hazari Ram v. Badri Ram, 8 C.W.N. 279. But this case has been dissented from in the case of Appay Sketti v. Kunhati Peari, 30 Mad. 214.

Purchase
attachment.

A purchaser from a judgment-debtor prior to an attachment is not entitled to come in under s. 311, C. P. C.: Asmatunnissa v. Asruff, 15 Cal. 418 (F.B.).

The case of Abdul Huq v. Mohini mohun, 15 Cal. 240, was overruled by the decision in the Full Bench case.

A person who purchased a property before it was attached in execution of a decree and who unsuccessfully preferred a claim after it was attached and then brought a regular suit for title, cannot be considered to be a person whose immoveable property has been sold within the meaning of s. 310A, C. P. C. and as such is not competent to apply under that section for setting aside the sale: Arjan Mollah v. Jadunath, 7 C.W.N. 243.

Unsuccessful claimant under C. P. C. (old Code), s. 278.

A person who was not the judgment-debtor but a purchaser of the property long before the date of a suit against a third person is not entitled to come in under s. 310A when the property is sold in execution of a decree against the latter: Ram Chandra v. Rakhmabi, 23 Bom. 450.

Purchaser before suit.

A person who has contracted to purchase land cannot come in under s. 310A, C. P. C., to have the sale of such land set aside: Mahadeo v. Vasudeo, 23 Bom. 181.

Person who contracts to purchase land.

A person whose interest is not sold and cannot have passed under the sale is not entitled to apply under s. 310A, C. P. C.: Malikar Janudu v. Lingamurti, 12 Mad. L.J. 679.

Person whose interest does not pass by sale.

A person claiming under the Mahomedan Law a share in some immoveable property which has been sold in execution of a decree against his co-sharers, cannot come in and make a deposit under s. 310A, C. P. C.: Abdul Rahaman v. Mateyer, 30 Cal. 425.

Person claiming a share in property sold.

8. If such deposit is within thirty days:—Where the thirtieth day falls on a holiday the deposit may be made on the first day the Court re-opens: Sashi Bhusan v. Govinda Chunder, 18 Cal. 231. The broad principle laid down in Waterton v. Baker, L.R. 3, Q.B. 173, is that although the parties themselves cannot extend the time for doing an act in Court, yet if the delay is caused not by any act of their own, but by some act of the Court itself such as the fact of the Court being closed, they are entitled to do the act on the first opening day. See also Mayar v. Harding, L.R. 2, Q.B. 410; Hossein Ally v. Donzette, 5 Cal. 906.

If Court is closed on the thirtieth day deposit may be made the next re-opening day.

Where a petitioner under o. 21, r. 89, C. P. C. was prepared to make a deposit on the last day allowed by law but could not do so, the presiding officer having left the Court earlier than usual, held, that the petition and the deposit were properly received on the next day, as no act of the Court itself ought to be allowed to pre-judice the petition of the petitioner: Dulhim Mathura Das v. Bansidhar Singh, 16 C.W.N. 904.

Inability to deposit on the last day on account of Judge's absence.

The Court has no authority to extend the time within which deposit of purchase money has to be made under s. 174: Raghubar v. Jodunandan, 16 C.W.N. 736, s.c., 15 C.L.J. 89.

Extension of time cannot be made.

If an amount shorter than the amount payable was deposited within the prescribed period and the balance paid out of time under an order of the Court the sale cannot be set aside: Raghubar Dayal v. Jodunandan, 16 C.W.N. 736; s.c., 15 C.L.J. 89.

Where a part of the money is deposited out of time by order of Court.

A judgment-debtor applying to set aside a sale under s. 174 cannot rely on s. 18 of the Limitation Act for an extension of the period of 30 days allowed for such an application on the ground that he had been kept from the knowledge of the sale by the fraud of the decree-holder: Radhashyam v. Dinabandhu, 18 C.W.N. 31.

S. 18 of the Limitation Act not applicable.

Where instead of actually depositing the money in Court for the satisfaction of the decree the decree was satisfied by an arrangement come to between the parties, the application by judgment-debtor which otherwise comes under s. 174 still falls under s. 174: Rani Hemanta Kumari Debi v. Rajendra Kisore, 97 I.C. 306, s.c., A.I.R. (1926) Cal. 1236 (Cuming & B. B. Ghose, J.J.).

An order under s. 174 is not appealable: Ibid.

If notice necessary
—conflict.

9. Notice :—An auction-purchaser is entitled to a notice before an order is made setting aside the sale: Bungsheedhur v. Kedar Nath, 1 C.W.N. 114. But see Bhairab v. Prem Chand, 1 C.W.N. clxi, where it is held that no notice to the auction-purchaser is necessary.

A sale in execution of a decree ought not to be set aside under sec. 310A of the Civil Procedure Code, 1882, without notice to the auction purchaser and an opportunity afforded to him to contest the validity of the application: Sripali v. Pairoo, 11 C.L.J. 86; see also Bungshidhar v. Kedar Nath, 1 C.W.N. 114 and Nityananda v. Hiralal, 5 C.W.N. 63.

Where the conditions under s. 174 are complied with it is obligatory on the Court to set aside the sale and no notice is necessary to be served on the persons affected by an application under that section: Pahlad Singh v. Sajiwan Rai, 52 I.C. 982.

When deposit is made, sale ought to be set aside.

10. Formal application not necessary :—When a deposit is made under s. 174 the sale ought to be set aside and the judgment-debtor should not be required to put in a formal application for it: Jadu Rai v. Durbari Singh, (unreported) Civil Rule No. 2042 of 1901, decided by Banerjee and Pratt, J.J.).

Challan, showing deposit may be regarded as an application.

When the deposit was insufficient and the judgment-debtor therefore paid the balance required by a challan and presented a petition "that the execution case may be declared as finally closed," but did not pray in express terms to have the sale set aside: held that the Court was bound to set aside the sale notwithstanding that the applicant did not in express terms ask for that relief: Abdool v. Jadub Chandra, 25 Cal. 216. The challan may be regarded as a sufficient application (Per Macpherson, J.): Ibid.

Mistake of an officer of Court cannot avail the judgment-debtor unless the officer is one authorised to make the calculation.

II. Effect of mistake of Court in calculating the sum required to be deposited :—Where the debtor deposited under s. 310A, C. P. C., a sum calculated by some officer of the Court but which sum was subsequently found to be less than what was required to be deposited, held that the mistake for an officer of Court in calculating the sum to be deposited cannot avail the judgment-debtor unless he can shew that the mistake was made by an officer whose duty and within whose province it was to give the information: Chandi Charn v. Banku Behari, 26 Cal. 449, s.c., 3 C.W.N. 283 (F.B.)

"The principle upon which the case of Makbul Ahmed Chowdhury v. Bazle Sabhan Chowdry, (25 Cal. 609) was decided is this: that if the Court which has to deal with an application under s. 310A, declares, though incorrectly, what is the amount that ought to be paid in by the judgment-debtor in accordance therewith, deposits that amount it would be manifestly unjust to hold that by reason of the shortness of the deposit, the judgment-debtor has lost the remedy given to him by that section, the mistake being a mistake of the Court. I shall adhere to that principle": Per Ghose, J. in Chandi Charan v. Banku Behari, 26 Cal. 449 s.c., 3 C.W.N. 283.

But this case which was one under s. 310A, C. P. C. was held not to apply to a case under s. 174 where the High Court refused to interfere with an order setting aside a sale, although the amount deposited was found to be less than the amount required and where the mistake was owing to a miscalculation by the officer of the Court who ordinarily supplied such information and the chief ministerial officer had also signified his approval of the information by signing the chalan: Sheikh Fakir v. Beraj Mohini, 11 C.W.N. 116; see also Abdul Luteef v. Jadub Chundra, 25 Cal. 216.

When the amount payable by the judgment-debtor under s. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is calculated and settled by an officer of the Court and that amount is paid into Court, an order setting aside the sale must be made by the Court as a matter of right: Ugra Lal v. Radha Pershad, 18 Cal. 255. See also Makbul Ahmed v. Bazle Sabon, 25 Cal. 609. Where the sum deposited fell short of the required sum through the mistake of the court, (miscalculation of the Sheresthadar), and on the deficit being deposited, the sale was set aside, the High Court refused to interfere under s. 115: Karamali v. Tamijuddin, 32 C.L.J. 12.

But it was held in a Patna case that it is not the duty of the Court officer to inform the judgment-debtor of the amount to be deposited under s. 174, and that in supplying the information sought for by the judgment-debtor the officer does not act as an officer of the Court; therefore when the amount of deposit fell short of the required sum on account of a mistake of an officer of the Court, held that the Court has no jurisdiction to set aside the sale: Sarjod Prasad v. Nonnoo Rai, 1 Pat. L.J. 459.

12. Date of sale :—The words “date of sale” in s. 310A, C. P. C., mean the actual date of sale when the property is put up for sale and knocked down to the highest bidder; the “date of sale” does not mean the date when the sale is confirmed or when an order setting it aside is reversed by the Appellate Court: Chowdhury Kesa Sahay v. Giani Ray, 29 Cal. 626, s.c., 6 C.W.N. 776. A certain property was sold and purchased by the decree-holder on the 22nd May, 1900, the Court held on the 25th that the sale was bad and it was accordingly set aside, the judgment-debtor deposited in Court the decretal amount on the 25th, and on the 29th the execution case was struck off; upon appeal the Appellate Court held on the 2nd August, 1900 that the sale was a good one; a second appeal was dismissed on the 5th September, 1900; on the 12th September the judgment-debtor deposited the 5 per centum of the purchase-money and applied to set aside the sale under s. 310A, C. P. C., held, that the application was not within 30 days of the date of sale: Ibid.

13. Amount of deposit :—Five per cent. of the purchase-money is to be deposited even where the decree-holder is the purchaser: Tirmal Rao v. Syed Dastaghiri, 22 Mad. 286; Chundi Churn v. Banku Behari, 26 Cal. 449, s.c., 3 C.W.N. 283: (F.B.).

In calculating the amount which the judgment-debtor must deposit, 5 per cent. on the purchase-money (even where the purchaser is the decree-holder himself) and costs must be included, but the judgment-debtor is not liable to deposit the costs of taking a copy of the decree or of the stamp on the vakalatnama or the poundage fee; Raghubar v. Jadunandan, 16 C.W.N. 736; s.c., 15 C.L.J. 89; a copy of the decree of which execution is sought is not necessary for an application for execution: Ibid; the authority of a pleader in a case does not terminate with the decree but extends to execution proceedings: Ibid; a fresh vakalatnama is therefore not necessary: Ibid.

“Date of sale” means the actual date of sale.

Five per cent. ought to be deposited although decree-holder is purchaser.

Costs.

A judgment-debtor is not entitled to have the sale set aside on depositing only the amount specified in the sale proclamation together with 5 per cent. of the purchase money; he is bound to deposit the amount recoverable under the decree with costs, for payment to the decree-holder, together with a sum equal to 5 per cent. of the purchase money for payment to the purchaser: Mokru Rai v. Sarjug Prasad, 4 Pat. L.J.

Strict compliance necessary. Deposit of Government Promissory note not sufficient.

Deposit must be payable at once.

Conditional deposit not sufficient.

Conditional deposit.

Where two properties are sold, the sale of one of them cannot be set aside by deducting from the decretal amount the sale-proceeds of the other property.

Poundage fee.

Sale ought to be set aside although poundage fee is not paid.

Application to set aside

A Court has no power to set aside a sale unless the judgment-debtor has strictly complied with the provisions of s. 310A, C. P. C.: Trimbak v. Ram Chandra, 23 Bom. 723. Where the judgment-debtor deposited a sum of money in cash and also a Government Promissory note for Rs. 1,000, which, if negotiated, would probably be more than sufficient to cover the balance due, held that to claim the benefit of s. 174 the judgment-debtor is bound strictly to comply with the provisions, and that the deposit made should be of such a nature as to be at once payable to the parties and that therefore upon such a deposit the sale ought not to be set aside: Rahim Bax v. Nanda Lal, 14 Cal. 321. A deposit under s. 174 must be such as the decree-holder may draw out at once: a deposit not made payable to the decree-holder until a certain event had happened is not a good deposit within the meaning of that section: Shakoti v. Jotindra Mohan, 1 C.W.N. 132.

A conditional deposit is not a good deposit under o. 21, r. 89, but where the petitioner withdrew the condition as the decree-holder auction purchaser objected, held that there were not sufficient grounds under the circumstances to treat the deposit as invalid; Dulhin Mathura Das v. Bunsidhar Singh, 16 C.W.N. 904.

The words "less any amount which may since the date of such proclamation of sale have been received by the decree-holder"—contemplate an actual receipt of the amount by the decree-holder; so where two properties were sold and the judgment-debtor prayed to have the sale of one of the properties set aside and asked the Court to deduct from the decretal amount the sale-proceeds of the other property, held that the judgment-debtor was not entitled to have the sale set aside: Trimbak v. Ram Chandra, 23 Bom. 723.

The amount to be deposited under s. 174 does not seem to include poundage fee: Benimadhab v. Bissessur, 17 C.W.N. 84, s.c., 16 C. L.J. 542.

Where a judgment-debtor paid the 5 per cent. required under cl. (a) of s. 310A C.P.C. upon the whole amount of the purchase money including that deducted by the Court for poundage, and also fulfilled the requirements of cl. (b) held that he was entitled to have the sale set aside, even though something more on account of the poundage was recoverable from him under the head of costs provided for in the last clause of s. 310A, C.P.C.: Muthu Ayyar v. Ramasmi, 20 Mad. 158.

Where at a sale in execution of a decree the properties attached were sold separately in nine lots, and the judgment-debtor prayed to have the sale of one of the properties set aside under s. 310A, C.P.C., by tendering the balance (together with the percentage required under the law) due under the decree, after deducting the amounts held by the decree-holder for some of the properties and the amount deposited by the other purchasers: held, that s. 310A did not apply to this case and that there was no deposit within the terms of that section: Kripa Nath v. Ram Lakshmi, 1 C.W.N. 703.

sale of one of several plots sold separately.

Before a claim can be made for the protection of s. 174, the Court must have the money deposited in the Court itself, so that the Court may know, of its own knowledge, that the provisions of the section have been complied with and may not be driven to rely upon the evidence of other persons who may or may not be interested in the matter: Kabilasho v. Raghu Nath, 18 Cal. 481 (at p. 484).

Deposit must be made in the Court itself.

14. Decree:—The word “decree” in s. 174 no doubt primarily refers to the decree of which execution is sought for, but if in the meantime, that is to say, before the sale is actually held, the decree of the first Court of which execution was applied for, is modified in appeal in favour of the judgment-debtor, then necessarily “the decree” must be the decree of the Appellate Court; so where a decree for rent was passed by the first Court on the 11th January and in execution of the decree the defaulting tenure was sold on the 5th June, but in the meantime the decree had been modified by the Appellate Court on the 18th May, held, that the judgment-creditor could set aside the sale by depositing within 30 days from the date of sale the amount covered by the decree of the Appellate Court together with a sum equal to five per centum of the purchase-money: Bhiki Sing v. Bhanu Mahton, 13 C.W.N. 231.

15. Appeal: Powers of revision by the High Court: Civil S. 153. Procedure Code, s. 622:—Where an application under s. 174 was rejected by a Munsiff who had final jurisdiction in the case under s. 153 on the ground that the amount deposited was short, held that the decision of the Munsif was an order deciding a question relating to the title to the land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto and was therefore appealable: Beni Madhab v. Bissessur, 17 C.W.N. 84: s.c., 16 C.L.J. 542; the decision of the Full Bench in Kali Mondal v. Ramsarbaswar, 32 Cal. 957, s.c., 9 C.W.N. 728 has not been completely superseded by the explanation subsequently added to s. 153: Ibid.

An order under s. 174 is an order within s. 47 C. P. C. and a second appeal lies against such order: Raghubar v. Jodunandan, 16 P. C.W.N. 736, s.c., 15 C.L.J. 89. “It was pointed out by this Court in the case of Joytara v. Pran Kishen, 13 C.L.J. 257, s.c., 15 C.W.N. 612, that the answer to the question, whether an order in execution proceedings is within the scope of s. 47 of the Code of 1908, must depend upon its nature and contents. If it decides a question relating to the execution, satisfaction or discharge of the decree and if the decision has been given between parties to the suit or their representatives in interest, the order of the Court falls within the scope of s. 47 and is a decree within the meaning of s. 2”: Ibid.

These two cases 16 C.W.N. 736, s.c., 15 C.L.J. 89, and 13 C.L.J. 257, s.c., 15 C.W.N. 612 were followed in Aukhuri Prem v. Fahin-unmissa, 2 Pat. L.J. 525 where it was held that when the holder of a rent-decree purchases the holding in execution of his decree an appeal lies under s. 47 of the Civil Procedure Code from an order of the Court refusing to set aside the sale on deposit of the decretal amount under s. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act.

In a case where an auction purchaser is not a party to the suit no appeal lies against an order under s. 174, but if he is a party to the suit and is a decree-holder in fact, then s. 47 C. P. C. comes into play and an appeal lies, it being a matter arising between the parties to the suit touching the execution, satisfaction or discharge of the decree: Raghunandan v. Garju Mandal, 4 Pat. 718, s.c., [1925 Pat.] 183.

Where in execution of a decree for rent the tenant's holding was sold and purchased by a third party and within 30 days of the sale, the deposit of 5 p. c. of the purchase money for payment as compensation to the auction purchaser was made in Court and the deposit was accompanied by a petition stating that the amount recoverable under the decree had been paid to the decree-holder and the decree-holder himself joined in the petition, held that sec. 174 of the B. T. Act had not been sufficiently complied with: Ibid. Kabilaso v. Raghunath, 18 Cal. 481 followed.

Estoppel.

Where the judgment-debtors appealed against an order under s. 174 B. T. Act treating the order under s. 47 C.P.C., it does not lie upon them on second appeal by the decree-holders to urge that such appeal did not lie: Raghubar v. Jadunandan, 16 C.W.N. 736: s.c., 15 C.L.J. 89.

Appeal :
no general rule can be laid down.

It cannot be affirmed as a general proposition of law either that an order under sec. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act or under sec. 310A of the Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882) is or is not appealable; the test is whether the question raised in the proceedings is one relating to execution, satisfaction or discharge of the decree, and if the question is of this description, whether it arises between the parties to the suit or their representatives. If it so arises, the order is appealable: Sital Ray v. Nanda Lal, 11 C.L.J. 202.

Appeal
when question arises between parties to the suit.

Whether an order under s. 310A is subject to appeal or to revision under s. 622, C. P. C., depends upon the circumstance of each particular case. Where the purchaser is the decree-holder himself and the question arises between him and the judgment-debtor an appeal lies: Kedar Nath v. Umacharan, 6 C.W.N. 57; see also Chandi Charan v. Banku Behari, 26 Cal. 449 (F.B.); Kripa Nath v. Ram Lakshmi, 1 C.W.N. 703; such an order is one under s. 244, clause (c) and therefore an appeal lies: Phul Chand v. Nursingh, 28 Cal. 76. See also Pita v. Chuni Lal, 31 Bom. 207; Sital Ray v. Nanda Lal, 13 C.W.N. 591. See also Omar Ali v. Moonshi Pasiruddeen, 7 C.L.J. 282; Azgar Ali v. Asaboddin, 9 C.W.N. 134. Where the auction purchaser is a third person and where upon an application being made by the judgment-debtor under s. 310A, C. P. C., to set aside the sale, it is not contested by the decree-holder, so that no question arises between the decree-holder and the judgment-debtor, the order made by the Court does not fall within s. 244, C.P.C., and is consequently not appealable: Amir Ali v. Basdeo, 5 C.L.J. 204. The right to have a sale set aside under s. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is not an abstract right which can be enforced by action against a particular person, but is a right to call upon the Judge to set aside a sale and if he does not do it to proceed in revision under s. 622 of the C.P.C.:

Kabilasho v. Raghu Nath, 18 Cal. 481. No appeal lies from an order under s. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Subh Narain v. Goroke, 3 C.W.N. 344; see also Kishori v. Saradmoni, 1 C.W.N. 34: Subhinarain v. Rajkumar, 2 C.W.N. ccxliii. But where the auction-purchaser is a stranger, s. 622, C.P.C., is applicable: Kedar Nath v. Uma Charan, 6 C.W.N. 57; see also Jagadananda v. Amrita Lal, 22 Cal. 767; Bungshidhur v. Kedar Nath, 1 C.W.N. 114.

Where the lower Court set aside a sale under s. 310A, C.P.C., in a case to which the section is not applicable, the High Court can interfere under s. 622, C.P.C. as the order is not merely an erroneous order but is made without jurisdiction: Kedar Nath v. Umacharan, 6 C.W.N. 57.

No appeal lies from an order under s. 174: Raziuddin v. Bendeshri, 36 I.C. 769, (Patna case).

The question whether the judgment-debtor has complied with the requirements of section 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act for reversal of the sale, is one which decides a question relating to title to lands as between parties having conflicting claims thereto: Benimadhab v. Bisweswar, 16 C.L.J. 542; consequently an appeal lies: Ibid.

An order under s. 310A, C.P.C. does not determine any question as to the relative rights of the property sold: per Banerjee, J., in Paresh Nath v. Nobogopal, 5 C.W.N. 821.

No second appeal lies from an order under r. 89 or r. 92 of o. 21: Asimuddi v. Sundari, 38 Cal. 339.

In a proceeding under s. 311, C. P. C., the petitioner failed to appeal and the application was dismissed for default, he then applied under s. 623, C. P. C., to restore the application to the file but that application was also dismissed, held that no appeal lay against the order: Sujauddin v. Reajuddin, 27 Cal. 415; See also Padmanand v. Doorga Pershad, 4 C.W.N. 39. It seems that the same rule will apply to proceedings under s. 310A, C. P. C.

A proceeding under s. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is not a proceeding for the execution of a decree, it may be a proceeding relating to the execution of a decree, but it does not come within the explanation to s. 647, C. P. C., as being an application for the execution of a decree: Subh Narain v. Goroke, 3 C.W.N. 334.

No appeal lies from an order passed under s. 310A, C. P. C., refusing to accept a deposit tendered under that section by the judgment-debtor, inasmuch as a purchaser at an auction-sale is not a representative within the meaning of s. 244, C. P. C., of a party to the suit, and the order therefore does not come under s. 244, C. P. C.: Bashiruddin v. Jhori Singh, 16 All. 140.

Where the decree-holder is the purchaser, an appeal lies against an order s. 310A, C. P. C.: Srinivasa v. Ayyathorai, 21 Mad. 416.

Where the auction-purchaser was a third person, held that no appeal lay against an order passed under s. 310A, C. P. C.: Chinammal v. Athinatha, 10 Mad. L.J. 228; see also Bashiruddin v. Jhori Singh, All. W.N. (1897, p. 7).

Where the auction-purchaser was a third person, held that no appeal lay against an order under s. 174 of Bengal Tenancy Act: Kishori Mohun v. Sarada Moni, 1 C.W.N. 30. See also Subh Narain v. Kumar, 2 C.W.N. ccxliii.

No appeal where auction-purchaser is stranger.

Powers of revision by High Court.

Question as to relative rights.

O. 21 rr. 89 and 92.

S. 311, C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882).

S. 647, C. P. C. does not apply.

Order refusing to accept a deposit not appealable.

Appeal where decree-holder is purchaser.

No appeal where auction-purchaser is third person.

An order setting aside a sale under the provisions of s. 174 is not appealable at the instance of the auction purchaser. Where however an appeal preferred against such an order is entertained by the appellate Court and the order is set aside, the High Court will interfere in revision if the order of the appellate court is wrong on merits: Asharfi Dhimar v. Muhammad Dindalal, 88 I.C. 989, s.c., 7 P.L.T. 11, s.c., A.I.R. (1926) Pat. 55 (Ross J.).

S. 244,
C. P. C.
of 1882).

An appeal lies under s. 244, C. P. C. against an order made under s. 310A, C. P. C., when the parties stand in the position of decree-holder and judgment-debtor: Kripa Nath v. Ram Lakshmi, 1 C.W.N. 703. But when an application to have a sale set aside under s. 310A, C. P. C., is made by a person who acquired an interest in the property sold, before the judgment-debtor became liable under the decree, held that such person was not representative of the judgment-debtor within the meaning of s. 244, C. P. C., and such an order is not therefore appealable: Bungsheedhur v. Kedar Nath, 1 C.W.N. 114.

Ss. 103 and 311 of Act
1882.

No appeal lies against an order rejecting an application of a judgment-debtor, purporting to be one under s. 103, C. P. C., for the purpose of reviving an application under s. 311, C. P. C., which had been dismissed for non-appearance of the judgment-debtor: Jang Bahadur v. Mahadeo, 8 C.W.N. 160.

No appeal lies from an order refusing to restore to the file of pending applications an application under s. 310, C. P. C., which had been dismissed for default of appearance: Ghasiti v. Abdul, 29 All. 596, the principle applied in Jung Bahadur v. Mahadeo, 31 Cal. 207; Negappa v. Gungawa, 10 Bom. 433, and Raja v. Srinivasa, 11 Mad. 319.

In a second appeal filed by the auction purchaser from an order setting aside a sale under s. 174, held that a second appeal did not lie: Karamali v. Tamijuddin Molla, 32 C.L.J. 12; the decree-holder was not a party to the proceeding.

missal for default.

Where a deposit under s. 174 had been made by a person purporting to be the judgment-debtor for setting aside the sale and subsequently making an application that he has not made the deposit and thereupon the application for setting aside the sale having been dismissed, an unregistered purchaser of the holding who has purchased it before the date of the decree made an application for setting aside the sale alleging that he had made over the money to the judgment-debtor and the latter had made the deposit, and such application was dismissed for default, held that no appeal lay against the order dismissing the default but the High Court interfered under sec. 115 C. P. C., under the circumstances of the case for decision on the question of merits: Debrani v. Sarat Kumar, 39 C.L.J. 522, s.c., A.I.R. 1924 Cal. 791. (M. N. Mukerji J.). In this case it was not decided nor the question raised as to whether the transferee from the judgment-debtor had any locus standi to make such application.

S. 174
applies to Orissa.

16. S. 174 applies to Orissa :—A sale under Act VIII (B.C.) of 1865 is liable to be set aside in Orissa, under s. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, since the extension of Chapt. XIV being extended there: Lakshmidar v. Ratnakar, 48 Cal. 811, s.c., 25 C.W.N. 1009, s.c., 38 C.L.J. 229 (F.B.).

17. Regular suit to set aside a sale :—A suit does not lie to set aside a sale under s. 174 B. T. Act : Pahlad v. Sajiwan, 5 Pat. L.J. 16, the case of Kabilaso v. Raghunath, 18 Cal. 481 was followed. Regular suit does not lie.

A suit does not lie to set aside an order passed under s. 174 : Brindaban v. Bhupati Bhusan, 62 I.C. 743, (Walmsley and Greaves, J.J.).

18. Proviso to s. 310A, C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882) ; The words "he shall not be entitled to make an application under this section" in the proviso cannot mean merely "he shall not be entitled to present an application" under this section but the word "make" means "carry on" or "prosecute." So where in a case after an application under s. 310A of the Civil Procedure Code had been made, another application was made under s. 311, held that the applicant was not entitled to have the benefit of the former section : Rajendra Nath v. Nilratan, 23 Cal. 958. "Make" means "carry on" or "prosecute"—S. 311, C. P. C.

There is no prohibition in the Code against an application being made under o. 21, r. 90, C. P. C., after an application under r. 89 has been made and withdrawn or dismissed : Basiruddin v. Faimulla, 17 C.W.N. 476.

The word "applies" in the proviso to s. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act means "applies and prosecutes." If a judgment-debtor has made an application under s. 311, C. P. C., he is competent to apply under s. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act if he withdraws his application under s. 311, C. P. C. : Sital v. Nanda, 13 C.W.N. 591.

But where a person makes an application under s. 310A, C. P. C., and a different person makes an application under s. 311, C. P. C., held that the application under s. 311, C. P. C., is maintainable : Asraf Ali v. Net Lal, 23 Cal. 682. Application under s. 311 by a person different from the applicant under s. 310A.

It is not open to an applicant under s. 310A, C. P. C., to impugn the sale on the grounds of irregularity in publishing and conducting it : Phul Chand v. Nursingh, 28 Cal. 73. S. 311 C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882).

19. S. 295 C. P. C. :—Section 295, C. P. C. does not apply to a deposit made by a judgment-debtor under s. 310A, C. P. C., this being merely in the nature of a voluntary payment. The words "for payment to the decree-holder" in s. 310A mean that he is the person solely entitled to the money which has been paid into Court : Roshun Lal v. Ram Lal, 7 C.W.N. 341 : see also Hari Sundari v. Shashi Bala, 1 C.W.N. 195, and Behari Lal v. Gopal Lal, 1 C.W.N. 695. S. 295 C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882).

When property has been sold in execution of a decree and there are other decree-holders who, prior to the sale, have applied under s. 295 C. P. C., for rateable distribution, the person whose property has been sold is competent to have the sale set aside under s. 310A, by depositing only the amount of the decree, for the satisfaction of which the sale was proclaimed and took place : Hari Sundari v. Shashi Bala, 1 C.W.N. 195. S. 295, C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882).

20. Right of auction-purchaser to recover purchase-money under s. 315 C. P. C. :—(Act XIV of 1882). When a sale is set aside under s. 310A, the auction-purchaser is entitled under s. 315, C. P. C., to recover it by way of execution from a decree-holder who had attached the money of the judgment-debtor in the hands of the Court and received it : Veera Samy v. Liladhara, 8 Mad. L.R. 110.

Act X of 1859.

21. Act X of 1859 :—S. 310A of the Civil Procedure Code does not apply to sales under Act X of 1859 as the Code of Civil Procedure applies up to sale and does not apply after it: Horish Chandra v. Ananta Charan, 2 C.W.N. 127.

Regular suit to set aside an order refusing to set aside a sale not maintain-
able.

22. Right of suit :—No suit lies to set aside an order of a Court refusing to set aside a sale under s. 174: Kabilaso v. Raghunath, 18 Cal. 481; s. 174 provides a particular means by which sales can be got rid of after they have been concluded and by which the purchaser at the sale can be compensated for loss but it must be got rid of by order of the Court which made the sale: Ibid. A suit is maintainable at the instance of the purchaser of property at a sale held in execution of a rent-decree to set aside an order setting aside a sale under s. 174 of the B. T. Act: Gulab Chand v. Shaikh Fida Hussain, 3 Pat. L.J. 122.

Where an application under s. 310A, C. P. C., was rejected and the sale confirmed under s. 312, C. P. C., and subsequently the judgment-debtor brought a suit to set aside the sale, held that where an order is passed under s. 312 confirming the sale, it is an order passed against the judgment-debtor, though no application under s. 311 has been made, and that no suit will lie to set aside the sale on the ground of irregularity: Damader v. Vinayak, 29 Bom. 40.

S. 174 B. T. Act and O. 21 r. 90 C. P. C. are of limited scope and application, and an application which raises questions as to the execution of a decree, clearly beyond their scope ought to be dealt with under s. 47 C. P. C.: Abdul Rahim v. Gujeshor, 52 I.C. 514.

Contribution.

23. Contribution :—Where a co-tenant got a sale set aside under s. 174 by making the necessary deposit, held that besides his right to contribution personally, he did not acquire a charge on the property so far as the shares of his co-tenants were concerned, for the amount paid by him: Gopi-Nath v. Iswar Chander, 22 Cal. 800: See also Kinu Ram v. Mozafier Hosseni, 14 Cal. 809.

Where a tenant who was not a party to the suit and decree got the sale of an entire tenure set aside by deposit under s. 310A C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882), held that he has a right of contribution against the other tenants: Suchand v. Balaram, 38 Cal. 1.

Where property belonging to A was sold in execution of a decree against B, and A had the sale set aside by making a deposit under s. 310A C. P. C., held that A has no right to sue the decree-holder for recovery of the amount of the deposit money paid to him: Kunjo Behari v. Bhupendra Kumar, 12 C.W.N. 151; A was not bound to apply under s. 310A, C. P. C. to set aside the sale nor had the right to do so: Ibid.

Deposit by a purchaser from a co-tenant against whom no decree was obtained.

Where a tenure was sold in execution of a decree obtained in a suit by a co-sharer landlord against all except one co-tenant, held that the purchaser from the co-tenant against whom the suit had not been brought who got the sale aside by a deposit under s. 310A C. P. C. (Act xiv of 1882) had a right of contribution but was not entitled to sue for contribution for the penalty of 5 per cent: Mohendra v. Bhuban, 14 C.W.N. 945; s.c., 12 C.L.J. 566.

24. Money deposited on behalf of judgment-debtor :—Where a judgment-debtor made an agreement with another that the latter would advance money to have a sale set aside under s. 310A, and that the former would sell the property to the latter in consideration of the same and where-upon the latter depositing the money in the name of the former took a conveyance of the property after the setting aside of the sale, held that the order setting aside the sale having been revised by the Appellate Court the decree-holder had no right to attach for the remainder of his decretal debt the money deposited as it did not belong to the judgment-debtor: Sobharam v. Moheshwar Sarma, 13 C.W.N. 100.

25. Application by purchaser at a sale held under Chapter XIV of B. T. Act to set aside sale on the ground that judgment-debtor has no saleable interest :—

An auction purchaser in a sale held under Chapter XIV of the Bengal Tenancy Act cannot apply to set aside execution sale on the ground that the tenant judgment-debtor had no saleable interest. He cannot call upon the Court to decide as to the nature of the decree and to treat proceedings taken under the Act as proceedings taken under the Code of Civil Procedure: Shashadhar v. Bishun Narain, 43 C.L.J. 279 (Rankin J). In the case of a sale which purports to be held under Chapter XIV of the B. T. Act, which is put up for sale and what the purchaser purports to bid for is the holding itself and not the tenants right and title. Even if the decree is a true rent decree he may take nothing by his purchase and yet cannot set aside the sale. If the decree is not a true rent decree, third parties are not bound by the sale, but the judgment debtor, if he has allowed orders for this form of sale to be made against him, is bound by it. Accordingly, if he has an interest in the holding, it will pass to the auction-purchaser: Ibid.

Execution sale, if can be set aside, judgment debtor not having saleable interest in property.

175. Notwithstanding anything contained in Part IV of the Indian Registration Act, 1877, an instrument creating an incumbrance upon any tenure or holding which has been executed before the commencement of this Act, and is not required by section 17 of the said Registration Act to be registered, shall be accepted for registration under that Act if it is presented for that purpose to the proper officer within one year from the commencement of this Act.

Registration of certain instruments creating incumbrances

Notes :—If the judgment-debtor has been prejudiced by the neglect of the Court to let him know that the amount he had deposited was insufficient, he can claim relief. It is the duty of the court to announce the amount of the costs: Mir Dildar v. Kusum Kumari, 1924, A.I.R., Pat. 256 (Adami J.)

As to how applications under this section are to be made—see Appendix V, Registration Rules, Rule 27.

176. Every officer who has, whether before or after the passing of this Act, registered an instrument executed by a tenant of a tenure or holding and creating an incumbrance on the tenure or holding, shall, at the request of the tenant or of the person in whose favour the incumbrance is created, and on payment by him of such fee as the Local Government may fix in this behalf, notify the incumbrance to the landlord by causing a copy of the instrument to be served on him in the prescribed manner.

Power to brances not extended.

177. Nothing contained in this Chapter shall be deemed to enable a person to create an incumbrance which he could not otherwise lawfully create.

CHAPTER XV.

CONTRACT AND CUSTOM.

178. (1) Nothing in any contract between a landlord and a tenant made before or after the passing of this Act—

Restrictions on exclusion of Act by agreement.

- (a) shall bar in perpetuity the acquisition of an occupancy-right in land, or
- (b) shall take away an occupancy-right in existence at the date of the contract, or
- (c) shall entitle a landlord to eject a tenant otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of this Act, or
- (d) shall take away or limit the right of a tenant, as provided by this Act, to make improvements and claim compensation for them.

(2) Nothing in any contract made between a landlord and a tenant since the 15th day of July, 1880, and before the passing of this Act, shall prevent a raiyat from acquiring, in accordance with this Act, an occupancy-right in land.

(3) Nothing in any contract made between a landlord and a tenant after the passing of this Act shall—

- (a) prevent a raiyat from acquiring, in accordance with this Act, an occupancy-right in land;
- (b) take away or limit the right of an occupancy-raiyat to use land as provided by section 23;
- (c) take away the right of a raiyat to surrender his holding in accordance with section 86;
- (d) take away the right of a raiyat to transfer or bequeath his holding in accordance with local usage;
- (e) take away the right of an occupancy-raiyat to sublet subject to, and in accordance with, the provisions of this Act ;
- (f) take away the right of a raiyat to apply for a reduction of rent under section 38 or section 52;

(g) take away the right of a landlord or a tenant to apply for a commutation of rent under section 40; or

(h) affect the provisions of section 67 relating to interest payable on arrears of rent:

Provided as follows:

(i) nothing in this section shall affect the terms or conditions of a lease granted bona fide for the reclamation of waste land, except that, where, on or after the expiration of the term created by the lease, the lessee would, under Chapter V, be entitled to an occupancy right in the land comprised in the lease, nothing in the lease shall prevent him from acquiring that right:

(ii) when a landlord has reclaimed waste-land by his own servants or hired labourers, and subsequently lets the same or a part thereof to a raiyat, nothing in this Act shall affect the terms of any contract whereby a raiyat is prevented from acquiring an occupancy right in the land or part during a period of thirty years from the date on which the land or part is first let to a raiyat;

(iii) nothing in this section shall affect the terms or conditions of any contract for the temporary cultivation of horticultural or orchard land with agricultural crops.

Explanation. The expression "horticultural land", as used in proviso (iii), means garden land, in the occupation of a proprietor or permanent tenure-holder, which is used bona fide for the cultivation of flowers or vegetables, or both, grown for the personal use of such proprietor or permanent tenure-holder and his family, and not for profit or sale.

1. Interpretation :—S. 178 of the B. T. Act was enacted to safeguard the interests of raiyats.—The scope of that section is to prevent certain contracts between landlord and tenant, the effect of which may be to place the raiyat out of the protection afforded to him by the B. T. Act. Therefore no contract between landlord and tenant can over-ride the express terms of the Act.

2. Amendments :—The following alterations were made by Act I (B.C.) of 1907 and Act I (E.B.A.) of 1908 :—

To the proviso to sub-sec. (2) the following were added—and if he—Civil Procedure.” In proviso (iii) after the words “cultivation of” the words “horticultural or” were inserted.

To the same proviso the Explanation was added.

3. Sub-sec. (1) : Cl. (a) and cl. (b) :—Where a pre-existing occupancy holding was divided between two brothers and it was contended that this division being a contract between the landlord and the tenant had the effect of creating new tenancies and therefore of taking away the pre-existing occupancy rights, held that if this was not the intention of the parties, the division could not have the effect : Nafar v. Rahaman, 23 C.L.J., 580* ; the provisions of s. 178 (1) (b) of the Bengal Tenancy Act would apply : Ibid.

Where the landlord and the tenant stipulated in regard to a pre-existing tenancy that the tenant was to have a perpetual status at a fixed rate, held that the kabuliyat created a permanent mukarrari interest within the meaning of s. 179 of the Bengal Tenancy Act and therefore s. 29 did not apply : Gursahai v. Keshwar, 1 Pat. L.J., 77.

s. 21 of the B. T. Act falls within the purview of s. 178 of the Act and is void: Kasem Sheikh v. Tarakeswar, 85 I.C. 783 (Suhrawardy and Duval, J.J.).

In 1851 H, a proprietor of certain lands let out the same to one R by way of a grant which was in the nature of a patni lease, which contained a provision that the lessee would give back to the lessor such portion of the land as he required. In 1862 the putnidar executed in favour of one C a kaemi istemrari raiyati lease of these lands on similar conditions. The plaintiff, successor of H, wanted back some of the lands in dispute for the purpose of a market and a college. He brought a suit against the heirs of R for reconveyance of some of the lands which was decreed and reconveyance was made by the Court. But as the heirs of C did not give up possession he brought a suit against them for recovery of possession; held that the covenant entered into by the lessee and the patnidar was not an infringement of the provisions of section 178 (1) (a) and (b), B. T. Act, that the same was enforceable and that neither section 179 nor section 178 (1) (a) and (b) of the B. T. Act was applicable to the facts of the case: Jogesh Chandra v. Asaba Khatun, 44 C.L.J. 220 (Greaves and Mukerji, J.J.).

Sub-sec. 1
cl. (d) is
by s. 194.

4. Sub-sec (1), cl. (d):—Sub-sec. (1) cl. (d) is controlled by s. 194: Akshoy Kumar v. Akman Molla, 20 C.L.J. 551, s. c., 19 C.W.N. 1197; under sub-sec. (1) cl. (d) read with s. 89 and s. 10, a landlord has no right to eject a tenant except in execution of a decree: Champaklatika v. Nafar Chandra, 15 C.W.N. 537; s. c., 13 C.L.J., 300; s. 178 does not operate to make s. 155 inapplicable in the case of a tenant of waste lands, who cannot therefore be ejected without notice under s. 155 being served on him: Ibid.

Under-rai-yati permanent lease void.

But not so when under-rai-yati lease by a fixed raiyat.

5. Under-raiyati lease:—A lease granted by a raiyat allowing the lessee to hold the land from generation to generation is a nullity; and acceptance of rent from the lessee cannot effect a ratification of the lease: Mohim Chandra v. Baidya Nath, 21 C.L.J., 478; see also Jarip v. Dorja Bewa, 16 C.L.J., 144 and Telam v. Adu 17 C.W.N. 468. See notes under s. 85. A fixed raiyat may grant a permanent sub-lease; for, the word “transfer” in s. 18 includes a sub-lease. S. 18 controls s. 85 in this respect: see Harimohon v. Atul Krishna, 19 C.W.N. 1127.

Bequest of non-transferable occupancy
holding.

6. Testamentary disposition of occupancy holding:—Except under a local usage a raiyat is not competent to make a testamentary disposition of a non-transferable occupancy holding; the heir-at-law of the raiyat is not estopped from questioning the validity of the devise: Amulyaratan v. Tarini Nath, 42 Cal. 254, s. c., 18 C.W.N. 1290; the case of Haridas v. Uday Chandra, 12 C.W.N. 1086, s. c., 8 C.L.J., 261, was dissented from in this case. Following the case of Amulyaratan v. Tarini Nath, 42 Cal. 254, it was held by Fletcher and Richardson J.J., in the case of Kunja Lal v. Umesh Chandra, 18 C.W.N. 1294 that except under local usage a non-transferable occupancy holding is not capable of being bequeathed by will.

clause.

7. Re-entry:—A valid contract of tenancy providing that the tenant, a raiyat, should hold the land for his life-time, and that the landlord would have the right to re-enter on his death, could be created before the passing of the Bengal Tenancy Act: such a contract does not come within the terms of the provisions in cl. (a) sub-sec. (1) or cl. (a), sub-sec. (3) of s. 178 and is therefore enforceable : Baul Chandra v. Nistarini Debi, 33 Cal. 136, s.c., 10 C.W.N. 533.

In the absence of any right of re-entry reserved in a lease an assignment by a lessee is operative against the lessor from transferring without the permission of the lessor : Basarat Ali v. Manirulla, 36 Cal. 745, s. c., 10 C.L.J. 49.

8. Suits instituted before the passing of this Act :—S. 178 does not apply to suits instituted before the date on which the Act came into force : Moheshwar v. Sheobaran, 14 Cal. 621.

9. Sub-sec. (1), cl. (b) :—Where an occupancy raiyat before the passing of the Act agreed that he would hold a certain specified area for a term of 5 years, and where at the end of the expiry of the term plaintiff brought a suit in ejectment, the suit being instituted before the passing of the Act, held that as the suit commenced before the Tenancy Act came into force, the tenant was not entitled to get the benefit of s. 178 : Moheshwar v. Sheobaran, 14 Cal. 621.

Agreement by occupancy raiyat before the passing of the Act.

10. Right to transfer :—Where a tenure-holder contracted with his landlord that he was at liberty to make a transfer of the under-tenure but that unless the transferee furnished security, he was not to be absolved from liability, held that the agreement was valid and binding on the tenure : Dino Bandhu v. Bonnerjee, 19 Cal. 774.

Agreement by tenure-holder not to be absolved from liability unless security is furnished.

11. Right of pre-emption reserved in a conveyance :—In a conveyance executed by plaintiffs in favour of defendant no. 1's father it was provided that in case he sold property subsequently he would be bound to give preference to the plaintiffs, i.e., his vendors to purchase the same for a certain sum, and on their refusal to accept the offer he would be at liberty to sell the same to others ; after his father's death defendant no. 1 without offering to sell the land to the plaintiffs, though they were willing to purchase it, sold the same to defendants nos. 2, 3, 4 and who had notice of the contract, held that the contract was not binding on defendant no. 1 and therefore the sale to defendants nos. 2, 3 and 4 was not liable to be set aside : Nobin Chandra v. Nabab Ali, 5 C.W.N. 343 ; see also Kishen Datt v. Mumtaz, 6 I.A. 145. In the case of Tripoora Sqondaree v. Jaggunath, 24 W.R. 321, it was doubted as to whether a covenant not to dispose of a property except to the parties of the covenant was binding on the heirs of the parties.

12. Covenant by lessee not to purchase under-tenant's holding :—Defendants obtained a lease from plaintiffs in the following terms :—"You shall not purchase the jote of any of the tenants either in your own names or benami ; if you do so, the purchase shall be null and void ; after the expiry of the term the ijara mehals will come to our khas possession. You shall not be able to raise any sort of objection thereto ; if you raise any such objection, it shall be void." The plaintiffs during the term of their lease purchased certain jote rights in execution of decrees for arrears of rent, and brought a suit for recovery of possession of these jotes on the allegation that the defendants had dispossessed them from the same after expiry of their lease ; held, that the stipulation in the deed was a valid one and there was nothing against public policy in such a restriction as was contained in the lease ; Robert Watson v. Ram Chand, 1. C.W.N. 174. The benefit of such a covenant runs with the land and an assignee of the lessor can claim such benefit : Ibid,

Contract not to purchase under-tenant's holding is valid and runs with land.

13. Cl. (c): Ejectment: Denial of landlord's title :—The sections providing the grounds upon which a landlord may eject a tenant are ss. 10, 18, 25, 44 and 49. Denial of landlord's title is no ground of ejectment under any one of the provisions of these sections. So a tenant denying his landlord's title is not liable to ejectment under the Bengal Tenancy Act. See Debruddi v. Abdur Rahim, 17 Cal. 197 and Nizamuddin v. Mamtazuddin, 5 C.W.N. 263; but a contrary view has been taken in certain cases. See notes under s. 10 where the cases are all discussed.

No ejectment by virtue of agreement but according to provisions of the Act.

Where a tenancy is created by virtue of a decree on compromise, for a period of nine years to be held at a certain annual rent, the tenant is liable to be ejected only in accordance with the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act and not in accordance with the provisions of any contract between the parties to the contrary: Gopal Krishna v. Harinath, 34 C.L.J. 157.

14. Cls. (d), (e) and (f):—It seems that these restrictions do not apply to agreements made with tenure-holders, in as much as the term "raiyyat" has been used in these clauses.

15. Sub-sec. (3) cl. (h):—S. 67 and 178 (3) (h) apply only to contracts between landlords and tenants as to the terms upon which the latter shall hold their tenancy: Hari Prasad v. Damri Singh, 2 Pat. L.J., 367; interest at a rate higher than what is provided in s. 67 may be stipulated in mortgage bond for arrears of rent: Ibid.

Agreement to give up land.

16. Sub-sec. (3) Cl. (a):—An agreement by a tenant to give up the land of his tenancy on notice is nugatory under sub-sec. (3) Cl. (a): Ganga Singh v. The Chairman of the District Board, Patna, [1919 Pat.] p. 235.

17. S. 179 :—S. 179 is not controlled by s. 178; consequently the provisions of s. 178 do not prevent the holder of a permanent mukurari lease to grant lease "on any terms" he pleases; see notes under s. 179.

18. Interest; Section 67 :—Having regard to s. 178 sub-sec. (3), cl. (h) a landlord is entitled only to the interest secured to him by s. 67, the Interest Act not being applicable: Monohor v. Khettrath, 17 C.W.N. 320, s. c., 18 C.L.J., 175 (Monohor v. Poresch Chandra).

Interest by a tenant holding over.

When a tenant holds over, after the expiration of his lease he does so on the terms of the lease, on the same rent and on the same stipulation as are mentioned in the lease until the parties come to a fresh settlement; there is no general rule of law to the effect that the lease of an agricultural tenant in this country who holds over, must be taken as renewed from year to year, and if any contract is to be implied, it should be taken to have been entered into so soon as the term of the lease rather than at the beginning of each year; so where the plaintiff sued the defendants for rent for a period after the passing of the Bengal Tenancy Act upon the basis of a kabuliyat executed by defendant's predecessor in interest in 1283, B.S. (1876-1877) for five years and the plaintiff claimed interest at 75 per cent. upon the arrears as stipulated in the kabuliyat: held that the defendant was liable to pay interest at the rate stipulated in the kabuliyat; Kishore Lal v. Administrator-General of Bengal, 2 C.W.N. 303.

Condition

Where a tenure was put up to sale for arrears of rent against a tenant whose lease had expired in 1884 and was purchased by the defendant, and the plaintiff afterwards sued the defendant for interest at the rate specified in the lease of the defaulting tenant, held that the condition relating to interest was not an ordinary incident of the holding and did not attach to the land after the lease had expired, and the holding by the act of the landlord had passed into other hands, and that therefore the defendant was not liable for the rate mentioned in the lease: Alim v. Satish Chandra, 24 Cal. 37. relating to interest not an ordinary incident of the holding.

The case of Kishore Lal v. Administrator-General, 2 C.W.N. 303, was not followed in Ali Mahmud v. Bhagabati, 2 C.W.N. 525. In the latter case it was decided that where a tenant was holding over on the expiration of a lease which had been executed before the passing of the Tenancy Act, but which expired after it came into force, the landlord was not entitled to interest beyond that provided by s. 67. Contra.

"A distinction was drawn between that case and that of Kishore Lal Dey v. The Administrator-General of Bengal, on the ground that the lease had expired after the Tenancy Act had come into operation but that fact does not appear to us to affect the general principle:" (Per Ameer Ali and Brett, J.J.), Administrator-General of Bengal v. Asraf Ali, 28 Cal. 227 (at p. 233). Kishore Lal v. Administrator-General of Bengal, discussed.

Where a contract was expressly renewed after the passing of the Tenancy Act and the stipulation as to interest was embodied in a new lease, held that the tenant was not bound by it and the stipulation was not enforceable under the law: Administrator-General of Bengal v. Asraf Ali, 28 Cal. 227. So where an agricultural tenant held under a lease for six years, the terms of which expired in 1881, and had been holding over and the rate of interest specified in the lease was 75 per cent. per annum, and the landlord sued for rent for the years 1893 to 1895 and part of 1896 with interest at the rate specified in the lease, held that the plaintiff could not recover interest at a rate higher than 12 per cent.: Ibid. Renewal of contract after passing of the Act.

A stipulation for payment of interest upon arrears of rent is an ordinary incident of tenancy in this country unless there is something unusual in the stipulation, and as a rule it attaches to the tenancy so that a purchaser of the tenancy will also be bound by the stipulation: Rajnarain v. Panna Chand, 7 C.W.N. 193, but a stipulation for the payment of interest at an unusual and an exorbitant rate cannot be supposed to be an incident of a tenancy which would attach to it even after a sale for arrears of rent; Kali Nath v. Trailokya Nath, 26 Cal. 315, s. c., 3 C.W.N. 194. Rampini, J., held that by the sale of a tenancy a new contract is created between the auction-purchaser and the landlord at the date of the sale: Ibid. This view of the law was dissented from in an unreported case (Second Appeal No. 238 of 1901—decided on the 14th August 1903—unreported). In this case the rate of interest provided in the kabuliyat was 75 per cent., and it was argued that the defendant was a purchaser of the former tenant's interest and was not bound to pay the interest provided in the kabuliyat. It was contended that the sale was virtually a sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent. Maclean, C.J., (Geidt, J., concurring) in delivering judgment said as follows:— Stipulation for payment of interest attaches to the tenancy.

The rate of interest in this case is exorbitant but the parties have made their own bargain, and I do not see upon what principle By the sale of tenancy, a new contract is created between landlord and auction purchasers. Contra.

we can make a fresh bargain for them ; there are no circumstances in this case of oppression, or undue influence, nor any equitable considerations which would give us a right to interfere upon the ground that the bargain was an unconscionable one. Much reliance has been placed on the judgment of Mr. Justice Rampini in the case of Kali Nath Sen v. Troylokya Nath Ray, 26 Cal. 315 s.c., 3 C.W.N. 194, where he says that under circumstances such as the present a fresh contract must be regarded as having been entered into between the landlord and the purchaser. I am unable to concur in this view."

See notes under s. 67.

Monthly interest.

Subsisting lease.

Purchaser.

S. 179.

A purchaser is bound to pay rent by monthly instalments and interest on arrears will be calculated monthly when the original kabuliyat was executed in 1865 and contained that rent should be paid by monthly instalments: Nadia Sundari v. Girindra, 7 C.L.J., 24 notes. Where the lease is a subsisting one the purchaser is bound to pay interest in accordance with the lease: Lalgopal v. Monmotho Lal, 32 Cal. 258 s. c., 9 C.W.N. 175 (F.B.). This case was followed in Tiluk Chandra v. Jasoda Kumar, 11 C.W.N. 215, in which case interest was claimed at a rate of more than 12 per cent. on the basis of a kabuliyat executed before the passing of the Bengal Tenancy Act, the tenant being proved to have acquired the holding by private purchase: held, that the stipulation as to interest must be given effect to. Where a tenancy was created before the passing of this Act and that it was stipulated that interest would run at the rate of one anna per rupee, held that the purchaser of the jama in auction-sale after the passing of the Act was bound by the terms relating to interest. Ibid. Rampini, J., discussed and distinguished the case of Kalinath v. Troiyucka, 26 Cal. 315, s. c., 3 C.W.N. 194.

S. 67 of the Bengal Tenancy Act does not control the provisions of s. 179 of the Act and that therefore a contract for the payment of interest on arrears of rent, entered into by a landlord and a permanent tenure-holder under him, is enforceable by law, although it may contravene the provisions of s. 67: Matungini v. Makruru, 29 Cal. 614, s. c., 5 C.W.N. 431 (F.B.), over-ruling Basanta Kumar v. Pramatha, 26 Cal. 130 ; s. c., 3 C.W.N. 36.

The provisions of sub-sec. (3) cl. (h) are applicable to the case of a kabuliyat executed after the passing of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Narendra v. Gorachand, 33 Cal. 683 ; s. c., 3 C.L.J. 391 parties ought not be allowed to nullify the effect of sub-sec. (3) cl. (h) by contracting themselves out of the provisions of s. 67 by the device of making the rent payable otherwise than quarterly ; Ibid ; a contract made after the passing of the Bengal Tenancy Act is not enforceable in so far as it provides for payment of interest at rates higher than 12 per cent. : Ibid. See notes under s. 67.

Mokurari lease. Stipulation as to high rate of interest and damages.

In a case where in a mokurari lease the stipulation was that the tenant was to pay interest at 75 per cent. per annum "with full damages" there was a difference of opinion between N. R. Chatterjea and Richardson J.J., the former holding that the rate of interest stipulated was unconscionable and that the landlord was entitled to damages, the latter holding that the interest stipulated was recoverable but not the damages: Nabokumar v. Syed Abdul, 21 C.W.N. 112.*; Richardson J., observed that stipulation to pay interest at a

* See Upendra Lal v. Meheraj Bibi, 21 C.W.N. 112.

26. Reduction of rent: Sub-sec. 3 cl. (f) :—“This clause applies to a raiyat. It does not seem to apply to a tenure-holder.

It was held in a case of permanent mokurari lease that this clause did not apply thereto and a tenant holding under a permanent mokurari lease was held to be not entitled to get abatement of rent by reason of a portion of the land in his occupation having been diluviated by the action of a river: Nundo Lal v. Kymuddin, 9 C.W.N. 86; in this case the stipulation was that the “diluviation” was at the tenant’s risk.

If the mokurari tenant is a raiyat and not a tenure-holder it seems that cl. (f) applies, for the clause applies to a raiyat.

27. S. 155 :—The effect of s. 178 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is that even where there is a provision for re-entry in a contract between landlord and tenant (a permanent tenure-holder) made before the passing of the Act, s. 155 applies: Afiladdi v. Satis Chandra, 29 C.L.J. 40. Provision for re-entry.

28. Stipulation for higher Rate of rent :—There is nothing illegal in a stipulation to pay rent at a rate higher than that recoverable under the Act. Such a stipulation does not fall within the provisions of s. 178. Neither is such contract void. The mere fact that it is not enforceable in law does not prevent it from being a condition of a contract the failure to comply with which would justify the other party in not carrying out his share of the contract. The covenant to pay the rent at a higher rate than is recoverable under the Act may be enforceable but it may still be a condition precedent to renewal: Ashraf Ali v. Arman Khan, 90 I.C. 893. s. c., A.I.R. (1926) Cal. 162 (Greaves and Cuming J.J.). Stipulation for higher rate of rent.

179. Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to prevent a proprietor or a holder of a permanent tenure in a permanently-settled area from granting a permanent mukarrari lease on any terms agreed on between him and his tenant. Permanent mukarrari leases.

mokurari.

2. "Mokurari :—*Relating to what is fixed : as a revenue term it is applied to a tenure held at a fixed and permanent rate of rent when payable to a proprietor, or revenue when payable to the Government." Wilson's Glossary of Judicial and Revenue Terms.

With regard to the meaning of the words istemrari and mokurari Pratt and Mitra J.J., observed as follows in the case of Pandit Agin Bind v. Mohun Bikram, 7 C.W.N. 314 :—

and Mokurari.

"The words istemrari and mokurari are both of Arabic origin and literally they mean continuous (running) and fixed. But what is their meaning when used together as a compound and applied to intermediate tenures?

"They might mean continuous or permanent during the lifetime of the grantee or permanent as regards hereditary descent : Lilanand Singh v. Munorunjun Singh, 13 B.L.R. 124, see p. 133 (1873) ; Tulshi Pershad Singh v. Ram Narain Singh, 12 Cal. 117, see p. 130 (1885). Their lexicographical meaning is, therefore, of little use to us, as observed by the Privy Council in Tulshi Pershad Singh v. Ram Narain Singh, 12 Cal. 117, see p. 130 (1885). We have to see to the customary meaning of the words as established by judicial decisions.

"Permanent intermediate tenures at fixed rent were unknown or were seldom recognised in India under the Mahomedans and the British Government were at first reluctant to recognise them. The Bengal Code of 1793 passed by the Government of Lord Cornwallis was decidedly against their creation (Reg. XLIV, sec. 1). The prohibition was repeated in Reg. I, of 1795, sec. 2, and Reg. XLVII of 1803, sec. 2. The proprietors of revenue-paying estates were first permitted to create them by Reg. V of 1812, sec. 2, and Reg. XVIII of 1812, sec. 2, and as regards tenures technically known as putni, durputni and se-putni, they were first recognised by Reg. VIII of 1819. There is no reference in these Regulations to istemrari-mokurari tenures. Secs. 16 to 19 of Reg. VIII of 1793 refer to mokurari and istemrari proprietary rights held directly under the Government. The words are nowhere defined. They seem to have been used as interchangeable expressions and might apply to grant for life as well as heritable grants.

"The decisions of the Sadar Dewani Adawlat at Calcutta and of the High Court and the Privy Council itself as to the meaning of the expression istemrari-mokurari were reviewed by their Lordships in Tulshi Pershad v. Ram Narain Singh, 12 Cal. 117, see p. 130 (1885). The decisions of the High Court at Calcutta in Lakhu Kowar v. Ram Hari Krishna Singh, 3 B.L.R.A.C. 226 (1869) and Raja Ram narain Sing v. Amir Khan and others, (Unreported) 4th Sept., 1877, were over-ruled, and their Lordships thus summed up their judgment : "After the review of the decisions their Lordships think it is established that the words istemrari-mokurari in a patta do not per se convey an estate of inheritance but they do not accept the decisions as establishing that such an estate cannot be created without the addition of the other words that are mentioned, as the Judges do not seem to have in their minds that the other terms of the instrument, the circumstances under which it was made, or the subsequent

* See Upendra Lal v. Meheraj Bibi, 21 C.W.N. 112.

The words 'Putra Poutradi Krame,' although literally signify descendants of the male sex, they ordinarily mean and include female heirs where by law the estate would descend to such heirs, and are apt for conferring an estate of inheritance to either male or female heirs: Panchubala Debi v. Jatindra Nath, 43 C.L.J. 567 (Cuming & B. B. Ghose, J.J.).

3. Covenant restraining alienation:—A covenant in a permanent lease that in case of any transfer by the lessee it should be in favour of the lessor for proper price is not valid: Swarna Kumar v. Pralhad, 26 C.W.N. 874; a covenant that the lessee in case of transfer to a third party should take the permission of the lessor is also valid: Ibid.

4. Interest:—S. 67 of the Bengal Tenancy Act does not control the provisions of s. 179. In granting a permanent lease within the terms of s. 179, a condition that interest shall be payable at a higher rate than 12 per cent. per annum as allowed by s. 67, is permissible: Matungini v. Mukrura, 29 Cal. 674, s.c., 5 C.W.N. 438 (F.B.); see also Atulya Charan v. Tulsi Das, 2 C.W.N. 543: the case of Basanta Kumar v. Promotha Nath, 26 Cal. 130, s.c., 3 C.W.N. 36 was over-ruled by the Full Bench decision in the case of Matungini v. Mukrura, 29 Cal. 674.

In a case where in a mokurari lease the stipulation was that the tenant was to pay interest at 75 per cent. per annum "with full damages" there was a difference of opinion between N. R. Chatterjea and Richardson J.J., the former holding that the rate of interest stipulated was recoverable but not the damages: Nabo Kumar v. Syed Abdul, 21 C.W.N. 112. Richardson J., held that stipulation to pay interest at a high rate may be proved to be one by way of penalty, but to justify an inference that it is so, it is not enough to shew that it was a hard bargain.

N. R. Chatterjea J. observed in the case that s. 179 of the Bengal Tenancy Act does not exclude the consideration of the question whether a stipulation in a permanent mokurari lease to pay interest at a higher rate than that provided by s. 67 is affected by provisions of law other than the Bengal Tenancy Act. Richardson J. pointed out that the lessee at a permanent lease at an invariable rent is not prima facie entitled to the indulgent consideration which might be extended to a needy and improvident debtor in the clutches of a grasping money-lender and though it may be that the provisions of s. 179 must be read subject to the power of the court to intervene under the Contract Act, they cannot be overlooked or left out of account.

5. Stipulation of abwab:—S. 179 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is not controlled by s. 74: consequently the provisions of s. 74 do not prevent the holder of a permanent tenure from granting a permanent mokurari lease "on any terms" he pleases, that is even stipulating for the payment of an abwab: Krishna Chandra v. Sushila Sundari, 26 Cal. 611 s.c., 3 C.W.N. 608. In the case of Assanulla v. Tirtha Bashini, 22 Cal. 680, it is said, though by way of an obiter dictum, that though there is some repugnancy between s. 179 and s. 74 there seems good reason for thinking that s. 179 is not controlled by s. 74. Macpherson and Banerjee, J.J., in delivering judgment in that case observed as follows:—"There is no doubt some repugnancy between this section (s. 179) and s. 74 of the Act, but whether following the principle enunciated by Lord Justice James in Ebbs v. Boulnois, L.R. 10 Ch. App. 479 (484), we regard the latter which is a special provision, as a qualification of the former which is a general rule, or adopting the rules stated by Keating J., in Wood v. Reily, L.R. 3 C.P. 26 (27), that of two repugnant clauses in a statute the last must prevail there seems to be good reason for thinking that s. 179 is not controlled by s. 74.

Abwabs are not recoverable from a permanent tenure-holder under a lease created before the Bengal Tenancy Act came into operation; they could not be recoverable under Reg. V of 1812 and Act X of 1859 and cannot be recovered under s. 179 owing to the operation of cl. (4) of s. 2 of the Act: Apurna v. Kasamali, 10 C.W.N. 527: s.c., 4 C.L.J. 527. See also Eastern Mortgage Agency v. Ganapat, 9 C.W.N., 23 (notes).

See notes under s. 74.

Abatement
of rent.

6. Other stipulations:—A stipulation in a mokurari lease in a permanently settled area that there would be no abatement of rent for reduction of area is valid, and in a suit for abatement of rent under s. 52 (b) of the Bengal Tenancy Act in respect of the whole tenure on the allegation that there had been a reduction in the area of the entire tenure by diluvion, held that the tenant could not claim reduction on the ground of diluvion: Khettramani v. Jiban Krishna, 21 C.L.J. 315; the covenant was authorised by s. 179: Ibid.

'Where the terms of a potta in respect of a mourashi mokurari tenure were, inter alia, as follows:—"You shall not be entitled to take a plea for remission of the jama fixed on the ground of failure of crops, on account of inundation or drought, on account of death, abandonment, land lying fallow or being in water-logged condition, dispossession or any other such ground. If you do that it shall not be entertained. I shall not be competent to demand anything in excess of the rent fixed on any ground. If Government acquires any land under the dar mourashi for its own use or for works of the public good you will get the compensation but shall not get any abatement of rent on that account. If you find it necessary to surrender the jama on account of the inability to pay rent at the rate stipulated you shall surrender after paying in full all arrears of rent and on delivery of possession of the land and jama to me to my satisfaction, otherwise you shall remain liable for the rent as stated above," held that the contract was that there should be neither increase nor decrease of the rent on any ground whatsoever; if there be any accession to the land by alluvion the landlord would not be entitled to any increase of the rent and if there be decrease of land by diluvion the tenant would not be entitled to any abatement of rent: Dwijendranath v. Jitendranath, 32 C.W.N. 295 (B. B. Ghose and Mallik J.J.).

The right to obtain abatement in case of diluvion is based upon the general principle of law which should be enforced as a rule of justice, equity and good conscience, and unless there is any special contract by which the tenant precluded from obtaining the abatement he is entitled to claim it: Ibid.

A durputni kabuliyat contained the following clause: "Like yourself, we shall have full rights to grant leases or make settlements of lands in the Maffasil but if these Durputni mehals be sold at auction for arrears of rent due to you, then all agreements entered into by us shall be extinct (stand cancelled)"; held that s. 179 controls cl. (b) of the proviso to s. 159: Madhu Sudan v. Midnapur Zemindari Co., 45 Cal. 940, s.c., 27 C.L.J. 511; the restriction runs with the land, and is operative not only between the grantor and the grantee, but also between their representatives in interest and holders of derivative titles; the condition in the lease is not an absolute restraint on alienation, and is for the benefit of the lessor: Ibid.

Where the parties stipulated in regard to a pre-existing tenancy that the tenant was to have a perpetual status at a fixed rate, held that the kabuliyat created a permanent mukurari interest within the meaning of s. 179 of the Bengal Tenancy Act and therefore s. 29 did not apply: Gur Sahai v. Keshwar, 1 Pat. L.J. 77. Pre-existing tenancy.

In a perpetual lease, that is, a lease conveying a permanent transferable and heritable interest in the thing demand, the landlord has no right of reversion: Midnapur Zemindary Co. v. Ramkanai, [1925 Pat.] 254.

7. Permanent tenure and permanent mukurari lease:—"Permanent tenure" means a tenure which is heritable and which is not held for a limited time. See s. 3 sub-sec. (8).

When a tenant could not produce any document to shew under what circumstances and conditions his tenure was created, but there was evidence to shew that he and his predecessors in title had been in undisturbed possession and enjoyment of the tenure at apparently a fixed rent since the year 1203 (1796) i.e., for nearly one hundred years, held that in absence of any evidence to the contrary a strong and reasonable presumption arose that he had a permanent and transferable interest in the tenure, and not an interest of the nature of a tenancy-at will, which was liable to be determined at the pleasure of the landlord: A. M. Dunne v. Nobo Krishna, 17 Cal. 144. Gordon J., in delivering the judgment of the Court further observed as follows:—"Further having regard to the habits and customs of the people of this country in matters of this kind, it appears to us that the fact that the *lakhirajdars have stood by and allowed the appellant and his predecessors in title to continue in uninterrupted possession and enjoyment of the tenure for so many years, without attempting to eject them or vary their rent strongly indicates that they have all along regarded and treated the tenure as one of a permanent character, and their conduct in this respect gives additional strength to the presumption, which, as I have already said, arises in favour of the appellant from long possession." Presumption.

See notes under s. 3, cl. (9) and also under s. 7.

8. Permanently settled area:—A part of the Sunderbans can be a permanently settled area even if settled after 1793, the definition in cl. (12) of s. 3 of the Bengal Tenancy Act notwithstanding: Khettermanni v. Jiban Krishna, 21 C.L.J. 315 (D. Chatterji and Mullick J.J.) This decision has been reversed on The Sunderbans, if can be permanently settled area.

(a) who, in any part of the country where the custom of utbandi prevails, holds land ordinarily let under that custom and for the time being let under that custom, or

(b) who holds land of the kind known as char or diara, in case (b), in the char or diara land,

(2) Chapter VI shall not apply to raiyats holding land under the custom of utbandi in respect of land held by them under that custom.

(3) The Collector may, on the application of either the landlord or the tenant or on a reference from the Civil Court, declare that any land has ceased to be char or diara land within the meaning of this section, and thereupon all the provisions of this Act shall apply to the land.

Utbandi meaning of. 1. Utbandi :—A settlement of revenue with reference to the quality of the land, the description of produce, and customary rate of assessment. (Wilson's Glossary of Judicial and Revenue Terms).

The Utbandi system, it appears, had its origin in the district of Nadia. An authoritative account of the system will be found in the Bengal District Gazetteer, 1861 at pp. 112 and 113. See also Hunter's Statistical Accounts of Bengal: An account of the system will also be found in the Report of the Government of Bengal on the Tenancy Bill in 1884. The Utbandi system prevails in the districts of Nadia, Murshidabad, Jessore, Khulna and 24 Parganas. (See Letter No. 24 R.L. dated the 17th September, 1884, from A. Smith Esq., Commissioner Presidency Division to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, printed at page 183 of the Report of the Government of Bengal on the Bengal Tenancy Bill, 1884, Vol. II). In that Report an analysis of the reports of the District officers regarding utbandi tenures is given. The following extracts from that report are quoted below. “In Jessore there are few tenures of this description ; they are generally confined to waste lands and bheel lands which are, for the whole or greater part of the year, under water and which are cultivated by the raiyats under special contracts generally from year to year. These lands are taken at fixed or progressive rates of rent on terms agreed to by the raiyats. The same raiyats can have the same lands for any number of years but the custom is that he does not acquire a right of occupancy. The raiyat can be ejected at the will of the landlord, as the tenures are not kaimi or pucca. In Khulna the utbandi system is known only in one pargana, (Khoraria). The tenure is not a favourite one with the zemindar as the sole risk is with him. In Murshidabad utbandi does not prevail to any great extent and is to be found only on the east side of the Bhagirathi, chiefly in pargana Goás. The cultivator under this system who has no right whatsoever either of occupancy or otherwise takes the land by verbal permission of the Zemindar. The holding is measured and assessed at the local rates as soon as it has been sown down without any reference to the prospect of the crops. In 24-Parganas such tenures prevail only in the northern part of the district, where lands in the khas possession of the landlords are leased out to cultivators under verbal agreements. The tenancy ceases at the end of either the season or the period of the lease. The usual term is a year after which the land may lie fallow on account of the exhaustion of its strength or because no one has come forward to take it. No occupancy right grows in such tenures, and before the crop is reaped the landlord makes sure of the rent by watching that it is not taken away from the fields before his dues are satisfied. These tenures are known in the south of the district as korfa or thicca.

“Mr. Stevens does not think that the account of such tenures given by Dr. Hunter in his Statistical Report of Nuddea, as they stood in 1872, is in any defective, but that the tenancy is now towards a decrease in the area of such lands.

It is the opinion of Mr. Stevens that so far as utbandi and similar tenures in his district are concerned, the saving of customary conditions provided for in the Bill (section 214) is sufficient.

In Nuddea the utbandi system prevails to a large extent. A full account of these tenures is given in Dr. Hunter's Statistical Accounts. Mr. Tayler reports thus on these tenures: “The utbandi—the system under which uncultivated lands are brought under cultivation—and the actual area cultivated is measured and paid for at the rate prevailing in that part of the country. Cultivators who take such lands are not obliged to cultivate them a second year, but as a rule they can keep them for certain for three years if they elect to do so. Generally the lands under this system are cultivated from one to five years, and then left fallow for the same period. The cultivators acquire no right of occupancy, nor do they desire to do so. There being more lands in the district than are required by the cultivators, they prefer to take lands which have been lying fallow for a term of years, and which are consequently likely to yield the more, to retaining the same land and cultivating it for once 12 years. The Zemindars on the other hand are reluctant to allow cultivators to retain such lands for any length of time, both with the view to prevent their acquiring occupancy rights and to prevent deterioration of such lands. In some cases Zemindars get selami when allowing new cultivators to take such lands."

About the system of utbandi, it is said in the Bengal District Gazetteer, 1910 at p. 172 that it is common in the District of Nadia where $\frac{5}{6}$ ths of the cultivated lands are held under it. It is an ancient institution in land tenure, which has been existing since time immemorial and has its recorded history since 1861.

"An utbandi tenancy is a tenancy from year to year, sometimes from season to season, the rent being regulated, not as in the case of halhasila by a lump payment in money for the land cultivated, but by the appraisement of the crop on the ground and according to its character. So far it resembles the tenancy by crop appraisement of the bhaoli system; but there is between them this marked difference that, while in the latter the land does not change hands from year to year, in the former it may."—See Selections from Papers relating to the B. T. Act, 1885 page 371.

Hunter's Statistical Account.

The safest guide in the matter of what is utbandi system is what is to be found in special reports made by Revenue officers, and in the descriptions given in the Statistical Account of Bengal compiled by Sir W. N. Hunter from informations carefully collected through local officers in the districts where the system exists: Beni Madhab v. Bhuban Mohan, 17 Cal. 393 (at p. 396).

Utbandi.

Utbandi is applied to land held for a year, or rather for a season only. The general custom is for husbandman to get verbal permission to cultivate a certain amount of land in a particular place at a rate agreed upon when the crop is on the ground. The land is measured and the rent is assessed on it. Quotation from the Statistical report relating to the utbandi system in Nuddia: Beni Madhab v. Bhuban Mohan, 17 Cal. 393 (at p. 397).

Holdings of which parts are cultivated and other parts lie fallow while the rent for the whole is assessed year by year with reference to the quantity within the holding under cultivation in that year hardly seem to answer to the general conception of utbandi, although the rent may be arrived at each year by ascertaining what area has been cultivated: Ibid.

"An utbandi tenure is one by which a raiyat holds a certain area of land (which I believe is usually defined), but for which he pays rent according to the quantity of that land which year by year he cultivates. The rent will, therefore, vary according to the actual cultivated area": Per Jackson J., in Dwarka Nath v. Noboo Sirdar, 14 W.R. 193 at p. 194.

Custom in Nuddea.

"There exists in the district of Krishnagar a custom under which tenants can cultivate land which is not directly let out to other tenants, but remains khas khamar, on payment of certain high rates of rent. In the case of such tenants, there exists an implied agreement between the parties, that such rent shall be paid; and the amount of land so cultivated and the rent to be paid it are ascertained each year by actual measurement. The lands in question are called "Utbandi" lands, and the rents are calculated at what are called "Utbandi rates:" Per Bailey and Jackson J.J., Mirzan Biswas v. R. T. Hills, 3 W.R. Act X, p. 159 at p. 160.

Abandonment by utbandi tenant:—An utbandi tenant, when he ceases to hold the land, is not bound to give any notice of abandonment to his landlord, in order to avoid liability for rent for future years: Amrita Lal v. Giridhur, 11 C.W.N. 581: s.c., 5 C.L.J. 398. Abandonment.

(Wilson's Glossary of Judicial and Revenue Terms).

The expression 'Char' or 'Diara' land has not been defined in the Bengal Tenancy Act. Char means a sand bank formed in a river or island in the current of a river or which has accreted to its bank: While Diara means an island formed in the bed of a river, land gained by the recession of a river. (Wilson's Glossary of Judicial and Revenue Terms).

Government is entitled to public revenue under Act IX of 1847 from chars formed in a non-navigable river, even when it flows through a permanently settled Zemindari, as well as up to the middle line of the river where i.e., the boundary of the Zemindari and this even where it appears that the river bed was part of the permanently settled Zemindari: *Secretary of State for India v. A suit to contest an order of the Board of Revenue under s. 6 of Act IX of 1847 declaring the liability of lands claimed as part of a permanently settled estate, to assessment of revenue is not barred by the one year's rule of limitation laid down in sec. 24 of Reg. II of 1819: Secretary of State v. Radhakant Aich, 53 Cal. 952, s.c., 30 C.W.N. 774 (F.B.). (The case of Prafulla Nath Tagore v. Secretary of State, 24 C.W.N. 813 was over-ruled).

*Bihar Settlement
Manual*,

“The intention of the Legislature by enacting section 180 of the B. T. Act was to allow landlords to make any terms they pleased with the tenants of diara lands in which occupancy rights have not accrued. But while clause (2) of sec. 180 expressly excludes raiyats holding lands under the custom of utbandi from the benefits conferred on non-occupancy raiyats by Chap. VI of the Act, no mention is made of the exclusion of char or diara lands from the operation of that Chapter. The effect is that raiyats of diara lands, where they have not acquired rights of occupancy, have all the privileges and rights of non-occupancy raiyats. Chapter VI does not, however, appear to be suitable to the settlement of rents or revenue by Revenue officers in diara lands. Under sec. 46, the landlord has to tender to the raiyat an agreement to pay enhanced rent, if enhancement is desired, and, if the agreement is not accepted, there is only one ground for enhancement mentioned in sub-sec. (9) of sec. 46 under which enhancement can be decreed by the Civil Courts, viz., prevailing rate, or regard to the rates generally paid by raiyats for land of the same class in the village, no mention being made of the ground on which all diara resettlements are made, viz., the effect of fluvial action. The prevailing rate may be a workable provision in the case of individual holdings in uplands, but in the case of diara lands, where the estate covers the whole village, the village rates being what it is proposed to alter the section places difficulties in the way of Revenue officers and furnishes them with no workable guide.

As regards diara lands in permanently settled estates, there is really no necessity to do anything in the direction of a survey and the preparation of a record of rights. If anything is to be done, a survey would suffice, but the law at present does not authorise the realisation of the cost of a mere survey unless Chapter X of the Tenancy Act be applied. If the landlords or tenants of permanently-settled diara lands want such a survey, they should be required to deposit the estimated cost in advance. If they do not want a survey, such land may be excluded from the operations altogether.” [Extracts from Letter No. 914 T. R. dated 12th October 1896 from M. Finucane Esqr., Secretary to the Government of Bengal to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue.]

Char :
Diara.

“The terms char and diara have not been defined in the law. For practical purposes and with reference to sub-sec. (3) of sec. 180 the term may be taken to mean the areas which the Collector determines to be subject to fluvial action, such fluvial action being probable within a reasonably short period of time judged by the previous history of the land under consideration. A raiyat who cultivates char or diara lands must be either an occupancy raiyat or a non-occupancy raiyat (vide sec. 4 of the Act). If he is an occupancy-raiyat in respect of such lands, there is nothing in sec. 180 to differentiate his rights as such from those which are enjoyed by an occupancy raiyat of ordinary lands. If, however, he is a non-occupancy raiyat, it is a question of some difficulty to determine how far the rights of an ordinary non-occupancy raiyat which are described in Chapter VI of the Act are modified by the provisions of section 180." 3. Char, Chur :—A sand bank or island in the current of a river, deposited by the water, claims to which were regulated by Ben. Reg. XI of 1825. Wilson's Glossary of Judicial and Revenue Terms.

Under s. 180, a raiyat holding a chur land but who has not acquired a right of occupancy, is liable to pay such rent for his holding as may be agreed on between him and his landlord, irrespective of the provisions of s. 43 : *Jahandra v. Where a settlement holder of Government khas mehals agreed not to enhance the rents of the tenants, held notwithstanding such an agreement if the sub-tenants agree to pay higher rents to the settlement holder, the sub-tenants should be held to waive the benefit and are bound to pay the higher rent : Ibid ; also see *Zamin Mandal v. The fact that the Board of Revenue is the Court of Wards does not make the possession by Government of newly formed chur during the time a person's property was under the Court of Wards' possession by the latter on behalf of that person : Guru Das v. Basanta, 14 C.W.N. 317 ; the Government and the Court of Wards are not identical bodies, nor can the latter be regarded as merely a department of the former : Ibid.

Suit for possession of chur land : possession of Government is not possession of Court of Wards.

(1) : Jasimuddin v. Beni Madhub, 17 C.W.N. 881. Where the tenant paid rent continually for 12 years for chur land, the fact that the land had occasionally been submerged would not destroy the right of the raiyat to acquire right of occupancy : Kesho Prosad v. Jirdhan Ojha, 2 Pat. L.J. 43.

*180A. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 180, when a raiyat who is or who but for the operation of section 180 in respect of land held under the custom of utbandi would have been, a settled raiyat of the village, holds or has held under the custom of utbandi, or under any form of tenancy locally known as utbandi land (hereinafter referred to as utbandi land), either the landlord or the raiyat may apply to have a uniform annual money rent determined for the land.

(2) The application shall include at the discretion of the applicant either—

(a) all utbandi lands held in the same village by the same raiyat under the same landlord in which the raiyat has acquired a right of occupancy whether under the provisions of section 180 or otherwise, or

BENGAL ACT NO. X OF 1923.

THE BENGAL TENANCY (UTBANDI AMENDMENT) ACT, 1923.

Published in the "Calcutta Gazette" of the 19th September, 1923.)

An Act to supplement and amend the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, in order to provide means whereby a uniform annual money rent may be determined for utbandi lands and to make further provision in respect of such lands.

V, c. 37;
9 & 10 Geo.
V, c. 101.

Whereas it is expedient to supplement and amend the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, in order to provide means whereby a uniform annual money rent may be determined for land held under the custom of utbandi or under any form of tenancy locally known as utbandi, and to make such other provisions as hereinafter appear in respect of lands for which a uniform annual money rent has been so determined;

And whereas the previous sanction of the Governor-General under sub-section (3) of section 80A of the Government of India Act has been obtained to the passing of this Act;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Bengal Tenancy (Utbandi Amendment) Act, 1923.

(2) It extends in the first instance only to the districts of Nadia, Murshidabad and Jessore, but the Local Government may, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, extend it to any other district or part of a district in Bengal.

2. After section 180 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, the following sections shall be inserted, namely:—

(Secs. 180A, 180B, and 180C.)

Short title and extent.
Insertion of raiyat, or any deceased person whose heir he is, has cultivated as utbandi land at any time during the preceding period of six years if he or the said deceased person is the last person to have cultivated the land and has not or had not acquired occupancy rights therein, or

(c) both.

(3) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (2), a single application may be made by a landlord in respect of lands held as utbandi lands in the same village by one or more raiyats under him and a joint application may be made by two or more raiyats in respect of lands held by them as utbandi lands in the same village under the same landlord.

(4) The application may be made to the Collector or to a Sub-divisional Officer or to a Revenue Officer appointed by the Local Government under the designation of Settlement Officer or Assistant Settlement Officer for the purpose of making a survey and record-of-rights under Chapter X or to any other officer specially authorised by the Local Government.

(5) The case may be determined by the officer who receives the application, or the Collector or the Settlement Officer may transfer it for disposal to some other officer competent under sub-section (4) to receive applications.

(6) The officer receiving the application or the officer to whom the case is transferred, as the case may be, shall cause notice to be given in the prescribed manner to the opposite party, and shall fix a date for the determination of the case.

If the immediate landlord of the raiyat is a temporary tenure-holder or ijaradar the officer receiving the application shall also give notice to the superior landlord in the lowest degree, who is a proprietor or permanent tenure-holder.

(7) If the application is made in respect of lands in which the raiyat has not acquired occupancy rights, the officer may reject it in respect of such lands, if he is satisfied in view of all the circumstances of the case that it is unreasonable to grant it:

Provided that a refusal shall be no bar to proceedings being again taken under this section after five years from the date of refusal if in the opinion of the officer who then receives the application the circumstances have in the meantime changed.

(8) If the application is not rejected, the officer shall then determine the sum to be paid as a uniform annual money rent, and also in the case of lands in which the raiyat has not acquired occupancy rights, a premium to be paid to the landlord, and he shall order that the raiyat shall, in lieu of paying the rent for the land as utbandi land, pay the sum so determined and the premium, if any :

Provided that in any case in which an order fixing a uniform annual money rent is passed ex parte the opposite party may within one month of the date of such order or, when the notice has not been duly served, within one month of the date of his knowledge of such order apply to the officer by whom the order was passed for an order to set it aside and, if he satisfies the officer that the notice of the application under subsection (1) was not duly served on him or that he was prevented by any sufficient cause from appearing when the case was determined, the officer shall set aside the order and shall appoint a day for the determination of the case. No order shall be set aside on application made under this proviso unless notice thereof has been served on the respondent thereto.

(9) In making the determination of the sum to be paid as rent, the officer shall calculate the average of the amount that was actually paid or payable as rent for the land for the previous six years and shall ordinarily declare the same as the sum to be paid as rent :

Provided that the officer may also take into consideration—

- (a) the average money rent payable by occupancy raiyats for land of a similar description and with similar advantages in the vicinity;
- (b) the average rates for lands of a similar description and with similar advantages in the vicinity held as utbandi lands;
- (c) the average money rent payable for lands of a similar description and with similar advantages in the vicinity by raiyats who formerly paid their rent for those lands as utbandi lands but whose rents have been converted into uniform annual money rents whether under this section or by agreement or otherwise;

- (d) the charges incurred in accordance with custom by the landlord in respect of the irrigation and drainage of the utbandi lands and the arrangements made for continuing those charges;
- (e) the rules laid down in this Act for the guidance of the Civil Courts in enhancing or reducing rents on account of the holdings of occupancy raiyats;
- (f) any sum agreed to by the parties to be paid as money rent:

Provided that the officer shall in no case determine a rent which is unfair or inequitable.

(10) The premium to be paid to the landlord in the case of lands in which the raiyat has not acquired occupancy rights shall be three times the rent, or, if the application is made under clause (c) of sub-section (2), three times the portion of the rent determined under sub-section (8) on account of such lands.

(11) If the immediate landlord of the raiyat is a temporary tenure-holder or ijaradar the officer shall apportion the premium payable under sub-section (10) between the said temporary tenure-holder or ijaradar and his superior landlord of the lowest degree who is a proprietor or permanent tenure-holder in such manner as may appear fair and reasonable to the officer in view of all the circumstances of the case, and any sum so awarded to the said superior landlord shall be recoverable by him from the temporary tenure-holder or ijaradar or his successor in interest as an arrear of rent but shall not be recoverable by the superior landlord from the raiyat.

(12) The order shall be in writing, shall state the grounds on which it is made, and shall, in the absence of any special reasons to the contrary recorded in writing, take effect from the beginning of the agricultural year next after the date on which it is made.

(13) The officer shall fix the date (not being more than one month from the date of the order) by which the premium shall be paid or he may, on the application of the raiyat, order that the premium shall be paid by instalments not exceeding three in number, that the first instalment shall be paid at the beginning of the agricultural year in which the rent settled under sub-section (8) takes effect and that one of the remaining instalments shall be paid at the beginning of each of the succeeding agricultural years until the premium is paid in full.

(14) The premium or any instalment thereof shall be recoverable as rent and if the premium or any instalment thereof is not paid by the date fixed under sub-section (13) for the payment of such premium or instalment the landlord may make a requisition to the Collector for the recovery of the arrear of the same in the manner set forth in sub-sections (3) and (4) of section 158A, and the provisions of sub-sections (5) to (9) of that section shall apply to the recovery of the said arrear by the Collector as if it were an arrear of rent, recoverable by him under the provisions of that section.

Interest shall not be payable on any instalment in respect of which default has not been made.

The Local Government may make rules prescribing the form of requisition to be made by a landlord under this sub-section and for carrying into effect the purposes of this sub-section.

(15) Any order made under this section shall be subject to appeal in the manner provided in section 109A, unless the application has been made in the course of proceedings under Part II of Chapter X, in which case the provisions of sections 104G and 104H shall apply.

(16) An application made under sub-section (1) may be amended if it appears at any time to the officer prior to the issue of the order under sub-section (7) or sub-section (8) or to the appellate or revisional Court that it does not comply with the provisions of sub-section (2) but that it can be brought into conformity with that sub-section. Such amendment may be made either on the initiative of the parties or either of them or of the officer or Court but it shall not be made unless prior notice thereof is given to the parties, and, if such amendment is made, it shall be made only on such terms or conditions as to such officer or Court shall appear to be just.

(17) Notwithstanding anything contained elsewhere in this Act or in any other law, no suit shall be brought or application made in any Court in respect of any order passed under this section, save as is provided in this section.

180B. Whenever an order under section 180A is passed determining a uniform annual money rent for any lands, such lands shall cease to be held as utbandi lands with effect from the date from which the new rent takes effect, and the tenant shall hold them as an occupancy raiyat from the date of the order.

Lands in respect of which a uniform annual money rent has been fixed under section 180A to cease to be utbandi lands.

180C. (1) Where a uniform annual money rent has been fixed under section 180A, the said rent shall not, except on the ground of a landlord's improvement or of a subsequent alteration of the area of the holding, be enhanced for fifteen years; nor shall it be reduced for fifteen years, save on the ground of alteration in the area of the holding, or on the ground specified in clause (a) of sub-section (1) of section 38.

Period for which rent fixed under section 180A to remain unaltered.

(2) The said period of fifteen years shall be counted from the date on which the order takes effect under sub-section (12) of section 180A.

181. Nothing in this Act shall affect any incident of a ghatwali or other service tenure, or, in particular, shall confer a right to transfer or bequeath a service-tenure which, before the passing of this Act, was not capable of being transferred or bequeathed.

Bengal against the lawless hillmen and others": Per Ameer Ali and Pratt, J., in Narain Mullick v. Badi Roy, 6 C.W.N. 94 (at p. 96).

The mountain or hill districts in India were inhabited by lawless tribes, asserting, a wild independence, often of a different religion from the inhabitants of the plains, who were frequently subjected to marauding expeditions by their more warlike neighbours; to prevent these incursions it was necessary to guard and watch the ghats, or mountain passes, through which these hostile descents were made; and the Mahomedan Rulers established a tenure called Ghatwali tenure, by which lands were granted to individuals, often of high rank, at a low rent, or without rent, on condition of their performing these duties, and protecting and preserving order in neighbouring districts: Lilanand v. The Bengal Government, 6 M.I.A. 101 (at p. 109).

"They were created by the Mahomedan Government in early times, as a means of providing a police and military force to watch and guard the mountain passes from the invasions of the lawless tribes who inhabited the hill districts. Large grants of land were made in those days by the Government to persons of high rank, at a low rent, or at no rent at all, upon condition that they should provide and maintain a sufficient military force, to protect the inhabitants of the plains from these lawless incursions; and the grantees on their part subdivided the lands to other tenants (much in the same way as military tenures were created in the feudal age) each of whom, besides paying generally a small rent, held their lands in consideration of these military services, and provided (each according to the extent of his holding), a specified number of armed men to fulfil the requirements of the Government. This was the state of things at the time when the East India Company by Reg. LXXII of 1791 effected the decennial settlement of Bengal, Behar and Orissa. By this settlement the amount of land revenue payable by the superior grantees to the Government, which had theretofore been more or less uncertain, was fixed at a certain rate or jama for a period of 10 years. This jama was to be ascertained by the Collector upon equitable principles to be approved by the Board of Revenue; certain allowances, called malikana and kurchay, were made to the zemindars for their maintenance and disbursement, and one of the conditions of this new holding was, that the zemindars should be responsible, as theretofore, for the peace and protection of the district: Per Garth, C.J., in the case of Lilanand Singh v. Thakoor Munrunjan, 3 Cal. 255, 256.

"These tenures were in existence in many parts of the countries long before the accession of the present Government, and were grants of the land made either by the authority or sanction of the Government, to certain persons as remuneration for their services as police. The head or sirdar of each of these police stations was required to keep up a certain number of men properly armed, to apprehend criminals, protect travellers, keep the peace, and to perform other police duties: Kastora Koomree v. Monohur Deo, W.R. 1864, p. 39 (at p. 42).

Onus. While it may well be that the digwars or ghatwals are subordinate to the Zemindar, it is always a question of fact whether they are or are not subordinate. The burden of proving that the lands of the digwar or ghatwal though within the geographical limits of the ~~Zemindari are a part thereof~~ is on the Zemindar: Secretary of State v. Jyoti Prashad, 30 C.W.N. 745 (P.C.). The case of Forbes v. Meer Mahomed Tuquee, 13 M.I.A. 438 referred to.

The Ghatwali estates are not revenue paying estates within subcls. (a) and (d) of cl. v. of sec. 7 of the Court Fees Act as appears inter-alia from the fact that the amount payable to Government by the tenure-holder is divided between the Government and the Zemindar of Birbhum. They are parts of the estate of the Zemindar: Chandra Narayan v. Ashutosh, 18 C.W.N. 659. It was held in that case that the plaintiff's suit to recover the Ghatwali estate of Rohini is governed by sub-cl. (d) of cl. v. of sec. 7 of the Court Fees Act, and, for purposes of court fee, the estate should be valued according to its market value: Ibid.

Ghatwali estates not revenue paying estates.

Although a ghatwal cannot grant a permanent lease, yet if he does so he is estopped from questioning it: Kangali Charan v. Suraj Narain, 65 I.C. 305, s.c., [1922 Pat.], p. 9.

In the Santhal Parganas there are for practical purposes three classes of ghatwali tenures, (a) Government Ghatwalis created by the ruling power; (b) Government Ghatwalis, which since their creation and generally at the time of the Permanent Settlement have been included in a zemindari estate and formed into an unit in its assessment; and (c) Zemindari Ghatwalis, created by the zemindar or his predecessors and alienable with his consent. The second of these classes is really a branch of the first: Satya Narain v. Satya Niranjana, 28 C.W.N. 351 at p. 361 (P.C.). The law relating to ghatwali tenures has been considered in this Privy Council case.

Santhal Parganas: three classes of Ghatwalis.

Kharackpur Ghatwals have a perpetual hereditary tenure at a fixed jama: Ibid; (the case of Munranjan v. Lelanund, 3 W.R. 84, s.c., I.A. Sup. Vol. 181, s.c., 13 B.L.R. 124 (P.C.) was referred to).

As to the nature, incidents, heritability, transferability, etc., of ghatwali tenures, see the recent Privy Council case of Satya Narayan v. Satya Niranjana, 28 C.W.N. 351.

Ghatwali tenure—Incidents.

Birbhum ghatwali tenures are inalienable except with the consent of the Government; Kharackpur ghatwali tenures are alienable subject to the consent of the landlord to whom the rent or revenue is paid: Beng: Regulation XXIX of 1814 applied to Birbhum ghatwali tenures only: Phulabti Kumari v. Maheshwari Prasad, 74 I.C. 668,* (Dawson Miller C.J. and Foster J.).

Where a Ghatwal has been relieved of the personal services and has been directed to pay a certain sum of money to be determined by the Deputy Commissioner for the support of the rural police, the condition of inalienability ceases to attach to the Ghatwali and the Ghatwali may be sold in execution of a money-decree: Bansidhar v. Thakur Ashutosh, [1925 Pat.] p. 22.

Birbhum ghatwalis and Rohini Ghatwalis—if alienable.

The incidents of Ghatwali tenures are inconsistent with the acquisition of a right of occupancy in land subject to such tenure in as much as on principle the landlord is entitled to have the land that was given to the Ghatwal in lieu of performance of his duty returned to him in the same condition free from any encumbrance or rights of occupancy.

*As to the incidents attached to the ghatwali tenure in taluk Dumri i.e. as to impartibility, succession, transferability &c., see the aforesaid case, Phulpati v. Maheshwari Prasad, 74 I.C. 668, at p. 672.

any other person imposed upon it: Lal Singh v. Krishto Khutya, [1924 Pat.] p. 364, s.c., A.I.R. 1925 Pat. 306. (Ross and Sen, J.J.).

2. Transferability of Ghatwali tenures :—In execution of a money-decree against a ghatwal the decree-holder prayed that the rents and profits that might be due to the ghatwal minus the wages payable to chowkidars and other outgoings should be attached and placed in the hands of a Receiver; the Court passed the following order: "Let a prohibitory order issue to the ghatwal not to receive any rents and profits from the raiyats, and also to the raiyats not to pay their rents to the ghatwal," held that the order was bad, that future rents and profits, as such, could not be attached and that the practical effect of the order was that the ghatwal being prevented from recovering the rents and profits in future, would not be in a position to pay the wages of the chowkidars, and so to perform the duty which devolves upon him as ghatwal. Uday Kumari v. Hari Ram, 28 Cal. 483. But if in such a case a Receiver is appointed there will be no difficulty in receiving the rents and profits as they fall due from time to time, and making provisions for the payment of the wages of the chowkidars and other incidental expenses: Ibid.

It has been held in the case of Bally Dobey v. Ganei Deo, 9 Cal. 388, that a shikimi ghatwali tenure, held under the superior ghatwal, is not liable to be sold in execution, and its proceeds are not liable to attachment for satisfaction of the debt due from its holder.

But the rents due to a ghatwal during lifetime, or rather the profits due to him, after all the necessary outgoings, can be seized and appropriated by the decree-holder for debts incurred by the ghatwal: Raj Kishwar v. Bunshidar, 23 Cal. (873, 875).

A ghatwali tenure in Kharagpur is transferable if the zemindar assents and accepts the transfer: Anundo Rai v. Kali Prosad, 10 Cal. 677. Such assent may be presumed from the fact of the zemindar having made no objections to a transfer for a period of over 12 years and when such a fact has been found, a Court ought to recognise such a transfer: Ibid.

"Ghatwali tenures are not liable either to sale or attachment in execution of decree [vide Sudder Dewanny Adawlat Reports, 1st set (1853)]. They are grants of land given in payment of service, and, although the custom of the country has made them hereditary they have not otherwise changed their original character. They are life-tenures only, and the incumbent for the time being has no power to burthen them, after his death, with any of his personal liabilities." Per Loch and Glover, J.J.: Kustoora Koomaree v. Binode Ram, 4 W.R. Mis. 5.

A ghatwali tenure is not saleable in execution of a decree for arrears of rent, in as much as the right to nominate the ghatwal rests with the Government. Midnapur Zemindari Co. v. Ajambar Singh, 1 Pat. L.J. 601. See in this connection Nilmonnee v. Bokro Nath, 9 Cal. 208, Lachmi Narayan v. Satya Narain, 1 Pat. L.J., 197; Raja Lilanand v. The Government of Bengal, 6 M.I.A. 101, Benode Ram v. The Deputy Commissioner of the Santhal Parganas, 7 W.R. 178; Raja Nilmonnee v. Bakranath, 10 W.R. 225. See also the case of Purna Chandra v. Soudamini, 28 C.L.J., 283. The contention that no ghatwali tenure is liable to be sold in execution of a decree is not a sound contention. Khargpur ghatwali lands are liable to be sold in execution of a decree for rent : Lakshme Narayan v. Satyanarain, 1 Pat. L.J., 197.

A mortgage by a ghatwal of a certain property which was subject to certain restrictions on his right of alienation at the time of execution but which were removed afterwards and before the institution of suit, though it operates as a conveyance, is operative as an executory agreement, which attaches to the property, the moment the restrictions are removed and in equity transfers the beneficial interest to the mortgagee without any act done by the mortgagor to confirm the mortgage : Surendra Nath v. Rajendra Chandra, 27 C.L.J. 289.

Mortgage by Ghatwal.

The rents of a ghatwali tenure are not liable for the debts of the former deceased holder of the tenure ; Binode Ram v. The Deputy Commissioner of Santhal Parganas, 6 W.R. 129 ; Ibid, on review, 7 W.R. 178.

Rent of Ghatwali tenure.

As to transferability of a ghatwali tenure, see Lalla Gosman v. Mr. Hugh Grant, 11 W.R. 292.

Transferability.

As a general principle a ghatwal is not competent to grant a lease in perpetuity and his successor is not bound to recognise such an incumbrance : Narain Mullick v. Badi Ray, 6 C.W.N. 94, also Grants and the Court of Wards v. Bungshee Deo, 24 Cal. 149.

Right of Ghatwal to grant lease.

A lease in perpetuity granted by a ghatwal who jointly held with another ghatwal is inoperative even against the ghatwal who grants the lease, as the lease is one and indivisible : Narain Mullick v. Badi Ray, 6 C.W.N. 94.

On an application for execution of a decree, although an order directing attachment of a ghatwali estate may be erroneous, an order appointing a Receiver to receive the rents and profits of such estate is sanctioned by authority : Kesobati v. Mohan Chandra, 39 Cal. 1010 ; s. c., 16 C.W.N. 802 ; the rents and profits of a Ghatwali tenure may be attached in execution of a decree in the life time of the Ghatwal though the estate itself cannot be attached : Ibid.

Attachment of ghatwali estate.

Receiver to receive, rents and property.

Where a ghatwali interest was mortgaged on the representation that it was a jagir and the mortgagor subsequently got a mokurari title to it, held that on a decree for sale upon the mortgage the makurari interest passed to the mortgagee : Mokhodo v. Umesh, 7 C.L.J. 381 ; s. c. 12 C.W.N. 23 (notes).

Mortgage by Ghatwal.

3. Succession of Ghatwali tenures :—The result of the decision of the Privy Council as to the nature of the ghatwali tenure is that it is ordinarily hereditary, the estate descending to such male member of the family as the zemindar approves of as competent, and that it is the right of the family, so long as they have male members competent to perform the duties to one or more of them appointed Ghatwals : Durga Prasad v. Tribeni Singh, 46 Cal. 362, (P.C.), s. c., 28 C.L.J. 508.

Beerbhoom Ghatwali tenure to be held in perpetuity.

Ghatwali tenures in Beerbhoom are in fact tenures to be held in perpetuity, and are descendible from generation to generation subject to certain conditions and obligations and the Legislature did not intend that they should devolve on issue of the body only and not on heirs generally according to the law which may govern such succession : Chattra Dhari v. Saraswati, 22 Cal. 156 ; the words "descendants" in sec. 2 of Bengal Regulation XXIX of 1814 is not to be construed in its restricted meaning, but includes the widow of a deceased ghatwal: Ibid. Ghatwali tenures as described in Regulation XXIX of 1814 were intended to be the exclusive property of the Ghatwal for the time being and not joint-family property in the proper sense of the term: Ibid., where in a Mitakshara family a ghatwal died leaving a widow and a separated brother, held that the widow was the heiress. Ibid. A female is not incapable of holding a ghatwali tenure: Kastoorā Koomaree v. Monohur Deo, W.R. 1864, p. 39.

Lands descend to a male heir.

Under the death of the ghatwal last seised, the lands descend entire to a male heir, as ghatwal: Lilanand v. The Government of Bengal, 6 M.I.A. 101.

Physical incapacity of heir to perform duty.

By Regulation XXIX of 1814 a hereditary tenure was secured to the ghatwals and their descendants, subject only to the condition of punctual payment of rent assessed upon them and fulfilment of their obligation: Lall Dharee v. Brojo Lall, 10 W.R. 401: Where on the death of a ghatwal the Commissioner of Revenue rejected the claims of the natural heir upon consideration, not of his physical incapacity to perform the duty of ghatwal, but on purely moral considerations, the ground alleged being that the heir evinced such a want of filial respect and dutiful feeling towards his father, that the Commissioner could have no confidence in his performing the duty of his station: held that the Commissioner acted beyond the scope of his authority: Lall Dharee v. Brojo Lall, 10 W.R. 401; such an act of the Commissioner can be questioned by a suit in the Civil Court: Ibid.

Some of these grants are hereditary.

"Some of these grants were hereditary in their origin and all very soon became so; and it being inconvenient and wholly subversive of the ghatwali system to admit the element of Hindu law which requires an equal division of the deceased father's property among his sons, the ghatwali tenure descended undivided to the eldest son, to the exclusion of the others, who either lived with or were supported by him, or followed their own pursuits. Had the inheritance been regulated by the Mitakshara, or any other system of Hindu law, the property would in the first generation, have been divided among the sons of the first holder of the tenure, and subdivided among their heirs, the party who succeeds to and holds the tenure as ghatwal must be, and has always been looked upon as sole proprietor thereof, and therefore the other members of the family cannot claim to be co-parceners and entitled to share in the profits of the property, though they may, by the permission and good-will of the incumbent, derive their support either from some portion of the property which he may have assigned to them or directly from himself. And if it be so with the nearer members, the distant members of the same family cannot be considered as holding in common with the incumbent, so as to bar the widow or mother's right to succeed. Even, under the Mitakshara Law, the widow and mother would be entitled to succeed, if the property left by the deceased were not held in common; and we have stated above that we do not think that the ghatwali tenures could ever be said, in the sense used in the Mitakshara, to be held in common": Kastoorā Koomari v. Monohar Deo, W.R. 1864, p. 39 (at p. 42).

Heritability. A ghatwali tenure existing from before the grant of the Diwani to the East India Company and descending from father to son from many generations and held at a quit rent was held to be permanent heritable: Jogendra Nath v. Kali Charan, 9 C.W.N. 663.

A jagir is not necessarily conditional ; it may be unconditional and the mere fact that a tenure is described as a jagir is by no means conclusive and its incidents must be determined from other circumstances : Bhagwat Baksh v. Sheo Prasad, 18 C.W.N. 297. Long uninterrupted usage that lands have passed from father to son for two or three generations without objection raises an inference that the grant was a grant of inheritance : (Per Mookerjea J., Ibid.)

Jagir not necessarily conditional. Inheritance from father to son, effect of.

As to the question of limitation in a suit for recovery of possession by a person who succeeded as Ghatwal as an infant ; See the case of Prasanna Kumar v. Srikantho, 40 Cal. 173 ; the plaintiff in such a case as Ghatwal does not claim through his father as his predecessor within the meaning of sec. 2 of the Limitation Act : Ibid.

Suit by an heir of a ghatwal.

4. Resumption of Ghatwali land and Dismissal of a ghatwal :—“It has been doubtless the practice for the Commissioner, or other authority acting on the part of the Government, to enquire into cases of alleged failure to perform the duties of ghatwal or of incapacity to perform such duty, and although I do not wish to express any decided opinion on the question it is conceivable that a person who has held the office of ghatwal might be removed for good cause and that on removal from office he would be incapable of holding the land” : Per Jackson J., in Lall Dharee v. Brojo Lall, 10 W.R. 401. Want of filial respect and dutiful feeling towards his father is no ground for the dismissal of a ghatwal : Ibid.

Failure to perform duty.

Want of filial respect.

The dismissal of a ghatwal carries with it the forfeiture of his tenure : The Secretary of State v. Paran Singh, 5 Cal. 740.

Forfeiture.

It was observed by Lock, J., in the case of Kastooro Koomaree v. Monohar Deo, W.R. 1864, p. 42, that ghatwals were liable to dismissal for misconduct or neglect, and any stranger could be appointed in their room.

Misconduct.

“For misconduct and failure to perform the conditions annexed to their tenure they, no doubt, are liable to be and sometimes have been, ejected, and when so vacant, the right of nomination to the office, no doubt rests with the Zemindar. But no instance can be shewn in which the Zemindar on his own mere motion has ejected the ghatwal and determined the tenure, we are quite clear that, under the established usage and constitution of the country he cannot do so” : Per Trevor and Campbell, J.J., in Munrunjan v. Rajah Lilantand, 3 W.R. 84.

It is one of the incidents of a ghatwali tenure either under the original grant or engrafted on it by usage that when the Ghatwal becomes incapable of personally performing the services, a deputy (preferably the next successor) may be appointed to act in his behalf by the Magistrate, it does not follow that an incapacity on the part of the deputy to discharge adequately the duties incidental to the office operates as a forfeiture for the appointment of the principal : Jogendra Nath v. Kali Charan, 9 C.W.N. 666 ; where during the lifetime of a ghatwal his son who was appointed deputy was dismissed, held that the dismissal of the son did not amount to the dismissal of his father and that after the father's death the son was entitled to succeed : Ibid.

Personal incapacity.

Under the provisions of the Decennial Settlement of 1789 the Bengal Government, in 1790, assessed the whole of the zemindari of Khurackpur, including certain ghatwali lands at a fixed jumma. This settlement was made perpetual in 1796, under Bengal Regulation I of 1793, at the said fixed jumma. In 1838, the Government set up a claim to resume, for the purpose of revenue assessment, the ghatwali land in this Zemindari, such claim was dismissed, by reason, first that the ghatwali lands were part of the zemindari of Khurackpur and were included in the Permanent Settlement of the Zemindari, and covered by the jumma assessed on that zemindari; and second that lands of ghatwali tenure were not liable to resumption under clause 4, sec. 8, Bengal Regulation I of 1793, as included in allowances made to Zemindari for Thana or Police establishments: Lilanand v. The Government of Bengal, 6 M.I.A. 101.

Rent agreed to be paid upon resumption.

Where upon the resumption of a ghatwali tenure by the Government and settlement with the Zemindar, the latter entered into an agreement with A to the effect that the quit rent payable to the ghatwal was to be paid by the lessor and a consolidated rent was to be payable by the lessee to the lessor: held that a suit for rent by the lessor was not a suit by a co-sharer landlord: Chandra Mohini v. Kenaram, 19 C.L.J. 324.

Khurackpur Ghatwali tenure.

5. Enhancement of Ghatwali tenure:—In a suit for enhancement of the tenure of a Khurackpur Ghatwal it was observed that “the ghatwals come under the denomination of dependent talukdars as defined in Regulation VIII of 1793; and further they are protected by the first clause of sec. 51 of that Regulation, which is very comprehensive, and includes all talukdars not included in sec. 5” ; Lilanand v. Thakur Munranjun, 3 Cal. 251 (at p. 262).

Act X of 1859 ss. 3, 15.

Where it was admitted that the tenure of the defendant who was a ghatwal dated from a time anterior to the Decennial Settlement and before the creation of the Zemindari, the defendant was held to be protected from any fresh assessment either under sec. 3 or sec. 15 of Act X of 1859: James Erskine v. The Government, 8 W.R. 232.

Long possession.

Long possession and gradual cultivation by a ghatwal on payment of a quit-rent are evidence of an implied grant which protects the ghatwal from enhancement: James Erskine v. Manick Singh, 6 W.R. 10.

Excess area.

A suit lies to assess the lands in the occupation of ghatwals in excess of the area recorded in the isumnovisee filed by the ghatwals: Rajha Jago Jewen v. Raghunath, 6 W.R. 197.

When services are not required.

Where grants of land had been made prior to the Permanent Settlement on ghatwali tenure at fixed rent, and the Government dispensed with the service on the part of the Zemindar, held in a suit by Zemindar for enhancement of the rents of a ghatwali taluk situate within his Zemindari of Khurackpur, that so long as the ghatwals were able and willing to perform the services, the Zemindar had no right to enforce payment of an enhanced rent on the ground that services were no longer required: Lilanand v. Thakur Munranjun, 3 Cal. 251: the ghatwals are dependent talukdars within the meaning of Regulation VIII of 1793 and are protected from enhancement by sec. 51 of that Regulation: Ibid.

Presumption under s. 50.

6. Presumption: S. 50: Ghatwali tenure:—There is nothing in the nature of a ghatwali tenure to show that as long as such a tenure existed, the presumption under s. 50 could not, by reason of s. 181, arise: Gouri Kant v. Ram Gopal, 2 C.L.J. 379.

Chowkidari chakran.

7. Occupancy right in Ghatwali, Chowkidari Chakran, and other service tenures: A right of occupancy could be acquired by a tenant even in Chowkidari Chakran lands under s. 6 of Act X of 1859: Ram Kumar v. Ram Newaz, 31 Cal. 1021.

From 1859 to 1885 Ghatwali lands were subject to the acquisition of occupancy right; s. 181 of the Bengal Tenancy Act does not take away such right acquired or enjoyed: Sitakanta Ray v. Bipradas, 27 C.L.J., 556; the following cases were referred to: Ramkumar v. Ram Newaz, 31 Cal. 1021, Mrittunjoy v. Kenatullah, 5 C.L.J., 53, and the following cases were distinguished: Mohesh v. Pran Krishna, 1 C.L.J., 138 and Upendra v. Ram Nath, 33 Cal. 630.

If the occupancy rights were acquired in chakran lands held under a service tenure before 1885, they were protected under sec. 19 of the B. T. Act. Under sec. 181 of the B. T. Act, they cannot be acquired after the passing of the Act: Khetra Mohon v. Lakhikanta, 44 C.L.J. 271, (Greaves and Panton, J.J.). The provisions of sec. 181, B. T. Act, relate to the prevention of the acquisition of occupancy rights in service tenures during the continuance of the Act itself and they do not affect the rights acquired as under the provisions of sec. 6 of Act X of 1859: Ibid. (The cases of Sitakanta v. Bipradas, 27 C.L.J. 556 and Ramkumar v. Ram Newaz, 31 Cal. 1021 followed.)

The principle is applicable whether chakran lands are of a private nature as well as those which are of a public nature: Ibid. (The case of Satyendra v. Krishna, 25 C.L.J. 185 followed.)

A right of occupancy cannot be acquired in land held under a service tenure: Jafaruddin v. Jamini Bullav, 28 C.L.J.; 249.

A right of occupancy cannot be acquired in Kotowali Jagir land: Jafaruddin v. Brindarani, 23 C.W.N. 136.

As Chakran lands are held in lieu of service a Chowkidar in occupation of such lands cannot acquire a right of occupancy: Kariman v. Nirmal Kumar, 52 I.C. 181.

Occupancy right cannot be acquired in ghatwali lands: Upendra v. Ram Nath, 33 Cal. 600, see also Mohesh Majhi v. Prankrishna, 1 C.L.J., 138. "I think that upon principle having regard to the nature of ghatwali lands, the acquisition of occupancy rights in these lands is inconsistent with the incidents of such tenures": Per Maclean, C.J., in Upendra v. Ramanath, 33 Cal. 630.

A person cannot acquire an occupancy or non-occupancy right in resumed chowkidari chakran lands when the settlement is made by a person who has no title to them: Shaikh Jonab Ali v. Rakibuddin, 6 C.W.N. 571: s. c., 1 C.L.J., 503. The case of Binad Lall v. Kalu Pramanick, 20 Cal. 708, was held to be inapplicable; this case and the case of Harinarain v. Makanda Lall, 4 C.W.N. 814, were distinguished in the case of Upendra v. Pratap, 8 Cal. 703, where it was held that when under the terms of a putni lease, the putnidar is entitled to all resumed lands, and certain chowkidari chakran land within the putni is resumed by Government and made over to the Zemindar, the Zemindar cannot, by allowing the old chowkidar to remain on the land accepting rent from him, protect the latter from ejectment at the instance of the putnidar.

The Bengal Tenancy Act does not expressly lay down any rule of law with respect to acquisition of either occupancy or non-occupancy right in land held by ghatwals as service-tenures, and the incidents of a ghatwali tenure, which are declared by s. 181 not to be affected by the Act, are nowhere specified: Mohesh Majhi v. Prankrishna, 1 C.L.J. 138; the growth of such rights is inconsistent with the nature of service-tenures, but a custom or local usage may grow up in any local area as to recognition of occupancy rights and such a custom is binding upon successive ghatwals: Ibid.

Restriction on the growth of occupancy or non-occupancy rights for the benefit of the Ghatwali.

The restriction on the growth of occupancy or non-occupancy rights in ghatwali lands is for the benefit of the ghatwal. When therefore the Zemindar unlawfully dispossesses the ghatwal and settles the land with a raiyat, the latter acquires non-occupancy and occupancy rights against his landlord. The Zemindar's position is not improved if upon resumption of the ghatwali lands by Government, they are subsequently settled with them: Babu Lal v. Purna Chandra, 10 C.L.J. 602.

No rights of occupancy accrue in lands held under a service-tenure: Hurrogobinda v. Ram Rutno, 4 Cal. 67.

Digwar.

8. Digwari tenure :—There is nothing in the use of the term digwar to raise any presumption in favour of the contention that the holders of the service are personal servants of the Rajah of Ramgurh: Ramnarain v. Tekait Ganjhu, 12 C.W.N. 178; nature of Digwari service in Ramgurh discussed: Ibid.

Digwari tenure of Manbhumi and Ghatwali tenures in Birbhumi are not analogous.

The Digwari tenures of Manbhumi and the Ghatwali tenures in Birbhumi though similar in some respects, the two kinds of tenures are not analogous: Durga Prasad v. Brajanath, 39 Cal. 696, s. c., 16 C.W.N. 482 (P.C.); in regard to a Digwari tenure of Tasra in Manbhumi it was held that the mineral rights remained in the zemindar in the absence of proof that he had parted with them: Ibid; the decision of the High Court in this case reported in 12 C.W.N. 193, s. c., 34 Cal. 753 was over-ruled by the Privy Council (39 Cal. 697); see also Harinarain v. Sriram, 37 Cal. 723; s. c., 37 I.A. 136.

Heredity.

A Digwari tenure in the District of Bankura which is similar to a Ghatwali tenure is hereditary but the right of the heir to the tenure is subject to the approval or sanction of the Government, and notwithstanding that the tenure is hereditary, the Government, has the power of dismissing the Ghatwal for mis-conduct: Hemendra Nath v. Upendra Narain, 18 C.W.N. 1036.

The Digwars of Ghat Bharra in Bankura were the holders of an office remunerated by the enjoyment of land, and the history of the office established a general usage on the death of a Digwar holding office to appoint his heir in his place as the successor to his office: Hemendra Nath v. Upendra Nath, 43 Cal. 743, s. c., 22 C.L.J., 419.

Simanadari.

9. Simanadari in Bankura :—The "Bengal District Gazetteer for Bankura" may be referred to by a Court for the purpose of seeing what the duties of simanadar were: Lalu Dome v. Bijoy Chand, 20 C.W.N. 404.

Village Chowkidari Act.

10. Chowkidari Chakran lands.*—Chowkidari Chakran lands within the meaning of the Village Chowkidari Act, are lands

Para 14 :—Much misapprehension has existed in respect to the origin of the term "chowkidar." It is a name which does not appear to have, in common usage, attached before the Decennial Settlement to village watchmen, properly so called, in any part of Bengal. In correspondence of the period the name is applied to the following classes of officers :—

First :—A subordinate class of Thanadari Police who were placed in charge of outposts ("chokies") throughout the Burdwan zemindari. These were also called "Pharidars."

2nd.—The watchmen in the cities of Dacca, Patna and Moorshidabad.

3rd.—Watchmen maintained by individuals to protect their houses, property, &c.

4th.—Preventive officers in the Custom Department.

which having been assigned by Government, have not been taken into account in the assessment of land revenue: Birbar Narain v. The Secretary of State, 14 C.L.J., 151; the words "otherwise than under a temporary settlement" in the definition of 'Chowkidari Chakran lands' Act (B.C.) VI of 1870 refer to a settlement by Government and the assignment there referred to is an assignment made by Government at the time of the settlement: Ibid.

Where the contract between the parties in a putni lease does not contain any stipulation for rent for the chowkidari lands, the landlord is entitled to some rent for the chowkidari land: Bijoy Chand v. Krishna Chandra, 34 C.L.J. 275. Additional rent.

The interest of the putnidar in resumed chowkidari chakran lands comprised in his putni is derived from the putni itself, and the Zemindar cannot claim a share in the profits derived from the settlement of such lands and thus in effect to vary the putni: Narpat Singh v. Bhupendra, 26 C.W.N. 943, s.c., 36 C.L.J., 145; the case of Bijoy Chand v. Krishna, 34 C.L.J., 275 and the decisions followed therein laying rule to the contrary are wrongly decided in view of the Privy Council decision: Ranjit v. Kalidasi, 44 I.A. 117, s.c., 44 Cal. 841, s.c., 21 C.W.N. 609 (P.C.) and Ranajit v. Maharaj Bahadur, 46 Cal. 173, s.c., 23 C.W.N. 198: Ibid. Settlement of lands—Zemindar and putnidar.

If chowkidari chakran lands are resumed by Government and are settled with a Zemindar, all rights created by the chowkidar in favour of third parties cease: Satyendra v. Krishnasakha, 35 C.L.J., 185; if transfer had been made by the zemindar before the resumption, the transferee gets the benefit: Ibid. Resumption: Rights of third parties cease.

Adverse possession: Non-rendering of service if it amounts to:—In a suit for resumption by the grantor of a service tenure, held that the mere fact that no service was rendered by the grantee or his transferee for 12 (twelve) years does not amount to adverse possession: Nand Lal v. Tikait Srinivas, 1 Patna 292.

Where the question was whether certain lands in thana Indas in the district of Bankura and called "Simanadari" lands were Chakran lands within the meaning of s. 1 of the Chaukidari Act (VI. B. C. of 1870), the High Court in second appeal, in the absence of any finding on the point of the lower appellate Court, held, on reference to the Bengal District Gazetteer of Bankura, that the Simanadars performed the duties of Choukidars and so Act VI of 1870 applied to the case: Lalu Dome v. Bejoy Chand, 20 C.W.N. 404.

A chowkidar has to perform police services for the Government and also to render such services to the zemindar personally as might have the sanction of law or usage: Badya Nath v. Kamini Kant, 6 C.L.J. 573; see also Jonab Ali v. Rakebuddin, 9 C.W.N. 571, s.c., 1 C.L.J. 303. Chowkidar's service.

7th. Clause—The term "chowkidar" has since been gradually extended to the larger majority of the individuals composing the amalgamated force of village Police.

Raja of Madhupur.

By a sanad, the lands which the Raja of Madhupur held under the Mahrattas were confirmed to him in perpetuity at a fixed Jama : held, before the Village Chaukidari Act could be applied, it should be shown that the lands which had been dealt with were chaukidari chakran lands within the definition given in that Act. That as in this case, there is no assignment of chaukidari chakran lands, the said Act was not applicable: Birbar Narayan v. The Secretary of State, 14 C.L.J., 151.

S. 48 of Act
VI of 1879
(B. C.)

Under s. 48 to the Chowkidari Chakran Act (VI of 1870, B. C.) the resumed lands are to be transferred not to the zemindar of the village in which they are situated geographically but to the zemindar of estate to which the lands appertain and of which they form a part and parcel: Pratap v. The Secretary of State, 3 C.L.J. 530. Where chowkidari chakran lands were transferred to the plaintiffs by the Government, who sought to eject the defendant who was formerly a chowkidar and it was found that the plaintiffs took money from the defendant for the right to cultivate and grow the crops as well as to cut and carry them away, held that the relation of landlord and tenant was established between the plaintiffs and the defendant and therefore the defendant was not liable to ejectment: Ram Ranjan v. Janaki Nath, 4 C.W.N. 64 (notes).

Transfer.

S. 1 of the Chaukidari Chakran Act does not govern cases in which there might be definite and conclusive evidence to satisfy the Court as to what was the nature of the services required from the service tenure-holder: Satis Chandra v. Natabar, 28 C.L.J. 281.

A clause in a putni lease to confer on the zemindar the right to appoint and dismiss chowkidars has not the effect of reserving to the Zemindar and excluding from the putni the chaukidari chakran land: Nafar Chandra v. Bijoy Chand Mahtab, 22 C.W.N. 487.

Suit by
putnidar Mesne
profits.

Where a putnidar brought a suit against the Zemindar and certain other persons for recovery of possession of certain lands on the allegation that they were chaukidari chakran lands included in the putni mahal, that they had been resumed by the Government and thereafter settled the same with the Zemindar, who in his turn had settled the same with those persons. The suit was decreed and mesne profits for three years before the institution of the suit up to the date of his getting possession of the lands were decreed, held that the omission to make the tenants parties to the proceeding would not disentitle the plaintiff from recovering mesne profits from the Zemindar on the footing that all these persons were joint trespassers. It was open to the plaintiff to execute the decree as against any of them: Maharaj Bahadur Singh v. Bhupendra Narayan, 44 C.L.J. 182 (Greaves and Mukherji, J.J.). That it was on the footing of profits as the Zemindar would make and not on the footing of the profits as the actual cultivators would make out of the lands that the mesne profits should be assessed: Ibid.

Succession.

II. Succession of Chowkidari Chakran lands:—For the purpose of establishing family custom of succession to an estate, the evidence must be clear and unambiguous; and the evidence must not fail to give to the alleged custom the character of certainty, which is essential to its validity: Rama Kanta v. Chowdhury Shamanand, 9 C.L.J., 497. Where the evidence showed that the office of Chowdhuri was held under successive native Governments, for many generations by a member of a family, and lands were assigned to the holder of that office as a part of his remuneration but the grant was of an office only and to an individual, to be held during good behaviour and the office was not necessarily heritable. The evidence was not clear and unambiguous and that it fell far short of establishing the claim of the eldest branch of the family during the period of native rule: Ibid.

12. Resumption of Chowkidari Chakran and other Chakran lands Resumption. :—The title of a zemindar to chakran land is always with him and remains unaffected by the fact that such land is appropriated to the maintenance of an officer who performs the duties of village watchman. Upon the transfer of such land to the Zemindar he may treat it as mal or zerait, but if he once elects to treat it as mal, he cannot afterwards treat it as zerait: Kariman v. Nirmal Kumar, 52 I.C. 181. Where chowkidari chakran lands are resumed by Government and settled with a Zemindar, all rights created in such lands by the chowkidar in favour of third parties, come to an end: Krishna v. Mohunt Bhagwan, 7 C.L.J. 85; but if any transfer has been made by the zemindar before the resumption and the land is settled with him by the Collector, the transferee would be entitled to the benefits of such settlement: Ibid; if any transfer is made by the Collector, acting for and on behalf of the chowkidar, such transfer also ceases to have effect after the settlement: Ibid.

Where a putnidar sought to have transferred to him certain chowkidari chakran lands, which the Government has settled with the zemindar under Act VI of 1870, (B.C.), and where it was found that the lands were part of plaintiff's putni, and that the Zemindar had sublet the same to a tenant, held that the putnidar was entitled to possession but not to khas possession: Hari Narain v. Mukunda Lal Mondal, 4 C.W.N. 814.

The effect of the transfer of the Collector of the Zemindari of resumed chowkidari chakran lands is not to separate them from the parent estate and grant a new title to them in favour of the proprietor of the estate. A putnidar, if these lands were included within his putni, has the right to recover possession of the lands from the Zemindar on condition of his agreeing to a fair and reasonable settlement with the landlord. The terms of the settlement of the resumed chowkidari chakran land with the putnidar would depend upon the conditions under which the putni was originally created: Harak Chand v. Charu Chandra, 15 C.W.N. 5, s.c., 13 C.L.J. 102. Effect of resumption of chowkidari chakran land.

A suit by putnidar to recover possession of chowkidari chakran land resumed and transferred to the Zemindar is governed by Art 142 or Art. 144 of the second schedule of the Limitation Act: Ibid. See also Bunwari Mukunda Deb v. Bidhu Sundar Thakur, 35 Cal. 346, s.c., 12 C.W.N. 459. Suit by Putnidar of chowkidari chakran land.

A suit by a putnidar for recovery of chakran lands resumed by Government and subsequently settled with the Zemindar on the ground that the Putni patta included these lands is not a suit for specific performance of contract but a suit for possession and is maintainable even if all the parties to the contract were not parties to the suit: Kumar Banwari v. Bidhu Sundar, 35 Cal. 346, s.c., 7 C.L.J. 439. See also Kazi Newaj v. Radha Charan, 34 Cal. 109: s.c., 11 C.W.N. 201.

It rests on the Government to shew that the settlement with the Settlement subject to reservations —onus. zemindar was subject to reservations in respect of any land which Government has the power of resuming and assessing it: The Secretary of State for India in Council v. Kritibas Bhupati, 19 C.W.N. 65 (P.C.) (confirming 15 C.W.N. 300); the Zemindars are under no obligation to make chowkidari grants when their only obligation under the terms of their sanads is to maintain peace and order within their Zemindaries, and the mere fact that some appointments were with the approval of a Government officer cannot alter the nature of the grants and make them resumable by Government Ibid.

Effect of resumption. The resumed chowkidari lands when transferred to the Zemindar, have not the character of an estate impressed upon them for all purposes: Tincowri v. Satya Niranjan, 18 C.W.N. 158, s.c., 19 C.L.J. 263; s. 78 of the Land Registration Act is no bar to a suit for rent by the Zemindar's representative in interest, claimed for land which was upon resumption settled with the Zemindar: Ibid.

Mortgage —Effect of resumption. Whether upon resumption by Government, chowkidari chakran lands are for all purposes severed from the Zemindari or not, they form part of the Zemindari before resumption, and a mortgage of the Zemindari executed before resumption would cover such lands upon transfer of the resumed chakran lands to the Zemindar. There is an accession to the mortgaged property within the meaning of sec. 70 of the Transfer of Property Act: Rakhaldas v. Madhab Chandra, 15 C.W.N. 61, s.c., 13 C.L.J. 109; chowkidari chakran lands upon resumption form a separate estate for one purpose only, viz., as being hypothecated for the chowkidari assessment. Otherwise, it remains a part of the estate: Ibid.

Dismissal of chowkidar. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the zemindar who appoints and dismisses chowkidars and is in enjoyment of their service since the creation of the putni lease is entitled to the lands by the chowkidars after the resumption of such lands by the Government: Nitya Nund v. Maharajahdiraj Bijoy Chand, 7 C.L.J. 593.

Resumed lands. When chowkidari land is resumed and transferred by the Collector to the Zemindar the interest of the chowkidar in the land and, along with it, all rights created by him in favour of another, cease: Krishna Kinkar v. Mohanta Bhagaban, 35 Cal. 185, s. c., 12 C.W.N. 161.

Suit in respect of resumed lands. Where a plaintiff in a suit by a dur-putnidar of the entire interest in a moujah, in respect of certain resumed chowkidari chakran lands transferred by Government to the Zemindar, prayed for possession of those lands and for the execution of a proper deed of settlement in respect of such lands, held that the suit was not bad as it was for specific performance as well as for possession: Ranjit Singh v. Kalidasi, 14 C.W.N. 527; s.c., 37 Cal. 57; the terms on which the transfer should be made are laid down in Harinarain v. Mukund Lal, 4 C.W.N. 814: Ibid.

A suit by a putnidar against this Zemindar for recovery of resumed chowkidari chakran lands brought on the ground that under the terms of the putni the putnidar became entitled to the chowkidari chakran lands as soon as they were transferred by the Government to the Zemindar, is virtually a suit for specific performance of contract: Rajendra Nath Mukerjee v. Hira Lal Mukerjee, 14 C.W.N. 995. The Zemindar would be equitably entitled to refuse settlement asked by the putnidar unless the putnidar agreed to the conditions as to payments of the assessment made by the Collector and a proportionate share in the profits such as the zemindar would in the circumstances be entitled to impose on him : Ibid.

In a suit by a Zemindar for possession of jagir lands formerly held by a paik whom he had dismissed, it was found by the Subordinate Judge and the District Judge that the paik was a private servant and not a paik whom the Zemindar had no power to dismiss, held by the Privy Council that the High Court was not entitled to set aside the decree for possession and remand the appeal for the determination of the question as to whether the lands were chaukidari chakran lands and excluded from the assessment : Ramchandra v. Secretary of State, 43 I.A. 172, s.c., 20 C.W.N. 1245. jagir lands.

Where certain chowkidari chakran lands forming part of a revenue-paying estate, being abandoned by the chowkidars, were appropriated by the Zemindar who settled the same with the defendants as tenants, and thereafter the lands were resumed under the provisions of the Village Chaukidari Act, 1870, and subsequently transferred to the Zemindar who granted an under-tenure to the plaintiff, held that the plaintiff could not contend that the defendants who were brought on the land by his grantors were trespassers and the plaintiffs' suit in ejectment must fail : Shib Chandra v. Surendra Chandra, 45 Cal. 515, s.c., 27 C.L.J. 560. Ejectment suit after resumption.

The right of a landlord to claim rent, when making a settlement of resumed chowkidari chakran lands with a putnidar, is not restricted to the amount of assessment made by the Collector under s. 49 of the Chowkidari Act. (Bengal Act of 1870) ; he is entitled to claim a fair and equitable rent : Gopendra v. Tara Prasanna, 37 Cal. 598 ; s.c., 14 C.W.N. 1049. Claim of rent upon resumption.

Where a conveyance for a putni taluk expressly recited that certain resumed chowkidari chakran lands appertaining to the putni taluk were retained by the vendor ; held that the vendee was not estopped from claiming the chakran lands under a subsequent settlement thereof from the zemindar : Bepin Behari v. Tincowri, 15 C.W.N. 976. Estoppel—
Vendor and Vendee.

Neither the fact that the land has been allowed to devolve from father to son, nor the fact that the tenure was created very many years ago, nor the circumstances that of late the Zemindar did not avail himself of the services but still allowed the defendants to hold on, or all those facts taken together, could legitimately lead to the inference that the grant, which was purely in lieu of personal services to be rendered to the Zemindar, was of a permanent character, such that the Zemindar is not entitled to resume, though the grantee may refuse to perform the services, or the services may be no longer required : Per Prinsep and Ghose, J.J., in Radha Pershad v. Budhu Doshad, 22 Cal. 938 (at p. 942). Services to be rendered —whether tenure permanent.

A distinct refusal by a tenant to perform services incidental to his holding renders him liable to ejectment : Hurrogobinda v. Ram Rutno, 4 Cal. 67. Refusal to render services.

The fact that a Zemindar was entitled to make an appointment to the office of a chowkidar does not create in him an interest in the lands held by the chowkidars, which, upon resumption and transfer to the Zemindar, would pass to the putnidar from whose lease they had not been excepted : Girish Chandra v. Hem Chandra, 5 C.L.J. 28. Resumption and transfer.

Sale.

On sale of chowkidari chakran lands for non-payment of the Government assessment (after resumption and transfer to the Zemindars), both the Zemindar and the putnidar are entitled to share in the surplus sale-proceeds: Haridas v. Nistarini, 5 C.L.J. 30; the determination of this question does not depend upon the decision of the question of the right of the putnidar to hold the chakran land upon payment of additional rent: Haridas v. Nistarini, 5 C.L.J. 30.

Right of a putnidar.

A putnidar is entitled to eject a raiyat settled by the zemindar on chowkidari lands resumed by the Government and transferred to the latter, when the Zemindar granted the putni without any reservation of the chowkidari chakran land: Kazi Nawaz v. Surendra Nath, 5 C.L.J. 33; the nature of chowkidari lands and the effect of their resumption is explained in this case.*

Putni lease.

Where a putni lease conveyed to the putnidar all the lands of which the Zemindar at the time of the execution of the lease was possessed in the mouzah of which the putni was granted and the mouzah included chowkidari chakran land, held that on resumption by the Government a settlement with the Zemindar under Act VI of 1870, the putnidar became entitled to possession of the chowkidari chakran land, subject only to payment to the Zemindar of the extra assessment of revenue imposed on account of the resumed land: Kazi Nowaz v. Ram Jadu, 11 C.W.N. 201, but it was held in the case of Kashim v. Prosunno, 33 Cal. 596, s. c., 10 C.W.N. 598, that when chowkidari chakran land is resumed and transferred to the zemindar under s. 50 of Act VI of 1870 (B.C.) such land becomes detached from the parent estate, and the Zemindar hold it under a different title from his other malgujari lands. In regard to the case of Kasim Shaekh v. Prasanna Kumar, 33 Cal. 596, s. c., 10 C.W.N. 598, s. c., 5 C.L.J. 299, the following observations were made by Mookerjee and Walmsley J.J., in the case of Sourendra v. Rajendra Nath, 22 C.W.N. 660 at p. 662: "It may be observed that the decision in Kasim Shaikh v. Prasanna Kumar in so far as it ruled that the effect of the resumption and transfer was to grant new title to the proprietor of the estate was doubted by this Court in Kazi Newaz v. Ram Jadu, 34 Cal. 109, s. c., 11 C.W.N. 231, s. c., 5 C.L.J. 33 and must now be deemed to have been over-ruled by the opinion of the Judicial Committee in Ranjit v. Kalidasi, 21 C.W.N. 609, s. c., 25 C.L.J. 499.

Effect of resumption of Chowkidari-Chakran lands.

The effect of a resumption by the Government of chowkidari chakran lands under the provisions of Beng. Act VI of 1870 is that after the assessment is complete the Collector is under s. 50, by order in the scheduled form, to transfer to the zemindar subject to such assessment; and by section 51 such order operates to transfer the land to the zemindar subject to all contracts thereby made in respect of, under and by virtue of which any person, other than the zemindar, may have any right to any land; portion of his estate or tenure in the place in which such land may be situate." These words are wide enough to include the rights of a putnidar under a putni grant by virtue of which the putnidar is lessee of the

* If in assessing the putni rent, the profits of all the lands including the chakran lands were fully taken into account, the putnidar would not be liable to pay additional rent for the chakran lands when they came into his possession: (Per Mookerjee, J.)

zemindar's interest in the lands resumed, and also the rights of a darputnidar under a darputni grant: Ranjit Singh v. Kalidasi Devi, 44 I.A. 117, s. c., 44 Cal. 841, s. c., 21 C.W.N. 609, s. c., 25 C.L.J. 499 (P.C.).

Chowkidari chakran lands, which formed part and parcel of the permanently settled estate, vest in the putnidar, subject to the rights of the chowkidar: Kiran Sashi v. Ananda, 132 C.L.J. 15. Right of Putnidar.

On the resumption of the lands by the Government the rights of the putnidar were those conferred on him by the estate and interest created by the putni leases, and it was these rights which were kept alive by s. 51 of Beng. Act VI of 1870: Ranjit Singh v. Maharaj Bahadur Singh, 45 I.A. 182, s. c., 46 Cal. 173, s. c., 23 C.W.N. 198, s. c., 29 C.L.J. 193 (P.C.). Zemindar does not acquire a new estate upon resumption and transfer of lands forming part of original estate.

When chaukidari chakran lands included in a Patni Settlement have been resumed and transferred to the Zamindar under Act VI (B.C.) of 1870 he is entitled to the payment of a fair and equitable rent in respect thereof; the fixing of the rent is a condition to the patnidar being put into possession: Bhupendra Narayan v. Narapat, 53 Cal. 6, s. c., 42 C.L.J. 227 (P.C.). (The case of Pryambada v. Manahar, 52 Cal. 576, s. c., 29 C.W.N. 328 approved. The cases of Ranjit Singh v. Kali Dasi Debi, 44 Cal. 841, s. c., 44 I.A. 117 and Ranjit Singh v. Bahadur Singh, 45 I.A. 182, s. c., 46 Cal. 173 discussed and distinguished).

Chowkidari Chakran lands form part of the original estate, and when they are resumed and transferred to the zemindar, the latter does not acquire thereby a new estate: Brojendra v. Debnarain, 27 C.L.J. 491. The effect of a transfer of chowkidari land is to make the zemindar holding the profit subject to the rights previously created by him in favour of subordinate holders; the rights of the zemindar and the putnidar as between themselves are regulated by the conditions under which the putni was created: Radha Charan v. Maharaja Ranjit, 28 C.L.J. 532. Effect of transfer of Chowkidari land.

Where Chowkidari Chakran lands forming part of lands settled in putni were resumed by Government under the provisions of the Village Chaukidari Act and were subsequently transferred to the zemindar who thereupon settled such lands with the plaintiffs who were third parties, held that the zemindar was not competent to make a settlement with plaintiffs and that under the grant which the plaintiffs obtained they had acquired no right as against the putnidars; the putnidars were not bound to take a fresh settlement from the zemindar after resumption: Sourendra Mohan v. Rajendra Nath, 22 C.W.N. 660; the case of Ranjit v. Prasanna, 21 C.W.N. 609, s. c., 25 C.L.J. 499 was followed and the case of Kasim Shaikh v. Harek Chand, 33 Cal. 596, s. c., 5 C.L.J. 299, s. c., 10 C.W.N. 598 was held to be over-ruled. Right of Zemindar and Putnidar.

It was also held in the case of Sourendra Mohan v. Rajendra, 22 C.W.N. 660 that the transfer of the lands by Government, subsequent to resumption, did not create a new estate in the zemindar but the estate thus taken by him was in confirmation and by way of continuance of his existing state; the case of Secretary of State v. Kirtibas Bhupati, 42 I.A. 30, s. c., 42 Cal. 719, s. c., 19 C.W.N. 65 and Jai Kissan v. Collector of East Burdwan, 18 C.L.J. 102 were followed. Transfer of land by Govt. subsequent to resumption does not create new estate.

placed in the position they would have occupied if the chowkidari chakran lands had been resumed before the putni was created ; the assets of these lands would then have been taken into account in settling the amount of putni rent which would have represented the assessment due to the State, as also a fair share of the profit : Mehdi Hossein v. Umesh Chandra, 45 Cal. 685 ; see in this connection the following cases : Ranjit v. Kali Dasi, 21 C.W.N. 609, Kazi Newaz v. Ram Jadu, 34 Cal. 109, Rajendra Nath v. Hiralal, 14 C.W.N. 995, Gopendra v. Tara Prasanna, 14 C.W.N. 1049 and Harak Chand v. Charu Chandra, 15 C.W.N. 5.

Purchaser
at revenue
sale.

Where chowkidari chakran lands resumed by Government were transferred to A, in consequence of whose default to pay Government revenue the estate was sold and purchased by B, and where B sued to recover possession of the same, held that the purchaser of the revenue sale acquired no title to the chowkidari chakran lands which were never put up to sale for realisation of the arrears due from remainder of the estate : Brajendra Lal v. Debnarain, 45 Cal. 765 ; the case of Ranjit v. Kali Dasi, 44 Cal. 841, s. c., 21 C.W.N. 609 was followed.

S. 48 of Act
VI B.C. of 1870.

S. 48 of Act VI B.C. of 1870 does not require that the chowkidari chakran lands should be transferred to the zemindar of estate within which they are geographically situated, but to the zemindar of the estate to which the lands appertain and of which they form a part and parcel : Pratap Narain v. The Secretary of State, 10 C.W.N. 637.

S. 48, Act
VI of 1870.

The Collector has no jurisdiction to settle village chowkidari chakran land with only one of several zemindars under s. 48 of Act VI of 1870 : Mahammad Abu Zafar v. Ram Pershad, 37 I.C. 937.

Settlement
by Collector in disregard of Govt. order, wholly ultra vires.

A settlement of chakran chowkidari lands made by the Collector with a person in disregard of the order of the Government is wholly ultra vires and nugatory : Aghore Nath v. Kalyaneswari, 46 I.C. 883.

Village
Chowkidari
Act, 1870, s. 1 : "Assigned,"
meaning of.

The word "assigned" in the definition contained in s. 1 of the Village Chowkidari Act, 1870, means assigned by Government or appropriated by its authority or permission with the power of resumption, and the provisions of that Act do not apply to lands assigned to chowkidars by a Zemindar under the circumstances of the case : Secretary of State v. Kirtibas Bhupati Hari Chandan, 42 I.A. 30, s. c., 21 C.L.J. 31.

Profits.

If in assessing the putni rent, the profits of all the lands including the chowkidari chakran lands were fully taken into account, the putnidar will not be liable to pay additional rent for the chakran lands, when they come into his possession ; but otherwise the putnidar is bound to pay to the zemindar, in addition to the first amount assessed on resumption, a fair share of the profits derivable from the land : Khondkar Mehdi Hossein v. Umesh Chandra Mookerjee, 27 C.L.J. 494.

Death of chowkidar.

Upon the chowkidar's death the landlord is entitled to eject the under-tenants : Mritunjay v. Kenatullah, 11 C.W.N. 46, s. c., 5 C.L.J. 53 ; if at the inception of the tenancy a chowkidar was not a middleman, the simple fact of his subsequently subletting the land would not make him so : Ibid : occupancy right was held not to have been created in service-tenure lands when the lands were held for rendering services.

Occupancy
right.

The provisions of s. 51 of the Village Chowkidari Act (VI of 1870) save all contracts entered already with regard to these lands and the Court must look at the contract to see what was the intention of the parties: Pursottum v. Khetra Pershad, 5 C.L.J. 143. Contract.

Art. 113 and not Art. 142 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act was held to apply to a suit by a putnidar for possession of chowkidari chakran lands: Ranjit v. Radha Charan, 5 C.L.J. 77n. Suit for possession—Limitation.

Where a landlord brought a suit for ejectment against the holder of a service-tenure who renounced his title and executed a kabuliyat in favour of a third party, held that the Transfer of the Property Act applied to the case and that no notice to quit was necessary as the defendant forfeited his tenancy by denying the landlord's title; the landlord before he can eject the tenant must do some act shewing his intention to determine the lease and this intention must be shewn at some time antecedent to the institution of the suit: Anandamayee v. Lakshi Chandra, 33 Cal. 339, s. c., 3 C.L.J. 274. The tenant of a service tenure, who refuses to perform his services is liable to be ejected even without a notice to quit: Ansar Ali v. C. E. Grey, 2 C.L.J. 403; see also Hurrogobindo v. Ram Ratno, 4 Cal. 67; Radha Pershad v. Budhu Doshad, 22 Cal. 938; Suresh v. Madhub, (1857) S.D.A. 1772. Application of the Transfer of Property.
Act.

It is an incident of a service-tenure that the holder thereof is liable to ejectment upon refusal to perform service: Ansar Ali v. C. E. Grey, 2 C.L.J. 403; s. 155 does not apply to service-tenures: Ibid. Refusal to perform services.

A grantor is not entitled to resume the grant before he gives to the grantee notice dispensing with his services: Radha Pershad v. Budhu Doshad, 22 Cal. 938. Notice.

Where after a local enquiry a commissioner declared under s. 61 of the Chowkidari Act that the lands appertained to the Putni tenure of A, held in a suit by another putnidar B that no notice was necessary upon the latter as he was in no way impleaded as contemplated under s. 21 Reg. VII of 1822: Sarat Chandra v. Secretary of State, 21 C.W.N. 238.

Once the chakran lands were resumed and settled with a person he has the right to take khas possession of the land and the mere omission on his part to assert that right does not amount to acquiescence on his part to alter the position of a trespasser as a tenant; Rajkrishna v. Phakir Dome, 19 C.W.N. 478.

13. Rent in lieu of services:—Where the original donee ceased to do any services and paid rent in lieu thereof and the rent continued to be paid by his descendants, held that no service was to be performed and the tenure was to be held on payment of rent: Mohendra Singh v. Joka Singh, 19 W.R. 211. Rent in lieu of services.

14. Service-tenure:—The words "Jagir Khud Kast land" do not necessarily mean a service tenure within the meaning of s. 181 of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Deno Nath v. Amar Singh, 45 I.C. 418. Jagir Khud kast land,
meaning of.

Where a service-tenure was created before the passing of the Transfer of Property Act, the tenant is not entitled to continue in possession when he fails to perform his services, and it is competent to the grantor, on the service thus ceasing, to require and take possession of the land without reference to the Court at all*; if the Rights of a tenancy is created after the passing of the Transfer of Property Act s. III will apply: Ram Nath v. Siba Sundari, 25 C.L.J. 332, (Mookerjee and Beachcroft J.J.); a service tenant holds the land on condition that if he refuses to render service the lease shall determine: Ibid; Cl. (g) of s. III of the Transfer of Property Act does not render it obligatory upon the lessor to serve a notice upon the lessee who has forfeited his tenancy even a demand for possession is sufficient: Ibid.

Chaukidar
Ejection.

A chaukidar, so long as he performs the duties of his office, is not a trespasser and is not liable to be ejected from such lands: Kari-man Ahir v. Nirmal Kumar, 52 I.C. 181.

When it is found that land is held by a tenant for service but he receives some wages in addition, the land must nevertheless be held to be chakran liable to all the incidents of such tenures: Sati Prasad v. Mahesh Bhunia, 31 C.W.N. 552 (Duval and Mallik J.J.). When a service tenant refuses service or denies the title of the land-lord to resume the land, the lease to him determines and no notice is necessary to evict him. (Per Mallik J): Ibid.

Saranjam.

The term "saranjam," is applied specially to a temporary assignment of revenue from villages or lands for the support of troops or for personal military service, usually for the life of the grantee; also to grants made to persons appointed to Civil Offices of the State to enable them to maintain their dignity, and to grants for charitable purposes. These were neither transferable nor hereditary, and were held at the pleasure of the sovereign. They were divided into two classes, viz. (a) grants of revenue only i.e. of the royal share of the produce of the lands comprised in the grant, and (b) grants of the soil itself. It would seem to follow from the nature of saranjams that whether they were grants of the soil itself or of the revenue only of specified lands, they could not and were not meant to interfere with rights in those lands existing previously to and at the time of the grant. If and so far as there were occupancy tenants on those lands, they would retain their rights of possession (whether it can be called ownership or not is immaterial) but subject to paying the assessed land revenue (i.e. the royal share of the produce) payable before the grant to the Government and after the grant to the grantee: The Secretary of State for India in Council v. Girjabai, 46 C.L.J. 420 at p. 425 (P.C.). Per Lord Sinha. (This was a case from Bombay).

Public and personal services.

The distinction between a grant for services of a public nature, and one for services, private or personal, to the grantor, is well understood. In the former case the zemindar is not entitled to resume, while in the latter case he may do so, when the services are not required or when the grantee refuses to perform the services: Per Prinsep and Ghose, J.J., in Radha Pershad v. Buddhu Doshad, 22 Cal. 938 (at p. 941). See also Sanniyasi v. Salur Zemindar, 7 Mad. 268; Hurrogobinda v. Ram Rutno, 4 Cal. 67; Sreesh Chunder v. Madhub, S.D.A. 1857, p. 1772; Nilmoney v. Government, 18 W.R. 321; Unide Rajaha v. Pemmasamy, 7 Moo. I.A. 128.

A distinction exists between the grant of an estate burdened with a certain service, and that of an office the performance of whose duties is remunerated by the use of certain lands; in the former case the zemindar is not ordinarily entitled to resume, even if the service is not required, if the grantee is willing and able to perform the services, while in the other case he may do so when the office is terminated: Radha Pershad v. Budhu Doshad, 22 Cal. 938 (at p. 941).

When lands are held upon a grant subject to a burden of service and not merely in lieu of wages, it is well settled that as long as the holders of the grant are willing and able to perform the services, the Zemindar has no right to put an end to the tenure whether the services are required or not: Venkata v. Sobhanadri, 10 C.W.N. 161; see also Leelanund v. Thakoor Munorunjan, L.R.I.A. Sup. Vol. 181 at p. 185. As to the circumstances which establish that the grant was a grant subject to a burden of service and not merely in lieu of wages, see Venkata v. Sobhanadri, 10 C.W.N. 161.

(Semble). In the case of a service-tenure created by all the co-sharers in a Zemindari, not governed by the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act, a co-sharer landlord is not competent to sue the tenants for fair and equitable rent payable in respect of his shares, for failure of service originally performed: Gholam Mohiuddin v. Kairan, 31 Cal. 786. Co-sharer landlord entitled to sue for rent.

Where it was a condition of a durputni settlement that the tenant who held chakran land for services should pay to the durputnidar Khut rent (i.e., rent assessed in the proportion of the land-revenue which would be payable to Government on that portion of the estate), held that the payment of the Khut rent by the chakran holder to the durputnidar could not create the relationship of landlord and tenant, and that on resumption of the chakran land, the durputnidar was entitled to khas possession: Hazari Lal v. Khaunish Chandra, 22 C.L.J. 290. Durputni settlement.

Where an Impartible Estate, a khorphosh or maintainance grant is created in favour of junior members heritable in the male line and the right of reversion remains in the grantor, the head of the Impartible Raj, the mineral rights do not pass to the grantee, in the absence of words of express grant of minerals or by necessary implication: Udai Pratap v. Jagat Mohan, 9 P.L.T. 25 (Dawson Miller C.J. and Kulwant Sahay J.).

The words in a khorphosh grant "chatur sima sub sudha" (four boundaries all included) do not amount to the grant of mineral rights. Ibid. Where a document of grant is produced in evidence and contains no latent ambiguity, extrinsic evidence of intention is inadmissible. Ibid.

A khorphosh grant, does not on the failure of male descendants in the male line of the grantee, go back by survivorship, but reverts to the parent estate. Ibid.

15 Thanadari lands:—While both lakeraaj and thanadari lands were excluded from the operation of the Permanent Settlement, lakeraaj lands were neither assessed nor settled with the zemindar while thanadari lands were settled with the zemindar but excluded from the operation of the Permanent Settlement in the sense that resumption and reassessment therefore was reserved by the Government: Raja Rishikesh Law v. Mandakini Dasi, 44 C.L.J. 7. (The cases of Joykishen v. Collector of East Burdwan, 10 M.I.A. 16, s.c., 1 W.R. (P.C.) 26 and Secretary of State v. Kirtibas, 42 I.A. 30, s.c., 42 Cal. 710, s.c., 21 C.L.J. 31 (P.C.) followed. Thanadari lands.

The resumption in connection with thanadari lands properly so called was concluded within a short time after the Permanent Settlement and the Zemindars were not allowed to enjoy the produce of such lands or allowances granted in respect of them to the detriment of the public revenue for any considerable length of time afterwards. Ibid.

A person who claims under a settlement from the Collector on the lands having been resumed, is entitled to prove despite all these that the resumption took place on the footing that the lands were thanadari or that the proceedings relating to the resumption were such as were sanctioned by the Regulations or were in accordance therewith and can show by other evidence as well that the lands were thanadafi lands. Ibid.

Homesteads.

182. When a raiyat holds his homestead otherwise than as part of his holding as a raiyat, the incidents of his tenancy of the homestead shall be regulated by local custom or usage, and, subject to local custom or usage, by the provisions of this Act applicable to land held by a raiyat.

1. Rent-suit of homestead land:—A mofussil Small Cause Court has no jurisdiction to entertain a suit for arrears of rent of homestead or bastoo land: Uma Churan v. Bijan Bewah, 15 Cal. 174.

2. Homestead land:—S. 182 is not applicable where it is established that the land is not used by the raiyat as his homestead, and it is not sufficient for the raiyat that the character of the land is such as would justify its use as a homestead: Dina Nath v. Sashi Mohan, 20 C.W.N. 550, s. c., 22 C.L.J. 219.

Decisions holding that occupancy right accrues to homesteads under a different landlord require further judicial interpretation.

The decision that a settled raiyat of the village under one landlord acquires a right of occupancy in homestead land situate in a different village under a different landlord is very far reaching and may under suitable conditions require further judicial interpretation: Gunga Singh v. The Chairman of the District Board, Patna, [1919 Pat.], p. 235.

A part of homestead used by a raiyat for keeping agricultural cattle is governed by s. 182: Giris Chandra v. Bhabataran, 37 C.L.J. 524. A homestead land is used for agricultural purposes if the raiyat keeps agricultural cattle: Ibid.

Part of homestead used for cattle.

In absence of any local custom or usage an occupancy raiyat does not exceed his rights as an occupancy raiyat by building a pucca house on a homestead land held otherwise than as a part of his occupancy holding: Surendra Nath v. Nakoor Chandra, 64 I.C. 716, (Mookerjee C. J., and Fletcher J.).

A settled raiyat of a village holding a homestead though as an under-raiyat or under a raiyat acquires a raiyati right in the homestead; it is not necessary that the homestead should be the only residential place of the raiyat of the village: Isapali v. Satish Chandra, 65 I.C. 504, (Suhrawardy and Cuming J.J.).

In a suit to eject a transferee from a tenant of homestead land (not governed by the B. T. Act) the burden of proof is in the first instance on the plaintiff to prove that the tenancy was created before the passing of the Transfer of Property Act before the onus can be thrown upon the defendant to shew the custom of transferability; in the absence of such proof the case must be governed by s. 108, cl. (j) of the Transfer of Property Act: Mahadeo v. Dharam Nath, 72 I.C. 662, (Kulwant Sahay J.).

Onus in ejectment suit.

In absence of a local custom or usage, the homestead portion of an agricultural holding is governed by the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act, precisely in the same manner as the portion under actual cultivation: Rampado v. Ajore Dome, 40 C.L.J. 307, (Mookerjee and Rankin J.J.).

The question whether a case is governed by the Bengal Tenancy Act or by the Transfer of Property Act, depends upon the nature of the original tenancy and not on the character of the parcels included in the sub-tenancy: Ibid.

It is not necessary to investigate the actual origin of the tenancy, it is sufficient if it is established that at the time of the sub-lease, the holding, out of which the sub-tenancy was carved out, was an agricultural holding: Ibid.

A permanent tenancy created before the passing of the Transfer of Property Act, for the purpose of habitation, is not transferable, except by custom or express contract to that effect or unless pucca buildings have been allowed to be erected thereon: Safar Ali v. Abdul Rashid, 29 C.W.N. 428, s. c., 39 C.L.J. 585.

Tenancy created before the T. P. Act—dwelling lease, not transferable.

Before the passing of the Transfer of Property Act, a lease of homestead land was not transferable by custom: Sarada v. Nabin, 54 Cal. 333 s.c., 31 C.W.N. 231. (Cuming and Page J.J.).

3. Effect of sale of homestead holding by an agricultural tenant: Limitation: Dispossession by landlord:—Defendant No. 5 had a raiyati holding and some bastoo land and house in a certain village; he sold them both to defendant No. 6, who again sold only the house and the bastoo land to the plaintiff; plaintiff was dispossessed by the landlord who claimed the house through some other tenant, held that as the plaintiff did not claim to recover possession as an occupancy raiyat and did not hold as part of his own jote and the agricultural lands of the original tenant were not sold to him, he could not be said to be a raiyat of the homestead lands: and that Art. 3 of Sch. II of the Bengal Tenancy Act, therefore, had no application: Sheikh Abdul v. Musst. Kutbun, 1 C.W.N. 171 (notes).

Sale of bastoo land comprised in a raiyati holding.

4. Ejectment:—In suit for ejectment from a plot of residential land of the defendant who had his dwelling-house there, where the tenancy was created by a kabuliyat and patta not containing any words of inheritance or of perpetual tenancy, held that the mere fact that the land has been held by tenants at an unchanged rate of rent for a very long period and that it has been the subject of successive transfers do not warrant the inference that the subject was, when first created, intended to be permanent or was subsequently converted into such; held further that assuming the tenancy was originally of an agricultural character that would not of necessity, lead to the inference that the tenant had permanent right in the land where it is clear that the land had long ceased to be agricultural, the words "you are to enjoy the land with great pleasure (parama sukhe)" do not create a permanent tenancy: Ismail Khan v. Nilratan, 6 C.W.N. 352.

Where a tenancy was created by a kabuliyat not containing any words to imply that the holding was hereditary or the rent fixed in perpetuity, held that the tenancy was not a permanent one: Ismail Khan v. Kali Krishna, 6 C.W.N. 134.

Ejectment-
Compensation.

A tenant who erects buildings on land in which he has no permanent right is not entitled to compensation on being evicted: Ismail Khan v. Kali Krishna, Ibid.

Homestead
tenancies not transfer-able.

In a suit for ejectment with regard to a homestead holding, Mitra, J., observed as follows:—"The argument on the question of the applicability of the provisions of s. 108, cl. (j) is also unsustainable. The tenancy was created long before the Transfer of Property Act came into force; and it was a well established principle in this country that tenancies of homestead lands are not transferable unless custom or contract to the contrary were proved. S. 108 (j) has made an alteration in the law; but that alteration cannot affect a tenancy created long before the passing of the Act: Chandra Kant Bhowmick v. Mirtunjoy Chackerbutty; Appeal from Appellate Decree No. 2264 of 1901, decided by Mitra, J., on April 20, 1903 (unreported)."

Transferability.

The incident of non-transferability was common to ordinary tenancies of agricultural lands and tenancies from year to year of homestead lands before the passing of the Transfer of Property Act: and the party alleging transferability had to prove a custom to that effect: Madhu Sudan v. Kamini, 32 Cal. 1023, s. c., 9 C.W.N. 895 see also Harinath v. Rajchandra, 2 C.W.N. 122; Ramcharan v. Haricharan, 7 C.L.J. 107; Nabu Mondal v. Cholim Mullik, 25 Cal. 896, s. c., 2 C.W.N. 405 (F.B.); Madhab Chandra v. Bejoy Chand, 4 C.W.N. 574; Monmoitho Nath v. Anath Bandhu, 23 C.W.N. 201; Ananda Mohon v. Gobinda Chandra, 20 C.W.N. 322. These cases referred to and followed in the case of Sarada Kanto v. Nabin Chandra, 54 Cal. 333, s. c., 31 C.W.N. 231. (Page J., Cuming J., agreeing) where it was held that under the law as it stood before the Transfer of Property Act, tenancies whether of homestead or of agricultural lands were not transferable in the absence of a custom to the contrary or of an express contract to that effect: [The observations in Banee Madhab v. Joykissen, 12 W.R. 495 are opposed to the settled rule of the Calcutta High Court and cannot be regarded as correctly stating the law. The observation in Sulin Mohan v. Rajkrishna, 33 C.L.J. 193 explained.]

homestead.

The interest of a lessee of a homestead is transferable under the Transfer of Property Act, unless it was in existence prior to the coming into operation of the Act: Mohendra Lal v. Krishna Kumari, Transfer-46 I.C. 656, (Fletcher and Smither J.J.). A lease of homestead land from year to year which was in existence before the passing of the Transfer of Property Act is not governed by that Act and sec. 108, cl. (j) of that Act does not make it transferable absolutely or by way of sub-lease. Such leases are not transferable except by custom, the burden of proving which is on the party who sets it up: Ananda Mohon v. Gobinda Chandra, 20 C.W.N. 322 (N.R. Chatterjea and Mullick J.J.).

* There was no appeal under the Letters Patent against this decision.

With regard to tenancies of homestead land created before the Transfer of Property Act, the tendency of these decisions has been to establish that in the absence of evidence to the contrary, the burden of proof being upon the tenant, these tenancies are non-transferable: Ambika Prasad v. Baldeo Lal,* 20 C.W.N. 1113, s. c., 1 Pat. L.J. 253; the only exception to the above rule is when there has been an erection of pucca buildings or a standing by on the part of the landlord while the tenant spends a large sum upon the land:† Ibid; mere long continued possession cannot give rise to a presumption of transferability; Ibid.

5. When a raiyat holds his homestead &c. :—This section seems to apply only with regard to the homestead of a raiyat, when the raiyat holds his homestead under the landlord under whom he holds his agricultural holding: but if a raiyat holds his homestead under a landlord different from the landlord under whom he holds the agricultural holding, the provisions of the Tenancy Act do not seem to apply to the homestead land. The words "landlord" and "raiyat" are relative terms, and therefore when this section provides "where a raiyat holds his homestead" it means "where a raiyat holds his homestead under the landlord whose raiyat he is." Interpretation of the section.

In Bengal many zemindars who are owners of big estates have occupancy raiyati holdings and as such they are raiyats of the village where the holdings are situated; homestead leases taken by such a zemindar would not be governed by the Transfer of Property Act if a different interpretation is put to this section.

It has however been held that the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act are applicable to the homestead of a person who is a raiyat, although he is not a raiyat in the village in which the homestead land is situated and is not a raiyat under the same landlord as the landlord of the homestead land: Kripanath v. Sahib Amir, 10 C.W.N. 944, s. c., 4 C.L.J. 332; Pratap Chandra v. Biseswari, 9 C.W.N. 416. Contra.

A tenant who is not a raiyat in respect of a piece of bastu or homestead land but is so in respect of the agricultural land which he holds in the village and the homestead land is held otherwise than as part of the tenant's holding as a raiyat, must be regarded, in the absence of any allegation of local custom or usage as holding the homestead land in accordance with the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act applicable to land held by a raiyat; such a tenant has, under s. 21 of the Act, a right of occupancy in the piece of home- Homestead holding otherwise than as a part of agricultural holding. Where the homestead land was under a separate jama formed by mutual consent of landlord and tenant, it was held that the Bengal Tenancy Act was not applicable: Sadoy Chandra v. Kali Nath, 23 C.W.N. 16 (notes), s.c., 49 I.C. 267.

Applicability of s. 182, even if the raiyat holds other land as a raiyat in different village.

To obtain the protection of s. 182, it is not necessary that the raiyat should hold other land as a raiyat in the same village; it is sufficient if he is the raiyat of some village: Ibid.

Homestead of a raiyat whether part of agricultural holding or not, B. T. Act applicable.

Whether the homestead of a raiyat is or is not part of an agricultural holding, the Bengal Tenancy Act applies to it by virtue either of the general provisions of the Act or of the special provisions as contained in s. 182: Rai Charan v. Sib Ram, 46 I.C. 489, (Teunon and Richardson J.J.).

Landlord of raiyati holding and homestead holding different, s. 182 applicable.

Where the landlord of the raiyati holding and homestead holding are different, still the provisions of s. 182 apply: Ganga Singh v. The Chairman of the District Board, Patna, 59 I.C. 8, s.c., 1919 Pat. 235, (Atkinson and Manuk, J.J.).

Where the culturable lands of a raiyat are included in the homestead and are part thereof, the defendant is protected from eviction by the provisions of s. 182: Aswap Ali v. Dula Mia, 92 I.C. 843, s.c., A.I.R. (1926) Cal. 580. (Greaves and Cuming J.J.).

A raiyat of a certain village acquired a piece of homestead land in another village: held in the absence of the local custom to the contrary, the incidents of the homestead would be governed by the B. T. Act: Bhikariram v. Bahadur Singh, 43 Cal. 195 s.c., 25 C.L.J. 357.

Applicability of s. 182: special custom or usage.

Where A's predecessor was granted a lease of a piece of land as a homestead in about 1850 and A and his predecessor were in possession from that time and in 1916, A took a certain piece of agricultural land in the same village from some other landlord which he had been holding as a raiyat, held, in a suit for ejectment from the homestead land, that the incidents of the tenancy with regard to the homestead land was governed by s. 182 of the B. T. Act: Sukhlal v. Prosanna Kumar, 44 C.L.J. 302 (Cuming and B. B. Ghose J.J.).

Where a raiyat was in possession of an agricultural jote and paid rent for two years and then she built a homestead and used it as her own dwelling and lived there, held that in the absence of any special custom or usage, s. 182 applies and she must be taken to be a raiyat as regards the homestead: Iswar Chandra v. Murari Lal, 26 C.L.J. 88, (Woodroffe and Breachcroft J.J.).

Sublease of homestead land by a raiyat.

Where the lands included in the holding of agricultural raiyat consisted partly of agricultural and partly of homestead lands, and the portion which could be used as homestead was let out for use as homestead, held that the under-tenant was an under-raiyat within the Bengal Tenancy Act and the Transfer of Property Act had no application: Baburam v. Mohendranath, 8 C.W.N. 454, followed in Krishna Kant v. Jadu Nasya, 19 C.W.N. 914, s.c., 21 C.L.J. 475, see also Abdul Karim v. Abdul Rahaman, 15 C.L.J. 672.

According to the provisions of s. 182, the provisions regulating the homestead, of an under-raiyat would be the provisions which regulate the raiyati as to ejectment from the homestead: Nitaipada v. Sarat Kumari, A.I.R. 1927 (Cal.) 96. (Greaves and B. B. Ghose J.J.).

It seems that if an agricultural raiyat lets out the whole of the holding for homestead purposes, the under-tenant is an under-raiyat and the Bengal Tenancy Act will apply; the under-tenant cannot acquire any right which his landlord did not possess and as such the Transfer of Property Act cannot apply and also the nature of a holding at its inception cannot be altered by its subsequent use for another purpose.

When a particular tenancy falls within the provisions of s. 49 of the B. T. Act, s. 182 of that Act cannot be invoked in determining the status of the tenant. Chandra Mohon v. Meherjan, 44 C.L.J. 311. (B. B. Ghose and Graham J.J.). Where an under-raiyati tenancy consisted of a homestead along with other lands, the provisions of s. 182 of the B. T. Act do not apply to the homestead portion of the under-raiyati tenancy. The landlord is entitled to eject the under-raiyat from the entire lands including homestead under s. 49 of that Act, Ibid. (The case of Krishna v. Jadu, 19 C.W.N. 914 s.c., 21 C.L.J. 475 was distinguished on the ground that in that case, the tenant held the homestead only under the plaintiff as his landlord and it was held that as the homestead was not held as part of his holding as a raiyat, the incidence of the homestead were to be regulated under the provisions of s. 182 of that Act. The case of Rahimuddi v. Amina Bibi, 43 C.L.J. 132 referred to.)

Perpetual-grant:—Where a lease is given for building purposes the Court may well presume that it was intended to be a perpetual grant: Pramada Nath v. Srigovind, 9 C.W.N. 463; see also Juhororeelal v. H. Dear, 22 W.R. 399; Ismail v. Kundan Lal, 26 I.A. 58 s.c., 3 C.W.N. 502. See notes under s. 3, cl. (9).

Where there is a lease for building and residential purposes, in the absence of any intention to the contrary, indicated either in the terms of the grant or in the nature of the tenancy, the lease-hold interest is heritable, and the tenancy does not determine by the death of the lessee, but vests in his legal personal representatives who are entitled to give or receive the usual notice to quit: Kishori Lal v. Krishna Kamini, 37 Cal. 377. Such a tenancy, in the absence of any custom or contract to the contrary, is governed by the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act, and is consequently prima facie transferable under s. 108 (f) of that Act: Ibid.

Sec. 182 of the B. T. Act is not, but the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act are, applicable to a case where land was taken not for the purpose of a homestead from which the lessee was to cultivate his jote but for the purpose of a shop and is used for that purpose: Purusottam v. Panchanon, 42 C.L.J. 197, s.c., A.I.R. 1926 (Cal.) 373 (Cuming and Chakravarti J.J.).

Where it was found that defendant who was not a raiyat in the village was in possession of a house in the homestead land of proprietors for about ten years and he had been living in the village, though not in the same house for about 25 to 30 years, and that for a period of ten or eleven years the rent had not varied, that there was no finding that the landlord had treated the tenancy of defendants as heritable, nor that the site was let out to defendants for building house thereon, held: that s. 182, Bengal Tenancy Act, did not apply: that the rights of the parties must be determined by the Contract Act, and that defendants had not acquired permanent rights of tenancy in the land: Madhusudan v. Jeolal, A.I.R. (1926) Patna 606. (Kulwant Sahay J.).

Enhancement only upon contract.

6. Enhancement of rent of homestead land:—A suit for enhancement of rent of bastu land to which the Bengal Tenancy Act has no application can only be made under a contract or by notice to quit or in the alternative to pay enhanced rent: Krishna Kant v. Krishna Chandra, 9 C.W.N. 303.

S. 61.

7. Deposit of rent:—A raiyat of a village holding bastu land under a landlord different from the landlord under whom he is the raiyat of the agricultural holding can make a deposit of rent under s. 61 with respect to the bastu holding: Protap Chandra v. Biseswar, 9 C.W.N. 146.

Saving of custom.

183. Nothing in this Act shall affect any custom, usage or customary right not inconsistent with, or not expressly or by necessary implication modified or abolished by, its provisions.

Illustrations.

(1) A usage under which a raiyat is entitled to sell his holding without the consent of his landlord is not inconsistent with, and is not expressly or by necessary implication modified or abolished by, the provisions of this Act. That usage, accordingly, wherever it may exist, will not be affected by this Act.

(2) The custom or usage that an under-raiyat should, under certain circumstances, acquire a right of occupancy is not inconsistent with, and is not expressly or by necessary implication modified or abolished by, the provisions of this Act. That custom or usage, accordingly, wherever it exists, will not be affected by this Act.

No definition of usage is given in the Act.

In order to establish usage it is not necessary to give proof of its existence for any length of time and the statement of persons who are in a position to know of its existence in their locality are admissible as evidence of it: Sariatulla v. Prannath, 26 Cal. 184.

2. Custom:—See notes under s. 23, heading no. 5.

A growing usage of transferability of occupancy holdings is of no effect against the landlord. The usage to be effective must have already grown up: Rajendra v. Chandranath, 12 C.W.N. 878. To establish a usage as to transferability of occupancy holdings in a locality it is not enough to prove that several cases of transfers of such holdings have taken place. It is necessary to prove that such transfers have been made with the knowledge and without the consent of the landlord and that no successful objection to such transfer has been made by the landlord: Ramhari v. Jabarali, 6 C.W.N. 861.

4. Sale of occupancy holding: under-raiyati tenancy: Mortgage and other kinds of transfer.*

Where a raiyat is in possession for more than 12 years, the statute prevents the landlord from contracting with his tenant that the tenant should give up the benefit of the right of occupancy, and the tenant is not liable to be ejected at the expiry of a fresh lease executed by him: Saiad Sha v. Sridhar, 47 I.C. 157, (Fletcher and Shamsul Huda, J.J.).

Contract by landlord with raiyat in possession for more than 12 years for giving up right of occupancy, is void.

Where the right of the zuripeshgidar, of a non-transferable holding is recognised by a landlord, and subsequently the holding is sold to the zuripeshgidar, the landlord is entitled to re-enter: Mukhram v. Sadasi, 47 I.C. 132 (Roe and Coutts, J.J.).

Ejectment of Zuri-peshgidar. Sale of occupancy holding in execution of money decree.

An occupancy holding or any part of it cannot be sold in execution of a money-decree if the raiyat objects even if the landlord gives his consent: *Bepin Chandra v. An occupancy holding or any part of it cannot be sold in execution of a decree for money, when the raiyat objects even if the

* The cases are all collected in the notes under 23.

It seems that a permanent lease granted by an occupancy raiyat amounts to an abandonment by the raiyat and as such the landlord is entitled to re-enter.

It has been held that where a usufructuary mortgagee in execution of the decree upon mortgage purchased and was in possession of a non-transferable holding the landlord was entitled to get khas possession. (See notes under s. 25). But it seems that the mere creation of a usufructuary mortgage would not be a ground for ejectment, for, it is not a complete abandonment, the raiyat may still redeem the mortgage and get back his possession.

* The following cases were discussed: Agar Jan Bibi v. Panulla, 37 Cal. 687 at p. 693, s. c., 14 C.W.N. 779, s. c., 12 C.L.J. 169; *Dwarka Nath v. landlord consents to the sale: Bipin Chandra v. Jagat Chandra, 51 I.C. 962, (Chatterjea and Walmsley J.J.) ; the following cases were followed: Narayani v. Nabin Chandra, 44 Cal. 720 s. c., 21 C.W.N. 400, s. c., 25 C.L.J. 35, and Macpherson v. Debi Bhusan, 2 Pat. L.J. 520, s. c., 42 I.C. 36.

The decision in the Full Bench case of Dayamoyi v. Ananda Mohon, 42 Cal. 172, was considered in the case of Chandra Binode v. Shaikh Ala Buksh, 48 Cal. 184 by a Special Bench of seven Judges. The Special Bench have partially modified the decision of the Full Bench in the case of Dayamayi.

The result of the decision was summed up in the following words by Mookerjee C. J., who delivered the judgment of the Court :

(1) The case of Bhiram Ali v. Gopi Kanth, 24 Cal. 355,† was erroneously decided.

(2) The decision of the Full Bench in, Dayamayi v. Ananda Mohon, 42 Cal. 172, requires partial modification, viz., the following should be substituted for the first proposition enunciated therein regarding the transfer for value of occupancy holdings apart from custom or local usage :—

“I. The transfer of the whole or a part is operative against the raiyat, whether it is made voluntarily or involuntarily.”

See notes under s. 23, heading no. 4, at pp. 172 to 173.

Transferor taking sub-lease and remaining in possession does not amount to abandonment.

When a non-transferable occupancy holding is sold and the transferor takes a sub-lease and remains in possession it does not amount to abandonment and the landlord cannot recover possession: Separjan v. Ram Deb, 23 C.W.N. 135 (notes), see also Madan Mandal v. Mohim, 33 Cal. 531, Rajani v. Ekkari, 34 Cal. 689 and Salim Sheikh v. Mocham Mondal, 24 C.L.J. 113.

Where an occupancy raiyat purported to transfer by two documents his holding to his wife and daughter and continued to reside on a portion thereof up to his death and his wife and daughter thereupon came to possess as heirs, held that the landlord was not entitled to re-enter: Golap Jan v. Dil Mahmud, 54 I.C. 394.

A tenant of a transferable occupancy holding can transfer a portion of it, although the landlord is not bound to recognise the purchaser as a tenant: Kunja Bihari v. Sita Ram Singh, 42 I.C. 101, s. c., 3 Pat. L.W. 292.

Occupancy raiyat can object to sale of his holding in An occupancy raiyat can object to the sale of a holding in execution of a decree for money, on the ground that his right is not transferable without the consent of the landlord: Madhu Pathan v. Jagu Jena, 51 I.C. 139.

† The Rule which was laid down in the case of Bhiram Ali v. Gopi Kanth, 24 Cal. 355 was as follows :

In the absence of custom or local usage to the contrary, a raiyati holding in which the raiyat has only a right of occupancy is not saleable at the instance of the occupancy raiyat or any creditor of his, other than his landlord seeking to obtain satisfaction of his decree for arrears of rent.

‡ The Rule of law which was laid down in the case of Dayamoyi was as follows :

1. The transfer of the whole or a part is operative as against the raiyat,
 - (a) where it is made voluntarily,
 - (b) where it is made in-voluntarily and the raiyat with knowledge fails or omits to have the sale set aside.
2. A sale is made involuntarily where it is in execution of money-decree, but not of a decree founded on a mortgage or charge voluntarily made.

An under-raiyati interest is prima facie not transferable: therefore an usufructuary mortgagee of an under-raiyat acquires no title to the mortgaged property: Biswambhur v. Nasarat Ali, 32 C.L.J. 46; see also Bonomali v. Kailas, 4 Cal. 135 and Amirennessa v. Jinnat Ali, 42 Cal. 751, s. c., 20 C.L.J. 548.

The interest of an under-raiyat is not transferable: a transferee of a portion of an under-raiyati holding cannot get his title declared against his landlord: Rajani Kanta v. Lala Rout, 47 I.C. 298 (Fletcher and Shamsul Huda J.J.).

A tenant who holds under a raiyat is an under-raiyat whether the person under whom he holds is a raiyat holding at a fixed rate of rent or an occupancy raiyat or a non-occupancy raiyat: Kalidas v. Sheikh Nasarath, 32 C.L.J. 130.

5. Recognition :—See notes under s. 23.

Recognition of a transfer by a landlord after he had parted with his interest though not with his possession and during the pendency of a suit against him for possession by his successor-in-interest is not binding on the latter.

In order to prove a custom of transferability of tenancy it is essential for the person setting it up to show that transferees had a right to be recognised by the landlord after purchasing the holdings without the consent of the landlord. Evidence which merely goes to prove that certain purchasers of tenancies were recognised by their landlords is not, therefore, sufficient to establish such a custom in the absence of proof of the circumstances under which the transfers were recognised: Fakira Sahu v. Anoop Lal, 9 P.L.T. 178, (Kulwant Sahay and Macpherson, J.J.)

6. Bequest of occupancy holding :—See notes under s. 23.

7. Acquisition of right of occupancy by an under-raiyat :— Illustration (2) says that the custom or usage that an under-raiyat should, under certain circumstances, acquire a right of occupancy is not inconsistent with, and is not expressly or by necessary implication modified or abolished by the provisions of this Act. From the classification of tenants, it appears that it is only a raiyat who may have occupancy right. From s. 20 also it would seem so; for, it is only a raiyat who may acquire the status of a settled raiyat; it seems therefore that this custom or usage has been, by implication, abolished by the provisions of the Act.

Suppose, for instance, an under-raiyat acquires the right of occupancy: what would be then his status? His tenancy would not be liable to be sold in execution of a decree for rent (see secs. 65 and 66). It is no doubt true that in s. 113 (1) of the amended Chapter X the case of an under-raiyat having a right of occupancy is contemplated.

It has been held, however, that an under-raiyat may by usage or custom obtain a right of occupancy: Gopal Mondal v. Tapai Sankhari, 46 Cal. 43; see also Akhil Chandra v. Hassan Ali, 19 C.W.N. 246.

See notes under s. 4, heading no. 5 at pp. 72 to 73.

8. Incidents of under-raiyats with raiyat of occupancy by custom :

(I) Applicability of S. 26 :—S. 26 of the B. T. Act does not apply to an under-raiyat with right of occupancy by custom. The execution of money decree (Patna case)

Usufructuary mortgagee of an under-raiyat acquires no title to mortgaged property.

Tenant holding under a raiyat is an under raiyat irrespective of the status of the raiyat descendant of such an under-raiyat, if he fails to prove heritability under a local custom, is a trespasser and is liable to be ejected without any notice: Iswar Sant v. Torendra, 42 C.L.J. 560; Sudhanya Kumar v. Saik Ismail, 29 C.W.N. 733. See notes under s. 26, heading no. 7 at p. 218.

(2) APPLICABILITY OF S. 29 :—S. 29 the B. T. Act applies to an under-raiyat who has acquired a right of occupancy by custom: Azizul Huq Chowdhury v. Kazimuddin Sarkar, 32 C.W.N. 68 (notes), per Mitter, J. It is submitted with great respect that this decision has not laid down the correct view of the law. See notes under s. 29, heading no. 16 at p. 228.

(3) APPLICABILITY OF S. 49 :—S. 49 of the B. T. Act does not apply to an under-raiyat with right of occupancy by custom: Gopal Mandal v. Tapai Sankhari, 46 Cal. 43; Akhil Chandra v. Hassan Ali, 19 C.W.N. 246.

[It is submitted that the effect of an under-raiyat acquiring a right of occupancy by custom appears to be only this, that he is entitled to remain in occupation during his life time, or in other words, he having acquired a right of occupancy, is protected from ejectment. By acquisition of a right of occupancy by custom an under-raiyat does not become an occupancy raiyat but continues to be an under-raiyat. Only s. 49 will not apply to him; in other respects the provisions relating to underraiyats will apply. See notes under s. 29, heading no. 16 at p. 228].

CHAPTER XVI.

LIMITATION.

184. (1) The suits, appeals and applications specified in Schedule III annexed to this Act shall be instituted and made within the time prescribed in that Schedule for them, respectively; and every such suit or appeal instituted, and application made, after the period of limitation so prescribed, shall be dismissed although limitation has not been pleaded.

Limitation in suits, appeals and applications in Schedule III.

(2) Nothing in this section shall revive the right to institute any suit or appeal or make any application which would have been barred by limitation if it had been instituted or made immediately before the commencement of this Act.

1. Scope :—This section prescribes certain rules of limitation by reference to the Schedule to this Act. In determining what the provision of that Schedule mean, the purpose and scope of the Act must not be lost sight of. The Act was only intended to deal with existing rights between landlord and tenant: Krishna v. Satis, 20 C.W.N. 872.

2. Rent-suit :—A suit for recovery of rent is governed by the special rules of limitation contained in Sch. III and one period of limitation in all classes of suit for rent is provided for in the Bengal Tenancy Act, and it does not make any difference whether the lease is registered or not: Ishwari Pershad v. Crowdy, 17 Cal. 469. Art. 116 of the Second Schedule to the Limitation Act does not apply

The same period of limitation even if lease is registered. Art. 116 of to a suit for rent, although the lease is a registered one: Ibid. Suits for rent, founded on registered contracts in respect of lands subject to the provisions of the Tenancy Act, are governed by the limitation provided in that Act: Mackenzie v. Hazi Syed Mahamed, 19 Cal. 1. Art. 116 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act has no application to a rent suit: Ibid.

Suit for rent by assignee of the arrears not governed by the Tenancy Act

The Bengal Tenancy Act, according to its preamble, is an Act relating to the law of Landlord and Tenant and therefore all its provisions must be applicable only to suits in which the parties stand in the relation of landlord and tenant and therefore Art. 2 of Pt. I, Sch. III is not applicable to a suit for rent by an assignee of the arrears from the landlord as the assignee is not the landlord of the defendant: Mahendra v. Kailash, 4 C.W.N. 605.

3. Where cause of action arose before the passing of the Act :—Section 184 of the Bengal Tenancy Act declares that suits specified in Sch. III of the Act shall be instituted within the time prescribed in that schedule.

4. Suit by occupancy-raiyat, non-occupancy raiyat or under-raiyat for recovery of possession against his landlord :—See notes under Art. 3, Sch. III.

5. Limitation Act, s. 7 :—Ss. 184 and 185 of the Bengal Tenancy Act have not the effect of extending the provisions of s. 7 of the Limitation Act to an application under s. 167 of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Akshoy Kumar v. Maharaja Bejoy Chand, 6 C.W.N. 249 (notes).

See notes under Sch. III, Art. 2 (b).

6. S. 174 :—S. 18 of the Limitation Act does not apply to an application under s. 174 of the B. T. Act: Radashyam v. Dinobundhu, 18 C.W.N. 31.

7. Execution of decree for rent not exceeding Rs. 500 obtained by a co-sharer landlord :—See notes under Art. 6, Sch. III.

Suit to be dismissed although limitation has not been pleaded.

8. Sub-sec. (1) :—Under sub-sec. (1) it is obligatory upon the Court to dismiss the suit on the ground of limitation, although limitation has not been pleaded: Abdullah v. Asraf Ali, 7 C.L.J. 152. The question of limitation raised in the written statement but abandoned in the Court of first instance is a clear question of law and can be raised in the Court of appeal: Ibid.

9. Special Rule of Limitation :—Where there is a special rule of limitation prescribed by law, that rule is to be followed to the exclusion of the more general rule: Kali Charan v. Harendra Lal Roy, 4 C.L.J. 553. In suits for rent, the period of limitation is that prescribed by Art. 2 (b) of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act, and it cannot be extended by the application of the ordinary rules of limitation prescribed by Limitation Act: Ibid. Art. 116 of Sch. II has no application to a rent suit: Ibid.; see also Mackenzie v. Hazi Mahamed, 19 Cal. 1 (F.B.).

Forest rights, 3 years rule of limitation applicable.

10. Forest rights :—A suit for recovery of money payable in respect of forest rights is governed by Sch. III Art. 2, cl. (b) of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Abdullah v. Asraf Ali, 7 C.L.J. 152. A suit for the recovery of money due under a registered contract in writing in respect of forest rights is governed by the three years' rule of limitation as prescribed in Sch., III Part I, Art. 2 and not by Art. 116 of Sch. I of the Limitation Act: Sarajubala Debi v. Sarada Nath, 23 C.W.N. 336.

II. Execution of rent-decree incapable of execution:—A decree which does not specify the reliefs granted is incapable of execution and cannot be considered as time barred even though three years have elapsed from the date of the decree if the execution is applied for within three years from the date of amendment of the decree making it capable of execution: Mahamaya v. Abdul Hamid, 18 C.W.N. 266.

12. Acknowledgement of liability:—S. 19 of the Limitation Act is applicable to suits for rent: Kamal Krishna v. Kedar Nath Kundu, 10 C.L.J. 517; when a landlord sues for recovery of rent and relies on s. 19 of the Limitation Act his claim does not cease to be a claim for rent: Ibid. S. 19 of the Limitation Act applicable to rent suit.

13. Limitation should be specially pleaded:—Under O. 8 r. 2, C. P. C. limitation should be specially pleaded: Kedar Nath v. Mohesh Chandra, 28 C.L.J. 216; when limitation has not been specially pleaded and the facts are not apparent on the face of the record, a Judge has no jurisdiction to go into the matter and enquire whether, on certain facts he found, the suit was barred: Ibid; where a general plea of limitation is taken that the suit was barred under 12 year's rule, a Judge is not competent to decide a case on a special plea, that the suit is barred under Art. 3, Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act, when such later plea was raised for the first time in the Court of appeal, without raising an issue and allowing the plaintiff to adduce evidence on it: Ibid.

185. (1) Sections 7, 8 and 9 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, shall not apply to the suits and applications mentioned in the last foregoing section. Portions of the Indian Limitation Act not applicable to such suits, &c.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, the provisions of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, shall apply to all suits, appeals and applications mentioned in the last foregoing section.

Acknowledgement of liability:—S. 19 of the Limitation Act is applicable to applications for execution of rent decrees, coming under Art. 6, Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act by reason of sub-sec. 2 of s. 185: Rakhal Chandra v. Hemangini, 3 C.L.J. 347; s. 19 of the Limitation Act applies to applications for execution of decrees and an acknowledgement of liability under that section can save an application for execution of a decree for arrears of rent for a sum of money not exceeding Rs. 500 from being barred by limitation: Ibid; see also Ramkumar v. Jakur Ali, 8 Cal. 716, and Toree Mahomed v. Mahomed Mahbood, 9 Cal. 730; s. 19 of the Limitation Act is applicable to rent suits: Kamal Krishna v. Kedarnath, 10 C.L.J. 517.

Miscellaneous cases:—S. 15 sub-sec. (2) of the Limitation Act, which is made applicable to suits, appeals and applications mentioned in the third schedule annexed to the Bengal Tenancy Act, by virtue of s. 185, sub-sec. (2) does not apply to suits instituted under s. 104 (H) of the Bengal Tenancy Act, which are not mentioned in the third schedule: Secretary of State v. Gangadhar Nanda, 27

C.L.J. 374 ; the case of Radhasyam v. Dinobandhu, 34 All. 496 was distinguished. Where a tenant brought a suit for recovery of possession of a part of the land leased out and of which possession was not given, held that according to s. 185 (2), the period of limitation is governed by Art. 144 Sch. I of the Indian Limitation Act: Pachoo Kapali v. Jajneswar, 32 C.L.J. 9. On a plain reading of the provisions of s. 185 of the Bengal Tenancy Act with s. 15 sub-sec. (2) of the Limitation Act, the latter could not be applied to extend the period of six months provided for the institution of suits under s. 104H of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Secretary of State for India v. Gangadhar, 45 Cal. 634.

See notes under s. 184 and Sch. III.

Art. 144 of the Limitation Act

CHAPTER XVII

SUPPLEMENTAL.

Penalties.

Penalties.

186. (1) If any person, otherwise than in accordance with this Act or some other enactment for the time being in force,—

Penalties for illegal interference with produce.

(a) distrains or attempts to distrain the produce of a tenant's holding, or,

(b) resists a distraint duly made under this Act, or forcibly or clandestinely removes any property duly distrained under this Act, or,

(c) except with the authority or consent of the tenant, prevents or attempts to prevent the reaping, gathering, storing, removing or otherwise dealing with any produce of a holding, he shall be deemed to have committed criminal trespass within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code. XLV of 1860.

(2) Any person who abets, within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, the doing of any act mentioned in sub-section (1), shall be deemed to have abetted the commission of criminal trespass within the meaning of that Code. XLV of 1860.

Tenant's holding, sub-sec. (1) cl. (a):—It seems that the word "holding" is not used here in its strict sense; apparently it includes land held by an under-raiyat in-as-much as it appears that under s. 121 the landlord of an under-raiyat is entitled to distrain.

Damages for denial of landlord's title.

186A. (1) When, in any suit between a landlord and tenant as such, the tenant renounces his character as tenant of the landlord by setting up without reasonable or probable cause title in a third person or himself, the Court may pass a decree in favour of the landlord for such amount of damages, not exceeding ten times the amount of the annual rent payable by the tenant, as it may consider to be just.

Damages for denial of landlord's title.

(2) The amount of damages decreed under subsection (1), together with any interest accruing due thereon, shall, subject to the landlord's charge for rent, be a first charge on the tenure or holding of the tenant; and the landlord may execute such decree for damages and interest, either as a decree for a sum of money, or, subject to the provisions of section 158B, in any of the modes in which a decree for rent may be executed.

Note :—This section has been inserted by Bengal Act I of 1907 and Act I, E. B. A. of 1908.

Whether Denial of landlord's title is a ground of forfeiture :—See notes under s. 10.

Damages.

Damages :—Before awarding damages under sub-sec. (1) of this section the Court should find, as a fact as to whether there was reasonable or probable cause, and state its grounds for coming to that conclusion, and where the appellate court awards such damages it should also consider in coming to that conclusion and though it was found that the defence was without reasonable cause it was a defence which was accepted by the first court: Sibu Sant v. Nitai Charan, 15 C.L.J. 114.

Agents and representatives of landlords. Power of landlord to act through agent.

Agents and representatives of landlords.

187. (1) Any appearance, application or act, in, before or to any Court or authority, required or authorized by this Act to be made or done by a landlord, may, unless the Court or authority otherwise directs, be made or done also by an agent empowered in this behalf by a written authority under the hand of the landlord.

(2) Every notice required by this Act to be served on, or given to, a landlord shall, if served on, or given to, an agent empowered as aforesaid to accept service of or receive the same on behalf of the landlord, be as effectual for the purposes of this Act as if it had been served on, or given to, the landlord in person.

(3) Every document required by this Act to be signed or certified by a landlord, except an instrument appointing or authorizing an agent, may be signed or certified by an agent of the landlord authorized in writing in that behalf.

3. EJECTMENT.
4. POWER OF ATTORNEY.
5. TERMINATION OF AGENT'S AUTHORITY.

6. LIMITATION: SUIT FOR ACCOUNT.

7. RIGHT TO TAKE ACCOUNTS NOT ASSIGNABLE.

1. Stamp :—The written authority should be stamped as a power-of-attorney.

2. Agent authorised to act :—S 187 does not require an agent to be authorised in writing to act on behalf of all the landlords : Gopinath v. Umakanto, 24 Cal. 169. No written authority necessary.

3. Ejectment :—Where a certified guardian of a minor without the authority of the Court granted a lease conjointly with the co-sharer of the minor, held that the minor was entitled to eject the lessee as trespasser in respect of his own share without making his co-sharers parties to the suit : Harendra v. Moran, 15 Cal. 40. Suit by minor for ejectment —Parties.

4. Power-of-attorney: Evidence of identification :—When a document purporting to be a power-of-attorney and to have been executed by a Notary Public is produced before the Court, an affidavit of identification as to the person purporting to make the power-of-attorney being the person named therein is unnecessary : In the goods of W. H. Mylne, 9 C.W.N. 986. Power of attorney.

5. Termination of agent's authority :—Where two joint agents were appointed for collection of rent and there was a written contract (kabuliyat) executed in favour of the landlord, held that upon the death of one the contract of agency did not terminate against the surviving agent : Bhagirath v. Premchand, 17 C.L.J. 201. Agent's authority.

6. Limitation: Suit for account :—A suit for an account against an agent is governed by Art. 116 of Sch. I of the Limitation Act when there is a contract in writing and registered : Bhagirath v. Premchand, 17 C.L.J. 201.

7. Right to take account not assignable :—A right to take accounts and to recover such sums as may be found due is not assignable being a mere right to sue within the meaning of s. 6, clause (e) of the Transfer of Property Act, and the assignee is not entitled to maintain a suit for such a purpose : Khetro v. Biswanath, 51 Cal. 972. Right to take accounts, not assignable.

188. Where two or more persons are joint-landlords, anything which the landlord is under this Act required or authorized to do must be done either by both or all those persons acting together, or by an agent authorized to act on behalf of both or all of them. Rent suit.

I. What a co-sharer landlord can do :—A co-sharer landlord can bring a suit for whole rent of the tenure making his co-sharers who refuse to join as plaintiffs, defendants in the suit: Pramada Nath v. Ramani Kant, 35 Cal. 331, s.c., 12 C.W.N. 249, s.c., 7 C.L.J. 139 (P.C.).

A co-sharer landlord can maintain a suit for the entire rent only when he shews that those entitled to join with him have refused to join or acted prejudicially and the reluctant sharers have been made parties: Dwarkanath v. Tara Prasanna, 17 Cal. 160; see also Pati Hariapur v. Shekhar, 4 Mad. 141; Kali Das v. Nathu, 7 Bom. 217; Ram Sebak v. Ram Lall, 6 Cal. 185.

A co-sharer landlord may join with his other co-sharers in bringing a suit for the entire rent of the tenure although he has for a long period collected his share of the rent separately: Pramada Nath v. Ramani Kant, 35 Cal. 331; Akhoy Kumar v. Gopal Kamini, 10 C.W.N. 952; see also Guni Mohamed v. Moran, 4 Cal. 96; Gopal Chandra v. Umesh Narain, 17 Cal. 696; Syama Charan v. Akshoy Kumar, 33 Cal. 1010; s.c., 10 C.W.N. 787; s.c., 3 C.L.J. 627; Giris Chandra v. Chhatradhar, 3 C.L.J. 379, and observations of Brett J., in Pramada Nath v. Ramani, 6 C.W.N. 34.

A transferee of the whole interest of one of the co-sharers can maintain a suit for the entire rent of the tenure making the other co-sharers defendants: Shashi v. Seetanath, 35 Cal. 744.

[Such a decree is a decree for rent.]

A co-sharer landlord who used to collect his share of the rent separately can sue to recover arrears of rent in respect of his fractional share: Girindra v. Sreenath, 7 C.L.J. 512.

Suit for rent is outside the scope of s. 188.

A co-sharer can bring a suit for rent as there is nothing in the Act which requires or authorises a landlord to sue thereunder for arrears of rent; and a suit for arrears of rent is outside the scope of s. 188: Prem Chand v. Mokshoda, 14 Cal. 201; Umes v. Nasir, 14 Cal. 203 (note); Khondkar Abdul Hamid v. Mohini Kant, 4 C.W.N. 508; Rup Chand v. Gudar Singh, 5 C.W.N. 30 (notes); Beni Madhub v. Joad Ali, 17 Cal. 390 (F.B.).

Additional rent upon contract.

A co-sharer landlord can maintain a suit for additional rent for additional land found on measurement against a raiyat upon a contract: Gobin Chandra v. Hamidula, 7 C.W.N. 670; followed in Sailendra v. Karali, 2 C.L.J. 534.

Rent for excess land.

A co-sharer landlord can maintain a suit for rent for additional land payable in terms of a lease, such a suit not being a suit under

s. 52 and s. 188. not applying to it: Ram Chunder v. Giridhar, 19 Cal. 755.

A co-sharer landlord can maintain a suit for rent in respect of excess land which formed no part of the land originally let out: Abdul Hakim v. Rajendra Narayan, 13 C.W.N. 635. See also Abdul v. Mohini, 4 C.W.N. 508.

A co-sharer landlord can maintain a suit for recovery of balance of rent due from a tenant, and in the alternative, for recovery of sums which may have been collected by his co-sharers in excess of their legitimate share: Sham Singh v. Kishun Sahai, 6 C.L.J. 190: see also Ahumudeen v. Girish Shamunt, 4 Cal. 350.

Balance of rent due or rent realised in excess by co-sharers.

A co-sharer landlord can alone maintain a suit against a raiyat to compel him to fill up a tank which the raiyat had without authority excavated in one part of his holding: Gobind Chand v. Kamizuddi, 9 C.W.N. 246 (notes); s.c., 16 C.L.J. 127.

Filling up a tank.

A co-sharer landlord can maintain an application for measurement under s. 91 when he obtains a separate kabuliyat entering into separate contract for rent with the tenants: Jogesh Prokash v. Maniruddi, 35 Cal. 417.

S. 91.

A co-sharer landlord can dispute an entry under s. 106: She Bahadur v. Mackenzie, 7 C.W.N. 400, but cannot maintain an application under s. 105: see notes under headings Nos. 13 and 14.

Ss. 105 and 106.

A co-sharer landlord can sue for recovery of damages for value of trees cut down by a tenant. Hrisikesh v. Sadhu Charan, 4 C.W.N. 80; Fatik v. Atlas, 15 C.L.J. 225.

Damages for trees.

S. 188 does not apply to a suit by a co-sharer landlord against an occupancy raiyat for damages for value of trees alleged to have been improperly cut and appropriated: Fatik Chandra v. Atlas Bibi, 15 C.L.J. 225.

A co-sharer landlord can bring a suit to eject a tenant on breach of the conditions of the lease and s. 188 is no bar to such a suit: Hari Priya v. Ram Churn, 19 Cal. 541.

Breach of condition.

A suit to assess rent is consistent with and arises out of the general law and the land-revenue system of the country and is not one which landlord is "required or authorised" to do under the Bengal Tenancy Act within the meaning of s. 188 of the Act; a co-sharer landlord is therefore entitled to institute such a suit: Dhanajoy v. Upendra Nath, 22 C.W.N. 685.

A suit by a co-sharer landlord for assessment of rent in respect of a holding under separate agreement is not an act that is "authorised" by the B. T. Act within the meaning of sec. 188, and sec. 52 does not apply to it. Partap Mahton v. Wazirunissa, 4 Pat. 604. See notes under s. 52, heading no. 8 at p. 321.

2. What a co-sharer landlord cannot do :—S. 188 prevents a co-sharer landlord from bringing any suit authorised by the Act unless his other co-sharers join him as plaintiffs: Khetter Mani v. Jiban Krishna, 21 C.L.J. 315. This section has no reference to joint tenants and cannot be applied by analogy to a co-sharer tenant who brings a suit, authorised by the Act e.g., a suit for abatement of rent: Ibid. In cases where s. 188 of the Bengal Tenancy Act applies, the fact that the plaintiff joins his co-sharers as defendants does not justify the court in entertaining the suit "on principles of justice and equity": Dhananjoy v. Upendra Nath, 22 C.W.N. 685. A co-sharer landlord cannot bring a suit for enhancement or for additional rent and s. 188 is a bar to such a suit: Gopal v. Umesh, 17 Cal. 695.

S. 158. A co-sharer landlord cannot make an application under s. 158 and s. 188 is a bar to such an application: Makub Ali v. Ameer Rai, 17 Cal. 538.

Khas possession. A co-sharer landlord cannot bring a suit for khas possession with an alternative claim for rent, not merely of additional land found in possession of the tenants over and above the land of their own holding but in respect of the entire quantity found in possession of the tenant including the lands of their own holding, (ss. 52 and 188 applying to such a case): Khondkar Abdul v. Mohini, 4 C.W.N. 508: see also Gopal Chander v. Umesh, 17 Cal. 695.

S. 52. S. 188 is applicable to suits for alteration of area under s. 52: Ibid, followed in Sati Prasad v. Radha Nath, 16 C.L.J. 1427: see also Dwarka Nath v. Mathur Lal, 18 C.W.N. 742.

Enhancement. A co-sharer landlord cannot maintain a suit for enhancement of rent of a raiyat holding even when there is a stipulation to pay rent separately and for enhancement: Baidya Nath v. Sheikh Jhin, 25 Cal. 917, s.c. 2 C.W.N. 44.

A suit for enhancement of rent cannot be brought by a co-sharer landlord: Jatindra Nath v. Prasanna Kumar, 38 Cal. 270, s.c. 15 C.W.N. 74 s.c., 13 C.L.J. 1 (P.C.).

S. 105. S. 188 is a bar to the maintainability of an application made under s. 105 by one of two or more co-sharer landlords: Krishna Sardar v. Paresb Sardar, 10 C.L.J., 485; see also Behary Lal v. Priya Nath, 21 C.L.J. 305.

Abatement. A co-sharer has no right to grant abatement of rent: Shyama Charan v. Sham Molla, 1 C.W.N. 415.

Rent suit. A co-sharer landlord cannot maintain a suit for rent if he does not make the other co-sharers parties defendants or he does not prove a right to collect his share of the rent separately: Nepal Chandra v. Mahendra Nath, 31 Cal. 707.

Joint possession. A co-sharer landlord cannot maintain a suit for recovery of joint possession of his share in land leased out by another co-sharer, when the former has also leased out land in his exclusive possession separately; the remedy lies in a suit for partition: Syed Ali v. Nawab Ali, 11 C.W.N. 143.

Ejectment. A co-sharer land cannot bring a suit for ejectment against a tenant for his share of the land, if the tenancy which was created at its inception by all the landlords jointly, has not been determined by all of them; Syed Gholum Mohiuddin v. Khairam, 31 Cal. 786 s.c. 8 C.W.N. 325.

Debutter property: Joint Sebais. Joint shebait are, in some respects, joint trustees, and a suit for enhancement of rent cannot be instituted by one of them making the other a party defendant: Abdul v. Umakanta, 19 C.W.N. 260.

Rent suit outside the scope of s. 188. Suit for rent. A suit for arrears of rent is outside the scope of s. 188: Prem Chand v. Mokshada, 14 Cal. 201; Umesh v. Nasir, 14 Cal. 203 (note); Jogobandhu v. Jadu Ghose, 15 Cal. 47; Khondkar Abdul Hamid v. Mohini Kant, 4 C.W.N. 508; Rup Chand v. Gudur Singh, 5 C.W.N. 30 (notes).

Agreement either expressly proved or implied by the conduct of the parties may establish the right of co-sharer landlords to sue separately for the shares of rent receivable by them ; but such an arrangement merely affects the right to sue separately for rent, and in no other aspect modifies the terms of the holding ; the right to bring the tenure to sale for arrears of rent remains in tact, as also the right of one co-sharer to sue, making his co-sharers defendants when they will not join as plaintiffs : Pramada Nath v. Ramani Kant, 35 Cal. 331 (P.C.). The filing of a suit is not a thing which the landlord is, under the Bengal Tenancy Act, required or authorised to do ; and s. 188 is no bar to a sharer suing (under the general rules of legal procedure) for the whole rent of the tenure making his co-sharers who refuse to join as plaintiffs, defendants in the suit : Ibid.

Pramada Nath v. Ramani Kant.

It is a general rule not derived from the Bengal Tenancy Act, but from the general principles of legal procedure that a sharer, whose co-sharers refuse to join him as plaintiffs, can bring them into the suit as defendants and sue them for the whole rent of the tenure : Pramada Nath v. Ramani Kant, 35 Cal. 331 (P.C.) ; overruling Pramada v. Ramani, 9 C.W.N. 34. Even if there is separate collection and right of separate collection by suit, all the sharers may join together again to bring a suit for rent jointly : Ibid.

Rent suit by a co-sharer.

A suit by the assignee of arrears of rent, together with land from one co-sharer for the entire rent of the tenure by making the co-sharers parties defendants is maintainable : Shashi Kumar v. Seeta Nath, 35 Cal. 744 : s.c., 7 C.L.J. 425.

Rent suit by an assignee of arrears from a co-sharer. Where separate contract.

S. 188 has no application where one set of landlords obtains separate kabuliyat entering into separate contract for rent with the tenant ; such landlord ceases to be a joint landlord with the other co-proprietors of the land. He becomes a joint owner and not a joint landlord : Jogesh Prokash v. Maniruddi, 35 Cal. 417 ; s. 188 has no application where there is a separate contract in favour of one set of landlords ; Matungini v. Ram Das, 7 C.W.N. 93 ; Gobindo Chandra v. Hamidulla, 7 C.W.N. 670.

A co-sharer landlord who used to collect his share of the rent separately can sue to recover arrears of rent due in respect of his fractional share : Girindra v. Sree Nath, 7 C.L.J. 512. See also Sita Nath v. Pelaram, 21 Cal. 869, but if he has no right of separate collection his suit must be dismissed if the other co-sharers are not made parties defendants : Nepal Chandra v. Mahendra Nath, 31 Cal. 707.

Fractional share.

A suit for recovery of balance of rent due from a tenant, and, in the alternative, for recovery of sums which may have been collected by his co-sharers in excess of their legitimate share is maintainable at the instance of a co-sharer landlord : Sham Singh v. Kishun Sahai, 6 C.L.J. 190 ; see also Ahumudeen v. Girish Shamunt, 4 Cal. 350.

Suit for rent collected by co-sharers.

Where a tenant after the creation of the holding encroached upon certain lands and one of the co-sharer landlords brought a suit for his share of the encroached land and for assessment of rent, held that the encroachment should be regarded as a new holding and the rent that would be a new rent and a suit for assessment of rent is not an act that is authorized by s. 188, and consequently ss. 52 and 188 would be no bar to such a suit : Khondkar Abdul v. Mohini, 4 C.W.N. 508 doubted and followed in Abdul Hakim v. Rajendra, 13 C.W.N. 635.

Suit for assessment of rent for encroached land.

S. 188
does not preclude joint landlords from ceasing to be joint.

S. 188 lays down that landlords can only sue for the rent collectively or by common agent. But it does not prescribe that the relation of joint landlords is to endure for ever. It does not prohibit joint landlords from ceasing to be joint, or preclude them from suing their shares of the rent separately when they have ceased, or wish to cease, to be joint landlords. When a defendant is subject to a joint liability, it would without doubt, be unjust to allow him to be sued by one of his joint creditors, who could not release him from his liability to his other creditors. But there would seem to us to be no reason why the creditors should not be allowed to sever their mutual relations and sue their debtor separately for their shares of the debt, provided this be done in such a manner as to free the debtor from all further liability to any of them: (Per Rampini & Wilkins, J.J.): Rajnarain v. Ekadasi, 27 Cal. 479, s.c., 4 C.W.N. 494.

Partition between joint landlords.

Where the principal defendant was the tenant of two joint landlords and there being a partition between them each of the joint landlords brought a separate suit for his share of the rent against the principal defendant by making the co-sharer landlord a party: held that the suits were maintainable, all parties interested having been made parties; that apportionment may take place of the sum due for arrear as well as with regard to future;* that section 188 of the Bengal Tenancy Act was no bar to the suit: Ibid.

Suit for proportionate share of rent when there is joint contract.

A suit by a co-sharer landlord for his proportionate share of the rent cannot be maintained when there is no contract under which the tenant is bound to pay his share separately, although the other co-sharer landlords are made defendants in the suit: Lala Ram v. Nem Narain, 6 C.W.N. 327. A suit by a co-sharer landlord for his proportionate share of the rent cannot be treated as claiming in the alternative either the individual share of the plaintiff or the full rent, nor can the plaint be allowed to be amended to convert the suit into one for the recovery of the full rent, as that would contravene the provisions under sec. 52 of the Civil Procedure Code: Ibid.

See notes under sec. 159 under heading "what constitutes a separate tenancy."

Right of suit by a co-sharer landlord when other co-sharers refuse to join.

It is only when a co-sharer landlord can shew that those entitled to join with him have refused to join or have otherwise acted prejudicially to their interests, that he is entitled to sue alone and to make the reluctant or refusing co-sharers defendants in the suit: Dwarka Nath v. Tara Prasanna, 17 Cal. 160;† see also Pati Hari Pat v. Chekptr Manakkal, 4 Mad. 141; Kali Das v. Nathu, 7 Bom. 217; Ram Sebak v. Ram Lall, 6 Cal. 815.

Where cosharer landlord is made a defendant and afterwards made a co-plaintiff
Limitation.

Where a co-sharer landlord was made a party defendant in violation of the rule laid down in Dwarka Nath v. Tara Prasanna, 17 Cal. 160, and was subsequently made a co-plaintiff, held that the effect of making him a co-plaintiff was practically to institute a new suit on the date when he was not changed into co-plaintiff, and the question of limitation should be decided reckoning the date of suit as the date when the co-sharer was made a co-plaintiff: Jibanti Nath v. Gopal Chander, 19 Cal. 760.

Refusal by

When a co-sharer brought a suit for rent by making his co-sharer landlord a defendant, alleging that the latter refused to join and had informed him that latter's share of the rent had been paid up, and it was prayed that in case it be found that the latter's share of the rent had not been paid up, extra court-fees might be taken from him, held that the suit was maintainable; Pergash Lal v. Akhowri, 19 Cal. 735.

When one of several co-sharer landlords thinks fit to pursue his remedies to recover his share of the rent, he must pursue them under the ordinary law of the country, and independently of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Behi Madhub v. Joadali, 17 Cal. 390 (F.B.).

One of two sebaits cannot bring a suit for enhancement of rent under s. 30 by making his co-shebait a defendant: Abdul Gufur v. Umakant, 19 C.W.N. 260.

3. Suit for additional rent upon contract :—A suit by a co-sharer landlord, entitled to collect his share of the rent separately, for additional rent for land brought under cultivation, payable in terms of a lease, is maintainable: Ram Chunder v. Giri Dhur, 19 Cal. 755; such a suit is not one under sec. 52; and sec. 188 is no bar to its maintainability: Ibid. See also Gobindo Chandra v. Hamidulla, 7 C.W.N. 670. Where a lease stipulated that a particular rent would be assessed in future a suit for assessment of such rent by one of the landlords by making the others as defendants is maintainable and s. 188 has no application: Bhasai v. Aminuddi, 25 C.L.J. 469, s.c., 21 C.W.N. 371; the cases of Pramada Nath v. Ramani Kanth, 35 Cal. 331 (P.C.) and Ramchandra v. Giridhar, 19 Cal. 755 were followed. See also Partap Mahton v. Wazirunnissa, 4 Pat. 604. See notes under s. 52 heading no. 8, at p. 321.

4. Suit for enhancement of rent or for additional rent :—Where two or more are joint landlords they must all join in bringing a suit for enhancement or for additional rent; Gopal v. Umesh, 17 Cal. 695. Their Lordships (Norris and Macpherson, J.J.) observed as follows: The land which is said to be in excess of the area for which rent has been previously paid has been held, rightly or wrongly, as a part of the original holding. There is here no allegation that it has been taken by trespass. If a decree is obtained, the excess land will be annexed to the land of the original holding, and the additional rent will be added to the original rent. There will be no new holding created. If, therefore, some of several joint landlords cannot enhance the rent of the original holding, they cannot, it seems to us, any the more add to that rent in any other way, and they cannot increase the area of the holding any more than they can reduce it. The right of some of several co-sharers to collect separately their share of the entire rent of an undivided holding is quite distinct. It rests on an entire arrangement between the co-sharers and the tenants as to the mode in which the entire rent shall be collected, but which preserves in fact the original tenancy both as regards the area of the holding and the rent paid. We cannot, therefore, see the analogy, which both the Munsif and the Subordinate Judge find to exist, between a suit for rent and a suit for additional rent when the parties suing are some only of several co-sharers.

This case was followed in the case of Sati Prosad v. Radhanath, 16 C.L.J. 472 and also in the case of Dwarka Nath v. Mathur Lal, 18 C.W.N. 742 where a co-sharer landlord brought a suit for arrears of rent and also for additional rent on the basis of a kabuliyaat executed by the tenant in favour of the entire body of landlords agreeing to pay additional rent for additional area and made his co-sharers parties to the suits, held that the suit for additional rent was not maintainable, as it was not brought by all the landlords jointly under s. 188. The case of Gobinda v. Hamidulla, 7 C.W.N. 670 was distinguished on the ground that there was an entirely separate agreement between the tenant and the individual co-sharer landlord which did not exist in the present case.

The institution of a suit for enhancement of rent is a thing "authorised" by the Bengal Tenancy Act, within the meaning of s. 188, in the case of tenure-holders as well as of occupancy raiyats: Jatindra Nath v. Prasanna Kumar, 38 Cal. 270, s.c., 15 C.W.N. 74, s.c., 13 C.L.J. 1; a fractional landlord is not entitled to maintain a suit for enhancement of rent, even though he should join his co-sharers as defendants in the suit: Ibid.

5. Suit under sec. 52:—Where a co-sharer landlord claims for khas possession with an alternative claim for rent, not merely of the additional land found in possession of the tenants over and above the land of their own holding but in respect of the entire quantity of land found in possession of the tenants including the lands of their own holding, held that sec. 52 of the Bengal Tenancy Act applied and sec. 188 of the Bengal Tenancy Act would bar the maintainability of such a suit at the instance of a co-sharer landlord: Khondar Abdul v. Mohini, 4 C.W.N. 508; see also Gopal Chunder v. Umesh, 17 Cal. 695. A suit for rent of excess land which formed no part of the land originally let out is maintainable at the instance of a co-sharer and such a suit is independent of s. 188 and s. 52 has no application: Abdul Hakim v. Rajendra Narayan, 13 C.W.N. 635. S. 52 has no application when the suit is upon a contract: Gobind Chandra v. Hamidulla, 7 C.W.N. 670, followed in Sailendra v. Karali, 2 C.L.J. 534.

One sebait cannot bring a suit for enhancement of rent under s. 30 by making his co-sebait a defendant: Abdul Gafur v. Umakant, 19 C.W.N. 260.

Enhancement of rent: Raiyati holding:—An agreement by a raiyat to pay his share of the rent separately does not constitute a separate tenancy; so, where a co-sharer landlord sued for enhancement of rent on the basis of such an agreement, held that such a suit was not maintainable even when it contained a stipulation for such enhancement; the term "holding" means an entire parcel of land: Baidya Nath v. Sheikh Jhin, 25 Cal. 917, s.c., 2 C.W.N. 44. This case was distinguished in the case of Gobind Chandra v. Hamidulla, 7 C.W.N. 670, and it was held that a co-sharer landlord can bring a suit for additional rent against a raiyat upon the basis of a separate contract. See also Sailendra v. Karali, 2 C.L.J. 524, where the cases of Panchanan v. Raj Kumar, 19 Cal. 610, and Gobind v. Hamidulla, 7 C.W.N. 670, were followed.

although the land forming the tenure remained undivided ; held that the effect of the partition of the parent estate was to create separate and distinct tenures under the proprietors of each of the estates, that the proprietors of the several estates were not joint landlords within the meaning of sec. 188 and therefore a suit for enhancement of rent would lie at the instance of one of the proprietors ; Hem Chandra v. Kali Prasanna, 26 Cal. 822; see also Sarat Sundari v. Anand Mohon 5 Cal. 273 and Sarat Sundari v. Sumeroodeen, 22 W.R. 530. An estate having been partitioned between the plaintiff and his co-sharer under Act VIII B. C. of 1876, a portion of a holding which formerly appertained to the joint estate fell within plaintiff's share: held that the partition had the effect of dividing the holding so that the plaintiff became the sole landlord with regard to the portion of a holding that fell within his share of the estate: Protap Chandra v. Kamala Kant, 10 C.W.N. 818 ; Act VIII B. C. of 1876 whilst it did not provide for the division of holdings did not also contain any prohibition against any such division: Ibid.

6. Decree for rent :—The special provisions of the Bengal Special Tenancy Act, with reference to rent decrees and sales of tenures in execution of such decrees, apply only to decrees obtained in accordance with sec. 188 : Sheikh Naimaddin v. Srimanta Ghose, 29 Cal. 219, s.c., 6 C.W.N. 124 ; Beni Madhub v. Joad Ali, 17 Cal. 390 ; Sheikh Naimaddin v. Srimanta Ghose, 6 C.W.N. 322 (notes) ; Durga Charan v. Kali Prasanna, 3 C.W.N. 586 ; Bhabanath v. Durga Prasanna, 16 Cal. 326. The correct rule of law as to what passes at a sale held in execution of a rent-decree obtained by a co-sharer landlord would seem to be laid down by their lordships of the Privy Council in Jiban Krishna v. Brojalal, 30 I.A. 81 ; s.c., 30 Cal. 550, s.c., 7 C.W.N. 425 ; see also Afraz v. Kulsumanessa, 10 C.W.N. 177 ; also see notes under secs. 65 and 159.

Special provisions of the Act apply to decree obtained in accordance with s. 188. Joint landlords.

7. Abatement of rent :—A fractional shareholder of a tenure has no right to grant abatement of rent in respect of a holding within the tenure independently to his co-sharer : Shyama Charan v. Sham Mollah, 1 C.W.N. 415.

Abatement of rent at the instance of one co-sharer.

But this section has no reference to joint tenants and cannot be applied by analogy to a co-sharer tenant who brings a suit authorised by the Act, i.e., a suit for abatement of rent : Khettermoni v. Jibon, 19 C.W.N. 546, s.c., 21 C.L.J. 315.

Scope :

8. Joint landlords :—The expression "joint landlords" must be taken as including all co-sharers under whom a tenant holds, Haladhar Shaha v. Rhidoy Sundari, 19 Cal. 593 ; Prem Chand v. Mokshada, 14 Cal. 201 ; Gopal v. Umesh, 17 Cal. 695 ; Beni Madhub v. Joab Ali, 17 Cal. 390 (F.B.).

If one set of landlords obtains separate kabuliyats entering into separate contracts for rent with the tenants such landlords cease to be joint landlords with the other co-proprietors of the land; they became joint owners and not joint landlords: Jogesh Prakash v. Maniruddi, 35 Cal. 417.

In the case of Haridas Majumdar v. Golam Mahiuddin, 53 Cal. 955 (F.B.), the following questions were referred to the Full Bench by Suhrawardy and Mukerji, J.J. :

(i) as to whether a co-sharer, collecting his own share of the rent "separately from the other co-sharer or co-sharers, is a joint landlord within the meaning of s. 188 of the Bengal Tenancy Act,

(ii) and whether such a co-sharer is entitled to make an application under section 105 of the Act.

It was held by the Full Bench that as the proceedings were initiated by the landlord under section 105 of the Bengal Tenancy Act and as it appeared from the judgment of the Assistant Settlement officer that it was an admitted fact that the sharers of the entire taluq passed into the hands of the plaintiff's predecessor gradually by sale the point involved in the two questions which had been referred to them did not arise.

When a zemindar has granted a mourasi tenure and the mourasidar has granted a dur-mourasi tenure to a person who with the consent of the zemindar undertakes to pay direct to him the rent payable to the mourasidar and to pay to the mourasidar his profits, the zemindar and the mourasidar are not constituted joint landlords of the dur-mourasidar to have the lands measured and rent assessed upon the excess lands at the contract rate: Matangini v. Ram Das, 6 C.W.N. 147 (notes) ; s.c., 7 C.W.N. 98.

Where at the time of the institution of a suit for rent the estate is properly represented by the plaintiffs, but subsequently, due to certain events, other persons become interested in the estate and it becomes necessary to join them as plaintiffs, the suit as originally framed does not become defective: Amiya Pal Chowdhury v. Sarbamangala Debi, 91 I.C. 657, s.c., A.I.R. (1926) Cal. 737 (Greaves and Cuming, J.J.).

Ejectment suit on breach of condition.

9. Ejectment suit :—A suit by a co-sharer landlord to eject a tenant on a breach of the conditions of lease is maintainable, and sec. 188 is no bar to such a suit: Hari Priya v. Ram Charan, 16 Cal. 541. Where a tenant was originally let into possession by all the co-sharers, it must be shewn in order to justify any individual co-sharer in seeking to eject him, that the tenancy so created by all the co-sharers has been determined by all of them and a single co-sharer is not entitled to take separate and independent action even with respect to his own share: Syed Gholam v. Khairan, 31 Cal. 786, s.c., 8 C.W.N. 325. Where in a lease it was stipulated that the tenant would not be competent to make any manner of transfer such as sale, gift, mortgage etc., and if the land was transferred or sold for the tenant's debts, it would come into khas possession of the landlord, held that a suit by one of the joint landlords for khas possession against a purchaser is maintainable and s. 188 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is not applicable in as much as such purchaser is a trespasser: Dwarika Nath v. Mathura Nath, 24 C.L.J., 40 ; the case of Radha Pershad v. Esu, 7 Cal. 414 was followed.

Undertaking to pay rent separately does not constitute separate tenancy.
What constitutes a separate tenancy.

10. Separate tenancy :—Where there was a mere under-taking, by the tenant to pay to each of the landlords their proportionate share of the rent, held that the effect of that arrangement was not to split up the tenancy, or create a separate tenancy under each of the landlords: Gopal Chunder v. Umesh Narain, 17 Cal. 695. But where a tenant, by his own act, gave to one of his co-sharer landlords the power to deal with him as if he was his tenant alone, without any regard to his own interests of the co-sharers, held that the effect was that a separate tenancy was created: Panchanon v. Raj Kumar, 19 Cal. 610. When a tenant takes a lease from one of several joint landlords in respect of his own share of the holding, the landlord is entitled to sue for rent without joining his co-sharers: Behari Churan v. Bhut Nath, 3 C.W.N. 214.

See notes under sec. 159.

II. Proceedings under sec. 158:—An application under sec. S. 158. 158 cannot be made by one of several co-sharers: sec. 188 is a bar to such an application: Moheeb Ali v. Ameer Rai, 17 Cal. 538; and it is not a sufficient compliance with its provisions to make the landlords, who refuse to join, parties to the proceedings: Ibid.

12. Suit for recovery of damages:—A suit for recovery of damages for value of trees cut down by a tenant is maintainable at the instance of one of several joint landlords; Hrisi Kesh v. Sadhu Churn, 2 C.W.N. 80. Suit for damages.

3. Sec. 106:—Disputing an entry made in the course of a record-of-rights proceeding under sec. 106 of the Act does not come within the meaning of the words “anything which the landlord is under this Act required or authorised to do” as used in sec. 188: Sher Bahadur Sahu v. M. H. Mackenzie, 7 C.W.N. 500. S. 106.

14. S. 105:—S. 188 is a bar to an application by a co-sharer landlord under s. 105: Krishna Sardar v. Paresh Sardar, 10 C.L.J., 305. S. 105.

In an appeal against the decision in a case brought under s. 105 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, the tenant appellant got the appeal dismissed for non-prosecution against one of the heirs of one of the landlords, held, that the appeal against the others was incompetent: Azimuddin v. Tarasankar, 28 C.L.J. 201.

15. Sec. 91:—Where a landlord obtains a separate kabuliyat entering into separate contract for rent with the tenants, he can alone make an application for measurement of land under sec. 91: Jogesh Prakash v. Maniruddi, 35 Cal. 417. S. 91.

16. Decree by co-sharer landlord no evidence against another co-sharer:—A decree by a co-sharer landlord is not admissible as evidence as to the rate of rent in a suit brought by another co-sharer: Abdul Ali v. Raj Chandra, 10 C.W.N. 1084; such a decree is neither conclusive between the plaintiff and the tenant defendant nor is it admissible in evidence between them, the plaintiff not being a party to the previous suit: Ibid. See also Surendra Nath v. Brojo Nath, 13 Cal. 352, and Tepukhan v. Rajani Mohun, 25 Cal. 522. Decree by co-sharer landlord no evidence against another co-sharer.

17. Adverse possession:—Possession or occupation of the property by one co-sharer does not constitute adverse possession against the other co-sharer: Ujalbi Bibee v. Umakant, 9 C.W.N. 32; management of joint property on behalf of the co-owners without any assertion of hostile title does not constitute adverse possession against the other co-owner: Ibid. See also Boroda Sundari v. Annada Sundari, 3 C.W.N. 774, Balaram Guria's Case, 24 C.W.N. 7057. Adverse possession between co-sharers.

18. Separate leases by co-sharers:—Where the owners of an ijmali mehal leased out lands in their exclusive possession separately, held in a suit by one of the co-sharers for joint possession against a lessee who obtained lease from another co-sharer, that the remedy lay in a suit for partition: Syed Ali v. Nazab Ali, 11 C.W.N. 143. Separate leases by co-sharers.

The filing of a suit is not a thing which the landlord is, under Act, required or authorised to do. A plaint in a suit for rent is an application to the Court for relief against an alleged grievance, which the plaintiff is entitled to submit, not by reason of provision of the Tenancy Act, but under general law: Bhawal Sahu v. Baij Nath, 12 C.W.N. 249 at p. 256 (P.C.).

19. Revision by the High Court : s. 622 C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882) s. 115 C. P. C. (Act V of 1908) :—Where a District Judge deciding an appeal arising out of a suit for rent, held that a suit for rent was not maintainable by virtue of the provisions of s. 188 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, held that an application under s. 622 C. P. C., lay against the decision of the District Judge and it was accordingly set aside: Jagabandhu v. Jadu Ghose, 15 Cal. 47.

S. 188 does not apply.

20. Suit against Trespasser :—S. 188 does not apply to suits for ejectment of trespasser: (the suit was against a tenant after the expiry of his lease): Reajuddin v. Abdul Jubbur, 69 I.C. 504, (Sanderson C. J. and B. B. Ghose J.).

S. 188 does not apply.

21. Rent suit :—S. 188 does not apply to a rent suit: Kalipada v. Sati Prasad, 27 C.W.N. 372, s. c., 36 C.L.J. 234.

Mitakshara family.

The tendency of modern decisions, specially those of the Judicial Committee is in favour of recognition of the representative character of the manager of a joint Hindu family governed by Mitakshara school of Hindu Law though the question must be decided in each particular case subject to the operation of relevant statutory provisions such as s. 188: Ibid: A suit for rent by the managing member of a Mitakshara family alone will not necessarily fail because the infant proprietors have not been made joint plaintiffs or made defendants: Ibid.

Procedure in suits by joint landlords.

188A. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, every suit between landlord and tenant as such instituted by—

- (a) a sole landlord,
- (b) the entire body of landlords, or
- (c) one or more co-sharer landlords, shall be subject to the provisions of sections 143 to 153 (both inclusive);

Bengal and Behar.

East Bengal.

and, to every decree passed in a suit framed under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) of section 158B the provisions of Chapter XIV shall, so far as may be practicable, be applicable.

and, to every decree passed in a suit framed under section 148A or section 158B the provisions of Chapter XIV shall, so far as may be practicable, be applicable.

Notes:—This section was inserted by Act I B.C. of 1907 and Act I of 1908 of E.B.A.C.

The Select Committee, in their report on the Bill of 1906 stated as follows:—

“We have recast this clause in order more fully to counteract the ruling in the case of Jogendra Nath Ghosh v. Paban Chandra Ghosh referred to in the note on clause 34. We have made the provisions of Sections 148 to 153 applicable to all suits between landlord and tenant as such instituted by a sole landlord, the entire body of landlords or one or more co-sharer landlords, and have omitted mention of sections 168, 169, 184 and 185, and we have applied the various sections of Chapter XIV of the Act to proceedings in execution of rent decrees in suits framed under section 158B. This was apparently the intention of the framers of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, but the intention was frustrated by the ratio decidendi in the case of Jogendra Nath Ghosh v. Paban Chandra Ghosh (8 C.W.N. 472)."

Rules under Act.

Rules under Act.

189. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, make rules, consistent with this Act,—

(1) to regulate the procedure to be followed by Revenue-officers in the discharge of any duty imposed upon them by or under this Act, and may by such rules confer upon any such officer—

Power to make rules regarding procedure, powers of officers and services of notices.

(a) any power exercised by a Civil Court in the trial of suits;

(b) power to enter upon any land, and to survey, demarcate and make a map of the same, and any power exercisable by any officer under the Bengal Survey Act, 1875; and

Ben. Act V. of 1875.

(c) power to cut and thresh the crops on any land and weigh the produce, with a view to estimating the capabilities of the soil; and

(2) to prescribe the forms to be used, and the mode of service of notices issued, under this Act, where no form or mode is prescribed by this or any other Act;

(3) to prescribe the manner in which landlord's fees shall be transmitted to the landlord; and

(4) to prescribe the authority by whom the fees deposited under sections 12, 13, 15, 17 and 18, clause (a), may be declared to be forfeited, and the mode in which such fees, when so forfeited, shall be dealt with.

Amendment :—The present sub-sec. (2) was substituted for the former sub-sec. (2) by Act I B.C. of 1907 and Act I E.B.A. of 1908. The former sub-sec. (2) was as follows:

(2) To prescribe the mode of service of notice under this Act where no mode is prescribed by this or any other Act.

Sub-secs. (3) and (4) are new and were inserted by the same Amending Acts.

Rules in Settlement Manual :—The following observations were made by Prinsep, J., in delivering judgment in the case of The Rules without sanction.

Secretary of State for India in Council v. Nitye Singh, 21 Cal. 38 (at pp. 48, 49).

"I have no doubt that all rules in the Survey Manual and Settlement Manual relating to the duties of Revenue Officers making a survey and preparing a record-of-rights under the authority of sec. 101 of the Bengal Tenancy Act so far as such Officers act as Judicial Officers, and purporting to be instructions to those officers which have not been passed by Government in the manner prescribed by secs. 189 and 190 of that Act, are altogether without sanction of law and are in no way binding on such officers, and that it is our duty to declare this. They are without legal authority as rules purporting to be made by Government because they have not been passed in the manner required by secs. 189 and 190 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. They are moreover not binding on Revenue Officers so acting under the Bengal Tenancy Act so far as the rules purport to be under the authority of the Board of Revenue, because that Board is not empowered to make such rules or to issue such rules for the instruction and guidance of Revenue Officers in the matter, such Revenue Officers acting under the Bengal Tenancy Act empowered by that Act to exercise certain judicial functions in the course of which they may pass orders subject to appeal to a Special Judge and ultimately to the High Court.

"The Bengal Tenancy Act does not confer authority on the Board of Revenue in such matters and therefore Revenue Officers, in the performance of duties under that Act, cannot be in any way subject to the control and authority of the Board of Revenue, or be required to observe rules passed by that Board. They are bound to observe the laws and such rules as may be regularly passed by Government under secs. 189 and 190 of the Act and also any order passed judicially on appeal by the Special Judge or the High Court, and they are also bound to follow as precedents the orders passed by the Special Judge and High Court in cases of similar character. Revenue Officers in such proceedings are subject to no other authority, consequently in all matters of a judicial nature coming within Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act, a revenue Officer is subject to no orders from the Board of Revenue. They are subject to rules made by Government under that Act and to no other rules and to no departmental instructions in relation to matters regarded as judicial and open to appeal to a Special Judge."

Procedure
for making, publication and confirmation of rules.

190. (1) Every authority having power to make rules under any section of this Act shall, before making the rules, publish a draft of the proposed rules for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

(2) The publication shall be made, in the case of rules made by the Local Government or High Court, in such manner as may, in its opinion, be sufficient for giving information to persons interested, and, in the case of rules made by any other authority, in the prescribed manner:

Provided that every such draft shall be published in the official Gazette.

(3) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date, not earlier than the expiration of one month after the date of publication, at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(4) The authority shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(5) The publication in the official Gazette of a rule purporting to be made under this Act shall be conclusive evidence that it has been duly made.

(6) All rules made under this Act may, from time to time, subject to the sanction (if any) required for making them, be amended, added to or cancelled by the authority having power to make the same.

Provisions as to temporarily-settled districts.

191. Where the area comprised in a tenure is situate in an estate which has never been permanently settled, nothing in this Act shall prevent the enhancement of the rent upon the expiration of a temporary settlement of the revenue, unless the right to hold beyond the term of the settlement at a particular rate of rent has been expressly recognized in settlement proceedings by a Revenue authority empowered by the Government to make definitely or confirm settlements.

Provisions as to temporarily-settled districts.

*Saving as to tenures held in estates which have never been permanently

Notes :—Sec. 191 has no application where an estate, though not permanently settled in 1893, was subsequently permanently settled in the year 1811: Tamasha Bibi v. Ashutosh, 4 C.W.N. 513.

Where a lease granted by the Revenue authority showed that the settlement was a permanent one, at a rate of rent fixed in perpetuity, subject only to the condition that that rent was not to be payable in full until after the expiry of twenty years from the date of the document, held that that does not make the lease any the less a permanent lease and that the settlement must therefore be regarded as a Permanent Settlement: Ibid. Though certain provisions of Regulation III of 1828 go to shew that the Sunderbuns, up to that date, continued as the property of the State and had not been permanently settled with any one, that was intended to be said generally with regard to the tract of country known as Sunderbuns as a whole, and it could not have been intended to undo the effect of any lease granted by any duly constituted revenue authority: Ibid. ; (Per Banerjea J.).

A temporary settlement-holder is not, by virtue of the terms of sections 191 and 192 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, precluded from exercising the ordinary powers of a landlord, under ss. 7 and 30 of the Act: Makbul Ali v. Jogesh Chandra, 30 C.L.J. 140. See the cases in 19 C.L.J. 614 ; 35 C.L.J. 14 and Priyanath v. Ramtaran, 30 Cal. 81 (P.C.).

Power to alter rent in case of new assessment of revenue.

192. When a landlord grants a lease or makes any other contract, purporting to entitle the tenant of land not included in an area permanently settled to hold that land free of rent or at a particular rent, and while the lease or contract is in force—

(a) land-revenue is for the first time made payable in respect of the land, or

(b) land-revenue having been previously payable in respect of it, a fresh settlement of land-revenue is made, a Revenue officer may, notwithstanding anything in the contract between the parties, by order, on the application of the landlord or of the tenant, or of his own motion, fix a fair and equitable rent for the land in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

See notes under s. 191.

Amendment :—Before the words “fix a fair and equitable rent” the words “or of his own motion” were inserted by Act I B.C. of 1907 and Act I E.B.A.C. of 1908.

Settlement of rent without authority, effect of :—Where a tenant in his appeal before the Special Judge against an order for the settlement of rent purporting to have been made under sec. 192 did not take the objection that the settlement of rent was made contrary to the provisions of that section and without jurisdiction—and the decision of the Settlement-officer was affirmed by the Special Judge, held that the matter was res judicata in a suit for rent and could not be re-opened in the Civil Court owing to the operation of ss. 107, 109 and 109A: Mohim Chandra v. Kalitara, 11 C.W.N. 904.

Sundarbuns :—There can be a permanent tenure in the Sunderbuns. A part of the Sunderbuns can be a permanently settled area even if settled after 1793, the definition in cl. (2) of s. 3 of the Bengal Tenancy Act notwithstanding: Kheiter Moni v. Jiban Krishna, 21 C.L.J. 315. This decision was reversed on appeal to P. C., 48 I.A. 39, s. c., 48 Cal. 478, s. c., 25 C.W.N. 361, s. c., 33 C.L.J. 214.

2. Suit under sec. 9, Specific Relief Act :—A person who has for a time exercised the right of fishing in waters which cover land which does not belong to him, and who is forcibly prevented from fishing in such waters, cannot maintain an action under sec. 9 of the Specific Relief Act: Fadu Jhala v. Gour Mohan, 19 Cal. 544 (F.B.).

Forcible dispossession from fishing.

A suit for possession of a julkur or right to fish in a Khal, the soil of which does not belong to the plaintiff, does not come within the provisions of s. 9 of the Specific Relief Act: Natabar v. Kubir, 18 Cal. 81.

Rights to julkur & not to soil.

3. Tank :—A suit for rent of a share of a tank does not come under the provisions of this section: Gour Mohon v. Chandi Charan, 14 C.W.N. 159 (notes); 11 C.L.J. 63 notes portion. The lease of a tank is not a lease for agricultural or horticultural purposes: Chandra Mohon v. Ramnarain, 17 C.W.N. 80 (notes).

Tank.

4. Julkur or right of fishery :—The East India Company as representing the India Government, has a freehold in the bed of a navigable river and in the land between high and low water marks: Deo De. Seebkristo v. East India Co., 6 Moo. I. A. 267.

Government has the right to the bed of a navigable river.

The bed of a tidal navigable river is not the property of any individual, but of the public and if any person claims an exclusive right in such river, he must show that it has been acquired either by grant or by prescription, which is evidence of a grant from Government: Gureeb Hossein v. Lamb, S.D.A., 1859, p. 1357. See also Baban Mayacha Nagu v. Shrivacha, 4 Cal. 53.

The beds or channel of navigable rivers are ordinarily the property of Government and subject to the right of navigation, and such other rights in such river and, the soil over which they flow, belong to the State: Bagram v. Collector of Bhulloa, Gap. No. 1 W. R. 1864, p. 243; but julkur rights in such rivers may exist as private property, and what was once common to all or was the property of individuals: Ibid.

The right of fishing in navigable rivers does not belong to the public, and Government is not prohibited by any law from granting to individuals exclusive right of fishing in such rivers: Chunder Jaleah v. Ram Churn, 15 W.R. 212.

Exclusive right of fishery.

The exclusive right of fishery in tidal navigable rivers may be granted by the Crown to private individuals and such right must in the generality of cases be proved either by proof of direct grant from the Crown or by prescription: Hari Das v. Mahomed Joki, 11 Cal. 434.

As to what is necessary for establishing exclusive right of fishery: see Abhoy Charan v. Dwarka Nath, 39 Cal. 53, s. c., 15 C.W.N. 972.

Bed of a tidal navigable river.

Ghose and Gordon, J.J., in delivering their judgment in the case of Satcowri v. The Secretary of State for India in Council, 22 Cal. 252, discussed the above case and observed as follows:—Upon the cases we have just referred to, it may be accepted as law on this side of India that the bed of a tidal and navigable river is vested in the Crown; and that the right of julkur (fishery) in such river, as also the bed of the river itself may be granted by Government (whether it be in the exercise of their prerogative as the Crown or as representing the public) to private individuals to be held by them as private property, subject of course to the right of navigation and such other rights which the public has in such rivers.

Julkur—a benefit arising out of land

A julkur or right of fishery is a benefit arising out of land covered by water, and comes within the definition of “immoveable property” as defined in the General Clauses Act (I of 1868) and is therefore immoveable property under s. 106 of the Transfer of Property Act: Ram Gopal v. Nuru Muddin, 20 Cal. 446.

and is immoveable property.

Julkur is immoveable property within the meaning of the General Clauses Act, sec. 2, cl. (5), being a benefit arising out of land* and a suit for rent of a fishery is to be brought where the suit for the possession of the fishery would lie, and where it was uncertain in the jurisdiction of which of two Courts a fishery lay, held that secs. 16 and 19, C. P. C. would apply and a suit for rent of the fishery could be brought in either of the two Courts: Shebu Halidar v. Gopi Sundari, 1 C.W.N. 87 (notes).

Right of fishing. Easement.

A right of fishing in another's waters is an easement within the meaning of the term as defined in s. 2, cl. (5) of the Limitation Act: Bibi Ahmadi v. Taraknath, 18 C.L.J. 396.

Right of fishery without land.

A grant of a fishery right or right of pasturage or the like may be made independent of an interest in land: Abdulla v. Asraf Ali, 7 C.L.J. 152.

Land Acquisition Act.

Fishery rights are not land within the meaning of the Land Acquisition Act: Shyam Chandra v. The Secretary of State, 12 C.W.N. 569, s. c., 7 C.L.J. 445.

Sub-soil.

Where the grant is merely a right of fishery, the lessee acquires no right in the sub-soil, nor is entitled to retain possession, when the water dries up: Manananda v. Mogla, 31 Cal. 937.

Tidal & navigable river.

Government has the right to lease fishery rights in tidal and navigable rivers: Ayub Ali v. Daya Bibi, 12 C.W.N. 105.

* The case of: Fadu Jhala v. Gour Mohon, 19 Cal. 544 was distinguished in this case.

When no account of a change in the course of a public navigable river an arm of the river ceases to be an arm of the following river, the person who had a right of fishery in the river ceases to have any right to it ; it becomes the property of the adjacent owner : Ishan Chandra v. Upendra Nath, 12 C.W.N. 559 ; but where the plaintiff had a julkar in a big river and claimed a right of fishery in a piece of water which was originally a part of the river and still connected with it, though the communication might dry up in the hot weather, he is entitled to fishery in the said water : Jogendra Narain v. Crawford, 32 Cal. 1141.

Change in the course of a public navigable river.

When a tidal and navigable river shifts its course, fishery rights continue to subsist in the river in its new course : Ayub Ali v. Daya Bibi, 12 C.W.N. 105, see also Srinath v. Dinabandhu, 20 C.L.J. 385.

Unless a person can establish his right to a fishery independent of his right to his estate he can have no title to any such right in a navigable river or any part thereof lying outside the boundaries of his estate : Mathuranath v. Sib Chandra, 12 C.W.N. 334 ; what evidence is necessary to prove a grant of an independent right of fishery in a navigable river has been discussed in this case.

Where a non-tidal and non-navigable river which formerly flowed through A's estate, by gradual and imperceptible encroachment came to submerge a portion of an adjoining estate owned by B, held that A did not thereby acquire the right of fishery over that portion of the river which covered B's estate : Narendra v. Suresh Chandra, 10 C.W.N. 540.

If a river shifts its course, having lakes, dobas or sheets of waters in its old bed, the grantee of the exclusive right of fishery in the river retains that right over such lakes and dobas so long as these latter remain in communication with the main channel at all seasons of the year : Bhaba Prasad v. Jogadindra, 33 Cal. 15.

A right of fishery in a navigable river running through land permanently settled with a person may be presumed in his favour as included in the settlement from a long continued user of such right, although there may not be any express grant : Sarat Chandra v. Kalaram, 33 Cal. 1349.

Fishery in a navigable river.

It is now settled law in Bengal that the Government's grantee of a several fishery in a tidal navigable river can follow the shifting course of the river for the enjoyment of his exclusive fishery so long as the waters form part of the river system within the upstream and down stream limits of his grant, whether the Government owns the soil subjacent to such waters as being the long established bed or whether the soil is still in a riparian proprietor as being the site of the river's recent encroachment : Raja Srinath Ray v. Dinabandhu Sen, 20 C.L.J. 385 (P.C.).

The owner of the fishery of the river which has taken a new course and flows through a channel in which another has a right of fishery cannot share in the fishery in the united waters : Sarada Prasad v. Khaja Mahammad, 24 C.L.J. 158 ; the case of Nabin Chunder v. Radha Pearee, 6 W.R. 17 was referred to and the case of Srinath Ray v. Dinobandhu, 42 Cal. 489, s. c., 20 C.L.J. 385 was distinguished.

The right of fishery in a non-tidal and non-navigable river is dependent on and incidental to the ownership of the soil or bed of Fishery in a non tidal and non-navigable river.

the river : Narendra Chandra v. Nripendra Chandra, 4 C.L.J. 51 ; when therefore, such a river, by slow and gradual shifting, encroached on a neighbouring estate, the original owner of such right lost and the neighbouring proprietor acquired it, over such portion of the river as covered a bed owned by the neighbouring proprietor : Ibid.

Adverse possession of fishery right against Government in public navigable river.

An indefeasible title to fishery in a portion of the river can be obtained by adverse possession for 60 years against the Government. Adverse possession of fishery rights can be established in a public navigable river, if exclusive acts of possession are shown for the statutory period. In computing the statutory period of adverse possession, the possession of the mortgagee in possession can be tacked with that of the owner : Debendra Lal v. Secretary of State, 46 C.L.J. 322 (Greaves and Mukerji, J.J.). Thak authorities have nothing to do with title or possession : Ibid. The case of Jagadindra v. Secretary of State, 30 I.A. 44 ; s. c., 30 Cal. 291 referred to, and no deduction as to title or possession can legitimately be drawn from thak maps : Ibid.

Riparian owners.

Riparian owners have equal rights to a usufruct of the waters of an adjacent natural stream, and no proprietor has the right to use the water to the prejudice of other proprietors, above or below, unless he has a prior right to diversion : Balbhadra v. Najiban, 4 C.L.J. 370.

Customary right.

A customary right of the tenants in the locality to cut wood for fuel, plough handles, door-posts &c., is a right of customary easement attaching to the locality and not to any collection of individuals ; such a right is known in this country, in the case of free pasturage or a fishery, what in English law is called a profit a prendre : Sitab Rai v. Dubal, 6 C.L.J. 218.

Income Tax.

Jalkar was included in the assets of the Permanent Settlement and is not liable to further taxation under Income Tax Act : Maharajadhiraj of Darbhanga v. Commissioner of Income Tax, [1925 Pat.] p. 49 (Dawson Miller C. J. and Foster J.).

The ground rents of markets as distinguished from tolls or other internal duties in connection therewith were included in the schedule of assets settled with the Zemindar and are therefore exempt from income tax : Ibid.

The settlement left to the Zemindar the ground rents of land, shops etc., in all the then existing hats except such ; if any, as were specifically excluded and if more hats are now shown to exist than appear in the settlement paper, it must not be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that they have sprung up since the settlement. If they existed to the Zemindar in the absence of any specific exclusion. The onus is not on the assessee to prove inclusion but upon the Crown to prove exclusion : Ibid.

The proprietor is just as much entitled to be paid for the use of the ghats for purposes of mooring as he is to take dues from those using the ghats for other purposes : Ibid.

The income derived from jalkar hat and ghatlagi is not liable to income tax : Ibid.

Income derived from land such as jalkar etc., excepting that used for agricultural purposes, in permanently settled estates, is liable to assessment to income tax : Emperor v. Probhat Chandra, 31 C.W.N. 165, s.c., 45 C.L.J. 323 (F.B.). Income derived from jalkar, whether or not taken into consideration at the time of fixing the jama at the time of Permanent Settlement is assessable for income tax purposes: Ibid. The imposition of income tax on profit derived from permanently settled estate is not a violation of a positive statutory engagement made with the Zemindars at the time of the Permanent Settlement: Ibid. (Emperor v. Probhat Chandra, 51 Cal. 504 approved; Emperor v. Indu Bhusan, 53 Cal. 524, s. c., 30 C.W.N. 524, s. c., 44 C.L.J. 427 overruled).

Incident of an occupancy raiyāt—Julkur:—An occupancy raiyāt has also the right to fishery in the water over it when there is inundation unless the right has been restricted in the grant or when the landlord has acquired such right by adverse possession or custom: Henry Hill v. Shebaj, A.I.R. 1922 Pat. 9 (Mullick and Ross J.J.); the case of a tenure-holder is even stronger, he possesses all the rights of a landlord: Ibid.

The evidence upon which a man is to claim an exclusive right of fishing in a navigable river must be plain and clear: Midnapore Zemindari Co. v. Trailakya, 40 C.L.J. 238. Fishery in a public navigable river.

Where the waters are publici juris, every body has a right in India to fish in any navigable water, whether tidal or not: Ibid.

It was in the power of the Government—in right of the Crown as successor to the East India Company—to grant exclusive right of fishing in a public navigable water. Since about 1860, the policy of making such grants has been greatly doubted. But such grants were not uncommon in Bengal in earlier times, and, if proved, they are perfectly legal. But they have to be proved. Mere grant of rights to tolls are not rights of exclusive fishery. A mere mention in the revenue documents that certain classes of revenue are not being interfered with, is not to be construed in granting exclusive right in navigable waters, if other adequate and sufficient meaning can be found for them: Ibid.

5. Ferry tolls:—The provisions of the Rent Law are not applicable to a suit relating to ferry tolls: Radha Singh v. Upendra Chandra, 27 Cal. 239. Ferry tolls.

In a suit to recover sums due under a contract for the defendant plying boats in a private ferry, held that the sum payable was in no sense rent: Prohlad v. Shashadhar, 14 C.W.N. 994.

6. Distraint:—It seems that the provisions relating to distraint do not apply to fisheries, &c., for this section says that the provisions of this Act applicable to suits for the recovery of arrears of rent shall, as far as may be, apply to &c., &c.; when the provisions applicable to suits will apply, it is apparent that the proceedings relating to distraint which are not suits have no application to fisheries, &c. Distraint.

7. Chapter XIV and sec. 65:—Chapter XIV and sec. 65 seem to apply to suits for recovery of rent of fisheries, &c. Ch. XIV and S. 65.

8. Suit for rent of fishery and agricultural holding:—A suit for a consolidated amount including both the rent of an agricultural holding and the amount contracted to be paid on account of a fishery which the defendants claimed as a right appurtenant to the holding is maintainable in view of s. 45, C. P. C. (Act XIV of 1882): Shib Prosad v. Vakai, 33 Cal. 601. Suit for consolidated rent of fishery and agricultural holding.

Pasturage.

9. Pasturage :—It was proved in a suit brought by raiyats against their putnidar landlord that the former had been enjoying a right of pasturage over certain indigo and waste lands of the latter from time immemorial, held that this entitled the raiyats to a decree declaring their right to graze cattle on the said land, so as not to prevent the putnidar or his successors from cultivating or executing improvements on them so long as sufficient pasturage was left to the raiyats and other persons entitled to their right : Bholanath v. The Midnapur Zemindary Co., 8 C.W.N. 425 (P.C.).

Grant of trees as distinct from land.

10. Forest rights :—A grant of the trees as distinct from the land in which the grantor reserves forest right except the one which is granted, is nevertheless the grant of a forest right within the meaning of this section : Abdullah v. Asraf Ali, 7 C.L.J. 152. A suit for the recovery of money payable in respect of forest rights is governed by the three years' rule of limitation laid down in Sch. III. Art. 2, cl. (b) of the Bengal Tenancy Act : Abdullah v. Asraf Ali, 7 C.L.J. 152. The provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act applicable to suits for the recovery of arrears of rent are, having regard to the phraseology of s. 193, designedly made applicable to suits for the recovery of sums that are not rent ; and money payable in respect of forest-rights is not rent within the meaning of s. 3 (5) of the Act : Ibid.

A grant of the right to fell timber of a particular class and specified size during a defined period of time, though extremely restricted in its scope, which prohibited the lessee from doing any damage to the bankar mehal, i.e., to the forest is obviously a grant of forest-rights and cannot be regarded as a sale of timber : Abdullah v. Asraf Ali, 7 C.L.J. 152.

Suit for money for forest rights.

A suit for recovery of money on account of forest rights is governed by the Bengal Tenancy Act : Baudi Ali v. Amad Sarkar, 19 C.W.N. 415, s. c., 20 C.L.J. 227.

Julkur includes right to drift and stranded timber.

11. Drift and stranded timber :—Julkur or water rights include rights to drift and stranded timber as well as to fishery and similar interest on the produce of the river : Amriteswari Devi v. The Secretary of State for India in Council, 1 C.W.N. 249 : s. c., 24 Cal. 504 (P. C.). The Indian Forest Act (VII of 1878) has not the effect of taking away from private owners, and vesting in Government, any rights to drift and stranded timber which such owners possessed before and at the time of the passing of the Act, except in so far as these rights might be affected by their failure to prefer their claims; the object of the Act is regulation and not confiscation : Ibid.

Sch. III, Art 2 cl. (b).

12. Interest for Julkur : S. 193 :—Sch. III Art. 2 Cl. (b) applies to a suit for recovery of rent of a julkar : Krishna Lal v. Salim Mohamed, 19 C.W.N. 514. Money reserved in such a lease is not rent within the meaning of the Bengal Tenancy Act and interest at the rate of 12½ per cent. under s. 67 cannot be allowed in respect of arrears of such money : Ibid.

Suit for money for sale and purchase of crops, not a suit for rent.

13. Suit for money for sale and purchase of crops :—A suit for recovery of arrears of money alleged to be due from the defendant in consideration of the right which had been conveyed to him to collect money from persons who came upon the khas khamar land for sale and purchase of crops is not a suit for rent but a suit for money : unreported appeal from appellate decree No. 1781 of 1913, Arjan Molla v. Ram Lal Ghose, (decided by Chapman and Walmsley

J.J., 8 March, 1915). Their Lordships relied upon the decision in the Full Bench case of the Secretary of State for India in Council v. Karuna Kant, 35 Cal. 82 and particularly on the judgment of Brett J. Their Lordships observed as follows:—"We are of opinion that the money due under their arrangement was not rent. That being so, the suit was not excluded from the cognizance of the Small Cause Court, and being a suit cognizable in the Court of Small Causes and the value of the suit being less than Rs. 500 no second appeal lay to this Court."

14. Katihari dues :—A suit to recover Katihari dues, being a profession tax, viz., house rent from a weaver for the carrying on of his trade in his house and the waste land adjoining his house is not to be confounded with a suit for agricultural rent : Rameshwar v. Bikan Mamin, 36 I.C. 600. (Patna case).

Saving for conditions binding on landlords.

194. Where a proprietor or permanent tenure-holder holds his estate or tenure subject to the observance of any specified rule or condition, nothing in this act shall entitle any person occupying land with the estate or tenure to do any act which involves a violation of that rule or condition.

Saving for conditions binding on landlords.

Tenant not enabled by Act to violate conditions binding on landlord.

Excavation of tank :—A granted a permanent tenure to B with a stipulation not to excavate a tank on the land comprised in the tenure ; B granted a raiyati lease to C who excavated a tank without being aware of the restrictive covenant in B's lease not to excavate any tank, held that in a suit by A against B and C, B and not C was liable to damages : Akhoy Kumar Chatterjea v. Akman Molla, 19 C.W.N. 1197, s.c., 20 C.L.J. 551.

Restrictive covenant as to excavation of tank.

S. 178 sub-sec. (1) cl. (d) is controlled by s. 194 : Ibid.

Savings for special enactments.

195. Nothing in this Act shall affect—

- (a) the powers and duties of Settlement-officers as defined by any law not expressly repealed by this Act;
- (b) any enactment regulating the procedure for the realization of rents in estates belonging to the Government, or under the management of the Court of Wards or of the Revenue authorities;
- (c) any enactment relating to the avoidance of tenancies and incumbrances by a sale for arrears of the Government revenue;
- (d) any enactment relating to the partition of revenue-paying estates.

Saving for special enactments.

- (e) any enactment relating to patni tenures, in so far as it relates to those tenures; or
- (f) any other special or local law not repealed either expressly or by necessary implication by this Act.

Putni Regulation.

I. Enactment :—The Putni Regulation (Reg. VIII of 1819) is specially saved from the operation of the Bengal Tenancy Act by sec. 195 (c) : Gynada Kantho v. Brahmomoyi, 17 Cal. 162 ; see notes under sec. 13.

Secs. 15 and 16 do not affect the provisions of Reg. VIII of 1819 and they are therefore applicable to a putni tenure : Durga Prasad v. Brindabun, 19 Cal. 504 : see notes under secs. 15 and 16.

“The words ‘in so far as it relates to those tenures’ must, we think, be treated as expressly limiting the provisions to enactments relating to putni property and strictly so called, and as intended to exclude those which relate to tenures, which although resembling putnis, as dar-putni, etc., are not strictly putnis, not possessing all the qualities of them,” held by the Full Bench in the case of Mahomed v. Biroja Sundari, 11 Cal. 360.

Putni tenure.
Construction of lease.

2. Putni :—The use of the expression putni taluk in the contract of tenancy does not necessarily create a putni taluk, in other words, a taluk subject to the summary procedure for realisation of rent under Reg. VIII of 1819 : Nirad Chandra v. Harihar Chakravarti, 32 C.L.J. 19. Where certain shares in certain mehals were granted in a permanent lease along with certain jote lands situated in those mehals, by one instrument, which described it as a Putni settlement, at a rent fixed in a lump, and where in such a case there was no appropriation of the rent of the jote jamas as distinguished from that of the putni taluk, held that the settlement created under this lease cannot be regarded as a valid putni tenure within the meaning of Reg. VIII of 1819, although that might have been the intention of the parties originally : Hayes v. Bidyanund, 3 C.L.J. 373.

Is a Putni tenure governed by the Bengal Tenancy Act ?

It seems that a Putni tenure is not governed by the Bengal Tenancy Act if there are no agricultural tenants upon the land. An objection which was taken by the respondent in a second appeal (Basanta Kumar v. Khulna Loan Co., 20 C.L.J. 1) that a putni is governed by the Transfer of Property Act their Lordships observed as follows :—“...a reference to the description of the property given in the schedule to the plaint indicates that the property is situated in various villages which prima facie would contain agricultural lands. The respondents are besides not even able to assure us that there is a real foundation for the theory that this putni does not include any agricultural land at all."

As to whether a Putni tenure is governed by the Bengal Tenancy Act, see notes under the Preamble.

The Putni Regulation provides rules for the alienation of the whole or a part of a putni taluk and these cannot be affected by anything in the Bengal Tenancy Act in view of s. 195 cl. (e) of the Act: Shaizuddin v. Muthuramohon, 18 C.W.N. 338. Transfer of Putni tenure.

A partial transfer of a putni taluk is not entitled to be recognised by the zemindar: it is a form of transfer which under the terms of ss. 5 and 6 of Reg. VIII of 1819 the zemindar is not bound to recognise and under s. 195 (e) of the Bengal Tenancy Act the transferee cannot claim recognition by reason of ss. 12 and 17 of the latter Act: Rakhal Chandra v. Umapada, 18 C.W.N. 629.

Until registration of the name of a purchaser of a putni tenure is effected in the landlord's sherista, the transfer does not affect the zemindar's right and, in spite of the transfer, the landlord may ignore the transferee and may continue to hold the recorded tenant responsible for the rent and other obligation imposed upon the tenure. Krishna Chandra v. Dina Nath, 54 Cal. 1064 (Panton and Mitter J.J.). The cases of Joykrishna v. Sarfannessa, 15 Cal. 345 and Luckhinarain v. Khettro Pal, 20 W.R. 380 relied on.

A putnidar may deposit rent under s. 61: Batakrishna v. Janaki S. 61. Nath, 18 C.W.N. 916.

The special lien which a subordinate tenure holder acquires under s. 13 of Reg. VIII of 1819 by depositing the putni rent in arrears for which the Putni has been advertised for sale by the Zemindar under that regulation is not affected by proceeding taken in respect of the Putni under the Bengal Tenancy Act, the Putni Regulation being a self-controlled Act specially excluded from the operation of the Bengal Tenancy Act by s. 195: A. H. Forbes v. Maharaj Bahadur, 18 C.W.N. 747. Reg. VIII of 1819, S. 13.

Resident hereditary cultivators, to whom the proviso to s. 11 of Regulation VII of 1819 is applicable, are not liable to pay higher rent on proof of the condition on which their rent is liable to enhancement under the Bengal Tenancy Act: Rakhal Chandra v. Bhabadab, 53 I.C. 271.

3. Cl. (a):—Settlement Law.—See Reg. VII of 1822, IX and XI of 1825, IX 1833.

4. Cl. (b):—Realisation of Rent in Govt. and Ward's Estates. See Acts VII (B.C.) of 1868 and I (B.C.) of 1895.

5. Cl. (c):—Sale for arrears of Govt. Revenue Avoidance of Incumbrances.—See XI of 1859 (ss. 37 and 52), VII (B.C.) of 1868 (ss. 11 and 12), II (B.C.) of 1895.

6. Cl. (d):—Partition of revenue paying estates.—See Act V (B.C.) of 1897.

7. Cl. (e):—S. 195 (e) of the Bengal Tenancy Act, says that the Bengal Tenancy Act would not apply to enactments relating to Putni tenure in so far as it relates to those tenures. Where the Putni law is silent, the provisions of the General Rent Law would apply. This has been settled by authorities. The Putni law is silent as to the realisation of rent beyond one year and, therefore, the Zemindar is entitled to bring his suit under the ordinary rent law. The Putni law only confers the additional rights to recover rents by a summary process of sale which is restricted to the recovery of rent for one year : Sheikh Abdul Gaffar v. Downing, 5 Pat. 415 at page 431 (Jwala Prasad and Bucknill J.J.).

Dar putni tenures are not included within the terms of clause (e) of s. 195. S. 13 of this Act applies to sales of dar putni tenures in execution of decrees : Mahomed Abbas Mandal v. Braja Sundari, 18 Cal. 360.

S. 195 does not prevent s. 52 from applying to the case of a putnidar : Ranjit Sinha v. Abdur Rahim, 45 I.C. 190, (Fletcher and Shamsul Huda J.J.).

Right of
occupancy.

8. Cl. (f) :—There is nothing in the Bengal Tenancy Act to indicate that its operation as to the extended means of acquisition of the right of occupancy should not affect a purchaser at a sale for arrears of Government revenue ; the extended connotation of the expression "right of occupancy" does not affect Act XI of 1859, so far as it relates to avoidance of tenancies and encumbrances : Sarat Chandra v. Asiman, 31 Cal. 725.

The B. T. Act does not in view of s. 195 (e) affect the rights of putnidars under the Putni Regulation : Durlav v. Jamiruddin, 90 I.C. 405 (Suhrawardy and Duval, J.J.).

I. Preamble :—".....the preamble of the Bengal Tenancy Preamble. Act which may be referred to as indicating its general scope (See Maxwell on the Interpretation of Statutes, 3rd Ed. p. 59 and Turquand v. Board of Trade, L.R. 11 Ap. cas. 286) shews that the Act is intended to amend and consolidate, not the entire law of landlord and tenant, but only certain enactments to that law: (Per Banerjee J., Maclean C. J., concurring) Kedar Nath v. Ardha Chandra, 5 C.W.N. 763 at p. 766.

See notes at p. 2 ante.

2. S. 3 cl. (9): Holding :—The definition of holding should S. 3 Cl. (9). be read by inserting the word "entire" before the words 'parcel' and 'parcels'. The definition therefore will read thus: (the inserted words are in italics).

"Holding" means an entire parcel or entire parcels of land held by a raiyat and forming the subject of a separate tenancy.

See in this connection: Hurry Charan v. Raja Ranojit, 25 Cal. 917, s. c., 1 C.W.N. 521; Baidya Nath v. Sheikh Jhin, 2 C.W.N. 44; Haribole v. Tuslimuddin, 2 C.W.N. 680; Ahadulla v. Gagan Molla, 2 C.L.J. 10; and Parbaty v. Mathura Nath, 16 C.W.N. 877, s. c., 16 C.L.J. 9.

It was held by Richardson J., that there can be a raiyati interest in an undivided share of land: Banka Behari v. Benode Kumar, 13 C.W.N. 264 (notes); also see observations of Petharam C.J. in Harry Churn v. Ranjit, 1 C.W.N. 521; s. c., 25 Cal. 917; also see Baidyanath v. Sudharam, 8 C.W.N. 751 and Jardine Skinner & Co. v. Rani Sarat Sundari, 3 C.L.R. 140; in the two latter cases it was held that under Act VIII of 1869 (B.C.) a raiyat could acquire a right of occupancy in a share of an undivided property.

See notes at pp. 55, 225 and notes under s. 65.

3. S. 16. Bar to recovery of rent pending notice of S. 16. succession:—The words "recover by suit" in s. 16 are no bar to the institution of a suit, but to the obtaining of a decree: Kalibar v. Juffer Patwari, 24 Cal. 241 s. c., 1 C.W.N. 98; see also Alimuddin v. Heeralal, 23 Cal. 87 (F.B.).

See notes at p. 122.

It should be noted that as at present law stands the defect of the service of notice under s. 15 cannot be remedied by the fact that the landlord has recognised the succession.

- S. 18. 4. S. 18; Sub-lease by a fixed raiyat :—The word “transfer” in s. 18 includes a lease; s. 85 is controlled by s. 18; a fixed raiyat may therefore grant a permanent lease, just as a permanent tenureholder: Harimohan v. Atul Krishna, 19 C.W.N. 1127. See notes under s. 18, at p. 132.

5. S. 26: under-raiyat with right of occupancy by custom: Heritability :—

The occupancy right of an under-raiyat with right of occupancy by custom is not heritable by law: Sudhanya Kumar v. Saik Ismail, 29 C.W.N. 733. See notes at p. 218.

- S. 29. 6. S. 29: Agreement by an occupancy raiyat by more than 2 ans. in the rupee :—An agreement by an occupancy raiyat to pay rent by more than two annas in the rupee is wholly void; it is not valid to the extent of two annas in the rupee: Kristo Dhone v. Bhojo Govindo, 24 Cal. 895, s. c., 1 C.W.N. 442. Mothura Mohon v. Moti Sarkar, 25 Cal. 781.

S. 29, if applies to under-raiyat with right of occupancy by custom: see notes under s. 29, heading no. 16 at p. 228.

- S. 30. 7. S. 30: Enhancement of rent of an occupancy holding :—The words “The landlord of a holding” in s. 30 means “The landlord of an entire parcel of land forming the subject of a separate tenancy.

See notes under s. 30, at p. 231, under heading s. 3 cl. (93).

- S. 30. 8. S. 30: Prevailing rate :—As to the meaning of the words “prevailing rate” see notes at p. 231.

- S. 48. 9. S. 48: Limit of rent recoverable from under-raiyat :—A contract for a rate of rent in excess of the maximum prescribed by s. 48 is not wholly void but nothing in excess of the maximum can be recovered: Sitanath v. Basudeb, 2 C.L.J. 540.

- S. 49. 10. S. 49: Restrictions on ejectment of under-raiyat :—Cl. (b) of s. 49 should be read as if there are the words “for a term” after the words “written lease.” By the insertion of the words “for a term” as stated above cl. (b) reads thus :—

(b) When holding otherwise than under a written lease for a term at the end of the agricultural year following the year in which a notice to quit is served upon by his landlord.

See in this connection the Full Bench case of Rajkumari v. Barkatulla, 39 Cal. 278 at p. 283.

See notes at p. 278.

- S. 54. II. S. 54: Village office :—A tenant's liability to pay rent remains notwithstanding there is no village office: see notes at p. 348.

- S. 61. 12. S. 61: Deposit of money rent :—This section speaks as to the deposit of money-rent and no deposit therefore can be made of rent in kind, yet where the parties agreed that upon failure to deliver the rent in kind, a fixed sum is to be paid in lieu thereof, s. 61 is clearly applicable in such a case: Sasi Bhusan v. Umakant, 20 C.L.J. 1.

13. S. 65 :—S. 65 does not apply to land held by an under-rai S. 65. as it is not a holding: Arsadulla v. Mansabali, 17 C.L.J. 539; nor does it apply to an undivided share of a holding although there is a separate kabuliyat, in-as-much as an undivided share of a holding is not a holding; See notes under s. 65. Nor does s. 65 apply to a non-occupancy holding and a non-permanent tenure.

14. S. 66: Sub-sec. (3) :—The extension of time authorised by S. 66. sub-sec. 3 can be granted by the Court after decree: Babu Bodh Narain v. Mahomed Moosa, 3 C.W.N. 628; s. c., 26 Cal. 639; such powers may be exercised under s. 244 (Act xiv of 1882) which corresponds to s. 47 of the present code.

15. S. 67: Interest :—In granting a permanent lease, within S. 67. the meaning of s. 179 of this Act a condition that interest shall be payable at a higher rate than what is allowed by s. 67 is permissible: Matungini v. Makruru, 5 C.W.N. 438 (F.B.); s. c., 29 Cal. 674; See notes under s. 67 and also under s. 179.

16. S. 74: Abwab :—S. 179 is not controlled by s. 74; conse- S. 74. quently the provisions of this section do not prevent the holder of a permanent tenure from granting a permanent Mokurari lease "on an abwab: Krishna Chunder v. Susila, 3 C.W.N. 608. See also Gayaratulla v. Girish Chandra, 12 C.W.N. 175.

17. S. 79: Cl. (f) :—Suitable dwelling house for the raiyat and S. 79. his family". See notes under s. 79.

18. S. 84: "On being satisfied on the certificate of the S. 84. Collector that the purpose is reasonable and sufficient" The Collector's certificate is not conclusive and a Civil Court is to hold a judicial enquiry to determine the reasonableness and sufficiency of the matter: Gohun v. Rameshur, 18 Cal. 271 (F.B.).

See notes under s. 84.

19. S. 85 :—This section has no application to the granting of S. 85. sub-leases by a fixed raiyat. The word "transfer" in s. 18 includes leases: Harimohon v. Atul Krishna, 19 C.W.N. 1127. See also Amar Chand v. Prasanna Dassi, 25 C.W.N. 9.

As to the validity of sub-leases granted in contravention of this section, see notes under s. 85.

20. S. 87 :—The provisions of this section are not exhaustive: S. 87. See notes under s. 87.

21. S. 93 :—The word "estate" means an entire estate; the S. 93. word "tenure" means an entire, i.e., a distinct tenure: See Indu Bhusan v. Annapurna, 7 C.L.J. 216 and Saradindu v. The Collector of Rungpur, 11 C.W.N. 1143.

22. Chapter X. (Record of Rights) :—Chapter X not clear of Chapter X. comprehension: "Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act has undergone several amendments and it cannot be said that the successive amendments have made the law clearer of comprehension or easier of practical application"; Prithi Chand v. Basarat Ali, 37 Cal. 30 at p. 37 (F.B.) Jenkins C.J., remarks (in the case of Umedulla v. Ramchandra, 15 C.W.N. 812) "of the careless drafting which mars this very important Act."

Chapter X.
Non-agricultural tenancies.

23. Chapter X :—Dwelling-house : Non-agricultural tenancies : A homestead tenancy is not governed by the Bengal Tenancy Act and consequently a settlement of fair rent of a homestead tenancy under s. 105 is without jurisdiction: Ram Das v. Bipra Das, 19 C.W.N. 35. Upon the same principle Chap. X has no application to fisheries or other non-agricultural tenancies.

S. 105.
“Land,”
meaning of.

24. S. 105 : Land :—The word “land” is not equivalent to “holding” and therefore a co-sharer landlord alone is competent in respect to an undivided share of a holding which is held under a separate kabuliyat to maintain an application under this section: see Sarifunness v. Saferaddi, 21 C.L.J. 592; see notes under s. 105.

Ss. 105 and 105A.

25. Ss. 105 and 105A :—The correctness of the record-of-rig can be impugned by the landlord also: Upendra Nath v. Jamini Mohon, 18 C.W.N. 268.

S. 106.

26. S. 106 :—The correctness of entries may be questioned also under s. 106. Suit for possession : A suit for possession cannot be maintained under s. 106. See notes under s. 106.

S. 153.

27. S. 153 : Cl. (I) :—As to the meaning of the words “quest relating to title to land or to some interest in land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto” see notes under that section.

S. 155.

28. S. 155 : Any Case : The expression “in any case, to pay reasonable compensation” means every case: Pershad v. Ram Pertab, 22 Cal. 27: see notes under s. 155.

S. 160.

29. S. 160 :—As to the meaning of the words “permission to create”: see notes under s. 160.

S. 161.

30. S. 161 :—As to whether the word “incumbrance” includes “sale”, “exchange” and “a statutory title acquired by a adverse possession”: see notes under s. 161.

S. 167.

31. S. 167 : Date of Sale :—The words “date of sale” means the “date of confirmation of sale” and not the “actual date of sale” Banko Behari v. Krishna Chandra, 18 C.W.N. 349, s. c., 18 C.L.J. 170, but see Yusuf Gazi v. Asmul Mulla, 17 C.W.N. 440, s. c., 16 C.L.J. 131 where it has been held that the words “date of sale” mean the actual date of sale and not the date of confirmation of sale.

S. 169.

32. S. 169 :—The words “date of sale” mean the date of confirmation of sale: Matangini v. Sree Nath, 7 C.W.N. 552.

Interest : As to whether the word “rent” includes interest; see notes under s. 169.

Ss. 170 and 174.

33. Ss. 170 and 174 :—O. 21, 1 89 (C. P. C. of 1908) corresponding to s. 310A (C. P. C. of 1882) still applies to the districts which were comprised the province of East Bengal, see Ali Meah v. Ramjan Khan, 13 C.W.N. 224, (Sharfuddin and Cox J.J. in deciding this case dissented from the view taken in the case of Asiruddi v. Mokhoda, 35 Cal. 543). See notes under ss. 170 and 174.

S. 174.

34. S. 174 : Judgment debtor :—The expression “judgment-debtor” means the person against whom a decree has been made: see notes under s. 174.

2. For the recovery of an arrear of rent ² [in a suit brought by— (i) a sole landlord, (ii) the entire body of landlords, or (iii) one or more co-sharer landlords].
(a) when the arrear fell due before a deposit was made under section 61 on account of the rent of the same holding.	Six months.	The date of the service of notice of the deposit.

² The portion in square brackets was inserted by the same Acts.

Description of suit.	Period of Limitation.	Time from which period begins to run.
(b) in other cases.	Three years	³ [The last day of the agricultural year in which the arrear fell due.]
3. To recover possession of land claimed by the plaintiff as ⁴ [a raiyat or an under-raiyat].	Two years	The date of dispossession.

³ The words in square brackets were substituted for the original entry in col. 3 by the same Acts. The words originally were: The last day of the Bengali year in which the arrear fell due, where that year prevails, and the last day of the month of Jeyt of the Amli or Fasli year in which the arrear fell due, where either of those years prevails.

⁴ The words in square brackets were substituted for the original words "an occupancy raiyat" by the same Acts.

For the execution of a decree or order made ¹[in a suit between landlord and tenant to whom the provisions of this act are applicable,] and not being a decree for a sum of money exceeding Rs. 500, exclusive of any interest which may have accrued after decree upon the sum decreed, but inclusive of the costs of executing such decree; except where the judgment-debtor has by fraud or force prevented the execution of the decree, in which case the period of limitation shall be governed by the provisions of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877.	Three years	(1) The date of the decree or order; or (2) where there has been an appeal, the date of the final decree or order of the Appellate Court; or (3) where there has been a review of judgment, the date of the decision passed on the review.

Headings of Notes.

1. AMENDMENT.
2. ZERAIT LAND.
3. SUIT FOR EJECTMENT AND REMOVAL OF TREES.
4. DATE OF CAUSE OF ACTION.
5. INVOLUNTARY SALE.
6. ART. I (a).
7. EXPIRATION OF THE TERM OF HIS LEASE.
8. BREACH OF CONDITION.

1. Amendment :—Art. I (a) was inserted by Act I (B.C.) of 1907 and Act I. (E. B. A.) of 1908.

2. Zerait land :—No right of occupancy or non-occupancy can be acquired in lands known as zerait lands ; Art. I of Sch. III does not therefore apply to a suit for ejectment of a tenant from zerait lands : Janki Singh v. Jagannath, 39 I.C. 389, (Atkinson J.) ; but it was held in Letters Patent Appeal in this case by Chamier, C.J. and Chapman J., that a non-occupancy right may be created in zerait land and therefore Art. I (a) applies to eject a tenant from zerait land: [1917 Pat.] 318, s.c., 3 Pat. L.W. 105, 3 Pat. L.J. 1, s.c., 42 I.C. 177 (F.B.).

3. Suit for ejectment and removal of trees :—A suit was brought by the plaintiff to eject the defendants on the ground that under a contract, or according to the custom of the country, the defendant was bound to use the land of his holding for agricultural purposes only, but that the defendant, in contravention of this condition, planted trees upon the land in dispute, and converted it into a garden; the planting of trees took place in Oct. 1876 and the suit was brought on the 19th April, 1879; the plaintiff sought two reliefs, 1st, ejectment of the defendant; 2nd, removal of the trees if the defendant was not liable to be ejected; held, that sec. 27 of Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869 only related to such suits as could be brought either by the landlord or tenant under Act X of 1850, and the claim so far as it sought to eject the defendant was a claim which was cognizable by Act X of 1859 and therefore barred by sec. 27 of Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869, that sec. 27 did not apply to that part of the plaintiff's claim in which he sought to compel the defendant to remove the trees and that Art. 120 and not Art. 31 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act applied: Gunesh v. Gondour, 9 Cal. 147: see also Kedar Nath v. Sriti Ratno, 6 Cal. 34.

Limitation Act Sch. II, Arts. 31 and 120.

Art. 32 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act applies to a suit brought under cl. (a) of sec. 25 and sec. 155 of the Bengal Tenancy Act for the ejectment of a tenant and removal of trees planted by him on land leased out for agricultural purposes; Art. 120 does not apply to such a case: Soman Gope v. Raghubir, 24 Cal. 160, s.c., 1 C.W.N. 223: their Lordships in delivering judgment said as follows:—We notice that the Legislature in enacting the Bengal Tenancy Act provided one year's limitation for a suit to eject a raiyat on account of breach of a condition in respect of which there is a contract expressly providing that ejectment shall be the penalty of such breach; that is to say, for a suit under cl. (b) of sec. 25 of the Act. They omitted to provide in that Act any limitation for a suit under cl. (a) of that section, and they may possibly have considered that the general law which provides two years' limitation sufficiently dealt with that case. If it were otherwise there would be an extraordinary difference between the periods provided in the one case for a suit where there is written contract, and in the other for a suit of a similar nature where there is no written contract.

Limitation Act, Sch. II, Art. 32—Suit under s. 25 of the Bengal Tenancy Act.

4. Date of cause of action: Date of breach :—Where a suit was brought to eject a tenant on the ground of an alleged breach of conditions of the lease, viz., defendant's failure to plant 2,000 betelnut trees within 5 years from the date of lease, held that plaintiff's cause of action was not a continuing one but accrued at the expiration of the stipulated five years: Kalee Kamal v. Jumut Ali, 11 W.R. 452.

Where cause of action is not continuing.

5. Involuntary sale :—A covenant for re-entry by the landlord upon an involuntary sale is valid and operative in law: a suit against such a purchaser for ejectment is not governed by Art. 1 of Sch. II of the Bengal Tenancy Act, but by Art. 142 of Sch. I of the Limitation Act: Dwarika Nath v. Mathura Nath, 24 C.L.J. 40.

6. Art. I (a) :—This article was inserted by Act I, B.C. of 1907 and Act I (E. B. A.) of 1908. This article practically re-enacts s. 45 of the Act which has been now repealed and which was as follows:—S. 45. A suit for ejectment on the ground of the expiration of the term of a lease shall not be instituted against a non-occupancy raiyat unless notice to quit has been served on the raiyat not less than six months before the expiration of the term, and shall not be instituted after six months from the expiration of the term.

S. 44 cl. (c).

7. Expiration of the term of his lease. :—Here the word “lease” refers to a registered lease as referred to in s. 44, cl. (c). If the landlord does not bring a suit for ejectment of a non-occupancy raiyat within six months of the registered lease as referred to in s. 44 he cannot bring any ejectment suit on that ground and the tenant will hold over under the same conditions. It should be mentioned here that on the ground of expiry of lease a non-occupancy raiyat may be ejected only when he has been admitted to occupation by virtue of a registered lease.

Ticca lease.

Where after expiry of a ticca lease, the landlord brought a suit for ejectment against the ticcadar of a non-occupancy holding which the ticcadar had purchased during the ticca lease and which according to the stipulation of the ticca lease the landlord was entitled to recover after the expiry of the ticca lease, held that the period of limitation would be six months as provided for in Art. (a) of Sch. III : John Pier Paul v. Ramjee Ram, [1920 Pat.] p. 168, (Das and Adami, J.J.).

Where a mortgagee in possession settled a non-occupancy raiyat upon the land, and the mortgagor after redemption brought a suit to eject the non-occupancy raiyat, held that Art. 1 (a) Schedule III of the Bengal Tenancy Act applied and the suit ought to have been brought within six months after the expiration of the mortgage or after redemption : Sheo Barat v. Pai Arat, 52 I.C. 473, (Atkinson J.)

Khamar land.

Where the khamar land of a zemindar was held for a term, a suit for khas possession is not governed by Art. 1 (a) : Dwarka Nath v. Tafazer Rahaman, 20 C.U.N. 1097 ; but it was held in the case of Gonapat Mahton v. Rishal Singh, 20 C.W.N. 14 that a suit to eject a raiyat of zerait land brought more than six months after the expiry of the term of his lease is barred by Art. (1), (a) of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act.

Agricultural holding within the Municipal limits of Calcutta.

Where defendant took a five years lease of an agricultural holding in 1898 within the municipal limits of Calcutta but beyond the limits of the town of Calcutta by the proclamations of the Governor-General in Council dated the year 1794, and plaintiff brought a suit for ejectment in the year 1910, held that the suit was barred by Art. 1 (a) to Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act : Jotiram v. Janaki Nath, 20 C.W.N. 258.

8. Breach of condition :—Where the tenant has broken a condition of the lease by making excavations the landlord is entitled to damages. Where a kabuliyat provides a remedy (e.g., by ejectment) for the breach of its conditions that is not the only remedy open to the landlord and the right to obtain compensation under the general law is not affected. Where in a suit for ejectment of a tenant, under s. 155 of the Bengal Tenancy Act for breach of a condition compensation also is claimed, the latter claim is not ancillary to the claim for ejectment and is not governed by Art. 1, Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act. Art. 32 of Sch. I of the Limitation Act applies to such a claim : Krishna Das v. Mohendra Chandra, 25 C.W.N. 930.

9. CLAIM FOR RENT IN SUEPENSE DURING PERIOD OF EJECTMENT-SUIT.
10. DUE.
11. SS. 6 AND 7 OF THE LIMITATION ACT.
12. SCH. III, ART. 2 :
13. SUIT AGAINST TENURE-HOLDER.
14. SUIT BY ASSIGNEE OF RENT.
15. EJECTMENT OF A TICCADAR.
16. PROPRIETOR'S PRIVATE LAND.

I. Amendments :—In Art. 2 (a) after the words "arrears of rent" the following were inserted by Act I B.C. of 1907 and Act I E. B. A. of 1908.

"in a suit brought by—

- (i) a sole landlord,
- (ii) the entire body of landlords, or
- (iii) on or more co-sharer landlords."

In Art. 2 (b) for the entry in third column opposite cl. (b), the following entry was substituted, by the said Amending Acts, namely:—

"The last day of the agricultural year in which the arrear fell due."

Deposit of rent.

2. S. 61: Deposit of rent :—It seems that the shorter period of limitation of six months prescribed in clause (a) applies to the arrear of rent of a holding and not to a tenure or under-raiyati tenancy. 'Holding' has been defined in s. 3 cl. 9 and means a parcel of land held by a raiya.

When co-sharer landlords are jointly and severally entitled to rent, the service of notice on one of the landlords of the deposit of rent under s. 61 of the Bengal Tenancy Act has not the effect of reducing the period of limitation to six months as provided in Art. 2 (a) of Schedule III of the Act; Rup Chand v. Gaudar Singh, 29 Cal. 283, s.c., 6 C.W.N. 15.

S. 61.

If a tenant relies upon clause (a) of Art. 2 of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act, he must prove that there was an application which fulfilled the requirements of sec. 61, sub-sec. (2) and that a deposit was made under s. 61 after the arrear had fallen due; he must also shew that notice under s. 63 was served on the landlord and prove the date when the service was effected; Mir Tapurah v. Gopi Narayan, 7 C.L.J. 251.

The period of limitation prescribed in Art. 2 cl. (a) is applicable to a suit for rent wherever rent has been deposited under s. 61, even though the allegation of the tenant that what he had deposited was the full amount due at the time, may ultimately prove to be incorrect: Sasi Bhusan v. Umakant, 20 C.L.J. 153; s.c., 19 C.W.N. 1143; the case of Sati Prasad v. Monmotha, 18 C.W.N. 84 was not followed and the case of Sridhar v. Rameshur, 15 Cal. 166 was explained.

Jalkar.

3. Jalkar :—Art. 2 cl. (d) applies to a suit for rent of jalkar which does not necessarily imply any right to the soil: Krishna Lal v. Salim Mahamed, C.W.N. 514.

Outgoing
landlord.

4. Landlord :—Where on the date of the institution of the suit for rent plaintiff had ceased to be landlord, held that still

Art. 2 cl. (b) applied: Balmukund v. Tarini Singh, 16 C.L.J. 360, (Mookerjee and Beachcroft J.J.). "Whether a suit for the recovery of arrears of rent has been brought by a landlord within the meaning of that article." [Article 2 cl. (b)] "ought to be determined with reference to the relation in which the parties stood when the right to sue accrued, that is, when the arrears of rent claimed fell due." Ibid.

A tenure holder who on deposit of putni rent is put into possession of the putni tenure under s. 18 of Regulation VIII of 1819 is a landlord for the time being, and a suit by him for the unrealised rent which had accrued due before he was put into possession is governed by Art. 2 of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Abdul Aziz v. Beharilal, 41 I.C. 711, (Fletcher and Richardson J.J.).

5. S. 169:—Art. 2 provides for suits and not for applications: Application for surplus sale proceeds.
Narendra Lal v. Sarat Chandra, 19 C.W.N. 582; so an application for surplus sale proceeds under cl. (c) to sub-seq. (1) of s. 169 is not governed by this Article and such application may be made in respect to arrears already barred: Ibid.

6. Money recoverable as rent:—The period of limitation for a landlord to recover a sum of money payable by a tenant under s. 42 (b) of the Bengal Drainage Act (Act VI of 1880) begins to run from the date on which the landlord engages to pay the costs with which he is charged and not from the date on which the Collector assesses the amount payable by the tenant under s. 44: Monmohini v. Priya Nath, 8 C.W.N. 640; the period of limitation for such a suit is three years and such a sum is recoverable as rent and the word "rent" in Sch. III includes "money recoverable under any enactment for the time being in force as if it was rent." Ibid; this case was followed in the case of Naffar Chandra v. Jyoti Kumar, 11 C.W.N. 57; s.s., C.L.J. 119, and it was held that a suit to recover drainage charges payable by a tenant to his landlord under s. 42 cl. (b) and s. 44, sub-section (1) of the Bengal Drainage Act is governed by Art. 2 of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act, and must be brought within 3 years from the last day of the Bengali year in which the sum claimed fell due; drainage charges payable by the tenant to the landlord as above are included within the definition of 'rent' in s. 3, sub-seq. (2) of the Bengal Tenancy Act. Bengal Drainage Act. Drainage charges.

A suit upon a registered contract for money due in respect of forest rights is governed by Art. 2 of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act, and not by Art. 116 of Sch. I of the Limitation Act: Sarajubala v. Saradanath, 50 I.C. 862 (Teunon and Richardson J.J.). Forest rights.

A suit for rent of a myshagari lease is governed by Art. 2: Rash Behari v. Tiluckdhari, 20 C.W.N. 485.

Where the right granted was the right to fell, remove and sell all trees of specified kinds, held that the grant was of forest rights and a suit to recover the dues from the lessee is governed by the special rule of three years under the Bengal Tenancy Act: Sarajubala v. Saradanath, 23 C.W.N. 336.

When a creditor was put into possession as Zuripeshgi ticcadar, Zuripeshgi Ticcadar. held that an annual sum payable by the ticcadar was a debt and not rent and the three years rule of limitation as provided for by the Bengal Tenancy Act, did not apply but Art. 116 of Sch. I of the Limitation Act, the deed being a registered one: Barhamdeo v. Ramanand, 40 I.C. 594 (Chapman and Atkinson J.J.).

Suit by co-sharer landlord governed by this Act.

S. 188 seems to be a bar to such a suit.

7. Suit for rent by a co-sharer landlord:—Art. 2 (b) of Sch. III applies to a suit for rent by a co-sharer landlord: Jogendra Nath v. Nogendra Narain, 11 C.W.N. 1026; it is submitted that this proposition of law is opposed to the principles laid down in the cases of Jogendra Nath v. Paban Chandra, 8 C.W.N. 472; Beni Madhab v. Joadh Ali, 17 Cal. 390; and Kedar Nath v. Ardha Chandra, 5 C.W.N. 763; none of the sections specially applicable to a suit brought by a sole landlord or all the landlords jointly is applicable to a suit by a co-sharer landlord. Moreover, s. 188 of the Act is a bar to a co-sharer claiming the privilege of Art. 2 (b); if the Bengal Tenancy Act had not been passed, i.e., if there was no special law the Article which would have applied is Art. 110 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act; it is only under Art. 2 (b) of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act that a landlord is authorised to claim more than 3 years rent, and s. 188 is a bar to a co-sharer landlord taking a benefit which a landlord has been given under the Bengal Tenancy Act.

Fusli year.

The period of limitation where the Fusli year prevails is three years from the last day of Jeth: if any instalment is due on the last day of Bhadra the period of limitation will expire on the last day of Jeth in the third subsequent year, so that in such a case, the suit must be brought not within three years but within two years and nine months: Iswardhri v. Ram Brich, 7 C.L.J. 106.

Limitation Act, Sch. I, Art 120.

Art. 120 and not Arts. 62 and 109 Sch. I of the Limitation Act is applicable to a suit by a co-sharer landlord against another for a share of the rent collected in the supposed right by the latter the rent being due in respect of land held by the latter the rent being due in respect of land held by the co-sharer not separately but jointly: Bhubaneswar v. Dwarakeswar, 34 C.L.J. 508.

Suit by assignee.

8. Assignment of rent:—An assignment of arrears of rent does not confer upon the assignee the right to collect arrears of rent within the limitation laid down in the Bengal Tenancy Act: Hayat v. Hazari, 63 I.C. 424 (Das and Adami J.J.).

Where claim for rent not in suspense

9. Claim for rent in suspense during period of ejectment suit:—It is established as a general principle that the right to demand the rent which falls due during the pendency of a suit for ejectment is not in suspense during the pendency of the litigation. The cases of Surnamoyee v. Shoshee Mukhi, 11 W.R. 5 (P.C.), s.c., 12 M.I.A. 244 and Hem Chandra v. Kali Prasanna, 9 I.A. 52, s.c., 9 Cal. 255 are exceptions to the general rule: Nagendra v. Sadhuram, 48 Cal. 65, s.c., 25 C.W.N. 945.

Extension of time not allowed on account of landlord's not being in possession.

10. Due:—The period of three years in this Art. runs from the date when the arrear actually falls due and the landlords does not get an extended time for the fact that the tenant for a period beyond three years was out of possession by virtue of a sale at the instance of the landlord under Reg. VIII of 1819 and the tenant recovering possession by a suit for reversal of the sale on a date within three years, i.e., within the period of limitation: Maharajadhiraj Bejoychand v. Khoka Sinha, 40 C.L.J. 97.

Case under the old law.

A putni taluk was brought to sale by the zemindar for arrears of rent, the purchaser obtained possession of the putni and the arrears of rent were paid to the zemindar out of the purchase-money ; Where a putni is sold and the sale was afterwards set aside for irregularity at the instance of the putnidar, the purchase-money was refunded and the putnidar, recovered possession with mesne profits for the time he was ousted ; rent suit is brought after putnidar is restored to possession after setting aside of sale. the zemindar then brought a suit to recover the original arrears, and it was held by the Privy Council, that upon the setting aside of the sale and the restoration of the putnidar to possession he took the estate subject to the obligation to pay the rent, and that the arrears claimed must be taken to have become due in the year in which the restoration took place, and further that until the sale had been finally set aside the zemindar was in the position of a person whose claim had been satisfied and his claim might have been successfully met by a plea to that effect: Rani Surnomoyee v. Shoshee Mukhee Bormani, 2 B.L.R. P.C., 10 ; s.c., 12 Moo. 244 ; s.c., 11 W.R. 5 (P.C.)

But this case was not held applicable to the case of Hurro Kumar v. Kali Krishna, 17 Cal. 251, the facts of which were as follows:— Plaintiff brought a suit in an alternative form asking either for khas possession of certain lands which were claimed to be in excess of the land originally comprised in the tenure, or for a declaratory decree assessing the rent thereon in the terms of the kabuliyat, he ultimately failed in his prayer for direct possession, but succeeded in getting a declaratory decree and then brought a suit for the rent for the excess land, it was held that the cause of action did not run from the date of the declaratory decree ; see also Daya Mayee, v. Bhola Nath, 6 W.R. Act X 77 ; Huro Pershad v. Gopal Dass, 9 Cal. 255 ; Sherif v. Dina Nath, 12 Cal. 258.

The principle of the case of Rani Surnomoyee v. Shoshee Mukhee, was held not to apply to a suit for rent brought by landlord after a suit for khas possession brought by him failed: Hurro Prosad v. Gopal Dass, 3 Cal. 817 ; but see Eshan Chandra v. Khajah Eshanoolah, 16 W.R. 79, where it was held that the principle in Surnomoyee v. Shoshee Mukhee, applied to a case where plaintiff brought a suit for rent after being unsuccessful in a suit for khas possession.

The principle was also held to apply where the landlord assigned his tenant's rent in favour of his creditor, and subsequently a suit for rent was brought three years after the rent became due on the discovery of the fact that the rent assigned had not been paid by the tenant: Mohesh v. Gungamonee, 18 W.R. 59. The correctness of this decision was doubted by their Lordships, Garth C.J. and Macdonell J., in the case of Hurro Prosad v. Gopal Das, 3 Cal. 817.

Plaintiff instituted proceedings for arrears of rent due and for ejectment of the defendant for non-payment of rent and obtained a decree: defendant paid rent within the time allowed by the decree and secured the right of continuing as a tenant ; in 1276 plaintiff brought a suit for recovery of rent for 1872 and subsequent years: held, that the case of Rani Surnomoyee did not apply: Dindoyal v. Radha Kishori, 8 B.L.R. 536.

Plaintiff's suit for rent for 1270 and subsequent years being dismissed, he brought a suit for declaration of his right to recover rent which was decreed, and plaintiff subsequently brought a suit for rent for 1271 to 1279, held that the Privy Council case of Rani Surnomoyee did not apply: Boroda Kant v. Chunder Kumar, 23 W.R. 280.

Suit for rent after 3 years : cause of action.

Suit for khas possession : subsequent suit for rent.

Surnomoyee v. Shoshee Mukhee held applicable.

Surnomoyee v. Shoshee Mukhee held not applicable.

A landlord objected to the registration of the names of the successors of his tenant and brought a suit to eject them and during the pendency of the litigation the landlord sued to recover rent not upon the basis of any lease but for use and occupation treating the tenants as trespassers; both the suits were dismissed: the landlord subsequently sued on the basis of the lease, held that the claim for rent beyond three years was barred and it could not be said that the right to demand the rents which fell due during the pendency of litigation: Watson and Co v. Dhondra, 3 Cal. 6; where a suit for enhancement of rent was dismissed and subsequently the landlord brought a suit for rent at the admitted rent for the period when the former suit was pending, held that the old admitted rent did not become due on the dismissal of the enhancement suit: Brojendra v. Rakhal, 2 Cal. 751.

A landlord may under certain circumstances be allowed a deduction when limitation is pleaded in a suit for rent but the landlord's action must in that case be bona fide and he must have brought his suit for ejectment in the full belief that the defendants were trespassers: Hurro Nath v. Goluck Nath, 19 W.R. 18.

Where a suit for the recovery of arrears of rent was brought more than three years after the due date: held, that the fact that a suit for enhancement had been brought by the plaintiff within that period and in that suit the plaintiff had claimed enhanced rate for the year in question, stayed the operation of the law of limitation: Hem Chandra v. Kali Prasanna, 8 C.W.N. 1 (P.C.).

Where a putni lease provided that the rent should be paid in four instalments on four specified days in the year, held that the period of limitation began to run from the date on which each instalment fell due and not from the last day of the agricultural year: Gajadhar v. Thakur Prasad, 1 Pat. L.J. 506.

II. Ss. 6 and 7 of the Limitation Act:—Ss. 6 and 7 of the Limitation Act are not applicable to a suit for rent; see s. 184. It was also so held in Giriza v. Ratani, 17 Cal. 263.

12. Sch. III. Art. 2:—Art. 2 includes a suit to recover arrears of rent payable under a lease, and there is no distinction as to whether it is registered or not: Ishwari Pershad v. Crowdy, 17 Cal. 469. This case being in conflict with the decision in the case of Umesh Chunder v. Adarmani, 15 Cal. 221, the question was referred to a Full Bench, and it was decided by the Full Bench in the case of Mackenzie v. Hazi Syed, 19 Cal. 1, that suits for rent founded on registered contracts in respect of lands subject to the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act, are governed by the limitation provided in that Act.

The fact that the tenant holds under a registered lease does not bring a suit for recovery of the rent reserved by the lease within the purview of Art. 116 of the Limitation Act: Gajadhar v. Thakur Prasad, 1 Pat. L.J. 506 (Roe and Jwala Prasad, J.J.).

There is no reason for holding that when a suit for the rent itself is barred under the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act, the mere fact of hypothecation would extend the period to 12 years; in such a case Art. 132 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act has no application but Art. 2 (b) of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act will apply: Kali Charan v. Harendra Lal, 4 C.L.J. 553.

Hypothecation does not extend the period.

The limitation applicable to a suit for rent reserved in a lease granted for building purposes and for establishing a coal depot is governed by the Indian Limitation Act, and when the lease is a registered one Art. 116 of Sch. II of that Act applied; Raniganj Coal Association v. Jugoonath, 19 Cal. 489.

A suit to recover damages for breach of covenants contained in a lease, the terms of which were embodied in a registered pattah executed by the lessor only is governed by Art. 116 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act: Girish Chandra v. Kunjo Behari, 12 C.W.N. 628; see also Ambalavana v. Voguran, 19 Mad. 52; Kotappa v. Valur, 25 Mad. 50; Zemindar of Viznagram v. Behara, 35 Mad. 507.

13. Sch. III, Art. 2 (b) :—Suits for arrears of rent under the B. T. Act are governed by the provisions of Art. 2, Sch. III of that Act, and s. 110 of the Limitation Act does not apply. The last day on which a suit for arrears of rent can be instituted is the last day of the third year from the close of the year in which the rent became payable: Kashi Kanta v. Rohini Kanta, 6 Cal. 325; Hurro Kumar v. Kali Krishna, 17 Cal. 251; Barnamoyi Dasi v. Barnamoyi Chaudhurani, 23 Cal. 191; Baikunta v. Sharfunnissa Begum, 15 W.R. 523. [As to definition of "Agricultural year", see s. 3 cl. 11, at p. 64.]

The limitation of 3 years allowed for a suit for arrears of rent runs, not from the date of instalments, but from the day of the year in which the arrear becomes due: Gobinda v. Hurogopal, 11 W.R. 537.

A suit for recovery of rent against a non-occupancy raiyat is to be brought within three years from the last day of the agricultural year in which the arrear fell due, under the provision of article 2 (b) of sch. III of the B. T. Act. The period cannot be extended under the provisions of section 14 of the Limitation Act owing to pendency of proceedings under sec. 46 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, as both are not founded on the same cause of action: The Port Canning and Land Improvement Co., Ltd. v. Achhiruddi Mollah, 43 C.L.J. 45 [Watson & Co. v. Dhonendra, 3 Cal. 6 distinguished; Hem v. Kali, 3 Cal. 1033; s.c., 8 C.W.N. 1 referred to.]

14. Suit against a tenure-holder :—The mere fact that a tenure-holder has acquired a right to hold for the purpose of collecting rent is not sufficient to prove that he is a tenure-holder within the meaning of the Bengal Tenancy Act, it must be proved that the land was let out as a holding for agricultural or horticultural purposes; a suit for arrears of rent against such a tenure-holder is governed by the Limitation Act: Umasao Bibi v. Mahomed, 4 C.W.N. 76; s.c., 27 Cal. 205.

Tenure-holder under whom there are no agricultural tenants.

15. Suit by assignee of rent :—Art. 2 does not apply to a suit brought by an assignee of the arrears from the landlord but Art. 110 of Sch. II of Limitation Act applies to such a case: Mohendra Nath v. Kailash, 4 C.W.N. 605. The reasons of this

Art 110 of Sch. II of Limitation Act (XV of 1877) applies to a suit by an assignee

of arrears.

decision will appear from the following portion of their Lordship's judgment :—

It is clear that the Bengal Tenancy Act, according to its preamble, is an Act relating to the law of landlord and tenant in Bengal, and that, therefore, all its provisions, including the schedules and the periods of limitation laid down in the schedules, must be applicable only to suits in which the parties stand in the relation of landlord and tenant. Now, the plaintiff in this case is not the "landlord" of the defendant according to the definition of landlord as contained in sec. 3, sub-sec. 4 ; and the defendant is not the "tenant" of the plaintiff, as "tenant" is defined in sec. 3, sub-sec. 3 of the Act : Therefore, although the claim may, according to the decision of the Full Bench,* be rent for the purposes of jurisdiction, yet as the parties to the suit do not stand to each other in the relation of landlord and tenant, we do not think the plaintiff is entitled to take advantage of the extended period of limitation laid down in Sch. III, Art. 2 of the Act for recovery of arrears of rent.

In the Full Bench case of Siris Chandra v. Nazim Quazi, 27 Cal. 827, s.c., 4 C.W.N. 357 : it was decided that a suit by an assignee of arrears of rent for recovery of the same lies in the Civil Court and not in the Small Cause Court.

It was argued in the Full Bench case that the assignee was not the landlord of the defendant. But this contention was over-ruled.

*Mohendra
v. Kailash*, discussed.

It is submitted that the decision in the case of Mohendra v. Kailash, is in conflict with the principle of the Full Bench case. If Art. 2 does not apply to a suit for rent by an assignee on the ground that the assignee is not the landlord against a tenant it will follow that sec. 144 will not also apply to such a suit, for sec. 144 applies to "all suits between landlord and tenant". It will also follow that when rent is assigned and the assignor refuses to accept it when tendered by the tenant the latter will not be able to deposit it under sec. 61, for sec. 61 says that rent may be deposited when the landlord refuses to accept it, and the assignor is according to the case of Mohendra v. Kailash, not a landlord. But if the judgment of the Full Bench is to be looked at we may conclude from what has been stated there that, when rent is assigned the tenant does not lose the right of depositing rent under sec. 61. If the Limitation Act and not the Bengal Tenancy Act applies to a suit by an assignee of arrears of rent other anomolous results also will follow : e.g., a landlord has under the Bengal Tenancy Act the right to bring a suit for rent for practically 4 years ; so rent which falls in arrear on the last day of the year 1297, B.C. may be sued for by the landlord if he brings his suit on the last day of the year 1300, the assignee cannot sue to recover it as it is already beyond three years. At the same time if the Tenancy Act does not apply to a suit for rent by an assignee he gets an extended period of six years if the lease is a registered one : whereas the period of limitation applicable to a suit for rent brought by the landlord is 3 years whether the lease is registered or not : Mackenzie v. Hazi Syed, 19 Cal. 1.

from landlord.

A suit by an assignee from the landlord for recovery of arrears of rent is governed by Art. 110 of the first Schedule to the Limitation Act and not by cl. (2) of part I of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act : Gojadhar v. Thakur Prasad, 1 Pat. L.J. 506.

* Sris Chandra v. Nazim Quazi, 4 C.W.N. 357 : s. c., 17 Cal. 827.

Where a part of the rent reserved in a lease was made payable to the superior landlord and it was stipulated that on default of such payment the lessor would be entitled to sue the lessee, held that a suit by the lessor for such amount was not a suit for rent property so called and as such Art. 2 (b) was not applicable: Hemendra Nath v. Kumar Nath, 9 C.W.N. 96; such a suit is properly a suit for damages: Ibid. The case of Ratneswar Biswas v. Hurish Chandra Bose, 11 Cal. 221, was held to apply to this case and it was held that the case of Ratneswar was not over-ruled by the Full Bench cases of Basanta Kumar v. Ashutosh, 27 Cal. 67, s.c., 4 C.W.N. 3.

Rent payable to superior landlord.

16. Ejectment of a ticcadar :—Where a ticcadar purchased a raiyati holding during the period of his ticca lease and which according to agreement he was to give back to the landlord after the expiry of his ticca lease, held in a suit by the landlord for possession of the raiyati land which had been purchased by the ticcadar that the suit was barred by Art. 1 (a) as the ticcadar had non-occupancy right: John Pierpout v. Babu Ramjee Ram, [1920 Pat.] p. 168, s.c., 5 Pat. L.J. 302, (Das and Adami, J.J.).

Purchase of a raiyati holding by a ticcadar—ejectment suit.

17. Proprietor's private land :—Art. 1 (a) of Sch. III has no application to eject a tenant from the proprietor's private land after the expiry of the lease: Jagarnath v. Janki Singh, 40 I.A. 81 s.c., 1 Pat. 340, s.c., 26 C.W.N. 833, s.c., 35 C.L.J. 506 (P.C.). Where a tenant held over after the expiry of his lease of zerait land, this Art. does not apply. Ibid.

Proprietor's land.

Zerait land: holding over.

18. Cess Act :—The same rules of limitation are to be applied to a case under s. 64A of the Cess Act as would apply in rent suits to recover rent of a transferable tenure or holding, that is, limitation will be governed by rules under Schedule 3, Bengal Tenancy Act: Satya Niranjan v. Ebrahim Mandal, 95 I.C. 843, s. c., A.I.R. (1926) Cal. 1069. (Greaves and Panton J.J.).

19. Instalment decree :—Under the B. T. Act the Court has no jurisdiction to make the decree for rent payable by instalments; but if such a decree is made, it is merely an error of law and does not go to affect the jurisdiction of the Court making such a decree, and the period of limitation for execution of such a decree (in this case the decree was by consent) is governed by Sch. III of the B. T. Act: Achutanand v. Gayan Chand, 8 P.L.T. 673 s. c., 102 I.C. 781 (Ross and Wort J.J.).

ART 3.

Description of suit.	Period of Limitation.	Time from which period begins to run.
3. To recover possession of land claimed by the plaintiff as ¹ [raiyat or an under-raiyat.]	Two years.	The date of dis-possession.

Headings of Notes.

1. AMENDMENTS.
2. NON-OCCUPANCY RAIYAT AND UNDER-RAIYATS.
3. CASES UNDER ART. 3 AS IT STOOD BEFORE AMENDMENT: SUIT BY NON-OCCUPANCY RAIYAT.
4. BURDEN OF PROOF.
5. EXTINCTION OF RIGHT AFTER TWO YEARS.
6. LIMITATION RUNS FROM DATE OF ACTUAL OUSTER.
7. WHERE ART. 3 APPLIES AND WHERE NOT.
8. DISPOSSESSION BY LANDLORD: CONFLICT OF RULINGS.

1. Amendments:—For the words “an occupancy-raiyat” the words “a raiyat or an under raiyat” were substituted by Act I B. C. of 1907 and Act I E. B. A. of 1908.

Art 3 applies also to non-occupancy raiyat and under-raiyat.

2. Non-occupancy-raiyat and under-raiyat:—By the amending Acts of I, 1907 (B.C.) and I of 1908 (E. B. & Assam Council) this Article has been made applicable to non-occupancy raiyats and under-raiyats: formerly it was applicable to occupancy raiyats only.

Where the dispossession took place more than two years before the Amending Act this Article is not applicable to a suit brought by a non-occupancy raiyat or an under-raiyat; see the case of Gopeswar v. Jiban Chandra, 41 Cal. 1125, s. c., 18 C.W.N. 804, s. c., 19 C.L.J. 549 (Special Bench). See also the cases of Munjhoori v. Akel Mahmud, 17 C.L.J. 316; Budhu Koer v. Hafiz, 18 C.L.J. 274 and also the judgment of N. Chatterjea J., in the case of Gopeswar v. Jiban Chandra, 19 C.L.J. at p. 554 (s. c., 41 Cal. 1125, s. c., 18 C.W.N. 804).

Suit by an under-raiyat: The Article now has application to a suit by an under-raiyat but before the amendment of this Article it was held that the Article did not apply to a suit by an under-raiyat: Bhagaban v. Jagneshar, 2 C.W.N. 318 (notes).

Cases before amendment of this Article.

3. Cases under Art 3 as it stood before amendment: Suit by non-occupancy raiyat:—It is only in cases of occupancy raiyats that the two years' rule applies. See Ram Dhan v. Ram Kumar, 17 Cal. 926 (at p. 930). The case (Bhagobati v. Luton Mondal, 7 C.W.N. 218) holding that the limitation applicable to a suit to recover possession by a non-occupancy raiyat who has been dispossessed from his landlord, otherwise than in due course of law, is 6 months from the date of dispossession as provided by s. 9 of the Specific Relief Act has been over-ruled by the Full Bench case of Tomizuddin v. Ashub Ali, 8 C.W.N. 446, and it has been held that the period of limitation applicable to the case of a non-occupancy raiyat who has been dispossessed from his holding otherwise than in execution of a decree is either six or twelve years as provided in the Limitation Act: It was also held in that case that the remedy indicated in s. 9 of the Specific Relief Act is not the only remedy when the Legislature has provided for a non-occupancy raiyat who has been dispossessed otherwise than in due course of law.

4. Burden of proof:—Where the question is as to whether the shorter period of 2 years as provided in this Article or the period of 12 years as provided in Art. 142 of the Schedule of the Limitation Act will apply, held that the burden of proof is upon the party who asserts that the case is guided by the special rule of two years' limitation: Taranath v. Iswar Chandra, 16 C.W.N. 398; s. c., 14

C.L.J. 598. It must be clearly made out that any particular case falls within the terms of Art. 3: Rudra Narain v. Natabar, 42 Cal. 52; s. c., 18 C.W.N. 353, s. c., 18 C.L.J. 89.

5. Extinction of right after two years :—Where a landlord keeps a raiyat out of possession of his holding for the period specified in Art. 3, the raiyat's title in the holding is extinguished even if he held that s. 28 of the Limitation Act does not apply to cases governed by Art. 3 of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Nand Kumar v. Ajodhya Saha, 16 C.W.N. 1006, s. c., 14 C.L.J. 292. S. 28 of the Limitation Act. applies to such a case: Ibid.

6. Limitation runs from date of actual ouster :—The limitation as prescribed by Art. 3 begins to run from the date of actual ouster, and if subsequent to the ouster some dispute arises between the parties and an order is passed under s. 146 Cr. P. C. attaching the land, the limitation which has already begun to run does not cease, and the plaintiff does not get a fresh start of limitation from the date when the ouster under s. 146 Cr. P. C. is made: Dewnarain v. C. R. H. Webb, 28 Cal. 86, s. c., 5 C.W.N. 160.

Limitation runs from date of actual ouster.

7. Where Art. 3 applies and where not :—If a plaintiff had twelve years or a portion of twelve years to bring his suit when the Bengal Tenancy Act came into operation, he was by its operation restricted to two years from the date of his dispossession: Saraswati v. Haritaran, 16 Cal. 741: See also Ramdhan v. Ram Kumar, 17 Cal. 826.

Where cause of action arose before the passing of the Act.

This article relates only to a suit brought by an occupancy raiyat against his landlord and not to a suit by a tenant against third parties who are trespassers: Ramjane v. Amoo Baparee, 15 Cal. 317; (distinguished in 24 Cal. 40); where the suit as laid was not a suit against the defendant as landlord but as a person having no title whatsoever, held that Art. 3 applied as the defendant was in fact the landlord: Ramdhan v. Ramkumar, 17 Cal. 926.

Suit against landlord.

This article applies to all suits to recover possession of land which might be brought by an occupancy raiyat and is not limited to merely suits of a possessory nature: Saraswati v. Haritaran, 16 Cal. 741.

All suits to recover possession and not limited to merely suits of a possessory nature. Suit by an occupancy raiyat as such Dispossession by co-sharer.

The suit mentioned in this Article means a suit by an occupancy raiyat as such, that is, an occupancy raiyat claiming a right of occupancy as against his landlord: Chandra Kishore v. Raj Kishore, 15 Cal. 450.

The special limitations of two years provided by Art. 3 of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act is restricted to suits between persons occupying the position of landlord and tenant, for it is in regard to such relations that the Act has been designed. It is of no consequence whether the ejectment is by some co-sharers or by the entire body of landlords: Annada Sundari Chandalini v. Kebulram Changa, 7 C.W.N. 542.

After the dispossession of a raiyat by some of the co-sharer landlords, his right to redeem the holding was recognised by the Court in a mortgage suit by another of the co-sharer landlords, held that such recognition by the Court did not extend the period of two years limitation: Girish Chandra v. Giribala, 28 C.L.J. 219.

Art. 3 applies only to a suit by a raiyat or under-raiyat against his landlord, including one or more of several landlords: Kunti Dai v. Jharu Lal, 40 I.C., 907. (Chamier C.J. and Mullick J.). Jaimangal Bati v. Jharu Lal Das, 2 Pat. L. J. 567.

A suit brought by a person claiming a subsisting tenancy right under the defendant and praying for recovery of the land accordingly, where the ouster was effected by the landlord, is governed by Article 3 of Schedule III of the Bengal Tenancy Act. It makes no difference that ouster is effected by the landlord though the machinery of a Court of Law. It is not reasonable to import into the 3rd column of Article 3 of Schedule III of the Bengal Tenancy Act not merely the words "by the defendant" or "by the landlord," but the words "by the landlord as such": Satish Chandra v. Hasem Ali, 54 Cal. 450, s. c., 31 C.W.N. 634. (Rankin C.J., C. C. Ghose and Mitter J.J.). [The case of Jaimanglabati v. Jharulal, 2 P.L.J. 567 followed.]

Time runs from date of actual ouster.

Where an occupancy raiyat is dispossessed by a person whom the landlord has set up as a tenant, the dispossession being really by the landlord, the limitation applicable to a suit for recovery of possession by the raiyat is that prescribed by Art. 3: Rakhit Mohanta v. Puddo Bauri, 9 C.W.N. 54; see also Mohorum v. Tukka, 9 C.W.N. 231 (notes); see also Bheka Sing v. Nukched, 24 Cal. 40; Chintamony v. Upendra, 4 C.W.N. 326.

Where an occupancy raiyat is dispossessed by a person who has purchased the rights of some of the tenants at auction in execution of a decree for arrears obtained by the landlord, such person must be held to be acting in collusion with the landlord and the suit is governed by the special law of limitation prescribed in Art. 3, Sch. III; Aminuddin v. Ulfatunnissa, 13 C.W.N. 108; s. c., 9 C.L.J. 131 dissented from in Kamaladhari v. Rameshur, 17 C.W.N. 817.

Where a raiyat obtained a lease from the defendant and was put into possession of a part of the land, and the defendant obtained permission to remain upon the other portion for a period of three months and thereafter refused to vacate the same, and the plaintiff brought a suit for recovery of possession of the same, held that Art. 3 applied; Panchu Kahali v. Jajneswar Majhi, 53 I.C. 959.

Art 3 not confined to suit in which landlord himself is defendant.

The special rule of limitation in Art. 3, Sch. III, of the Bengal Tenancy Act is not confined to suits in which the landlord himself is a defendant: Sekandar Sheikh v. Arun Sarkar, 38 I.C. 69, (Fletcher and Richardson, J.J.).

Where the plaintiffs, after having obtained a lease, got delivery of possession of a portion of the lands demised and the landlord agreed to vacate the remaining portion after three months, but failed to do so, held that Article 3 applied: Panchoo Kapali v. Jajneswar Majhi, 32 C.L.J. 9, (Mookerjee, C.J. and Fletcher, J.).

Dispossession by a co-sharer landlord: Effect of recognition of tenant's title.

Art. 3 does not apply when there is no relationship of landlord and tenant: Krishna Chandra v. Satis Chandra, 20 C.W.N. 872, (Jenkins, C. J. and N. R. Chatterjea, J.). Where one of two co-sharer landlords brought a suit to have his right established to sell the occupancy holding of the raiyat in execution of a decree obtained by him, and it was proved that although the other co-sharer landlord had dispossessed the raiyat more than two years before the institution of the suit, but that notwithstanding the unlawful dispossession, the title of the raiyat was throughout recognised by all parties concerned, and the recognition had been up to within two years of the institution of the suit, held that the suit was not barred by the two years' rule: Sheikh Sarafuddin v. Chandra Mni, 5 C.W.N. 505.

When a raiyat was dispossessed by a co-sharer landlord, and the Court recognised the right of the plaintiff to redeem in a suit upon a mortgage by another co-sharer landlord, held that the period of two years' limitation was not extended thereby: Girish Chandra v. Gribala, 28 C.L.J. 210.

A suit brought by an occupancy raiyat to recover possession of his holding in which the landlord is no party, and there is nothing on the record to shew that the landlord had any hand in the ouster of the plaintiff, is governed by 12 years' limitation, though the defendant might claim to hold under the same landlord: Sheik Eradul v. Daloo Sheikh, 1 C.W.N. 573. Dispossession by a third party claiming to hold under the landlord.

Where it was not found that the defendant though he had obtained a settlement from the landlord was authorised by him to oust the plaintiff, held that the two years' rule in Art. 3 did not apply: Haran Chandra v. Madan Mohon, 25 C.W.N. 102; the words in Art. 3 "are to be strictly construed, as repeatedly pointed out in recent decisions of this Court which disapprove of the extension of the principles of constructive dispossession": Ibid. The Court will not favour the allegations of constructive dispossession in support of a plea that a suit is barred by Art. 3; it must be shewn on clear evidence that the landlord himself was a party who dispossessed the tenant: Bhodai Sahu v. Sheikh Manowar Ali, [1920 Pat.] p. 91 (Mullick and Jwala Prasad J.J.). Art. 3 has no application in a case where the dispossession was by a tenant under an authority conferred by the landlords: Kedar Nath v. Mohesh Chandra, 28 C.L.J. 216. Constructive dispossession.

For the Article to operate there must be actual dispossession by the landlord of the tenant; it cannot be extended to the case of constructive dispossession where the landlord has never allowed the tenant to take possession of the land: Rajani v. Panchanon, 90 I.C. 793, s. c., A.I.R. (1926) Cal. 350.

A suit by a raiyat to recover possession of a holding against the defendant with whom it was settled by the landlord after he had purchased it in execution of a decree is governed by Art. 3: Satis Chandra v. Nittya Gopal, 21 C.W.N. 978. Suit by raiyat against lessee from landlord.

Where an occupancy raiyat is dispossessed and the landlord has had no hand in the ouster, the period of limitation applicable is 12 years and not 2 years as prescribed in Art. 3, Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Ramjiulla v. Ishab Dhali, 39 Cal. 610, s. c., 6 C.W.N. 702 (F.B.): The case of Hara Kumar v. Sheikh Nasaruddin, 4 C.W.N. 665, if it decides the contrary was not rightly decided: Ibid. Where landlord has no hand in the ouster.

If the landlord is in any way responsible for the dispossession of the tenant by any person, Art. 3 will apply, otherwise not; the mere fact of the landlord being made a party defendant will not bring the case under Art. 3: Dwarka Chaudhuri v. Ishwari Pandey, 58 I.C. 46, (Jwala Prasad, J.). Art 3 will apply if landlord in any way responsible for the dispossession.

Where in a suit by a tenant for possession of his holding it was found that the landlord had no hand in the ouster and he recognised the defendant as a tenant after he had entered into the land on his own account and had kept the plaintiff out of possession, held: that the suit was not barred by the two year's rule of limitation under Art. 3 of Sch. III: Moharamdi v. Asmat, 91 I.C. 493, s. c., A.I.R. (1926) Cal. 751 (Chakrabarti, J.).

Art 3 does not apply in a suit by occupancy raiyat against auction purchaser at rent sale.

Art. 3 does not apply to a suit by an occupancy raiyat against an auction purchaser who purchased the holding at a sale in execution of a decree for rent at the instance of the landlord: Ganesh Chandra v. Beraja Sundari, 46 I.C. 975 (Fletcher and Huda, J.J.); see also Durgapada v. Bhusan Chandra, 21 C.W.N. 373.

In order to make the special rule of limitation laid down in Art. 3, Sch. III of the B. T. Act applicable, it must be shewn that it was the landlord who caused or took part in the dispossession of the tenant. Where, therefore, a landlord who institutes a rent suit and in execution of a decree obtained in that suit brings the holding to sale, dispossession by a third party purchaser does not amount to constructive dispossession by the landlord: Shyam Sunder v. Gobardhan, 7 Pat. 129. (Sen and Allanson, J.J.).

[Krishna Chandra v. Satish Chandra, 20 C.W.N. 872; Durgapada v. Bhusan, 21 C.W.N. 373; Bhadai v. Sheikh Manowar, [1920] Pat. 91 followed: Aminuddin Munshi v. Ulfatunmissa Bibi, 13 C.W.N. 108 distinguished.]

Art 3 applies even when tenant is dispossessed by landlord on the strength of his purchase at rent sale.

Art. 3 applies even when the tenant has been dispossessed by the landlord on the strength of a purchase of the holding in execution: Fani Bhuson v. Pulin Chandra, 21 C.W.N. 976. Where the landlord of a raiyati holding caused it to be sold in execution of a rent decree, purchased it and settled it with new tenants, a suit by the former raiyat to recover the holding would be governed by Art. 3: Satis Chandra v. Nittya Gopal, 21 C.W.N. 978.

Where A an occupancy raiyat permitted B to build a house on it on the understanding that he should pay a certain rent, and B after building the house refused to pay rent to A and obtained a settlement of the land, held in a suit by A against B that Art. 3 did not apply: Sonatan v. Chaka Sheikh, 10 C.L.J. 89 (Jenkins C. J. and Mookerjee J., confirming on Letters Patent appeal the judgment of Brett J.); B having come upon the land by the permission of A, it was in truth no dispossession: (Per Jenkins C.J.,—Ibid.).

Dispossession by licensee of raiyat in collusion with raiyat's landlord.

Where a licensee of a raiyat came upon the land and by his conduct the raiyat was compelled to leave the land, held that it was not properly dispossession and Art. 3 does not apply in a suit for possession by the raiyat although there was collusion on the part of the landlord with the licensee: Basanto Kumari v. Nandaram, 17 C.W.N. 1149, s.c., 18 C.L.J. 86 (Jenkins C.J., and Mookerjee J.).

In this case Jenkins C. J., observed as follows:—

Constructive dispossession by landlord. Remarks of Jenkins C. J.

“This theory of constructive dispossession by landlords has been carried too far, and we are not disposed to encourage the idea that because it can be said that the landlord has favoured the dispossession by him, for that is what is required to bring into play Article 3 in the third Schedule to the Bengal Tenancy Act. The Act is one to amend and consolidate certain enactments relating to the law of landlord and tenant, and its preamble shows that this was its purpose. It is as a part of that scheme that Section 184 prescribes the special law of limitation embodied in Article 3 Schedule III which provided that in a suit for possession of land claimed by the plaintiff as a raiyat or an under-raiyat, the period of limitation is two years from the date of dispossession. As between the plaintiff and the principal defendants, there was no relationship of landlord and tenant, so that as between them the Article would not apply, and it is only by importing the landlord and saying that he had a hand in the ouster that any suggestion can be made that this rule of special limitation governs this case.* But in fact there has been no dispossession by the landlord, so it cannot be fairly said that this is a suit that falls within Article 3. I therefore, hold that this special plea of limitation fails.”

Art. 3 applies only to suits as between landlord and tenant and is not applicable to a suit where the dispossession is by the defendant, acting, not as landlord, but, expressly in a different capacity, namely, that of auction-purchaser of the right, title and interest of a tenant at a sale held in execution of a rent decree obtained by him as a co-sharer landlord: Brojo Kishore v. Saraswati, 6 C.W.N. 333; see also Abhoy Charan v. Shikh Titu, 2 C.W.N. 175.

Dispossession by landlord acting not as a landlord but under a different capacity.

It is submitted that in whatever capacity the landlord may dispossess the raiyat this Article ought to apply, for, the dispossession by the landlord in a different capacity is also possession by the landlord.

Where a landlord took a usufructuary mortgage from an occupancy raiyat and continues in possession after the termination of the mortgage, his possession is adverse and a suit by the raiyat is not governed by Art. 3 of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act: Khetra Nath v. Lakhan Sardar, 59 I.C. (Mookerjee C.J. and Fletcher J.).

Art 3 does not apply in a suit by raiyat against landlord who is in adverse possession after the termination of usufructuary mortgage.

A suit for recovery of possession by a raiyat who has been dispossessed by a co-sharer landlord not in his capacity as landlord but by a claim of title independently of his interest as landlord is not governed by Art. 3 Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act, but by Art. 142, Sch. I of the Limitation Act—Gowher Ali v. Enayat Ali, 38 Ind. Cas. 777; (Atkinson J.).

•When a suit is brought by a person, alleging that he is an occupancy raiyat, to recover possession of a holding against a person who says that he has derived title from the landlord, the limitation applicable is that applicable to a suit against the landlord, but if the settlement alleged to have been made from the landlord is merely colourable and not made in reality the question would not arise: Lokenath v. Petambar, 3 C.W.N. 215. At a sale held in execution of a decree for arrears of rent obtained by a co-sharer landlord against a registered tenant, another co-sharer landlord purchased the holding, and in obtaining delivery of possession, evicted a person other than the judgment-debtor; the person dispossessed sued to eject the auction purchaser, held that Art. 3 had no application to the case, as the dispossession by the defendant was in his character of auction purchaser and not of landlord: Mahomed Khalil v. Hirendra Nath, 5 C.L.J. 650.

Dispossession by co-sharer landlord not in his capacity as landlord.

When settlement by landlord a colourable transaction.

The plaintiff sued as an occupancy-raiyat to recover possession of certain lands of which she said she had been dispossessed by the defendants Nos. 1 to 3 who were her landlords, the suit was brought as against those landlords within a period of 2 years but a further defendant, namely, Fakera Pasban, was added as a party defendant in the suit by the Court of its own motion more than two years had expired from the date of alleged dispossession, the following remarks were made by their Lordships: (Rampini and Wilkins, J.J.). The plaintiff did not ask for any relief as against Fakera Pasban and it was not at plaintiff's request that he was made a party to the suit. The question as to whether 2 years limitation applied was not necessary to be decided as the case was disposed of on another ground. But their Lordships remarked as follows:—Fakera Pasban was added by the Court of its own motion, and it was found that he is not in possession and is not a tenant of the land and that being so, it does not appear to us that the suit as instituted is barred by 2 years' rule of limitation provided by Art. 3 of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act, as regards the defendant No. 4, Kakira Pasban. However that may be, it is not necessary for us to decide this question, seeing that the appeal fails on the first of the grounds we have mentioned: Fakera Pasban v. Bibi Azimunnissa, 27 Cal. 540.

Addition of a party by a Court of its own motion.

Dispossession by landlord as auction purchaser.

Where a landlord obtains a decree for rent and in execution of the same puts the holding to sale and purchases it and obtains delivery of possession through court, held that such dispossession is not dispossession within the meaning of Art. 3: Kamal Dhari v. Rameshur, 17 C.W.N. 817. Their Lordships followed the principle in the cases of Abhoy v. Sheikh Titu, 2 C.W.N. 175; Brajo Kishore v. Saraswati, 6 C.W.N. 333 and Mahomed Khalil v. Harendra Nath, 5 C.L.J. 650 and dissented from the view taken in Aminuddin v. Alfateunnissa, 13 C.W.N. 108, s. c., 6 C.L.J. 131.

Dispossession in execution of a writ for delivery of possession issued by a Civil Court cannot be said to be a dispossession by the landlord within Art. 3: Mahadeo Rao v. Pargash Rai, 97 I.C. 629, s. c., A.I.R. (1927) Pat. 43. (Ross and Kulwant Sahay J.J.) [17 C.W.N. 817 followed; 21 C.W.N. 978 referred to.]

Dispossession by landlord. Conflicting rulings.

"Landlord as such,"—no such words in the Article.

"There are no words in the Article that 'landlord as such,' it seems difficult on the face of the article how we can read such words in the Article:" Fanibhushan v. Pulin Chandra, 35 I.C. 838, (Fletcher and Teunon J.J.). The dispossession of a tenant by a person who holds the dual capacity of the landlord and also of the auction purchaser of the holding when he dispossesses comes within Art. 3 of Sch. III. Ibid: Fletcher J., in delivering judgment of the Court said as follows: "The decisions in this court on the point are not uniform. It is no use saying that they are.* In some of the decisions it is said that the dispossession referred to in Art. 3 of Sch. III must be a dispossession by the landlord as such. In the case of Rudra Narain Maity v. Natabar Jana, 41 Cal. 56, s. c., 18 C.W.N.

Divergence of judicial opinion with respect to the scope of Art 3.

* Nabin v. Wazid, 3 C.L.J. 199, (N. R. Chatterjea and Panton, J.J.). There is a divergence of judicial opinion with respect to the scope of Art. 3, Sch. III; and in some cases it has been held that the Article is inapplicable to a case where the dispossession is effected by the landlord not as landlord but as auction purchaser and under process of the Court; See Abhoy Churn v. Sheikh Titu, 2 C.W.N. 175; Brojo Kishor v. Saraswati, 6 C.W.N. 333; Mahomed Khalil v. Harendra Nath, 5 C.L.J. 650; Kamaldhari v. Rameshur, 17 C.W.N. 817; Ram Kinkur v. Sthiti Ram, 27 C.L.J. 528. On the other hand, a different view has been taken in the following cases: Aminuddin Munshi v. Pulin Chandra, 21 C.W.N. 976; Satis Chandra v. Nitaya Gopal, 21 C.W.N. 978; Petambar v. Bhagabat Lal, 24 I.C. 860; Joimangalbat v. Jharu Lal Das, 2 Pat. L. J. 567.

Reference to Full Bench.

Having regard to the difference of opinion on the point, the question was referred to a Full Bench in S. A. Nos. 1224 to 1226 of 1917; but it was held that the question referred did not arise in this case because the dispossession was subsequent to the symbolical possession delivered to the landlord and was made at a time when the plaintiff was in possession as tenant under the landlord.

353, s. c., 18 C.L.J. 89 in which, I may remark, the headnote is far in excess of what was actually decided by the Court, the learned Chief Justice, Sir Lawrence Jenkins, observed: "we recently had occasion to enter a protest against extending the terms of the article by use of figures of speech and metaphors. What we have to see in each case is whether, in fact, there has been such dispossession as the Art. requires. That dispossession, it is conceded, must be by the landlord." That view I adopt in toto. The only question is whether the person who holds the dual capacity of the landlord and also of the purchaser of the holding, when he dispossesses the tenant comes within the meaning of the Article. He remains the landlord, that is obvious. There are no words in the Article that say 'landlord as such.' It seems to me difficult, on the face of the Article, to say how we can read such words into the words in the Article. There is a conflict of judicial authorities clearly. In the case of Aminuddin Munshi v. Ulfutunnissa Bibi, 13 C.W.N. 108, s. c., 9 C.L.J. 131; the view was taken that the Article applied even when the landlord purchased the holding in execution. That decision was followed by myself and Justice Richardson in the case of Aminuddin Muhsi v. Ulfutunnissa Bibi, 13 C.W.N. 108, the view was taken that the Article applied even when the landlord purchased the holding in execution. That decision was followed by myself and Justice Richardson in the case of Pitambar Mahapatra v. Bhagabat Lal, 24 Ind. Cas. 860. The decision in Aminuddin Munshi v. Ulfutunnissa Bibi, 13 C.W.N. 108; has however been recently dissented from in the case of Kamal Dhari v. Rameshwar Singh, 17 C.W.N. 817. In that conflict of judicial authorities, we have not to make up our minds which of these decisions we should follow. I think the decision in Aminuddin Munshi v. Ulfutunnissa Bibi, 13 C.W.N. 108 is correct. It is in accordance with the terms of the section and the decision of Jenkins C. J. in Rudra Narain Maity v. Natabar Jana, 41 Cal. 52 at p. 56, s. c., 18 C.W.N. 353; s. c., 18 C.L.J. 89."

Dispossession by landlord.

Conflict of rulings.

Where a landlord, in execution of a decree for arrears of rent, puts a holding to sale, purchases it himself and obtains delivery through Court, such dispossession of the tenant is not dispossession within the meaning of Art. 3: Ram Kinkar v. Sthiti Ram, 27 C.L.J. 528. A private purchaser does not stand in the same footing as a purchase at an execution sale; so where a landlord claimed by virtue of a private purchase Art. 3 applies: Nabin v. Wazid, 31 C.L.J. 199 (N. R. Chatterjea and Panton J.J.).

Art 3 applies when landlord claims by virtue of private purchase.

The plaintiff, an heir of the original tenant brought a suit for joint possession in respect of his share of the land against the defendants who are co-sharer landlords and who having secured a kabala of the entire land from another of the original tenant dispossessed the plaintiff held that Article 3 applied: Nabin Chandra v. Shaikh Wajid, 24 C.W.N. 382 (N. R. Chatterjee and Panton J.J.).

Art. 3 applies where the dispossession was by the landlord in his capacity of landlord or of an auction purchaser: Gowher Ali v. Enayet Ali, 40 I.C. 774. (Chamier C. J. and Mullick J.).

Where the dispossession was by a person who got settlement from an auction purchaser at a sale of the holding, for arrears of rent, held that Art. 3 did not apply: Krishna Chandra v. Satis Chandra, 20 C.W.N. 872, (Jenkins C. J. and N. R. Chatterjea J.); to deprive a tenant of his right of suit there must be a plain dispossession within the meaning of Art. 3: Ibid.

Art 3 applies where dispossession is by landlord in his capacity as landlord or auction purchaser (Patna case).

Where A had a raiyati holding and some homestead land and house in a certain village and he sold only the house and the homestead land to the plaintiff who was dispossessed by the landlord who claimed the house through some other tenant, held that Art. 3 of Sch. III had no application: Sheikh Abdulla v. Kutban, 21 C.L.J. 473 (Rampini J.).

Dispossession in collusion with the landlord.

Where a holding which had been purchased by the plaintiff at a previous rent sale was fraudulently sold in execution of another rent decree obtained against the former tenant, and the plaintiff was dispossessed by the purchaser, but the lower Appellate Court found that the landlord himself had no hand in the ouster but that he was hoodwinked by his gomastha who was colluding with the purchaser, held on the findings that there was no dispossession by the landlord and Art. 3 of Sch. III of Bengal Tenancy Act did not apply: Rudranarain v. Natabar, 42 Cal. 52, s. c., 18 C.W.N. 353; s. c., 18 C.L.J. 89.

Suit for possession of portion of holding.

A suit for recovery of possession of a portion of a holding is governed by this Article: Johwar Ali v. Alarakhu, 63 I.C. 481 (Coutts and Ross J.J.).

Suit by one of two joint raiyats.

A suit by one of two joint raiyats for joint possession of his share against certain co-sharer landlords who on the basis of a Kabala from another tenant had dispossessed him, held that Art. 3 applied Nabin Chandra v. Sheikh Wajid, 24 C.W.N. 382.

Suit for recovery of possession and declaration of title.

Where A brought a suit against B and C for recovery of possession against B and for a declaration that A as lessee under B was entitled to claim rent from C, held that the suit did not fall under Art. 3 of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act but the case was governed by the general law of limitation as it was not a suit between landlord and tenant: Gopinath v. Bhajahari, 68 I.C. 472 (Greaves and Ghose J.J.).

Constructive dispossession.

The Court will not favour the allegation of constructive dispossession in support of a plea that a suit is barred by Art. 3; it must be shewn by clear evidence that the landlord himself was a party who dispossessed the tenant: Bhadai Saha v. Sheikh Monowar, [1920 Pat.] p. 92 (Mullick and Jwala Prasad J.J.).

Dispossession by landlord.

Where the dispossession has been by the landlord or some body acting in concert with him, Art. 3 applies: Gobinda v. Akhil, 64 I.C. 858, (Sanderson C. J. and Chotzner J.).

Suit by tenant for land of which landlord did not give possession. Dispossession by landlord's agent.

Where a tenant was not given possession of a portion of the demised premises, a suit for recovery of possession by the tenant is not governed by Art. 3: Panchoo Kapali v. Jogneswar, 32 C.L.J. 9.

Dispossession without the agency of the landlord.

Where a co-sharer landlord purchases a holding and settles the land with a third person who dispossesses the former raiyat with the help of the landlord's agent, Art. 3 applies: Profulla v. Baburam, 34 C.L.J. 462.

Art. 3 has no application in a suit between two tenants unless the dispossession can be attributed to the agency of the landlord: Janaki Nath v. Baikuntha Nath, 27 C.W.N. 259, s. c., 36 C.L.J. 140, (Richardson and Suhrawardy J.J.).

Where the landlord granted a settlement to some of his peons and the dispossession was effected with the help of the landlord's Barkandazs, held that the two years' rule applied: Arman Peoda v. Manik Sarkar, 27 C.W.N. 86 (N. R. Chatterjea and Suhrawardy J.J.).

The plea of special limitation under Act 3 Sch. III is available not only to the landlord but also to person claiming under the landlord and therefore the question relating to special limitation may be inquired into even if the landlords were not parties to the suit, or if the landlords being made parties to the suit, did not appear to contest the suit but were satisfied with the order passed by the Court below and did not challenge it on appeal: Abdul Mazid v. Goshai Das, A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 461 (Suhrawardy and Chotzner, J.J.).

Plea of special limitation also available by a person claiming under the landlord.

A purchaser of a portion of a holding in execution of a money-decree to recover possession of the portion purchased by him from a subsequent purchaser in execution of a rent decree, is not governed by Act 3 of Sch. III to the B. T. Act: Harimohon v. Muhammad Rashidul, 84 I.C. 130 (Ross and Sen J.J.).

Purchaser in execution of money decree.

Art. 3 applies even to cases where the dispossession is by a fractional landlord. But where in a case plaintiff who was a vendee of a non-transferable holding was recognised as a tenant by all the joint landlords excepting one and the latter having dispossessed the vendee was sued for recovery of possession two years after the date of dispossession, held that the special period of limitation prescribed by Art. 3 did not apply in as much as the dispossession had been made by the fractional landlord who had not recognised the vendee's purchase and as such was a trespasser: Abdul Kader v. Shaikh Lal Mahomed, 39 C.L.J. 501. (Mookerjee and Panton J.J.).

Dispossession by a co-sharer landlord of transferee, not recognised by the former.

8. Disposition by landlord: Conflict of Rulings:— "There is a conflict of decisions on the point whether dispossession by a landlord as auction purchaser was caused under Art. 3 Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act." Profulla v. Baburam, 34 C.L.J. 462 (N. R. Chatterjea and Pearson J.J.).

Conflict of rulings.

Where A the landlord brought a suit for rent against B treating him as the tenant and in execution purchased the holding and as purchaser dispossessed C. who was found to be the real tenant (and not B) and the decree and sale against B was found to be collusive, held that Art. 3 applied: Kedar Nath Biswas v. Kamini Sundari, 28 C.W.N. 482, (Suhrawardy and Page J.J.).

Dispossession by landlord after auction purchase; collusive sale against third person.

A decree passed in a suit by a co-sharer landlord for rent is not a decree under the Bengal Tenancy Act, such a decree is executable under the Civil Procedure Code: Kesho Prasad v. Ram Deni, 74 I.C. 454, (Coutts and Dass J.J.).

Amendment

I. Amendment :—For the words “under this Act, or any Act repealed by this Act,” the words “in a suit between landlord and tenant to whom the provisions of this Act are applicable” were substituted by Act I (E. B. A.) of 1908.

Rent decree by a co-sharer landlord was not governed by Art 3 before amendment.

2. Decree for rent by a co-sharer landlord :—Before the passing of the Amending Acts I of 1907 (B.C.) and 1 (E. B. A. of 1908) it was held that an application for execution of a decree for a sum not exceeding Rs. 500 in value obtained by one of two or more joint landlords for his share of the rent was not governed by the special rule of limitation laid down in Art. 6 of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act, but by the general law of limitation, namely, Art. 179 of the Second Schedule of Act XV of 1877 : Kedar Nath v. Ardha Chandra, 5 C.W.N. 763. The special law of limitation is limited in its operation to decrees made under the Bengal Tenancy Act or any Act repealed by it ; a suit by a fractional co-sharer is maintainable, not as a suit under the Bengal Tenancy Act, but as a suit independent of the Act :* Ibid.

but is now governed.

After the amendment of this Article by Act I (B.C.) of 1907 and Act I (E. B. A.) of 1908 it has been held that an application for execution of a decree obtained by a co-sharer landlord for his share of the rent, in a suit to which the other co-sharers were not parties, the decree being for a sum of money not exceeding Rs. 500, is governed by the special limitation provided by Art. 6 : Narendra Chandra v. Afifannessa, 19 C.W.N. 751 ; see also Thakamani v. Mahendra, 10 C.L.J. 463 ; Khettra Mohan v. Mohim, 17 C.W.N. 518 ; Mrityunjoy v. Bholanath, 18 C.L.J. 81.

K. B. Dutt's case laying down a contrary rule, not followed in other cases.

In the case of K. B. Dutt v. Goshta Behari, 16 C.W.N. 1006, s. c., 16 C.L.J. 379, that a decree obtained by a co-sharer landlord for his share of the rent was not governed by Art. 6. Their Lordships distinguished the case of Thakamani v. Mohendra, 10 C.L.J. 463. The case of K. B. Dutt v. Goshta Behari, 16 C.W.N. 1006) has not* been followed in subsequent cases ; Carnduff and Beachcroft, J.J., said in the case of Khettra Mohan v. Mohim, 17 C.W.N. 518 that their Lordships were disposed to follow the views expressed in Thakamani v. Mohendra, 10 C.L.J. 463 rather than the later ruling of Brett and Sharfuddin, J.J., in K. B. Dutt v. Goshta Behari, 16 C.W.N. 1006 : 16 C.L.J. 379. In the case of Mrityunjoy v. Bholanath

* See Prem Chand v. Mokshada, 14 Cal. 201 ; Jugabandhu v. Jadu Ghose, 15 Cal. 47. A decree for rent by a co-sharer landlord is not a decree under the Bengal Tenancy Act : Durga Charan v. Kali Prasanna, 3 C.W.N. 536 : s. c., 26 Cal. 727 ; Beni Madhob v. Joad Ali, 17 Cal. 390.

nath, 18 C.L.J. 81, Mookerjee and Beachcroft, J.J., declined to follow K. B. Dutt's case and pointed out that that case overlooks the fundamental fact, that Art. 6 is applicable where the decree has been made in a suit between landlord and tenant to whom (and not "to which") the provisions of the Act are applicable. In an unreported case (Appeal from Order No. 562 of 1912, 26th Jan., 1914) K. B. Dutt's case was not followed and the view taken in Thakamani v. Mohendra, 10 C.L.J. 463 and Mrityunjoy v. Bholanath, 18 C.L.J. 81 was accepted as correct.

Where a decree was obtained by one of several joint landlords for his share of the entire rent and was made in a suit in which rent was claimed in respect of several holdings in the occupation of the tenant, an application for execution was held to be governed by Art. 6: Mrityunjoy v. Bholanath, 18 C.L.J. 81. Rent-decree in respect of several holdings.

Where a decree for rent not exceeding Rs. 500 was obtained before the passing of Act I (B.C.) of 1907, but the application for execution was made subsequent thereto, held that Art. 6 applied: Thakamani v. Mohendra, 10 C.L.J. 463. Decree passed before amendment but executed subsequently.

Art. 6 applies also to a rent decree by a co-sharer landlord when the other co-sharers have not been joined as parties: Byomkesh Chakravarti v. Haladhar Mondal, 19 C.W.N. 127. Art 6 applies to a rent decree by co-sharer landlord.

Art. 6 applies to a decree obtained by a co-sharer landlord as well: Byomkesh v. Uday Chand, 43 I.C. 737. See also Thakamani v. Mohendra Nath, 10 C.L.J. 463, and Mritunjay v. Bhola Nath, 18 C.L.J. 81.

3. Co-tenant :—Art 6 applies to a decree for rent even if it is obtained against a co-sharer tenant: Binda Bibi v. Mum Singh, 50 I.C. 33, (Atkinson and Das, J.J.).

4. Out-going-landlord :—Art. 6 does not apply to the execution of a decree for rent obtained in a rent suit brought by a landlord after he parted with his interest as landlord: Satis Ranjan v. Nasaraddi, 34 I.C. 145, (D. Chatterjea and Beachcroft, J.J.). Art 6 applies to a rent decree against co-sharer tenant.

5. Final decree :—The "final decree" mentioned in this Article must be the final decree in the suit and does not include an order in appeal upon an application to set aside that decree under s. 108 C. P. C.: Baikuntha Nath v. Aghore Nath, 21 Cal. 387. Art 6 does not apply to a decree by outgoing landlord.

6. Date of the decree :—The period of limitation runs from the date of the decree and not from the date fixed for payment: Ram Saday v. Dwarka Nath, 22 Cal. 644. A decree was made in a suit for rent on the 26th May, 1890 ordering the sum of Rs. 400 to be paid in the following August; on the 9th August 1893, an application for execution was made, held that the application was barred: Ibid. See also Mamtazal Hug v. Nirbhai Singh, 9 Cal. 711, Khetro Mohon v. Mohim, 17 C.W.N. 518. Final Decree Date of the decree.

The nature of a suit depends on the plaint and not on the decree passed in the suit. Where in a suit for khas possession of property on declaration of title thereto the plaintiff himself denies the existence of tenancy in his plaint, Art. 6 is not applicable to the case: Mahendra v. Ashutosh, 91 I.C. 478, s. c., A.I.R. (1926) Cal. 545.

7. Decree by an assignee of arrears of rent :—It seems that a decree obtained by an assignee is a decree made under the Bengal Tenancy Act although it might be said that the assignee is not the Decree by an assignee.

person under whom the tenant held and does not therefore come strictly within the definition of "landlord" as given in the Act. He no doubt stands in the shoes of the assignor and as such cannot have higher rights.

Limitation
Act, s. 19.

8. Acknowledgment of liability : s. 19 of the Limitation Act :—An acknowledgement of liability under s. 19 of the Limitation Act made by a judgment-debtor to the decree-holder's right to execute a rent-decree gives the decree-holder a fresh starting point for counting the period of limitation prescribed by this Article* : Harihar v. Gunendar, 9 C.W.N. 1025. In this case the judgment-debtor made a petition containing the acknowledgement of his debt. See also Rakhal Chandra v. Hemangini, 3 C.L.J. 347 : Ram Koomar v. Jakur Ali, 8 Cal. 716 : Toree Mohamed v. Mohamed Mabboud, 6 Cal. 730.

Amended
decree.

9. Amended decree :—An application for execution of a decree for rent which was originally incapable of execution is not barred by limitation although presented more than three years after the date of the decree, but within three years from the date of amendment of the decree making it capable of execution : Mohamaya v. Abul Hamid, 18 C.W.N. 266.

Injunction.

10. Injunction, effect of :—Where an application for execution of a decree for rent not exceeding Rs. 100 was made within three years but such proceedings were stayed by an injunction at the instance of the judgment-debtor, and a second application for execution against moveables having been made, the decree-holder made a third application beyond three years from the date of the decree was made for the reliefs contained in the first application, held that the third application was not barred and that it was to be considered as a continuation of the first application : Sarandhari v. Bikram, 18 C.W.N. 539.

"The second application cannot rightly be treated as an abandonment of the relief claimed in the first application : it must be deemed as an application for additional relief : and in this view, the third application may well be treated as a continuation of the first application" : Ibid.

11. Informal application on the last day :—Where an application for execution was made on the last day of the period allowed by Art. 6, but it having been discovered that the judgment-debtor had died previously, the decree-holder without unreasonable delay made the necessary substitution of the heir of the deceased and proceeded with the execution, held that the application was in continuation of the proceeding started on the last day of limitation : Kalanund v. Chandra Kishore, 14 C.W.N. 971, s.c., 12 C.L.J. 192.

Execution
after 3 years.

12. Execution of decree after 3 years :—Where a decree for rent in a suit not exceeding Rs. 500 was obtained on the 14th June, 1911 and the sale in execution took place on the 25th April, 1914, but the sale was set aside on the 16th September 1914, and on the 28th September, 1914 the execution case was dismissed for default, and *the acknowledgment under s. 19 does not affect or alter the period of limitation so prescribed, though it may seem practically to do so, but only gives the decree holder a fresh starting point for counting the period prescribed by Art. 6 of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act.....(Per Rampini and Caspersz, J.J.).

an appeal against the order setting aside the sale was dismissed on the 2nd January, 1915, held that a subsequent application for execution made on the 16th February, 1916, i.e., more than three years after the date of the decree was barred by limitation under Art. 6: Midnapur Zemindary Company v. Dina Nath Sahu, 22 C.W.N. 766.

Article 6 of Schedule III of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, prescribes a period of limitation of three years from the date of the decree for the execution of a decree in a suit between landlord and tenant and not being a decree for a sum of money exceeding Rs. 500: Bishundeo v. Mahadeo Prasad, 6 Pat. 274, s.c., 102 I.C. 895 (Ross and Kulwant Sahay, J.J.).

13. Suit for declaration that landlord is entitled to nugdi rent and for recovery of rent :—Where a landlord brought a suit for a declaration that he was entitled to nugdi rent and also for recovery of rent, held that a decree passed in such suit was governed by this Article: Darkahi v. Mango Koer, [1922 Pat.] p. 5, s.c., 67 I.C. 869, s.c., 1 Pat. 779, (Coutts and Das J.J.).

14. S. 19 of the Limitation Act :—S. 19 of the Limitation Act applied to an application for execution of a decree under Sch. III Art. 6, and therefore where there was acknowledgement of liability within the meaning of s. 19 of the Limitation Act in regard to a decree for rent less than Rs. 500, held that the acknowledgement gave a fresh start: Paresh Nath v. Ismail Sardar, 26 C.W.N. 486, s.c., 34 C.L.J. 195, (N. R. Chatterjea and Newbould, J.J.).

15. Construction should be strictly made :—The rules of limitation, specially those of special limitation should be construed very strictly: Golam Yusuf v. Ram Prasad, 27 C.W.N. 180 (notes); (Rankin and B. B. Ghose, J.J.); where a decree for rent was passed in favour of a co-sharer landlord for a particular sum and in favour of the deft. co-sharer landlord for another sum separately for Rs. 471 odd, when the decree was executed by the deft. decree-holder, an objection was taken by the tenant that it was barred by the special rule of limitation in as much as it was a separate decree below Rs. 500, and the lower Courts over-ruled the contention that the decree was a joint decree exceeding Rs. 500, in favour of all the landlords, held in second appeal that the decree was not barred and the rule of special limitation did not apply: Ibid.

NOTES.

The words in italics were originally added to the old Rule by Government Notification No. 113 L.R., dated the 8th January 1900, Calcutta Gazette, Part I, 10th January, p. 20.

STRICT ADHERENCE TO RULE: Under the rule as it stood originally it was held that a notice to quit addressed to several tenants must be served by proclamation and beat of drums, and that personal service could be effected when the notice was directed to a single tenant: Thamasha Bibi v. Mathura Nath, 6 C.W.N. 67; the rule as it originally stood before the 8th January, 1900, did not contain the words in italics.

Rule 3, Chap. I of the Rules made by the Local Government under cl. 2 of s. 189 is intended to apply only to those cases where the Act speaks of the service of a notice and not merely the giving of a notice, if such notice is required to be given in the prescribed manner: Madhub Ram v. Doyal Chandra, 2 C.W.N. 109. "Seeing that when the Legislature intended that the notice was either to be served or to be given in the prescribed manner, it has expressly said so, and seeing that in the provisions of the law sub-section 1 of s. 72, now under the consideration, it has not taken care to say so, we do not think that it would be right to hold that it was nevertheless intended that the notice under sub-section 1 of s. 72 should be served in the prescribed manner Per BANERJEE & WILKINS, J.J. : Ibid.

(2) Where prices are recorded at marts other than those at the head-quarters of districts, the Collector may, with the sanction of the Commissioner, authorise a Sub-Registrar to prepare the list, on days when no gazetted officer or Kanungo is available.

(3) One or two respectable inhabitants of the locality shall always be asked to assist in the preparation of price-lists, and the list shall be signed by at least one of them, as well as by the officer preparing it.

8. Every officer charged with the preparation of price-lists shall keep a record, showing, as far as practicable :—

- (a) the date of his visit to the mart at which prices are to be recorded;
- (b) the names of vendors and purchasers, the quantities sold, and the price thereof, for any sales effected in his presence.

9. When the price-lists are prepared at the Sadar Sub-division by an officer other than a Covenanted Deputy Collector, or at other Sub-division by an officer subordinate to the Sub-divisional Officer, or by a Sub-Registrar, they shall be submitted to the Covenanted Deputy Collector or to a Deputy Collector specially nominated by the Collector for the purpose, or to the Sub-divisional Officer as the case may be. Such officer shall scrutinize the lists; he may call for explanations and cause errors to be corrected, and, having satisfied himself of the accuracy of the lists, he shall countersign them.

10. The price-lists shall be published at the marts to which they respectively refer, at the collectorate or sub-divisional office, and at every police-station and of munsifi in the local area.

11. After the expiry of one month from the date of publication in the manner prescribed in rule 10, the price lists shall be submitted to the Board of Revenue with any objections made to them, and with the opinions of the officers who prepared and countersigned them, and of the Collector on such objections.

CHAPTER III.—LANDLORD'S IMPROVEMENTS.

12. Section 80.—Applications from landlords for the registration of improvements shall be made to the Collector of the district. If any such application be presented to any other Revenue-officer, he shall forward it for orders to the Collector.

13. As far as practicable, the application shall be in Form I appended to these rules. The Collector shall either verify the application personally or shall depute a Revenue-officer, not below the rank of Sub-Deputy Collector, to make the verification. In all cases the verification shall be by local inquiry.

14. Before holding a local inquiry under rule 13, the Revenue-officer shall prepare a proclamation, giving general notice to the tenants of every village concerned of his proposed local inquiry and of the date thereof. He shall cause such proclamation to be published by beat of drum in every such village and he shall cause a copy of the proclamation, together with a copy of the landlord's application, to be fixed up, in the presence of not less than two persons, in some conspicuous place of every such village. The expense of such publication shall be borne by the applicant for registration.

15. The Revenue-officer who makes a local inquiry under rule 13 shall ascertain whether the work in question was carried out and, if so, at what time, at whose expense, and at what cost; whether the work is an improvement as defined in section 76, sub-section (2), of the Act, and was lawfully made by the landlord, and, if the improvement comes under clause (e) of that sub-section, whether enhanced rent is already being paid for the original improvement; and what tenants have been benefited thereby and to what extent. The Revenue-officer shall embody in a proceeding the result of his local inquiry. When an officer other than the Collector has made the local enquiry, he shall submit the proceeding to the Collector.

Orders by Collector on local inquiry.

16. The Collector, after considering the proceeding of the local inquiry and after holding such further inquiry as he thinks necessary, shall pass an order directing or refusing the registration of the landlord's improvement; and if he directs registration, he shall record clearly whether it falls under clause (e) of section 76 (2) of the Act, and, if so, what enhancement of rent, if any, is being paid for the original improvement.

Powers of officers recording evidence as to improvement.

17. Section (81) (1).—Every Revenue-officer who records evidence under section 81 (1) of the Act shall exercise all the powers which are exercised by a Civil Court in the trial of suits, and shall be guided by the provisions of rules 5 and 8 of Order XVIII of the Code of Civil Procedure (Act V of 1908).

Application for record of proprietor's private land to whom to be made.

CHAPTER IV.—RECORD OF PROPRIETOR'S PRIVATE LANDS.

18. Section 118.—Application under section 118 of the Act shall be made to the Collector of the district. If any such applications be presented to any other Revenue-officer, he shall forward it for orders to the Collector.

Signature of, and particulars to be contained in, application.

19. The application shall be signed by the party making it, and shall contain the following particulars, so far as the applicant is able to furnish them :—

- (a) the name, tauzi number, and Government revenue of the estate;
- (b) the names of the registered proprietors, and the share held by each;
- (c) the specification of each plot of land referred to in the application, showing the village in which it is situated and the area and boundaries of each plot, if known;
- (d) the names of the tenants (if any) in occupation of each such plot; and
- (e) the grounds of the application.

Inquiry on receipt of application.

20. On receipt of the application, the Collector shall make such inquiry as he may think fit by examining the applicant or his agent, and may call for further particulars before ordering further proceedings. If the Collector directs that further proceedings be taken, he may transfer the application for inquiry and report to and Revenue-officer subordinate to him.

Measurement of lands, where necessary and deposit of cost thereof.

21. If the area of the lands has not been already ascertained by the measurement made by competent agency under the authority of Government, or if for sufficient reason a further measurement is considered desirable, the Collector shall order that the lands be measured and shall estimate the cost of measurement, and shall require the applicant to deposit the amount either at once or in such instalments as he may deem fit.

Record of proceeding.

Procedure for making survey and preparing record-of-rights.

(2) A Revenue-officer who has been appointed with the additional designation of "Settlement Officer" may, at any time before the publication of the final record, direct that any portion of the proceedings in respect of the lands of any local area, estate or tenure or part thereof, shall be cancelled and that the proceedings shall be carried out de novo from such stage as he may direct.

(3) When an order has been made under section 103 directing that all or any of the particulars specified in section 102 shall be ascertained and recorded with respect to any estate or tenure or part thereof, the Revenue-officer shall proceed in accordance with the following rules (in this part and in Part III of this Chapter), so far as they may be applicable.

51. Traverse Survey.—The cadastral survey of the notified area shall be based upon a traverse survey, and such traverse shall ordinarily be carried out by theodolite observations. If possible, the traverse survey shall be connected with one or more points which have been fixed by previous surveys.

52. Cadastral Survey.—(1) In the course of proceedings under section 101 of the Act, a large-scale map showing roads, rivers, railways and other physical features of the country, as well as homesteads and other fields, shall be prepared for each village contemplated by section 115A of the Act as the unit of survey and record.

(2) When the area contained within the external boundaries of the village maps of the previous survey contemplated by section 115A is unsuitable as the unit of survey and record, or if there has been no such previous survey, the Settlement Officer shall, after ascertaining, as far as possible, the opinions of the landlords and tenants concerned, submit his proposals for the determination of the area to be adopted as the unit of record and survey to the Board of Revenue through the controlling officers to whom he is subordinate. That unit shall, if sanctioned by the Board of Revenue, be adopted in framing the record-of-rights, but shall not be deemed to constitute a village within the meaning of the Act until a notification has been issued under section 3 (10) (b). The Board of Revenue shall submit a copy of its order in each case to the Local Government for the issue of the notification.

53. Erection of Boundary Marks.—Boundary marks of a permanent nature shall ordinarily be erected at every point where the boundaries of three villages meet, and may also be erected at any other points where this is necessary, in the opinion of the Revenue-officer, for the definition of any boundary.

54. Preliminary Record-writing.—At this and the two following stages the draft record shall be prepared. The draft record shall consist of statements of rights which are hereinafter styled the khatians. There shall ordinarily be separate khatian for each person interested, or each group of persons jointly interested, in the land, whether as proprietor, tenure-holder, raiyat, under-raiyat or occupant, and each khatian shall show the rights and liabilities of each person or group of persons according to the particulars which have been specified in the notification under section 101. At this stage all such particulars shall find entry, with the exception that no entry shall be made as to the revenue, rent or cess, the class to which the tenant belongs, or the special conditions and incidents of the tenancy. At this stage there shall also be prepared a field-index or khasra arranged according to the serial numbers of the fields in the village. This field-index shall not form part of the draft record. Disputes regarding the ownership of land, or the ownership of any interest in land, shall be decided by a Revenue-officer or a kanungo in a summary manner and on the basis of actual possession.

55. Local Explanation.—When the areas of the fields have been extracted and entered in the preliminary record, a copy of each khatian shall be made over by a Revenue-officer or a kanungo to the person or body of joint persons in whose names the khatian has been opened, or to their representatives. Each khatian shall then be examined on the ground, with reference to the village map, by a Revenue-officer or a kanungo, and shall be explained to the person or persons concerned, or their representatives, if present. The Revenue-officer or kanungo shall make such corrections as are necessary in the map, in the draft record, and in the copies of the khatians which have been distributed, if they can be produced for this purpose. At this stage entries of the rent which is payable according to the statement of the landlord and according to the statement of the tenant shall be made in the draft khatians of the tenants and such copies as are produced; but the other particulars which were omitted at the stage of preliminary record-writing shall be deferred until the stage of attestation.

56. Attestation.—This stage of the operations shall be taken up after the landlords and tenants have been allowed a sufficient interval to study their copies of the khatians. The attestation of each village shall be taken up at a convenient place in or near the village. Before attestation begins, a proclamation shall be published in the village giving due notice to the landlords and tenants and calling on them to appear before the Revenue-officer on the date fixed, bringing with them their copies of the khatians, read out all the important entries, make corrections where required, the ownership of land, or the ownership of any interest in land, shall be decided by the Revenue-officer in a summary manner and on the basis of actual possession. In the khatian of each proprietor or group of proprietors he shall enter with his own hand the revenue payable to Government. In the khatian of each tenant or group of tenants shall enter with his own hand the class to which the tenant or group of tenants belongs, the special conditions and incidents (if any) of the tenancy and the rent lawfully payable or deliverable to each landlord or group of landlords. In the khatian of each cultivating raiyat as defined in the Cess Act, the Revenue-officer shall, and in the khatian of each tenure-holder as defined therein, the Revenue-officer shall, as far as possible, record the cess lawfully payable to each landlord or group of landlords. The Revenue-officer shall sign and date the office copy of the khatian, and if the copy of the khatian, which, was given to the person or persons concerned, is produced, the Revenue-officer shall see that it corresponds with the office copy as attested. When the Revenue-officer has completed the attestation of all the khatians of a village, he shall draw up a formal proceeding to this effect.

Ben. Act IX
of 1880.

57. Publication of the Draft Record.—The Revenue-officer shall publish the draft record-of-rights by placing it for public inspection, free of charge, during a period of not less than one month; at such convenient place as he may determine. A proclamation shall previously be published in each village informing the landlords and tenants of the place at which the draft record of that village will be open to public inspection, the period during which it will be open to such inspection, and the last date on which objections may be filed. Notwithstanding anything contained in the proclamation, the Revenue-officer may extend the period which the draft record will be open to inspection and during which objections may be filed.

58. Objections under Section 103A.—(1) Blank forms of objection shall be supplied free of charge and objections shall, as far as practicable, be made on such forms. Along with the original objection, the objector shall file a copy or copies for service on all other persons who, in the opinion of the Revenue-officer, are materially interested in the case. The Revenue-officer shall issue notices informing the objector and all other persons so interested of the date and place fixed for the hearing of the objection, and with each notice to a person other than the objector he shall forward a copy of the objection. Objections regarding the ownership of land, or the ownership of any interest in land, shall be decided by the Revenue-officer on the basis of actual possession. The record shall contain the names of the witnesses examined, and an abstract of the reasons for the decision. When a Revenue-officer directs that a change shall be made in the rent recorded as payable by any tenant he shall direct that a corresponding change shall be made in the cess, if any, recorded as payable by such tenant. Objections shall not be disposed of in the absence of any of the parties materially interested, or their representatives, unless the Revenue-officer be satisfied, for reasons to be recorded in writing, that the notice was duly served on the person concerned.

(2) Whenever the Revenue-officer has been unable, before the publication of the draft record, to enter the cess payable by all or any of the tenure-holders in any local area, and whenever, owing to a revaluation duly made after the publication of the draft record, there have been changes in the cess lawfully payable by all or any of the tenure-holders in such local area, the Collector may, at any time before the final publication of the record, make an objection to the omissions or entries in question, and the Revenue-officer shall thereupon proceed, notwithstanding anything contained in sub-rule (1) of this rule, to consider the objection, and, if necessary, to make in the draft record of such local area entries or revised entries of the cess which is then lawfully payable by each tenure-holder concerned :

Provided that no such entry or revised entry shall be made unless the tenure-holder has been previously informed of the proposed entry and has been given an opportunity of objecting thereto.

59. Preparation of a settlement rent-roll.—Where land revenue is being, or is about to be, settled, the Revenue-officer shall prepare a rent-roll for each village, in accordance with the following procedure :—

- (i) Before preparing the rent-roll the Revenue-officer shall issue a proclamation informing the landlords and tenants of the time and place at which the preparation of the rent-roll will begin. If any tenant be absent, the Revenue-officer shall make no entry in the rent-roll which would have the effect of altering the rent of that tenant until a special notice has been duly served on that tenant.
- (ii) When the Revenue-officer is preparing the settlement rent-roll on the basis of a table of rates, he shall consult the landlord and tenants of the village regarding their own classification of the lands therein and regarding the relative capability of each class of land, according to the classification. When specifying in the table of rates the rate of rent which is fairly and equitably payable in respect of each class of land, the Revenue-officer shall specify and have regard to the rate of rent which is now being paid in respect of each class of land, and shall also have regard to the statements of the landlords and tenants as to the classification and relative capability of lands. Before settling any rent upon the application of the table of rates, the Revenue-officer shall consider the circumstances of the tenant and shall compare the total rent which he is now paying with the rent which he would pay according to the table of rates. He shall also consider whether the land held by the tenant is good or bad land of its class.
- (iii) When determining the final entries to be made in the rent-roll, the Revenue-officer shall read out, or cause to be read out in his presence, the principal entries relating to the holding and rent of each tenant whose rent is to be settled, and shall enter in the rent-roll with his own hand the fair rent settled for each such tenant.
- (iv) The Revenue-officer shall enter in the rent-roll the cess which is payable by each tenant to his landlord after the determination of the fair rent.
- (v) The publication of the draft table of rates, if any, and of the draft settlement rent-roll shall be carried out in the manner and for the period prescribed in the case of the publication of the draft record-of-rights.
- (vi) Objections under section 104B (3) or under section 104E of the Act shall ordinarily be disposed of by Revenue-officer, in or near the village in which the land is situated. The Revenue-officer shall record his reasons for each order on an objection. Appeals will lie against these orders to the superior Revenue authority mentioned in rule 48.

60. Preparation of the Final Record.—When all objections under section 103A of the Act have been disposed of, and when the settlement rent-roll, if any, has been prepared, sanctioned and incorporated with the record, and when the draft record has been corrected in accordance with the original and appellate orders on all objections, the Revenue-officer shall proceed to frame the final record. The final record shall be prepared in conformity with the draft record corrected as above, and shall consist of a series of khatians prepared on forms which are generally similar to the forms used for the khatians of the draft record. The khasra shall not form part of the final record. The final record shall be printed or prepared in manuscript, according as the Local Government may, by general or special order, determine.

61. Publication of the Final Record.—The Revenue-officer shall publish the final record-of-rights by placing it for public inspection free of charge, during a period of not less than one month, at such convenient place as he may determine. A proclamation shall previously be published in each village, informing the landlords and tenants of the place at which the final record of that village will be open to public inspection and the period during which it will be open to such inspection.

62. Distribution of printed maps and of copies of the Final Record.—The maps which have been prepared under rule 52 (1) may be printed under the authority of the Local Government, and may be distributed to public officers, to landlords and tenants and to others, in such manner as the Local Government may, from time to time, by general or special order, direct. Copies of the final record-of-rights, or of portions thereof, shall be printed or prepared in manuscript and shall, after certification under section 76 of the Indian Evidence Act, be distributed to public officers, to landlords and tenants and to others, in such manner as the Local Government may, from time to time, by general or special order, direct. The printed maps and the copies of the record or of portions thereof, which are distributed under this rule to persons other than public officers shall be distributed free or on payment, according as, in the case of each local area, the Local Government may direct. When payment is required the sums so received shall ordinarily be adjusted against the expenses incurred on account of survey and settlement, should the account of those expenses still be open. PART III.

PROCEDURE AFTER FINAL PUBLICATION.

Settlement of fair rent under Sections 105 and 105A.

63. (1) When the landlord or tenant applies for the settlement of a fair rent, he shall be considered as plaintiff and the opposite party as defendant. The proceedings shall be dealt with as suits and, subject to the directions contained in this rule, the Revenue-officer shall adopt, as far as it is applicable, the procedure laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure for the trial of suits.

(2) When the estate or tenure is managed by the Court of Wards or by a manager appointed by the District Judge under section 95 of the Act and a settlement of revenue is not being or is not about to be made, the procedure laid down in this rule for recording and settling rents shall be followed, the manager of the estate or the tenure being regarding as the landlord.

(3) When a landlord or tenant applies for the settlement of fair rent notice shall be served on every person interested in the application, together with a copy of the application, or extract therefrom, or summary thereof, so far as the application concerns such persons.

(4) With the consent of the Revenue-officer, any number of tenants occupying land under the same landlord in the same village may make a joint application for the settlement of rent, or may be joined as defendants in the same proceedings on a similar application by the landlord:

Provided that, if at any time it appears to the Revenue-officer that the question between any two of the parties, of whom one is so joined with others, cannot conveniently be so jointly tried, he may order a separate trial to be held of that question, or he may pass such order, in accordance with the Code of Civil Procedure, for the joint or separate disposal of the application, as he may think fit.

(5) On the date fixed for the settlement of fair rents, or any subsequent date to which the proceedings may be adjourned, the Revenue-officer shall read aloud, or cause to be read aloud in his presence, the name of each tenant whose rent has to be settled, the area of his tenancy, and the existing rent, and shall then proceed to settle a fair rent under the provisions of section 105 of the Act.

(6) When a landlord or tenant does not attend, after due service of notice has been proved, the procedure may be ex parte.

(7) Where a landlord or a tenant appears and the fair rent is not settled under sub-section (5) or sub-section (6) of section 105 of the Act, that is, by the acceptance by the parties of a rent proposed by the Revenue-officer, or by compromise, the Revenue-officer shall record evidence in the manner prescribed in clause (f) of section 148 of the Act for the trial of rent suits, and shall settle a fair and equitable rent according to law :

Provided that in important cases the Revenue-officer may, in his discretion, record evidence at length.

(8) When a fair rent has been settled under these rules, it shall be entered in the khatian as the rent payable in respect of the tenancy from the date prescribed by section 110 of the Act.

(9) It shall not be necessary for a Revenue-officer to draw up a separate decree with regard to the fair rent settled; but the entry made in his decision or schedule attached thereto with regard to the fair rent settled shall be held to be a decree.

(10) A proceeding under section 105A of the Act shall be considered as part of the proceeding under section 105 in which the issue arose, and the record of a proceeding under section 105A shall be considered as part of the record of the proceeding under section 105. In trying and deciding issues under section 105A, the Revenue-officer shall record evidence in the manner prescribed in sub-rule (7) of this rule.

64. Suits under section 106.—Proceedings under section 106 of the Act shall be dealt with in all respects as suits between the parties.

64A. Notwithstanding anything contained in these rules, the procedure prescribed in cl. (ff) of, s. 148 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, as being applicable to suits for the recovery of rent, shall be applicable mutatis mutandis to proceedings, under section 105, 105A or 106 of that Act.*

*Rule 64A has been inserted by Notification No. 1549 L. R., the 12th February, 1918, Calcutta Gazette; Part I, February 13, 1918, p. 257.

65. The rules issued by the Local Government under Order XXVI, rule 9, of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908, shall not apply to proceedings in the Court of a Revenue-officer under section 105, 105A or 106 of the Act.

66. Application under section 108A of the Act for the correction of bona fide mistakes must be dealt with by a Revenue-officer specially empowered by the Local Government. If they are presented to a Revenue-officer not specially empowered under that section, he shall receive them and forward them with his report to the Revenue-officer so empowered. The Court-fee payable on every such application is twelve annas.

NOTES.—By notification No. 628 T. R., dated the 28th October, 1922, and published in the Calcutta Gazette, Part I p. 1995, in the last sentence of the above rule the word "twelve" was substituted for "eight."

Rules under Order XXVI rule 9, of the Civil Procedure Code not to apply to proceedings under section 105, 105A or 106 of the Bengal Tenancy Act.

* Applications under section 108A, by whom to be dealt with.

S. 54 (2) : Rules for the payment of rent by means of postal money order :—

Resolution, dated the 19th March, 1891, (published in the Calcutta Gazette of 1891, Part I, p. 287).

PAYMENT OF RENT BY MEANS OF POSTAL MONEY ORDERS.

READ—

Letter from the Board of Revenue, No. 110 A, dated the 18th February, 1891, recommending the extension of the system of payment of rents by postal money orders.

READ AGAIN—

Government Notification of the 16th October, 1886, promulgating rules for the payment of revenue not exceeding Rs. 50 a year in amount by means of postal money orders in the Burdwan and Dacca Divisions.

Government Notification of the 2nd April, 1887, extending the above rules to all the districts in the Lower Provinces.

Government Resolution of the 20th March, 1888, further extending the above rules to all demands on account of land-revenue, of whatever amount, and also to zemindari and other cesses.

Government Resolution, dated 19th July 1889, introducing experimentally the system in the Burdwan Division of payment of rent by means of postal money order.

Government Resolution, dated the 18th May, 1890, extending the above system, to the • Burdwan, Rajshahi, Presidency and Dacca Divisions.

In the Government Resolution of the 8th May, 1890, it was described how the system of payment of revenue by money order was originally introduced in 1816, as an experimental measure in certain selected districts, and having proved successful was made general throughout those parts of Bengal where the Tenancy Act was in force with effect from the 1st May, 1887. In July 1889 the system was extended to the payment of rent, also as an experimental measure and in the division of Burdwan only, and in April 1890 the Board of Revenue recommended that the privilege of payment of rent by money order should be extended generally. The Lieutenant Governor did not, however, at that time consider it expedient to adopt throughout Bengal a system which might have important consequences, and which had so far been only tried in a single division. It was accordingly ordered that with effect from the 1st July, 1890, rent might be paid by money-order in the Rajshahi, Presidency and Dacca Divisions in addition to that of Burdwan. The Board have now submitted a report which shows that the result of the experiment in those divisions has been very satisfactory, and recommend that the system be extended to all districts of Bengal in which Act VIII of 1885 is in force; and the Postmaster-General considers that the extension is fully justified by the results considered from a postal point of view. The Lieutenant-Governor is accordingly pleased to direct, under section 54 (2) of the Bengal Tenancy Act, VIII of 1885, that from the 1st of July, 1891, payment of rent by means of postal money order will be authorized in all the districts of Bengal in which the Bengal Tenancy Act is in force.

ORDER—Ordered that this Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

Bihar and Orissa Gazette, 13th April, 1925, Part II, Page 583.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE REMITTER'S GUIDANCE.

1. The amount of a Rent money-order may include rupees, annas and pies, but not a fraction of a pie.

2. There must be a separate money-order for each tenancy. Rent for two tenancies may not be sent by one money-order.

3. In the absence of special instructions from the landlord, the remitter should make the money-order payable at the place at which rent has previously been paid, and to the landlord himself or his agent, according as rent has previously been paid to the land-lord or an agent.

4. It is optional for the remitter to specify the kist to which he wishes the rent paid to be credited. Under section 55 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, if he declares the year, or the year and the instalment, to which he wishes the payment to be credited, the payment shall be credited to the account of such year and instalment as the landlords thinks fit.

5. Post-masters will refuse any rent money-order which contains any entry for which the form does not provide. They will, when requested to do so, help the remitter to make the requisite entries, and, if necessary, will make the entries for him. No fee or any gratification for this service may be demanded or accepted either directly by any officials of the Post Office.

6. The limit of amount of a Rent money-order and the rates of commission are the same as for ordinary money-orders.

CHAPTER XIII A OF THE ACT AS IT STOOD BEFORE THE PASSING OF ACT III (B.C. OF 1913 (BENGAL PUBLIC DEMANDS RECOVERY ACT).

Chapter X as it stood before the passing of Act III (B.C.) of 1898.

Record-of-Rights and Settlement of Rights.

Chapter X, as it stood before the passing of Bengal Act III of 1898, was as follows :—

101. (1) The Local Government may, in any case with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, and may, if it thinks fit, without such sanction in any of the cases next hereafter mentioned, make an order directing that a survey be made, and a record-of rights be prepared, in respect of the lands in a local area by a Revenue-officer.

(2) The cases in which an order may be made under this section without the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council are the following (namely) :—

- (a) Where the landlord or a large proportion of the landlords or of the tenants applies for such an order and deposits, or gives security for, such amount, for the payment of expenses, as the Local Government directs ;
- (b) Where the preparation of such a record is calculated to settle or avert a serious dispute existing or likely to arise between the tenants and their landlords generally ;
- (c) Where the local area is comprised in an estate or tenure which belongs to or is managed by the Government or the Court of Wards ; and
- (d) Where a settlement or revenue is being made in respect of the local area.

(3) A notification in the official Gazette of an order under this section shall be conclusive evidence that the order has been duly made.

102. Where an order is made under the last foregoing section the particulars to be recorded shall be specified in the order, and may include either without or in addition to other particulars, some or all of the following, namely :—

- (a) the name of each tenant ;
- (b) the class of which he belongs, that is to say, whether he is a tenure-holder raiyat holding at fixed rate, occupancy-raiyat, non-occupancy-raiyat or under raiyat, and if he is a tenure-holder, whether he is a permanent tenure-holder or not, and whether his rent is liable to enhancement during the continuance of his tenure ;
- (c) the situation, quantity and boundaries of the land held by him ;
- (d) the name of his landlord ;
- (e) the rent payable ;
- (f) the mode in which that rent has been fixed, whether by contract, by order of a Court, or otherwise ;
- (g) if the rent is a gradually increasing rent, the time at which, and the steps by which it increases ;
- (h) the special conditions and incidents, if any, of the tenancy ;

103. On the application of a proprietor or tenure-holder, and on his depositing or giving security for the required amount for expenses, a Revenue-officer may, subject to and in accordance with rules made in this behalf by the Local Government, ascertain and record the particulars specified in the last foregoing section with respect to the estate or tenure or any part thereof.

104. (1) When in any proceeding under this chapter, it does not appear that the tenant is holding land in excess of or less than that for which he is paying rent, and neither the landlord nor the tenant applies for a settlement of rent, the officer shall record the rent payable by the tenant, and the land in respect of which the rent is payable.

(2) When it appears that a tenant is holding land in excess of, or less than, that for which he is paying rent, or either the landlord or the tenant applies for a settlement of rent, or in any case under section 101, sub-section (2), clause (d), the officer shall settle a fair and equitable rent in respect of the land held by the tenant.

(3) In settling rents under this section, the officer shall presume, until the contrary is proved, that the existing rent is fair and equitable, and shall have regard to the rules laid down in this Act for the guidance of the Civil Court in increasing or reducing rents, as the case may be.

105. (1) When the Revenue-officer has completed a record made under this Chapter, he shall cause draft thereof to be locally published in the prescribed manner and for the prescribed period, and shall receive and consider any objection which may be made to any entry therein during the period of publication.

(2) After the expiration of this period the Revenue-officer shall finally frame the record, and shall cause it to be locally published in the prescribed manner and the publication shall be conclusive evidence that the record has been duly made under this chapter.

106. If at any time before the final publication of the record under the last foregoing section a dispute arises as to the correctness of any entry not being (an entry of a rent settled under this chapter), or as to the propriety of any omission, which the Revenue-officer proposes to make or has made therein or therefrom, the Revenue-officer shall hear and decide the dispute.

107. In all proceedings for the settlement of rents under this chapter, and in all proceedings under the last foregoing section, the Revenue officer shall subject to rules made by the Local Government under this Act, adopt the procedure laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure for trial of suits and his decision in every such proceeding shall have the force of a decree.

108. (1) The Local Government shall appoint one or more persons to be a Special Judge or Special Judges for the purpose of hearing appeals from the decisions of Revenue-officers under this chapter. •

(2) An appeal shall lie to the Special Judge from the decision of a Revenue-officer under this chapter, and the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to appeals shall, as nearly as may be, apply to all such appeals.

(3) Subject to the provisions of Chapter XLII of the Code of Civil Procedure, an appeal shall lie to the High Court from the decision of a Special Judge in any case under section 106 as if he were a Court subordinate to the High Court within the meaning of the first section of that chapter :

Provided that, if in a second appeal the High Court alters the decision of the Special Judge in respect of any of the particulars with reference to which the rent of any tenure or holding has been settled, the Court may settle a new rent for the tenure or holding, but in so doing shall be guided by the rents of the other tenures or holdings of the same class comprised in the same record as ascertained or settled under section 104.

109. (1) Every record made under this chapter shall distinguish between the disputed and the undisputed entries therein.

(2) Every undisputed entry to the record shall be presumed to be correct until the contrary is proved.

110. When any rent is settled under this chapter the settlement shall take effect from the beginning of the agricultural year next-after the final publication of the record.

111. When an order has been made under section 101 :—

(a) a Civil Court shall not, until the final publication of the record, entertain a suit or application for the alteration of the rent or the determination of the status of any tenant in the area to which the order applies ; and

(b) the High Court may, if it thinks fit, transfer to the Revenue-officer any proceedings pending in a Civil Court for the alteration of any such rent or for the determination of any of the matters specified or referred to in section 102.

112. (1) The Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, may, on being satisfied that the exercise of the powers hereinafter mentioned is necessary in the interests of public order or of the local welfare invest a Revenue-officer acting under this chapter with the following powers or either of them, namely :—

(a) power to settle all rents ;

(b) power, when settling rents, to reduce rents if in the opinion of the officer the maintenance of existing rents would on any ground, whether specified in this Act or not, be unfair or inequitable.

(2) The powers given under this section may be made exercisable within a specified area either generally or with reference to specified cases or classes of cases.

(3) When the Local Government take action under this section, the settlement record prepared by the Revenue-officer shall not take effect until it has been finally confirmed by the Governor-General in Council.

113. When the rent of tenure or holding is settled under this chapter, it shall not except on the ground of a landlord's improvement or of a subsequent alteration in the area of the tenure or holding, be enhanced, in the case of a tenure or an occupancy holding for fifteen years and, in the case of a non-occupancy-holding, if the rent is settled in any case under section 112 or on the application of the landlord under section 111, for five years. The periods of fifteen and five years shall be counted from the date of the final publication of the record.

114. Where an order is made under this chapter in any case except under section 101, sub-section (2), clause (d), the expenses incurred by the Government in carrying out the provisions of this chapter in any local area, or such part of those expenses as the Local Government may direct, shall be defrayed by the landlords and tenants of land in that local area, in such proportions as the Local Government, having regard to all the circumstances of each case, may determine ; and proportion of those expenses so to be defrayed by any person shall be recoverable by the Government from him as if it were an arrear of revenue due by him.

115. When the particulars mentioned in section 102, clause (b), have been recorded under this chapter in respect of any tenancy, the presumption under section 50 shall not thereafter apply to that tenancy.

So, while the section requires the application to be made to the Collector within one year from the date of the service of the notice. Where the notice is not properly served, the applicant has the right to ask the Collector for fresh service of the notice. The law does not say that only one attempt should be made for the service of the notice. Sub-sec. Be pleased to cause the notice to be served on A. B., resident of—. The notice is herewith filed.

* The words in italics are not necessary when the application under s. 167 is made within one year from the sale. S. 167 speaks of the application to be made to the Collector within one year from the date of sale. So, the date of the confirmation of sale need not be mentioned when the application to the Collector is made within one year from the date of actual sale. As to the meaning of the words “ date of sale ” there is a conflict of decisions. According to one decision the words “ date of sale ” mean the date of confirmation of sale, Banko Behary v. Krishna Chandra, 18 C.L.J. 170, s. c., 18 C.W.N. 349 ; according to another decision, the words “ date of sale ” mean the actual date of sale : (Yusuf Gazi v. Asmat Mulla, 17 C.W.N., 440, s. c., 16 C.L.J. 131).

† These words in italics are not necessary when the sale was held within a year of the notice.

5. 1.—(a) Section 105.—A fee of 8 annas must be paid for each tenancy concerned in the application.

(b) Section 106.

(i) Suits filed under section 106 of the Bengal Tenancy Act are of a declaratory nature where no consequential relief is asked for (15 C.W.N. 110). The court-fees payable on plaints in such cases is Rs. 10 under Article 17, clause (iii) of Schedule II of the Court-fees Act. This has been reduced (vide) Government of India Notification No. 189F., dated the 24th March, 1911, and 311F., dated the 22nd May, 1911, to the amount of an ad valorem fee chargeable under Article I of Schedule I of the Act in cases where such amount would be less than Rs. 10. It follows, therefore, that when possible, an ad valorem fee should be charged.

The principles according to which such valuation should be made are laid down in Government Order No. 778—T.R., dated the 22nd September, 1914 [Appendix D (3)], and the Settlement Officer of each district should fix a multiple or scale for valuing different kinds of claims with reference to the circumstances of his district or any particular part of it.

(ii) In a suit to establish or disprove a right of occupancy the Court-fee is 8 annas—[vide Schedule II (5) of the Court-fees Act].

NOTIFICATION.

No. 3119F., dated the 22nd May, 1911.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 35 of the Court Fees Act, 1870 (VII of 1870), the Governor-General in Council is pleased to reduce the fees chargeable under clause (iii) of Article 17 of Schedule II of the said Act on plaints relating to suit instituted in Eastern Bengal and Assam under section 106 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885 (VIII of 1885), to the amount of an ad valorem fee chargeable under Article 1 of Schedule I of the Act, in cases where the amount of such fee would be less than ten rupees.

This Notification has been modified as follows by Notification No. 3789 L.R.—The 3rd April, 1922, published in the Calcutta Gazette, April 5th, 1922.

Calcutta Gazette : April 5, 1922, Part I, p. 689. Notification No. 3789 L.R.—The 3rd April, 1922.—In exercise of the power conferred by S. 35 of the Court Fees Act, 1870 (VII of 1870), as amended by the Devolution Act, 1920 (XXXVIII of 1920), and in modification of the Government of India's Notification Nos. 1897 F., dated the 24th March, 1911, published at p. 222, Part I of the Gazette of India of the 25th idem and No. 3119 F., dated the 22nd May, 1911, published at p. 366, Part I of the Gazette of India of the 27th idem, the Governor in Council is pleased to reduce the fees chargeable under clause (iii) of Art. 17 of Sch. II of the Court Fees Act, 1870 (VII of 1870), as amended by the Bengal Court Fees Amendment Act, 1922, on plaint relating to suits instituted under S. 106 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885 (VIII of 1885), to the amount of an ad valorem fee chargeable under Art. I of Sch. I of the Act in cases where the amount of such fee would be less than twenty rupees.

Mode of Valuation.

Appendix D (3) of Bengal Technical Rules of the Settlement Department, 1916, p. 119.

Extract from letter No. 778 T.—R., dated Darjeeling, the 2nd September, 1914, from the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department, to the Director of Land Records, Bengal.

3. The Governor in Council is, however, of opinion that it is not practicable to lay down a general scale of fees applicable to the whole Province. Thus in the case of a suit regarding a mukarrari claim, the valuation must be based primarily on the salami payable for the conversion of an ordinary tenancy into a mukarrari tenancy. Similarly in the case of a dispute regarding the transferability of a holding, the logical basis of the valuation is the salami which the landlord would be able to obtain if the holding were not transferable without his consent. In both cases, the valuation may conveniently be expressed in terms of a multiple of the rent, but the multiple must be based on the rates of salami prevalent in the districts concerned. These rates vary in different localities, and it would not be fair to fix an arbitrary multiple of 15 times or 5 times the rent for the whole Province. The Settlement Officer should accordingly fix a multiple for each district, and in selecting a multiple should have regard—

(a) in the case of mukarrari claims to the sums usually paid as salami when variable rents are converted into invariable, and

(b) in the case of transferability claims, to the rate of sale salami which prevails in the district.

4. As regards rent-free claims a more logical basis would be the difference in the sale price of rent-paying and rent-free lands in the district. The Settlement Officer should fix a valuation rate, not exceeding Rs. 100 per acre, for cases of this kind. In fixing the rate he should have regard to the difference in the sale price of rent-paying and rent-free land in the district, e.g., if rent paying land sells at Rs. 180 per acre, while rent-free land sells at 250 per acre, the Settlement Officer should take Rs. 70 as his standard. A rent free claim for $1\frac{1}{2}$ acres would then be valued at Rs. 70—35—105. If the Settlement Officer thinks fit he may fix one figure for tenures and another for holdings, both to apply throughout the district.

Court fees on petitions.

Bengal Technical Rules of the Settlement Department, 1916, Chapter XVIII, page 102.

II.—The Court-fees on petitions, etc., other than plaints filed in connection with cases under section 105, 106 and 108A are as follows :—

(a) Sections 105 and 108 and 108A.—Eight annas.

(N.B.—This includes the first application under section 108 or section 108A).

(b) Section 106.—(1) One anna if the suit be valued under Rs. 50. (2) Eight annas if the suit be valued at Rs. 50 or more or cannot be valued.

Affidavits.

Bengal Technical Rules of the Settlement Department, 1916, Chapter XVIII, page 102.

III.—Affidavits filed by a party require a Court-fee of Re. 1 only, vide, Rule 9, Chapter VI, page 153, of the High Court Rules (Civil) Volume I. Affidavits would ordinarily be required when a plaintiff intends to substitute the heirs or successors of a deceased defendant or to add the guardian of a minor defendant.

Process fees.

Bengal Technical Rules of the Settlement Department, 1916, Chapter XVIII, page 102.

6. The following scale of fees will be applied. A copy of the rules regarding process-fees should be hung up in the Court in English and Bengali under section 21 of the Court Fees Act :—

No. of persons to be summoned.	VALUE OF SUIT.
	Up to Rs. 50	Over Rs. 50 but not over Rs. 1,000.	Over Rs. 1,000.
1	0 8	1 0	2 0
2	0 8	1 0	2 0
3	0 8	1 0	2 0
4	0 8	1 0	2 0
5	0 12	1 4	2 8
6	1 0	1 8	3 0
7	1 4	1 12	3 8
8	1 8	2 0	4 0
9	1 12	2 4	4 8
10	2 0	2 8	5 0

and so on; 4 annas for each extra person to be summoned in suits valued at less than Rs. 1,000; 8 annas in suits above Rs. 1,000.

It will be sufficient in all section 105 cases to issue processes on the lowest scale, namely, 8 annas for the first four persons and 4 annas for each additional person.

Process fees.

Survey and Settlement Manual, 1917, Chapter VI, Page 34, Rule 111.

111. The scale of process-fees charged under the Bengal Tenancy Act is given in Rule 67 of the Government Rules under the Bengal Tenancy Act. In all proceedings for the settlement of rents under Part III, Chapter X, and in all proceedings under section 106 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, the fees on processes are subject to the rules framed by the High Court under section 20 of the Court-fees Act VII (B.C.) of 1870. The scale of process-fees in these cases is given in the Case-work Rules.

APPENDIX—XI.

Notes on Miscellaneous matters.

I

Relationship of landlord and tenant.

1. Tenancy by occupation :—Tenancy in this country is created not only by contract, but also by occupation of land, so far as agricultural lands are concerned, Azim Sardar v. Ram Lal, 25 Cal. 324 at p. 327. The embodiment of this principle of law, in s. 157 of the Bengal Tenancy Act does not, however, mean that every case where a tenancy is created by mere occupation must come under that section and that all other legal remedies are shut off from the landlord : Kali Prasanna v. Bhagaban, 17 C.L.J. 431, "Here it is a very usual thing for a man to squat on a piece of land. Tenancy in great many districts in Bengal commences in this way, and where it so commences it is presumed that the cultivator cultivates by the permission of the landlord and is under obligation to his landlord to pay him a fair rent, when the latter may choose to demand it. Thus the established usage of the country regards these parties as landlord and tenant, and unless the landlord chooses thus to treat him, the cultivator is not regarded : as he would be by the law as administered in England, as a trespasser, but as a tenant, and he would be so although he may never have expressly acknowledged the landlord's right, or entered into express contract with him for the payment of rent. If he chooses to cultivate the zemindar's land, and the zemindar lets him, there is an implied contract between them creating a relationship of landlord and tenant," Nityanand v. Kissen, W.R., Act X, Rulings 82.

When therefore a landlord waives the dispossession and is willing to consider the trespasser as his tenant a decree for rent or compensation may be given for use and occupation, Lala Monee v. Sona Monee, 22 W.R. 334 ; Lakshi Kanta v. Sumeeruddi, 21 W.R. 208, s. c., 13 B.L.R. 243 ; Surnamoyee v. Dinanath, 9 Cal. 608. A right to claim rent may arise under s. 157 upon the establishment of plaintiff's right to a land notwithstanding that his previous suit for rent was dismissed : Dwarkanath v. Ram Chand, 3 C.W.N. 266.* The rule that in order that the relationship of landlord and tenant may be established between parties, the consent of both sides is essential may be the law in England, but it is not the law in this country :—Kali Prasanna v. Bhagaban Mali, 17 C.L.J. 431.

2. Acquisition of right under a trespasser :—When a person acquires a right to hold land bona fide from one whom he bona fide believes to have the right to let him into possession of the land, he is a raiyat, although the person under whom he holds may be a trespasser, Binod Lal Pakrasi v. Kalu Pramanik, 20 Cal. 701 (F.B.). In delivering the judgment of this case Petheram, C. J., whose judgment was concurred in by the members of the Full Bench, observed as follows :—"The possession of the land in question for the purpose of cultivating it was acquired a good many years ago by the defendant from the persons who at that time were in actual possession of the zemindari within which it was situated ; and who were the only persons who could give possession of the zemindari to cultivators. It is not suggested that the defendants did not then obtain possession as tenants under the bona fide belief of the title of their landlords but since then it has been ascertained by a judgment of a Court of Law that the zemindari did not belong to these persons, but to the plaintiffs, and the question is whether, now that the plaintiffs have established their right to the zemindari, they can treat all cultivators who have been settled on the lands by the persons whom they have ousted from its possession as trespassers, and obtain khas possession of all the raiyati lauds from them at any moment without any compensation even for the crops on the land."

This case was discussed and distinguished in the cases of Peary Mohun v. Radhika Mohun, 8 C.W.N. 315 and Upendra Narain v. Pratap Chandra, 8 C.W.N. 320. See also the cases of Pandab v. Annand, 14 C.W.N. 897 and Kali Prasanna v. Bhagawan, 17 C.L.J. 431.

The principle of the Full Bench decision in Binod Lal Pakrasi v. Kalu Pramanik, (20 Cal. 708) is applicable to a case where tenants are settled upon land by a person in defacto possession as landlord is afterwards found to have no title. It is inapplicable to a case when such a landlord is not in actual possession of the land at the time of settlement made with the tenant : Mohes Chandra v. Hemendra Nath, 46 C.L.J. 575. (The case of Tepu Muhamamad v. Tefayet Muhammad, 19 C.W.N. 722 followed).

3. Where plaintiff sues as an adopted son :—In a suit for rent where plaintiff sued as the adopted son of the deceased landlord, and defendant denied the relationship of landlord and tenant, held that as plaintiff's adoption had been declared by a competent Court, the mere fact of an appeal to the Privy Council did not alter his position as the successor to the right of the person who was the landlord : Huronath v. Goluknath, 9 W.R. 18.

4. Attornment when not necessary :—Where the defendant got a lease from the lessor of the plaintiff in 1850 and the plaintiff got his lease in 1860, and the lease granted to the plaintiff distinctly gave him the right of collecting rents from the defendant in accordance with the terms of the lease granted to him (the defendant) in 1850, held that in a case of this sort no attornment was necessary : Sree Chand v. Budhoo Sing, 13 W.R. 501.

5.—Contract :—Where two parties bind themselves under an indenture drawn up in the English form, the one to lease certain lands and the other to pay rent for the same, held that the contract is complete, and a suit for arrears of rent due under that contract will lie : Kishen Das v. Hurry Jeeban, 10 W.R. 324.

6. Relationship of landlord and tenant :—Where a landlord A creates a tenancy in favour of B and C jointly, whether each is liable for the entire rent must depend upon the intention of the parties : Kashikinker v. Satyendra, 12 C.L.J. 642.

II

Right of Pre-emption.

In a lease it was provided as follows :—“ Let it be known that if you find it necessary to transfer the nim howla tenure, you will transfer it to me for proper price. You will not be at liberty to transfer it to any person other than myself. If you transfer it to any other person, such transfer will not be valid,” held in a suit by an auction purchaser of the nim-howla in an execution sale that there being no covenant for re-entry, the plaintiff acquired a good title by purchase : Pramode Ranjan v. Aswini Kumar, 18 C.W.N. 1138.

III

Eviction by title paramount.

Eviction by title paramount would be a good defence to a suit for rent, but to constitute a good defence three conditions must be fulfilled :—

First, the eviction must be from something actually forming part of the premises demised.

Secondly, the party evicting must have a good title, and Thirdly, the tenant must have quitted against his will.

Noorijan v. Bimala Sundari, 18 C.W.N. 552. The doctrine of quasi eviction should apply in this country, but it does not apply to a case when the tenant is induced to attorn to the superior landlord by an offer to accept a reduced rent : Ibid. See also Surendra v. Dinanath, 43 Cal. 554 ; Jitendra v. Ashutosh, 27 C.W.N. 381.

IV

Recitals of boundaries in documents not interpartes :

Recitals of boundaries of other lands in documents between third parties are not admissible in evidence either as regards the question of the boundary or as to the nature of the land : Pramathanath v. Krishna Chandra, 28 C.W.N. 1092. (The case of Sarojkumar v. Umedali, 25 C.W.N. 1022, s. c., 35 C.L.J. 19 was followed. The case of Abdullah v. Kunj Behari Lal, 16 C.W.N. 252, s. c. 14 C.L.J. 467 was dissented from. See also Braja Mohun v. Gayaprasad, 30 C.W.N. 761, s. c., 45 C.L.J. 55. (Suhrawardy & Graham, J.J.).

This decision followed Saroj v. Umedali, 25 C.W.N. 1022, s. c., 35 C.L.J. 19 and Pramatha v. Krishna, 30 C.W.N. 1092. The cases of Abdulla v. Kunja Behari, 16 C.W.N. 252, s. c., 14 C.L.J. 467 and Imrit v. Sridhari, 17 C.W.N. 108, s. c. 15 C.L.J. 7 were dissented from.

The case of Brajamohun v. Gayaprasad, 30 C.W.N. 761, s. c., 45 C.L.J. 55 was followed in the case Kumuda Kumar v. Dilsook Roy, 45 C.L.J. 138 (Duval and Mitter, J.J.), where it was held that the inadmissibility of documents depends upon the general principle that if a party is not bound by the recital in an instrument to which he was no party the document will not be allowed to affect his rights in any way. Recitals of boundaries other than those in suit, contained in document between third parties is inadmissible in evidence whether the executant of the document is dead or alive: Ibid. See also Promotha v. Krishna, 28 C.W.N. 1092. For a contrary view see Sheikh Ketabuddi v. Nafar Chandra, 44 C.L.J. 582 (B. B. Ghose & Panton, J.J.). Where an executant of a document containing recitals of boundaries of other lands is called as a witness and he gives his evidence and in support of that he produces a document executed by him, a statement in the document is admissible under s. 157 of the Evidence Act as corroborative of the evidence given by the witness in the witness box. Where an executant of a document containing recitals of boundaries of other lands is alive and does not give his evidence in the case, a statement in such document is not admissible either under section 11 or section 13 of the Evidence Act. Ibid. The case of Promotho v. Krishna, 28 C.W.N. 1902 was dissented from in the case of Promotha Nath v. Bejoy Singh, 44 C.L.J. 587 (B. B. Ghose and Cammiade, J.J.). Omission to take objection to a document which is irrelevant or inadmissible does not make it admissible in evidence: see 43 C.L.J. 274.

Res-judicata.

Question of title :—The decision of a question of title raised in a suit does not operate as res judicata in a subsequent suit for title when such question is raised only incidentally in the rent-suit: Srihari Banerjee v. Khittish Chander, 1 C.W.N. 509. See also Run Bahadur v. Lucho Koer, 11 Cal. 301.

As to when a decision on a matter in a previous rent suit operates as res-judicata in a subsequent suit: see Mone Muhammad v. Dhani Mahammad, 17 C.W.N. 76. As to whether a decision in a previous suit is resjudicata in a subsequent suit: see Bakshi v. Nizamuddi, 20 Cal. 505. See 24 C.W.N. 717. As to area, see Upendra Kumar v. Shamlal, 11 C.W.N. 1100. The decision of the question as to area in a rent suit was held to operate as resjudicata in a subsequent suit for additional rent for additional area: Radhika v. Satya Narain, 74 I.C. 96. See also Radhika Raman v. Sainarain, A. I. R. 1924 Pat. 307. As to question of title, see Dwarkanath v. Ram Chand, 26 Cal. 428 (F.B.); Nilmadhab v. Brajanath, 21 Cal. 286; Rajendra v. Tarangini, 1 C.L.J. 248; as to a decision in a rent-suit operating as res-judicata in a subsequent suit for declaration of title, see Nand Kumar v. Ram Kishore, 19 C.L.J. 457; see 30 C.W.N. 593, s. c., 43 C.L.J. 146.

The decision in a previous rent suit that rent was payable as Bhauli rent does not operate as resjudicata in a suit for rent of subsequent years at the cash rent system. The previous decision is merely presumptive evidence of the rent of future years and the presumption may be rebutted: Parmeshwar Prasad v. Narsing Rai, A.I.R. 1924 Pat. 371.

A joint ex-parte decree for the entire rent of a tenure against all the tenants operates as resjudicata in a subsequent suit against them disentitling any one of them to object to the passing of a joint decree and setting up the case of a separate tenancy: Sarojini v. Lakshi Priya, 29 C.W.N. 253, s. c. 40 C.L.J. 507.

Consent decree, if constitutes resjudicata: 43 C.L.J. 116.

Denial of plaintiff's title :—DISMISSAL OF RENT SUIT—SUBSEQUENT SUIT TO ESTABLISH TITLE :—In a suit for rent where the sole defendant denied the plaintiff's title and set up the title of third person and the suit for rent was dismissed on the ground that the plaintiff failed to prove his title, held in another suit for establishment of title, brought by the plaintiff against the tenant and the third person whose title had been set up, that it was barred by the rule of res judicata: Gopaldas v. Gopinath Sircar, 12 C.L.R. 38.

When question of title does not operate as res judicata:—Plaintiff brought a suit to obtain a declaration that the plaintiff had a mahatran and kayemi ijara right to the land in suit and that the defendant No. 1 was a karsa raiyat under him and to recover khas possession upon ejectment of Defendant No. 1; the plaintiff stated in his plaint that he had previously brought a suit for rent against the defendant No. 1 and that the defendant No. 1 in that suit denied existence of relationship of landlord and tenant between him and the plaintiff and alleged that a third party, who was made defendant in the present suit, was his real landlord and that the rent-suit having been dismissed the plaintiff brought the present suit. The defence mainly was that the suit was barred by the rule of res judicata. The prayer for ejectment was abandoned in the first Court. The only question that remained to be decided between plaintiff and defendant No. 1 was whether the plaintiff was entitled to claim any rent from the defendant No. 1 as his tenant. Banerjee and Rampini, J.J., dissented from the ruling in the case of Gopal Das v. Gopinath, 12 C.L.R. 38, and referred the question to the Full Bench which decided that the former decision did not operate as res judicata: Dwarika Nath v. Ram Chand, 26 Cal. 428 (F.B.). Their Lordships did not express any opinion as to whether the case of Gopal Das v. Gopinath, 12 C.L.R. 28 was rightly decided.

Where a question of title was decided in a suit for rent in which the issue was whether the relation as landlord and tenant existed between the parties; held that in a subsequent suit brought by the same plaintiff for establishment of his title the decision in the rent suit does not operate as res judicata: Nityananda v. Ram Narain, 6 C.W.N. 86. The Full Bench case of Dwarika Nath v. Ram Chand, 26 Cal. 428 was followed in this case. Their Lordships (Rampini and Gupta, J.J.), in delivering judgment in the case of Nityananda v. Ram Narain thus distinguished the case of Radha Madhab Haldar v. Monohor, 15 Cal. 756:

"The pleader for the respondent, however, relies upon the case of Radha Madhub Haldar v. Monohor Mukerjee, in which it is laid down that the decision of rent suit, which involves a question of title is res judicata in a subsequent suit.

"It is sufficient to say in reply to this argument that the question of title was not directly and substantially involved in the previous suit. The judgment in that rent suit has not been made part of the paper-book of the present appeal. But we gather from the judgment of the District Judge that the issue, as framed in the suit was—"Does the relation of landlord and tenant exist between the parties?" That according to the District Judge was the issue raised and decided. Accordingly the question of title was directly and substantially in issue between the parties in the previous suit. The learned Judge seems to think that the question was res-judicata because of the decision of the issue. "Does relation of landlord and tenant exist between the parties" depends upon the decision of two issues of fact, namely (i) has he proved the defendant's admission as a tenant by the predecessor through whom the plaintiff claims? We, however, do not agree with the Judge in this respect. The question of title may have been incidentally enquired into in the former rent suit. It may have been incidentally involved in the issue as to whether the relation of landlord and tenant exists between the parties. But it was certainly not directly raised between them, and there is nothing to show that it was decided in that suit in such a manner as to make the question of title in this case res judicata.

Decree obtained by an ijaradar:—A decree obtained in a previous suit for rent by an ijardar does not operate against the tenant as res judicata on the question whether the relation of landlord and tenant exists in a subsequent suit for rent brought by the superior landlord; Balaram v. Kartick Chunder, 4 C.W.N. 161.

Proceedings under S. 158 of the Bengal Tenancy Act:—A decision as to the question of relation of landlord and tenant in a proceeding under s. 158 of the Bengal Tenancy Act does not operate as res judicata between the parties in a subsequent regular suit: Peary Mohun v. Ali Sheikh, 20 Cal. 249.

Question of benami not raised in the former suit:—One B. D. brought a suit for rent against one K. M. which was decreed in plaintiff's favour on the defendant's failing to make out his plea of payment. The same plaintiff brought another suit for arrears of rent of subsequent years against the same defendant. In this latter suit the defendants pleaded, amongst other things, that the plaintiff was a mere benamidar of one A. G. who was the real proprietor in possession of the lands. Both the lower Courts held that this plea, although not raised in the previous suit, ought to have been made a ground of defence, in that suit, and that under the provisions of Explanation 2 to s. 13 of the Code of Civil Procedure, the defendant was precluded from raising the plea in the latter suit. On appeal by the defendant to the High Court, held that assuming that the matter now in issue could not be said to have been heard and finally decided in the former suit, and that consequently Explanation 2 to sec. 13 of the Civil Procedure Code does not preclude the defendant from raising the plea in the subsequent suit: Kailas Mondal v. Baroda Sundari, 1 C.W.N. 565 : 24 Cal. 711.

Illegal cess :—Where a landlord claimed an illegal cess in a suit for rent and the tenant objected to the same, held that the mere fact that in a former suit the tenant did not raise the objection did not preclude him from raising the plea: Woomesh Chandra v. Baroda Das, 28 Cal. 17. Their Lordships Ameer Ali and Brett, JJ., in deciding this case relied upon the case of Kailas Mondal v. Baroda Sundari, 24 Cal. 711, s.c., 1 C.W.N. 565, and observed as follows :—The decision, however, in Kailas v. Baroda Sundari Dasi, shews that, although upon a literal interpretation of the words of Explanation 2, s. 13 of the Civil Procedure Code it might be contended that a point not raised and not decided in a previous litigation might still be taken as conclusive in a subsequent suit between the parties, yet upon a proper construction of the section the question ought not and cannot be treated as res judicata unless there is a judicial determination express or implied on the matter not directly put in issue.

A decree for cess at a certain rate is admissible in evidence in a subsequent suit for cess claimed at a higher rate and may raise a presumption in favour of the tenant but does not operate as res judicata: A. T. Ricketts v. Rameswar, 28 Cal. 109.

Amount of Jama :—In a suit for rent the question was "what is the amount of the jama" and the Court found as follows: "Considering the whole evidence and the circumstances of the case, I hold that the plaintiffs have entirely failed to prove their allegation of the jama. They are therefore entitled to the jama admitted by the defendant," in a suit for subsequent period Plaintiff claimed at the same rate as he had claimed in the previous suit; there was no agreement subsequent to the previous suit altering the rate of rent; held that the decision in the earlier suit operated as res judicata in the latter one: Hurry Behari v. Pargon Ahir, 19 Cal. 659; see also Bukshi v. Nizamuddi, 20 Cal. 505.

The decision as to the rate of rent in a previous suit for rent was held to operate as res judicata in a subsequent suit: Mane Mahammed v. Dhani Mahammad, 17 C.L.J. 71. An ex-parte decree for rent cannot operate as res judicata as to the rate of rent in favour of the landlord: Nafar Chandra v. Bhusi Molla, 65 I.C. 581.

Exparte decree :—An ex-parte decree for rent is res judicata in a subsequent suit for rent unless the tenant can establish that the relationship of landlord and tenant ceased since the passing of the decree: Mahammed Gauhar v. Samiruddin, 18 C.W.N. 33.

As to res judicata in ex-parte decrees :—see also Chandra Kumar v. Joy Chandra, 19 W.R. 213; Goya Prasad v. Tarini Kant, 23 W.R. 149; Birchandra v. Ram Krishna, 23 W.R. 128; Mahamed Kana Miah v. Ram Mahamed, 24 W.R. 254; Bir Chandra v. Harish Chandra, 3 Cal. 383; s. c. 1. C.L.R. 585, Bhagirath v. Ram Luchan, 8 Cal. 275; Nilmani v. Hiralal, 7 Cal. 23; s. c. 8 C.L.R. 257; Bishnu Prakash v. Ratangir, 20 W.R. 3; Hiralal v. Johar Molla, 20 W.R. 273; Nrisingh Dass v. Kamaruddin, 20 W.R. 412; Madhusudan Saha v. Brae, 16 Cal. 300 (F. B.).

An ex-parte decree in a suit for rent operates as res judicata upon the question of relationship of landlord and tenant: 17 C.W.N. 327. A decree for rent passed ex-parte is conclusive as to the relationship between the parties at the time to which the suit referred: Hiranmoy v. Ramjan Ali, 20 C.W.N. 48, s. c., 43 Cal. 170. Under illustration (d) to S. 114 of the Evidence Act it is open to the Court in a subsequent suit between the parties to presume that that state of things has continued. Ibid.

See notes under Sec. 65 at p. 403.

Issue in Rent Suit:—In a suit for rent, no issue need be framed, but where issues are framed, the non existence of a direct issue of this character has to be seriously taken into account in determining whether the question of right or liability for all times was really directly and substantially in issue. Gnanendra v. Nalinibala, 43 C.L.J. 146.

Suit for enhancement:—In a suit for enhancement of rent it was held that the plaintiff had the right to enhance but the suit was dismissed on the ground that the rent paid by the defendant was not lower than the rate paid by other similar tenants, held in a subsequent suit for enhancement that the decision in the prior suit did not operate as resjudicata inasmuch as the decision upon the question of the right to enhance the rents was not the basis of the decree which was ultimately made: Parhate v. Mathura, 40 Cal. 29.

When A brought a suit against B and the latter pleaded that he was tenant of A's landlord, and A's suit was decreed, held in a suit brought by B for declaration of title against A and his landlord, that B's suit was barred by res judicata: Sreenath v. Kaser Sheikh, 18 C.W.N. 116.

Resjudicata between co-defendants:—In order that a finding in a case can be resjudicata between co-defendants three things are necessary (1) that there should be a conflict of interest between co-defendants; (2) that it should be necessary to decide on that conflict in order to give to the plaintiff the relief appropriate to the suit; (3) that the judgment should contain a decision of the question raised as between the co-defendants: Jadab Chandra v. Kailash Chandra, 15 C.L.J. 332; Sarada Prasad v. Kailashbasini, 17 C.W.N. 128; Syed Latif Hossain v. Basdeo Singh, 20 C.W.N. 1177; Rajkumar v. Abdullah, 22 C.W.N. 891. See also 51 Cal. 997, s. c. 30 C.W.N. 415; 54 Cal. 114; 46 C.L.J. 118 and 30 C.W.N. 482 (P.C.), s. c. 5 Pat. 461.

Erroneous decision on a point of Law:—An erroneous decision on a point of law may under certain circumstances operate as res judicata: Rambehari v. Surendra, 19 C.L.J. 34. See also 30 C.W.N. 83.

The order of a Settlement officer in a Survey and Record of rights under s. 106 of the B. T. Act as originally passed, is a decree under s. 9 of Act III (B. C.) of 1898 which operates as resjudicata on points raised and decided; Nikunja Behari v. Radha Kishore, 22 C.L.J. 148.

Judgment in a previous suit may operate as res judicata notwithstanding the fact that no appeal was allowed by law against the decision: Rambehari v. Surendra, 19 C.L.J. 34.

A plea of resjudicata not taken in the written statement was allowed to be taken up on appeal: Krishnadayal v. Amiral Hossein 19 C.W.N. 942.

Heirs:—It is the duty of the persons succeeding by inheritance to a permanent tenure to notify the succession and it is not the duty of the superior landlord to find out who all the heirs of a deceased decree-holder are; there is no law which compels a landlord in order that he might succeed in a suit for rent to sue all the heirs of a deceased tenure-holder when he has no notice who the heirs are. Where the defendant was admittedly one of the heirs and in possession as such, he is liable for the rent, and he cannot defeat the plaintiff's suit by shewing that there were other heirs equally liable, unless he also shews that their names were notified to the landlord as successors: Khetter Mohon v. Pran Krishto, 3 C.W.N. 372.

VI

Rate of Rent.

Proof:—Oral evidence is not admissible for the purpose of contradicting a statement made in a registered kabuliyat as to the amount of rent, but evidence is admissible to shew that the kabuliyat was never intended to be acted upon or enforced or that there was a waiver of some of its terms: Beni Madhab v. Lal Mati, 6 C.W.N. 242; the evidence that since the execution of the kabuliyat a lower rate was paid is admissible: Ibid. See in this connection Manindra Chandra v. Durga Sundari, 20 C.W.N. 680; Durga Prosad v. Rajendra Narain, 37 Cal. 293, on P.C. 41 Cal. 493, s. c. 18 C.W.N. 66; Kailas (Kalish) Chandra v. Darbarai Sheikh, 20 C.W.N. 347. An agreement is none the less oral because it is to be inferred from the conduct of parties: Lakhatulla v. Biswamber, 12 C.L.J. 646. See also Binod Lal v. Prio Mohan, 20 C.W.N. 52 notes.

The mere fact that rent for some years has been received at a reduced rate does not bind the lessor to accept rent at that rate: Baij Nath v. Raghu Nath, 16 C.W.N. 946; Kailash Chandra v. Darbarai Sheikh, 20 C.W.N. 347; also see the cases cited therein.

When the joint tenants of a homestead holding allow one of them to have his name registered in the landlord's books, a decree obtained by the landlord against such registered tenant is admissible in evidence against the other tenants as to the rate of rent: Moti Lal v. Nripendra, 2 C.W.N. 172.

As to whether a decree by a co-sharer landlord as to rate of rent, if admissible in evidence in a suit by another co-sharer landlord.

See the cases collected under s. 65, heading No. 32, at pp. 402 and 403, and at p. 684. See also 43 C.L.J. 153.

An ex-parte decree by a co-sharer landlord who realised the decretal amount by execution is admissible in evidence as to the rate of rent in a suit by another co-sharer landlord: Kanta Mohan Mullick v. Gopinath Santra, 32 C.W.N. 91 (notes): See also Madhu Manjari v. Jhumar Bibi, 1 C.W.N. 120; Mati Lal v. Nripendra, 2 C.W.N. 172; Rajkumar v. Alimuddi, 17 C.W.N. 627. An ex-parte decree which has never been executed is no evidence as to the rate of rent: Ram Chandra v. Hara Gobindo, 1 C.W.N. 128 (notes).

Contribution.

Although the landlord sues only the recorded tenant, this would not relieve the unrecorded tenants from the equitable liability of paying their share of the rent to those of the recorded tenants who are obliged to pay the whole. The fact that one of the co-tenants (whose name was not recorded and who was not a party to the suit for rent) sold away his interest before the date of the suit, would not relieve him of the liability although he did not derive any benefit from the payment made: Gobind Chandra v. Basanta Kumar, 4 C.W.N. 384.

A suit for contribution by a sharer in joint property in respect of a payment made by him of money due from a co-sharer is exempted from the cognizance of Small Cause Court under Art. 41 of the Second Schedule of Act IX of 1887: Chandradaya Sen v. Bhagaban Chandra Sen, 20 C.W.N. 40 (notes). Rent is, by operation of law, the first charge on a tenure and a person, who purchases the same at an execution sale, must, in the absence of anything to denote the contrary, be taken to purchase it charged with the rent due which is due in respect of it at the time of its purchase and there being no privity between him and the judgment debtor, he cannot recover from the latter the money he is obliged to pay for rent so due at the time of purchase. Ibid.

Sec. 69 of the Indian Contract Act is intended to include cases not only of personal liability but all liabilities to payment for which owners of lands are indirectly liable, when such liabilities are imposed on lands held by them: Sarajubala v. Kamini, 43 C.L.J. 142. Mathuranath v. Krista Kumar, 4 Cal. 369 followed.

As to rulings on contribution and suit for damages; See at p. 272 of the book.

VIII

Proof of Tenancy Right.

Proof of lease:—A tenant can prove his tenancy right without proving his lease, even if he has any: Lala Surabh v. Kartick Gharami, 8 C.W.N. 424.

A tenant can prove his tenancy right, without proving his lease if he has one which is inadmissible for want of registration: Fazel Shaikh v. Keramuddi, 6 C.W.N. 916.

Where a kabuliyat was executed, but was not registered and never came into operation, oral evidence is admissible to prove the rent agreed upon by the parties: Ameer Ali v. Yakub Ali, 41 Cal. 347; s. c. 19 C.L.J. 428.

A tenancy can be proved without proving the lease even if there be any: Ameer Ali v. Yakub Ali, 41 Cal. 357, see also Banka Behari v. Raj Chandra, 41 Cal. 347.

In this country it is possible to establish a tenancy without the production of a lease by proof of payment of rent by the tenant and acceptance of rent by the landlord: Raj Kumari Baishnabi v. Shyama Bibi, 25 C.W.N. 163 (notes).

IX

Adverse possession.

Adverse possession when rightful owner is in possession as tenant:—A trespasser will acquire title to land by adverse possession, if the rightful owner holds it under him as tenant for the statutory period: The Secretary of State v. Krishnamoni, 6 C.W.N. 617, P.C. (on appeal from the High Court of Bengal, 3 C.W.N. 99). The terms of the Permanent Settlement do not prevent Government from acquiring khas proprietary right, by limitation, over lands permanently settled, if the proprietor chooses to hold such lands as an Ijaradar or tenant under Government, for the statutory period. Ibid.

In order to establish adverse possession by one tenant in common against his co-tenants there must be exclusion or ouster and the possessor subsequent to that must be for the statutory period. Mere non-participation of rents and profits would not necessarily of itself amount to exclusion but such non-participation or non-possession may in the circumstances amount to an adverse possession: Aynenussa v. Sheikh Isuf, 16 C.W.N. 849.

A co-tenant's possession cannot become adverse until there is an ouster or the equivalent of an ouster, of the other co-tenant: no mere mental determination is sufficient: Faijuddin v. Reju Akab, 21 C.L.J. 192.

As to adverse possession between co-owners: see Balaram v. Syama Charan Mandal, 24 C.W.N. 1057 (Mukerjee, Acting C. J. and Fletcher, J.) in which the cases on the point have been reviewed. See also 26 C.W.N. 65, 206, 890. The principle does not depend upon whether the parties are members of a joint family but rests upon the ground that they are co-owners and is applicable to all classes of co-owners. See Ibid, at page 892. See also 27 C.W.N. 624; 40 C.L.J. 30; 50 Cal. 487. As to the applicability of the principle to Mahomedan Co-sharers; see 21 C.L.J. 192; 20 I.C. 584, 16 C.W.N. 849.

As to acquisition of fishery right by adverse possession: Dependra Lal Khan v. Secretary of State, 31 C.W.N. 473.

Presumption as to rent free grant:—Adverse claim in settlement proceedings: see Kalimohan v. Birendra Kishore, 22 C.L.J. 309. Adverse possession—Relationship of landlord and tenant: see Birendra Kishore v. Nabin Chandra, 22 C.L.J. 306; Birendra Kishore v. Ram Kumar, 22 C.L.J. 308.

See notes at pp. 39, 40, 43, and 764 of this book.

X

Parties to Rent Suit.

Parties to Rent Suit:—Parties should not be added in a suit for rent so as to transform it into a complex title suit though question of title may be incidentally investigated in a suit for rent: Abdul Gafur v. Ali Miah, 28 C.W.N. 805. In a rent suit where the defendant sets up the right of a third party the Court ought not to make such a third party a party in the suit and convert it into a complicated title suit. There must be an enquiry into the Plaintiff's title when it is derivative: See Indra Narain Manna v. Sarbaseva Davi, 41 C.L.J. 341.

See notes under S. 65, heading Nos. 23 and 24, pp. 396-400.

XI

Books of Accounts.

As to admissibility of Collection papers, etc., under S. 32 or S. 34 of the Evidence Act, see notes under S. 50 at pp. 311-312.

Jaibaki papers :—Jaibaki papers brought from the plaintiff's own possession cannot be used against a defendant without shewing that he has in some way agreed to them : Baidyanath v. Rasik Lal, 9 W.R. 274.

Jamabandi papers :—Jamabandis represent the rent roll of the estate. "They shew the quantity of land by each cultivator, its different qualities (i.e., what is grown upon it), the rate of rent for each kind of land, the total rent for all the land of that particular kind in each cultivator's possession, and lastly the grand total for all the land of every kind held by him" : see Field's Evidence, 7th Edition, p. 134.

Jamabandi papers can be used as corroborative evidence of the same value as that which is attached to books of accounts : : Gajju Koer v. Ali Ahmed, 14 W. R. 472. They can never be treated as independent evidence : see also Chamarni Bibee v. Ayenullah, 9 W.R. 451.

Jamabandi papers.—A raiyat signing a jamabandi is bound by it, has signature there-to being regarded as admission of the correctness of its contents : Watson and Co. v. Mohendranath, 23 W.R. 436. Where increased rent is imposed in the course of settlement proceedings the Collector's jamabandi must shew the consent of all the raiyats before he can be held to be bound by it : Reajoodin Mahomed v. McAlpin, 22 W.R. 540.

Jamabandi papers, without the personal testimony of the putwaree who filed them, are valueless : Pundit Bhawan Dutt v. Sheo Mungal Singh, 22 W.R. 256; 20 W.R. 142.

Jamabandi papers filed by a malik in butwara proceedings, to which the tenant is not party, cannot be used against such tenant in a suit for arrears of rent : Kishore Dass v. Parson Mahtoon, 20 W.R. 171.

An auction purchaser of a khas Mahal cannot sue the tenant for enhanced rent upon a jamabandi to the terms of which the tenant never consented : Enayetollah Mia v. Nobo Kumar, 20 W.R. 207.

In the case of Taru Patur v. Abinash Chandra Dutta, 4 Cal. 79 it was held that a Jamabandi prepared by a Deputy Collector, while engaged in the settlement of land under Reg. VII of 1822, was a public document within the meaning of section 74 of the Evidence Act and it was not necessary to shew the raiyat affected was a consenting party to the terms specified. But see the case of Ram Chandra Sao v. Buseedhur Naik, 9 Cal. 741 where the case in 4 Cal. 79 was doubted—In order to make the enhanced rent stated in a jamabandi as settled under the said Regulation, binding upon a tenant, there must be either an assent to that enhancement, or else a compliance with the provisions of the rentlaw with reference to enhancement of rent in force at the time of such enhancement : Akshoy Kumar Dutt v. Shama Charan, 16, Cal. 586; Desilva v. Rajkumar, 16 W.R. 53.

Where entries in the Jamabandi papers began over 70 years before the trial, the presumption was that the person who made them was dead and could not be called, and as they were made in the ordinary course of business by the landlords agents, they were relevant without any corroboration : Dukha v. W. M. Grant, 16 C.L.J. 24. See also Aktowli v. Tarakhnath, 16 C.L.J. 328, s.c. 17 C.W.N. 774.

Jama-wasil Baki or collection papers are not evidence by themselves. The mere production of such papers is not enough. But, when coupled with other evidence, they often afford a very useful guide to the truth : Roushan Bibee v. Hurray Kristonath, 8 Cal. 926 at p. 931.

Taken by themselves, they are not admissible as independent evidence of the amount of rent mentioned therein but a person who has prepared such papers may refresh his memory from the same when giving evidence. Akhil Chander v. Naya, 10 Cal. 248. Jama-wasil-baki papers can only be used as corroborative evidence. Ibid; see also 5 W. R. 243; 7 W.R. 828; 8 W.R. 464; 8 W.R. 280; 10 W.R. 193; 10 W.R. 291; 11 W.R. 165; 10 C.L.R. 545.

Jama-wasil-baki papers are yearly accounts shewing the total rent demandable for the current year, the balance of previous years, the amount collected during the year and the balance due.—See Field, 7th edition at p. 132.

Jama-wasil-baki papers filed and attested by gomosthas are not conclusive proof of variation of rent unless it can be shewn, not merely that the jama-wasil-baki and similar papers shew a varying rate but that the raiyat has paid at a varying rate : Gopal Mandal

v. Nobokristo, 5 W.R. (Act X) 83. As they are private memoranda made for the Zemindars own use they must be looked upon with suspicion: Allyat Chinaman v. Juggut Chander, 5 W.R. 242.

Jama-Wasil-Baki papers :—"I must confess that I have the most serious doubts whether a set of Jama Wasil Baki papers, merely fastened together at the corner by a thread, can be dealt with as a book, or looking at the mode in which such papers are usually prepared, that they can be described as "kept in the regular course of business": Per Jackson, J., in Bejoy Govind v. Bheekoo Ray, 10 W.R. 291.

The terms of S. 34 of the Evidence Act do not give jama-wasil papers any weight beyond that of corroborative evidence: Surnomoyi v. Johur Mohamed, 10 C.L.R. 545; see also Roushan Bibee v. Hurray Kristo, 8 Cal. 926 (931).

In a proceeding under S. 105 of the B. T. Act the landlord produced evidence of jama-wasil-baki papers 70 years old, held they were admissible and their genuineness could be presumed under S. 90: Nirod Krishna v. Prodyot Kumar, 45 C.L.J. 129, s. c. 32 I.C. 129: Jama Wasil Baki papers, in the absence of circumstances mentioned in S. 32 of the Evidence Act, such as in the absence of proof that the writers or the makers of the entries therein, at the date of the trial, were dead or could not be procured without unreasonable expense or otherwise, are evidence which in the presence of other substantive evidence may be used as corroborative but cannot be regarded as proving any fact by itself: Jonab v. Siva Kumari, 46 C.L.J. 253.

Talab-baki papers :—They are not sufficient under S. 34 of the Evidence Act, to charge a person with liability; they may be evidence under sec. 32 cl. (2), but before they may be admitted under that section the landlord has to show that the person making the statement is dead and the entries were made by him in the ordinary course of business: Umedali v. Nawab Khaje Habibulla, 31 C.L.J. 68.

Entries in books of account:—

It would be giving a too limited meaning to S. 34 of the Evidence Act to hold that "books of account regularly kept in the course of business" mean books entered up from day to day or from hour to hour as transactions take place. The time of making the entries may affect the value of them but should not, made from day to day or from hour to hour, make them entirely irrelevant: The Deputy Commissioner of Bara Banki v. Munshi Ram Pershad, 4 C.W.N. 141 (P.C.): s.c., 27 Cal. 118. This case overruled the case of Munchershaw v. New Dhniumsey, S. & W. Co., 4 Bom. 576.

Entries in books of account are admissible in evidence, not only for refreshing the witness's memory, but also as corroborative evidence of the story which he tells: Bhoy Hong Kong v. Ramnath, 6 C.W.N. 401. Books of account professing to record facts relating only to the particular transaction in question, are less reliable than a book in which the same is recorded in common with other transactions in the ordinary course of business: Ibid.

It is essential in every case where reliance is placed upon books of account to establish that they have been regularly kept in the course of business; but it is not sufficient to prove the correctness of the books, the entries themselves have to be proved, unless the necessity for such proof is removed by the admission of the opposite party: Immambandi v. Haji Mata Suddi, 15 C.L.J. 621.

S. 34 of the Evidence Act makes the entries relevant in a book of account regularly kept in the course of business. It is not sufficient to prove the correctness of the book. The entries themselves have to be proved in deed; the necessity for such proof is removed by the admission of the opposite party: Hingu Meath v. Heramba Chandra, 13 C.L.J. 139.

The absence of entry of payment in an account book is a relevant fact not under S. 34 but under Ss. 9 and 11 of the Evidence Act. Gangaram v. Lachiram, 19 C.W.N. 611. Books regularly kept in the course of business can be used not only for the purpose of refreshing the memory of a witness but also as corroborative evidence of the story he tells: Bhoy Hong v. Ramanath Chetty, 28 Cal. 774.

Isam-navisi paper.

They are returns submitted by the Police in respect of GHATWALI lands. They are admissible in evidence, merely as corroborative, but not as independent evidence: Fergusson v. Government, 9 W.R. 158; Farquharson v. Dwarakanath and Govt. of India, 8 B.L.R. 504 (P.C.), s.c. 16 W.R. 29, s.c. 14 M.L.A. 259; Erskine v. Government, 8 W.R. 158.

Collection papers.

Collection papers :—are no evidence per se and can only be used where they are produced by a person who has collected rent and who merely uses them for the purpose of refreshing his memory; See Mahomed v. Safarali, 11 Cal. 407 at p. 409 Gobinda Chander Chunder v. Aulo Beebee, 1 W.R. 49; Allya Chinaman v. Jugut Chander, 5 W.R. 242; Kheero Monee v. Beejoy Gobind, 7 W.R. 533; Ram Lall v. Tarasundari, 8 W.R. 280; Sheikh Newazee v. Lloyd, 8 W.R. 464; Beejoy Gobind v. Bheekoo Roy, 10 W.R. 291 Moheema Chunder v. Purna Chunder, 11 W.R. 165; Belaet Khan v. Rash Behari, 22 W.R. 549; Surnomoyi v. Johur Mahomed, EZ C.L.R. 545. Rent collection papers, which are not proved by persons who made them cannot be treated as independent evidence as to the rate of rent: Maijuddin v. Agni Kumar, 71 I.C. 300.

Admissibility of certified copies of Survey measurement chittas etc. :—Certified copies of survey measurement Chittas, field books and maps are admissible in evidence: Gopeenath Singh v. Anundmoyee Debye, 8 W.R. 167 see also Ekowrie v. Heera Lal, 11 W.R. (P.C.) 2; L.C. 2 B.L.R. (F.B.) 4; Sham Chand v. Ram Krishto, 19 W.R. 309.

Chittas :—Produced from the collectorate, when there is nothing to show that they are the record of measurements made by any Government Officer, are not public documents: Natyanand v. Abdur Raheem, 7 Cal. 76. But a chitta prepared for the purpose of distributing the public revenue in a partition of an estate is a public document and is evidence of the state of affairs then existing and admissible in evidence: 15 C.W.N. 515.

As to admissibility in evidence of Government Chittas, see 24 W.R. 192, 450; 10 W.R. 340; 15 W.R. 444. Certified copies of Chittas and maps relating to partition under Regulation XIX of 1814 are admissible in evidence apart from anything in Sec. 35: 23 C.W.N. 48.

XII

Quinquennial papers.

Quinquennial registers—are admissible in evidence: see Udaimoni Debya v. Bishnonath, 7 W.R. 14; Kashi Chandra v. Nur Chande, 1849 S. D. A. Decisions, Beng. 113.

Quinquennial papers prepared by the revenue authorities from 1795 to 1799 under the provisions of Regulation XLVIII of 1783 are admissible in evidence. Reliance can be placed upon hand sketches drawn up by the parties on the basis of the information derived from the quinquennial papers and the Haqiqat Chauhaddi papers. Secretary of State v. Wazed Ali Khan Pani, 34 C.L.J. 141.

See also Sashi v. Girish, 20 Cal. 940.

XIII

Haquiquat Papers.

Haquiquat papers being submitted by the Zemindars have no value as evidence as against the tenant: Hem Chandra v. Brinayah, 86 I.C. 538.

Haquiquat chonhaddibandi (boundary papers) are to be deemed prima facie accurate as between the Government and the Zemindars: Harodas v. Secretary of State, 26 C.L.J. 590 (P. C.).

XIV

Kanangoe Papers.

Kanangoe papers are good evidence on questions of pargana rates, standard of measurement and the like, 2 W.R. (Act X) 13; 7 W.R. 533; 8 W.R. 517. Pargana and Kanangoe registers are not kept punctually and are not admissible to prove an omission of an entry therein as to lakhrāj: Biprodas v. Monorama, 45 Cal. 574, s. c., 22 C.W.N. 396.

XV

Butwara Papers.

Entries in Butwara papers prepared under the Estates Partition Act are admissible in evidence: Chattranath v. Babar Ali, 29 C.W.N. 333 ; see also 38 I.C. 491 and A.I.R. 1922 (Pat.) 447. They are evidence of the existence of relationship of landlord and tenant and also as to rent payable in a suit for rent: Jatindra v. Isof, 53 I.C. 19.

Butwara Khasra prepared under the Estates Partition Act is not a record within the meaning of sec. 35 of the Evidence Act and is inadmissible, 17 C.W.N. 779, s. c., 17 C.L.J. 462 : see also 25 Cal. 90 and 6 C.L.R. 139. It can be put in under s. 39 to show the history of the land before the creation of the tenancy : 68 I.C. 676. But see 38 I.C. 491; 53 I.C. 19; A.I.R. 1922 (Pat.) 447; and 36 I.C. 513.

A Butwara khasra is not a public document within the meaning of s. 35 of the Evidence Act and is not admissible in evidence as such: Ramsarup v. Ramnarain, 7 Pat. 85 (Mullick, A.C.J. & Jwala Prasad, J.).

The case of Nandalal v. Chanurput Das, 17 C.W.N. 779 followed.

But a butwara barwarda prepared under the provisions of Chapter VII of the Estates Partition Act, 1876, by the Deputy Collector in the course of his official duty is admissible as a public document under section 35 and is evidence against the landlord in whose presence it was made. Ibid. (Sri Ano Das v. Jugat Pal Lal, 38 I.C. 205 referred to).

XVI

Reports and maps under Sec. 145.

As to admissibility of reports and maps referred to in orders under sec. 145 Cr. P.C., see Dinamoni v. Brojomohini, 29 Cal. 187 ; s. c., 6 C.W.N. 386 (P. C.).

XVII

Thak and Survey Maps.

It can be presumed as a matter of law that the state of things described in the thak and survey maps existed at the time of the Permanent Settlement. The question, what lands were included in the Permanent Settlement is a question of fact and not of law which may or may not be satisfactorily proved by subsequent survey maps. The onus of proving that any particular lands were included in the Permanent Settlement of 1793 is on those who affirm that such was the case, and the burden of proof is not necessarily shifted by the production of the thak and survey maps shewing that specific lands are included in a particular estate. The thak and survey maps are valuable evidence of the state of things at the time they were made, but it does not follow that they shew conclusively what was the state of things at the time of the Permanent Settlement: Ibid. As to preference between Survey and Thak maps: See Maharaja of Cooch Behar v. Raja Mahendra Ranjan, 34 C.L.J. 465. See also 36 C.L.J. 336 ; 24 C.W.N. 639 s. c., 31 C.L.J. 320

As to value of thak map on the question of title and possession, see Debendra Lal v. Secretary of State, 31 C.W.N. 473. Thak map not showing particular river as Government property if can warrant inference as to non-navigability of river: Ibid.

In a suit in which one of the issues was whether certain lands was mal or lakhraj the thak map was admitted as relevant evidence as it was necessary to show in such maps the lands claimed as lakhraj: Rajkumar v. Basanta Kumar, 7 C.W.N. 612. There is a prima facie presumption of accuracy of Thak and Survey maps. It may be shown to be incorrect by the admission of the parties or adjudication by a Court or by evidence intrinsic or extrinsic to the maps. Taramoni v. Gopal, 65 I.C. 182.

Thak and Survey maps afford important evidence of possession at the time they were made, and as evidence of possession is evidence of title, they afford also valuable evidence of title. In case of disagreement between the thak and survey maps, the one that necessarily agrees with the local landmarks is to be followed: Nawab Bahadur v. Gopinath, 13 C.L.J. 625. See also 6 C.W.N. 629, 22 Cal. 252 ; 30 Cal. 291 (P. C.) ; 15 C.W.N. 786 ; 7 C.W.N. 849.

Thak and survey maps are not conclusive and may be shewn to be wrong ; but in the absence of evidence to the contrary they may be judicially received in evidence to the contrary, they may be judicially received in evidence as correct when made : Jugadindra v. Secretary of State, 30 Cal. 291 (P. C.).

XVIII

Benamidar.

An action may be maintained by a benamidar. A proceeding by or against the benamidar is fully binding on the beneficial owner : Showdhri Gur Narayan v. Sheolal Singh, 46 Cal. 566. s. c., 23 C.W.N. 521 (P.C.).

As to presumption of benami arising from purchase in wife's name : Sura Lakshmiah Chetty v. Kothandarama, 29 C.W.N. 1013, s. c., 42 C.L.J. 8 (P. C.).

Where the tenant is a benamidar of another person a suit for rent lies against the beneficiary : Judoonath v. Prasanna Nath, 9 W.R. 71.

Where a suit is prosecuted by one person for the benefit of another who is the real party in the interest, the latter is bound by the judgment : Rambehari v. Surendra, 19 C.L.J. 34.

As to proof of benami, 27 C.W.N. 294 ; as to probabilities of benami, 28 C.W.N. 131, s. c., 39 C.L.J. 140 ; as to tests of benami, 28 C.W.N. 62 and 131.

XIX

Road Cess Return.

Road Cess Return.—See notes under s. 65 heading no. 34 pp. 403, 404. As to probative value of Zemindar's cess return, see 28 C.W.N. 679. Road cess return filed by landlord is admissible against him to prove the relationship of landlord and tenant : Sadhu Saran v. Ambika Lal, 68 I.C. 675.

XX

Estoppel.

As to cases on estoppel, see notes at pp. 41 to 42 and notes under sec. 85, heading no. 7 pp. 459 to 466. See Lodai Molla v. Kali Das Roy, 8 Cal. 238 ; Venkata Chetty v. Aiyanna, 40 Mad. 561 (F.B.).

Denial of landlord's title during continuance of tenancy—Tenant if can plead cessation of liability to pay rent wholly or partially or for a time—Eviction by title paramount as defence against covenant to pay rent. Onus to prove eviction by title paramount on party setting it up : Jogendra Lal v. Mahesh Chandra, 32 C.W.N. 559 (Cuming & Mukerji, J.J.).

XXI

Miscellaneous Matters.

The Feudal laws of England are no guide to the principles affecting land tenures in Bengal : Udai Pratap v. Jagat Mohan, 6 Pat. 638 (Dawson Miller C.J. and Kutwant Sahay J.).

Nazar or Selami paid by a tenant to a landlord for recognition of a non-transferable holding is rent or revenue within the meaning of sec. 2 (1) (a) of the Indian Income Tax Act and, as such, is exempt from income tax : Nawabzadi Meher Banu v. Secretary of State, 53 Cal. 34, s. c., 29 C.W.N. 969 (F.B.). (The case of Birendra Kisore v. Secretary of State, 48 Cal. 766 over-ruled).

In spite of the Permanent Settlement Regulations income from land in permanently settled estates, subject to exemptions in the Income Tax Act, is liable to income-tax, whether or not the sources were taken into consideration at the time of the Permanent Settlement : King Emperor v. Raja-Probhat Chandra, 31 C.W.N. 765 (F.B.).

Fees received from land used for storing purchases of crops do not come within the definition of "agricultural income" in sec. 2 of the Income Tax Act ; nor does punyaha nazars paid by tenants of agricultural holdings, nor does nazars paid with petitions dealing with questions of succession, settlement and partition : King Emperor v. Probhat Chandra, 31 C.W.N. 1047 (Rankin C.J. and Majumdar J.). The case of Meher Bano v. Secretary of State, 53 Cal. 34 distinguished.

Nazar paid for recognition of succession, partition, settlement, etc., as distinguished from that merely paid with petitions dealing with those matters may come within the definition of "agricultural income": Ibid.

Where a person cultivates land and pays rent not exceeding Rs. 100 per annum, such a person is a "cultivating raiyat" within the meaning of section 4, Cess Act, irrespective of the character of his holding under the Bengal Tenancy Act; and he is liable to pay cess at half the rate paid by a tenure-holder: Shaikh Abdul v. Shaikh Taj Ali, 6 Pat. 13 (Das and Adami, J.J.).

As to counsel's authority to compromise. The general authority of counsel to compromise their client's suit does not extend beyond matters in the suit: Johor Mull v. Kedarnath, 55 Cal. 113 (Rankin C.J. and Mitter J.).

The rule of practice in England regarding general authority of counsel to compromise a suit without reference to his client should not be applied in this country particularly to the mufasil: Tarubala v. Sourendra, 29 C.W.N. 597 (Walmsley and B. B. Ghose, J.J.).

A counsel while acting in the cause in Court enters into a compromise it is binding upon the party for whom he acts: Askaran v. E. I. Railway Co., 29 C.W.N. 566 (Page J.). See also Johurmull v. Kedarnath, 31 C.W.N. 953.

A compromise which contains matter covered by the subject matter if embodied in a decree does not require registration: 24 C.W.N. 328.

Where a solenama purports to create a lease of immoveable property it is inadmissible without registration. Such a solenama is not exempt as being an order or a decree of the Court from the requirement of registration: Rajanikanto v. Rajkumari, 31 C.W.N. 1099 (Rankin, C.J. and Mitter J.). The case of Hemantakumari v. Midnapur Zemindary Co., 46 I.A. 240, s. c., 47 Cal. 485 s. c., 24 C.W.N. 177 referred to.

A tenant having a real right to be in possession, the mere fact that a claim is asserted that the right will subsist for ever does not enable him to prescribe a permanent tenancy as against his landlord, 31 C.W.N. 1099. No tenant of land can obtain any right to a permanent tenancy by prescription in them against his landlord from whom he holds the land. The cases of 28 C.W.N. 840, 857 and 809 followed.

Permanent lease by one co-sharer before partition, if binding on the other co-sharer on partition.

A person to whom a parcel of land has been allotted by a decree for partition of a Civil Court does not take it subject to a permanent lease granted by his former co-owners without his concurrence when land was the joint property of all the co-sharers: Niranjani Mukherjee v. Saudamini Dasi, 30 C.W.N. 511, s. c., 43 C.L.J. 333 (F.B.).

The fact that the Municipal and Survey Numbers of a holding as given in a lease do not tally with the boundaries does not affect the validity of the lease where the land demised can be identified as lying within the boundaries. In such cases the mistake in the numbers is mere false description: Damodar v. Masoodan, 105 I.C. 172 (Das and Kulwant Sahay J.J.).

The intentional inclusion in a lease of a small item of land situate in a different locality from that in which the bulk of the property demised lies, with the object of obtaining registration of the lease-deed at a particular Registry Office will not by itself render the registration of the deed at that place invalid. Ibid. (Durga Prasad v. Tameswar Prasad 46 All. 754 followed, and Biswanath v. Chandra Narain 48 I.A. 127 (P. C.) s. c., 48 Cal. 509, distinguished.).

A tenancy can be proved by other evidence where the lease evidencing the transaction is inadmissible for want of due registration. A tenancy can be proved by the doctrine of part performance. Ibid. (Ameer Ali v. Aykub Ali, 41 Cal. 347 s. c., 19 C.L.J. 428 followed).

A sub-lease of agricultural lands under which the sub-lessee is to hold possession of the sub-leased property and by making cultivation and proper management to pay the fixed amount of rent falls within the purview of the B. T. Act. Ibid.

The purchaser of a non-transferable occupancy holding is not entitled to deposit rent under sec. 52 of Act VIII of 1869 in order to avoid ejectment of tenant: Baneswar v. Sheikh Abdul Hassan, 31 C.W.N. 1016. There is nothing in Act VIII of 1869 which makes the provisions of Civil Procedure Code applicable to sales under that Act: Ibid.

Merger :—The law of merger as it existed before the passing of the T. P. Act of 1882 and the Bengal Tenancy Act of 1885 with regard to interests of landlords and tenants was not the same as exists at the present day under the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act : Parmeshwar Singh v. Musst. Sureba Kuer, [1925 Pat.] 185.

Marfatdari receipts :—As to meaning of Marfatdari receipts.—Whether grant of marfatdari receipts creates tenancy : Kumar Kamakhya Narayan Singh v. Bechu Singh, [1925 Pat.] 209 (Das and Adami, J.J.).

Verification by son of decree-holder, if sufficient : Gobind Prasad v. Hriday Thakur, [1925 Pat.] 235.

S. 78 of the Land Registration Act is no bar to a person recovering rent although the person who should have been registered as the proprietor and through whom he claims, has not been so registered.

S. 78 of the Land Registration Act is inapplicable to the case of an assignee of rent, though the name of the assignor has not been registered under the Act : Prasanna Kumar De Mahajan v. Nanigopal De, 42 C.L.J. 134 (Greaves and Chakravarti, J.J.).

The mortgagor is entitled to set off the rent payable to him as against the zerpeshgi money at the time of redemption : Umatus v. Mahendra Narain, A.I.R. 1927 (Pat.) 285 (Das and Scroope, J.J.).

Mortgagee in possession.—A liability arises on the part of a person to pay rent who has enjoyed the rents and profits, so a mortgagee in possession was held to be the person liable to pay rent in suit by the landlord : E. Maenaghten v. Bheekaree Singh, 2 C.L.R. 323.

An ex-parte rent decree cannot be wholly set aside at the instance of some only of the defendants; it should be set aside, on sufficient grounds, as against such defendants only : Kesav Chandra Chowdhury v. Joyfulnessa Bibi, 32 C.W.N. 507.

Co-sharer,—exclusive possession by, when amounts to ouster—claim for joint possession.

See Nabadwip Chandra v. Bhagaban Chandra, 31 C.W.N. 496; Lakhan Malo v. Gopal Sheikh, 31 C.W.N. 60; Bibi Aimana Khatun v. Saburannessa Bibi, 32 C.W.N. 449.

As to decree against a dead man, 30 C.W.N. 39. Executing Court, if can question validity of decree, 29 C.W.N. 948 (F.B.).

As to setting aside of fraudulent decree, see 29 C.W.N. 51 (notes); 29 C.W.N. 325; 30 C.W.N. 560; 31 C.W.N. 258; 23 C.W.N. 133; 24 C.W.N. 133; 48 Cal. 298; 30 C.W.N. 59. As to meaning of Kaimi mourashi raiyati, 46 C.L.J. 78.

As to mesne profits, 53 Cal. 992, s. c., 31 C.W.N. 112; 30 C.W.N. 361 (P.C.). Mesne profits pendente lite beyond the pecuniary limit of Munsif's jurisdiction, 53 Cal. 14, s. c., 42 C.L.J. 49 (F.B.). Limitation for application for mesne profits, 5 Pat. 223.

As to non-representation of minor in execution proceedings, 30 C.W.N. 86. Minor, if can avoid a decree arising from guardians's negligence, 48 All. 44. Minor, if bound by contract of sale by guardian, 30 C.W.N. 263.

Putni Sale, omission to specify all putnidars, 53 Cal. 1 (P.C.). Setting aside of putni sale, 46 C.L.J. 51.

Suit for correction of settlement entries, 31 C.W.N. 499, s. c., 44 C.L.J. 467.

As to Shebait's power to transfer right of worship, 30 C.W.N. 389.

As to partial ejectment, 44 C.L.J. 311.

Major Rennels' Maps were not made for revenue purposes, and, being based on Surveys of 1764-1777, cannot be treated as safe guides in determining the boundaries of estates or indicating the existence or actual position of rivers at the time of the Decennial Settlement of 1789 : *Secretary of State for India v. Mode of Calculation in a Suit for enhancement of rent on the ground of rise of prices of staple food crops.

Where an enhancement of rent is claimed on the ground of rise of prices under Sec. 30 Cl. (b), the limit to which the rent may be enhanced having regard to the provisions of Sec. 32, may be found out as follows :

Let the amount of rent after enhancement be represented by the letter a ;

Let the amount of rent which is being paid by the tenant at the date of the suit be represented by the letter b ;

Let the average price during the decennial period immediately preceding the institution of the suit be represented by the letter c ;

And let the average price during the earlier decennial period be represented by the letter d ;

Then, according to Sec. 32 Cl. (b), we have the rule of proportion—

$$a : b :: c - \frac{1}{3}(c - d) : d$$

$$\text{i.e. } \frac{a}{b} = \frac{c - \frac{1}{3}(c - d)}{d}$$

$$\text{i.e. } \frac{a}{b} = \frac{\frac{2}{3}c + \frac{1}{3}d}{d} = \frac{1}{3} \left(1 + \frac{2c}{d} \right)$$

So that if b , c and d are known, we can find out a with the help of the above formula.

Illustration I.*

L , the landlord of an occupancy raiyat R , brings a suit for enhancement of rent, in the Burdwan Sadar Munsif's Court, on the ground that there has been a rise in prices of staple food crops. The rent payable by R to L is Re. 1 for one bigha. What will be the enhanced rent?

Suppose the suit is instituted on the 2nd January, 1913.

As stated above

a = the enhanced rent;

b = the existing rent;

c = the average price during the decennial period immediately preceding the institution of the suit e.g., from 1903 to 1912; and d = the average price during an earlier decennial period, say from 1893 to 1902.

* In a suit for enhancement of rent on the ground of rise of prices of staple food crops, the lower courts relied on the price-lists appearing in this work (second edition). In the High Court it was argued that the lower courts ought to have referred to the price-lists as published in the Gazette and therefore s. 39 of the Bengal Tenancy Act was not complied with and that the price-lists published in this work ought not to have been referred to. Holmwood, ^(*)J. Chapman, J. concurring) overruled the contention and observed that "implicit reliance" can be placed upon the price-lists compiled in this work as referred to above: Alimuddin v. Rupendra Lochan, 19 C.W.N. 140 (notes).

Then a is the unknown quantity required to be found

c and d are to be calculated from the price-lists of staple-food crops given in the Appendix. From the price-lists, we get,

In 1903 the quantity sold per rupee was ...	...	...	11 seers	11 $\frac{2}{3}$ ch.
" 1904 " " " " " "	...	...	13 "	0-6/6 "
" 1905 " " " " " "	...	...	13 "	5 $\frac{1}{2}$ "
" 1906 " " " " " "	...	...	9 "	3 "
" 1907 " " " " " "	...	...	7 "	10 $\frac{1}{4}$ "
" 1908 " " " " " "	...	...	7 "	13 $\frac{1}{4}$ "
" 1909 " " " " " "	...	...	9 "	10 "
" 1910 " " " " " "	...	...	11 "	4 "
" 1911 " " " " " "	...	...	11 "	14 "
" 1912 " " " " " "	...	...	9 "	12 "

Therefore the price of a seer in 1903 is	...	...	.085	of a rupee.
" " 1904 is	...	...	.076	"
" " 1905 is	...	...	.075	"
" " 1906 is	...	...	.108	"
" " 1907 is	...	...	.130	"
" " 1908 is	...	...	.127	"
" " 1909 is	...	...	.103	"
" " 1910 is	...	...	.088	"
" " 1911 is	...	...	.084	"
" " 1912 is	...	...	.102	"

Therefore the average price of a seer during this period = $\frac{1}{10}$ of $(.085 + .076 + .075 + .108 + .130 + .127 + .103 + .088 + .081 + .102)$ of a rupee = $.0978$ of a rupee = $.098$ of a rupee (approximately).

$\therefore c = .098$ of a rupee

Similarly the average price of a seer during the year 1893 to 1902 is found in the following way;

The quantity sold per rupee during the years 1893 to 1902 are respectively 12 seers $4\frac{1}{2}$ ch., 14 s. $11\frac{1}{2}$ ch., 16 s. $7\frac{1}{4}$ ch., 12 s. $10\frac{1}{4}$ ch., 9 s. $7\frac{1}{2}$ ch., 13 s. 8 ch., 15 s. $13\frac{3}{8}$ ch., 13 s. $0\frac{1}{8}$ ch., 11 s. 11 ch., and 11 s. $11\frac{1}{4}$ ch.

Therefore the prices of a seer in those years are respectively, .081, .067, .060, .070, .105, .074, .063, .076, .075, and .085 of a rupee; (calculated up to three places of decimals).

Therefore the average price of each seer during this period = $\frac{1}{10}$ of the sum of the prices stated above = $.0766$ of a rupee = $.077$ of a rupee (approximately).

$\therefore d = .077$ of a rupee

Substituting these values in the formula

We have $a \times \text{Rs. } \frac{1}{3} \left(1 + 2 + \frac{.098}{.077} \right).$

$\therefore a = \text{Re. 1.2 ans} = 10.909 \dots \text{pies.}$

Leaving out the fractions of a pie the approximate rate of enhancement is 17.71 per cent.

Illustration II.

A similar suit is instituted at Narail (Dt. Jessore); what will be the enhanced rent?

Working out in a similar way, on a reference to the price-lists, we find the average price per seer at Narail during the decennial period from 1903 to 1912 is $.0972 \dots$ of a rupee

So that $c = .097$ of a rupee approximately.

And the average price per seer during the years 1893 to 1902.

$= .0758$. . . of a rupee.

$d = .076$ of a rupee approximately;

Then from the formula

$$a = \frac{b}{3} \left(1 + \frac{2c}{d} \right)$$

$= \text{Re. } 1 - 2 \text{ ans} - 11 - 368 \dots \text{pies.}$

Therefore in this case the rate of enhancement $= 18.23$ per cent approximately.

APPENDIX XIII

Extracts from Bihar and Orissa Settlement Manual, 1927 (containing rules of procedure for Surveys and Settlement under Chap. X of the B. T. Act, Scale of Court Fees in Settlement Operations in Bihar and Orissa, dates of Settlement operations in the Province of Bihar and Orissa, commutation of produce rents, list of estates in Bihar allowed to recover rent under Summary Procedure, etc., etc.).

A. Procedure ordinarily adopted in Behar in preparation of Record of Rights.

The following extracts from the Bihar and Orissa Survey and Settlement Manual, 1927, will throw light on the subject.

Part I, Chap. II.—Initiation of Survey & Settlement operations.

Laws under which operations are initiated. 6. Survey and Settlement operations are initiated under the following laws:—

- (a) Chapters X and XI of the Bengal Tenancy Act.
- (b) Chapters XII to XV of Choto-Nagpur Tenancy Act.
- (c) Chapters XI and XII of the Orissa Tenancy Act.
- (d) Section 9 of Regulation III of 1872 for the Santal Parganas
- (e) Chapter III of the Central Provinces Land Revenue Act for Sambalpur.
- (f) Section 6 of Regulation IX of 1825 for the settlement of land revenue.
- (g) Section 3 of the Bihar and Orissa Municipal Survey Act for Municipalities.

7. A notification under the authority of the local Government is required for initiation of survey and settlement operations under any of the laws cited in rule 6 with the exception of operation under Regulation VII of 1822, section 103 of the Bengal Tenancy Act and section 115 of the Orissa Tenancy Act for which operations the authority of the Board is sufficient.

8. (1) Where the Bengal Tenancy is in force the settlement operations are initiated by notification under section 101 of the Act, where the Orissa Tenancy Act is in force by a notification under section 112 of the Act and where the Choto-Nagpur Tenancy Act is in force by a notification under section 80 of the Act.

(2) Notifications under section 101, Bengal Tenancy Act or section 112, Orissa Tenancy Act or section 80, Choto-Nagpur Tenancy Act are usually preceded by a notification under section 3 of the Bengal Survey Act (see rule 9). When notifications under both sections have issued for whole districts or thanas, care should be taken to ascertain at an early date whether the district or thana includes areas liable to fluvial action, which it may be desirable to exclude or partially from survey and settlement by an amending notification.

(3) The Board is advised by the Legal Remembrancer that by virtue of section 104 of the Bengal Tenancy Act and section 118 of the Orissa Tenancy Act, Part II of Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act and Part II of Chapter XI of the Orissa Tenancy Act apply automatically to temporarily-settled and Government estates lying within an area covered by a notification under section 101 (1) of the Bengal Tenancy Act or section 112 (1) of the Orissa Tenancy Act. In Choto-Nagpur, settlement of fair rents can be made under section 85 of the Choto-Nagpur Tenancy Act, in any area in respect of which a survey is made and a record-of-rights is prepared under section 80 of the Choto-Nagpur Tenancy Act, provided that the local Government has so directed. When any area has been notified under section 101 (1) of the Bengal Tenancy Act or section 112 (1) of the Orissa Tenancy Act or section 80 of the Choto-Nagpur Tenancy Act, the Collector in consultation with the Settlement Officer should proceed without delay to compile a list of all temporarily-settled estates and Government estates within the notified area; and the Commissioner or the Director of Land Records and Surveys should be moved to obtain the orders of Government whether, in the circumstances of each estate included in the list, a settlement of land revenue is necessary or desirable.

(4) Where an application under section 103 of the Bengal Tenancy Act or section 115 of the Orissa Tenancy Act is made by a landlord or tenants for the preparation of a record-of-rights the operations are initiated under the orders of the Board of Revenue (vide rules 98 and 104 of the Government Rules under the Bengal Tenancy Act and the Orissa Tenancy Act respectively).

9. Settlements of land revenue and the preparation of a record-of-rights and settlement of fair rents under the Bengal, Orissa and Choto-Nagpur Survey precedes settlement. Tenancy Acts are always (save in exceptional cases to be reported to the Board of Revenue) to be preceded by survey.

In large survey and settlement operation it is often convenient to extend the provisions of the Bengal Survey Act 1875 to the area to be surveyed, before the issue of the notification under the Tenancy Act concerned. This will enable work to begin on village boundaries and, if necessary, on cadastral survey, without excluding the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts under section 111 of the Bengal Tenancy Act and section 140 of the Orissa Tenancy Act and of the Deputy Commissioner or the Civil Courts under section 91 of the Choto-Nagpur Tenancy Act, before it is necessary to issue the notification under the Tenancy Act.

Specimen notifications for the initiation of survey and settlement operations will be found in Appendix C.

10. When settlement operations are undertaken under section 101 of the Bengal Tenancy Act or sec. 112 of the Orissa Tenancy Act or section 80 of the Choto-Nagpur Tenancy Act the particulars to be specified in the notification. of the Choto-Nagpur Tenancy Act the particulars to be recorded must be specified in the notification. For these particulars a reference should be made to section 102 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, section 113 of the Orissa Tenancy Act and section 81 of the Choto-Nagpur Tenancy Act respectively.

11. The Settlement of rents and the reduction of rents may also be undertaken under section 112 of the Bengal Tenancy Act or section 143 of the Orissa Tenancy Act or Section 85 (2) (ii) of the Choto-Nagpur Tenancy Act in exceptional circumstances. The Settlement of rents. proceedings in all cases will be initiated by a notification of the local Government.

12. (1) Any area constituted a municipality under the Bengal Municipal Act 1884 or the Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act 1922 or any part thereof Municipalities. can be excluded from the operation of the local Tenancy Act by a notification of the local Government under section 1 (3) of the Bengal Tenancy Act or section 1 (3) of the Orissa Tenancy Act or section 1 (2) of the Choto-Nagpur Tenancy Act.

(2) In the absence of such an excluding notification, if the area notified for settlement includes a municipality the municipality will come under the settlement operations. The provisions of the Tenancy Act for the preparation of a record-of-rights and the settlement of rent apply only to agricultural lands, including horticultural and orchard lands and the home-steads of agriculturists, and a record-of-rights will be prepared for such lands only and not for non-agricultural tenancies.

(3) A special survey and record of any or all lands within a municipality can be made under the Behar and Orissa Municipal Survey Act 1920.

Note.—When it is desired to exclude a municipality from the settlement operation under one of the Tenancy Acts the simplest plan is to draft the notification initiating the operations in such a manner that the area covered by the notification may not include the municipality.

B. Settlement of Fair Rents After Final Publication.

A—Settlement of Fair Rents under Part III, Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act and Part III, Chapter XI of the Orissa Tenancy Act when a settlement of Land Revenue is not being, or is not about to be, made.

421. Parties may apply for the settlement of fair rents within a period of two months from the date of the certificate of final publication under section 103A (2), Bengal Tenancy Act or three months from the date of the certificate of final publication under section 116 (2), Orissa Tenancy Act. Such applications should be filed at the head quarters of the settlement office, or, should the settlement office have been closed, at the Collectorate, and should be entered in a register of original civil suits such as is used in Civil Courts.

422. Where a single tenancy extends over more than one village, it may happen that the period of limitation will expire in respect of the lands in one village before the records of a second village, also commuted in the suit, are finally published. In such cases the plaintiff would be well advised to file his plaint within the period of limitation of the first village. The Settlement Officer may allow supplementary plaints to be filed in respect of the subsequent villages. Stamp duty should of course be calculated upon the whole tenancy, and the suit should be tried as a single suit.

423. The procedure for the settlement of fair rents, when proceedings are taken under Part III of Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act or Part III of Chapter XI of the Orissa Tenancy Act, is prescribed in the statutory rules under the Acts and in the Board's instruction thereon. Proceedings under section 105A, Bengal Tenancy Act, and section 129, Orissa Tenancy Act, shall be dealt with in all as suits between the parties and Revenue Officers acting under this part exercise the powers of Civil Courts in the trial of suits.

424. When a landlord or tenant applies to the Revenue Officer for the settlement of rent, but fails to proceed further, or when such application is rejected or dismissed, the Revenue Officer should not settle any rent as a fair rent, but should leave untouched the existing rent recorded as payable. When, however, the Revenue Officer has heard the application and has decided that no sufficient cause has been shown for increasing or diminishing the tenant's rent he should not dismiss the application but should settle as the fair rent the existing rent legally payable.

429. If on a day fixed for the disposal of an application both parties appear, but either of them fails without sufficient cause to produce evidence, and the Revenue Officer pronounces judgment, (acting on the presumption that the existing rent is fair), he will settle the rent and the settled rent will be entered in the record as a fair rent. Again, if the applicant appears and the opposite party does not appear, and it is proved that the notice in form 87 prescribed in the Tenancy Act Rules was served on him in sufficient time to enable him to appear and answer on the day fixed, Revenue Officer may proceed to try the case ex-parte and deliver judgment. In these and in all other cases in which the Revenue Officer pronounces judgment, he must settle a fair rent and cause it to be entered in the khatian; it will not be sufficient for him merely to leave untouched the record of the existing rent.

430. Rents may be settled (i) by ratifying compromises between the parties, (ii) by the acceptance of rents proposed by the Revenue Officer as fair, and (iii) by a judicial decision after evidence has been recorded. Regarding compromises, the Revenue Officer

Method of settlement. should not ratify them unless he is satisfied that the amount agreed upon is fair and equitable. If he is not so satisfied, he may accept the present rent, or propose a new rent himself according to section 105 (6), Bengal Tenancy Act or section 128 (6), Orissa Tenancy Act. As regards proposals for fair rent, the Revenue Officer should follow the instructions which have been given in Chapter XXII for the enhancement or reduction of rents.

431. In compromises purporting to be agreements to alter the rent recorded as payable on any of the grounds mentioned in the Act, including the ground of excess area, the Revenue Officer must satisfy himself as to the fairness and equity of the rent settled by Procedure for compromise. him. In all cases in which compromises are put forward the Revenue Officer shall, after enquiry as may be necessary to test the fairness of the rents agreed upon, record an order stating definitely whether, he is or is not satisfied that the rents proposed are fair and equitable, and giving his reasons. If he is so satisfied he should settle the rents agreed upon by the parties; if he is not, he should settle a fair rent under sub-sections (4) and (5).

432. If it appears to the Revenue Officer that a compromise filed before him contains provisions which will unfairly or inequitably effect the rights

Compromises affecting third parties. of third parties, and are matters which he is capable of trying as issues under section 105A, Bengal Tenancy Act or section 129, Orissa Tenancy Act, he should frame issues under that section and decide them, and he is not bound to accept compromises with regard to such issues.

C. Decision of Suits under Section 106 of the Bengal Tenancy Act and Section 130 of the Orissa Tenancy Act and Section 87 of the Choto Nagpur Tenancy Act.

446. Under section 106, Bengal Tenancy Act or section 130, Orissa Tenancy Act or section 87, Choto Nagpur Tenancy Act, a formal suit may be

When a formal suit may be instituted. instituted before the Revenue Officer within three months from the date of certificate of final publication of the record of rights. The plaint is liable to stamp duty under the Court-fees Act. (See Appendix E.)

448. The suit may refer to any entry in, or omission from, the finally-published record.

Jurisdiction under these sections. The dispute may be regarding possession or regarding right or title, and specific examples are given in the sections while it is stated that "any other matter" may be the subject of a suit before the Revenue Officer.

- Suits for possession. 450. Suits to obtain possession may be accepted but should be referred to the Civil Court.

451. Suits under these three sections should be registered in a register of original civil suits such as used in Civil Courts. (See the Technical Rules.)

- Registration of suits. 453. Suits under the Bengal and the Orissa Tenancy Acts are to be tried according to the procedure of the Civil Procedure Code for the trial of civil suits, subject to any rule made by the local Government.

The Tenancy Act Rules, however, make no exceptions, and direct that the cases be tried as civil suits between the parties. The procedure of these class of cases in the Revenue Officer's Court should differ in no respect from that followed by a Munsif sitting in a Civil Court, and a separate decree should be drawn up in every case in accordance with the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code. Suits under the Choto Nagpur Tenancy Act are to be tried according to the procedure given in Chapter XVI of the Act for the trial of suits by the Deputy Commissioner, so far as it may be applicable. The provisions of the Civil Procedure Code which apply to such suits are given in section 265 (3).

457. Revenue officers must themselves execute decrees for costs in cases which have been. Execution of decree for cost. decided by them, if application is duly made.

458. When the Settlement Officer or Assistant Settlement Officer who has passed a decree has left the district on transfer or at the close of the operations, any Revenue Officer who would have had jurisdiction to try the suits in which the decree was passed, or who is in charge of the records of the case can execute it. (Vide the ruling in Indian Law Reports, 6 Cal. 513.).

D. Appeals under the Bengal and Orissa Tenancy Acts lie as follows :—

Original Court.	First Appellate Court.	Second Appellate Court.
1	2	3
(1) In settlements not under the Collector
(a) Assistant Settlement officer ...	Settlement Officer.	Commissioner.
(b) Settlement officer ...	Commissioner.	No Second appeal.
(2) In Settlements under the Collector
Assistant Settlement officer or Settlement officer ...	Collector.	Commissioner.

Appeals under the Choto Nagpur Tenancy Act lie as follows :—

Original Court.	First Appellate Court.	Second Appellate Court.
1	2	3
Assistant Settlement Officer ...	Settlement Officer.	Commissioner.
Settlement Officer ...	Commissioner.	No Second appeal.

Under the Choto Nagpur Tenancy Act all appeals must be filed within 30 days of the date of order. Under the Bengal Tenancy Act and the Orissa Tenancy Act the period is 30 days for appeals to the Commissioner and 15 days for appeals to the Settlement Officer or Collector.

but the Settlement Officer or Collector may accept an appeal filed after 15 days if he is satisfied that it has been filed within what is, in the circumstances of the particular case, a reasonable period and that there are sufficient grounds for interference. The Commissioner also has discretion to admit an appeal after time.

Revision and Correction of mistakes in the Published Record and Map.

466. When any order is passed in the course of settlement operations, on appeal or in revision, declaring any entry in the published record to be incorrect, the published record must be corrected by the Settlement Officer or, if he has left the district, by the Collector.

467. It has been ruled that where it is desired to correct an entry in the finally published records that has been procured by fraud the Settlement Officer has an inherent right to order the excision of the fraudulent entry, and his act in doing so is a ministerial act, not open to appeal. At the same time the Settlement Officer should make the correct entry, leaving a note against the excised entry that it is fraudulent, and either stating his reasons in the record or making in the record a reference to a proceeding in which those reasons have been stated, as may be more convenient.

E. Commutation of Produce Rents.

459. Applications for the commutation of produce rents under section 40, Bengal Tenancy Act and section 47, Orissa Tenancy Act, may be made to any Who may receive applications. Assistant Settlement officer or Settlement Officer appointed for the purpose of making a survey and record-of-rights. Under the Choto Nagpur Tenancy Act a Settlement Officer or Assistant Settlement Officer cannot try commutation suits unless he has been specially empowered by Government to act as a Revenue Officer under section 61 of the Act.

460. Such applications are accordingly decided, when a settlement of land revenue is being made, at the time of the settlement of fair rents and, Applications, when to be where a settlement of land revenue is not being made, after decided. final publication at the time of the decision of objections to the published records and of applications for the settlement of fair rents. When applications for commutation are filed before an Assistant Settlement Officer engaged in attestation he should make a reference to the Settlement Officer for orders whether the applications are to be decided at once or postponed till after final publication.

461. In settlements under the Bengal Tenancy Act and the Orissa Tenancy Act the Settlement Officer is empowered by the statutory rules to make Power of Settlement Officer. over to or to withdraw from any Assistant Settlement Officer subordinate to him any such applications. Under the Choto Nagpur Tenancy Act the Settlement Officer has no such power unless he has been specially empowered by Government under section 269 of the Act.

462. The principles of rent commutation and the procedure to be followed in commuting produce rents will be found in the manual entitled "The Principles of rent commutation. Commutation of Rent Manual, 1924," issued by the Board of Revenue.

ADDENDA.

S. 3 Cl. (7), Cl. (9).

The term "jote" does not necessarily mean an "occupancy holding". Ordinarily it means a "holding" in the general sense: Tarini Charan v. Sirish Chandra, 32 C.W.N. 587 (Suhrawardy and Graham, J.J.).

S. 5.

As to whether a lease for the purposes of growing grass can be regarded as a lease for the purpose of cultivation. A tenant who, under a lease, is given the right to bring the land under cultivation is a raiyat: Hiralal v. Matukdhari, 7 Pat. 275. (Dawson Miller, C.J., and Mullick, J.).

Tenure or raiyati. Presumption under s. 5 cl. (5): Satyendra v. Shyamsunder, 7 Pat. 212.

Ss. 13 & 18.

Sale of holding at fixed rates—Landlord's fee not deposited on the false representation that the holding is an occupancy holding—Information of transfer not given to the landlord—Decree for rent by landlord against recorded tenants, effect of—Previous purchaser is estopped from contending that the rent suit against his transferor is not properly constituted: Saraswati Charan v. Surajdeo, 7 Pat. 167 (Dawson Miller, C.J. and Adami, J.). (The cases of Surapati v. Ramnarayan, 39 Cal. 26 (P.C.), Kristo Bulluv v. Kristo Lal, 16 Cal. 642 and Hemendra v. Kumarnath, 12 C.W.N. 478 distinguished.)

Ss. 18, 50.

A raiyat holding at a fixed rent may acquire the right of occupancy and so an occupancy raiyat may acquire the status of a raiyat holding at a fixed rent: Tarini Charan v. Sirish Chandra, 32 C.W.N. 587. (Suhrawardy and Graham, J.J.).

S. 22 (2).

Where a fractional proprietor obtains a transfer in his own favour of occupancy rights he does not become an occupancy raiyat but nevertheless acquires a separate interest in the raiyati holding paying to his co-proprietors their proportionate share of the rent of the holding. If such fractional proprietor subsequently transfers his proprietary interest the raiyati interest held by him also passes to the transferee and the latter can sublet such interest to the transferor who thereupon becomes a raiyat of the holding: Gopi Singh v. Jagdeo Singh, 102 I.C. 386, s.c., 8 P.L.T. 69 (Dawson Miller, C.J. and Foster, J.). (Quære: Whether such a raiyat can acquire an occupancy right by twelve years occupation).

S. 40.

As to whether the landlord is entitled to the market price of the paddy at the date of the suit or only to the amount fixed in the kabuliyat as the price of the paddy: Gopal Chandra Mandal v. Prasannyamayee Debi, 32 C.W.N. 467 (see notes under s. 40 at p. 256).

Claim for Bhaoli produce—Arbitrary reduction by comparing it with the commuted rent: Bhuneshwari Kuer v. Numeshwar Singh, 9 P.L.T. 294.

S. 50.

Books of account admitted under s. 34 of the Evidence Act may be used to rebut the presumption under s. 50 of the B. T. Act without any corroboration: Gopeswar Sen v. Bijoy Chand Mahatab, 32 C.W.N. 580 (Cuming and Mukerji, J.J.).

S. 65.

To obtain a rent decree the landlord must ordinarily (apart from any question of representation) implead all the co-tenants including the heirs or legal representatives of a deceased tenant, and the question whether one of several tenants can be regarded as a representative of the rest is a question of fact and depends on the circumstances of each case: Shyam-sunder v. Gobordhan, 7 Pat. 129; [Chamalkari v. Triguna, 17 C.W.N. 833; Beradar v. Raghunanda, (1920) C.W.N. (Pat.) 9 referred to.]

A purchaser at a rent sale is not bound by the description of the holding in the sale proclamation: Tarini Charan v. Sirish Chandra, 32 C.W.N. 587.

Rate of Rent—Decree by co-sharer landlord if evidence as to rate of rent by another co-sharer landlord: Kanta Mohan Mullick v. Gopinath Santra, 32 C.W.N. 91 (notes), Mallik, J. See also Kanta Mohan Mullick v. Jadab Chandra Khara, 32 C.W.N. 100 (notes), Mitter, J. (See notes under s. 65 heading No. 32 at p. 402).

Ss. 70, 71 (4).

A Collector has jurisdiction to make an order under s. 70 of the B. T. Act even where some of the crops which are divided have been damaged or misappropriated: Bhuneshwari v. Sukhdeo, 7 Pat. 281 (Ross and Wort, J.J.). S. 71 (4) applies to proceedings before the Collector.—Ibid.

S. 88.

No inflexible rule of law can be laid down to the effect that the landlord is bound by every statement made by his gumustha in the rent receipt. The question depends on the extent of the authority given to the gumustha. Where there was an entry in the dakhila made by the gumustha of a landlord that a holding was a mokurari mourashi one, held that it is not usual for a gumustha to confer any permanent right on tenants or to make any admission in respect of a tenant's right, which may be binding on the landlord. In the absence of proof by the landlord of the extent of the authority of his gumustha, it cannot be laid down as an inflexible rule that the presumption must be that the gumustha had authority for doing everything which he may do even to the detriment of his master in connection with matters which are not properly within the scope of his employment: Manmatka v. Rajeswar, 55 Cal. 355. (Rankin, C.J. and Mitter, J.).

[Beni Pershad v. Goberdhan, 6 C.W.N. 823; Beni Pershad v. Ram-dahin Pandey, 10 C.W.N. 216; Bhojohuree v. Aka Golam, 16 W.R. 97 referred to; Pyarimohan v. Gopal Paik, 25 Cal. 531 (F.B.) explained.]

Ss. 105 & 107.

A decree of a Settlement Officer in proceedings under s. 105 of the B. T. Act operates as a civil court decree and cannot be treated as a nullity even when it happens to be erroneous: Manmatha v. Debendra, 107 I.C. 743 (Mukerji, J.).

S. 120.

The term "Bakasht malik or thikedar", means "in cultivating possession of the malik or thikedar" and applies to those lands which are held directly by the malik or thikedar but which are not zerait land as defined in s. 120 of the B. T. Act: Hira Lal v. Matukdhari, 7 Pat. 275 (Dawson Miller, C.J. and Mullick, J.). The case of Dhakeshwar v. Gulab Kuer, 5 Pat. 735 (P.C.) distinguished.

S. 120 (2) (a).

Recitals in deeds executed subsequently to the 1st March 1883, are relevant evidence and have to be taken into consideration in deciding whether lands are proprietor's private lands or not: Satyendra v. Shyam-sundar, 7 Pat. 212 (Das and Kulwant Sahay, J.J.).

Proprietor's private land—never cultivated by the proprietor or recognised by village usage as such—presumption—rebuttable by evidence—tenant, admission of, as to the zerait character of disputed land, admissibility of: Santokhi Mandar v. Rameshwar, 7 Pat. 187 (Das and Wort, J.J.).

[Bindheshwari Prasad v. Kesho Prasad, 5 Pat. 634, followed. H. B. Dalgilish v. Damodar, 8 C.L.J. 533, dissented from.]

S. 153.

Rent suit—Plea of suspension of rent—Appeal: Daliluddi v. Muthar Ali, 107 I.C. 470 (Mukerji, J.).

The mere fact that fraud is alleged does not give rise to a question of title so as to take the case out of the substantive provision of s. 153 of the B. T. Act and thus give a right of appeal which is forbidden by that section: Mujibuddin v. Reajuddi, 107 I.C. 471 (Mukerji J.). (The case of Maharaj Bahadur Singh v. Karani Mai, 32 C.W.N. 57, s.c., 45 C.L.J. 6 followed). See notes under s. 153 at p. 744.

S. 167.

The mere fact that the Court fails to issue simultaneously the order for attachment and the sale proclamation cannot make the decree any less a decree for rent: Kuldip Narain v. Ramlal, 7 Pat. 260 (Das and Kulwant Sahay, J.J.). (The case of Dhunmun v. Lachmilal, 57 I.C. 492 followed).

Once a notice under s. 167 of the B. T. Act has been issued by the Collector, the incumbrance must be deemed to have been annulled, and the onus of establishing that the notice was not served within the period of limitation is on the person questioning the validity of such notice—Ibid. (The case of Nandkishore v. Rameshwar, 78 I.C. 476 followed). See notes under s. 167 at p. 816.

THE LATE RAI SURENDRA CHANDRA SEN BAHADUR.

"It is our painful duty to record the death of Rai Surendra Chandra Sen Bahadur which took place on Friday, the 3rd of July, 1925 at about 9 p.m. He was an acknowledged authority on Tenancy law and his valuable services in connection with the Committee appointed to consider amendment of the Bengal Tenancy Act are still in our memory. To quote the words of His Excellency the Governor of Bengal he placed his unrivalled knowledge and experience ungrudgingly at the disposal of the Committee and Government owes him a great debt of gratitude.

REFERENCE IN COURT.

Tributes to the memory of late Rai Surendra Chandra Sen Bahadur were paid by the Bench and the Bar at the Calcutta High Court on Monday the 6th of July, 1925 before a full Court composed of the Chief Justice and all other Judges.

On their Lordships taking their seats, Mr. Mahendra Nath Ray, President of the Vakils' Association said :—

"It is with a heavy heart that we have to convey to your Lordships the mournful news of the untimely death of Rai Surendra Chandra Sen Bahadur, a well-known Advocate of your Lordships' Court. His death took place on last Friday night at a comparatively early age of 59 years. He was in indifferent health for some time, but latterly he was reported to be progressing favourably. Mr. Sen commanded an extensive practice, specially in cases involving the land laws of Bengal, of which subject he was recognised as an authority. After 35 years of strenuous work in the profession he has passed away. Mr. Sen's annotated edition of the Bengal Tenancy Act is a monument of great scholarship, research and industry. The book is treated both by the Bench and the Bar as the leading authority and the indispensable book on the subject. It made Mr. Sen famous. His very valuable services as a member of the Bengal Tenancy Act Amendment Committee were specially appreciated by Government.

Mr. Sen was also a good Bengali writer and gave his leisure to writing essays and poems ; one of such works was only published last week.

His genial and kindly disposition, simplicity of character and never failing courtesy endeared him to all who came in contact with him. His family attachment was unparalleled.

The Advocate-General (Mr. S. R. Das) on behalf of the Bar said that he came to know the deceased a few years after he joined the Bar. Even then his great ability, his good manners and courteous disposition marked him out for the success that he attained afterwards. His loss will not only be felt by the profession but will be a personal loss to many people who came in contact with him.

Mr. Mohini Mohan Chatterjee, on behalf of the Incorporated Law Society, associated himself with what the previous speakers had said.

The Hon'ble the Chief Justice (Sir Lancelot Sanderson) then said :—

"Every one who knew him will be exceedingly sorry to hear of the death of Mr. Surendra Chandra Sen. He was one of those who, in my opinion, can be ill-spared and his death will cause a severe loss not only to the Court, but also to his large circle of friends.

"I was always glad to see Mr. Sen in Court, for I knew that the points which he desired to argue would be stated forcibly, clearly and concisely without any waste of time. Further more I was sure that if there were any real objections to the case which he was presenting he would not fail to bring them to the attention of the Court. He was well-known as a sound lawyer and in one particular branch of it he was recognised as an expert and whenever he appeared in Court he was a real assistance to it.

"He was one of the old school, a true gentleman in the real sense of the word, always reliable and invariably considerate and courteous. I regarded him as a personal friend and I regret very much that I did not know that he was ill, for I should have liked very much to have seen him, at any rate, once more before he died.

"I should be glad, Mr. Roy, if you will convey the sympathy of my learned brothers and of myself to the members of his family for the great loss which they have sustained."

Calcutta Weekly Notes, 13th July 1925 (29 C.W.N. 177 n.).

THE LATE RAI SURENDRA CHANDRA SEN BAHADUR.

"It is with deep sorrow that we record the death of Rai Surendra Chandra Sen Bahadur, which took place on Friday, the 3rd of July last. He was for long very intimately connected with our journal and reports. In fact he was our chief reporter on the Appellate Side of the Court as Mr. S. R. Das, the present Advocate General was the chief reporter on the Original Side of the Court, at the very start of the journal. It was only a few years ago when he became too busy to attend to the reporter's duties that he gave up the work. But he continued to take interest in the journal and we always received very valuable help from him. He made a special study of the Bengal Tenancy Act and the land laws of Bengal and came to be recognised as an authority on the same. His annotated edition of the Bengal Tenancy Act has passed through many editions and is recognised as the standard work on the subject. He belonged to an intellectual Vaidya family of Kalia in Jessore.

Mr. Sen was very simple in his habits, amiable and thorough gentleman in every way. He was a very popular member of the legal profession and commanded the respect of the Bench. He will be missed much by both. We endorse the tribute paid to his memory by the Hon'ble the Chief Justice and publish it in another column": (See page 180 (notes) 29 C.W.N.).

His Excellency Sir John Kerr, Acting Governor of Bengal :

"I had hoped to see him in Calcutta and to discuss with him various matters relating to the Amendment of the B. T. Act on which we worked so long and harmoniously together. I had a very high opinion of his work and greatly valued his assistance in the Committee. I had a great admiration for his knowledge and learning and his death is a serious loss to the Government."
